The level teaches equality and to the question, "What are the moral and Masonic uses of the plumb?" the answer is, "Morally it teaches rectitude and we use it to try perpendiculars." The ceremonies were nearly entirely of a scriptural nature. Quotations from the Old Testament, especially from the dedicatory ceremonies used by Solomon at the time when he dedicated the temple at Jerusalem to the service of Jehovah, were freely used. The Second Annual Field Day of the High Schools of the Thumb was held June 7th. The pains, pleasures, excitement and memories that cluster about the day are part of its history. Each year some individual dates his long dreams of the High School girls become realized. The tailor mades, "detacoable flounces;" and latest creations show her to advantage. This year's field day dawned cold and cheerless with thermometer at 45 degrees, while sun, clouds and wind played hide and seek, with odds in favor of the latter. It was a windy day in more ways than one. The track was in better condition than we have ever seen it, but although we had a fast track we did not expect many records to be broken on account of the cold winds, and because the bicycle race, hurdles and dashes had to run against the wind. There was no lack of entries in any of the events. Cass City, Bad Axe, Caro, Vassar, Mayville and Sebewaing were repreentered just for the sake of having

ANOTHER CONGERT.

F. Lenzner, the efficient teacher of music, has arranged for a high grade The Scene at the Anderson home musical concert for the benefit of the band which will be held at the opera house tonight. All of his pupils have a part in the program and this alone gives the assurance that the affair will be of a unique character. Mr. Lenzner deserves the hearty co-operation of all our citizens in the enterprise. Every cent of the proceeds will flow into the treasury of the band boys. Let everybody turn out and thus help the band which is starting off so auspiciously. Remember it's tonight at the opera house.

Plowing for late potatoes and beans is quite general, and late potato planting has begun. Warm weather is much needed for all vegetation.

Should Heed the Warning. The state communicable disease inspector reports a peculiar case of smallpox. The child sick with the disease slept for a few nights on a feather bed on which one of his relatives, a member of a family in which smallpox existed, laid in Missouri about two years ago. There was no other known source from which the disease could have been contracted by the child. The feather bed was recently sent to the family in Michigan by the Missouri relatives. This, the state board says, should be a warning to persons having dangerous communicable diseases in their families, to make sure that all articles used are thoroughly disinfected before being used again.

Brutal Murder at Flint. One of the most cold-blooded murders that has ever happened in Flint was committed on the evening of the 5th, when Mrs. Jennie Parish was shot Five Persons Were Killed and through the lower part of the heart twice by Louis Weeks, an employe of W. A. Patterson's carriage factory. The murder was the result of Weeks' maddened jealousy, he having threatened before that he would kill her. During the forepart of the evening Wm. Ferguson, who is employed by the Grand Trunk road as freight handler, and who has kept company with the Parish woman for some time past, called at her home and was in her com pany about two hours. During that time he saw nothing of Weeks, though Mrs. Parish demanded that Ferguson leave early to avoid a clash between the two men, between whom bad blood had existed for some time past. He did as she requested, and left by the side door, while Weeks entered at the front. Without any undue ceremony he pulled a revolver and shot the woman, killing her instantly.

Game Warden's Report for May. State Game Warden Morse, in his monthly report to the secretary of state, says that during May the department investigated more complaints for violations of the game and fish laws than in any previous month in its history. A large majority of the complaints were for violations of the fish laws, both in inland and commercial waters. There were 262 complaints investigated, resulting in 126 arrests, 110 being for violations of the fish laws and 16 for violations of the game laws. One hundred and two convictions were secured, with one acquittal, two dismissals and 13 cases pending. Twenty-seven seizures of immature and illegally-caught fish and fishing apparatus were made. Quail and partridge are reported in good condition, and with good weather in June, the warden says, there will be a plentiful field of game birds for the coming season.

Mrs. Quimby's Confession. Prosecuting Attorney Kirby, of St. Louis, reports that Mrs. Quimby confessed on the 8th that her husband, Elmer Quimby, helped her to murder her two children some three weeks ago, and who is now lingering in the county jail for trial. She stated that Quimby gave the poison to the children, gave them water to drink, ordered her to write the letter, waiting until she had partly written it, then left the house. After he was gone she lost her nerve and sent for the neighbors.

Edward Gordon, of Tekonsha, is winning fame as a chicken farmer. He runs a large number of incubators and brooders and raises chickens by the thousand. When the chicks weigh two pounds they are placed on the market, the price being 12 to 15 cents a pound. Mr. Gordon claims the chicks cost about five cents each when ready for market.

The Everett-Moore syndicate on the 4th consolidated the Detroit & Toledo Shore Line Co. with the Toledo & Detroit, Shore Line Co. The consolidation includes all the trackage, rolling stock, right of way and other equipment of the first named company between Toledo and Monroe. The Everctt-Moore interests dominate the consolidated property. The deal involves $800,000.

By reason of spy work of the state tax commissioners in Berrien county the total assessment in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph will be twice as high this year as last.

Russia and Japan May go to War.

Advices from the orient are far from reassuring as to the maintenance of peace in the future, even after the successful adjustment of the existing difficulties between China and the powers. Those who have recently come from Japan confirm the reports of trained observers there that the Japanese are generally preparing for early war with Russia. Intimations have several times been given since the close of the war between China and Japan in 1895 that Japan would regard interference with the autonomy of Korea as a hostile act. The Japanese, including their representative ministers, have firmly made up their minds that when the results of Russian intrigues are disclosed in an open movement hostile to Japan, the Japanese army shall be landed in Korea, and Russia warned that she must retrace her steps or fight.

Pension Figures.

The commissioner of pensions states results of the efforts of the bureau for the 11 months of the fiscal year ending May 31, as follows: Original pensions have been granted: On account of war of 1812, widows, 2; on account of Indian wars, widows 112, survivors 7; on account of Mexican war, widows 325. survivors 14; for account of service prior to 1861, 6, making a total of 466 pensioned for account of service prior to the civil war. On account of the civil war there have been pensioned for disabilities incurred in service: Invalids, 1,051; for disability as provided by act of 1890, invalids 16,852; for widdows under old law, 2,901; for widows under act of 1890 and amendments, 14,-479; for nurses 25, making a total original issues account of the civil war of

Our Trade With Scandinavian Countries Frank II. Hitchcock, chief of the foreign markets sections of the agricultural department, has prepared a comprehensive article on the growth of the trade between the U.S. and the Scandinavian countries-Denmark, Sweden and Norway-during the 10 years from 1890 to 1900 inclusive. It shows that in the 10 years subsequent to 1890 our exports to these three countries rose from $9,000,000 to nearly $29,000,000. Our imports from Scandinavia are very small, being below $4,000,000 in 1890 and only a little more than $5,000,000 in 1900, which was the record year in imports. Denmark is the principal factor in our Scandinavian trade, the exports to that country for 1900 having a value of more than $18,000,000, while the combined shipments to Sweden and Norway were valued at about $10,000,000.

'Twas a Bold Hold-Up. One of the most daring hold-ups ever perpetrated in Pennsylvania took place in Ellwood City on the 3d. Three unmasked men met Costen Burns, an aged and wealthy resident of that place, who was on the way to his quarries with $2,100 to pay his hands. The hold-up men seized him by the throat. and made off with the cash. A posse was hastily organized and came upon the highwaymen about two miles from the scene of the robbery. A heavy exchange of shots took place between pursuers and pursued. One of the robbers was crippled by a shot and was an easy victim, while the leader was captured after his ammunition exhausted. Over $400 was found on the second robber's person, but the third man escaped, and is yet at large with $1,700 of the stolen money.

Five Dead-Seven Injured. Five men were killed and seven injured in a wreck at Vestal, N. Y., on 8th. Seven others, all but two of them train men, were injured. Several of those who were thought to be fatally hurt recovered from the concussion and figure in the list of the slightly hurt. On the 9th the rescuers toiled about and among the burning freight cars at the scene of the explosion, but it was not until late in the afternoon that portions of the last dismembered body accounted for were discovered a quarter of a mile from where the explosion occurred, while the tracks of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad were completely blocked.

Eight Killed by an Explosion. Eight Italian miners were killed in the Ludington shaft of the Chapin mine on the 4th. Damp powder ignited and burned, and the men were suffocated by the fumes. 'In attempting to escape one fell down a ladder to the eighth level, and was run over by an ore car. Two others died in a cross cut, and the other five were found together in slope No. 2. How the powder caught fire is not known. Thirtyone children are left fatherless.

The officials of the Russian foreign office state that contrary to certain reports Russia has never favored the notion of all the constitutional powers guaranteeing the Chinese loan. She replied in terms similar to the U.S. that the executive could not guarantee without the consent of the legislative branches. Russia prefers a speedy settlement to a guarantee. The officials also say it is not true that Russia is bitter against Britain for offering the plan now discussed. Her relations with Great Britain are nearer than for a long time.

The Chinese express great satisfaction at the announcement of the intention of the court to return to Pekin in September. All the foreign troops, with the exception of the legation guards, are expected to withdraw ere the middle of that month, the only troops not already under orders of withdrawal being the Japanese, whose government is sending reliefs. It is said, however, at the Japanese legation that when Japan is absolutely certain the other powers are evacuating, her own troops can be withdrawn on two days' notice.

There was an affray at Tien Tsin on the 2d between international troops. Some British fusiliers who were acting as police at that place sought to prevent French soldiers from housekreaking, when they were attacked with bayonets and bricks. The fusiliers, in self-defense, fired in the air. This brought a number of Germans to the aid of the Frenchmen. They numbered together 200 men. Five fusiliers fired again, killing a Frenchman and wounding three others. In subsequent fighting four fusiliers, five Germans, and one Japanese were wounded. The arrival of a German officer and a strong guard ended the fray.

TRANSVAAL WAR ITEMS.

According to a dispatch from Lord Kitcl ener, Jamestown was surrendered to Kritzinger's commando on the morning of the 2d, after four hours fighting. The governor of Bermuda has received notification that the transport Armenian will arrive at Hamilton July 3 with 900 Boer prisoners and that two companies of the Royal Warwickshire regiment will act as their guards. After a long and somewhat embittered discussion of the policy of the British war office in buying horses for use in South Africa the house of commons by a vote of 159 to 6) on, the 6th voted the sum of £15,779,000 for transports and re-mounts. Col. Wilson, with 240 of Kitchener's scouts, surprised and routed 400 Boers belonging to the Beyers command, 34 miles west of Warm Baths, on the 5th. The Boers resisted stubbornly, but finally broke and fled, leaving 37 dead, 100 prisoners and all their wagons and supplies, including 8,000 cattle, in the hands of the British. The loss of the latter was 3 men killed and 15 wounded. The Rev. H. D. Von Broeckhuizen, of Pretoria, South Africa, the minister who closed the Volksraad with prayer after President Kruger's ultimatum, had been read to that body, is in New York. His brother, Dr. H. J. Von Broeckhuizen, of the Orange Free State, who served in the Boer armies, accompanies him. Their mission in this country is to raise money for the Boer women and children now in refuge camps.

Details regarding the fighting at on Sunday, June 9: Vlakifontein, show that it was one of the most desperated engagements of the war. Gen. Dixon's column was traversing the district and establishing posts, when it was attacked by 1,200 Boers under Commandant Kemp. The Boers were so close that 50 British fell at the first volley. The Yeomanry held the position, protecting the guns until they were nearly decimated; and then, finding it impossible to save the guns, the artillerymen shot the gun horses to prevent the Boers moving the guns.

CUBA AND PHILIPPINE NEWS. Aguinaldo, through Guevarra, has advised Gen. Callies to surrender immediately. About the first of next month full civic government will be set up in the Philippine islands, exactly as projected by the Philippine commission. As soon after that date as an administrative machinery can be made ready for it the new Philippine tariff will be proclaimed, also following out the or iginal plan formed before the announcement of the decision of the supreme court recently. It also has been decided that there is no reason for an extra session of congress.

BRIEF NEWS PARAGRAPHS.

The annual commencement exercises of the Central state normal school, Mt. Pleasant, will be held June 9 to 13. Destructive fires are raging in the grain belt 18 miles southwest of Los Banos, Cal. It is estimated that 20,-000 acres of grain and fodder lands already have been burned over.

Importations of merchandise into the Philippine islands for the first three-quarters of 1900 showed an increase of $658,321, or 72 per cent over the amount for the same period of 1899. They amounted to $1,571,972.

Because he was lukewarm to the proposed invasion, Chief Pokagon, the direct descendant of the first known ruler of the Pottawatomies, was on the 7th deposed by the tribe, and the younger and more enthusiastic buck elected to his place on the Indian throne. Pokagon's council of seven, which is the ruling legislative body of the Pottawatomies, was also deposed, the following leaders in the invasion movement being elected to succeed them: Frank Williams, Frank Sawalk, J. H. Cushway, Stephen Topash, Joseph Motay, Charles Motay and Andrew Rapp. Immediately after their election. Chief Quigno and the new council of seven went into secret session at Hartford. The session lasted for several hours. When it was over messengers were dispatched to the various Indian settlements to notify the warriors of the proposed advance on Chicago, June 22. The pow-wow at which Pokagon was ousted from the seat of his fathers was held in the village of Hartford on the 7th. It was called to hear the report of the scouts sent to Chicago recently to confer with Capt. Streeter and the police.

City of Erie-Tashmoo Race. In the grandest steamboat race in the history of American navigation, the Buffalo steamer City of Erie on the 4th established her right to the title of 'Queen of the inland seas." For four hours and 19 minutes she struggled with Detroit's splendid steamship Tashmoo, and when it was all over the two magnificent craft had raced for nearly a hundred miles and were but a few seconds apart at the finish. No other such struggle is known in history. As the City of Eric started first and finished first, no one seemed to know which had won, but it soon developed that she won by a margin of but 45 seconds. How much money was lost and won on the race will never be exact known. It amounted to many Nutmegs grow on little trees which look like pear trees, and are generally Quigno, the Pottawatomies will sail not over twenty feet high. The flowers are much like the lily of the valley. They are pale and very fragrant. The nutmeg is the seed of the fruit, and mace is the thin covering over the seed. The fruit is about as large as a peach. When ripe it breaks open and shows the little nut inside. The trees grow on the islands of Asia and in tropical America. They bear fruit seventy or eighty years, having ripe fruit upon them all the seasons.

A fine tree in Jamaica has over 4,000 nutmegs on it yearly. The Dutch used to have all this nutmeg trade, as they owned the Banda islands, and conquered all the other traders and dostroyed the trees. To keep the price up they at once burned three piles of nutmegs, each of which was as large as a church. Nature did not sympathize with such meanness. The nutmeg pigeon, found in all the Indian islands, did for the world what the Dutch had determined could not be done-carried those nuts, which are their food, into all the surrounding countries, and trees grew again and the world had the benefit.

Couldn't Wear Shoes.

Sumpter, Ill., June 10th.-Mrs. J. B. Flanigan, of this place, had suffered with dropsy for fifteen years. She was so very bad that for the last three vears she has not been able to wear her shoes. She had doctored all the time but was gradually getting worse,

Last winter Mr. Flanigan, who was very much discouraged, called for somemedicine at Mr. J. J. Dale's drug store in Carmi. Mr. Dale persuaded him tohave his wife try Dodd's Kidney Pills. and he bought six boxes. His wife used five out of the six, before she was entirely cured. She is now as sound and as well as ever she was, completely restored to health, and free from any symptom whatever of dropsy.

To say that Mrs. Flanigan is pleased? it her wonderful deliverance does not half express her feelings, and she and Mr. Flanigan are loud in their praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and of Mr. Dale for recommending this wonderfull remedy to them.

The fact that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mrs. Flanigan of such a severe case of dropsy, after the doctors had given her up, has made them the most talked of remedy ever known in White: county.

London's American Colony.

So fast has the American colony in London multiplied that an enterprising firm of English publishers has decided to issue a directory of it. They expect to incorporate the names of no less than 35,000 residents of Yankee extraction whom business or international marriages have temporarily or permanently added to London's population. The directory will be both commercial and social. Renting agents in all parts of London testify to the growing number of American residents. He says he left Manila after Aguinaldo's capture. He talked with him and is convinced he will not visit America, but will settle down on his estates near Cavite and learn the life of a planter. De Aguirre says the Filipino population never was in favor of war against the United States. Those generals now in rebellion are only brigands and will either surrender or lay down their arms as soon as their followers tire of them. He said in conclusion: "If Aguinaldo returns to politics and desires it his people will send him to represent them as a delegate in your congress, as later we must have representation, no matter what kind of government is established.'

CONSULTATION FREE! and Strictly Private in Every Case.

It makes no difference how difficult, or what your case may be, nor how many have failed to cure you, there is always hope for you, until you have consulted the Detroit Clinic, and been told that your case is incurable. The reputation of this Clinic has been made by curing cases that were supposed to be incurable.

After examination, if your case is not curable, you will be so informed, and it costs you nothing.

> FACTS FOR SICK PEOPLE. MAY 11. 1901.

I was suffering from general paralysis as a result of diphtheria. I had treated with the best physicians of Tuscola Co., with no benefit; in fact I grew worse under their treatment. I was entirely incapacitated for work, when I consulted the Detroit Clinic at Vassar, on March 13th; two months' treatment has completedly cured me, and I am able to do my work. I advise any one suffering from chronic diseases to consult this clinic.

Default having been made in the payment of money due on and secured by a certain mortgage bearing date the 18th day of November, 1896, made and executed by Jessie L. Osborn to Lemnel C. Blair and recorded in the Register of Deeds Office for the County of Tuscola, Michigan, on the 24th day of November, 1896, in Liber 91 of Mortgages on page 254, which mortgage was duly assigned by Isaac B. Auten, administrator of the estate of Lemuel C. Blair, decassed, to Herbert Bowen, gaardian of Benjamin Blair and Zina Blair, mi Jors, by a written assignment bearing date the 5th day of February, 1900, and recorded on 11th day of April, 1900, in the Register of Deeds' Office aforesaid in Liber 97 of Mortgages on page 183, said mortgage was again duly assigned by a written assignment bearing date the 13th day of March, 1901, made and executed by the said Herbert Bowen, gnardian as aforesaid, to Isaac B. Auten. Said last assignment was on the 25th day of May, 1901, recorded in the Register of Deeds' Office aforesaid in Liber 94 of Mortgages on page 42, and upon said mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of one hundred forty-four and fity-two hundredths dollars (§144.52). Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by reason of said default, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the Saturated in the Thouse in the Village of Caro, (that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola is holden) on the 9th day of September, 1901, at one o'clock in the afternoon, the said mortgage dpremises being situated in the Township of Novesta, County of Tuscola and State of Michigan and are described in said mortgage substantially as follows, to-wit: The South half (½) of the North-east quarter (3) of the North-ea Mrs. Grant McConnell, of Cass City, Mich., had a large growth of a cancerous nature growing on the inside of the mouth. At a session of the Probate Court At a session of the Probate Court for the said County of Tuscola held at the Probate Office in the Village of Caro, on Tuesday the 21st day of May, A. D. 1901. Present, Hon. John M. Smith, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the application of the County Drain Commissioner of the County of Tuscola in said State. for the application of the County of Tuscola in said State. of Tuscola in said State, for the appointment of three disinterested Special Commissioners to determine the necessity for a drain known as the "Deer Lick Drain," and for the taking of private property for the use and benefit of the public for the purpose thereof, and the just compensa-tion to be made therefor.

Whereas, On the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1901, an application in writing was made to this Court by the said County Drain Commissioner, for the appoint ment of three disinterested Special Commissioners to determine the necessity for said Drain, and for the taking of private property for the use and benefit of the public for the pur-pose thereof, and the just compensation to be made therefor;

And Whereas, This Court did on the 10th day of May A. D. 1901, upon a due examination of such application and of all the proceedings theretofore taken in the premises, find and declare the same to be in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided, and did thereupon by an order entered therein, appoint Thursday the 20th day of June A. D. 1901, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, as the time, and the office of the Judge of Probate in the Village of Caro in said County, as the place when and where a hearing upon such application would be had, and did then and there order that all persons whose lands were to be traversed by such proposed Drain, and who had not released right of way and all damages on account thereof, to appear at the time and place designated and to be heard with respect to such application, if they so desire, and to show cause, if any there be, why said application should not be granted:

And Whereas, There is now on file with this Court a description and survey of such proposed Drain, from which said description and survey it appears that the land to be traversed by such Drain, and that the commencement, general course and terminus of such Drain are as follows, to wit:

Too Much Latitude.

With a bright smile the beautiful Eskimo girl left us to join the merry throng in the ballroom.

"Your daughter is a gay butterfly!" I exclaimed, desiring to be very complimentary.

"For my part, I don't think much of this social life," replied the mother, with sudden vehemence. "The idea of dancing every night till away along in March and then lying in bed next day until Aug. 1 or such a matter!"

It was on my tongue to say that these young people had too much latitude, but I checked myself .- Detroit Journal.

THE HOME GOLD CURE.

An Ingenious Treatment by which Drunkards are Being Cured Daily in Spite Argyle, Mich. are Being Cured Daily in Spite of Themselves.

No Noxious Doses, No Weakening of the Nerves. A Pleasant and Positive Cure

It is now generally known and understood that Drunkenness is a disease and not weakness. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by periodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an antidote capable of neutralizing and Furniture and Undertaking, eradicating this poison, and destroy-Argyle, Mich.

ng the craving for intoxicants. Sufferers may now cure themselves at nome without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful 'HOME GOLD CURE' which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of inebri-ates. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker: Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of Drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

WIVES CURE YOUR HUSBANDS!!

CHILDREN CURE YOUR FATHERS!

This remedy is in no sense a nostrum but is a specific for this disease only, and is so skillfully devised and prepared that it is thoroughly soluble and pleasant to the taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of Drunkards have cured themselves with this priceless remedy, and as many more have been cured and made temperate men by having the "CURE" administered by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee or tea, and believe today that they discontinued drinking of their own free will. DO NOT WAIT. Do not be deluded by apparent and misleading "improvement." Drive out the dis ease at once and for all time. The "HOME GOLD CURE" is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, thus placing within reach of everybody a treatment more effectual than others costing $25 to $50. Full directions accompany each package. Special advice by skilled physicians when requested, without extra charge. Sent prepaid to any part of the world on receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. Not So Many Desertions. A Washington special to the Indianapolis News says that in one of the bureaus of the War Department may be seen a record of the desertions from the army, carefully prepared, for a great many years. It is made up by months. Perhaps its most astonishing feature is the evidence it affords that in the spring the soldier's fancies turn to thoughts of private life, for in March, April and May desertions are at their hight. Very few men desert in November or December, and the summer as a whole is much more favorable to desertions than the winter. Correspondingly, it is always easier to secure enlistments in the autumn months. Of course this is explained by the condition of the labor market, particularly among agricultural laborers who are, after all, the great body of American workingmen. Restraint is much more oppressive in summer than in winter, and the companionship of the post less enticing. "Desertions in the army now are nothing to what they used to be," said a War Department official. "Before the civil war I knew one regiment from which 680 men went out in a single month. That is what you would call going out on strike, instead of desertion, and in those days the punishments were much more severe than now. Every one of those men was liable to have his head shaved and to came to an "arms port." have fifty lashes on the bare back. Only a small part of those who desert are ever recovered. Escape is comparatively easy. Many repent of their folly and reattach themselves to the service, and so our figures as to 'joined from desertion' are considerably in excess of the figures of those who are captured. Desertions in the Philip-ments of outside life are perhaps less. Our desertions now amount to not more than from 1 to 2 per cent of the force, while in 1872 it was as high in Alsace, after the Franco-Prussian war, he came to America and enlisted in the army. One night at a far northwestern garrison he was walking post as a sentinel upon a frail temporary bridge thrown across a stream that was being undermined by a storm. The timbers were creaking under his feet and the water was beginning to creep over the planking, when the officer of the day appeared at the end of the bridge. He saw the sentinel and his peril.

"Come off that bridge, No. 5," he yelled above the storm. Haarscher walked calmly off the bridge and

How Letitia Kept Decoration Day

Letitia came down the nath and into the room with a joyful little hop, skip and jump. The room was small and dark, and a pile of black cloth on the table seemed to make it darker. Letitia stood still for a moment until her eyes became accustomed to the gloom but her tongue did not have to wait.

"Cousin 'Liza?" she began. She knew by long experience when it was wise to do so. At last she drew a long sigh of relief; there was very little margin left, but Cousin 'Liza had "got it all out" without piecing.

> "Now, Cousin 'Liza," she said, happily.

"Well, what is it, child?" answered Cousin 'Liza, carrying her work to the window and beginning to baste up the seams.

Letitia drew a little stool to the window opposite her cousin. The light the council of administration of the fell full on her happy face and shining

I am so glad we have Miss Carrie this year; she thinks of the nicest things!"

Cousin 'Liza shut her lips tightly. She dared not look at the radiant little face opposite her.

"I don't approve of it at all." she said stiffly. "I think Carrie Adams has welcomed the visitors to the city, and too many new-fangled notions. 'Taint proper to my mind." All the happy light faded out of Letitia's face, but she did not say one word. Cousin 'Liza looked at the child, battling so silently and so braveliam E. Hill, commander of the Illi- ly with her disappointment, and her voice grew sharp with the pain of it.

"I never did see why men should get Commander-in-chief | all the honor," she said. "I guess the women had just as hard fights at home, and nobody ever thought of honoring them!'

> Letitia looked up wonderingly. 'Why, Cousin 'Liza, did they?" she exclaimed.

"You jest ask Bathsheha Briggs and Nancy Anderson; I guess they'll tell you.'

Letitia sat on her stool thinking very seriously. Just outside the window was a lilac bush, covered with cones of purplish buds; as it swayed in the wind, its leaves make a flickering tangle of sunlight and shadow at Letitia's feet. Suddenly her face bright-

'Cousin 'Liza," she said, "if I can't go with the others to decoration, can I go over and see Miss Page and old Mrs. Price and ask them about war times? They ain't men, you know," she added, seriously.

Cousin 'Liza looked uncomprehendthat he had enlisted was without his ingly at her for a second—she had alknowledge put on guard duty that ready forgotten her own excuse; then night. When the captain went around a grim smile touched her lips. "Well,

"Oh, thank you so much, you dear Cousin 'Liza!" cried Letitia, kissing her enthusiastically. "I'm going upstairs now; I'll be sure to be back time enough to pick up the pieces and set the table."

After she had gone Cousin 'Liza's work dropped into her lap and her forehead roughened as if with pain.

"There's no use fussing," she said. 'I dunno how we're going to get through, anyway; and I can't get the child a white dress. And she shan't go without it! I ain't going to have people say I can't support her! She's got to give it up, that's all." She bent over the coat again, but there was some trouble with her eyes. Once or twice she rubbed them impatiently; nobody guessed what she suffered in refusing Letitia "things like other girls."

When Letitia came back she was as bright as if she did not know what disappointment was. She got down on the floor and carefully picked up all the ravelings and pieces, her tongue going merrily all the while. At supper she glanced out of the window to the ·lilac bush. "When do you suppose it will bloom?" she asked. "I guess likely by next week," answered Cousin 'Liza. Letitia smiled contentedly, but said no more. The next morning she started for school as usual, stopping at the gate to wave good-by to Cousin 'Liza. As Letitia turned from the gate this morning her face grew sober; but she walked steadily on. A group of girls were standing in the school yard, and they called her eagerly.

"Letitia, what color ribbons are you going to wear?"

"Oh, Letitia, my mother says I can have a new dress!"

"Letitia, let me march with you?" "No, I want to. I said so first!" Letitia looked soberly around the voice.

"I guess it won't make any difference-about the marching, I mean. can't go."

The girls looked at her in amazement.

"Letitia Banks, what do you mean?" "Why, Letitia, you've got to! We can't get along without you; you're our best singer!"

"Won't your cousin let you? Well, think she's just the stinglest"-Letitia turned quickly. Her usually gentle face was flushed with anger.

"I don't know what you mean, Lucilla Andrews! I guess my cousin's just the nicest cousin in the world! I thought you were my friend." She broke off and walked away to the end of the play-ground. Just then Lucilla ran after her penitently.

"Don't get mad, Letitia! I'm real sorry-I truly am. It was just because I was so dreadfully disappointed."

"So was I," answered Letitia, still soberly. "I didn't mean to get mad. I guess I feel crooked some way today," she added, slowly. The bell rang then, and they had to a serious face, for Miss Carrie was to tell, more about the Decoration Day you?" plans; she wished that she could study during the talk, and she began thinking over the products of South America, yet drifting between them came the teacher's words. Miss Carrie was telling about a committee to investigate records, and see that all the graves and all the old soldiers were honored. Suddenly a thought came to Letitia, and she forgot all about the products of South America, and almost spoke out loud. "Why, how funny. I'll have to be a committee all by myself," she said.

For the next week Letitia was very busy. Cousin 'Liza let her have nearly all her afternoons for play, and Letitia spent them in making visits or in working up in her room. Cousin 'Liza asked no questions; she was contented to see the child happy.

One night at supper Letitia looked up suddenly. She was just lifting her glass of water, and she put it down and stared at Cousin 'Liza with eyes shining with a new thought.

"Why, Cousin 'Liza!" she exclaimed. "Well, what?" "Were you alive in the war?" "Of course, child! What put that in your head?" "Oh, nothing," answered Letitia, with a happy little laugh; "only—it's so queer I never thought of it before! guess those lilacs will be lovely next week. You don't care if I carry some to old Mrs. Price when I go next Thursday, do you?" "Land no, child. You can have the whole bush if you want it; I don't care.'

Letitia opened her mouth to say something; then she changed her mind and only smiled happily across the purple top of the lilac bush.

Decoration Day was warm and bright, and as soon as the dishes were washed Letitia went out in the yard to get her lilacs. She cut very carefully, leaving some still on the bush. Cousin 'Liza was busy in the kitchen. Letitia ran hurriedly up-stairs and came down with something that she put on the sitting-room table; then she picked up her lilacs and appeared once more at ened; she went over to Cousin 'Liza | the kitchen door, her bright face shining over her fragrant burden.

"I'm going now, Cousin 'Liza," she said. "I'll be sure to be back in time for dinner."

"You needn't hurry . It's going to be pretty warm today. It won't hurt if dinner is a little late for once."

"Oh, I'm so glad!" said Letitia; "not about the hurrying, you know; but be- | Phebe Rice behind them!" cause I'll have more time for calls. I guess it's going to be a nice Decoration Day, Cousin 'Liza."

She nodded brightly, and then went happily down the road. Cousin 'Liza finished her work, and then went into the table. There lay a piece of paper on which were fastened two tiny flags tied together with a bit of red ribbon and surrounded by a wreath of ivy hands with her guests; the unwontedleaves; under it was a note, in careful, childish writing:

"Dear Dear Cousin 'Liza:-I give you this because it's Decoration Day, and because you lived in war time and know all about it and because you've been so good-so good to me. I hope you'll like the flags and the wreath. I thought maybe they would last better than just flowers. I wish I could have made it look better, but somehow the leaves would twist a little crooked, but you won't mind it so very much, will you? Good-by, dear Cousin 'Liza, from Letitia."

The woman stood looking at the awkward little wreath. Then she covered her face with her hard, worn hands that had labored so faithfully, but so proudly and resentfully, through the hard years since the "war time." Because she could not give Letitia the best and finest, she was trying to keep her from everything-to make her proud and cold and bitter like herself; but now-she lifted the paper gently, almost reverently, and laid it in the upper drawer of the old secretary; then she took it out again and pinned it to the wall. "Letitia 'll like it better so," she said. "She wouldn't understand the other. And I guess I'll make some rasin cake, she allus did like that best of everything." Letitia went down the road with her load of nodding lilac plumes. Once or twice she met some of the schoolgirls who called out to her; but she did not mind-or at least not much. Was she not keeping her own Decoration Day?

She went first to old Mrs. Price's. growing very feeble; but her eyes were the sound of fresh, girlish voices float-welcomed Letitia warmly. Letitia sat down and looked at her shyly; she had thought it would be easy, but found it hard to begin. Presently Mrs. Price helped her. "Those are real pretty laylocks," she said. "Yes'm." answered Letitia; "would you like some? I brought some for you if you would. You see it's Decoration Day, and they're going to decorate the graves of the soldiers; but Cousin 'Liza said she didn't think it was fair only to decorate the men when the women did so much too; so I brought you these, and then I'm going to four others."

Mrs. Price took the flowers in her old knotted hand. "If that isn't for all the world like you, Letitia Banks! You allus did have sech queer notions! But I'm real obleeged for the laylocks, I'm sure."

Her eyes grew dim and seemed to be looking far away. Letitia stood still and waited. Finally she put her soft, warm hand over the old wrinkled one. "I guess I've got to go now," she said. "I'm going way up to Miss Anderson's, you know. Thank you so much for all go in. Letitia took her seat, still with the stories you've told me. I guess you're glad you were so brave, ain't

"Look here, Letitia Banks," she said. "I jest want to tell you one thing. People can be jest as brave right along every day as they were in war times. Now be sure you don't ever forget

"No'm, I won't," answered Letitia seriously. "I guess that's the way my cousin 'Liza is, isn't she?"

The old woman dropped her hand and gave her a little push. "You'd better be going, child-it's gettin' hot.' she said. She could not tell her that she and 'Liza Perkins had quarreled in those war times and never spoken since

"The wreath is real pretty," she said, awkwardly. "I pinned it on the wall," "Did you like it?" asked Letitia, her weary little face all smiles. "Oh, Cousin 'Liza, I'm so glad!" After dinner she began wiping the dishes, but Cousin 'Liza made her lie down; she had not thought that she was tired, but in a very few minutes she was fast asleep.

Several hours later she was wakened by the sound of voices. The room was cool and shady and full of fragrance from the lilacs outside the windows; and in the dim, sweet gloom Letitia saw Cousin 'Liza and old Mrs. Price, both with faces strangely moved.

"Why, Mrs. Price!" she exclaimed, sitting up in surprise.

The old woman turned. "I thought I'd come over-seein' its Decoration Day and I don't get out very often," "Sam didn't happen to be strong tan. she said. using the horses. I brought you some preserved ginger, Letitia."

"Oh, thank you, Mrs. Price!" said Letitia. "I think your ginger is just the nicest I ever tasted." Mrs. Price peered through the lilac Cousin 'Liza rose in a flurry; it had been years since she had had so many visitors, but Letitia was already at the gate welcoming them. She came back radiant with the four old ladies behing her. "Its a real surprise party," the sitting-room, but stopped short at she cried; "and I always wanted a surprise party!" "Well, I guess you've got one now," said Cousin 'Liza. She was shaking ness of company made her nervous, but the welcome in her face supplemented her awkward words: In a moment she beckoned Letitia aside. "We might get supper while they're here,' she said. "I guess there'll be enough. I baked a rasin cake this morning.'

"Letitia," called Miss Nancy, "wait a moment. I brought you some of my doughnuts. I had real good luck with them today."

"And I made some sugar cookies," said Mrs. Briggs. "I thought mebbe you'd like a few, Letitia." "And we brought you some of our blackberry jell," chimed in the Misses Rice. Then they all looked at each other and began to laugh, while Letitia, with a plate of cookies in one hand and a bag of doughnuts in the other, gazed in happy bewilderment at the jar of blackberry jelly. "It don't look jest like war times. does it?" said Mrs. Briggs. "I mind when we thought cookies was a wonderful treat." "And when we sent all our jell to the soldiers," added Miss Rice.

"Oh!" breathed Letitia, softly. She ran in and out, helping Cousin 'Liza get the supper. The old ladies talked eagerly together; it was years since they had all met before.

Presently Letitia called them to supper. They filed out to the diningroom and seated themselves with little. fine, company airs, as befitting the rare delight of the occasion. Letitia, at the head of the table, could scarcely eat Mrs. Price was over seventy and at all. Once, through the open window group and a little quiver choked her still bright and her senses sharp. She sed in to her and she caught the flutter of white dresses; they were coming back from the "Decoration." Letitia looked around at her surprise party with shining eyes. "Oh, I'm so glad they weren't left out!" she thought.

Down by the river the quiet graves of the dead heroes were drifted deep with flowers. Outside Cousin 'Liza's window the lilacs nodded and swayed, their shadows, like faint memories, touching lightly the old faces of these unnoted patriots, who had given of their best and dearest in the war time so long ago.-Mabel N. Tanning Skunk Skins.

The principal thing in successful tanning is to remove all grease and flesh from the hide, and to rub well while drying, as this is the only way to make the pelts soft, says Animal World. This cleaning process is called "fleshing," after which the skin should be washed in strong suds to remove all grease from the fur, after which they should be well rubbed in hardwood sawdust, which takes out all remaining grease. After tanning, dry in the shade, and without the heat of fire or sun. To whip them with a rattan after thoroughly drying brings out additional life and gloss to the fur. It pays to take the greatest possible pains as first-class skins are not only in demand, but bring sufficiently higher price to pay for the labor.

All hides must be fleshed off, and if dry must soak in soft water until perfectly soft before tanning.

Fleshing beam can be made from an outside slab from any log, with two legs on one end, so it will set up the right height. The fleshing knife can be made of an old piece of scythe. or a straight knife, with edge turned a little, and a handle at each end. After fleshing well, place the skins in the process given below and let them soak two hours; then pull them each way a few minutes, and let them hang over the tub and drain for two hours, and repeat until tanned, which will be about twenty-four hours for small with her flowers. It would have taken hides. When tanned, wash them in warm soft water with a little salaratus and soft soap; then pull and rub them well while drying, to keep them soft.

The tanning liquor is made by adding to two quarts sour buttermilk two quarts tepid soft water; add twelve oz. salt, half oz. boraz, one oz. saltpetre; then srowly add, with agitation, four oz. sulphuric acid, and see that the chemicals are thoroughly dissolved. add, with agitation, four oz. sulphuric

Velvet Chaff between which it grew. The treatment of the crop is as nearly uniform for all the varieties as possible. The land was selected in the first place for its apparent uniformity; a tile drain is laid at one side of every plot: the plowing is done across the plots; all are manured alike with barnyard manure, distributed by a manure spreader, which also is driven across the plots, thus giving no opportunity for differences in time of plowing or manner of manuring to effect the yield, and the greatest possible care is taken in seeding, harvesting and threshing.

Below are the general results of this test for the seven years, 1893 to 1899. inclusive. The following sorts have exceeded the Velvet Chaff in yield: Poole and Mealy by an average of more than four bushels per acre each; Red Russian by nearly four bushels; Nigger, Early Ripe, Currell's Prolific, Gypsy and Egyptian by two to three bushels; Mediterranean, New Monarch and Democrat by one to two bushels, and Bearded Monarch, Valley, Deitz, Lebanon and Hickman by less than one bushel each. Of the sorts which have fallen be-

AS THE WORLD REVOLVES

The Climax of National Credit. A few years ago the credit of the United States was good, but not remarkable. Some European financiers professed to doubt it. Even at home there were people who said that they were uncertain. We were borrowing money nominally at four and five per cent, and actually at between three and four per cent. When somebody suggested at that time that United States bonds were really as good as British consols, an English paper resented the suggestion as an "insult." Today the verdict of the market is that the credit of the United States is not only good, but the best in the world, and not only the best, but so incomparably the pest that, as in the first American Cup race, there is no second. Great Britain has not only lost first place in the credit column, but has yielded second place to France, third to Russia and fourth to Germany: The Spanish war fought by us for humanity gave us credit in all civilized countries: Britain's warfare against the Boers in South Africa has brought proud Albion to the brink of

After a short interval he came back to her side again, and went on with a forced cheerfulness that in nowise deceived her.

"However," he said, "of course this state of affairs will not last forever. Time, they say, cures all things. does she never come to me?' Poor Lady Caroline was greatly perplexed: she knew not what to do. Had things been different she would have followed the dictates of her own kind heart and sent for Mildred on the spot; but, as it was, she remembered former scenes and Lyndon's recent sad departure and did not care to take the responsibility on herself of bringing her daughter and Denzil together. "Mildred, Mildred!" called the sick man, impatiently; and then the little ray of reason that had come to him in connection with her face vanished, and he wandered off once more into the terrible feverland, bearing with him the name of her he loved. For two hours he lay thus, calling, sometimes wildly, sometimes feebly, but always for her, until his loving nurse's heart was smitten to the core. At length came Stubber, the family doctor, and, seeing Denzil in this state, he regarded him silently for several minutes. "Lady Caroline," said he, with decision, "Miss Trevanion must be sent for, be it right or wrong."

He had even made an effort to hold her with the poor injured fingers, and had brought them so far that the tips touched hers.

He was cuite sane now. His face, slightly flushed, was looking upward: his eyes, glad and happy, were fixed on hers, while she answered back the gaze, forgetful of all else but that he lay before her sick, it might be, unto death

"Denzil, you are exciting yourself," said Lady Caroline, nervously. "No, I am not," answered Denzil, his voice clear and distinct, but without removing his eyes from Mildred's; 'leave me for a moment."

He waved them back impatiently to the window, and neither Lady Caroline nor the doctor could bring themselves to disobey the command.

But Stubber, who was becoming seriously uneasy about his patient, glancing round at him cautiously and surreptitiously, saw what followed. He said that when he and Lady Caroline had again withdrawn. Denzil looked at Miss Trevanion, and that then Miss Trevanion stooped and kissed him, not once, but twice.

This was what Stubber said, but he also added that it was his firm belief that she did it out of pure humanity and nothing more. When two minutes later, he again approached Younge, he found that Mildred had disappeared, and that Denzil was lying perfectly composed, his face turned toward the half-open door. He sighed heavily but contentedly, and then came back to the realities of life.

"Doctor Stubber," said he, "do you know that I am better?" "Time will tell," answered the little doctor, sententiously; "and now you this evening."

Denzil laughed quite rationally, and few minutes, fell into a sound, refresh-

Eros Is That Far from Us Most of the Late last December the asteroid Eros, which was discovered about three years ago, came within 30,000,-000 miles of the earth. This is not the nearest it gets to us, for at one point in its orbit it is, or would be if the earth was in the corresponding position in its orbit, within about 13,000,-000 miles, but unfortunately this only occurs once in about forty-five years. in December to take innumerable phovicinity in connection with the sun from all points possible, with the object of using them as a basis for the computation of the sun's distance from the earth, which, though known approximately, has never been determined with precision. Children's Friendships. From about the fifth or sixth year children are apt to make firm friendships with their small contemporaries. This should be a watchful period for mothers, for these early friendships have a marked influence on the mind, morals and manners of a child. Nearly every character is moulded very largely by early companionship and surroundings. Every mother should take care to be her children's companion as far as possible, for she may be quite sure that if they are left to the care of servants they will at the best only attain the ideal manners and customs of the nursery or servants' hall, which are not quite those of the cultured classes, says the Evening Star. Children require the companionship of little folks their own age, and a mother should be so much her children's friend and she knows all their associates and is able to nip in the bud any acquaintance which she thinks undesirable. The mother who, to save herself fatigue, lets her children seek companions among their schoolmates and neighspring are corrupted.

Dickens' Love Letters. Charles Dickens' love letters exist-a boxful of them. So states a writer in a London weekly: "I had the pleasure of knowing Mrs. Dickens and had the privilege of receiving her at my house A. Clark at Alma, Mrs. Mary Shanks in my earliest London days. It appeared to Dr. Kaintsky that gangrene was threatened. As nearly as the surgeon could estimate he had just three days before an operation became absolutely imperative. He had already determined upon the heroic operation of removing the injured part of the femoral artery and replacing it with an artificial substitute. Dr. Kaintsky wanted to make Consequently the astronomers took a tube six inches long which so closely advantage of the conditions prevailing resemble the actual tissue of a human artery that it would be borne without tographs of it and a few stars in its protest by the organism in which it was to be placed. All eyes watched Dr. Kaintsky as he himself placed clamps upon the big artery. The artery clamp having been fixed, Dr. Kaintsky cut away about four inches of the artery. From the pocket in front of his operating gown Dr. Kaintsky drew a silver aseptic case. This he opened and from it drew a small, hollow, elastic, almost colorless tube about five inches long. Almost imediately Dr. Kaintsky began to place the artificial artery in position. He drew it between his fingers so as to expel all air and placed a pair of artery forceps upon one end. Then he slipped one end of the artery into the tube and stitched it into place. Quickly the same procedure was carried on at the other end, and then Dr. Kaintsky removed the clamp which was holding back the blood from the mended artery. The blood rushed through its new channel, pumping out the collapsed tube, and it was actually difficult to tell the artificial artery from the real one. At the same instant, too, a good healthy pulsation could be felt in the patient's ankle .-Philadelphia Times.

Women as City Treasurers. An interesting fact brought out by the recent elections in Colorado is the marked tendency of Colorado men to elect women as city treasurers. Mrs. Margaret Robins was unanimously chosen city teasurer of Idaho Springs. At Aspen Mrs. E. A. Kenney was reelected to the same office by a large majority. Mrs. Jennie Gale was elected city treasurer at New Castle, Mrs. Emma C. Palmer in Greely, Mrs. Clara itou.-Chicago Chronicle.

A new firearm is being introduced into the German army. It is of rather a complicated design, but it is claimed to be a perfect weapon regarding its firing capabilities. The barrel has been made more substantial than that of the Mauser, while the soldier's magazine is protected from the heat of rapid firing. The magazine is loaded from a charger, instead of the clip, the advantage of which innovation is that it can be loaded with great rapidity either from the right or left.
