Non-citizens must report in January

All aliens, with few exceptions, who are in the United States on Jan. 1 each year must report their addresses by the end of the month.

Only accredited diplomats and persons accredited to certain international organizations are exempted from the requirement.

Forms with which to make the report can be obtained from any post office during January. The law provides severe penalties for failure to comply with the reporting requirement.

Non-citizens must report their addresses to the Immigration and Naturalization Service, whether or not there had been any address change since the last report.
