FARMING LANDS BRING BIG PRICES

BUT CROPS IN CALIFORNIA AND THEIR PRICES DON'T KEEP PACE WITH LAND VALUES.

Continued.
In this country everything in the shape of a farm is called a ranch. Some ranches have one acre and some have 1,000 acres and at least one near here has 100,000 acres. This ranch is not for sale, but is valued at $500 per acre. I visited a cousin of mine who has a 10-acre ranch and learned something about farming in Southern California.

The principal crops here are alfalfa, barley and oats. They make hay out of both the barley and oats. They can grow about 6 or 7 crops of alfalfa in one year and it nets them about $9 per ton. They can grow about 1 1/2 tons per acre. They have to irrigate for alfalfa, but not for barley and oats.

On many ranches they have walnut orchards which they say pay very well when they get old enough to bear, but I would not advise any one to come out here expecting to buy a farm and make money farming. For instance, this 10 acres of my cousin's would sell any day with the improvements it has in the way of buildings, irrigating system, etc., for $25,000 and yet he cannot raise any more on it than we can raise on a good 40 acres back there that would not cost over $3,000.

California is a great sugar beet state and they grow a lot of them down here, but I find by looking up the records that the average yield is only about 9 tons per acre, the average test 17 1/2 per cent, and the average price $6.00. This is not much better than Tuscola county.

I believe that the future of Los Angeles as a city is very bright. The city is spending $23,000,000 to bring the Owens River a distance of 220 miles to the city. This will mean an abundant supply of water both for power and consumption. They expect to have this completed by June 1, 1912. The Los Angeles harbor at San Pedro will eventually be one of the best harbors on the coast as the city has promised to spend $10,000,000 improving it in the next ten years. It is now absolutely safe for the largest sea-going vessels and they expect great things here when the Panama Canal is completed as this will be the logical harbor for the trade of the Orient. So if any of you want to invest in Los Angeles real estate, I think you would be perfectly safe in doing so.

Of course I visited the implement dealers. I found that many of the lines we handle are sold here—Studebaker and Birdsell wagons, Oliver plows and many other implements. It made me feel at home and wish I were home.

This is the last letter that I will write from Los Angeles as I expect to start on my homeward trip tomorrow. On account of washouts, I will have to go around by the way of Portland, Oregon, then down to Ogden and home by the way of Denver. If I see anything that I think worth while telling, I will write it when I get home.

BERTRAND BUYS STOCK.

P. S. McGregory accompanied Bert Bertrand to North Branch Monday and together they looked over a stock of shoes, furnishings and groceries, and before Mr. McGregory returned home that evening, Mr. Bertrand had purchased the stock from H. McKenzie. "The stock is a choice one and Bert is nicely located in a good building," Mr. McGregory says. The Chronicle wishes him all kinds of success.

GREAT SHOCK TO HER PARENTS

MISS FLORENCE JONDRO DIED AT PONTIAC FRIDAY. HOME IN LAPEER.

Miss Florence Harriet Jondro, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Jondro, who reside a few miles north of Lapeer, died Friday. She was at the asylum hospital at Pontiac, where she was studying to become a trained nurse. An abscess had formed in the throat which choked her and death soon followed.

The death of the young lady was a great shock to her parents and relatives and her many friends in Cass City, where she has spent several weeks during the past few years at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. B. Cootes. Miss Jondro was gifted musically, having a high soprano voice. Until her departure for Pontiac, she was soloist at the Catholic church at Lapeer and a member of the choir.

Miss Jondro was born in Flint 19 years ago and when a child moved to Lapeer with her parents, where they have since resided. She attended the public schools and later studied music. The remains were brought to Lapeer Friday evening, and the funeral was held at the Catholic church, Rev. Fr. Dunnigan of the Lapeer catholic church officiating.

Beside her parents, she leaves three sisters, Mrs. J. B. Cootes of this city, Margaret of Chicago, Lillian at home and one brother, George, of Detroit. The remains were laid temporarily in a vault in Mt. Hope cemetery and will later be taken to Detroit and placed in the family lot.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cootes attended the funeral.

THUMB BLACKSMITHS FORM ORGANIZATION

THUMB ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED ON TUESDAY. OBJECT IS FOR UNIFORM PRICES.

Huron county blacksmiths are the last to form a union, offensive and defensive. On Tuesday of last week a largely attended meeting of smiths was held in Bad Axe and a strong Thumb organization was effected.

The purpose of the meeting and organization was defined as being "to get better acquainted, adopt a uniform schedule of prices, and promote a better feeling generally among the fraternity."

It is explained that the chief object of the organization is not to get bigger prices for work, but more uniform and equitable prices over the district for the same classes of work. For instance, in some Huron county towns the price for setting a horse shoe is a shilling. In other towns it is 15 cents, and in still others 20 cents, and the prices of other work ranging similarly. When this organization gets under way the prices will be uniform throughout the district.

E. A. Jobson, representing the Union Horse Nail Co., was chairman of Tuesday's meeting, and Fred Rapson, secretary. Permanent officers and committees were:

Alex Mitchell, president; James Thompson, 1st vice president; Wm. McLaughlin, 2nd vice pres.; J. A. McDonald, 3rd vice pres.; Jas. McGarey, 4th vice pres.; Fred W. Rapson, 5th vice pres.

TWO TICKETS FOR NOVESTA TOWNSHIP

POLITICAL POT BOILING OVER THERE. QUIET IN ELKLAND TOWNSHIP.

Tomorrow afternoon, a republican caucus for Elkland township will be held at the town hall. While the political pot has been boiling over in some near-by townships, the scramble for nominations has been unnoticed here and very few comments are made regarding the race, no change seems desirable and it is apparently a foregone conclusion that George Hall and W. J. Campbell will be re-nominated to these positions.

J. A. Benkelman, township treasurer, completes his second term this spring and it will be necessary to nominate another candidate for the position. J. A. Caldwell, who ran a close second in the caucus two years ago, is being urged by his friends to enter the race again this spring. The name of George Seed has also been suggested for the position. Both gentlemen are capable and would fill the position well.

The term of R. S. Brown as justice will expire July 4th and it will be necessary to nominate a candidate for this office. Mr. Brown will accept the nomination to succeed himself and the name of A. D. Gillies is also suggested for this office.

The death of John Marshall, sr., leaves a vacancy on the board of review and two members will be elected this spring. Other nominations to be made this spring are for highway commissioner, overseer, school inspector and constables.

Novesta township will have two tickets in the field this spring. The township caucus placed the following ticket in the field Friday:

Supervisor, Wm. B. Hicks; clerk, Samuel Sherk; treasurer, Wm. Paul; highway commissioner, Martin Flynn; justice, to fill vacancy, Theron Spencer; justice, full term, Lewis Retherford; member board of review, Chas. Hall.

A call for a citizens' caucus appears in this issue. It will be held in the Quick school house next Wednesday afternoon.

Striffler & McCullough, the auctioneers, will conduct four sales next week as follows:

The Story of
The Resurrection

IN the end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow:

And for fear of him
the keepers did shake and became as dead men.

And the angel answered and said unto the women, fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus,
which was crucified.

He is not here: for
he is risen, as he said.
Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead;
and, behold, he goeth before you into Galilee:
there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.

And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word.

And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet and worshipped him.

Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid: go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

Insulted.

Lord Cardwell was in the habit of using the church prayers at family prayers. One day his valet came to him and said, "I must leave your lordship's service at once."

"Why, what have you to complain of?"

"Nothing personally, but your lordship will repeat every morning, 'We have done those things which we ought not to have done and have left undone those things which we ought to have done.' Now, I freely admit that I have often done things I ought not, but that I have left undone things that I ought to have done I utterly deny, and I will not stay here to hear it said."—Westminster Gazette.

Ice as an Explosive.

Quarrymen in very cold districts sometimes economize in dynamite by using water instead. Drilling several holes in a large block of granite, they pour in water, stop up the hole securely and leave it for a couple of days.
The water freezes and in the process expands so much that it bursts the stone asunder. From this fact may be gathered some idea of the enormous forces contained in nature.

Unfair.

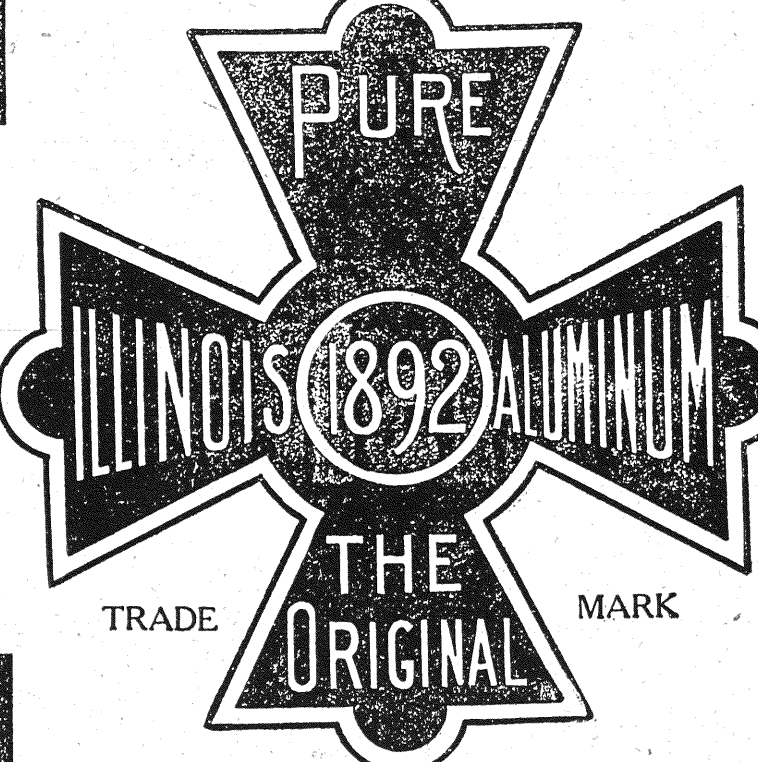

A clever but very eccentric man,
who sings comic songs with a great deal of action, was singing one day at a concert given at a lunatic asylum.
When he had finished an old woman exclaimed, with a sigh, "And to think I'm in and he's out!"

'Twas Not Her Easter Hat

By BELLE TRIMBLE MATTSON.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

"Oh, mamma, you're not going to wear that hat, are you?" Mildred had tragedy in her voice.

"I am."
"What! Mother, dear," cried Dorothy, running in for glove thread, "that awful hat?"

"Exactly."
"On Easter Monday," they chimed.

"Now, see here," said their mother, "whose hat is this?"

"Oh, it's not mine," said Mildred. "I'll not dispute ownership."

"Don't you want grammy to see your lovely new Easter hat with the flowers and the plumes?" coaxed Dorothy.

"I don't care to spoil the plumes, and it looks like rain. There's a dripping fog now."

"I think it'll clear," said Mildred hopefully as she pinned on a big plummy hat of her own—gray-blue, like her eyes.

"I can't see why you girls care so much about this hat today. In the first place, it's an all right hat; in the next place, it will be howlingly stylish for grammy's metropolis; in the third place, we shall see no one we know except grammy, whose affection is not dependent on hats; in the fourth place," she added after a silent moment spent in adjusting her veil, "I'm going to wear it, so you may as well save your splutters."

In the ferryboat they found a seat for her, but had to stand themselves.

"I can't see," murmured Mildred, "why mother will wear that beast of a hat."

"She looks precisely like the head of the biological department," responded Dorothy under cover of mournful sounds from the fog bell.

"Something's got to happen to it," returned Mildred with spirit. "But today! You can't think, Dot, how perfectly elegant he is. I think 'elegant' is a rather cheap word, but I can't think of a single other one that will describe him. Oh, yes, I can, too—thoroughbred, that's what he is."

"Well, of all elegant, thoroughbred ways to meet a girl's mother!"

"He just couldn't get away from his aunt a day sooner—you know the whole party up there was for him—and he said he just couldn't wait a day longer, so at last I told him we were going away, but if I happened to see him in the station I'd present him. And now she has on that hat!"

"Humph!" said Dorothy. "You'd better spend a little time thinking what sort of an impression he'll make on the 'little mother'."

"I've been lying awake nights over that, never fear," responded Mildred. The boat thumped up into the slip, and they joined their mother in the push to the front.

They found themselves a few minutes early, and as they stood waiting for the gates to open a tall young man rushed by to Mildred and seized her hand enthusiastically.

"Mamma, this is Mr. Frank Shipley, Mrs. Mason's nephew, you know. I think I spoke of him after her house party."

The mind of Mildred's mother quickly reviewed all her daughter had said about this most eligible nephew of her own old friend.

"I think you did," she said as she gave him her hand. "Are you going to the country, too, for the Easter holidays?"

"I'm running down to Salem—a bit of business."

"Oh, you're taking our train, then?" "Am I? How jolly!"

The gates opened then, and he possessed himself of a wrap and an umbrella she was carrying, helped them all on, located her, found a seat for the girls and then dropped down beside Mrs. Bronson a few seats behind her daughters. And if he watched every turn of Mildred's brown head it did not prevent devoted attention to her mother. He kept up a lively chatter until the train had left Woodbury. She led him to talk of himself. She heard of his life in the west, of his college in the east, of his two years abroad, of his plans to go west.

"MAMMA, THIS IS MR. SHIPLEY," once and go on with the work his father's dying hand had laid down a year before and which he felt was waiting for him. "Mrs. Bronson," he said suddenly, "I want to ask you something."

She looked at him keenly.

"I want Mildred to marry me. I want to take her back with me. I feel as if my life was just beginning, and I want her to begin it with me. May I ask her?"

"You haven't already done it?" "She knows I care a lot," he flushed guiltily, but he gazed honestly back into her eyes. "The house party did it. It seems a short time—a week—but when you live right in the house with a girl and see her day and night for that time it's long enough."

Mrs. Bronson sighed.

"I've been awfully afraid to ask you. It's so much to ask for, and besides, I've been afraid of you. My aunt told me you were quite imposing—tremendously stylish, and so on. You can't think how relieved I was when I saw you. I believe," he blundered on—"I believe it's your hat. You're an awfully—an awfully homey looking person, you know."

A deeper color shone in Mrs. Bronson's face and a swift gleam lighted her youthful, clear brown eyes. She leaned forward and called softly.

Mildred rose and came back to her.

"Send Dorothy here to me," said her mother, "and take your young man away. I'll have no such stalwart looking man say I look motherly to him. And he is making remarks about my hat. Maybe you can persuade him to go to Salem another day and get off at the Farms for dinner with us. But take him away, do."

The girls never knew how it happened that the Salvation Army soon fell heir to the runaway hat, but after the wedding, as Frank and Mildred were speeding toward their new home in the west, Frank suddenly burst out, "No, sir, I don't see how I should ever have had the courage if it hadn't been for that hat!"

AN EASTER SONG.

By ARTHUR J. BURDICK.

Hang not today with silent tongues! Ring out, ye steeple bells, And echo from your brazen throats In glad, triumphant, tuneful notes The joy that in us dwells. Sound on this happy Easter day: And to the throngs below you say: "Rejoice, the stone is rolled away. Hope lies not in the grave!"

Drop not your petals, blossoms fair. Your spotless leaves unfold And come this blessed Easter morn God's holy altars to adorn.

There show your hearts of gold. The world gave Christ the thorny crown, The nails, the spear, the curse, the frown. Come, lilies, shower your incense down In recompense today!

Song, be not silent this glad day, But lift your notes on high. Send up the sweet and fervent strain—A grateful, thankful, glad refrain. With heaven's songs to vie. Shout praises to his holy name Who from his home in glory came To bear our sorrow, sin and shame That we might live for aye!

Hearts, be not dumb, but gratitude Pour out unto our King. He gave his all that we might live. Have we no offering to give, With heaven's songs to vie. At least our homage let us pay And sincere thanks extend today That angels rolled the stone away—Hope lies not in the grave!

Some Foreign Easter Customs. On Easter Russian children receive presents as our children do on Christmas. On Easter Monday people go about kissing relatives, friends and acquaintances and exchanging eggs. These are sometimes very beautiful ones of glass and porcelain and are filled with sugar plums and presents.

In Ireland children play a game called "bunching eggs." This is played with a pan filled with sand or sawdust, which is set on a table, around which the children stand, each supplied with eggs. The eggs of each player are all of one color and are unlike those of the other players. The object of the game is for each player to so place the eggs standing upright in the sand as to bring five in a row touching each other. In turn each player pulls down an egg, sometimes filling out a row for herself, at others cutting off the line of an opponent. The one who first succeeds in obtaining the desired row calls out:

"The raven, enough and crow Lie five in a row."

The Early Easter. [And the bard's dilemma.] When Easter dawns across the lawns, With bright effulgence flooding The plain, the slope, it brings us hope Of blossoms freshly budding.

When Easter comes, no more benumbs Our hearts the winter icy, For there's a hint of summer in't And springtime odors spicy.

When Easter wakes the sleepy lakes With music's glad appealing We think no more of winter hoar And waterways congealing.

When Easter—well, 'twill do to tell, But when it comes so early How can we sing the signs of spring And still be truthful—nearly?

T. SAPP.

"Call Me Early." If you're waking call me early; call me early, mother dear, For tomorrow will be Easter—let us hope it may be clear—And you'll know how long it takes me when I want to look my best Ere I finish my complexion and can get completely dressed. There are many jealous women who will stare when I appear, So, if you're waking, call me—call me early, mother dear.

My hat cost fourteen dollars, marked from twenty, as you know. It had been a little damaged. They will never guess it, though. They will think I paid the twenty, not a single penny less, And their eyes will do some bulging when they see me come, I guess. The weather man has promised that it will be warm and clear. Therefore, if you're waking, call me—call me early, mother dear.

And my gown and wrap! Oh, mother, they're the best I've ever had! If the day is only decent I will be supremely glad. I'll insist on being seated near the pulpit, and I'll smile In a sweet, angelic manner as I travel down the aisle. Get the cook's alarm clock from her. Set it and then keep it near And be sure to call me early—call me early, mother dear.

Fully nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism is simply rheumatism of the muscles due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment. All that is needed to afford relief is the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. Give it a trial. You are certain to be pleased with the quick relief which it affords. Sold by L. I. Wood & Co.

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by L. I. Wood & Co.

Australia's Stony Desert. The great stony desert of north Australia was discovered by Captain Sturt, an Australian explorer, in 1845-6. It is north of the river Darling and is about 300 miles long and 100 broad, consisting of sandy dunes or ridges. Its want of trees, except along the creeks, gives the country a sterile appearance. These ridges were probably formed by the joint effect of winds and a gradually retreating sea.

Capt. Bogardus again hits the Bull's Eye. This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says:—"I have suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and have used several well known kidney medicines all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley's Kidney Pills I was subjected to severe backache and pains in my kidneys with suppression and often times a cloudy voiding. While upon rising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley's Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and once more feel like my own self. All this I owe solely to Foley's Kidney Pills and always recommend them to my fellow sufferers." Sold by L. I. Wood & Co.

A SACK OF WHITE LILY FLOUR means a saving as well as better baking. For it yields more loaves to the sack than any other brand. Try it.

We are Up-to-date and a Minute Ahead

Did you ever look around you and see how many of your friends are using the old-fashioned tallow dip for illuminating purposes, or how many are using the ox team and two wheeled cart that at every revolution gave forth a groan that puts you in mind of the housewife of the present day after the old-fashioned paper hanger or decorator has left after taking off a few square feet of wall paper, using the old method of hot water and brush? He spatters up everything in sight and leaves the floor swimming with dirty water. Why not be up to date and use the new method, where your room is left all clean? Question—How can it be done?

Ask J. W. ARMSTRONG.

A Profit Sharing Plan and how we do it.

Coupons and Certificates

One coupon is issued with every five (5) cent purchase. One certificate is issued with every twenty-five (25) cent purchase. Five coupons are exchangeable for one certificate. All certificates are redeemable for articles according to schedules displayed in show case at our store.

Silverware, Nickelware, Jewel Boxes, Cut Glass Pieces, Salad Dishes, Watches, Clocks, Fountain Pens and many other articles given in exchange for purchase certificates. Visit our store, examine the articles and let us explain the features of this plan to you fully.

THIS PROFIT SHARING PLAN devised by us is similar in principle to the payment of interest upon deposits by a bank. Therefore it will be obvious to customers that in giving profit sharing certificates with purchases at our store nothing can be taken from the quality of the goods sold nor is anything added to the prices, except in extreme fluctuation of market prices.

All of the articles given for the return of certificates are of the finest quality and we invite you to visit the store and inspect the articles. We will continue adding new articles as the occasion demands. You are not limited to purchase tobacco and cigars to obtain coupons or certificates but this system applies on everything we sell except ice cream and fruits.

FOOD FOR A YEAR

Meat.....300 lbs.
Milk.....240 qts.
Butter.....100 lbs.

This represents a fair ration for a man for a year.

But some people eat and eat and grow thinner. This means a defective digestion and unsuitable food. A large size bottle of How the Rash Comes.

In measles a rash appears on the fourth day of the fever. It is first seen on the forehead, face and neck, afterward over the whole body. It consists of raised red spots. In scarlet fever the rash appears on the second day of the fever, commencing on the upper part of the chest and neck, whence it spreads over the body. In smallpox an eruption is seen on the third or fourth day on the face, neck and wrists. In chicken pox the eruption is made of small blebs. In typhoid fever the rash rarely shows itself before the seventh day of the fever. The spots are rose colored, and they disappear on pressure.

Diplomatic Politeness.

There are two kinds of politeness, politeness to yourself and politeness to others.

When you come home late at night, for example, even if you are very tired, always remove your hat and coat before getting into bed. It is little attentions like this that constitute you a gentleman. At the same time, do not disturb your wife if you can possibly avoid it. It is the height of rudeness to awaken a sleeping lady.—Thomas L. Masson in Lippincott's.

Confidence.

Mr. Golding—So you want to marry my daughter. Do you think that you can support her in the style to which she has been accustomed? Jack Winsome—No, sir, but I can support her in a good deal better style than you lived in the first five years after you were married.—Somerville Journal.

An Easier Dose.

Johnny—The medicine ain't so nasty as it useter be, mommer. I'm gettin' used to it. Mommer—Do you take a whole spoonful every hour? Johnny—No'm: I couldn't find a spoon, so I'm Park.—Cleveland Leader.

Prudence.

Prudence is common sense well trained in the art of manner, of discrimination and of address.

Alcohol not needed

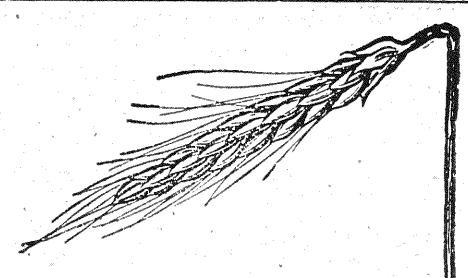

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a strong drink. As now made, there is not a drop of alcohol in it. It is a non-alcoholic tonic and alterative. Ask your own doctor about your taking this medicine for thin, impure blood. Follow his advice every time. He knows.

We publish our formulas
We banish alcohol from our medicines
We urge you to consult your doctor

Ask your doctor, "What is the first great rule of health?" Nine doctors out of ten will quickly reply, "Keep the bowels regular." Then ask him another question, "What do you think of Ayer's Pills for constipation?"

Buy Flour of Steady Satisfaction

The same way of baking things and the use of the same flour ought to bring the same good results always.

Does the flour you use give steady satisfaction?

If it doesn't, it isn't made from such choice wheat, with the same exacting care that keeps the quality of unflatteringly up to its high standard of goodness. Our expert buyers select the finest of plump, full-ripened wheat. Our careful millers wash and scour it thoroughly and watch it vigilantly during its journey through our modern system of grinding and bolting machinery.

You'll get good results always (not sometimes) when you use matchless STOTT Flour.

are in a class by themselves as the best separators. But many have the mistaken idea, which would-be-competitors help to magnify, that they are "expensive" and that something "cheaper" will do in their stead.

The Facts Are That The DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS

These are simple facts easily capable of proof to any buyer who will take the trouble to get at them and who need only apply to the nearest De Laval agent or send for a catalogue to do so.
