United Way charity drive exceeds goal

A total of $3,038.41 in donations and pledges from Hills and Dales Hospital personnel received Friday put the Elkland-Novesta United Way over its goal.

The goal has been $13,500. The total Friday, including the money from Hills and Dales, was $13,809.91.

Fund drive President Dale Deering termed the amount raised as "very good," especially considering the gloomy economic conditions. "I think we've done very well, so thank you, Elkland-Novesta people."

The final total should be more than that, as payroll deductions, received quarterly, may not have all been taken into account, and a couple of corporate contributions don't come in until after Jan. 1.

The money donated by the Hills and Dales employees, staff and ancillary personnel, brings their three-year average to about $2,800 annually not $1,000, as was reported earlier, according to the hospital drive chairman, Harry Pestru.

Sixty-five percent of the personnel donated this year, with about half using the payroll deductions.

The United Way board will be meeting in March or April to decide allocations.

The goal last year was the same as this year, $13,500, with $13,803 in funds being distributed.

Recipients last year were Michigan United Way, Catholic Family Service, Cass City Meals on Wheels, Rawson Memorial Library, Tuscola County Big Brothers-Big Sisters, American Red Cross, Deford Cub Scouts, Reading is Fundamental program, and Cass City Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, boys'

Little League, girls' Little League, Babe Ruth league, Arts Council and Christmas baskets.

Last year, $566 was spent for the food that goes in the Christmas baskets, given to families and individuals in need. There were 32 boxes distributed.

Names of those who could use a Christmas box this year are being solicited and may be turned in to Deering at the Big D Restaurant or United Way Secretary Ron Keegan, 872-2585.

New this year was the Tuscola County United Way, which sent a mailing seeking contributions from persons living in areas where there are no local United Way drives.

County Chairman Iris

Tuckey of Cass City said Friday it is too soon to tell how much money was raised, as most will come in the form of checks from United Way organizations in other counties, from Tuscola county residents working in those counties. Those other organizations are still wrapping up their books for the year, so she doesn't expect a total will be known until January, at the earliest.

Residents of Elkland and Novesta township who were never contacted but who would like to contribute can do so by making out their checks to Elkland-Novesta United Way and sending them to: Elkland-Novesta United Way, care of Nancy Weippert, Elizabeth Street, Cass City.

OVER THE TOP — Kermit the Frog climbed one step on his way toward Miss Piggy for every $100 donated by Hills and Dales personnel. The goal was reached, with hospital drive chairman Harry Pestru, the hospital social worker, turning over $3,038 in donations and pledges Friday to Elkland-Novesta United Way President Dale Deering. Looking on is United Way Vice-President Jon Fahrner, the hospital lab supervisor. Artwork in the hospital cafeteria was done by June Wiergowski.

Music of Bach back, second annual festival begins Friday

"Having spent a good portion of my performing life in cold amphitheatres, it was a pleasure to return Bach's music to the setting he had in mind when he composed the music that we played -- All of us were inspired to give our best because of the atmosphere Cass City provided."

—Doris Ornstein

With praise like that from one of the performers at the first Village Bach Festival, how could there not be a second?

Thus for the second Thanksgiving week end in a row, Cass City will play host to musicians from many states, who will gather at the First Presbyterian church to perform the music of German composer Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750).

It would be normal to expect something as high-brow as music of Bach to go over like a lead balloon in a small town like Cass City.

But for many, after the festival's first year, Bach is worth listening to, even if only one time a year.

Festival committee member Karen Fischer, whose involvement last year was as a spectator, said her musical tastes don't include classical music, so sympathizes with those who say they don't like Bach. But, she said, "anyone would be foolish not to try. I think they would love it."

One result of the first year's festival, according to Rev. Harry Capps of the host church is that "more people are willing to give it a try."

In addition to those committee members mentioned, the others are Holly Althaver, chairman; Bill Lovejoy, treasurer; Jeanne Auten, hospitality; Nancy deBeaubien, food served at the church; Arthur Holmberg, photography; Gloria Ouvry, tickets; Alice Lovejoy, exhibition at the library; Lambert Althaver, business manager; Helen Rayl, administrative assistant; John Hohmann (Michigan Art-rain director), public relations consultant. There are also many others who are helping.

The committee began preparing for this year's festival in February.

TICKETS - FREEBIES

Tickets for the Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon concerts can be reserved by calling Mrs. Ouvry at Ouvry Chevrolet-Olds (872-4301) or can be purchased there.

Persons who reserved tickets are asked to pick them up in the church basement 45 minutes in advance of the concert, at which time remaining tickets will be sold.

If last year's pattern holds true, the Friday night program will have the least turnout and Sunday's, possibly a full house.

Also on sale prior to each concert, as fund raisers, will be festival posters and a recording by Ms. Ornstein, a harpsichordist and instructor at the Cleveland Institute of Music.

Monday, Mrs. Ouvry said more than half of the tickets had been sold, with most for the Sunday concert. The Presbyterian church can seat 340.

She estimated about 60 percent of the orders are from persons outside the Cass City area, from as far away as the Detroit area. That is a higher percentage from outside of this area than a year ago.

She speculated there probably will be some tickets available just prior to the concert, but to be safe, it's best to buy or reserve them in advance.

The schedule of concerts and performers is contained in an article on page 4.

Rehearsals are open to the public for free. Those taking advantage of the opportunity are asked to be quiet and stay put, not continually go in and out.

The rehearsals, all at the church, will be Thursday evening from 7:30 to about 10; Friday from 9:30 a.m. to about noon and 2:30-4:30 p.m.; Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to about 12:45 p.m. and 2:30-4 p.m., and Sunday from 12:30 to about 2 p.m.

MONEY

The 1979 Bach Festival cost about $10,000 to put on. Enough revenue was received for there to be a slight surplus, enough to get planning started for this year.

The budget for this year's event has been set at about $13,000, which doesn't include non-monetary contributions (food, equipment, etc.)

The biggest single source of funds is $5,100 from the state-supported Michigan Council of Arts, which last year contributed $3,500.

Sales of regular and patron tickets should bring in substantially more than $5,100.

The remaining source of funds is donations from local

Report $800 loss as fire guts shed

A fire of unknown origin destroyed a storage shed Sunday morning on Severance Road, west of Cemetery Road.

Owner Doug VanAllen said his two sons discovered the fire. Outside the shed was a dog house with hay bales around it and the bales were burning. The dog got away without injury.

An effort was made to extinguish the fire with shovels, but strong winds quickly spread it to an outside woodpile. Then all at once, VanAllen said, it went, "Poof."

He had no idea what started the original fire. Inside the metal-covered shed, originally a chicken coop, were 4-5 cords of wood, worth more than $100, and various hand garden tools, worth $200. VanAllen guessed it would cost more than $500 to replace the shed, which was totally destroyed.

Firemen received the call at 11:34 a.m.

TUESDAY FIRE

Elkland township firemen Tuesday night extinguished a fire in the wall of a home on Lamton Road, between Kelly and Severance Roads.

The occupants of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tavernier, were asleep, firemen said, and were awakened when they smelled smoke.

A fire had been burning in the wood-burning stove in the living room, the pipe from which led into what had been a fireplace and up the chimney. The fire somehow got into the wall.

Firemen had to rip away some of the paneling above the fireplace and insulation in order to extinguish the fire.

No damage estimate was immediately available.

Firemen received the call about 11:15 p.m. and returned to the station an hour later.

ASSIST

The Elkland department sent a tanker last Wednesday morning as an assist to the Caro Fire Department in extinguishing a house fire in Ellington. Damage was minor.

Caro firemen were called to the scene at 7:45 a.m.

Retailers set Yule season program

The annual town-wide pre-Christmas sale Friday and Saturday heralds the start of the annual Yule shopping season in Cass City.

In addition to special values all over town the Thanksgiving week end is the time that Santa makes his first visit. He'll arrive at 2 p.m. Friday.

Shoppers will be able to register at all participating stores for the $1,000 Christmas give-away. The money, spendable in any Cass City participating stores, will be given in three separate drawings between now and Christmas. The first drawing is Dec. 6.

In addition, Dec. 6 is the day that the first of three free Saturday afternoon movies will be offered at the Cass Theatre.

TURKEY TIME -- Not quite, for this tom. With him are Kurt (left) and Jeremy Russell, 15 months and 3 years respectively, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Russell of Koepfgen Road. Thanksgiving dinner is already planned, so the turkey is slated to be on the Russell table some time after the Thursday holiday. It was raised by Mike Karr.

3-hour session

Board wrestles with new hiring policy

The Cass City Board of Education wrestled for three solid hours in special session Wednesday night without agreeing positively on the proper guidelines for hiring teachers.

Trustees inched towards a solution that may become official at the next regular meeting of the board. This proposal calls for the hiring of a relative of an administrator that would work in his or her administrative unit. The superintendent is considered to be working in all administrative units of the school.

The problem actually is deeper than whether or not a relative of the superintendent should be hired in the district.

The board is actually hung up on how teachers should be hired. Dr. Ed Scollon, President Geraldine Prieskorn and J.D. Tuckey want to leave the decision to the administrator to hire the best qualified person for the position.

It's their contention that the administrators are better qualified to select the best people and that the board should automatically approve their decision.

If the administrators don't do the job, they say, then it's the board's responsibility to hire new people.

Spearheading an opposing view is Dr. E. Paul Lockwood. He has been supported by Thresa Burnette and Dean Hoag. Wednesday Mrs. Burnette and Hoag appeared ready to establish the guideline that will be considered at the next regular meeting.

Trustee Dick Albee is ready to agree to the guidelines as outlined although he would like to eliminate the signing of contracts by the board if they become an automatic formality.

Lockwood was not. He wants the guidelines to say "with approval of the board." The administrators say that if it's impossible to offer a candidate a contract that is binding it should be firmly established so that the candidate can proceed accordingly. A procedure like this could result in the loss of the best qualified person signing with another district, administrators said.

NIX RAISE

Mrs. Kathleen O'Donnell's request for a salary adjustment was refused. Mrs. O'Donnell is paid $19,800 which is under the average paid to directors of community education departments in the Thumb.

Trustee Albee said that he felt that the director was doing an outstanding job and that when salaries were considered next year she should be raised to be competitive with other directors.

Mrs. O'Donnell did receive the 9 percent raise granted administrators, it was pointed out.

FIREMEN EXTINGUISH the burning storage building of Doug VanAllen Sunday morning, on Severance Road. Inside were 4-5 cords of firewood and various garden hand tools.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Regular readers of this trivia will recall that we are looking for the word that describes a chemical with a long half life that stays in the environment.

Pam Roth, a teacher at the school, says the word I am looking for is persistent.

That word is one I thought of and rejected as not being the correct term to describe these hazardous chemicals.

Perhaps I shouldn't have rejected it as it appears to be the only word that has occurred to any of our readers.

If you're a sports buff, chances are that you'll be listening to a sound-alike when Notre Dame plays football. You will if the hot candidate for the job next year, Gerry Faust, of Ohio Moeller High School, is appointed Irish coach.

When he speaks Faust is a carbon copy of Cass City's Ron Nurnberger.

Sometimes the old timers can show those young whipper-snappers a thing or two. Such as how to hunt deer. One of the successful buck hunters this year was Vern McConnell.

I don't know how old he is but he's lived his three score and 10 years and then some.

He had little trouble bagging his buck. Contrast that with his son-in-law, Stan Guinther, who not only didn't get a buck, he lost his license in the woods.

(It ruins a good story but to keep the record straight I have to report that in previous years Stan did bag his buck.) The question. Did success go to his head?

It's that time again. The time when we send a paper special delivery to Old Saint Nick at his house at the North Pole.

So if you want to contact Santa Claus just write him in care of the Chronicle and we'll see that your letter is published sometime before Christmas.

We'll print a picture if you submit one that is wallet sized. Black and white is best. Some colored photos reproduce, others do not.

Travel grants

Rotarian Bert Althaver recently presented a program to the Cass City Rotary Club concerning the Rotary International Foundation.

The foundation was established in 1918 to allow non-Rotarians a chance to study their vocations at foreign universities.

There are five primary programs offered: graduate fellowships for ages 20-23, undergraduate scholarships for ages 21-35, group exchange awards for ages 25-35, technical training awards for ages 21-35 and special grants such as a scholarship to teachers of the handicapped, for ages 21-49.

All applications must be submitted through a local Rotary Club, which in turn submits them to their district. Each district is entitled to endorse one candidate for one of the scholarships.

A year ago, Rotary District 631 raised $29,000, enough to qualify four students to serve as "Ambassadors of Good Will" for the academic year of 1981-82.

Persons who know someone who may have the interest and the qualifications should have them contact a member of their local Rotary club.

Last year's average scholarship was worth $10,000, which covered, for the most part, round-trip air fare, incidental travel expenses, supplies, room, board, and incidental living expenses. The grants cannot be awarded to Rotarians or relatives of Rotarians.

Mardell Ware is 'woman of year'

Twenty-nine members of the Cass City Business and Professional Women's club and nine guests attended the Wednesday, Nov. 19, meeting at Veronica's Restaurant.

Highlight of the evening was announcement of the club's choice for "Woman of the Year." The choice of the selection committee of Loraine O'Dell, Thelma Pratt and Katie Crane was Mardell Ware, a member of the club for 17 years. Mrs. Ware was a former school teacher, Sunday school teacher for many years and book-keeper for the Mae and Leo Service until the business was sold at the end of 1978.

Her husband, Leo, and Stanley McArthur, started the gasoline and farm fuel and fuel oil delivery business in 1944. Ware bought out McArthur in 1956 and sold the gasoline station two years later. Mr. and Mrs. Ware then operated the business from their home until they retired.

Relatives of Mrs. Ware who attended the meeting were Mrs. Gordon Ware of Clarkston, Mrs. Stanley McArthur, Mrs. Grant Ball, Mrs. Ferris Ware, Mrs. Kenneth Nye, Mrs. James Ware and Mrs. Dave Ware.

The December meeting will be early, Dec. 3. Mrs. Ruth McConnell, a member of the Caro club and currently serving as district director, will be a guest at that meeting.

Nearly every viewer has a pet hate commercial, and seldom is the top choice of worst commercial the same among viewers. Maybe that's because of the wide choice of lousy ones to choose from.

Certainly squeezing toilet paper is an ideal candidate for the tops in poor taste. Or those tooth paste ads where the guy or gal brushes their teeth and hits it big with the guy or gal that turned him down flat in the preceding frame because his teeth were shined with something akin to baking soda, rate high in the nausea derby.

But none of these grinds me like the big oil company propaganda blurbs.

And tops in this field is one oil company's effort in brain washing. One I saw an hour or so ago has the camera scan up a skyscraper to dramatize its height and the copy says that the company is now drilling four miles deep to help solve the country's energy crunch. It concludes with "we're working to keep your trust."

Pitchman for this nonsense is Bob Hope and I guess a buck is a buck, and I suppose you never have enough although he has more than he can count.

But I digress. We're talking about worst commercials. What puts this at a negative one on a scale of one to 10 is that it assumes every viewer is an idiot.

You don't have to go back more than a year or two to recall the official line of Big Oil when the campaign was on to get the price curbs lifted. Then the pitch was that if the price goes up we can afford to drill more exploratory wells and open up wells that were unprofitable to drill at the regulated price.

Now these companies aren't drilling to make money any more. They are going four miles down just to help you and me keep warm this winter.

I presume that stockholders can warm themselves on the glow of doubled profits with no end in sight.

It would be pleasant if an ad would come right out and say, we're in the business to make money and every well we drill makes money or we close it. When we make money you'll get oil and we need all we can get.

That's the way it is and we all know it. It seems to me that the policy makers of big business are making a dangerous mistake.

They are underestimating us again. It's obvious that they feel that if they tell this story enough times it will be believed.

Maybe it's thinking like this that placed big business at the bottom of a reliability survey recently conducted.

Big oil is spending a zillion bucks to con us and it's mostly money down the drain.

They are really just conning themselves.

"If It Fitz. . ." Fashions Anonymous

By Jim Fitzgerald

The husband invited the wife to go downtown shopping with him while he bought a discount suit. She was wearing a wool jacket and skirt, and he assured her the weather was mild and she wouldn't need another layer of clothing to keep warm. So she didn't wear an overcoat. Neither did he.

This fashion story gets even more fascinating as it continues.

He had to park several blocks from the store having a suit sale. "The walk will do you good," he assured her. He not only dispenses health advice free, he is also a sparkling conversationalist. He also said: "Fresh air is good for you."

"Also, I should eat an apple a day," she said.

The weather wasn't mild, it was cold and windy. He explained that the TV weatherman had promised mild weather. She explained that it was the husband's mother who had put dimes under his pillow when he was a little boy losing teeth. They rushed onward to the suit store which had a new sign over the door.

The suit salesman explained that the name of the store had been changed from the store owner's last name to his first name so unlabeled suits could be sold at a 30 percent discount. "If you knew the name of the manufacturer of this suit, it would cost you $60 more," he said.

"Don't tell me," the husband said, and bought the suit, closing the deal less than five minutes after entering the store. Without being told, he knew the store had switched from surname to first name for tax reasons, which is why everything is done in corporate America. He wanted to get his $60 savings before the IRS showed up to investigate the owner's middle initial.

"There is one thing I should tell you," the salesman said while looking at the new pants covering the husband's shoes, and the new sleeves covering his hands. "We don't do alterations. But don't worry about it. Let's take a walk."

The two men went outside, where it was still windy and cold, and walked to a nearby tailor shop where the cost-conscious husband said he didn't want to know any of the tailors' names. Nevertheless, the $60 savings shrunk by $16. And it was noted that after he took off the new suit and left it behind for alterations, the husband would have a chilly walk back to the first-name store where the wife was guarding his old suit.

No problem. The salesman produced a handsome topcoat, also unlabeled, which fit the husband perfectly. He not only wore it back to the store, he bought it. "I think I will wear it home," the husband said. "It is windy and cold out."

Wear it home? The wife thinks new clothes shouldn't be worn until at least a year after their purchase. It is the God's truth that she believes such a bizarre thing. Independent witnesses will verify it.

Dozens of times the husband and the wife have had this conversation: "Is that a new dress?" "No." "I never saw it before." "I never wore it before." "How long have you had it?" "About 18 months." "Why do you wait so long to wear new clothes?" "Because they don't feel comfortable until after they've hung in the closet for awhile."

So the wife was incredulous at the suggestion that the husband would wear his new coat home from the store. The salesman had to help him persuade her that such conduct was permissible in polite society, and that he wouldn't have to hang himself up with the coat when he got home.

Outside, the weather had turned windier and colder. The husband was warm in his new coat. The wife walked in his wake, seeking shelter from the wind, shivering and stumbling and trying to rub against the back of his warm coat.

"I wish you wouldn't walk so close to me," said the husband, who was afraid of appearing ostentatious. "I don't want people to think I am so rich I have my own wait."

She went into a drugstore where it took her longer to pick out two birthday cards than it had taken him to pick out a suit and a topcoat. This bizarre behavior can also be verified by independent witnesses.

Folks who really mean what they say don't say a whole lot.

Familiar faces returning for Bach Festival

There will be a lot of familiar faces performing at this year's Village Bach Festival which is indicative of what the musicians thought of the first annual event last year.

The only complaint they had last year, music director and conductor Don Jaeger joked after it was over, was, "They fed us too well. Everyone has to go on a diet."

No doubt the food served by townspeople is one reason the musicians are returning. Among those coming back is Jaeger as conductor and music director. The latter title means he is responsible for lining up the musicians who will perform and selecting the program.

He has been conductor of the Midland Symphony for 12 years and also conducts the Northwestern Michigan Symphony and Northwood Symphonette, which in March of next year will perform its first annual "Festival of the Desert" in Palm Springs, Calif., followed by its debut at Lincoln Center in New York City. He has been guest conductor of numerous symphonies in this country and Europe.

Starting one hour before the start of each concert, Byron Hanson will present a lecture about Bach and the Baroque period in which he lived. Hanson is resident conductor of the Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra. Joining him for the Friday evening lecture will be Dana Hull, who restored the more than 100-year-old Henry Erban built tracker organ at the church.

The "Spirit of the Baroque" slide-tape presentation and exhibit at Rawson Memorial Library continues through Dec. 5. Hours are 1-3 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday; 7-9 p.m. Mondays and Fridays, and this Sunday only, noon-2:30 p.m.

be his wife, Catherine, on oboe, and daughter Laura, flute.

SATURDAY

Leading off the program will be a three-violin concerto performed by Bill Preucil, concertmaster of the Nashville (Tenn.) Symphony and Northwood Symphonette; his father, William Preucil, a member of the Stradivari Quartet in residence at the University of Iowa, and Gwen Starker, member of the first violin section of the Nashville Symphony.

In the festival orchestra are two other children of William and Doris Preucil, Ann and Wally, both on violin. Mrs. Preucil was to have played, but is recuperating from an operation.

Next will be two arias, the first with tenor Glenn Siebert, a district winner and regional finalist of the Metropolitan Opera contest, and Catherine Paulu on oboe. Soprano Karen Smith, a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Music, will sing the second, accompanied by Bill Preucil on violin.

A sonata will be performed by William Preucil on violin and Ms. Ornstein on harpsichord.

Ms. Smith will then sing a cantata, accompanied by Dr. Dennis Horton, professor of trumpet at Central Michigan University.

Final selection of the evening will be the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D Major, performed by Laura Paulu, Norman Paulu and Ms. Ornstein.

The public will have a chance to meet the musicians at a reception in the church following the performance.

SUNDAY

Members of the Order of the Eastern Star will be serving brunch Sunday morning to the musicians and their host families, starting at 11:30. The public can attend by prior reservation.

Ms. Ornstein will perform the opening number of the concert, starting at 3 p.m. Cantata No. 55 will be performed by Siebert, Laura Paulu, Catherine Paulu, and the Canzona di Musica, a Midland-based choral ensemble conducted by Charles Noneman.

Cantata No. 140 will be performed by the Canzona di Musica; Siebert; Ms. Smith; baritone Jay Thompson, a staff member at the Interlochen Arts Academy, Bill Preucil, and Catherine Paulu.

The final selection, Suite No. 4 in D Major, will be performed by the Village Bach Festival Orchestra. Members of the orchestra come from the three groups normally conducted by Jaeger, Nashville Symphony, Interlochen Arts Academy faculty and other ensembles.

FRIDAY

The program begins at 8 p.m. with Parry Karp, performing a solo number on the cello.

Tom Brown, organist at the church of St. John the Evangelist in New York City, will then play various numbers on the organ. Brown performed at the first Bach festival.

This Tuesday evening, he was to have played piano selections by Chopin, Beethoven and Ravel at a concert for patron ticket-holders at the Cass City Missionary church.

The final performance Friday evening will be given by the Pro Arte Quartet, which traces its origins back to 1912 in Belgium.

The members are Norman Paulu and Martha Francis, on violin; Richard Blum, viola, and Karp on cello. All four are members of the faculty at the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Paulu played at the first Bach festival and like last year, also playing here will

PEDALING AROUND

Owen-Gage's future

By Mike Eliasohn

The fate of the Owendale-Gagetown School District is in the hands of the Michigan Supreme Court, but whether the district lives or dies will be decided by the state Board of Education.

Other than bringing the day of reckoning closer, the Supreme Court decision regarding the precedent-setting Goslin property transfer case probably won't have an immediate impact.

Owen-Gage's argument all along is that once a school district loses 10 percent of its original equalized valuation, all future transfer requests have to be approved by a vote of the people.

But at the Nov. 10 school board meeting, Supt. Ronald Erickson predicted the district will lose that argument when the Supreme Court makes its decision, which could be a couple of months from now or a year from now or any time in between.

A reading of a portion of the state law in question, at least to my non-legal eyes, makes it hard to see how the Supreme Court can rule in favor of Owen-Gage on the particular question.

The law provides for a vote of the "school tax electors" on a transfer only when "the latest available taxable valuation of the area to be detached is more than 10 percent of the latest available taxable valuation of the entire school district from which it is to be detached."

The legislature when it passed the law may not have intended to give the power to the state school board to dismantle a school district, but I don't see how the Supreme Court can rule on what the legislature may have intended. Again, I'm not a lawyer.

The Supreme Court might rule that the state board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner in approving the Goslin transfer, and therefore void it, but Erickson also said at the Nov. 10 meeting, the high court may simply send the transfer case back to the state board and tell it to hold another hearing and decide again.

Regardless, that particular issue only pertains to the Goslin case, not to any other transfer requests.

Even if Owen-Gage loses the Goslin territory and the more than $100,000 a year in revenue it would provide, it hasn't had that revenue for the past few years, and somehow has survived without it, granted in the same way that Chrysler Corp. has survived.

The important thing is that if the Supreme Court says the state school board has the final say-so over property transfers, as long as they are under 10 percent of the total valuation, that clears the way for the board to approve any pending or future transfer requests.

If the state board so decides, it won't take long before there isn't enough left of Owen-Gage to save.

One requested transfer, withdrawn last year for technical reasons, would have removed 9.7 percent of the district and would have meant driving through the Cass City School District to get from Gagetown to Owendale. The property owners can easily re-petition to have the territory transferred.

Whether the state Board of Education will be as liberal in approving transfer requests from Owen-Gage as it was in the past, however, is a question still to be answered.

As state board member Gumecindo Salas pointed out in an interview with the Chronicle last year, only one board member remains from several years ago when it approved several transfer requests.

If transfer requests come before the state board in the future, Owen-Gage will have more ammunition than it had in the past.

Its high school is now accredited; it has a modern high school building which must be paid for whether the district is in business or not; it has a high school band that received a No. 1 state rating last year, and probably as many students who do well in various areas as there are in any other school district of the same size.

Larger school districts obviously offer more educational opportunities and diversity.

The state board will have to decide which is more important.

Will Owen-Gage survive? Will Chrysler Corp. survive?

Anti-shoplift week

The Tuscola Area Skill Center Distributive Education Clubs of America chapter has proclaimed Dec. 8-12 as anti-shoplifting week.

The Chapter is participating in a national DECA project sponsored by a national coalition to prevent shoplifting.

Specific objectives are: 1) To educate youth as to the seriousness of shoplifting and potential consequences.

2) To educate adults to the realization that consumers pay for the losses incurred from shoplifting.

3) To educate merchants as to techniques used by shoplifters and proper procedures for apprehension and prosecution of those caught shoplifting in their stores.

4) To gain the cooperation of law enforcement and the courts, insuring that shoplifters, when apprehended, are not treated leniently.

The Skill Center DECA chapter has a week long plan of activities. They include a television show on TV-5, a radio program sponsored by WIDL, essay contests held at local junior high schools, informational handouts distributed to local consumers and to climax the project, an anti-shoplifting assembly held at the Skill Center.

Junior high school students will gather to hear discussions on shoplifting from district court Judge Richard F. Kern and Lt. Paul Megge from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department. Also, DECA Students will be discussing shoplifting facts with the Junior High students.

Don't fiddle with home thermostat

Don't play thermostat roulette—it's wasteful to re-adjust the thermostat every time your house becomes too warm or too cool. Rather, set your thermostat at the desired daytime and night levels and let it do its work.

It makes sense to invest in an automatic clock-driven thermostat with separate day and night settings. You should be comfortable at 65° F in the daytime and 50° F after bedtime. Remember, if your house needs 1,500 gallons of oil a year at 65° F, it will use about 1,700 gallons at 70° F. If you are chilly at these temperatures, you may need a humidifier. Moist air at 68° F and 35% humidity is as comfortable as 72° F air in a very dry house.

Make sure, also, that your heating unit is properly cleaned and maintained. The conversion of an obsolete oil burner to a modern "retention head" unit will conserve additional fuel.

Marilyn Rutkowski exhibits in Midland

Award winning artist never took a lesson

Marilyn Rutkowski never took an art lesson in her life. So what are her painting and drawing doing hanging in the Midland Center for the Arts, along with works by lots of artists with college degrees in art. The answer is she was a winner in a contest, but she didn't win by having her entries pulled out of a hat.

The Ubyly area housewife-artist was one of 57 artists whose works were selected to be on display at the central region Michigan Artists 80-81 exhibition, out of several hundred artists who submitted entries.

The judging committee reviewed almost 1,000 slides of paintings and drawings and several hundred objects before selecting the 113 winning entries.

They were then put on display from Sept. 14 - Oct. 17, with crafts, paintings and sculpture shown at the Midland Center. The other works were displayed at Central Michigan University and the Saginaw Art Museum.

Mrs. Rutkowski's winning entries were a 32-by-28-inch painting, which she has since sold, of an outdoor scene, entitled "Nature's Wonder," and a 19½-by-22½ inch pencil drawing of the St. Mary's School in Parisville which stood from the 1880s to 1903.

There were four regional exhibitions in the state, with the top entries from each displayed at the Detroit Institute of Arts. The competition was sponsored by the DIA, state-funded Michigan Council for the Arts and the participating institutions where the regional exhibitions were held.

Mrs. Rutkowski notes with well-deserved pride that in the program for the regional exhibition almost all of the artists listed have, college degrees, many of which are in fine arts. She was one of the few who does not have a college degree.

The artist attended a small Catholic high school in Chicago, too small to have an art class. In her spare time, she drew, something for which she had a natural talent.

Her grandparents on her mother's side lived near Cumber and she often visited them. She met her husband, Stanley, while attending the wedding of a cousin.

The Rutkowskis have been married 18 years and live on the Maurer Road farm, east of Ubyly, where he grew up. They have three children, Jacqueline, 15, Judy, 14, and Stanley Jr., 13.

IT WAS IN 1974 THAT Mrs. Rutkowski started painting. "It's one of those things, you always want to get around to doing," she explained. "One day I said, I think I'll start today, so I got canvas and paints and started to paint."

Since then, she has done about 75 paintings, plus many drawings. The artist is not a fast worker. "I'm very particular. I take my time, till I get it just right, and then I finish."

She usually works every day on her paintings, only in daylight, and sometimes as much as 10 hours a day. A painting may be done in four or five days, or it can take her two to three weeks.

Mrs. Rutkowski, 43, paints in a realistic style. "Modern art doesn't appeal to me."

She likes to paint pictures of farms, woodland scenes and old buildings. She doesn't do portraits.

Although she likes to paint outdoor scenes, "I don't like to work out in the elements." She prefers the comfort of her studio, which was the attached garage on her modern farm home before being completely remodeled.

MRS. RUTKOWSKI DOES most of her painting from memory and makes a point of remembering impressions, things she sees that will form the basis for a good painting.

Photographs are taken by her or her photography enthusiast husband to record details.

Rutkowski also photographs all of his wife's paintings, for record keeping purposes and because some paintings are sold via slides.

Before Mrs. Rutkowski starts a painting, she works out what she wants to do in her mind, makes a sketch the size of what the painting will be, then transfers the basic outline to the canvas before finally picking up a brush.

She sells quite a few of her paintings and exhibits at several shows each year. She does a few paintings on commission. Her paintings usually sell for $125 and up, including frame.

She is checking into selling her paintings through galleries.

Her historical drawings, incidentally, are copyrighted with the Library of Congress, to prevent them being "borrowed," for instance, for inclusion in a book.

"Right now, this is something I enjoy," Mrs. Rutkowski said of her painting and drawing. Some days she said, she may try sculpture. "When I get tired, I try something else."

FINISHING TOUCHES — Ubyly artist Marilyn Rutkowski at the easel, with her latest work.

ST. MARY'S SCHOOL in Parisville, as it stood from the 1880s-1903, a pencil drawing, was one of two works by Marilyn Rutkowski to be shown in the Michigan Artists 80-81 central region exhibition.

Thumb area consortium to spend $8.18 million in year

The Thumb Area Consortium plans to spend $8.18 million in 1980-81, to provide jobs and job training for 2,345 persons.

The figures are only tentative, as Congress didn't get around to approving a budget for the fiscal year that started Oct. 1 until the end of last week so the exact amount won't be known until later.

The proposed $8.18 million in federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds does not include Summer Youth Employment Program funds the agency is likely to receive next summer. It received $481,768 for the program this past summer, so might receive about the same amount in 1981.

For all programs, the consortium will have spent about $7.3 million during the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30. The exact figure will be known in a few weeks, when final accounting is completed.

Executive Director Frank Lenard told consortium board members last Thursday this will probably be the last year for the Title VI jobs program because, "I think you're going to see the emphasis in the Reagan administration switch from public employment to private employment." He therefore expects to see the emphasis in CETA on classroom job training, on-the-job training, job placement services and job creation incentives for employers.

Proposed Title VI spending in 1980-81 in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties will be $2.62 million, to provide 600 jobs with governmental units and non-profit agencies.

ONE PROGRAM LIKELY to be favored by the incoming administration is CETA Title VII, which pays part of the wages of added employees of private firms during their on-the-job training period.

For the fiscal year which ended Sept. 30, there were 185 persons enrolled in the program in the upper Thumb.

Of 81 "terminations" during the period, 42 persons obtained permanent jobs with their employers after their training was over, four transferred to other CETA programs and five left for other "positive" reasons, such as going to school.

Thirty were terminated for "non-positive" reasons, such as quitting or being fired. There were 104 persons still in the program as of Sept. 30.

Lenard termed the percentage who found jobs in the private sector as, "better than any program we offered."

THE CONSORTIUM IS receiving $148,000 in Youth

Community Conservation Improvement Program funds for a new project, to be run by the Human Development Commission in Caro.

The money will be used to hire 35 out-of-school youths ages 16-19, who would otherwise be unemployed. They will build storm windows and cut firewood. Pay will be $3.50 an hour. The program will end Sept. 30, 1981.

The storm windows will be used by the HDC weatherization crews, funded by a different federal program, who weatherproof homes of low-income persons. Firewood will go to low-income persons, especially senior citizens, to ease their heating bills.

LEONARD HOOL, Director of the Tri-County Public Service Agency, reported results of a program in conjunction with the Departments of Social Services in the three counties, which puts general assistance recipients to work.

From July 1, when the program started, through the end of October, 555 persons were referred to his agency for job assignments.

There were 335 who did show up and worked long enough to pay off what they received in welfare, based on the minimum wage of $3.10 per hour.

Of the 220 who didn't show up, 37 had legitimate excuses, such as illness or no car. The remaining 183 had their benefits cut off, originally for 30 days but that was later changed by the legislature, so they now lose their benefits for 90 days.

The savings alone in cut-off benefits for those who refused to work, Hool said, was about $85,000.

The general assistance recipients do the same type jobs as CETA Title VI workers, such as painting, brush cutting and general maintenance. The Tri-County agency runs the Title VI jobs program.

"NATURE'S WONDER," painted by Mrs. Rutkowski in 1979, was her other selection in the Michigan Artists 80-81 exhibition. It has since been sold.

Your Neighbor says I'm not ready for winter yet

Elaine Depcinski isn't quite ready for winter yet. She has some of her heavy clothes out for winter, but not all of them.

She will eventually get her snow tires on her car, "but that's really for when it snows heavy." So far, it hasn't snowed heavy.

Winter is not her favorite season, but she doesn't hate it. "Right at first, when it first gets really cold, it bothers me, but after it's here, it's not too bad."

Miss Depcinski likes one winter sport. She likes to go snowmobiling on her brothers' snowmobiles "when-ever I can fit it into my schedule."

Her favorite seasons are summer and fall — spring is too wet — and activities she enjoys include softball and swimming.

She also likes to go deer hunting, but as of Friday, hadn't gone yet this season and didn't know if she was going to. She has yet to get her first deer, "but I swear I'm going to next year."

Miss Depcinski lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Depcinski, on Germania Road, Cass City. She is employed as a secretary at Cass City Crop Service.

Second annual Village Bach Fest starts Friday industry and clubs, Chamber of Commerce and chamber members and individuals.

The musicians are also making a donation in that they aren't receiving what they would normally be paid to perform. If they had to be paid their normal fees, it would be impossible to put on the Bach Festival, Mrs. Althaver said.

They come here for their love of music, a chance to be with fellow musicians, for a chance to play in the type of place Bach had in mind when he wrote his music -- as was pointed out by Ms. Ornstein -- and for the hospitality. "It's basically a very pleasant time for performing," the festival chairman commented.

She added that a goal of the festival is for it to become prosperous enough that the performers can be paid what they normally receive and deserve.

PUBLICITY

A favorable review of last year's Sunday concert by Detroit Free Press music critic John Guinn helped provide a boost in promoting this year's event.

Mrs. Althaver was invited by Detroit classical music radio station WQRS to be interviewed about this year's event. She has also been interviewed by radio stations in Caro and Sandusky and Channel 19, the Delta College public education television station, and the daily newspapers in Bay City and Saginaw.

Four hundred news releases were sent to the state's newspapers twice.

There were 10,000 brochures sent out to potential ticket purchasers who are on mailing lists for area arts councils and symphony orchestras. Personal letters were sent to last year's patrons and to Chamber of Commerce members.

If the Village Bach Festival is a showcase for the music of the German composer, it is also a showcase for Cass City, according to Mrs. Althaver.

Putting on such an event is rather unique for a small town, but Cass City is unique in its citizens' "quality of helpfulness and hospitality and general support when something takes place."

Half of all murders with handguns

Houston was the most dangerous metropolitan area to live in; Nevada the most dangerous state. According to the FBI Uniform Crime Report for 1979, they had the highest homicide rates ever recorded.

The rate of homicide jumped ten percent nationwide, with handgun homicides accounting for more deaths than other weapons combined. Of 20,591 Americans murdered last year, handguns accounted for 10,296—50 percent.

The study showed a direct correlation between homicide and handgun laws. All ten top homicide states were in the South or West where handgun laws are traditionally weak. Twenty-three of the top 25 metropolitan areas were also Southern or Western. The exceptions were New York City (12th) and Cleveland (24th).

In response to its homicide rate, New York recently enacted a one-year mandatory sentence for individuals found illegally carrying a loaded gun. In the first 12 days of the new law, over 450 persons were arrested.

FESTIVAL COMMITTEE -- Among those serving on the Bach Festival organizing committee are, from left, Arthur Holmberg, photography; Alice Lovejoy, library exhibit; Rev. Harry Capps, church arrangements; Karen Fischer, arrangements and assistant for receptions; Bill Lovejoy, treasurer, and Holly Althaver, chairman.

MUSIC PERFORMED in a setting like Bach intended when he composed it is what spectators at the Village Bach Festival will see this week end. This photograph was taken during the Saturday evening concert last year. With back to the camera is conductor Don Jaeger.

Car-deer accidents numerous

Several car-deer collisions and a near miss on area highways were reported by police agencies during the past week.

At 8:55 a.m. Saturday, according to Caro state police, Bruce C. Schweikart, 23, of Harsens Island, was westbound on DeLong Road, west of Warner Road, when he slammed on his brakes to avoid hitting a deer.

The driver of the car behind him couldn't stop in time and ran into the rear of the Schweikart vehicle.

The other driver, Douglas A. Englehart, 31, of DeLong Road, Cass City, was ticketed by troopers on a charge of failure to stop within an assured clear distance ahead.

At 9:30 p.m. last Wednesday, troopers said, Michael E. Neiman, 19, of 4355 Woodland Street, Cass City, was northbound on Cedar Run Road, north of M-81, when his car collided with a deer.

At 6:20 a.m. Friday, Cass City police reported, Carol Ann Healy, 24, of Caro, was eastbound on M-81, west of Spence Road, when her car struck a deer.

At 5:55 p.m. Friday, according to deputies, Leland C. Beyett, 61, of 6726 Voss Road, Cass City, was southbound on Kingston Road, north of Chapin Road, when his car collided with a deer.

At 11:50 p.m. that day, deputies reported, Alan L. King, 26, of 2350 Clothier Road, Deford, was westbound on Bevens Road, east of English Road, when his car struck a deer.

Richard T. Filipek, 19, of Warren, was eastbound on Bevens, east of Burmon Road, at 6:45 p.m. Sunday, when a deer ran into his right front fender and then ran off. Deputies investigated.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Keith A. Purman, 17, of Saginaw, was ticketed by Caro state police on a charge of careless driving after a 1:15 a.m. accident Sunday.

He was headed southwest on M-81, south of Cass City Road, when, he told officers, for no reason, he hit the brakes hard. He lost control of his car, which went off the north side of the road and rolled over onto its top.

At 1:30 p.m. Nov. 18, according to Cass City police, Justine J. Jantz, 75, of 3070 Hobart Road, was getting into her parked car when a green pickup truck struck her vehicle door. The driver didn't stop.

The Jantz auto was parked on Main Street, east of Leach Street.

Bakers recall depression years

Rural electrification saved Baker Electric

Turn on the electric lights. Or the blender. Or the hair drier. Nothing to it.

It wasn't always that way. Ed Baker remembers the way it was before homes had electricity because he was the one who wired hundreds of homes in this area for the first time.

At age 78, the veteran electrician has finally retired. When he and his wife came to Cass City, they weren't planning to stay. Helen Baker came first, in the fall of 1925, to teach home economics at the high school. They were married in August, 1926, her husband having come here from Hastings, where he worked for Consumers Power Co., installing electric lines. In Cass City, he worked for three years for Burke's Drug Store (now Coach Light Pharmacy), having worked for drug stores in Hastings before going to work for Consumers.

Mrs. Baker grew up in Middleville, near Hastings. She and her husband met in 1923 while she was attending then Michigan State College and he accompanied a friend who was going to pick up his (the friend's) girl friend at the end of the school year.

Mrs. Baker taught here two years, then got a job teaching at Saginaw High School, commuting home week ends for a year. They then moved to Saginaw where Baker worked a few months for Consumers Power as a salesman.

Consumers had started running power lines to the Au Gres - Point Lookout area on the north side of Saginaw Bay. Baker and a partner took advantage of the opportunity and organized their own company to install wiring, mostly in cottages in that area. They did about 150 jobs.

Electricians first had to be licensed by the state in 1939. Baker served on the state licensing examination board in the early 1940s. BUT THE DEPRESSION arrived, and the couple decided they should move back to Cass City. "We thought this was the cheapest place to live," Mrs. Baker explained. Plus, she was pregnant and her doctor was in Cass City.

The Bakers returned in the fall of 1931 and son Jim was born that December. They rented a house on S. Seeger Street and Baker resumed his electric business, minus a partner.

Business was slim until Detroit Edison Co. bought out Michigan Electric Power Co. in late 1933 and the next year, started running power lines out in the country. Until then, electricity was only available in town. "Up until that time,"

Baker explained, "it was just nip and tuck. In other words, we didn't know where our next loaf of bread was coming from."

But with lots of potential customers, business boomed.

Baker rented a store where the Ben Franklin store is now. "It wasn't long before they would be lined up on Saturday nights (downtown stores were open then), to see if you could do their job next."

Baker had from 6-8 employees wiring farm homes and barns. The average job cost $150-300, which was a lot of money, especially since it was the Depression. "They sacrificed for that," said Mrs. Baker, who did the bookkeeping for her husband the many years he was in business. "That was a priority."

The rule of thumb today is that wiring a new home, including installing fixtures and outlets, costs 10 percent of the total cost, or about $4,000 and up.) The normal job in the 1930s, was installing ceiling lights in rooms, a few outlets, and lights in the barn and a yard light.

The first priority, the Bakers said, was installing an electric motor on the water pump. Most farmers then were using gasoline engine driven pumps, though there were a few windmills still around. Inside, the first electrical appliances most homes had were a toaster and iron.

A second boost to the business came when the federally-funded Rural Electrification Administration was formed in 1937 and extended power lines to areas too sparse to meet Detroit Edison's requirement of a minimum of four homes per mile. Fewer than that, and it didn't pay for Edison to run power lines.

By the early 1940s, Baker figures everyone in this area had electricity. A CHANGE CAME FOR Baker Electric in 1963, when the firm did the wiring for the first General Cable plant. The business started shifting from residential work to commercial and industrial, and for the past 10 years, except for an occasional home and minor repair job, that's all it did.

Work ranged from wiring entire buildings to wiring for installation of manufacturing equipment to maintenance.

Baker almost retired in 1971, but then his son Jim, an electronics engineer, decided to return to Cass City with his family from his job in Wisconsin, which required a lot of travel.

Baker Electric became a father and son operation, until July, 1978, when the latter went to work for General Cable as an electronics engineer, with whom he had been previously employed.

In addition to Jim, the Bakers have two other children, Mary Ellen (Mrs. Wayne) Wilson, Auburn Heights, and Robert, principal of John Glenn Junior High School in Bay City, and five grandchildren.

IT WOULD HAVE BEEN logical for Baker to retire after his son left in 1978, but the firm had two other employees, Randy Bergh and Mick Kirm, who were not yet licensed electricians.

His boss decided to stay in business long enough for them to complete the required apprenticeship and pass their examinations. "When they got their licenses and could go on their own, that was it," said Baker, who officially ended his business Oct. 1. Bergh has now started his own business and Kirm is employed by Martin Electric.

For the past few years, Baker had restricted himself to making estimates, inspecting, buying and pricing, while leaving the physical work to his younger associates.

Retirement doesn't mean he will slow down. He has been an active Boy Scout leader in various capacities for 37 years earning the rarely bestowed Silver Beaver award in the process, and presently is a member of Lake Huron Area Council.

He is setting up a shop in his garage with various wood and metal working power tools so he can build various projects. "If you sit down, you know the old man with a scythe is around," he explained. "I figure if you keep moving around, maybe he won't catch you as quick."

HELEN AND ED BAKER

NEW LAWYER — Admitted to the bar Monday by Tuscola County Circuit Judge Norman A. Baguley was Kim David Glaspie (center), receiving congratulations from Thomas P. Collon, an associate in the Pigeon law firm of Clabuesch Associates. Looking on is David Clabuesch of the firm. Glaspie, who will also be an associate, is a graduate of Cooley Law School in Lansing and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Glaspie of Cass City.

Bulldogs to depend on quickness

O-G optimistic despite lack of experience, height

Lack of size and experience are two big handicaps facing the Owen-Gage basketball team as it prepares for its season opener Dec. 5.

Coach Phil Gray, beginning his fifth year at the helm, has only one starter back from last year's squad, 6-1 senior forward Jim Glidden.

Gone from the 1979-80 starting lineup are Brad Erickson, who averaged 15 points per game, and Kirk Carolan, both named to the all-conference team, 6-6 center Pete Klemkowsky, and Alan Haag.

Last season's squad finished 11-10 overall and 9-5 in the North Central D League, good for a tie for third place.

Expected to join Glidden on this year's starting five will be his brother Dan, a 6-1 freshman, and 5-10 junior Craig Gettel, who was on the varsity last year.

With the majority of pre-season practice still ahead, contending for the other two starting jobs were Jim Kuhr and Scott Gaeth, both seniors and the only other players who were on the varsity last year, and juniors Terry Muntz, the team's tallest player at 6-2, and Chris Huizar.

"Not much game experience is one of our weaknesses," said Gray, who has a 49-34 win-loss record in his past four years as coach. The other handicaps are lack of size and team depth. Countering that will be the quickness, hustle and good attitude.

Realistically, the coach expects North Huron and Peck to be battling for top spot in the league, but adds, "Anything can happen."

He expects his team to finish, at a minimum, close to the top, with the other teams finishing in the order of Kingston, Port Hope, Carsonville-Port Sanilac, Akron-Fairgrove and, at the bottom, Caseville.

The schedule is as follows, with junior varsity games starting at 6:30, followed by the varsity contest:

Dec. 9	at Kingston
Dec. 12	at Peck
Dec. 16	North Huron
Dec. 23	at Ubyly (non-league)
Dec. 29-30, Jan. 2-3	Christmas tournament at Owen-Gage

O-G roars to finals of cage tourney

Owen-Gage moved into the finals of the Class D girls' basketball district tournament at Carsonville-Port Sanilac with a 61-29 win Saturday evening over Peck.

The Bulldogs were to play Port Hope in the finals Tuesday evening, with the winner advancing to the regionals next week at Peck. The Blue Stars defeated Owen-Gage once during the regular season, the only North Central D League team to do so.

The game against Peck never was close, as the most points the Pirates managed to score in a quarter was nine. Coach Judy Campbell's squad led at the half, 33-14.

Becky Howard paced the victors with 27 points, with Terry Sontag and Joan Mosack each contributing 12.

Only Pirate in double figures was Diane Seddon with 10.

Port Hope moved into the finals with a 44-36 win Saturday afternoon over Caseville, last year's district tournament winner. Port Hope defeated Kingston in the opening round last Thursday, 51-41.

Score by quarters:

O-G	18	15	10	18	61
Peck	7	7	9	6	29

CARSONVILLE

Carsonville-Port Sanilac coach Paula Cole had predicted her team would beat Owen-Gage once last week. She was wrong.

The Bulldogs, having beaten C-PS in the final game of the regular season Tuesday of last week, cruised past the Tigers Thursday, 52-31, to win the opening round of the Class D district tournament at Carsonville.

Judy Campbell's Bulldogs had an easy time of it, leading at the half by eight points and by 19 at the three-quarter mark.

Becky Howard pumped in 23 points, Julie Andrakowicz added 15 and snared 14 rebounds. Joan Mosack grabbed 10 rebounds.

Mary Ann Willis was the only Tiger in double figures with 15.

Score by quarters:

O-G	13	6	19	14	52
C-PS	4	7	8	12	31

Ken Marker of Bay City downed an eight-point buck in the same area last Saturday.

Jack Wallace of Woodland Street, Cass City, shot a six-point buck the morning of Nov. 18 in the Cass City area. It weighed about 160 pounds.

Rick Hover of Detroit downed an eight-point buck, weighing about 150 pounds, Sunday in the Cass City area.

John Young of Clarkston shot an 11-point buck Saturday morning, east of Cass City. He is the nephew of Bette Berridge of Cass City Road, Ubyly.

Gary Spencer shot a 10-point buck Friday morning behind his home on Seeger Road. It weighed about 250 pounds. It was his first buck in the last five or six years of hunting. The first five days of deer season, he was hunting near Beaverton but all he saw was two does.

Tom Coleman of 5425 F Cumber Road, Ubyly, shot a seven-point, 175-pound buck, his first ever, at 10 a.m. Nov. 18 in the Cumber Road area.

Marty Zawilinski of Garfield Street shot his first buck ever, a six-point, weighing about 180 pounds, Nov. 18, four miles east of Cass City.

7 seniors end great careers

Brown City bumps Hawks from districts

The Cass City Red Hawks bowed out of the Michigan district basketball tournament Monday night at Cass City before a hard rebounding sick passing Brown City team, 40-30.

The game was much closer than the final score indicates. The two powerhouses battled each other until the final four minutes of the final quarter before the issue was decided.

The Hawks started fast behind the shooting of Padgett Randall. The Hawk senior made her final game a memorable one with 18 points and the bulk of Cass City's defensive rebounds.

In the opening quarter Randall riddled the Green Devil man-to-man defense as she swished her favorite jump shot from 15 feet. She scored the first four baskets for Cass City and the Hawks were off and running, 8-3.

Coach Richard Lee called time out and found the defense that has hampered Cass City all season. A four-man zone with a chaser following Randall all over the floor.

They turned the tide and Brown City scored the next six points to take the lead at the quarter, 8-9.

It looked as if the potent Devils were going to turn the game into a rout in the second quarter.

Kim Gorsline showed some pinpoint passing. Led by Diane Kaibfleisch, the rugged rebounding front line dominated the boards. Brown City reeled off eight more points while Cass City was held to a point on a technical foul.

At the half the Devils led 19-13.

The Hawks made a game of it in the third quarter. Brown City took off the full court press that bothered Cass City during the first half and the girls took advantage of the change to roar back into contention. Beth Sieradzki drove to the bucket on a fast break, was fouled while making the bucket and added a free shot.

Moments later she worked loose again under the bucket and scored from close-in.

Randall whipped in a short popper and with 2:09 left in the period suddenly the Hawks were in front, 24-23, for the first time since the opening quarter.

The Green Devils showed the class of a good team by stemming the Hawk drive and finding their scoring touch again. At the end of the third period the Devils were in front, 28-25.

Brown City moved in front by six points early in the final period and the lead stayed that way until four minutes left in the game.

The Hawks started gambling on defense and Brown City took advantage of it to pour in six unanswered points and salt away the game.

The winners were led by Kaibfleisch with 18 points.

Shelley Lapeer played a strong defensive game in her final appearance on the court for the Hawks. Also seeing action for the final time were Brenda Izydorek, Randall, Sieradzki, and Kelly Seurynek, five of the girls that played big parts in bringing Cass City two Thumb B Association titles and a district cage crown.

Other seniors helping complete the record and completing careers were Sharon Wells and Beabe McLaughlin.

MAYVILLE GAME

The Hawks faced no "in-between" teams in the tournament. Last Friday the girls met the worst team in the tournament, winless Mayville, and won, 61-20. The Wildcats haven't won a game for a couple of years and Coach Lloyd Schinnerer started pulling his regulars after four minutes of the first quarter.

At the end of the first period Cass City was ahead, 20-0, and it was merely a case of running out the clock.

Randall scored 16 points and Carrie Lautner added 12. Rabideau added 10.

MARLETTE WINS

In the other semi-final game Monday night Marlette edged into the finals and the dubious distinction of facing Brown City Wednesday for the district title. Marlette topped Sandusky, 22-16.

PADGETT RANDALL displays her rare shooting talent and she tucks another two-pointer away against Mayville. Randall and the rest of the Hawk regulars played less than half the game against the winless Wildcats.

THE ACTION was brutal under the boards Monday as the Hawks bowed out of the district tournament, losing to Brown City, 40-30.

See little trouble with budget law

Cass City Supt. Donald Crouse doesn't expect a new state law requiring approval of school budgets prior to July 1 to cause a problem.

He doesn't expect a problem because he predicts the legislature will amend the law prior to when it goes into effect in 1981.

The new state Uniform Budgeting and Accounting Act forbids local governmental units in the state to spend money if there is no budget.

The problem for school districts is that although their fiscal years start July 1, they usually don't know what their state aid will be until September. Present state law requires school boards to approve their budget by Nov. 1.

Crouse expects the legislature will amend the law before July 1 to allow school boards to approve continuing budgets, allowing spending at the previous year's rate, until they know how much state aid they will receive.

Walking wounded a problem

Cass City will challenge for Thumb B title again

If Cass City's walking wounded make complete recoveries, the Cass City Red Hawks figure to be in the thick of the Thumb B Association title cage race this season.

Coach Ron Nurnberger's charges won't be the overwhelming favorites to roll to a title as they were last year when the Hawks fielded a veteran team with more talent sitting on the bench than some teams were able to place on the floor.

But don't shed any tears for the Hawks yet. They may not win but they still figure to be one of the teams to beat.

Last year Cass City lost its opening game to Lakers and then rolled undefeated until facing Ecorse in the State quarter-finals. The season's record was 23-2.

Gone are many of the players that made that record possible. Start with Ken Martin, 6-4 center. He was all league and all Thumb for two years. Add Tim Fahrner, a varsity letterwinner for 3 years and the Thumb's leading rebounder last season. He was all league and all Thumb.

Also needing to be replaced will be Steve Richards, all league forward and a top rebounder for two years. In the backcourt, ball handling Tim Johnson and Rusty Hoag, two-year starting guard with speed and 6-1 height will be sorely missed. Also gone is 6-3 Rob Clarke, a strong player off the bench who could play center or forward.

A couple of stalwarts from last year's championship team are returning and it's around them Nurnberger will try and build a championship outfit this season.

But the rebuilding effort has been delayed by the injuries. Todd Comment, who paced Cass City in the tournaments last season has an injured ankle.

He'll play when the season opens Friday, Dec. 5, but valuable practice time has been lost.

Tim Sontag, counted on at a forward position, has been nursing a knee injury and Phil Zawilinski is playing with a sore ankle.

There's nothing wrong with Craig Tonti. The all-conference guard has added an inch and now stands 6-1.

The word is that his everyday practice since the end of last year has paid off and his skills are much better than they were last year when they were among the best in the Thumb B Association.

The problem facing the Hawks will be rebounding. There's no big man in the center this year and the chances are that Hawk fans will see plenty of combinations tried in the early season.

Outside of Comment and Tonti the varsity spots appear wide open.

Shotguns stolen from area men

Two Cass City area men lost shotguns to thieves last week.

Brian Jay Woodward of 7635 Deckerville Road, Deford, told Cass City police late Friday that the gun and case were taken from the cab of his unlocked pickup truck while it was parked in the Cass City High School lot from 7-8:30 p.m. The semi-automatic SKB shotgun and case were valued at a total of $250.

Benjamin J. Hennessey of 4170 Sherman Street told deputies Saturday that he had parked his car overnight Friday at Fagan's Thumb Carpet Cleaning, S. Kings-ton Road, Clifford, during which time someone broke into it and took his shotgun.

The Remington shotgun and case were valued at $330.

Roland Pakonen of 4764 Hunt Street told Cass City police Saturday morning that during the night, someone cut a tire of his car, while it was parked at his house. Replacement value of the tire was $42.

A THANKSGIVING PROGRAM was presented Monday by the three second grade classes at Campbell Elementary School for their parents and fellow students. Arranging the program and providing the narration and guitar accompaniment was vocal music teacher Jim Hobbs.

Name 21 winners in turkey drawings

Twenty-one happy shoppers from Caro, Snover, Deford and Cass City will eat turkey this Thanksgiving through the courtesy of Cass City merchants.

The 21 were the lucky winners in drawings held in 21 different stores. Shoppers registered last week end at the various stores and a drawing was held after the stores closed Saturday to determine the winners. No purchases were necessary.

The winners and the stores that gave the free turkeys were:

- Albee True Value Home Center - Bridget Miller, Cass City.
- Ben Franklin Store - Alice Turner, Cass City.
- Bigelow Hardware - Joe Howard, Cass City.
- Cass City IGA Foodliner - Pat Viney, Cass City.
- Clothes Closet - Sherry Kappen, Cass City.
- Coach Light Pharmacy - Mike Zawilinski, Cass City.

License bureau to close in Caro

The Michigan Department of State last week announced the closing of the Caro secretary of state's office, effective Jan. 1.

It is one of 45 branch offices in 33 counties to be closed in order to save an estimated $650,000.

The license plate and tab sales office, located in the Caro Municipal Building on S. State Street, is open Tuesdays and Fridays. The village hasn't been charging the state anything for rent or utilities for use of the office.

The Vassar office will be the only one in Tuscola county.

Another office being closed is the one in the Sebawaing township hall.

Secretary of state offices in Bad Axe and Sandusky will remain open.

OVERALL VIEW of the $6 million Cass City wastewater treatment plant expansion project. Work is being done on several parts at once, ranging from the control building at left, behind trailers, bio-disc structure behind the tractor and two new secondary settlement tanks, behind the present plant at right.

The 1979-1980 audit shows a decrease in the fund balance of $15,433. It should also be noted that an additional $64,177 of the fund balance is reserved for buses purchased but not received by the end of the fiscal year. The net result is a deficit for the school district of $79,610 during the past fiscal year. The decrease in the fund balance was budgeted and did not come as unexpected news.

All debt retirement payments were made on schedule and those accounts retain sufficient balances to meet payment requirements.

One phase of the school program that is going to require careful analysis this year is the Hot Lunch Program. During the past year the expenses for that program exceeded the revenues by $32,662.

All indications point to economically hard times during the current school year and quite possibly next year unless the economy of the State improves dramatically.

The Penn Central Corp. and GK Technologies, Inc. have announced a modified agreement for the acquisition of GK Technologies, parent company of General Cable, by Penn Central. The agreement provides that Penn Central will make a cash tender offer for any and all shares of common stock of GK for $47 per share and for any and all shares of convertible preference stock for $55.93 per share. The proposed transactions are subject to approval by the board of directors of Penn Central, and approval and recommendation of acceptance to GK Technologies' shareholders by its board of directors. The transactions are also subject to the arrangement by Penn Central of firm commitments for financing these transactions, and the execution of definitive agreements. The proposed transactions replace Penn Central's original proposal announced July 7, which would have afforded holders of GK common and convertible preference shares the choice of $45 per share and $53.55 per share in cash, respectively, or a tax-free exchange of GK shares for a new series of Penn Central $5.27 special preference stock.

New books at the library

POINCIANA, by Phyllis Whitney (fiction). Adorning the Florida coastline stands Poinciana, the fabulous mansion of the Logan family. Inside its regal walls, a volcano of intrigue and violent emotion has begun to erupt, and not one of the Logans is safe. Especially not Sharon Hollis Logan, the lovely young bride of the patriarchal Ross Logan. For reasons unknown to Sharon, Ross seems to be hated by Gretchen, his daughter from a previous marriage, her ne'er-do-well husband, Vasily, and Ross' crazed mother, Allegra, and all their hostility is readily transferred to Sharon. As she tries to find out why, Sharon uncovers a devastating secret about her own relationship with her husband, a secret that in the end will test the limits of her courage as well as her ability to love.

THE HIDDEN TARGET, by Helen MacInnes (fiction). When handsome James Kiley invites Nina O'Connell, the daughter of the Secretary of State, to join him on a grand tour across Europe, the Near East and Asia, Nina readily accepts. What she does not know or even suspect is that Kiley is a ruthless terrorist and his "grand tour" is an ugly mission through a network of evil. An intricate new novel of intrigue and romance by the author of "Agent in Place" and "Share of the Hunter."

THE FIFTH HORSEMAN, by Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre (fiction). Beautiful Laila Dajani is a celebrated international jet-setter. Few people know that with the help of her two brothers, she has smuggled a nuclear bomb into New York City and delivered a warning to the White House: If Israel doesn't make major concessions to the Arabs within 60 hours, the bomb will be detonated! A gripping novel of international suspense by the authors of "0 Jerusalem."

HEALTH TIPS Rh disease findings save many babies

Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

Rh disease, a serious disorder of the newborn, was first described in the writings of Hippocrates thousands of years ago. Yet it was not until 1968 that an acceptable preventive was approved that permits many parents with Rh incompatibility to have more than one child without fear. The Rh factor is a protein substance on the surface of the red blood cells of 85 percent of the population. Such people are said to be Rh positive. The 15 percent who do not have this factor are called Rh negative.

Each year in the United States, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association, at least 200,000 women with Rh negative blood marry men whose blood is Rh positive. The first child causes little or no problem. But each subsequent pregnancy carries a risk that the child will be born anemic or even stillborn. One treatment has been an exchange blood transfusion. Most of the newborn's blood is replaced immediately after birth with fresh, safe blood. This helps the infant survive.

In recent years physicians learned how to carry out this blood exchange transfusion while the child is still within the mother. These methods saved many, but not enough, of the thousands of babies affected by Rh disease. In 1968 a new preventive treatment — anti-Rh immune globulin — was approved. Administered to Rh negative mothers within three days after delivery of each Rh positive baby, or each Rh positive abortion, it blocks development in the mother of sensitization against the baby's Rh positive red blood cells. Use of this anti-Rh immune globulin for mothers has been so near 100 percent effective that parents who

Mrs. Voss buried Saturday

Luetta Margaret Voss of Novesta township died Wednesday, Nov. 19, at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a long illness. She was born July 7, 1920, in Pigeon, the daughter of Gustav and Ida (Moenter) Bergman. Miss Bergman married Elmer Voss Feb. 7, 1942, in Pigeon. After their marriage, they made their home in Caro. They came to the Deford area 15 years ago. She was a member of the Good Shepherd Lutheran church of Cass City and its Ladies Aid. Mrs. Voss is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Michael (Margaret Ann) LaValley of Caro and Karen Voss of Deford, four sons, Ronald Voss and Lee Voss, both of Deford, Earl Voss of Fairgrove and Paul Voss of Caro; two brothers, Edward Bergman of Pigeon and Richard Bergman of Kingston; one sister, Mrs. Ruth Volz of Eagle Lake, Fla., and 11 grandchildren. One sister, Edna, preceded her in death. The deceased was taken from Little's Funeral Home at 11 a.m. Saturday to Good Shepherd Lutheran church, to lie in state until the 1 p.m. funeral service. Rev. John G. Riske officiated. Burial was in Novesta cemetery.

Cass City High School's basketball team will live or die by its defense this year, coach Fred Hurlburt said Monday as he watched his charges perform in pre-season practice.

High winds, starting out of the southwest, moved into Tuscola county Sunday, stranding a number of hunters out on Saginaw Bay, and forcing other hunters to retreat to shore as quickly as possible with the water moving out of the bay.

With about 1 percent of the 1970 sugar crop still to come in to the Michigan Sugar Co. plant, in Caro, an astronomical total exceeding 300,000 tons of the crop have crossed the scales.

25 YEARS AGO

The Evangelical United Brethren church will observe its 90th anniversary Dec. 4. Rev. N.W. Klump will be guest speaker at the morning service. A luncheon will be served at noon and a special afternoon service will follow.

A 225-pound bear brought home this week by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schott and son, Bob, is truly a family trophy. It was bagged near Alpena and the whole family had a hand in bringing it down with three shots.

Four achievement booth winners from the Tuscola

County Fair will take in the sights and entertainment of Chicago. Those going are Gail Wallace, Joyce Donnelly, George Taggett and James White. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schantz will chaperone the group.

35 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey O'Dell, returning from Galatin Gateway, Mont., Saturday, brought home a 12-point elk which he shot in Gallatin Canyon.

Albert MacPhail, son of Mrs. Angus MacPhail, received the Eagle Scout medal and Robert Foy was awarded the Silver Palm in recognition of 15 merit badges and 18 months' service beyond the requirements for Eagle Scout at the Tuscola district court of honor at Cass City High School.

Alger and Bernard Freiberger have purchased the Kenney Grocery and creamery at Cass City and will continue the business under the name of Freiberger Grocery and Creamery.

PFC Ross L. Koffman won first prize in a U.S. Army arts and crafts contest. His entry was a poem of his own composition. The entry was placed in the fifth annual national art exhibition held in Balboa, Canal Zone. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Koffman of Cass City.

Convection oven to be demonstrated

"Convection Oven Bonanza," sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, will be held Thursday, Dec. 11, from 7-9 p.m. at the county conference room, 37 Austin Street, Sandusky.

There will be a $1 registration charge per person. Speaker will be June Menig, from the Detroit area, an Amana Co. home economist. She will demonstrate how to use the microwave-convection oven in preparing holiday foods. A convection oven cooks by forced air, the heat is moved throughout the oven cavity by a small fan. The forced movement of air in the oven cavity distributes the heat evenly, thus cooking the food more quickly. To make a reservation, call the extension office at 648-2515.

Aides needed for elderly in Tuscola

The Thumb Area Commission on Aging is seeking individuals in Tuscola county willing to offer short-term relief for families that have an elderly family member in their home who cannot be left without supervision.

Short-term relief would provide the family an opportunity to go shopping, attend church services, meetings, keep medical appointments, etc.

Details regarding the family's needs, frequency of relief help and rate of payment will be negotiated between the family and elderly aide.

Individuals who are interested in becoming an elderly aide or need additional information can call the Commission on Aging office in Caro at 673-4175.

The sting of defeat lingers long after the applause of victory.
