Kazoo fans are all praises for Stanley Graham's wonderful work as a base ball player and his Cass City friends will read with pleasure the following paragraph clipped from the Kalamazoo Evening Telegraph which tells of his success as a player on that team:

Right at this minute Stanley Gra-ham looks like the most likely prospect in the league. His work for the past month being wonderful. During May, June and July he graced the bench a good portion of the time, but since has been allowed to play regu-larly and has delivered the goods. He is a game backstop, a fine thrower to bases and a grand sticker and has every earmark of a coming great player player.

Mrs. Albert Everett hanged herself from an apple tree in the orchard at the home of her brother-in-law, Joel Everett, two miles west of Lapeer on Saturday morning. She was discovered by Will Alwood, the hired man, who cut her down. She gave two gasps in his arms and then died. The leather belt which she had worn was used for a rope.

Mrs. Everett came there from Arkansas about two months ago with her husband for a visit. Mr. Everett left Friday for the upper part of the state on business and after his departure Mrs. Everett acted strangely. She endeavored to jump from a carriage while riding Friday; although Saturday morning she acted naturally when she arose. Hawaiian Pronunciation. The letter "a" in Hawaiian is always given the Roman sound, as in "ah," while "i" always has the sound of "e." "Hawaii" is pronounced therefore nearly "Hah-wy-ee," with the accent on the middle syllable, or "Hahvy-ee," some authorities holding that "w" should always take the sound of "v." The letter "o" always has the sound as in the word "no," and the pronunciation of the name of the capital city of the territory is "Ho-no-lu-lu" and not "Hon-o-lu-lu," as generally spoken by the Anglo-Saxon.

else "Well?"

"Excuse me for mentionin' it, but I didn't know-it ain't generally known, yeh know, 'nd one uh th' boys might ve heard me speak tuh yer lady by name 'nd might pass it on to a re-porter. What I mean's this," hastily, as the Maitland temper showed dangerous indications of going into active eruption: "I s'pose veh don't want me tuh mention 't yeh're married, jes' yet? Mrs. Maitland here," with a nod to her, "didn't seem tuh take kindly tuh the notion of it's bein' known-"

"Hickey!"

"Ah, excuse me!" "Drive on, cabby—instantly! Do vou hear?" Hickey backed suddenly away and the cab sprang into motion; while Maitland with a face of fire sat back and raged and wondered.

Across Broadway toward Fourth avenue dashed the hansom; and from the curb-line Hickey watched it with a humorous light in his dull eyes. Indeed, the detective seemed in extraordinary conceit with himself. He chewed with unaccustomed emotion upon his cold cigar, scratched his cheek, and chuckled; and, chuckling, pulled his hat well down over brows, thrust both hands into his trousers pockets, and shambled back to the St. Luke building-his heavy body vibrating amazingly with his secret mirth.

And so, shuffling sluggishly, he merges into the shadows, into the mob that surges about the building, and passes from these pages.

In the clattering hansom, steadying herself with a hand against the win dow-frame, to keep from being thrown against the speechless man beside her, the girl waited. And since Mait land in confusion at the moment found no words, from this eloquent silence she drew an inference unjustified, such as lovers are prone to draw, the world over, one that lent a pathetic color to her thoughts, and chilled a little her mood. She had been too sure.

But better to have it over with at once, rather than permit it to remain forever a wall of constraint between them. He must not be permitted to think that she would dream of taking him upon his generous word.

"It was very kind of you," she said in a steady small voice, "to pretend that we-what you did pretend, in order to save me from being held as a witness. At least, I presume that is why you did it?"-with a note of uncertainty.

"It is unnecessary that you should be drawn into the affair," he replied, with some resumption of his self-possession. "It isn't as if you were-"A thief?" she supplied, as he hesi-tated. "A thief," he assented, gravely. "But I-I am," with a break in her voice. "But you are not," he asserted almost fiercely. And, "Dear," he said, boldly, "don't you suppose I know?" "---what do you know?"

"That you brought back the jewels, for one minor thing. I found them almost as soon as you had left. And then I knew-knew that you cared enough to get them from this fellow Anisty and bring them back to me, knew that I cared enough to search | tunnel beneath the street a trolley car the world from end to end until I rumbled and whined and clanked lonefound you, that you might wear them somely. A stray cat wandered out of lip cruelly to steady a voice quivering with restrained sobs. "Please, please go at once, and—and see for yourself!' she implored him passionately Of a sudden he found himself resolved. Indeed, he fancied that it were dangerous to capose her; she was overwrought, on the verge of losing her command of self. She wished this thing, and though with all his soul he hated it, he would do as she desired.

"Very well," he assented quietly. 'Shall I stop the cab now?" "Please."

He tapped on the roof of the hanom and told the cabby to draw in at the next corner. Thus he was put down not far from his home-below the Thirty-third street grade.

Neither spoke as he alighted, and she believed that he was leaving her in displeasure and abhorrence; but he had only stepped behind the cab for a moment to speak to the driver. In a moment he was back, standing by the step with one hand on the apron and staring in very earnestly and soberly at the shadowed sweetness of her pallid face, that gleamed in the gloom there like some pale, shy, sad flower.

Could there be evil combined with such sheer loveliness, with features that in every line bodied forth the purity of the spirit that abode within? In the soul of him he could not believe that a thief's nature fed canker-like at the heart of a woman so divinely, naively dear and desirable. And-he would not.

"Won't you let me go?"

"Just a minute. I-I should like to -If I find that you have done nothing so very dreadful," he laughed uneasily, "do you wish to know?" "You know I do." She could not help saying that, letting him see that far into her heart.

"You spoke of my calling, I believe. That means to-morrow afternoon, at the earliest. May I not call you up on the telephone?"

"The number is in the book," she said in a tremulous voice. "And your name in the card-case?"

"Yes." "And if I should call in half an hour-?" "O, I shall not sleep until I know!

Good night!" "Good night! Drive on, cabby."

He stood, smiling queerly, until the hansom, climbing the Park Avenue hill, vanished over its shoulder. Then swung about and with an eager step retraced his way to his rooms, very confident that God was in his heaven and all well with the world. 111. The cab stopped. The girl rose and descended to the walk. The driver touched his hat and reined the horse away. "Good night, ma'am," he bade her, cheerfully. And she told him

"Good night" in her turn. For a moment she seemed a bit hesitant and fearful, left thus alone. The house in front of which she stood, like its neighbors, reared a high facade to the tender, star-lit sky, its windows, with drawn shades and no lights, wearing a singular look of blind patience. It had a high stoop and a sunken area. There was a dull glow in one of the basement windows. It was very late-or extremely early.

The moon was down, though its place was in some way filled by the golden disk of the clock in the Grand Central station's tower. The air was impregnated with the sweet and fragrant breath of the new-born day. In the the night. The library door shut without a sound; for the first time she breathed freely. Then, pressing the button on the wall, she switched on the light in the drop-lamp on the center table. The telephone stood beside it.

She drew up a chair and sat down near the instrument, ready to lift the receiver off its hook the instant the bell began to sound; and waited, the soft light burning in the loosened tresses of her hair, enhancing the soft color that pulsed in her cheeks, fading before the joy that lived in her eyes when she hoped.

For she dared hope-at times; and at times could not but fear. So greatly had she dared, who greatly loved, so heavy upon her untarnished heart was the burden of the sin that she had put upon it, because she loved. Perhaps he would not call; perhaps the world was to turn cold and be forever gray to her eyes. He was even then deciding; at that very moment her happiness hung in the scales of his mercy. If he could forgive.

There was a click. And her face flamed scarlet, as hastily she lifted the receiver to her ear. The armature buzzed sharply. Then central's voice cut the stillness.

"Hello! Nine-o-five-one?" "Yes."

"Wait a minute."

She waited, breathless, in a quiver. The silence sang upon the wire, the silence of the night through which he was groping toward her.

"Hello! Is this nine-o-"

"Yes, yes!'

"Is this the residence of Alexander C. Graeme?" "Yes." The syllable almost choked her.

"Is this Miss Graeme at the 'phone?" "It is."

"Miss Sylvia Graeme?" "Yes."

"This is Daniel Maitland-Sylvia!" "As if I did not know your voice!" she cried, involuntarily.

There followed a little pause; and in her throat the pulses tightened and drummed. "I have opened the bag, Sylvia-"

"Please go on." "And I've sounded the depths of

Some ManSome Day

It is the Only Medicine which Enables You to Keep a Perfect Balance Between the Eliminations and Renewals of the Body.

Decay of the Body in Old age is Unnatural.

Permanent wastes of the system can be avoided by taking) SAN-JAK, making each day a birthday for the person who has a bottle of this great medicine on hand. Read and learn how to cure Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lame Back and Stomach Diseases.

When the products of exhaustion reach the brain and deaden the nerve centers, as in the case with all old people, limiting their ability to think and act unless they have the power to exidize the acids that accumulate during sleep and eliminate them, they had better get a bottle of Dr. Burnham's SAN-JAK. I am 80 years old and have kept a bottle of this medi-cine in my house during the past year and,take a dose quite often so I know it helps to give strength and activity. D. O. Kelley, 311 Wash-tenaw St., Lansing.

Mrs. I. M. Brown, mistress of the Butler Honse, Lansing, Mich., says; One year ago I was in very poor health sick and weak from that much dreaded disease, kidney trouble, cal-led "Bright's disease" by physicians. I have taken about one dozen bottles of San-Jak and have no symptions of old trouble to annoy me. I have this letter for the benefit it may be to others.

Owosso, Mich., May 20, 20 Dr. Burnham; Your inquiry as to my health, in reply I have taken 8 bottles of your San-Jak and can cheer-fully recommend it as the best medicine I ever found and the only one that curci me of Diabe-tes. I am doing harder work than I ever did and I am perfectly well. Yours respectfully, F. B. HOLMAN.

J. F. Roe, 41 E. Main St. Battle Creek, says: I wish to state that your San-Jak cured me of Bright's Discase after the local doctors said I could not live.

E. S. Hough, ex-judge of probate of Lapeer county, says: "I bought a bottle of San-Jak from P. P. Snowman, the druggist of Lapeer. I felt I was 100 years old, with great distress of the stomach and a drowsy, sleepy feeling, which the medicine has corrected. I cheerfully per-mit the use of this letter for the benefit of others."

Lapeer, Mich., March 10, 1908. Mrs. T. H. Curtis, R. F. D. No. 2, Lapeer, says: "I wish to tell you how much good your San-Jak has done for me. I have had the rheu-matism and liver trouble 17 years. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen so I could not wear my shoes. I have taken one and one-half bottles of your remedy. The bloat has all gone down. The pain gradually left and the stiff joints are getting more limber. I think 3 or 4 bottles of your San-Jak will cure me complete-ly. Mere thanks in words is a feeble way of telling how grateful I feel for the benefits best-oved upon me by your medicine."

St. Johns, Mich., March 12, '08. Mrs. John Friz says: "I have been in very poor healthfor the past seven years and have since childhood been afflicted with sick head ache. I have taken 4 bottles of San-Sak and it has done me a wonderful good. I am now able to do light work and gaining in strength. I wish every lady in Michigan could have a bottle if she is weak and ailing for I believe it is the greatest medicine in the world from the fact that my case was hopeless and my physicians said I could not be helped by medicine."

She told him the address-a number on Park avenue, above Thirtyfourth street, below Forty-second. He repeated it mechanically, unaware that it would remain stamped forever on his memory, indelibly-the first personal detail that she had granted him; the first barrier down. He sat down. "You-you don't understand," she told him in a rush. "You give me credit beyond my due. I didn't break into your flat again, to-night, in order to return the jewels-at least, not for that alone.'

"But you did bring back the jewels?" She nodded.

"Then doesn't that prove what I claim, prove that you've cleared yourself-?

"No," she told him, firmly, with the firmness of despair; "it does not. Because I did not come for that only. I came with another purpose-to steal, as well as to make restitution. And I -I stole."

There was a moment's silence, on his part incredulous. "I don't know what you mean. What did you steal? Where is it?"

"I have lost it-" "Was it in your hand-bag?"

"You found that?"

"You dropped it in the trunk-closet. found it there. There is something of mine in it?"

Dumb with misery, she nodded; and after a little: "You didn't look, of course.'

"I had no right." he said, shortly, "Other men wo-would have thought they had the right. I th-think you had, the circumstances considered. At all events," steadying her voice, "I say you have, now. The young face turned to him was gravely and perilously sweet; very early he forgot all else. But that she would not have.

"Do this for me. What you will find will explain everthing. You will unlerstand. Perhaps"-timidly-"perhaps you may even find it in your heart to forgive when you understand. If you should, my card-case is in the

"I was afraid it mightn't be you, Miss Sylvia. I'm so glad you're back. There ain't—hasn't been a minute these past two nights that I haven't been in a fidget."

The girl laughed quietly and passed through the gateway (which was closed behind her) into the basement hall, where she lingered a brief moment.

"My father, Annie?" she inquired. "He ain't-hasn't stirred since you weine our, alles sylvia. He's sleepin'

"There will be no occasion, Annie," said the girl. "Thank you, and-good night."

A resigned sigh-"Good night, Miss Sylvia"-followed her up the stairs. She went very cautiously, careful to brush against no article of movable furniture in the halls, at pains to make no noise on the stairs. At the door of her father's room on the second floor she stopped and listened for a full moment; but he was sleeping as quietly, as soundly, as the servant had demean next month. clared. Then on, more hurriedly, up another flight, to her own room, where she turned on the electric bulb in panic haste. Clearing the Atmosphere.

In the capacity of dramatic critic, Mr. J. Comyns Carr, the author of "Some Eminent Victorians," wrote a notice of the play of "Charles I," in which Irving played under the management of Mr. Bateman. His production deeply iicensed the manager. In order, perhaps, to find the opportunity of informing the critic of his disapproval, the manager invited him to a supper at the Westminster club on the second or third night of the production.

When he thought the fitting moment had arrived, Mr. Bateman led the conversation to the point at issue, and, emphatically banging the table with his fist, declared in the loudest of tones that he did not produce his plays at the Lyceum theater to please Mr. Comyns Carr.

There was a moment's awkward silence, which Mr. Carr confesses he did not feel quite able to break, but which was released by a wit of the company with the happy retort:

"Well, dear boy, then you can't be surprised if they don't please him."-Youth's Companion

A MYSTERIOUS CASE THAT NOW BAFFLES THE DETROIT POLICE.

WHO AND WHERE IS SHE?

Mrs. Muriel Frazer, Name Woman Who Abandoned Her Babe, is Known By, And Who Is Missing.

Mrs. Muriel Fraser is the woman of mystery whom Detroit police are now eagerly seeking. She is the one person who can throw any light on the abandonment of her babe, Thursday, in the Library Park hotel, where he was found dead Friday.

Saturday the dead child was identified by physicians of the Halrad sanitarium, where he was born. But the identification served only to deepen the mystery, and now there is all sorts of speculation over the movements of the mother following the babe's advent into the world.

Who Mrs. Frazer sis, what reason she had for the apparently heartless abandonment of her innocent babe, what actuated her mysterious movements following her departure from the sanitarium, are questions that are puzzling the detectives working on Mrs. Frazer talked quite the case. freely with the matron of the sanitarium, and, judging from her conversation, she was a woman of the world, who had traveled much and knew what she was about. She told the matron she was on her way to New York city, which she said was the home of her husband and herself. She declared that they lived at the Hotel Navarre in New York.

She declared that her brother was the manager of the Nova Scotia bank in Montreal. Since June 1 she had been traveling, she declared. Her husband, she said, was in Chicago. She said he is connected with a big advertising firm and is an advertising agent for Budweiser beer. This would lend some color to her statement about having been in St. Louis, where Budweiser is brewed. There is every indication that Mrs. Frazer prepared for her flight. A she left the Griswold house, where she first registered and when she left her watch to secure her bill. On the night before her departure, Mrs. Frazer was up almost the entire night. She seemed to be engaged in writing letters. It is thought that she was then making preparations for her departure. She had told the matron that she left her husband in St. Louis some time ago and that it had been quite a

Here's a New Bear Story.

Making the rounds of his wolf traps n the Fence river district of Dickinson county, Rolland Ames, one of the best known of upper Michigan's hunters and woodsmen, discovered that a black bear had become caught in a trap and had made off with it. He followed the trail for 10 miles and was surprised to find that not only did it lead back to within a few rods of the starting point, but that the trap hung from the limb of a tree and the bear, dead with a broken back, lay beneath it. It is surmised that the bear sought safety in the tree and. becoming entangled in the trap chain, fell to the ground, the weight of the animal breaking the chain in such manner as to leave the trap suspended from the limb.

DOCTOR COOK IS ON THE WAY TO HIS HOME AND FAMILY, SO'S PEARY.

SAYS GOLD BRICK STORY.

Commander Peary Knocks Cook's Story of Reaching the Pole and Wants Clippings Saved.

The steamer Oscar II., with Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the American arctic explorer, on board, left Christian sand, Norway, at noon Saturday for New York. She is due to arrive Sept.

Municipal authorities boarded the yacht Melchior in the harbor and the burgomaster of Christiana delivered a speech of welcome. Dr. Cook then went aboard the Oscar II. Christiansand had been watching for the entrance of the Melchior

Every vessel in the harbor was gaily dressed with flags and sightseers were out in small boats. Seven guns were fired from the Melchior and answered by seven guns from the Christiansand fort. This es pecial honor was accorded Dr. Cook by order of King Haakon.

The ship's band played the "Star Spangled Banner" while Norwegian deputations paid homage to the explorer.

In thanking Dr. Cook, the American explorer, who found the Pole April 21, 1908, for returning to the United States "under the Danish flag" (he sailed for Christiansand aboard the Danish yacht Melchior to board a steamer), Admiral Dekoihelieu said: "Green-eyed envy and jealousy are do ing their envenomed work, but we in Denmark believe in you absolutely." Dr. Cook in return thanked the admiral for this sentiment.

Commander Peary has telegraphed to a clipping bureau from Indian Harbor as follows: "Clip all editorials, illustrations, cartoons and jokes on my work and hold till further instructions."

In another dispatch, he says:

"Roosevelt will remain here three or four days coaling and overhauling. Expect to arrive Sydney about Sept. 15. Do not trouble about Cook's story or attempt to explain any discrepancies in his statements. The affair will settle itself. He has not been at Pole April 21, 1908, or at any other time

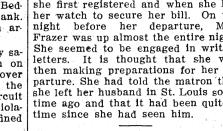

Has simply handed public gold brick." Peary has also cabled H. L. Bridg man, secretary of the Arctic club: "Have 100 walrus skins on board for club. You are logical candidate for polar commission." The significance of the last sentence is not known. Peary has advised the state department that he formally took possession of the entire North Pole region "for and in the name of the president of the United States of America." "Record and United States flag left in possession," he adds.

Dodging the issue of possession, Sec. Winthrop replied, congratulating Peary.

Reports are that the steamer Roosevelt, which took Peary north and is on the way back with him, when entering Battle Harbor struck a rock and will go to Assize Harbor for repairs, which may take ten or twelve days Cant Neilsen who hoarded the Roosevelt, to call on Peary, says that the ship was badly battered, and that jagged pieces of ice. He said that the oakum was dropping from her seams when she reached Battle Harbor, and that Peary engaged twenty men there to assist the crew in giving the ship a complete overhauling, cleaning and painting.

Wants Five Billions.

Arthur Hooker, secretary of the board of control of the National Irrigation congress, will present a resolution memoralizing congress to issue 3 per cent gold bonds, running 100 years, to the amount of $5,000,000,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary, for the following purposes:

One billion dollars for drainage of overflow and swamp lands, thus reclaiming an area equal to 100,000 square miles.

One billion dollars for the reclamation by irrigation of 40,000,000 acres of arid and semi-arid lands, now partly or wholly waste.

One billion dollars to construct and improve deep waterways, to develop thousands of miles of territory now without adequate transportation facil ities.

One billion dollars for good roads and national highways, for the lack of which the loss to the farm area of the United States is approximately $500,000,000 annually.

One billion dollars for forest protection, reforestation and conserva-tion of the forest resources, thus assuring timber and lumber supplies for centuries to come.

Former Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks, accompanied by Mrs. Fairbanks, left Shanghai Saturday for Manila by way of Nagasaki.

Col. Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal, who has arrived in Washington on leave of absence, says that four sections of the canal have been finished.

Uncle Joe Cannon, on his way home to Danville, Ill., stopped off long enough to say that he thought the Paine tariff "the best thing done by congress in 50 years.'

Fully 5,000 Irish Americans are expected to make pilgrimage to Ireland next year, according to Francis J. Kilkenny, of Washington, national president of the Home Going Pilgrims.

Great Britain will send the battleship Inflexible and three cruisers to New York to take part in the Hud-son-Fulton celebration. The British fleet will be in command of Admiral Sir Edward Hobart Seymour.

to chase him four miles across country before he was recaptured.

Charles Cole, 15, bought a pair of trousers at a Coldwater clothing store for $2.38. Later he exchanged them for another pair and that in turn for a third. Still dissatisfied, he asked his money back. For refusing to refund, Nelson Myers, the clerk, has been arrested on a warrant sworn out by the Cole boy's mother, who de clares she will push the case to the limit.

Because he refused on entering the high school to sign a pledge not to join any fraternal society, Wallace Hook, a young man of excellent character, faces suspension, but has re tained attorneys and will fight the rule of the school board. All pupils enrolling in the high school were required to sign the pledge and the court action will decide the right of the board to enforce the rule.

Henry Seymour, who was killed by train at Pippon, Ia., Wednesday, was a resident of Galesburg, and in 1886 was sent to Jackson prison for wrecking a Michigan Central train near Comstock. When his term was over in 1899, Seymour was ordered discharged from the prison, but refused to leave, declaring that he wished to spend the remainder of his life there, He was finally forcibly ejected from the institution.

The fight of the Civil war veterans for their pension money has begun, Judge Perkins having issued an injunction to restrain the officials of the Soldiers' home from withholding any of the pension money of the veterans. Commandant Wright had announced that after Sept. 4 the veterans in the home would receive only $12 each of their pensions, the remainder being retained by him. The old soldiers lear this is a move to turn their pen sions into the state treasury.

With his arms full of groceries which he was taking home to his family, John L. Blanchard, a Grand Rapids painter, was arrested on a charge of non-support. After explaining that he had been confined in a Detroit hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis, while the police were looking for him, the man was released.

His wife away and compelled to get his own breakfast, Leonard Bridgeman, of Bridgeman, tried to start the fire with kerosene. The can exploded and Bridgeman was so badly burned that at Nichols hospital it is feared he will die. He is a railway brakeman.

Three Were Killed.

Albert A. Robinson, secretary and reasurer of an electrical concern of Detroit, his wife and Mrs. Henry E Tremaine, a sister of Mrs. Robinson were instantly killed Sunday after noon when their automobile was run down at the Euclid avenue railroad crossing in Bay City by the Wolverine flyer, a fast express train of the Michigan Central road. Miss Amy Tremaine, a daughter of one of the victims, was so seriously injured that her recovery is a matter of specula tion, and the chauffeur, Ollie Pike, of this city, received injuries that are not considered dangerous.

Might Be Hung.

Sergt. John E. Gibson, of the regular army, whose trial on a charge of de liberate murder begins in Marquette before Federal Judge Knappen, may be literally fighting for his life. Under the army regulations he may be sentenced to death by the court, in spite of the fact that the Michigan state law has abolished the death penalty Gibson is charged with killing Private McManus at Fort Brady, near the Soo

As she slept beside her daughter and next to an open window, Mrs. James Perry, of Bay City, was awakened when a bold burglar thrust his arm through the window, placed his hand over her mouth, to prevent her screaming, and stole a money bag containing $80 which was fastened around her neck. The daughter did not awaken.

The amended local option law which went into effect Sept. 1, is producing some results in Paw Paw. During the three days preceding the enforcement there were 1,666 sales of liquor, an average of 555 per day In the first four days of September there were but 55 sales, an average of 14 per day.

It has been learned that the 10-year vite your inspection if interested. contract granted to a Lansing man for lighting the city is illegal and the discovery will probably invalidate the 30-year franchise proceedings. It is understood that the Lansing man has sold his interest in the lighting proposition to Detroit parties, presumably the new firm incorporated in the big merger.

Though all the women's clubs in the city backed Mrs. Eugene Glass and Mrs. C. E. Stewart, and thereby made the most exciting school elec-tion in the history of Battle Creek, W. S. Keet and Fred Allwardt were re-elected to positions on the board.

The Tariff Commission.

President Taft has appointed the new tariff commission or board, which is to assist him in the execution of the new tariff law with especial reference to applying the maximum and minimum clauses to nations which are unfriendly or friendly in their tariff relations with the United States. The new board consists of three members, Prof. Henry C. Emery, of Yale, chairman; James B. Reynolds, of Mas-sachusetts, now assistant secretary of the treasury, and Alvin H. Sanders, of Chicago, at present editor and proprietor of the Breeder's Gazette.

Col. Reuben E. Fox, 68, ex-secretary of the New York Republican state committee, on his way to meet ex-Gov. B. B. Odell at Harriman's residence, was killed. He fell out of his automobile while standing up to put his coat on.

Night on Bald Mountain

On a lonely night Alex Benton of Fort Edward, N. Y., climbed Bald Mountain to the home of a neighbor, tortured by Asthma, bent on curing him with Dr. King's New Discovery, that had cured himself of asthma. This wonderful medicine soon relieved and quickly cured his neighbor. Later it cured his son's wife of a severe lung trouble. Millions believe it's the greatest Throat and Lung cure on earth. Coughs, Colds, Croup, Hemorrhages and Sore Lungs are surely cured by it. Best for Hay Fever, Grip, and Whooping Cough. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by L. I. Wood & Co.

Frank Trautman, while prospecting for Mexican placer mines, ran out of water, lost their bearings and separated, taking opposite directions, looking for a spring.

> later Craney found the dog trailing him. The justice trudged on over the burning sands and when the dog became exhausted he carried it until it died. With hope gone, and trying to collect his thoughts to write a farewell note, Craney saw a piece of sack flapping in the hot wind. He managed to get to it and found it floating over a deserted prospector's cabin. In a cache under the floor he found a can of peaches. Invigorated, he continued on until nightfall, when he reached a water hole and there found Trautman, almost exhausted.

> > Bails Boat with Slipper.

Watertown, S. D.—The presence of mind of Miss Marie Best, who bailed water with her slipper from a boat in which she and Gale Whiting were caught in a storm, all the time they were going across Lake Kampeska, saved the lives of herself and companion.

The young man could make no headway against the wind, so they were forced to begin the journey across the lake, one of the largest in the state. A gasoline launch, the Harriet, put out after them, but could not overtake them.

Every wave sent water into the boat, but the young woman bailed away with her slipper without stopping until the boat, 50 yards from the shore went down. The water there was shallow enough for them to walk out to safety.

Boy Eaten by Alligators. Pensacola, Fla.-Killed by alligators while he was bathing was the fate of Herman Wilcox of Chicago at Good Time lake, near Pensacola. Wilcox was with his mother at Camp Walton, a summer resort frequented by many Chicagoans. Four days ago he went for a swim. He did not know the lake was alive with alligators.

When he failed to return to Camp Walton a search was begun. His clothing was found and later his body was recovered, almost stripped to a skeleton.

Funeral of Harriman Was Not Made Ostentatious.

Edward H. Harriman, who controlled 65,000 miles of the railroads of this country, was buried from his late home on Arden Heights, N. Y., Trautman's dog followed him, but Sunday. There was a profusion of flowers sent by hundreds of his employes ranking from heavy laborers to superintendents and managers each being an individual gift. The service in St. John's church at 11 o'clock was in the nature of a memorial to Mr. Harriman. It was open to the public. Mr. McGuiness spoke in appreciation of his dead patron. Mr. Harriman's superintendents made all the plans to protect the procession and services from interference by the curious. The town councils of Tuxedo and Woodbury passed resolutions granting Mrs. Harriman's request to close all the roads leading to St. John's church, which lies 300 yards up the hill from Arden. Uniformed men from the Tuxedo police force came over to see to it that nobody but the friends of Mr. Harriman went up to the churchyard. "Pernicious anaemia," which Dr. Lyle assigns as the primary cause of Mr. Harriman's death, is a disease which in nearly all recorded cases, has resulted fatally. In the earlier stages of the disease, the symptoms, lassitude, headache, palpitation and shortness of the breath, make their approach in so slow and insidious a manner that the patient is unable to fix the date of their onset and seldom seeks medical advice until he is incapacitated for mental or bodily work. The patient is usually middle-aged, and there is nothing to account for the disease.

Henry W. Carr company. Monday was the first day of a seven day's trade extension tour in that portion of the state adjacent to Saginaw, the purpose being to afford the heads of the various houses an opportunity to meet personally those with whom they have done business. The trip was made on a special train, including the Pullman sleeping car, "Aspern," a Pere Marquette dining car and two other cars. Large flaring banners on either side of the train announced to the public at the various stations the nature of the trip. On the baggage car was a banner advertising the Wholesaler's and Manufacturer's association and upon the diner the dates for the Industrial exposition which will be held in Saginaw from October 1 to 9.

The places visited Monday were Richville, Vassar, Millington, Otter Lake, Columbiaville, Lapeer, Hunter's Creek, Metamora, Thomas, Oxford, Leonard, Dryden, Imlay City, Lum, North Branch, Kingston, Wilmot, Deford, Cass City, Gagetown, Owendale and Caro.
