PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN DIED TUESDAY NIGHT.

Funeral Will Be Held Friday Afternoon at the Presbyterian Church.

Like a bolt of lightning from a clear sky came the news of the death of J. C. Lauderbach to the citizens of Cass City late Tuesday night. While he had not been well for the past two weeks, he was able to be around his place of business a greater part of the time and as late as Monday, he greeted his friends in the store and attended to closing up that evening. During that night he was taken violently ill and on Tuesday his condition was most serious. That evening about ten o'clock, he passed away.

John Calvin Lauderbach was born in Columbia County, Pennsylvania, on June 10, 1860. At the age of 18 years, he moved with his parents, brothers and sisters to Unionville,

THOMAS SPENCER ELLIOTT

Passed Away at Home of Son in Novesta Township.

Thos. S. Elliott was released from three years of suffering by the Death Messenger Sunday, Apr. 17, and passed to his reward from the home of his son, D. C. Elliott, in Novesta township, three and one-half miles southeast of Cass City.

Thomas Spencer Elliott was born in Lansdown, Ont., 84 years ago. He went to New York state in 1860 and during the Civil War enlisted in the Union army.

After receiving his discharge at the close of the war, he returned to New York state. In 1871, he and his family came to Michigan and settled in Almer township, Tuscola county. They remained there about ten years and later removed to Kingston township. Fourteen years ago, Mrs. Elliott died at Wilnot and directly after the death of his wife, Mr. Elliott went to Canada. He spent several years there and in Massachusetts.

Five years ago, he came to make his home with his son, D. C. Elliott of Novesta township. Three years ago, he suffered a stroke of paralysis and ever since that time he was an invalid.

In early life, Mr. Elliott became affiliated with the M. E. church. He was also a member of the G. A. R. Post at Pittsfield, Mass.

The funeral service was held at the residence, Rev. W. B. Weaver officiating, and the remains laid to rest beside those of his wife in the Kingston cemetery.

Deceased is survived by three sons, D. C. of Novesta, Thos. J. of Kingston and Geo. E. of Pittsfield, Mass., and two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith of Belleville, Ont., and Mrs. Alice Batty of Kent, N. Y.

GRAVEL SECURED FOR STATE ROADS

WHICH WILL BE CONSTRUCTED IN ELKLAND TOWNSHIP.

Gravel Will Be Taken From the Davis Pit and One Near the Cemetery.

P. A. Koepfgen, highway commissioner, has completed arrangements for the securing of gravel for building the two miles of state road in Elkland township this summer.

The gravel for the mile extending south from the Bethel church will be taken from the Ed Davis pit just across the Huron County line. For $100, Mr. Koepfgen secures enough gravel from this pit to build the mile of road and any amount the township may desire to place on the other roads this year in repairs. In the event that the mile of state road is not completed this year, the township has the privilege of securing gravel there to complete the job at the original price of $100, but this figure does not include gravel for repairs after this season.

For the mile of state road extending from the East river bridge to the Sanilac County line, the gravel will be taken from the pit near the Elkland cemetery. This gravel will cost the township ten cents a load.

Both pits are located near the state roads which will be built. While the township has bought gravel as low as five cents a load in some instances, the short hauls make a great difference in the cost of road construction and gravel which would have to be hauled a mile or two farther and was offered free of charge would be more expensive in the long run than that purchased closer by for ten or fifteen cents a load.

WHAT FARMERS SHOULD KNOW

QUESTIONS SURE TO BE ASKED BY CENSUS TAKER.

By Preparing an Accurate Statement Farmers Will Speed the Work.

By preparing an accurate account of their farm operations during the year ended Dec. 31, 1909, and by making an inventory on April 15, 1910, of all their farm possessions the farmers of the country can render the census bureau and the public at large an inestimable service. It is not to be expected that farmers will ever keep as complete accounts as do manufacturers and merchants. The very nature of their occupation—the long hours and arduous labor of the summer months—are a partial bar to

WASTED THE CROP.

Destroying It Did Not Bring the Promised Reward.

"Tom Angus was an architect of Tombstone," said the story teller. "When they expected Mrs. Langtry in Tombstone, Tom was appointed to decorate the railway station and the streets. He did so, and he made a good job of it, and after the mayor had congratulated him he said:

"Well, Mr. Mayor, since you like my work, introduce me to Mrs. Langtry at the banquet, will you?" "Sure, I will," said the mayor, "but you must knock that spinach off your chin first. Mrs. Langtry is a lady, and she could never stand for a rusty alfalfa field like yours."

"But," stammered Tom—"but, Mr. Mayor, the king—"

"Cut down the alfalfa crop," the mayor interrupted, "and I'll introduce you. Vice versa," he added, very decidedly. "So Tom removed his rich whiskers, and that night among the banqueters his white, nude chin was a conspicuous object. But the mayor didn't introduce him to the beautiful Mrs. Langtry, after all. After every course and all through the speeches Tom kept winking and nodding at his honor, but it was to no purpose. He didn't get introduced. "And the next day, after Mrs. Langtry was gone, the mayor, when Tom reproached him, gave a loud laugh. "Was that you," he roared, "nodding and winking all last night? By Jove, I didn't recognize you, Tom, without your whiskers."

Anger.

If you wish not to be of an angry temper do not feed the habit. Throw nothing on it which will increase it. At first keep quiet and count the days on which you have been angry.—Epictetus.

Diplomacy.

Down on New York's west side there's a 'longshore saloon where they set up a huge schooner for 5 cents. When 6 o'clock blows the place is thronged by the thirsty, fortifying themselves for the long walk home. One night a huge Irishman in a red flannel shirt, open at his brawny chest and rolled up over swelling biceps, stood in the crowd and tapped his nickel on the bar. Just as the bar-keeper set out the schooner the swing door burst open, and a little Irishman rushed in, flung his coat on the floor, threw his hat beside it and, jumping on them, yelled in a high voice quivering with rage: "Which one of yez beat up poor Pat Murphy?" The big Irishman in the red shirt tapped his chest. "Twas me!" he bellowed hoarsely. The little Irishman whirled round. "Gee!" he piped. "Ye did him up foine!"—Lippincott's.

Napoleon's Gift.

A former viceroy of India was once a guest at an official banquet in London and found himself placed next to a portly London alderman. "My grandfather knew Napoleon," said the latter to the distinguished guest. "The emperor gave him a lovely snuffbox. There is a hen on the lid." "Dear me!" replied the viceroy. "It is probably an eagle, not a hen." "No, it is a hen," persisted the alderman, producing the box from his pocket and proudly displaying the initial "N" of the emperor's name in brilliants on the lid.

A Valuable Signature.

Whistler's professional as well as legal signature was a butterfly. It appeared on his paintings and was the only signature recognized at his bank. Autograph fiends schemed in vain and would have paid handsomely for Whistler's autograph in script. One day the painter was visited in his studio by a dealer who appeared to be very angry. He had received Whistler's check for £1 5s. and wrathfully demanded a proper signature that would draw the money at the bank.

Whistler, genuinely enraged at the thought that there could be any one so ignorant as not to know about the famous butterfly, wrote his name on the check, knowing that the bank would refuse it and picturing to himself with joy the dealer's punishment in forfeiting the £1 5s. owing to him. The next day the painter was so furious he nearly had a fit on learning that within an hour the dealer had sold the rare signature for £62.

J. C. LAUDERBACH CLAIMED BY DEATH

The trade steadily grew and a few years later a commodious brick block was erected for the business with residence rooms on the second floor.

Here Mr. Lauderbach established himself as an energetic, trustworthy business man whose integrity was of the highest character. Not only in a business way but in private life, he won many friends. He was invariably a good neighbor and the grief that is felt at the sudden ending of his career is widespread and sincere.

Besides a wife and aged father, six brothers, L. B. and Howard of Cass City, Mack of Newcomer, Ohio, Albert, Emmet and Claude of Bay City, and three sisters, Mrs. P. F. Steiner, Mrs. C. C. Childs and Mrs. E. W. Childs, all of Colling, survive the deceased.

Mr. Lauderbach was a member of Cass City Lodge, I. O. O. F., and Tyler Lodge, F. & A. M. In the former society, he had filled all the offices while a member and at the time of his death held the highest position in the local lodge, that of District Deputy Grand Master.

The funeral service will be held in the Presbyterian church this (Friday) afternoon at two o'clock. The following friends will act as pall bearers: H. L. McDermott, S. G. Benkelman, N. Bigelow, J. W. Ball, C. H. Travis and W. N. Straube.
