

Your Neighbor says I think Kristin shot J. R. Ewing

Kristin did it. The whole nation will discover Friday evening on "Dallas" who shot J.R. Ewing.

Nell Wallace could be wrong — "I think everybody has a reason to. He's a stinker." — but she thinks Kristin Shepard is the guilty party.

Kristin had a long and torrid affair with J.R., but then tried to blackmail him. He then had her charged with prostitution. She is the sister of J.R.'s wife, Sue Ellen.

"If I was in her (Kristin's) shoes," Mrs. Wallace said, admitting "Dallas" is only a television show, "I would have probably shot him."

"I never saw anybody with so many reasons to shoot someone," she said of the villain millionaire oilman. As for Kristin, Mrs. Wallace feels she shot him out of revenge.

"Dallas" is her favorite television show and she has been watching it since it first went on the air. "I don't miss it at all."

She is not alone. "If you don't watch it, when you're around people, that's all they talk about."

Although the suspense will be gone after Friday's episode is over, Mrs. Wallace intends to keep watching "Dallas." "I'll watch it, no matter what."

A widow, she lives at 6197 Cedar Drive, Cass City. She has five children, Bill, Cass City; Ralph, Westland; Raymond, Huntington Beach, Calif.; Gary, San Diego, Calif., and Barbara, Washington, D.C., and 10 grandchildren.

Mrs. Nell Wallace

No federal money for care facility

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners was informed at its meeting last Wednesday that it won't be able to receive any federal funds to install energy conservation measures at the Medical Care Facility.

The money is only available for schools and hospitals and the facility doesn't qualify as a hospital.

The county has received a federal grant to study potential energy savings measures in all county buildings.

The board made appointments to the library board, planning commission, road commission, department of public works, department of social services board, mental health board, and health department board.

Among those named, all reappointments, were Bill Tuckey, Caro, road commission, six-year term, and from Cass City, Iris Tuckey, mental health, three years; Maynard McConkey, health board, five years, and Ed Karr, planning commission, three years.

The amount the county receives from the state in cooperative reimbursement funds is being reduced from $74,000 annually to $66,279. The funds pay staff in the prosecutor's office who track down and obtain child support payments from separated and divorced parents.
