County going back to voters Oct. 28

by Tom Montgomery Editor

Tuscola County officials will go back to the voters in the fall in hopes of securing additional funding to restore some services and programs that were cut early this year as well as offset another growing deficit. However, the county won't be asking for a temporary millage. Instead, voters will be asked to approve new al-located millages for the county as well as townships and the intermediate school district.

"This is somewhat unique, although it has been done in a few places," county Con-troller Mike Hoagland said. Voters will be asked to approve a total allocation of 8.4417 mills, which represents an increase of 2.7 mills for the county. However, Hoagland noted the net in-crease would actually be 1.6163 mills.

"It's (2.7 mills) not all new because another facet of this. . .is that the road patrol millage, which is currently .8867 mills, will no longer be a separate dedicated millage it would be rolled in," he said, adding the senior citizen millage, another .1970 of a mill, would also be incorporated into the proposed allocation.

The townships and ISD creases, bringing their alloboard would review and determine how those mills would be divided.

The Tuscola County Tax Allocation Board stopped meeting in 1964 after freezing the rates at 4.2 mills for the county, .15 of a mill for the ISD and 1.65 mills for the townships. Initially, the remaining 9 mills went to the schools, but that allocation disappeared when school financing underwent an overhaul.

Commissioners recently revived the county's tax allocation board to comply with the statute requiring a review of the proposed allocation request.

The board, an independent,

6-member body, met and apgan to erode with the arrival proved the language Thursday. Members of the board, determined by state law, are Ed Scollon, finance chairman of the county board; Pat Donovan, county treasurer; Anna Kabot, citizen appointee; Tod Fackler, township representative; Mary Lou Burns, probate judge appointce; and a representative of the ISD.

Hoagland indicated an increased allocation for the county is long overdue.

"That 4.2 mills for county he said, that allocation beof the Headlee Amendment, which established millage "rollbacks" to control how much property tax growth governmental units can receive.

"So now, that 4.2 mills Tuscola County received once upon a time has been rolled back to 3.94 mills to run all the required services of county government."

Hoagland said the county's current allocated millage, figured in with taxable value and population, puts

Village manager, veterans clash over VFW mural

A disagreement over Cass City's sign ordinance prompted a half-dozen unhappy veterans to attend Monday's Village Council meeting.

The dispute stems from a mural recently painted on the VFW Post 3644 Annex building by area teens Ashley Hadd and Sara Guc.

The mural, painted with the veterans' blessing, features later said the village's sign the Pledge of Allegiance and of the issue, but village President Les Karr stated the village's legal counsel is looking into the legality of the mural. No decisions have been made, Karr said, adding the village simply wants to ensure the ordinance is applied the same way to ev-Sheridan offered no comment during the meeting, but

Had the application been successful, officials planned to conduct a study to determine if there is any contamination at the Nestles building site, and what needs to be done to prepare the property for development. The assessment would have made the village and/or private individuals eligible for additional grant dollars, including money to level the dilapidated structure.

Long-time former Cass City businessman and civic leader James F. Bauer, Saginaw, died Thursday, June 26, at Covenant Cooper. He was 91.

Bauer was very active in the Cass City community, serving as president of the village council for a number of years.

He was a member and past president of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, had been a member of the Cass City Rotary Club and served as a Hills and Dales General Hospital Board trustee. Bauer also was a member of the Walbro Corporation Board of Directors for more than 25 years.

Named Cass City's Citizen of the Year in 1969, he was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Cass City as well as a member of the St. John's Episcopal Church in Saginaw. He was a long-time supporter of Teen Ranch in Pawloski said the department contacted Detroit Edison, but storm damage in the area resulted in the lengthy delay of an Edison crew's arrival. In the meantime, both the trailer and shed caught fire.

Pawloski said fire fighters could only watch because both of the 4,800-volt electrical lines were still live.

· "All we could do is protect the surrounding buildings, to let my guys spray water on it and get zapped."

Scott L. Simons, a media relations staff member for Detroit Edison, confirmed crews were busy in the Thumb following Saturday night's storm, although no figures were available on the number of reported customers without electricity.

Pawloski estimated the loss at $3,000 for the garage and $2,000 for the 22-foot trailer. The trailer was an older model, but the family had just finished refurbishing the interior, according to Louise Ponder.

Groundbreaking $12 million MCF project set to begin

by Melissa Herren Staff Writer

A groundbreaking ceremony took place at the Tuscola Medical Care Facility last Wednesday to mark the start of a $12 million construction and renovation project. The project will provide more services for the county's aging population.

An Alzheimer's unit and an assisted living unit will be added to the facility's existing services and the building will be updated to make it more handicap friendly. Tuscola County voters passed a 1 mill increase on Aug.6, 2001 to make the well, the project will be completed in 2 years.

"The citizenry in Tuscola ings. County take pride in the fact

Board Chairman. Christman Construction Co. of Lansing will bid out the work to subcontractors, and Edmund London and Associates of Southfield is the architectural firm involved:

The need for expansion stems from substantial growth in the county's aging population, said Margot Roedel, facility administrator. The facility is really crowded. "We have 4 people sharing a room and residents are very cramped and have little room for their belongings and medical equipproject possible. If all goes ' ment," she said. people," Roedel said. The residents can always gather with other residents and visitors in the living room and additional dining room that will be added to each floor. The dining room and living room will provide a nice place for families to visit their loved ones, she said.

Construction workers will build a chapel to accommodate the needs of residents and their families. The chapel and the semi private rooms will provide more privacy for families and friends who have loved ones in the facility who are dying. "Our job is to make the dying process peaceful for the residents' families, which is hard to do right now because of the limited space," Roedel said.

The medical care facility will provide an Alzheimer's unit for residents and members of the community who have been diagnosed with the disease. Forty-seven of the facility's 123 patients suffer from some form of dementia, she said. Medical facility employees saw a dramatic need for an Alzheimer unit among their residents and the community. Many people suffering from Alzheimer's have to go out of the county and sometimes, out of the state to receive the special care they need. The unit will house 20 of Hospital Auxiliaries (MAHA) recently presented a Certificate of Excellence Award to the Hills and Dales General Hospital Auxiliary. Sandy Topham, MAHA

The MAHA developed a non-competitive plan to encourage individual auxiliaries to "exceed their own best effort". The Star Recognition Award recognizes the efforts of each individual auxiliary, and auxiliaries throughout the state are judged on their own merit and can rate from a one-star auxiliary all the way to a 5star auxiliary.

MaryAnn Hirn, president of the Hills and Dales Auxiliary, stated the award was made possible due to the support and teamwork of auxiliary members.

Part of the criteria for the award includes attending MAHA meetings, participation in a Volunteer Recognition Event, and auxiliary involvement in a health-related community service program.

Points required for a 5-Star certificate range from 201 to 250 or more. The Hills and Dales Auxiliary earned 215 points.

Awards were presented at the annual Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries Meeting and Educational Conference at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Sometimes the news is so incredible it just makes you shake your head. Using the phone while driving has been argued pro and con recently, but that's only one of the potentially dangerous activities people engage in while at the wheel.

The woman who was stopped by police for driving while nursing her baby tried to explain her actions in a TV interview last week. She failed to convince me. I'm sure she could have stopped somewhere to nourish the infant in the interest of safety - for herself, the baby and the rest of the driving public.

But after reading the following accounts, it's obvious that I'm out of touch with what's going on these days. Pat Wells forwarded a list of "The Stella Awards" for the most frivolous lawsuits of 2002. The award was named for the woman who spilled hot coffee on herself and successfully sued McDonalds. (The most recent suit.

against McDonalds, by teens who allege that eating at the fast food restaurant has made them fat, was filed after the 2002 voting for the award was closed.)

These decisions cause one to wonder about the judicial system and whether we really want a "jury of our peers" deciding these things.

*A woman in Austin, TX, was awarded $780,000 after breaking her ankle when she tripped over a toddler running around in a furniture store. The misbehaving toddler was her son. *A young man in Los Angeles won $74,000 and medical expenses when his neighbor ran over his hand with his car. Apparently he didn't notice there was someone in the car when he tried to steal the hubcaps. .....

*A fellow in Bristol, PA, got locked in the garage of a house he had robbed when the garage door opener malfunctioned. The family was on vacation and he had to subsist on Pepsi and dry dog food for 8 days. He sued for mental anguish and was awarded $500,000.

*A settlement of $14,500 went to a man in Little Rock after he was bitten on the butt by his neighbor's beagle. The fact that the guy had climbed over the fence and was repeatedly shooting the beagle with a pellet gun while it was on a chain in its owner's yard might account for the meager amount.

*A Philadelphia restaurant was ordered to pay $113,500 to a woman who slipped on a soft drink and broke her tailbone. The woman had ing an argument.

*Another gal sued the owner of a nightclub in Claymont, DE, when she fell from the bathroom window to the floor and knocked out 2 of her front teeth. She was trying to sneak out without paying the $3.50 cover charge, and was awarded $12,000 plus dental expenses.

*Winner of the first place Stella Award was a guy from Oklahoma City who had bought a brand new Winnebago. En route home from a football game, he set the cruise control at 70, left the driver's seat and went into the back to make a cup of coffee.

As most of us would expect, the RV left the road, crashed and overturned. He sued Winnebago for not advising him in the owner's manual that he couldn't do this. Can you believe that a jury awarded him $1,750,000 and a new Winnebago?

The company actually changed its manuals on the basis of the suit just in case there were other morons buying the recreation vehicles.

Pardon me while I get out the crying towel, My tale of woe started 2 weeks ago at our cottage in Boyne City. Early in the evening Saturday night, a giant limb from a tree fell across the highway that connects Boyne City and Charlevoix. It took out the main power line and with it the wire that brought power to the house was pulled to the ground, taking with it about a 6-foot square of the siding. Because the tree blocked traffic, electrical crews were on the scene within a half hour. It took awhile to make repairs and the circulating red warning light from the police on the scene made a regular appearance in our windows. At about 2 a.m. a member of the crew hammered a temporary connection to our house and peace reigned.

The saga continued Saturday night when the power went out in a small section of town at about 9 p.m. It's frustrating to be using flashlights when directly across the street lights were shining brightly and, I suspect, television was being watching.

Our television was out of commission until Sunday evening. The end to this sad story had not been written Monday as I write this. We have no phone service and are wending our way through the various transcribed instructions to reach a real live person to try and get some action.

You have to have been a resident for a good many years to know Jim Bauer, who died Thursday. You don't have to have lived here very long to realize the mark he left in the community that he left some 2 decades ago. He was a prime mover in the early days of Walbro Corporation when its survival was touch and go. He was a bulwark for Hills and Dales Hospital as a board member and a prime fund-raiser. While he long ago left Cass City, his interest and support of the community never waned. Just a year ago he pledged $5,000 in the drive to secure a community pool.

Without a shadow of a doubt Cass City became a better community because he was in it.

A recent story by Paulding, Ohio writer, Judy Wells reminded me that camping for some people isn't camping for other people.

After 17 years of camping in a tent, Judy and her husband decided to go modern with a 28-foot camp trailer. She laughs about their first trip and the realization that their big, luxurious trailer was actually the smallest thing-in-the campground. Other campers had 40-foot motor homes and trailers with names like Adventurer, Catalina, and American Dream. The campground was pretty much paved - with electricity, cable TV, and concrete patios at each campsite.

The Wells family tried to relax while their neighbor's TV blasted out Jerry Springer re-runs, and an ice crusher ground away in the background. They had a nice trip, but when they got home, they went straight out and bought a 10 x 12-foot tent. Her story reminded me of a camping trip I took last spring. My trip was a little more primitive, but some of the campers seemed to have more money than good sense.

This was my annual trip, Thursday before Memorial Day when my wife has a sorority meeting at our house. The house is no place for me during a sorority meeting, so I go camping.

I always head for a nice, little campground, accessible only by boat. Tents are the only option, but even then some folks seem to find ways to bring everything with them.

I try to be out of the campground before the horde arrives for the weekend, but I can see them coming. Fancy boats with 150-horse motors. Six people and two dogs in each.

Some have fishing rods, but most come to play. Each boat has a stereo system so the owners can let us know what kind of music they like. " One stereo blasts out a few notes of country western and another camper yells, "Turn that crap off!"

Were there too many camps, just the right number of camps, or not enough camps nearby?"

We only saw one other boat and no camps, but I still had to wonder, "Not enough boats? Not enough camps nearby? Why would anyone in their right mind want to see more boats or more campers?!"

The survey asked things Then I remembered the like, "How many boats did folks in that little campyou see on the river? Was this ground I mentioned earlier. too many boats, not enough They would not have been boats, or about the right happy if they didn't have number of boats?" some company and lots of "Where did you camp? noise.

A story in the Detroit News outlined the problem, pointing out that it would affect about 95 percent of the school districts in Michigan. Included, of course, would be the Cass City district.

If the law goes to the legislature for revamping, the question will be how long will it take? School administrators are saying, the sooner the better.

Rotary Club installs officers, honors fellows

The annual installation dinner for officers of the Cass City Rotary Club for 2003-04 highlighted an afternoon and evening program for Rotarians at Mulligan's Irish Links and at the Knight's of Columbus Hall.

Highlight of the evening was the installation of Mary Cunningham as president to replace retiring president Doug Lautner.

When turning over the gavel to Cunningham, Lautner expressed appreciation for the help he received during the year and said that he expected the club to continue to grow under the guidance of the new president.

Cunningham outlined plans for the year and named members to various posts in the club. Valerie Hartel is

Pierce selected at CMU

Stephanie Pierce of Cass City is one of 8 students selected to participate in Central Michigan University's prestigious Ronald E. McNair Post Baccalaureate Achievement Program.

Pierce, a graduate of Cass City High School, is a senior majoring in biology. She is the daughter of Kristen Kampo and Bradley Pierce. As a McNair scholar, Pierce will be immersed in opportunities that allow her to participate in advanced research projects and activities that introduce her to the rigors of graduate school, teaching, Graduate Record Examination preparation, writing and conference presentation skills.

The federally supported initiative seeks to steer academically proven students who are from low-income households and the first in their families to attend college toward graduate school. It also services students from traditionally underrepresented groups. CMU's McNair program is named for the late astronaut and scholar who died in 1986 when the Space Shuttle Challenger exploded after launching from the Kennedy Space Center, killing all 7 astronauts on board.

president-elect and Lautner, vice-president. Other officers are: Kathy Ziemba, secretary, Pat Curtis, treasurer, Bert Althaver, sergeant-at-arms, Colleen Langenburg, club service, Cindy Joseph vocational service, Craig Bellew, community service and Gerald Prieskorn, international service.

Two Rotarians became Paul Harris Fellows. To join, it is necessary to have $1,000 each contributed to the Rotary exchange program in their name. The Fellows are Barb Karr and Lautner.

Prior to the evening program, club members participated in a 4-person golf scramble for a host of minor prizes.

Paper muddied church ad waters

Benjamin Franklin wrote: "For want of a nail the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe the horse was lost; and for want of a horse the rider was lost; being overtaken and slain by the enemy, all for the want of care about a horseshoe nail."

In Franklin's quip, we see the chain reaction of one small oversight by a careless ferrier. It certainly is easy for any of us to become careless about the small things. But it is the small things that often have the greatest impact. One small but mischievous boy can upset an entire school. One small bell that gives a false alarm can panic a large crowd. One small wheel that gives way under its load can derail a whole train. Small words carelessly spoken have sunk ships, lost battles, cost fortunes, and ruined careers, reputations, ministries, and lives. The Book of James, when speaking of the tongue, says: ...Behold how great a forest is set aflame by such a small fire" (James 3:5).

Rest assured, the words we use have an impact and must be chosen carefully. Jesus remarked: "And I say to you, that every careless word that men shall speak, they shall render account for it in the day of judgment. 'For by your words you shall be justified, and by your words you shall be condemned" (Matthew 12:36, 37).

In the June 18, 2003 Chronicle, the essay placed in the Area Church Directory (page 5), contained some very careless statements that are not representative of the churches in the directory.

The premise declared was that Christians should try something new and read something they would not normally consider. The encouragement was to read "the Koran, the Talmud, or some other religious text."

The article went on to say "God has revealed Himself to different people in differrepresenting my church. Why would I recommend that any Christian read the Koran - a book that claims no Holy Spirit inspiration, opposes the very fundamentals of the Christian faith, e.g., the deity of Christ, the Trinity, the inspiration of scripture, etc., etc., and declares me to be "the infidel" who must be destroyed? Indeed, I have read the Koran, not so I could find personal growth, but so I could understand the thinking of the terrorists with whom we are at

The Talmud is a collection of Rabbinic tradition comprised of the Mishnah and the Gemara. It too claims no Holy Spirit inspiration though its man-made laws are considered by some to be on par with scripture. It was these same human laws Christ Himself sharply criticized. In answering the scribes and Pharisees as to why His disciples transgressed these traditions, Jesus' response was: "And why do you yourselves transgress the commandment of God for the sake of your tradition?...'But in vain do they worship Me, teaching as doctrine the precepts of men" (Matthew 15:3, 9). The Bible says of itself: "All scripture (not the Koran, the Talmud, or any other book) is inspired by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, [and] for training in righteousness; ... " (2 Timothy 3:16). Speaking of the Holy Bible, 2 Peter

The timing probably couldn't have been worse. In the wake of a heat wave and reports of several sick children in Marietta, Ga. - linked to an ill youngster with diarrhea who spread a dangerous strain of E. coli in the kiddle pool at a water park in the Atlanta suburb last week -Cass City officials were forced to close the village pool Friday after a youth had an "accident". In Tuscola County, health officials said Friday it's unlikely that last week's incident at the Cass City pool would lead to any health problems.

Cass City has received final approval as the site for a regional dialysis center, and village officials Monday paved the way to sell the land needed to build the facility.

Cass City Village officials Monday discussed the future of the deteriorating cultural center building. The building has been owned by Walbro Corporation for about the past 10 years. For the past 2 or 3 years, the company has made several efforts. to work with the state historical society to explore avail-

Roy Jaster Jr. and Dr. Paese

"After six short weeks the pain was completely gone."

Roy Jaster Jr. is in the family business with Jaster Construction. Over the years, he had continuing difficulty with lower back pain. Then, on vacation to the Indian River, a water skiing accident was the final straw.

The agony had finally just become too much. A friend referred Roy to Dr. Paese of The Knee & Orthopaedic Center. The diagnosis was three herniated disks of the lower lumbar region of the back. In 1992 Roy had back surgery, which Dr. Paese also had to consider before treatment was decided upon.

Dr. Paese decided AXIAL Decompression was the treatment of choice. The DRX9000 is one of only three machines in the state of Michigan and is an extremely sophisticated piece of equipment. After four weeks of this unique treatment, Roy was feeling much better. The numbness and tingling were gone and after six weeks the pain had completely disappeared.

Roy is back to work full time with no limitations thanks to The Knee & Orthopaedic Center. Roy continues to do daily stretches to stay in shape. "Thank you Dr. Paese, for giving me back the ability to wrestle and play with my boys again without pain."

people who have been clearly diagnosed with Alzheimer's and 12 people who suffer from dementia or a similar disease, she said. Medical Care Facility residents who are diagnosed with Alzheimer's will be moved to the unit first, and then the facility will reach out to other people with Alzheimer's within the Tuscola County.

The staff that will be working in the unit are receiving specialized training to work with Alzheimer patients. "An Alzheimer patient is a special kind of resident who needs special treatment."

Assisted living is a great alternative for people who cannot keep up the maintenance of a house, but are still fairly independent, Roedel said. The assisted living units will allow residents to have their own place, but provide them with the services they need. Sixteen assisted living units will be constructed. Stanley Short, facility resident, said he is looking forward to moving into an assisted living unit and making new friends.

Humane Society, commissioners

may team up to run shelter

by Melissa Herren Staff Writer

CASS CITY CHRONICLE - WEDNESDAY, JULY 2, 2003

The Tuscola County Humane Society and the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners may be teaming up to provide a place for cats and dogs who need a home.

The Tuscola County Sheler closed its doors in December of 2002 due to the lack of funding because a millage had failed to pass and the budget for non-mandated services was reduced. As a result, there is no longer a county shelter for people to drop off unwanted or stray cats and dogs.

"People call us up all the time and say "I have a stray dog here and the animal pound is not open, what do I do?" or "I want to adopt a pet but I don't know where to go now that the pound is not open," said Judy Murphy, Humane Society President.

"There is a definite need for the Humane Society to find homes for stray cats and dogs," said Ed Scollon, veterinarian and board of commission finance chairman. The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners is talking about the possibility of allowing the Humane Society to lease the Tuscola County animal shelter for $1 per month, until the county has the funding to reopen it. The bite and cruelty cases are handled through Sanilac County and 911, and will not be handled by the Humane Society.

The Society does not have the funding to provide their services in the animal shelter, unless the county will help with the cost of building maintenance and utilities, Murphy said. Gerald Peterson, chairman of the board, said the commissioners and the Society are still in the planning stages, a lawyer drew up a contract and now it must be presented to the Humane Society. The board and the Society must reach an agreement before anything is concrete. "I think we can work something out," Scollon said. The Society wants to continue to be involved when the shelter re-opens, Murphy said. "When the county re-opens the shelter, then we will see what part the Humane Society wants to play with us," Peterson said.

The Society has definitely seen an increase in the number of people who call us and have requested our services since the shelter has been closed, Murphy said. "We get a lot of calls from people who have a stray dog or cat on their premises, from people whose dog or cat has had a litter, and from elderly people who die and leave their pets behind.

If the Society can use the animal shelter building, they will have a lot more room to house animals. Society volunteers would run the shelter, providing a cost efficient way to provide services to the county. "We would oper-ate the existing building as a Humane Society and not as an animal shelter," a certain time limit."

All of the animals the Society houses receive needed shots, and are wormed and spayed or neutered, if they haven't been already. The Society's goal is to find good homes for the dogs and cats they house. "We have a 98 percent adoption rate," Murphy said. "We conduct a screening process to ensure people who are interested in adopting animals will provide good homes for them and make sure their placement will be final."

If the Society opens the fatize what dogs and cats they will house, she said. "We have to face the reality that not all dogs are adopted without an investment of a lot of time and money and this will not be a dumping ground for cats and dogs." Besides providing loving homes for animals, the Society provides education for animal owners to make sure they will give them the a dog spayed or neutered. "Prevention is the key to maintaining a healthy pet, and if everyone would have their dog spayed or neutered we could maintain the pet population."

The Humane Society had their annual garage sale last Thursday and Friday in Caro to raise money for their services. The garage sale is their biggest fundraiser of the year.

The unit will provide security for the residents, and all of the services they need will be brought to them, including dietary and laundry services and activities, Roedel said.

The routine and continuity of the environment Alzheimer residents will live in will enable them to trust their caregivers and feel comfortable in their environment, opposed to an environment that is constantly changing. "Once this type of environment is established, Alzheimer's patients calm right down," she said. "Residents thrive in an environment like this and are not afraid."

The existing building is in dire need of renovations. The entrance to the bathrooms are not wide enough for wheelchairs, Roedel said. And most of the rooms only have 2 electrical outlets available for the four people who share a room, and 34 nursing home residents share one shower. It's all about scheduling, she said.

While some people need more care, other people need less.

capita spending. "We get $75 per capita to run the core ing here, a gap between exservices in the county," he added.

If approved, the proposed county allocation would generate an additional $1.6 million annually.

Hoagland said county commissioners would like to use the money to accomplish 3 goals, including reinstating programs that were reduced tion, revenue from housing or eliminated after voters reprisoners is down dramatijected a proposed tax incally. crease of .9 of a mill for 8 Hoagland said the county's years last November. ## to CASS CITY'S 25th Annual 4th of July Festival July 3, 4, 5

• SPECTACULAR PARADE 10:30 a.m.

• SPORTS

• FOOD ALL AROUND THE PARK

Sports galore spark Festival

The Fourth of July Festival wouldn't be complete without sporting events to send crowds screaming with joy. These activities also provide an opportunity for athletes of all ages to show off their ability. They are a lot cleaner now compared to the days when mud volleyball was offered, but the challenge is just as great.

For golf lovers, the Annual Rolling Hills Golf Tourney provides an excellent opportunity for people to gather with their friends to play some golf on Thursday July 3.

The tourney costs $220 for a team of four, the price includes 18 holes of golf and golf carts, refreshments on the course and a steak dinner. If we have 24 teams that participate in the tournament, then the top five places will receive cash prizes, said Dick Wallace.

The revenue the tournament brings in is used for the Festival, he said.

"People should come out and participate in the tournament because it is fun, tax deductible and the money is used for a good cause," Wallace said.

The Rolling Hills Golf Tourney is not the only golf event offered during the festivities. The Irish Links Hole-In-One contest, which will take place at Mulligan's Irish Links Golf Course, will provide golfers with another excuse to get out their clubs and head out to the course Friday and Saturday.

Golf enthusiasts can qualify for the tournament Friday night 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday 12 p.m. to 3 p.m. Finals will be held at 6 p.m. To qualify, a golfer must hit the 10x10 raft that is floating in the center of the pond. The people who qualify for the finals are challenged to make a 175 yard shot across the pond and onto the green. The closest one to the pin on the green will receive a cash prize. Prizes will be awarded to the second and third place finishers as well.

Golf is not for everyone, but that's okay because the Rotary Club is sponsoring the annual Fire in the Sky 3-0n-3 basketball tournament on Saturday. Basketball buffs, both girls and boys ranging in age from 8 to 60, are encouraged to form teams of 4 and participate in the tournament. Teams will play in different divisions based on their age. It costs $70.00 per team to participate and proceeds go back to the community through Rotary projects. Pat Curtis Chrysler is sponsoring the event.

Festival budget at $7,500

"I love the game of basketball and the tournament is a fun time to get together with my friends and play against other people I know from Cass City," said Craig Emmert, Cass City resident. "The weather is usually nice and so it is a good day to get a tan."

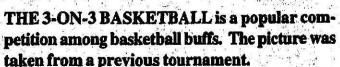

People can sing "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," in preparation for the Men's fast-pitch softball and the allstar Little League tournaments that will take place Friday night. The all-star Little League games will start at 5 p.m. and the men's fast pitch tournament will take place at 7 p.m. to 8:45 p.m. and Saturday at 12:30 p.m. at the Cass City Recreation Park.

If running from base to base is not enough, the M.A.R.C. run/walk offers diehard runners and walkers the opportunity to run or walk a 5 or 10k. The run and walk will begin at the M.A.R.C. building at 8 a.m. Saturday morning. Early registration is $15 and registration the day of the race is $18 and will be accepted until 7:45.

All participants will receive a T-shirt, and trophies will be given to the fastest male and female for the 5k and 10k run and walk and master's age division. Medals and trophies will be given to the winners in each age and sex division.

"The Cass City M.A.R.C. race is one of the nicest local 5k and 10k races to run," said Dave Luana, Cass City resident. "My running friends and I try to make sure we participate in all of the local races."

Luana said he runs 10 to 15 road races a year. The Cass City course is challenging because it is hilly, but the race is competitive and well received, he said.

welcome to the cass City 25th Annual

The Fourth of July celebration does not come together with the click of a heel or a blink of an eye. Nor do the plans just surface during the summer.

The Fourth of July Committee sends out letters in January to line up people and groups to participate in the parade and to schedule music concerts and events, said Gary Jones, Fourth of July Committee co-chair. and the Rolling Hills Golf Tourney pay for the festival. Last year the Rolling Hills Golf Tourney netted $1,000 for festival expenses and arts and crafts show rentals netted between $1,700 and $1,800.

arts and crafts show, vendors

This year the festival committee started with a contingency fund of $2,073.84. "Because of the generosity of the entire community, Cass City's Fourth of July Festival continues to be one of the most popular and best attended 'fun weekends' in Tuscola County," Hittler said.

Doug Hyatt, co-chair wants to thank Jane and Gary and Doris Jones for all of the time and hard work they have put into this year's Festival.

The committee has put in a few thousand hours, said Jane Hittler, event coordinator.

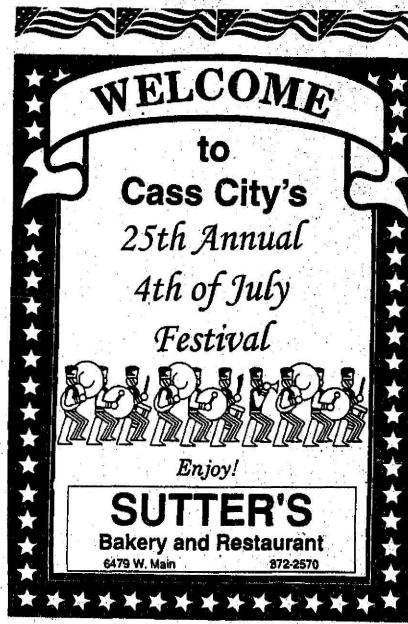

People have come to Cass City from all over for 25 years to participate in activities, Jones said.

"We have been very happy with the festival turnout in the past," Hittler said. "Thousand of people showing up is wonderful, it is a pay back for the time and effort we put into the festival."

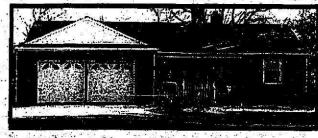

The coordination of the parade is not only time consuming, but also costly. The parade costs around $2,000 annually and the money goes to pay expenses for special marchers, bands, awards and trophies.

"This year we are trying to maintain the same budget as last year," Hittler said. The fireworks, which are the most expensive part of the festival, cost $5,100, the same as last year. Last year's festival brought in $7,164.26 and expenses were $7,449.78.

More variety this year

Let's eat - plenty of food at Festival

American culture, celebrations and festivities would be unheard of. Americans look forward to certain foods every year. At Thanksgiving, it's turkey and pumpkin pie and at Christmas it's ham and frosted cookies and the July 4 Festival isn't any different.

The time is approaching when festival attendees can enjoy the Youth-for-Christ Pancake Breakfast in the park 7 a.m. Saturday morning, a slice of Shabbona pie, Gavel Club brats n' snacks, the Lion's Club Chicken Barbecue, and the Knights of Columbus Fish Sandwich Bash offer a good variety of foods and drinks and people will have more options to choose from, said Doris Jones.

Kettle corn is new to the festival this year. Kettle corn is both sweet and salty and will be an addition to the traditional vendors, Jones said. The Cass City United Methodist Church will kick off the food festivities with a strawberry ice cream social in the Recreation Park Friday night from 4:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Friday on Main Street from The ice cream social is a who can dip the biggest scoops of ice cream, said Connie Schwaderer.

"The ice cream social provides an opportunity for members of the community and old friends to reunite," she said.

The Public Works Department is providing tables and Gerald Auten reserved a tent from a group he belongs to, and Shirley Wagg makes the biscuits.

The ice cream social usually brings in $800 to $900 which goes into the church's building fund, she said.

Free classic music concert set

Jim Profit, a member of the Country Hashbrowns, a classic county music group, is coming back to his hometown to entertain old friends, acquaintances, and festival attendees with country music before the fireworks begin. The concert is free and will take place under the Lions Pavilion at 7 p.m.

"It means a lot to me to be. part of the Cass City Fourth of July Festival because it gives me an opportunity to reunite with past acquaintances and reminisce with old friends," said Jim Profit, Country Hashbrowns busiñēss manager.

The concert will be a nice attraction before the fireworks. It will provide an opportunity for locals and visitors alike to sit back and relax or get up and dance to some old time country music. Profit said.

The group, from Escanaba, Michigan, began 4 years ago and is comprised of 4 members, including Profit who plays the lead guitar, Jim Wilson on the base guitar, Dennis Helgemo on drums and Norm Sheppard on the steel guitar. All of the members sing, Profit noted.

Group members have been playing music for 40 years, he said.

Profit said the group loves playing classic country music, but also plays some modern songs as well.

The group will play a lot of good songs to dance to and take requests from the audience. He added that the group can also play classic rock 'n' roll including songs by Bill Haley and the Comets.

The band plays a lot of songs from the 1950s and 1960s that radio stations no longer play and the group is willing to take requests, Profit noted. "The group enjoys playing just as much as the audience enjoys listening to us play."

He said the Country Hashbrowns attract a lot of people in their 50s and 60s with songs by Neal McCoy and Hank Williams. But to our surprise, we have been pulling in a younger crowd as well, he said.

The Country Hashbrowns is not the only musical act that will be performing during the July 4 festivities.

Antique cars ready to cruise Friday

.The classic and antique cruise night and car display will let car fanatics take a step back in time to relive memories of cars they drove in the past, or just simply admired. Antique and classic cars will be on display in the McDonald's parking lot at 6 p.m. Friday night before they cruise down Main Street. The cars will also be on display in the Cass City Recreation Park Saturday afternoon. People from all over the Thumb, Detroit, Bay City and Midland usually participate in the Cass City Car Show, said Jack Tyler, Elkton resident.

Tyler, owner of a turquoise Pontiac Bonneville convertible, which is almost 20 feet long, said seeing the expressions on peoples' faces when they see his car keeps him traveling from car show to car show all summer long. "People are amazed at how long the car is, especially kids, it really stands out because of its length," said Tyler.

The convertible is from 1966, the same year Tyler and his wife graduated from high school. Six people can comfortably sit in the car. The car brings back memories to people who owned a car like the convertible.

Not only does Tyler have one of the longest cars, but also his 1957 Metropolitan is one of the smallest.

"It looks like a Coke can on wheels because it's red and white," he said. People refer to it as a clown car. People say, "How many clowns can come out of the car?" Two people can fit in the car, but touch shoulder to shoulder.

"I love showing off cars and meeting interesting people. A lot of people who attend the car shows share stories about their own cars. I also like comparing notes with other car enthusiasts," he said.

Car shows are family oriented, and sometimes 6 to 8 families from the Thumb Area Antique Auto Club get together and go on a weekend cruise, said Ron Hoffman, Thumb Area Antique Auto Club member. This summer the club is talking about going to West Branch to the Rod and Relic car show, he said.

Hoffman shows his dark blue 1962 Ford Falcon and his Model A in car shows throughout the summer.

"The Model A is my favorite. I wanted one since I was a little kid, but my dad said they wouldn't be around. There are a lot of Model As around, but Hoffman hasn't seen one exactly like his.

Tyler said he goes to a car show every weekend in the summer and puts in 40 to 50 hours a summer preparing and driving his car to shows. The convertible has a lot of square feet to wash and wax, he said. This year a 1964 Chevrolet Chevelle will be featured on the car dash plaque. Tyler said his car will be in the parade along with some of the other antique and classic cars.

THE CRUISE NIGHT and car display will feature many classic and antique cars from all over the Thumb. Pictured is Jack Tyler of Elkton sitting behind the wheel of his 1966 Pontiac Bonneville convertible.

Sponsors needed for benefit walk/run

A run/walk benefit will take place at the recreation park track Saturday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. to raise money for the Tuscola County Relay for Life Chapter, which is sponsored by the American Cancer Society, and the Alison Emmert scholarship fund. The scholarship is given to a Cass City High School senior going on to further his or her education.

The fund was started in memory of Alison Emmert who died of cancer last year. People who are interested in participating in the benefit are asked to get sponsors who will donate an amount of money per lap they run or walk around the track, said Chuck Emmert, Alison's father.

"I will be very happy if a hundred people participated in the event," he said. "I may not have realized how important it was to support the American Cancer Society as I do today, but experiencing what I have in the last yearand-a-half has changed my opinion."

The benefit gives people in the community a chance to honor a graduating Cass City High School student going on to further their education and help the fight against cancer, Emmert said. Anyone is welcome to participate or give a donation. Chuck can be contacted at 872-3755 for more information or a sponsor sheet.

70 vendors Lots of choices at arts & crafts show

People attending the July 4 Festival in Cass City Friday and Saturday will have the opportunity to purchase crafts of all kinds, ranging from decorative crafts to outdoor furniture. Around 70 vendors are expected to participate in the arts and crafts show that will take place in Cass City Recreation Park Friday from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Among them are Bob and Sharon Danek, owners of Sawdust Garage in Sandusky. Bob Danek has been making wood products including outdoor Adirondack furniture, which is made out of southern yellow pine, chair and bench gliders for two, and a gliding footstool for 15 years.

Bob started making wood shelves and birdhouses after he got a scroll saw to play around with, said Sharon Danek. "We grew from making shelves to furniture," she said. "We get our ideas from patterns, attending craft shows and our customers."

One customer bought the gliding chair because he had just had back surgery and it was the only piece of furniture he was able to sit in, said Danek.

Besides making furniture, shelves, and birdhouses, the Daneks make electric lighthouses that range from 18 inches to 10 feet. The 4 to 5 feet lighthouses are the most popular sizes. Many people use them to cover their well and a lot of people put them on a timer so they light up at night, she said.

"The reception is excellent, especially along the lakeshore," she said.

Sharon and Bob attend 30 shows between April and December.

The Daneks have been part of the Cass City arts and craft show at least 5 years, she said. The craft show in Cass City is one of our favorite shows because Cass City is a friendly town and people remember us from previous years, said Danek.

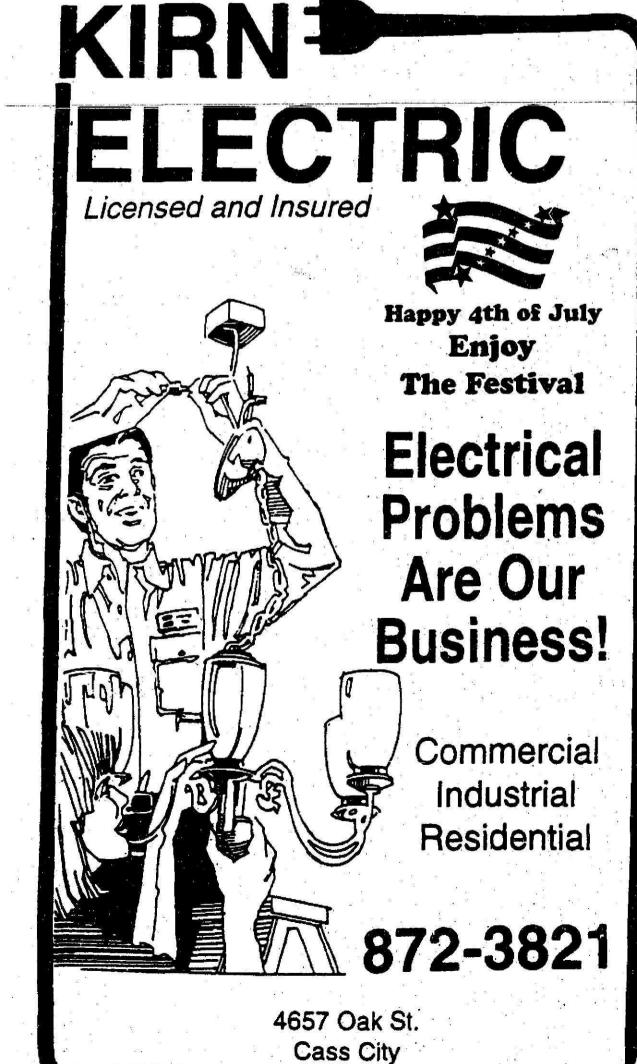

"The satisfaction of knowing people enjoy buying our products is very rewarding, she said. We keep our prices reasonable and stand behind our work."

Glider chairs are $119.95 and glider benches are $189.95, birdhouses range from $25 to about $40.

Danek said in the summer they make a lot of products useful outdoors, but as it gets colder they sell a lot of shelves and lamps.

The Daneks make at least 100 pieces of furniture per year, she said.

100 entries expected for grand parade

Cass City's Fourth of July Parade is spectacular because of the community members who participate in the parade and the crowds who gather to watch. The participation of clubs, businesses and organizations through floats makes the parade special. Some of the members of the Thumb 2-Cylinder Club, which is sponsored by the Cass City Lions Club, take on the challenge of building a float for the parade with open arms and sharp minds.

Their float features a replica of a barn, a house with a garden, a windmill that pumps water and dolls that ride on the pedal tractors that pull farm equipment, said Gerald Auten, club member. "Whenever you have something moving on a float it draws interest," he said. The floatis 32 feet long and 8 feet wide.

"The float was built a year ago last spring, but we modified it this year." The float becomes more complex every year. Ten to 12 people have been working on the float since April, Auten said. "We have a lot of fun working on the float," he said. "Anytime the guys get together someone comes up with an idea and someone else modifies the idea, it's a fun group."

The float was in 20 parades last year and the modified version has been in 2 parades so far, but has a full summer schedule again this year, he said.

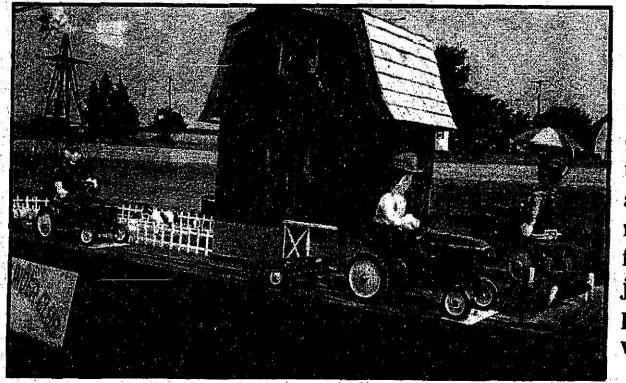

Besides community floats, the crowds will enjoy listening to the Tittabawassee Fife and Drum and Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps, and watching the clowns, tractors, antique cars, horses and dancers travel down Main Street. Plaques will be given to 4 winners in memory of Cass City community members. The parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. on Main Street and start the day's activities.

The parade will be entertaining and informative, said Gary Jones, committee cochair. Mostly entertaining, he said, but there are some groups passing out literature. Jones expects 75 to 100 entries. "People are coming out of the corners telling me they want to participate in the parade. We are getting a great response from the community."

Jones has been in charge of the parade for about 21 years. "When people tell me they have enjoyed the parade it's worth it," he said.

PAGE TEN CASS CITY CHRONICLE - WEDNESDAY, JULY 2, 2003 CASS CITY, MICHIGAN - CASS CITY,

Participants and onlookers alike are pumped up for this year's M-T Pocket Pullers tractor pull on Saturday.

"It's a thrill to get on the tractor and just let the throttle go," said Harriet Creason, M-T Pocket Pullers secretary. "Especially when something unexpected happens and the front end of the tractor is lifted up and it glides down the track," she said. Harriet's husband, Jerry Creason, is vice president of the M-T Pocket Pullers.

The event will take place at 1:30 p.m. in Cass City Recreation Park on the hill, which is just north of the park. For club members it costs $10 to hook up to the sled and for non-members it's $15.

The Pocket Pullers is offering 8 different classes of pulls this year. The pulls offered include the 8-10 year old kids' class, a 4 wheel drive ATV class, garden tractor classes including 0-13 hp and 14-20 hp, and stock altered garden tractor classes, ultra light classes including the 0 to 560 cc class, 561 to 800cc class, 801-1200cc class, 0 to 2400 cc class which is a multi engine class, and the V-8 class.

"We hook the tractor to a sled equipped with a moving weight box and whoever pulls the sled the farthest in the class wins," Creason stated. The farther the sled is pulled, the more the weight box shifts from one end to another. In case someone completes a full pull, additional weight is added and he or she pulls again.

"We usually have a good turnout in Cass City," Creason said. Since tractor pulls are a spectator sport, bleachers will be set up for people to attend the event.

Pulling is a challenge, she said. Every once in a while you get a good rivalry going between competitors. My husband and another club member pass back and forth a crying towel as a joke. "Tractor pulling is clean fun," Creason said.

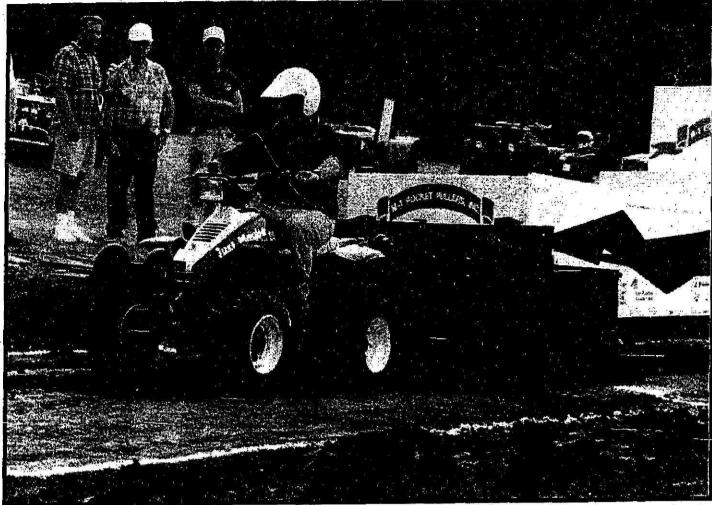

Alcohol is not allowed. "We don't allow drinking among participants or allow people who have drank before the pull to participate," she said. "Safety comes first."

The organization began with a group of people who shared the same interests and is comprised of 50 to 60members, she said. The M-T Pocket Pullers is a nonprofit charitable organization that has raised money in the past for the Muscular Dystrophy Association and abused children.

Crowd pleaser

New fireworks show promised at Festival

Fireworks has been an integral part of the Cass City July 4 celebration for years, it brings people of all ages and from all walks of life together to celebrate America's freedom.

Fireworks are a very old source of entertainment that has been around for centuries, said Dennis Kundinger, Kundis Firework Display Shows LLC owner. "We are trying different things this year to make sure we offer a different show each year, so people who have attended the firework shows in Cass City are not seeing the same show every year."

Kundinger choreographs his own firework show because 99% of his show is electrical, he said.

Highlights of the show will include falling rain, dancing butterflies, double hearts and smiley faces.

Like Kundinger said, fireworks have been used in celebrations for centuries. China is considered the birthplace of fireworks. A Chinese cook mixed potassium nitrate, sulfur and charcoal and lit it, producing colorful flames. The concoction was burned in a bamboo shoot to create an explosion

KUNDIS Fireworks Display Shows will again light up the skies during Cass City's 25th-annual Fourth of July Festival. This year's show is set for dusk Saturday, July 5. used for entertainment, and to ward off evil spirits.

Once black powder was perfected in China, it was used to launch wooden rockets and used against Mongol invaders of 1279. The technique resembled the rocketlaunched fireworks of today. Fireworks first appeared in England at the wedding of Henry the VII in 1486. The queen was so impressed that a fire master was appointed and fireworks became the royal court's favorite form of entertainment at festivals and celebrations. By the 14th to 15th century almost every country had its own version of fireworks. The Germans used them in battles. and the Italians used them to celebrate.

Early American settlers brought the idea of fireworks over with them from England to mark celebrations and impress the natives. The very first celebration of Independence Day was in 1777, six years before Americans knew if they would even survive the war, and fireworks were a part of the celebration.

Fireworks were not bursting with vivid colors until the 19th century when pyrotechnicians started using potassium chlorate and metallic salts to make brilliant colors such as red, green and blue.

One of the most memorable July 4 celebrations occurred on the 100th birthday of the Statue of Liberty, July 4, 1986, when three of the most renowned firework companies worked together to put on a 22,000 aerial firework show near the Statue of Liberty.

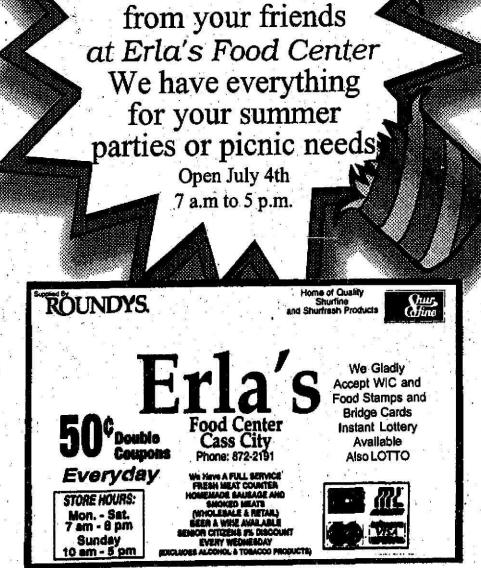

Whether the fourth of July fireworks ceremony is held in a big city like New York or the small town of Cass City, it doesn't matter. The fact that people come together in celebration is what counts.

A multitude of kids' events at Festival

Exotic animals popular

Kids can take a walk on the wild side to visit exotic animals from Whispering Pines Animal Kingdom of Lexington, or watch children like themselves participate in events and routines with their dogs Saturday at the Cass City Recreation Park.

Kids can also participate in the AAUW kids' paint-in, kids games and races, and the moonwalk. All of these events will leave many kids smiling and exhausted at the end of the day.

Children up to age 12, who want to be in the parade, are encouraged to dress up and dress up their pet or bike and meet at the Chemical Bank parking lot Saturday morning at 10 a.m. "The parade gives children an opportunity to show off their pet," said Margie Morley.

Children who want to walk their pet in the parade must be able to control them and as a result, pets 50 pounds and under can participate, she said.

Last year 50 kids participated in the small pets and bike competition, the event is growing because kids are telling their friends about it, Morley said. McDonald's is sponsoring the event.

The Whispering Pines Animal Kingdom will be in the recreation park from 10 a.m. to dusk on Saturday. The Lions Club is sponsoring them. This year the Animal Kingdom will bring 20 kinds of animals to the festival, said Kirk Elya from Whispering

Pines Animal Kingdom. Some of the animals that will visit Cass City include a nine-and-a-half-month old white Bengal tiger, an African crested porcupine, a baby wallaby, a baby Java monkey and Poga, the red kangaroo that hopped around the park last year on a leash.

"The crowd's response last year was super and it will be even better this year because we are bringing more animals," he said.

The exotic animals are not the only animals that will be present at the July 4 Festival Saturday. Thumb Area Tail Waggers, a 4-H dog training group, comprised of area youth ranging from ages 8 to 18, will put on a k-9 dog demo on Saturday between the DPW building and the Gazebo at 1 p.m. The show is free.

Dogs of all sizes and breeds will participate in events of all types ranging from obedience routines to tricks, and showmanship to barrel racing.

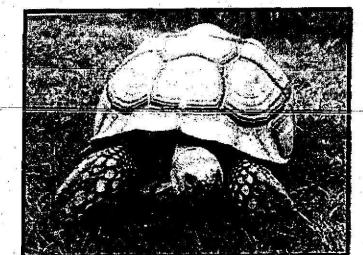

Fifties music is a big part of the dogs' obedience routine, said Connie Sutter, group leader. Each dog will perform to a different song, she said.

Theresa Sutter, 17, who has participated in dog shows since she was 8, said her dogs are not a possession, but a part of the family. "I enjoy working with the dogs. They are willing to please and usually don't talk back," she said.

THE SALLY DOERR chorus line will dance on a float in the parade Saturday and dancers will also perform routines they have been working on throughout the year Saturday evening in the Baker College parking lot. Jeralyn Herp (middle front), owner, is pictured with dance students who will entertain crowds Saturday evening.

Richards, a Cass City High School junior.

The dancers started working on the chorus line routines in May and practice them a halfan-hour every week, Herp said. Besides the Cass City parade, the chorus line will perform in the Sebewaing, Gagetown, Kingston and Caro parades this summer. The chorus line performed in the Frankenmuth parade earlier this summer where they were treated like celebrities, Herp said.

Besides the chorus line dance performance in the parade, people will have an opportunity to see a Sally Doerr Dance performance featuring all types of dance including tap, jazz, ballet, lyrical and hip hop, in the Baker College parking lot at 5 p.m. Saturday. This year's theme is "dance to the music," and the dancers of all ages will move to music ranging from Chicago to Ma-

The performance provides an opportunity for dancers to show off all the hard work they have put into their routines over the last year, Herp said.

"During the school year I dance 10 hours a week," Richards said. "Dancing is a way for me to express myself."

THE ROCK WALL operates with a hydraulic belaying system for safe fun. The hydraulic slowly lowers the climber as they descend from the top of the wall. (Maximum climber weight is 250 lbs.) The wall is capable of approximately 60 climbers per hour, equaling 4 climbers at a time. Different routes up the wall challenge all age groups.

Rock climbing, tractor pull new at Festival this year

The July 4 Festival will be a feat of strength for children who test their might at the Pedal Pullers tractor pull and the rock climbing wall. These events will make their grand appearance at the Festival for the first time.

The children's tractor pull provides a competitive event for children ages 4 through 12, said Doris Wood, Pedal Puller owner along with her husband Bob. The event will take place in the Cass City Recreation Park around 2:45 p.m. and registration starts at 2 p.m. The Pedal Pullers are sponsored by Cass City Oil and Gas Company.

Children will compete against other children their age, and each age group will pull a sled containing weight with a tractor. The goal is to see who can pedal the farthest in each age category, Wood said. The younger kids will start out with 25 pounds and the older kids may be able to pull 300 to 400 pounds.

This is the 20th year the Woods have traveled with their tractors around the state of Michigan. "We average 45 pulls a summer and travel to fairs and festivals around Michigan in our motor home," she said. "There are some kids that get quite excited and follow us."

Brandon Cummings 7, of North Branch, said he attends all of the Pedal Puller tractor pulls offered in his area. "I like sitting on the tractor and competing against other kids." Cummings has been competing in the event since he was 4 years old and can pull 400 pounds, he said.

The Woods started the Pedal Pullers 20 years ago as a promotion to their farm machinery store, and business grew from there. They closed their farm machinery shop in 1985, but continueto run pulls every summer.

"We enjoy being with children and encounter 2,000 to 3,000 children a summer," Wood said.

The tractor pull is not the only event where children as well as adults, can test their strength and ability.

The Rotary Club is sponsoring a 25-foot rock climbing wall to challenge the young and old alike. The climb will cost $4 for 2 attempts up the wall. Rock climbing walls are growing in popularity and are making appearances at many social events.

"I happened to see the rock climbing wall at Fashion Square Mall and it looked like the kids were having a lot of fun," said Gerald Prieskorn, Rotary member. "We decided to bring it to the festival to offer a different kind of entertainment for kids than in past years."

THE PEDAL PULLERS is a new addition to this year's festival. Kids ages 4 to 12 will have the opportunity to test their might in a pedal tractor pull on Saturday.
