Crosby's Hard Pan Shoes

Soft as buckskin, that wear like iron.

For a dozen years Hard Pan Shoes have been pretty generally considered the best shoe value for men.

Hard Pan insoles are made of real leather. The uppers are made of special Hard Pan stock. No other shoes will give as much comfort or as much service.

Better see them anyway before you buy. The cut shows a plain toe model, with bellows tongue to keep out dirt.

Crosby's "Hard Pan" Shoes half price because twice the wear. The Pair $2.90

The Art of Making Watches

has been marching ahead steadily for years. Watches have more brains and skill put into their making to-day than ever.

And still they are getting cheaper all the while—which is rather strange.

If you would like to learn just how far the watch making art has advanced, this is the place to come to.

If you wish to find out how cheap a really reliable watch can be sold visit this store.

Our watch stock contains ALL that the art of watch making has to offer

And we willingly place our time at your disposal.

NEW VILLAGE OFFICERS ARE APPOINTED

C. D. STRIFFLER APPOINTED VILLAGE MARSHAL OTHER APPOINTMENTS BY PRESIDENT.

Monday evening the council met to appoint and confirm the village officers for the ensuing year.

The majority of the village trustees were in favor of retaining J. D. Tuckey as marshal for the second term, and had the village president appointed another as his successor while Mr. Tuckey still held the office, the trustees would probably have declined to confirm the appointment and Mr. Tuckey would have held over until the president and trustees could have settled the matter between themselves.

Realizing these facts and desiring to appoint another man to that position, President Corkins removed Mr. Tuckey from that office Monday evening declaring that "he deemed it for the public good" to do so and that the order was to take immediate effect. Mr. Corkins then appointed C. D. Striffler as village marshal, and as it was a case of a change or no marshal, one of the Tuckey supporters voted to confirm the president's appointment. The vote stood as follows: For confirmation—Trustees Fritz, McGeorge and Frutchey. Against—Trustees Keating, Hallack and Wickware. The president cast the deciding vote and C. D. Striffler is the village marshal for the ensuing year.

The other appointments were confirmed without a hitch. They are:

Street commissioner, Angus McGillvray.

Attorney, J. D. Brooker.

Health officer, Dr. D. P. Deming.

Committees.

Claims and accounts—E. W. Keating, I. A. Fritz and Joseph Frutchey.

MORE GOOD ROADS FOR ELKLAND

TWO MILES OF STATE ROAD TO BE BUILT. CHANGE IN PRICE OF CEMETERY LOTS.

More good roads for Elkland township!

In accord with the progressive movement for good roads which was instituted in Elkland township under the leadership of A. A. McKenzie, then supervisor, and P. A. Koepfgen, highway commissioner, five years ago, the township voted Monday to construct two more miles of road under the state aid this summer. The roads chosen for this improvement are the mile running south from the Bethel church and the mile between the East River bridge and the county line, east of Cass City. Both roads are at the end of roads which were improved under state aid in former years.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY.

Woman's Study Club Would Secure One for Cass City.

At a recent meeting of the Woman's Study Club, the members discussed the possibility of securing a Carnegie library in Cass City and a committee was appointed to ascertain what steps were necessary to secure this educational advantage here. The members of the committee are Mrs. J. H. Hays, Mrs. I. B. Auten and Mrs. S. G. Benkelman. Carnegie libraries have been instituted in smaller towns and it is hoped that the ladies may secure sufficient encouragement to bring the project to a successful termination.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. P. A. Schenck on Monday, Apr. 11. The following program will be given:

History, Chapters XVII. and XVIII.

Talks on Noted French Women.

BEATRICE LAURINE HALL.

Passed Away Sunday Afternoon at Parental Home.

Beatrice Laurine Hall died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Hall, late Sunday afternoon, after a lingering illness of several months.

Beatrice was born in Cass City on April 5, 1900. She attended the public schools here and was favored with many friends. Illness broke into her young life and for many weary months she was a patient sufferer.

The funeral service was held at the Baptist church Wednesday afternoon, Rev. H. W. Clough officiating, and the remains interred in Elkland cemetery. The following girl friends of the deceased acted as pall bearers: Ida Yakes, Hazel Summers, Carrie Keating, Ethel Carson, Hazel Seeger and Carrie Eno.

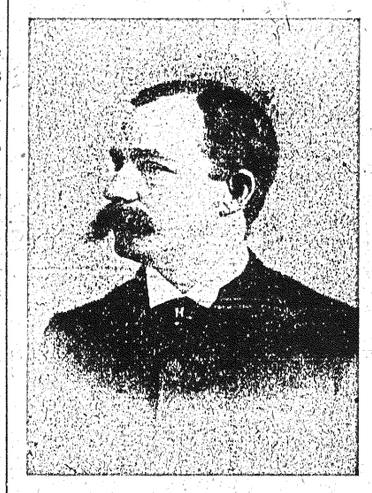
The sorrowing parents and friends have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

IN BUSINESS IN CASS CITY 25 YEARS

P. S. McGREGORY WILL TAKE JOHN C FARRELL OF DETROIT AS A PARTNER MAY 1.

Just a quarter of a century ago, P. S. McGregory came to Cass City and became one of her business men. He is now celebrating the 25th anniversary of that event.

To be exact, it was April 10, 1885, when Mr. McGregory in partnership with J. S .McArthur entered the general mercantile business in the Hitchcock Block next to the town hall. The partners had a trifle more than $1,000 between them and the struggle at the beginning was rather strenuous, but it was not many years before they made the firm name, the "Two Macks," a household word and the business soon became a lucrative one.



P. S. M'GREGORY

The firm, after several years in business outgrew the quarters and in 1893 Mr. McGregory built a substantial business block, 40 by 80 feet in size, which is among the best business blocks of the city. When the firm moved to its new quarters, the stock was divided. Mr. McGregory retained the shoes, clothing and furnishings, while Mr. McArthur held the dry goods and groceries lines. Mr. McArthur sold his stock some years ago, but Mr. McGregory has continued in the same business and year by year it has been placed on a more profitable footing.

Why Suffer?

If you suffer pain from any cause, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will relieve it—and leave no bad after-effects. That's the important thing. Neither do they create a habit. More often the attacks become less frequent, or disappear altogether. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have no other effect except to relieve pain and quiet nervous irritation.

"We are never without Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. My husband and son, aged 15 were always subject to sick headache until we began using these Pills, and they have broken them up entirely. Don't think they have had to use them for six months. I recommend them to every one. A few weeks ago I heard an old lady friend was sick. I went to see her. She was down with LaGrippe, and nearly crazy with awful backache. I gave her one of the Anti-Pain Pills and left another for her to take in a short time. They helped her right away, and she says she will never be without them again. Last winter my husband was taken with pluerisy on both sides, and I know he would have died if it hadn't been for the Pills. In less than half an hour he was sweating, and went to bed and slept."

WHY MEAT IS HIGH.

Part of the Trouble Is With the Housekeeper.

"More than half the trouble with the meat prices lies with the housekeeper who doesn't know how to utilize what she gets," said Miss Annie Barrows of the Teachers' college school of household arts, New York city.

"Most of us," she went on to say, "are like the man who bought four whole turkeys and ate only the 'oysters' of each—those delicious bits of dark meat that lie on the breastbone. The well to do consumer knows little about the cheaper cuts of meat, buys only the choicest sirloin pieces and fails to use them to their best advantage. Few women use the flank fat for which they have paid, but order extra suet fat, for which they are charged 10 cents a pound. The butcher sends the other back to the smelter's, where it is used for soap or made into lard, in which form we pay for it again.

"There are many cuts other than the fore quarters which make good roasts and very pleasing dishes if prepared properly. The principal thing to remember is that a low temperature and a slow fire are necessary to put them into a palatable condition. Anything that is thoroughly cooked is safe, but only the tenderest pieces, of course, should be eaten in a raw or a rare state. I hope the time will come when the lower cuts, which used to be sold to the army and navy for corned beef or turned into sausage meat, will be used by the judicious housewife. She should thoroughly understand the anatomy of her four footed beast and her fowl, because, no matter what name he may give his cuts, the butcher can't change the skeleton.

"In fowl there is of necessity almost 20 per cent waste material, but that is all the more reason why every scrap of it should be utilized. The heart, liver and gizzard can be chopped up in the gravy or added to the omelet of the next day's luncheon, because the less we eat of the bird the more we pay for every bit. Every one knows, of course, that the skeleton and bones give a delicious flavor to soups and that the fat makes excellent frying grease.

"We are just as wasteful with our vegetables as with our meats," continued Miss Barrows. "For instance, take these beets. The grocer, when he saw that I wanted to take them with me was about to chop off the stalks and leaves, when I asked him to let me have them as they were. He looked at me as though I were demented, but every old housekeeper knows that the tops may be used like spinach."

The Breakfast Tray.

A few years ago it was thought a positive luxury if one was well and strong to have breakfast served in bed. Nowadays things have changed. The housewife who can afford to stay in bed every now and then will find herself immensely improved in nerve strength. And the occasional guest often has her coffee and rolls sent up to her room. Many hostesses would rather have the early morning hours in which to attend to their household duties or to their correspondence unhampered by the presence of a stranger within the gates. So the individual breakfast service has to be provided, and it is a fad in some households to see which member of the family can have the daintiest tray. The enameled breakfast set seen in the illustration is comparatively inexpensive and is one of the newest things of the kind to be found in the shops.

CHARMING SERVICE IN ENAMELED WARE.

Use For Holiday Cards.

A good way to utilize the many Christmas tags and cards and the numerous odds and ends of holly ribbon from the different packages is to make from them bookmarks for the Christmas books.

In the smallest cards make a narrow slit at the top, through which draw a six or eight inch length of narrow ribbon, knotting it firmly with a short V snipped end so it will hold. Tie three cards mounted in this way together at the farther end of the ribbon in an ornamental knot and you will have a dainty, useful and most appropriate place marker for your holiday books.

The larger cards should be slit at both bottom and top and should have a wider ribbon drawn through them both, so that the card with sentiment and ornament forms the center and the card when the bookmark is in use lies in the book and the ribbon protruding from it above and below marks the page.

Sponging Silk.

Crushed silk may be smoothed out and restored to something like its original freshness by being sponged with gum arabic water. Sponge on the right side of the silk and when almost dry iron it on the reverse side. Do not use a really hot iron or you will make the silk stiff.

At Last.

A girl's idea of culture is something which will enable her to dodge dishwashing.—Atchison Globe.

DEFORD.

Mrs. John Ross and baby of Brown City are visiting at Wm. Bentley's.

Mrs. A. J. Howell and daughter, Alberta, returned from Canada Friday night, where Mrs. Howell had been called to see her father, who was very sick.

The school entertainment netted the neat sum of $10.

John Ricker was a caller in Canboro Sunday.

Saved From The Grave

"I had about given up hope, after nearly four years of suffering from a severe lung trouble," writes Mrs. M. L. Dix, of Clarksville, Tenn. "Often the pain in my chest would be almost unbearable and I could not do my work, but Dr. King's New Discovery has made me feel like a new person. It's the best medicine for the throat and lungs." Obstinate coughs stubborn colds, hay fever, la grippe, asthma, croup, bronchitis and hemorrhages, hoarseness and whooping cough, yield quickly to this wonderful medicine. Try it. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed by L. I. Wood & Co.

THEIR FRIENDS.

Stetson's Advice as to Where They Might Possibly Be Found.

John Stetson used to have a vaudeville house in Philadelphia, and he inaugurated there the custom which prevails now in some of the cheaper theaters of taking a performer off in the middle of the turn if he did not please the patrons in front. Every Monday night opened his house with fifteen acts, and as each one went on he stood in the wings and allowed those in front to decide whether it should be retained on the bill.

Sometimes the people in front would cry, "Take him off, John; he's no good," and Stetson would march out on the stage and drag the performer off, give him $10 for his performance and tell him he need not return. One evening there were two men who seemed especially obnoxious to the audience, who greeted them with catcalls and howling derision. They managed, however, to get through with their song and came off the stage nervily preparing to return for the remainder of their act.

"Here, you," shouted John Stetson, "what was the name of that song?"

"What's that to you?" asked one of the singers.

"It may be something to you," answered Stetson, with a few of the curse words for which he was noted. "I'm John Stetson, and I want to know the name of that song."

"Beg pardon, Mr. Stetson," said the crestfallen variety man. "It is called 'Where Are the Friends of Our Youth.'"

"Well, you didn't seem to find them out in front. Take this $10 and go and hunt them on the outside."

Show Your Talents.

Exert your talents and distinguish yourself, and don't think of retiring from the world until the world will be sorry that you retire. I hate a fellow whom pride or cowardice or laziness drives into a corner and who does nothing when he is there but sit and growl. Let him come out, as I do, and bark.—Samuel Johnson.

A Suggestive Bark.

The man who ruined a sausage maker's trade by walking into his shop with a sackful of dead cats and dumping the contents down on the counter now finds a rival—albeit an unintentional one—in the person of a London waiter. The latter worthy, being asked by a customer for sausages, replied that there were none left, but, being of an obliging disposition, he went on to say that if the gentleman did not mind waiting for a few minutes some should be obtained for him, meaning, of course, that they should be sent out for. The customer having signified his willingness to wait, the waiter proceeded to the culinary department to give the necessary instructions, but on arriving there he had the misfortune to step on the tail of a dog which belonged to one of the kitchen attendants. The injured animal immediately let out a series of agonized yelps, whereupon the customer, being evidently a man of imaginative mind, turned pale, hesitated only a second and then, grabbing his coat and hat, fled wildly into the street.

FLED WILDLY INTO THE STREET

Knew What Would Happen.

A famous corporation lawyer was telling some anecdotes of criminal law:

"One case in my native Lynchburg," he said, "implicated a planter of sinister repute. The planter's chief witness was a servant named Calhoun White. The prosecution believed that Calhoun White knew much about his master's shady side. It also believed that Calhoun, in his misplaced affection, would lie in his master's behalf.

"When, on the stand, Calhoun was ready for cross examination, the prosecuting counsel said to him sternly:

"'Now, Calhoun, I want you to understand the importance of telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth in this case.'

"'Yes, sah,' said Calhoun.

"'You know what will happen, I suppose, if you don't tell the truth?'

"'Yes, sah,' said Calhoun promptly. 'Our side 'll win de case.'

On the Sly.

Professor Percival Lowell, the famous astronomer, once told an amusing story of an old woman he at one time had as housekeeper, to whom he made a sporting offer.

"Janet," he said to her one day, "the very next planet I discover I will make you a present of $5."

"You are very kind, sir," she replied, "and I am sure I hope you will soon discover one."

Several months went by, and no planets were discovered.

"The fact of the matter is, ma'am," confided the old woman at last to Mrs. Lowell, "I do think the professor goes out at night and discovers planets on the sly."

Some Man Some day

May Make a Medicine for bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Stomach and bladder Trouble the Equal of

San-Jak

But Not Yet

It is the Only Medicine which Enables You to Keep a Perfect Balance Between the Eliminations and Renewals of the Body.

Decay of the Body in Old age is Unnatural.

Permanent wastes of the system can be avoided by taking SAN-JAK, making each day a birthday for the person who has a bottle of this great medicine on hand. Read and learn how to cure Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lame Back and Stomach Diseases.

When the products of exhaustion reach the brain and deaden the nerve centers, as in the case with all old people, limiting their ability to think and act unless they have the power to exidize the acids that accumulate during sleep and eliminate them, they had better get a bottle of Dr. Burnham's SAN-JAK. I am 80 years old and have kept a bottle of this medicine in my house during the past year and, take a dose quite often so I know it helps to give strength and activity. D. O. Kelley, 311 Washtenaw St., Lansing.

Mrs. I. M. Brown, mistress of the Butler House, Lansing, Mich., says; One year ago I was in very poor health sick and weak from that much dreaded disease, kidney trouble, called "Bright's disease" by physicians. I have taken about one dozen bottles of San-Jak and have no symptions of old trouble to annoy me. I have this letter for the benefit it may be to others.

Owosso, Mich., May 28, '08.

Dr. Burnham;
Your inquiry as to my health, in reply I have taken 8 bottles of your San-Jak and can cheerfully recommend it as the best medicine I ever found and the only one that cured me of Diabetes. I am doing harder work than I ever did and I am perfectly well.
Yours respectfully,
F. B. HOLMAN.

J. F. Roe, 41 E. Main St. Battle Creek, says: I wish to state that your San-Jak cured me of Bright's Disease after the local doctors said I could not live.

E. S. Hough, ex-judge of probate of Lapeer county, says: "I bought a bottle of San-Jak from P. P. Snowman, the druggist of Lapeer. I felt I was 100 years old, with great distress of the stomach and a drowsy, sleepy feeling, which the medicine has corrected. I cheerfully permit the use of this letter for the benefit of others."
EDGAR S. HOUGH.

Lapeer, Mich., March 10, 1908.
Mrs. T. H. Curtis, R. F. D. No. 2, Lapeer, says: "I wish to tell you how much good your San-Jak has done for me. I have had the rheumatism and liver trouble 17 years. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen so I could not wear my shoes. I have taken one and one-half bottles of your remedy. The bloat has all gone down. The pain gradually left and the stiff joints are getting more limber. I think 3 or 4 bottles of your San-Jak will cure me completely. Mere thanks in words is a feeble way of telling how grateful I feel for the benefits bestowed upon me by your medicine."

St. Johns, Mich., March 12, '08.
Mrs. John Friz says: "I have been in very poor health for the past seven years and have since childhood been afflicted with sick head ache. I have taken 4 bottles of San-Sak and it has done me a wonderful good. I am now able to do light work and gaining in strength. I wish every lady in Michigan could have a bottle if she is weak and ailing for I believe it is the greatest medicine in the world from the fact that my case was hopeless and my physicians said I could not be helped by medicine."

It restores the aged to health and youth. No remedy equal to San-Jak as a blood tonic. The tired feeling leaves you like magic

MAD TOM THURSBY.

How He Showed That There Was Method In His Madness.

By SARAH BRYCE VAUGHAN.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

One night, or, rather, one morning, about fifty years ago a group of young men were standing before a sideboard in the city of Nashville, Tenn., drinking mint juleps. They were all in fancy costume, for they were attending a masquerade ball, and strains of music and laughter came in from the adjoining rooms. The season was the beginning of autumn, but in that southern location warm weather lingered. Indeed, the "galleries" were inclosed to gain room for the guests.

"What shall we do for hunting this season?" remarked one of the young men at the sideboard. "The country is all taken up, and every estate has a sign up forbidding shooting on the premises."

"Last year," said another, "we were permitted to shoot on the Woodbridge estate. There was no one there except caretakers and servants, but now Miss Woodbridge has returned from the east to take possession of her inheritance, and I see that a notice against trespassing and shooting has been put up."

Among these young men was one Tom Thursby, a graduate of the University of Virginia, who had come out to Tennessee to practice law. Some called him "Mad" Thursby, but whether that was because he was crack brained or insisted in doing things as no one else would do them is a question.

"I think," said Thursby musingly, sipping his julep, "that I shall shoot on Miss Woodbridge's estate."

"What!" exclaimed one of the group. "Trespass on the estate of a young lady?"

"No; I shall gain her permission."

"She has already refused it to others; she can't consistently give it to

"MAY I BEG A BOON?"

you. What influence do you propose to bring to bear upon her?"

"None."

"Do you know her?"

"No; I have never seen her."

"Very well; I'll bet you $50 you don't shoot this fall on Miss Woodbridge's plantation."

"I take the bet."

The rays of the rising sun were streaming in through the windows, the music ceased, and the revelers began to take their departure.

It was about 9 o'clock that Virginia Woodbridge was out among her dew covered flowers—none had yet been nipped by frost—when she heard a voice behind her.

"May I beg a boon?"

Turning, she saw a young man dressed in white satin. His coat, trimmed with gold braid, was cut in the fashion that we call "clawhammer," with two long extensions in rear reaching almost to his ankles. From his vest escaped a profusion of ruffled lace. His breeches were tight to the skin and reached only to the knee; his stockings were silk; his shoes were ornamented with enormous silver buckles. In the hollow of his left arm was a gun; from his shoulder were suspended a shot pouch, a powder flask and a game bag. As to head covering, there was none. The figure was bowing low before her with his right hand on his heart.

The first idea Miss Woodbridge had of this singular apparition was that he was supernatural; the next, that she was confronted by a lunatic.

"I have called," said the visitor, "to ask your kind permission to shoot a few birds on your plantation."

It occurred to the lady that to refuse the man would be tantamount to an invitation to shoot her. No man in his senses would go hunting in such costume, and, although this poor demented creature looked harmless enough, it was impossible to say that a refusal would not rouse him.

"Certainly," she hurried to say as soon as she could gain speech. "Hunt all over the plantation."

The lunatic bowed again, thanked her for her kindness and strode away. As for Miss Woodbridge, as soon as his back was turned she darted into the house and locked the door behind her. Then when she was sufficiently recovered she sent for her overseer, told him how by her presence of mind she had saved herself from being shot by a lunatic and directed him to send to the insane asylum, a short distance south of her estate, and ask them to send at once and capture the lunatic.

By this time a perpetual "bang" was heard without. A darky rushed in and began to talk with eyes wide opened.

"Missy Ginnie, dere's a ha'nt down in de medder killin' all de bobwhite. He dressed like a ghost, all in white, with stars and things on he breast. Wha' all gwine to do?"

"For heaven's sake, don't try to stop him," said the mistress. "If you do he'll kill you."

"Oh, no. I'm not gwine to stop him. As soon as I sor him I run like de debbil was after me. Ebery time he shoot, down comes a thousand quail."

"Never mind the quail. I don't care how many he kills if he doesn't kill any one else before we can get rid of him."

At this juncture the housekeeper entered the room and asked what was the matter. When informed of the facts she smiled and said:

"I saw your lunatic go by my window. He's Tom Thursby, that Virginia scapegrace."

"And sane?" asked Miss Woodbridge.

"Perfectly."

"Then why appear here in such costume and ask permission to hunt?"

"I don't know. There was a masquerade ball in the city last night, and not an hour ago I saw some of the masqueraders rolling along in their carriages on their way home. Perhaps Mr. Thursby was one of them and took a fancy to do some shooting."

"But why in such costume?"

"No one knows what Tom Thursby will do. He's singular. But I have heard he is very bright. He'll probably break his neck some day riding across country. He's a terrible man on horseback."

"That would be a pity," said Miss Woodbridge sympathetically—"he's so handsome."

Whether the lady meant that it did not matter if homely men broke their necks is not of importance to this story. The order to send to the asylum was countermanded, and Mr. Thursby was permitted to bang away till midday, when he came to the house with a bagful of quail and asked to see the mistress. She met him, vainly endeavoring to suppress a smile.

"I have only killed these birds," he said, "for the pleasure of the hunt. I leave them for their rightful owner."

"You are Mr. Thursby, I believe, from Virginia."

"I am, and at your service." A low bow.

"That you may not think we Tennesseeans less hospitable than the people of the Old Dominion I will ask you to remain for a dinner on the birds you have shot."

"That will certainly be an honor as well as a pleasure." Another bow.

Miss Woodbridge entertained Mr. Thursby till the quails were cooked and the repast was announced. Then she took his arm, and they went into the dining room. Never a smile crossed Mr. Thursby's face. His hostess said nothing about having mistaken him for a lunatic, and he made no reference to his fantastic dress.

The servants on the plantation either had not heard the explanation as to the guest's habiliments, or, if they had, it made little impression on them. The opinion among them gained ground that he was a ha'nt, though many of them declared that he was a lunatic. The braver of the colored children flattened their noses against the dining room window panes to observe the specter. Aunt Eunice, who had been Virginia Woodbridge's "mammy," was very much disturbed.

"Wha' fo' yo' niggers let yo' mist'ess alone wid dat lunaticker fo'?" she asked the men. "Yo' gwine let him shoot her?"

At this white headed Uncle Peter went off and returned with his gun and said he was "gwine to kiver de ha'nt." Miss Woodbridge, while dissecting a quail, discovered him standing in the doorway leveling a shotgun at her guest.

"For heaven's sake, Uncle Peter, what are you going to do? Don't shoot!"

"Don' yo' bodder, Missy Ginnie. I got de drop on him."

"Oh, that's nothing," said Thursby. "I've seen him for some time. It hasn't spoiled my appetite."

And he helped himself to another quail.

Uncle Peter was finally persuaded to go away with his gun, and the meal proceeded. Then when it was finished Miss Woodbridge and her singular guest spent some time together in the drawing room, after which the guest departed.

Miss Woodbridge was so well pleased with Mr. Thursby that she deeply regretted he was so freaky. But when the next day she received from him several dozen pairs of gloves, with a letter stating that her leniency with him had enabled him to win a bet that he would shoot with her permission on her plantation, she did not consider him so freaky after all. Indeed, she considered him very clever.

After this Mr. Thursby continued his mad pranks at horsemanship and other feats, devoted himself to Miss Woodbridge and practiced law. His associates were divided as to whether he were really crack brained or very clever till he won an important suit by an expedient similar to the one by which he had won permission to shoot on the Woodbridge premises. From that time forward all agreed that if he were mad there was a lot of method in his madness.

This impression continued to grow till it was concluded by the people of Mr. Thursby's section that they had better send him to represent them in Washington, and he was elected to congress. He took Miss Woodbridge with him.

CRUDE ASTRONOMY.

Russian Peasants Have Queer Ideas of Sun, Moon and Stars.

We have it on no less authority than that of Caesar that the Druids taught their disciples many things about the form and dimensions of the earth and the heavens and a body of doctrines on the motions of the stars. Even death itself was to them an astronomical fact. They held that from this life we pass to take up our abode in one of the heavenly bodies. That they firmly held to this belief is manifest from the fact that they had no objection to lending money to be repaid in the other world. They looked upon the passage of life in much the same way as we regard a journey across the Atlantic.

There is no doubt that even now in various parts of Europe the views of the peasantry as to the heavenly bodies and celestial phenomena have changed but little from those of their predecessors of a thousand years ago. A Russian contributed to the bulletin of the Astronomical Society of France has given the results of his observations on this point extending over ten years. The astronomical lore of the Russian peasantry of the north, center and south is limited to a knowledge of the existence of the sun and moon, of three constellations, of the Milky way, of one planet, of comets, shooting stars and meteors. The sun is to all a mysterious and beneficent being.

The moon covered with ice and snow is ever in flight from its brother, the sun. Upon its disk may be seen unmistakably portrayed the murder of Abel by Cain, the latter being done to death by a pitchfork. Chill are the lunar rays, and woe betide the child of man who shall sleep unprotected therefrom! From the horns of the crescent much useful information as to the forthcoming weather may be derived by the learned in such things.

The stars are lamps or candles which are lit and extinguished daily by the Eternal. A shooting star is the soul of one who has just passed away. Comets are heralds of war and famine. No Russian ever forgets that the Napoleanic war followed the great comet of 1811.—Westminster Gazette.

MALIBRAN'S CAPTIVITY.

A Romantic Incident In the Career of the Great Singer.

The following incident is told of Mme. Malibran, whose voice once upon a time excited the most unromantic to folly.

She was resting in her dressing room at the theater after singing in the part of Desdemona, her passionate soul still quivering with the emotion of the part and the tears and applause of her listeners. A person entered and begged her to go to her mother, who had been taken ill. A carriage, not her own, was at the door. She was whirled through the streets and led, much to her surprise and fear, into a strange house and to an excellent boudoir, hung and carpeted with rose colored silk.

Here the beautiful songstress was left alone after being assured by her attendants that her mother was well, that the message was a subterfuge and that her captivity would last until she sang something.

On a low seat sat a lyre such as that which thrilled in Malibran's fingers as she sang Desdemona's touching song.

At first she determined to resist, but after a short time her mind reverted to the evening, and almost unconsciously she took up the instrument and sang the "Romance de Saule." As she concluded sounds of enthusiastic applause and trembling accents of delight came to her through the silk hangings, and she was then conducted by liveried servants to her carriage and to her home.

The next morning she found on her table a casket containing a magnificent pair of earrings, and inside the cover, written in diamonds, was the word "Merci." But the event remained a mystery to her forever.

Retort Filial.

In a warm argument one of the contestants had a poor case, but he defended his position vigorously.

"Oh, yes," the other one chuckled, "you have your defense, but you've lost. Losers always have their defense. Lincoln used to illustrate that with a story about his boy Tad.

"Lincoln and Tad were lunching one day in the White House.

"'Don't eat your fish with your knife, boy,' said Lincoln sternly. 'It's not polite.'

"'But, father,' said Tad, 'is it polite to stare at folks when they're eating?'"

Very True.

A grandmother was reproving her little grandchildren for making so much noise. "Dear me, children, you are so noisy today! Can't you be a little more quiet?"

"Now, grandma, you mustn't scold us. You see, if it wasn't for us you wouldn't be a grandma at all."—Harper's Weekly.

Why Lulu Was Happy.

Lulu was but two and a half years old when the first huckleberries she had ever seen were placed upon the table in a covered dish. When the cover was taken off she clapped her hands, exclaiming delightedly, "Oh, look at all the shoe buttons!"—Delineator.

Knew Her Limitations.

He—Now that we are married, pet, do you love me enough to cook for me? She—Enough, darling? I love you entirely too much for that.—Boston Transcript.

SOME PLAIN CENSUS FACTS

Its Purpose Not to Pry Into Anybody's Private Affairs.

EVERYBODY'S DUTY TO ASSIST

Officials Bound by Solemn Oath Not to Disclose Information Received Except to Proper Departments—Refusal to Answer a Violation of Law.

THE census is not, never has been and cannot be used to obtain information in connection with the enforcement of tax rates, deportation proceedings, extradition measures, army or navy conscription, compulsory school attendance, child labor prosecutions, quarantine enforcement or in any way to interfere with the enjoyment of life, liberty or property by any person.

It has nothing whatever to do with the legal detection, arrest, prosecution or punishment of any person for any suspected or actual violation of a law, whether of a city or state or the national government or of a foreign nation.

It is to find out how much bigger the nation has grown since ten years before, how many more people, how many more native born, how many more foreign born, how many work for their bread, how many for whom there is no work, how many own their own homes and other similar facts.

That is all. It is not to pry into your private affairs. It is not to increase your taxes. It is not to find out who should be deported. It is not to send any person back to his native country. It is not to make any person join the army or navy. It is not to find if any are breaking the laws of a city or state or the United States. It is not to trouble or to harm or to prosecute anybody for anything he has done or is doing.

The census count is made by men called enumerators, which means counters. The enumerator asks the questions. The questions are not from his own mind. They are from the bureau of the United States census, which prints a list for the enumerator. He simply sets down the answers opposite the questions. He will not ask questions not on the list. All persons must answer the same questions.

The counter, or enumerator, will call at your home Friday, April 15 next, or maybe a day or three days or a week later. He will call as soon as he can. You will know him by a census badge, "United States Census, 1910," he will wear on his coat and a yellow khaki bag he carries. In this are his printed questions. He may have an interpreter with him. The enumerator may be a woman.

You must not refuse to admit him to your home. You must not refuse to answer. You must not answer falsely.

Listen to him. Answer him willingly and truthfully. Encourage your relatives, friends and neighbors to tell him. Help him in every way you can. It is your duty. It is everybody's duty. It is the law of the United States. He is not a spy, a policeman or a tax assessor. He is not an agent of the city, county or state. He is working for the bureau of the United States census. He tells no one but the census bureau what is told him, and the United States law will not let the census bureau tell any other persons or officials or other government departments or any foreign ambassador, consul or nation.

The census law with reference to population requires that the enumerator's questions shall for each inhabitant call for—

"The name, relationship to head of family, color, sex, age, conjugal condition, place of birth, place of birth of parents, number of years in the United States, citizenship, occupation, whether or not employer or employee, and if employee, whether or not employed at the date of enumeration (April 15, 1910), and the number of months unemployed during the preceding calender year (1909), whether or not engaged in agriculture, school attendance, literacy and tenure of home and whether or not a survivor of the Union or Confederate army or navy, and the name and address of each blind or deaf and dumb person."

The same law with reference to agriculture requires that the enumerator's questions shall for each inhabitant call for—

"The name, color and country of birth of occupant of each farm, tenure, acreage of farm, acreage of woodland and character of timber thereon, value of farm and improvements, value of farm implements, number and value of live stock on farms and ranges, number and value of domestic animals not on farms and ranges and the acreage of crops planted and to be planted during the year of enumeration and the acreage of crops and the quantity and value of crops and other farm products for the year ending Dec. 31 next preceding the enumeration."

All questions relating to population and the inventory of farm equipment apply to conditions existing only on April 15, the "census day."

The census bureau's instructions to enumerators with reference to the enumeration of the population present some important and interesting distinctions.

Persons living on April 15, 1910, but who died after it and before enumerators call, are to be counted, but persons born after April 15 are not to be included in the count. Persons who were single on April 15 are to be reported as single even though they have married subsequently and before the canvasser has called. This is true similarly of persons who become widowed or divorced after April 15.

The census law provides that all persons shall be enumerated at their "usual place of abode" on April 15. This means the place where they may be said to live or belong or the place which is their home. As a rule, the usual place of abode is not the place where a person works or where he eats, but where he regularly sleeps. The enumerators are cautioned, however, that where a man happens to sleep at the time of the enumeration may not be the place where he regularly sleeps.

As to Absentees.

If any one in an enumeration district is temporarily away from home on a visit or on business or traveling for pleasure or attending school or college or sick in a hospital such absent person is to be enumerated and included with other members of the family. But a son or daughter regularly living in another locality should not be counted with the family at home.

Servants, laborers or other employees who live with the family and sleep in the same house or on the premises should be enumerated with the family.

The census bureau states that there will be, on the other hand, a certain number of persons present and perhaps lodging and sleeping in districts at the time of the enumeration who do not have their usual place of abode there. These are not to be enumerated. It must be assumed that they will be enumerated elsewhere. They should not, therefore, unless it is practically certain that they will not be enumerated anywhere else, enumerate or include with the members of a family they are enumerating any of the following classes:

Persons visiting a family, transient boarders or lodgers who have some other usual or permanent place of abode, students or children living or boarding with a family in order to attend some school, college or other educational institution in the locality, but not regarding the place as their home; persons who take their meals with a family, but lodge or sleep elsewhere; servants, apprentices or other persons employed by a family and working in the house or on the premises, but not sleeping there, or any person who was formerly in a family, but has since become a permanent inmate of an asylum, almshouse, home for the aged, reformatory, prison or any other institution in which the inmates may remain for long periods of time.

The words "dwelling house" and "family" are, for census purposes, given a much wider application than they have in ordinary speech. A "dwelling" is defined as a place in which at the time of the census one or more persons regularly sleep. It need not be a house in the common meaning of the word.

A Census Family.

A "family," as a census term, may mean a group of individuals who occupy jointly a dwelling place or part of a dwelling place or an individual living alone in any place of abode. All the occupants and employees of a hotel, if they regularly sleep there, make up a single family because they occupy one dwelling place, and persons living alone are regarded as families.

The enumerators are required to enter on the schedule the name of every person whose usual place of abode on April 15, 1910, was with the family or in the dwelling place for which the enumeration is being made. The head of the family is to be entered first, then the wife, next the children, whether sons or daughters, in the order of their ages, and, lastly, all other persons living with the family, whether relatives, boarders, lodgers or servants.

If any adult refuses or willfully neglects to answer the questions on the enumerator's list or if he or she willfully gives answers that are false he or she will be arrested, carried to court and fined up to $100. Keepers of hotels, apartment houses, boarding or lodging houses, tenements or other buildings in which people make their homes must help the enumerator when requested or they will be arrested, carried to court and fined up to $500.

It is everybody's duty to help make the next census, which is the thirteenth taken since the year 1790, an accurate statement of the population conditions in the United States as they actually exist April 15, 1910. It is not only their duty; it is the law.

Coupons and Certificates

One coupon is issued with every five (5) cent purchase.

One certificate is issued with every twenty-five (25) cent purchase.

Five coupons are exchangeable for one certificate.

All certificates are redeemable for articles according to schedules displayed in show case at our store.

Silverware, Nickelware, Jewel Boxes, Cut Glass Pieces, Salad Dishes, Watches, Clocks, Fountain Pens and many other articles given in exchange for purchase certificates. Visit our store, examine the articles and let us explain the features of this plan to you fully.

THIS PROFIT SHARING PLAN devised by us is similar in principle to the payment of interest upon deposits by a bank. Therefore it will be obvious to customers that in giving profit sharing certificates with purchases at our store nothing can be taken from the quality of the goods sold nor is anything added to the prices, except in extreme fluctation of market prices.

All of the articles given for the return of certificates are of the finest quality and we invite you to visit the store and inspect the articles. We will continue adding new articles as the occasion demands. You are not limited to purchase tobacco and cigars to obtain coupons or certificates but this system applies on everything we sell except ice cream and fruits.

P. S. McGregory was born in Garafraxa, Ont., several years ago—Mr. G. says it was in 1850. He came to Michigan in 1865 and at Yale he entered the employ of a mercantile firm. For several years he was a valuable employe of the stores of Holden Bros. and Mr. Palmer of that village. Later he entered the clothing and shoe business in Mt. Clemens, continuing in that city four years, and afterwards coming to Cass City.

During Mr. McGregory's residence in Cass City, he has taken time from his business career to devote a portion of it to church and educational lines. For several years he has been prominently connected with the local Baptist church, and for several terms he was elected a member of the boar of education.

After 25 years of business cares, Mr. McGregory feels the need of more time for rest and enjoyment of life's pleasures and he will about May 1st take John C. Farrell of Detroit as a partner into his business. "I want a younger man to do the pushing," Mr. McGregory told the Chronicle, "and when the occasion demands, I'll lift behind."

Mr. Farrell is a travelling salesman and chose Cass City for a location out of the many places in the state he visits as being the place best suited to his interests. He has had many years experience in wholesale and retail clothing and furnishings.

He is an easy fellow to get acquainted with and is always ready to do his share for the place with which he identifies himself. Mr. Farrell is assisting in the store at the present time, and at the end of the quarter century sale which is being conducted there, he will have acquired an interest in the business.

It devolves upon Cass Cityites to give Mr. Farrell the glad hand and bid him welcome to our city.

Elkland township was the first in the state to construct a mile of state road under the present state aid laws and each year since two miles have been constructed. These roads have been placed in different parts of the township so that the benefits have been distributed among all its citizens and all are in favor of the good roads improvement. "Every mile in Elkland a state road," should be the slogan and 'ere many years the desire shall be gratfied.

$2,200 were voted at the township meeting Monday for the state roads, $600 for highway purposes and $500 for the contingent fund.

A motion was also placed before the voters to exclude all non-residents of the township from purchasing lots in Elkland cemetery hereafter. This step was advised because the cemetery is filling up so rapidly that it will not be many years before it will be necessary to enlarge it. The motion was later amended to raise the price of the cemetery lots to non-residents and the motion as amended was carried. The price for lots in Elkland cemetery to non-residents of the township will hereafter be $50.

Home Course In Domestic Science

IX.—Attractive Table Arrangements.

By EDITH G. CHARLTON,
In Charge of Domestic Economy, Iowa State College.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

NEXT in importance to the proper cooking of food is the way it is served and the order in which the table is laid. The attractive appearance of well cooked food appeals strongly to the appetite and prepares the digestive organs for their work. Probably every person has experienced the feeling of being suddenly hungry when some especially attractive viand has been displayed before him. Equally true is it that almost every one has known hunger to vanish at sight of a table laid with soiled linen and china and food carelessly arranged on serving dishes. The homely hash has not a musical name and generally calls up memories of unenjoyable meals, yet I have known a platter of it to win as sincere approval as has ever been bestowed on a porterhouse steak. True, the hash was served piping hot on a pretty platter. It was well browned, flanked perhaps with poached eggs and garnished with sprigs of parsley. Its flavor, too, was just as pleasing and tempting as its appearance. It may take a moment or two longer to garnish the dish of meat or vegetables, but it certainly pays for the trouble. Rather than neglect it I would suggest omitting one or two dishes from the menu. Referring to menus brings to mind the fact that in some homes, those in the country especially, there is a tendency to serve too many foods of the same kind at the same meal.

For instance, I have many times seen three kinds of cooked fruit, three or four kinds of vegetables and at least two kinds of pickles or desserts served at an ordinary dinner. This means unnecessary work, unnecessary expense and so much time spent in preparation that very likely there was none left for dainty serving. A knowledge of foods and food values should teach the housekeeper that one food of each of the above mentioned kinds is sufficient at one time for any family.

In many homes, too, it is the custom to put all the food on the table at once and have the various dishes passed from one person to the next without any attempt at serving. While I am at all times an advocate of simplicity, I do like to see the head of the house presiding at table, carving and serving the meat at least and his wife, at her end of the table, presiding over the coffee and serving those dishes which rightfully fall to her lot. It seems much more like true hospitality when this is done than when platters and vegetable dishes follow each other in quick succession around the table, each individual helping himself. The extra minutes which serving requires is the best thing in the world for the family, because it allows more time to masticate the food and for social conversation, that best of all sauces for the digestion.

Setting the Table.

The keynote of good taste is simplicity, and nowhere is it displayed to better advantage than in laying a table for a meal, be that an everyday family affair or a formal gathering of special guests. It is not my intention to outline a set of rules for the hostess who plans to entertain on an elaborate scale. She probably will have the advice and assistance of the professional caterer. But my wish is to give a few of the important points to be observed in setting the ordinary table for the ordinary meal. And I want to preface what I shall say with the hope that all women who preside over homes or who have the training of young people in charge will see to it that no carelessness is permitted either in table manners or in the simple act of setting the table, because such things leave an indelible mark in after life. The table, which may be either round, square or oblong, as preferred, is to be first covered with a silence cloth, a pad of asbestus cloth or double faced canton flannel. The first is more expensive, but is better because of its protection to the table and because it does not become moist from hot dishes and stick to the table. Over the pad is laid the linen cloth, which should extend ten inches over the edge of the table on all sides. The fold in the center of the cloth should be exactly in the center of the table.

In arranging the places allow at least twenty inches space at the table for each person. The china, glass and silver set for each person make what is commonly known as a "cover." In placing the silver observe this order: Lay the silver on either side of the plate in the order in which it is to be used, beginning at the outside. Place the knives on the right side, handles about one inch from edge of table, sharp edge turned in. Lay all the forks, with the exception of the oyster fork, on the left hand side, tines up, handles on a line with the handles of the knives. The oyster fork is either placed on the right side outside the knives or slanting across the oyster plate, handle toward the right hand. The spoons are properly placed on the right side, the soup spoon outside the knives. The teaspoon at dinner is next the plates. For breakfast it may be outside the knife if it is to be used first. It is considered more correct for a formal dinner to have the silver brought to the table with each course after the salad has been served.

The table napkin is folded in a simple square and is placed on the left side at the lower edge of the plate. If bread and butter plates are used these are placed on the left just above the napkin. The water glass is placed on the right side at the top of the knife. A pair of salt and pepper shakers is placed conveniently between each two persons, as a rule.

It is well to have some decoration on the table, even if it be nothing more than a simple potted plant or some sprays of wild flowers. A small pot of growing parsley in winter is better than no decoration. The centerpiece should be low and flat rather than high, for the latter obstructs the view of people sitting on opposite sides of the table. Dishes of celery, olives, pickles or confectionery may be on the table from the beginning of the meal and if so should be arranged near the center around the floral decoration.

If tea or coffee is to be served on the table the cups, saucers and service should be neatly arranged in front of the hostess.

Serving the Meal.

In many homes where there is only one maid to act as cook and waitress the serving must be as simple as possible. Very often, in fact, the housekeeper must herself act as both cook and waitress, and then the serving must be even more simple. But in any case try to avoid the too common habit of putting everything on the table at once and allowing each person to help himself.

When there are boys and girls in the family they should be taught to take turns in serving. In that case or when the housekeeper is alone the first course may be placed on the table before the meal is announced. If it is soup served from a tureen the hostess serves it from her end of the table, or the soup may be served in the kitchen and put at each place before the family is seated. The soup plates and tureen are removed before bringing in the next course. The meat platter is placed at the head of the table before the host, who should carve it and, putting a portion on each plate, pass it to the person sitting at his right. This person keeps it if specially requested to do so or passes it on down the table. The potatoes and other vegetables may be served by the host if the family is small or by some person sitting near him. The dinner dishes—that is, the plates on which the meat course was served—should be removed before bringing in the salad or dessert. If both are included in the menu the salad is generally served by the hostess. It is quite permissible, however, to have the salad arranged on individual plates in the kitchen and placed on the table at the beginning of dinner. Dessert should be served by the host while the hostess pours the tea or coffee. Pudding sauce and cream and sugar are passed. Bread and butter are usually on the table throughout the meal and are passed as needed. Celery and olives are passed with the soup and pickles with the meat course. Jelly is often passed with chicken, and apple sauce should accompany roast pork.

In some households the business of serving at table without a maid has been brought to a perfection which is worthy of emulation. In order that it may be absolutely devoid of awkwardness it is necessary for each member of the family to be well schooled in his or her part. It is nowadays the fashion in some households to dispense with the services of a maid, at least during the simpler meals of the day.

When there is a waitress she is expected to take the plate from the host or hostess and place it before the person for whom it was served. She must place all dishes at the right side and pass those from which the person helps himself at the left. All plates and dishes are removed from the right side. In clearing the table after each course all dishes used in serving it must be removed as well as the individual plate and silver. After the salad and before serving the dessert all dishes, bread, butter and relishes should be removed and the crumbs brushed up on crumb tray. Water glasses should be kept filled as required without removing them from the table.

With a little practice any meal can be served simply and correctly, and in a short time it will be found that its enjoyment has been greatly increased.

In buying china or silver remember that quality is of much more consequence than ornamentation, and in either the simpler designs and colorings are preferable. Plain white china of good quality is much more satisfying in the end than elaborate designs in pronounced colors. In nothing are artistic sense and feeling more strongly shown than in the appointments of the dining table.

Home Course In Domestic Science

X.—The Modern Kitchen

By EDITH G. CHARLTON,
In Charge of Domestic Economy, Iowa State College.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

CONSIDERING the importance of the kitchen to the rest of the home, it seems strange that it should very often be the least attractive room from every point of view in the house. We find it tucked off in some dark corner with little or no ventilation, its wall and floor covering dark and dingy and its equipment so meager it would be impossible to find any pleasure in working with them.

The kitchen is the workroom of the home. Its arrangement, pleasant or otherwise, very often gives the keynote of conditions in the home. My idea of a real kitchen is this: It should be as bright and cheery as any room in the house. I would much prefer a gloomy parlor than a dark, unpleasant kitchen. If possible I should have a north and east exposure. This would insure sunlight in the morning and a cool breeze on hot summer afternoons. Then I should be careful to have a good view from the kitchen window, something beautiful to look out upon, like a stately tree, a bit of green lawn or a trim vegetable garden. The outlook from kitchens in towns and cities is too often brick walls of adjoining buildings, untidy back yards or high board fences. From kitchens in the country we often look out upon an unsightly woodpile or barnyard filled with a clutter of old farm implements. With such daily views it is no wonder if the women, who must spend three-fourths of their time in the kitchen, have very little love for housework.

There should be at least two windows and, if possible, an outside door opposite one window in order to have good ventilation at all times. The kitchen should not be unnecessarily large, but its size will depend on the number of persons in the family and the amount of work that is to be done in it. Too much space between the different pieces of furniture necessitates too many unnecessary steps. A suitable moderate sized kitchen is about 12 by 14 feet.

The kitchen should be convenient to the dining room, either opening directly into it or, still better, having the pantry between the rooms. In the latter case there should be a cupboard with sliding doors opening into both kitchen and pantry for convenience in setting the table and removing dishes to the kitchen. The cut gives a plan of a convenient kitchen, showing position of windows and doors, also the larger pieces of furniture.

In this plan note the position of the refrigerator, which can be reached from the outside so that ice may be put into it without coming into the kitchen. There is also a window in the cool room to which a window cupboard can be attached. This room with its cupboard will take the place of the refrigerator in winter and may be used as a baking room in hot weather.

The sink, with draining board, is located on the side next the pantry. Sliding doors are arranged at the back so that dishes washed in the sink may be placed on the pantry shelves without going into the pantry itself. Another convenient feature in the arrangement of this kitchen is the position of windows between range and work table, giving good light and ventilation. If possible avoid having a door leading upstairs opening in the kitchen, because in such cases it is almost impossible to keep the odors of cooking from penetrating to the upstairs rooms.

Wall and Floor Covering.

The kitchen to be sanitary in every particular should be finished in some way that will permit of frequent washing. The best wall covering is the simplest and most easily cared for material that can be purchased. There is nothing better for this purpose than sanitas, a material similar to oilcloth. The first cost is a little more than paint or tinting, but when carefully applied it is more lasting. Sanitas is put on with paste in horizontal strips around the room. The edge of each piece must be pasted down securely, and care should be taken to avoid wrinkles. If a tablespoonful of molasses is added to each quart of paste it will stick more firmly.

The painted wall is suitable for kitchen and pantry provided a flat finish is given and a color used in preference to white. A glossy surface, particularly a white one, is hard on the eyes and becomes very monotonous. Wall paper is not a desirable covering for a kitchen wall because it absorbs moisture and odors and cannot be cleaned satisfactorily.

For the floor the best covering is inlaid linoleum. This to my mind is better than the polished floor, which is always slippery and is hard on the feet. Then there is the painted floor, which has both advantages and disadvantages, chief among the latter being not very durable qualities. The kitchen floor should not be covered with carpet, because that is insanitary, neither should it be devoid of any covering and so require scrubbing. This is one of the items of work which should be eliminated from the housekeeper's schedule. The white sanded floors, tables, etc., are attractive to the eye and a joy to a certain type of housekeeper, but they represent too much energy and labor to be included in modern methods. Floors should be covered with some material easily cleaned, and tables, sinks, shelves, etc., should be painted or covered with zinc, tile or oilcloth. The zinc table and the tile sink are a lasting pleasure and lessen work to such an extent that they soon more than pay for the initial cost.

Kitchen Furniture.

This should be simple, durable and adequate for the needs of the housekeeper. The kind and number of pieces will largely depend on the character of the home. But in every kitchen there should be a good range, at least one work table and a convenient sink supplied with running water and modern plumbing. These three articles should be near neighbors because they are so frequently used at the same time.

Whatever the fuel—coal, wood, gas or gasoline—it should be burned in a good range, one that is perfect in all its parts and equipped with a good baking oven. No part of the housefurnishing is more important than the kitchen stove and no piece of farm machinery, however necessary, should be bought by sacrificing the new stove. Since the preparation of food for the table is an absolute necessity in every home, the stove, whatever its style, should be as good as any part of the equipment of the entire establishment.

The work table should be high enough that the worker need not stand in an uncomfortable position while ironing or baking. Kitchen tables are made thirty inches high, which is not enough for a woman five feet six inches in height, and to bend over it, as she always must, results in an unnecessary weariness or backache. Either the low table should be set upon supports or a higher one should be ordered. The high stool is a simple piece of furniture which should be in every kitchen. It can be slipped under the work table when not in use and is a convenient seat while preparing vegetables, ironing and doing the numberless other tasks which can be performed sitting just as well as standing.

A clock is necessary in the kitchen, also a pair of strong scissors, a pincushion with pins and some coarse needles and thread, both white and black. These are constantly needed, and it makes unnecessary steps to be obliged to go to the living room for them. It is hardly possible to have too many drawers, shelves and cupboards, and yet these ought not to be used to encourage disorderliness. There is sometimes a temptation to hide away things in cupboards or drawers that would better be destroyed at once than have them add to the task of straightening up later on.

The modern kitchen may have other useful pieces of furniture in addition to the above, if there is money enough to provide them. Among these may be mentioned a water or electric motor or even a small one horsepower gasoline engine, any one of which will run the washing machine mangle, churn, cream separator and can be attached to the sewing machine. This little contrivance is not so expensive that it need be excluded from even moderate homes, considering the amount of work it will accomplish and the strength it will save. When a woman is obliged to do all her housework it ought certainly to be counted as one of the necessities. The kitchen cabinet with separate compartments for all kinds of groceries and supplies is sometimes preferred to the pantry. It is entirely a matter of personal preference which should be chosen, for both are most convenient. Reasonable care must, however, be taken not to leave groceries lying about loosely in the cabinet, for these will attract insects as well as mice. But the housekeeper endowed with even the most ordinary degree of order may easily avoid such a misfortune.

The electric or gasoline iron is a handy little appliance for making kitchen work lighter and is inexpensive when usefulness and labor saving qualities are balanced with dollars and cents. In the country, of course, the gasoline iron is generally the only one possible, but these have now been brought to a degree of perfection that makes them satisfactory.

The Use of the Kitchen.

One last important point to remember in furnishing a kitchen is that its real purpose is a workroom, not a living or dining room. A workroom should have its tools conveniently arranged within easy reach of the workman. All utensils and evidences of kitchen work should not be kept in other parts of the house or stowed away in obscure places in order that the room may be presentable when strangers come. The modern kitchen is not intended to fill the place of a reception room, and only in exceptional cases should it be used as a dining room.

The Scrap Book

A Writer In the Wrong Pew.

When James Payn was editor of the Cornhill Magazine his private office was invaded one day by an unannounced visitor who had managed to evade the porter downstairs. The caller's hair was long, and his clothes were shabby and untidy. He had a roll of paper in his hand. Payn, surmising a poet and an epic several thousand lines long, looked up.

"Well, sir?"

"I've brought you something about sarcoma and carcinoma."

"We are overcrowded with poetry—couldn't accept another line, not if it were by Milton."

"Poetry!" the caller flashed. "Do you know anything about sarcoma and carcinoma?"

"Italian lovers, aren't they?" said Payn imperturbably.

The caller retreated with a withering glance at the editor. Under the same roof as the Cornhill was the office of a medical and surgical journal, and it was this that the caller sought for the disposal of a treatise on those cancerous growths with the euphonious names which, with a layman's ignorance, Payn ascribed to poetry.—McClure's.

Things to Forget.

If you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd,
A leader of men, marching fearless and proud,
And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud
Would cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet and guarded and kept from the day
In the dark and whose showing, whose sudden display,
Would cause grief and sorrow and lifelong dismay,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy
Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy,
That will wipe out a smile or the least way annoy
A fellow or cause any gladness to cloy,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

Hoist With His Own Petard.

The girl with the soft, appealing eyes looked up at the tall, broad shouldered young man who was hovering about her with a protecting air, having just won her from a hated rival.

"Jim," she murmured, "now that we've been engaged ever since last night, and you won't ever need to be jealous again, I've brought you to select a tie for—for—anyway, you will, won't you? A man's taste is so correct in such things."

"For Phil, you mean? Of course I will," Jim replied with a magnanimous air. "This green tie with the yellow stripes is fine and dandy. Get him that."

"Are you sure it is quite your choice," the girl asked anxiously. "Usually you select such quiet ties."

"That is precisely my taste," the young man said glibly.

The girl exchanged a two dollar bill for the gaudy necktie and a moment later slipped it into her companion's hand.

"Jim," she said, "I can't just keep it secret an instant longer. It's really for you—the first gift I've ever given you—so I wanted it be exactly what you liked. You must wear it always when you come to see me," added the possessor of the soft, appealing eyes, with an adorable blush.—Kansas City Times.

An Eye Out.

Dispute over a cab fare in London gave Henry Herman, the dramatist, opportunity for playing a grim joke at the driver's expense. Herman was the unfortunate possessor of a glass eye, which, on Jehu's waxing demonstrative with his whip, whereof the lash passed perilously near, he suddenly pulled out and thrust in cabby's face. "You rascal," he vociferated, "look what you've done! You've cut my eye out!" Without waiting for the money in dispute the driver lashed his horse and fled aghast.

A Sad Experience.

C. K. G. Billings, the famous horseman, had a sad, heartbreaking experience with the first horse he ever owned.

When quite a young man Mr. Billings fancied a fast trotting mare priced to him at $2,000; but, not having more than $500 to his name, he persuaded his mother to advance him the balance, which she did after much coaxing and begging. In due time his father heard of the fast trotter his son had bought and expressed a desire to try her.

The request was complied with, and after a few spins on the road the old gentleman asked how much he had paid for her.

"Six hundred dollars, father," was the answer.

"Well, Charley, the mare is not worth it," said the governor, "but I rather like the way she steps, so I will take her from you, and you can have your $600."

The deal had to be closed.

Real Economy.

"Martha," said old Silas Long to his wife, "I think I'll go and get a few apples from the orchard."

He looked at her timidly. She said: "Well, be careful now, Si, only to pick the bad ones."

"Suppose there ain't no bad ones, Martha."

"Then ye'll have to wait till some goes bad, of course," the old lady snapped. "We can't afford to eat good, sound fruit wuth 3 cents a bushel."

Appropriate Verdict.

"Well, that's what I call an appropriate verdict," remarked Jilson the other evening as he threw down his paper.

"What is it?" asked his wife.

"Why," he replied, "you know the defaulting cashier at the bank, who committed suicide when the shortage was discovered?"

"Yes, I remember," said Mrs. Jilson, "but what of the verdict?"

"This morning," answered Jilson, "the coroner's jury brought in a verdict of death from exposure."—New York Journal.

A Mean Reflection.

If You Would Cure That Back.

You need a pleasant herb remedy called Mother Gray's Australian-Leaf for all kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. As a regulator it has no equal, cures headaches, nervousness, dizziness, and loss of sleep. At all druggists or by mail, 50 cents. Sample Free. Address, The Mother Gray Co., LeRoy, N. Y.

The Bait.

Father—I'm very much afraid that Millie will elope with that young rascal. Mother—I don't think so, dear. I reminded her last evening that girls who eloped got no wedding presents, and I feel sure that my words sank deep into her heart.

Your tongue is coated.
Your breath is foul.
Headaches come and go.
These symptoms show that your stomach is the trouble. To remove the cause is the first thing, and Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will do that. Easy to take and most effective. Sold by L. I. Wood & Co.

Appropriate.

The professor of painting has just entered the class room, where smoking is strictly prohibited. Here he finds an art student holding in his hand a newly filled cherry wood pipe.

Professor (ironically)—What a queer paint brush you have got there! What are you going to do with it?

Student — Oh, I'm going to make clouds with it!

Barking, Hacking, Rasping Cough

can be broken up quickly by Allen's Lung Balsam. This old, reliable remedy has been sold for over 40 years. Ask your druggist about it.

The Brown Rat.

The brown rat is practically omnivorous. Its bill of fare includes seeds and grains of all kinds and food products made from them, fruit and vegetables, mushrooms, bark of growing trees, bulbs, roots, stems, leaves and flowers of herbaceous plants, eggs, chicks, ducklings, young pigeons, young rabbits, milk, butter, cheese, fresh meat, carrion, mice, fish, frogs and mussels. This great variety of food explains the ease with which rats adapt themselves to almost any environment.

We desire to express our thanks to our kind friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy to us during the sickness and death of our beloved son and brother.

Amby Powell and Family.

Syllogistic.

"I thought your wife's name was Elizabeth?"

"So it is."

"Then why do you call her Peggy?"

"Short for Pegasa."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Why, Pegasa is feminine for Pegasus."

"Well?"

"Well, Pegasus is an immortal steed."

"What of that?"

"Sh—not so loud! She's in the next room. You see, an immortal steed is an eternal nag!"—London Scraps.

The Sound Sleep of Good Health

The restorative power of sound sleep can not be over estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southers, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "For a long time I have been unable to sleep soundly nights because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley's Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock. I eat and enjoy my meals, and my general condition is greatly improved. I can honestly recommend Foley's Kidney Pills as I know they have cured me." L. I. Wood & Co.

From the Days of Abraham.

Damascus has strong claims to be considered the oldest city in the world. The place remains very much what it was before the days of the patriarch Abraham, an island of verdure set in the Syrian desert, and has martial and sacred associations extending through thirty centuries. According to Josephus, Damascus was founded by Uz, the son of Aram and grandson of Shem. It is first mentioned in Scripture in Genesis xv, 2, in connection with Abraham, whose steward was a native of that place.

Diarrhoea should be cured withont loss of time and by a medicine which like Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy not only cures promptly but produces no unpleasant after effects. It never fails and is pleasant to take. Sold by L. I. Wood & Co.

A TIMELESS WORLD.

What Would Happen if We Were Entirely Inclosed by Clouds.

If astronomers are right in ascribing the wonderful brightness of Venus to the existence of an atmosphere continually filled with clouds, then she must be a world without time—at least there can be no measurement of time there such as we have here.

It is because we can see the sun and the stars that we are able to traverse the oceans and run railroad trains across the continents.

Surround our earth with an unbroken shell of clouds and what would become of all our clocks and chronometers? Not a ship could safely cross the sea; not a railroad would be able to run its trains without a series of frightful wrecks. In a few weeks every clock and watch would be hopelessly wrong and all exact timekeeping would cease.

Probably there are few who stop to think of the way in which our everyday life depends upon astronomical observations. Our great primary timekeeper is the earth rotating on its axis. If we could not see the sun and stars because of clouds we should not know that the earth rotates and there would be no standard to which we could refer our timepieces and by which we could correct them. In fact, we should probably have no timepieces.

There could be no hours and minutes, for they are exact divisions of an ideal day based upon celestial observations which would be impossible to us.

They could not be based upon clocks or other mechanical devices, because the most exquisite chronometer that can be constructed will not keep time indefinitely and must be continually corrected by means of observations of the stars made in the observatories.

There could be no accurate maps of countries or charts of the seas, for such maps and charts can be made only by the aid of astronomical observations.

There could be no parallels of latitude or meridians of longitude, for they, too, are based on celestial observations which would be impossible to us.

We should not know with any certainty where we were upon the earth. We could not measure the distance from New York to London nor from New York to San Francisco.

Poetical minds, moved by the spectacle of Venus in her glory, have drawn brilliant pictures of the delights of life in that radiant world, but there is another side to the question of which we may well think as we gaze admiringly upon her electric splendor.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York American.

The "Arabian Nights."

The collection of tales called the "Thousand and One Nights," or the "Arabian Nights," is of unknown date and authorship. It was first made known in Europe about the end of the seventeenth century by Antoine Galland, who was employed by Colbert to collect manuscripts in the east. The copy of the Arabic manuscript brought by Galland from Syria contained a marginal note dated 1584, and from internal evidence the middle of the fifteenth century has been fixed upon as the probable period of the composition of the work. Some of the tales were evidently borrowed by the writer from other authors, and Von Hammer identifies at least the plot and some of the stories of the "Arabian Nights" with an earlier collection in Persian called the "Thousand Fanciful Stories."

April Fooling.

The origin of the custom of April fooling cannot be traced with any degree of certainty. In the literature of the last ceutury there are found many references to it, and yet beyond that it is scarcely possible to go. One suggestion is that the custom of playing tricks on the first day of April was derived from some ancient pagan custom, such as the Hull festival among the Hindoos or the Roman feast of the fools. One fact, however, we do know, and that is that the practice prevails in many countries under various names which would seem to indicate that it dates away back to the early history of the race.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Four Extremes.

The coldest place on earth inhabited by man is Verkhoyansk, above the arctic circle, in northeastern Siberia. The thermometer there drops to 90 degrees below zero in January, but sometimes rises to 86 degrees above zero in the shade in July, dropping, however, to the freezing point on the warmest summer nights. The hottest place in the world is the interior of the great Sahara desert, in Africa, where the thermometer rises to 122 degrees. The wettest place is Greytown, Nicaragua, where the mean annual rainfall is 260 inches. The place of least rain is Port Nolloth, in South Africa, where less than an inch sometimes falls in a year.

All For Love.

"Did you ever know a girl to die for love?"

"Yes."

"Did she just fade away and die because some man deserted her?"

"No; she just took in washing and worked herself to death because the man she loved married her."—Houston Post.

A Cruel Hint.

Nell—Harry had such a masterful way about his proposing that I liked. Belle—Did you? That's queer, for it was exactly what made most of us other girls turn him down.—Baltimore American.

EVERY FARMER KNOWS

THAT THE

DeLAVAL

Cream Separators

are in a class by themselves as the best separators. But many have the mistaken idea, which would-be-competitors help to magnify, that they are "expensive" and that something "cheaper" will do in their stead.

The Facts Are That The DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS are not only the best but at the same time by far the cheapest—in proportion to the actual capacity and the actual life of the machine.

These are simple facts easily capable of proof to any buyer who will take the trouble to get at them and who need only apply to the nearest De Laval agent or send for a catalogue to do so.

DEFORD TRIMS CASS CITY.

Little confident of success, but bound to make the attempt, a bunch of Cass City boys made their way to Deford on the afternoon train Friday to meet their southern neighbors in a friendly game of base ball. The boys were accompanied by Alex Duncanson, who acted as umpire.

When the boys reached Deford and saw the size of the opposing team, they were still less confident, but when the fifth inning was reached and the score stood 5 to 1 in their favor they began to pick up courage.

Owing to lack of practice, they made many errors and lost the ten-inning game by a 9 to 8 score. Lee's pitching was a special feature of the game, because he had never been in the box before and never played in the infield. Lack of support at times did not seem to worry him in the least. Duncanson's tagging on third and Weaver's work behind the bat were other features.

The line-up: Weaver, c; Lee, p; Brown, ss; Fritz, 2nd; 3rd, Duncanson; lf, Crawford; cf, McPhail rf, Bien; 1st, McGillvray.

A return game will be played here tomorrow afternoon.

WM. BEARDSLEY INJURED.

Thrown From Carriage When Horse Was Frightened by Auto.

When Wm. Ware and Wm. Beardsley and their families were driving home from Cass City Sunday where they had attended a morning church service, they were met a few miles west of town by an automobile. The horses driven by both gentlemen became frightened. Mr. Ware's horse broke the harness, but Mr. Beardsley had greater trouble with his steed. In the mix-up every wheel on the carriage was broken, the vehicle was ditched and Mr. Beardsley was throw out and had his nose fractured, his cheek cut open and his face skinned.

Much indignation is expressed over the action of the automobilists. It is said they came down the road at a good speed, and even if they were not signalled to slacken speed, they should have used better judgment in passing a line of vehicles in which it is easy to cause an accident. After the accident, the occupants of the machine did not stop to ascertain if they could be of any assistance, but proceeded on their journey. The number of the auto was secured and an investigation may follow.

Announcement of a national tuberculosis Sunday to be held on April 24th in 215,000 churches of the United States was made public recently by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Following campaigns against consumption that have been carried on in churches of hundreds of cities, and sermons on tuberculosis that have been preached before thousands of congregations durng the past year, a movement has been started to establish a permanent tuberculosis Sunday, on which it is hoped that every one of the 33,000,000 church goers in the United States will hear the gospel of health. It is planned to enlist the active co-operation of anti-tuberculosis organizations, labor unions, fraternal organizations, and other bodies together with the churches in the movement. The aid of leading churchmen in many of the principal denominations has already been offered. All of the large interdenominational bodies, such as the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the King's Daughters and Sons, and the various young people's societies are also in sympathy with the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

It is planned that on April 24th tuberculosis sermons shall be preached in all the churches of the country. Literature will be distributed to members of the congregations, and in every way an effort will be made to teach that tuberculosis is a dangerous disease and that it can be prevented and cured.

Clergymen who desire to obtain additional information in regard to tuberculosis will be able to secure literature from state and local anti-tuberculosis associations and boards of health, as well as from the National Association.
