AUTOS, PROFITS THE AND CRAZE.

From different points in the country come comments on the automobile craze, so called, some upholding the business and others finding fault with it. Bankers in Oklahoma are endeavoring to correct the "prevelant habit of withdrawing the funds the people need in order to make investments in motor cars and gasoline."

The automobile business has been booming, and other lines of business which formerly felt the influences of are loud in their criticism and condemnation of the craze for the gasoline car.

"The automobile is hurting general business," is a remark very often heard. And it is true, the same as the craze for bicyles hurt general business twenty years ago. People spent their money for wheels, borrowed money in some cases, and in others, let their creditors wait, while they became possessed of a silent steed. The same is true with the automobile, although to a much poorly. greater extent, yet if people have money and can afford to own and operate a car, it is their business and theirs alone. The real damage resulting from the automobile business is being caused by people who buy when they are not possessed of sufficient means. This is an indiscreet act, and puts them to a continual expense account, which perhaps, they cannot cope with.

We know of a tradesman in Bay county who owned a home, worth a thousand dollars. It was clear of debt. He is a man of a family, and is visiting friends here. had by hard work in addition to his home, accumulated a nest egg of $400 on kindred and friends. in the bank. It was about all he could do, with steady work, to make both ends meet. The home and the hank account represented his life's work. He caught the auto craze. He mortgaged his home for $800, withdrew the $400 from the bank and bought an automobile, and a contin- line called at Mrs. E. R. Bruce's uous source of expense at the same Friday. time.

The general trend of the American people is toward extravagance. They lean that way. Extravagance takes many forms. Some people run to pianos, some to motor boats, to Thursday, East Dayton played with horses, diamonds, or something else which they do not require. We cannot say how any person shall spend his money, but justice requires that a person should pay his debts first, and then if he has a surplus, it is no one's business how he may invest it. The wise man, however, will not live for today alone. He looks to the future—to the declining years and aims to so forearm himself that he will not become a burden upon his relatives or the community in which he lives. He owes this to society.

The automobile business takes money out of one channel, and puts it into another. The channel which misses it, decries the automobile business. It is therefore a business that will have to adjust itself. If a machine can be profitably employed, it ceases to be a luxury. If it cannot be, then it is a luxury, and only those who can afford luxuries, should aspire to own one. All of these things will be worked out in time, just as the bicycle business was worked out. The automobile has been standardized, is here to stay, and business interests which are affected by it, must make the best of the conditions.

The fabulous profits which some of the automobile factories are claiming to have made, suggest that they are getting more for their product than is justified. It is known that no piece of modern machinery deteriorates or depreciates so rapidly in value as an automobile. The factories which cut a melon in the shape of a thousand per cent. are certain- Detroit. ly not justified in profits of that size. Another factory which boasts of 63 per cent., leads some to ask if it is not charging too much for its goods. These profits are not to continue. You may bank on that. The enormous profits in the automobile business are about at an end, still we are in possession of a circular letter from one big company, soliciting the sale of a stock, in which it is represented its earning power is 34 per cent. as against 13 per cent. for the next highest of fourteen industrials.

Men in the automobile business do sion as to the future. A writer in a publication called "The Automobile' makes a statement that the ultimate normal demand for cars in this coun-City Enterprise consolidated Apr. 20, try will be near 500,000. Another 1906. that the normal demand will be some thing like three million motor cars for farm use alone, and he believes the day is not far distant when 90 per cent. of the doctors, collectors, salesmen, grocers and so on will be Cass City, Michigan, under the Act using cars. Whether these figures are approximately correct or not, the layman knows that the demand for the automobile will be tremendous, but also that if this is to be true, the future will see a material decrease in the retail selling price.-Bay City Times.

ADORABLE WOMEN.

This is what Dr. Max Baff of Clark college, Worcester, says concerning women:

Women wear feathers, paint their faces, pierce their ears, wear long hair, while men, on the contrary, have outgrown "these savage customs of personal adornment" and because of their advance have undergone a corresponding degree of mental and spiritual advance.

But have they? Have men advanced spiritually beyond women? Facts could be given to refute man's boasted mental superiority over woman's, and as to spirituality no facts are needed. Woman's superior spiritual nature is recognized by all save a few sapient college professors.

Lest we do him injustice let us quote one of Dr. Baff's paragraphs:

"To do away with clothes as an adornment would be a great benefit to women. If they cut their hair as men do and if they followed the natural manner of putting on garments only when the weather was cold they would be deprived of two great reasons for their mental concentration on the savage pleasures of personal adornment. They might then attempt to advance in civilization."

There, now! Woman is yet in a savage state, and different clothes would emancipate her, and-

How Dr. Baff must admire Dr. Mary Walker, who wears breeches and a high hat!

Let's follow the professor's argument in another way: Does woman really adorn herself for "savage pleasure" or because, perhaps, it is man who admires such adornment?

If it is man who adores the adorned woman, which of the two is the sav-

Among the animals it is the male that parades, bedecked and posed, in order to catch the eye and ensnare the affections of the susceptible female. Note the strutting peacock.

Now, among animals it is the female that is caught by color, gaud and grace; among humans it is the male that is thus caught.

Do you see where that puts man? Who is the savage?

Really, what stuff and nonsense is much of this criticism of woman's habit of appearing at her best! God, who is the author of beauty as well as of goodness, put into her heart -and for a good purpose-the desire to be beautiful. And he put appreciation into the heart of man so that to him a beautiful woman is the most beautiful thing in all the world. You say this desire may lead to vanity, extravagance, etc.? Certainly. But who would make all women ugly because a few go wrong?

MONEY MONOMANIACS.

A Missouri man pretended to be crazy and was sent to the insane asylum. When he arrived one of the doctors recognized him as a man who feigned insanity over in Illinois in order to get into an asylum. Confessing, the pretender said:

"No, I am not crazy, but the cost of living is so high I thought I could get my bed and board cheap in the insane hospital." Not crazy! Why, the man had one of the worst phases of lunacy. He was well fixed financially, but to save paying out money he was willing to undergo the hourly horrors of a madhouse. And there are others.

Recently upon his invitation I went | The Kind You Have Always Bought to lunch with a wealthy man. He watched my orders to the waiter, as if they hurt him. They did. He ordered sparingly. When the bill was presented he fumbled in his pockets and said, "I declare, I haven't any money with me!" "Don't mention it," I said as I paid the bill.

The man looks mean every time he sées me.

He is a money monomaniac.

I know a woman who is demented concerning fashionable attire. She stints herself and almost starves her husband and children to get money to buy stylish new gowns and hats and shoes. She is the "best dressed woman" in the village where she livesand one of the most miserable.

She has gone daft over styles. And you and I know men who, while they are not so crazy to save money, are lunatics about making money. They will jeopardize their health, their families, even their honor, to pile up useless dollars.

There is no meaner mental disease than money madness.

Economy and thrift are well enough in their place, but not at the expense of friendship and charity and the plain duties of life. And the making of money is all right in its place, but not at the expense of health and integrity and honorable living.

There are a lot of people outside the insane asylums who of right should be locked up.

FORBEARANCE.

The little I have seen of the world teaches me to look upon the errors of others in sorrow, not in anger. When I take the history of one poor heart that has sinned and suffered and represent to myself the struggles and temptations it has passed through, the brief pulsations of joy, e feverish inquietude of hope and fear, the pressure of want, the desertion of friends, I would fain leave the erring soul of my fellow E n with him from whose hand it came.—Longfellow.

Automatic Housekeeping.

Automatic housekeeping as understood by the Englishwoman implies orders given to the cook and to others who minister to the wants of the household in such a way that the mistress is saved the trouble of thinking of every small thing that needs seeing to and yet each detail receives expert attention. The sweep has orders to come on certain days of the year, the window cleaners on a certain day each fortnight or so; the window boxes and inside flowers receive regular care from the florist, etc. Even the breakfast, luncheon and dinner menus are mapped out by the month, subject, of course, to certain unforeseen changes. Carefully thought out and checked from time to time, the system has many merits if not carried to excess. The ordering of meals wholesale is the detail that may most readily lead to extravagance and waste.

DURABLE HITCHING POST.

Article Made of Concrete Combines Attractiveness With Convenience. Attractiveness as well as convea-ing sides are twenty-four inches high and slant, so that the top is but six inches or eight inches square. This is done by cutting boards of the correct shape and size for base and slanting sides and then nailing them to the uprights so as to make the mold in two sections, each section alike. Just onehalf of mold or one section is shown in the illustration. The opposite section is placed beside this, and the two are held together with hooks and eyelets while molding the work.

The ring is easily made by any blacksmith and has a rod to extend into the body of post about eight inches and with the end bent so it will not pull out easily. This is placed in the mold before filling in the concrete and thus is firmly imbedded in same. The mold is removed by turning the work upright or upon its base, as it is to stand, and then simply unbooking the books, when the two sections can be easily re-

SCIENCE ON THE FARM.

Enables the Farmer to Trade $2 For $9, Says a Scientist.

"Carrying Scientific Agriculture to the Farmer" was recently discussed by Dean H. L. Russell, University of Wisconsin: Scientific agriculture is permanent agriculture. The Chinese have a more fertile soil than ours because they have applied scientific agriculture. Holland produces thirtythree bushels of wheat per acre. We produce thirteen bushels.

Great interest could be aroused by convincing our people that there is an undiscovered continent whose soil is as productive as ours. We will find that continent when we discover the methods by which our soils can be made to double their production. Our experiment stations have discovered the secret, but that will do no good until the tillers of the soil understand it. The publications of our stations must reach our people and be read by them. Information must be put in concrete form; it must be visualized. Three things are necessary in farming -first, improved seed; second, improved production; third, reduction of loss. We are appointing county demonstrators who go into each county and employ the "show me" method of farming. Corn. wheat and other grains and crops are planted and the cultivation done before the farmer and his help.

The farmer may be prejudiced against new methods, but this opposition yields when he is shown the better way. Wisconsin was driven from raising wheat by the chinch bug, but this bug was a godsend to agriculture because the farmers went into the dairy business.

By growing wheat we increased our bank account and depleted our soils; by dairying we both increase our bank account and the fertility of our farms. The purchase of $2 worth of phoscrops $9 worth. We are always willing to trade $2 for $9. There is a limited amount of phosphorus in our soils. and to keep up the phosphorus content we buy for $10 as much phosphorus in the raw rock as we formerly got for $25 in the treated goods. The tax which comes from anathy, indifference and ignorance is the highest tax farm-

NORTHERN GRAIN APHIS.

Michigan Authority Believes Its Bark Is Much Worse Than Its Bite.

Probably the most misleading insect on the grains if not on the farm is the common northern grain aphis. It collects during some seasons in great numbers on the heads of wheat, rye, barley, oats, sorghum and other near relatives of the grass family, sometimes fairly packing full the spaces in the heads of these plants and seeming to threaten their very existence. This gathering in great numbers usually occurs just as the grain is in the milk. In all the instances seen by the writer, R. H. Pettit of the Michigan experiment station, the threatened injury has been averted by tiny parasites, which have destroyed the plant lice and reduced the loss to a nominal one.

The northern grain aphis appears very much like other plant lice, both winged and wingless forms being found. The color is green with black markings. The illustration gives an idea of its appearance under a strong lens. Before the grain commences to ripen the parasites usually commence to destroy the lice. These parasites are black for the most part and about one-tenth of an inch in length. They move about with a quick, nervous motion. They lay their eggs in the living bodies of the lice. The grubs or larvae from the eggs feed on the body contents of the living lice, and when full grown each spins a cocoon inside the skin of the dead louse, swelling it to a pear shape and changing the color to a brown or copper tint. After pupation occurs inside this cocoon the parasite cuts a neat circular door in the skin of the louse in order to get out.

The multiplication of the plant lice is rapid indeed, but that of the parasites is still more rapid, so that before the grain is killed the lice are for the most part destroyed. Of course this may not always occur, but so far the writer's experience with them has been that their bark is far worse than their bite.

Cultivating the Corn Crop.

The essential thing in corn cultivation is to keep the ground free from weeds and covered with a soil mulch. The results of fifty-six different tests at seventeen different agricultural experiment stations show an average increase of 42 per cent resulting from shallow cultivation as compared with deep cultivation. In moist years cul tivation is of less importance than in dry years.

Agriculture In a High School. The Stockton (Cal.) board of education proposes to introduce agriculture at the opening of the fall term of its high school and to "teach all the high school sciences from an agricultural standpoint."

FOR THE THINKING FARMER.

Examine the crowns and roots of peach trees for borers. A mass of gum is an indication of the insects. They can be dug out with a knife and destroyed. A fine wire will also get them out.

When planting large, flat seeds set them in the ground edgewise. Germination is more certain.

Two experiment stations-Kansas and Nebraska-have had satisfactory results from seeding a mixture of alfalfa and brome grass for permanent pastures. The presence of the brome grass so reduces the danger from bloat that the value of alfalfa pastures becomes availa-

FUNGOUS POTATOES.

Old Disease That Is Caused by Too Much Wet Weather.

Last July and early in August we had considerable wet weather. The potato tops suffered badly from a blight. However, the vine recovered sufficiently to mature a fair crop. All through the winter the query was, FULLY SIXTY-FOUR PER CENT OF "What makes the cooked potato have such a sweet taste?" And again on cutting the tuber a brownish streak or blotch appears all through the tu ber, resembling a marble cake. This With Two Exceptions He Has the is seated mostly beneath where the eyes are and about one-eighth of an inch from the surface. The potato shows no outward sign of disease except that the eyes do not push as rapidly on a diseased potato as they do on one free from it. These streaks are about one inch long and one-fourth inch wide.

peculiar streaking in the tuber?" In tors of the state. All his life Mr. Oslooking over a history of fungoids and fungous disease of the potato we find | that a very similar condition existed in Ireland in 1845, resulting in a great from Michigan editors who know him potato famine there. That year was a very wet year, and the natural moist | tion with him on matters pertaining climate of Ireland gave a great impetus to this disease. It has not reappeared to any great extent till last year. It bears no resemblance to the potato scab either on the tuber or the foliage. In this disease the leaves turn a brownish black color and drop off, while the stalk or stem may retain quets in the lower part of the state some vitality even to sending out duplicate leaves, though much smaller. The disease is, however, carried down to the tuber and is seen there as described. In dry seasons or in dry sections no alarm need be felt as to the disease spreading, but in low moist sections care should be exercised.

Affected tubers should by no means be planted. Varieties resisting blights in general are safer for planting so as to be sure that this peculiar blight gets no hold. In some parts of Europe it is bad, and no doubt but that it has been introduced into this country from there. A few years ago we received from England some varieties. but nothing wrong was noticed at that time. Should the disease appear on the foliage sprayings of bordeaux should be given every ten or twelve days through the season.-National Stockman and Farmer.

GROWING ENGLISH WALNUTS.

Found to Be Capable of Doing Well In Eastern Orchards.

English walnuts are a welcome addition to the winter dinner bill, and many of them are eaten in New England. Few are the New Englanders, however, who have ever seen English walnuts growing. A Boston Globe correspondent sent in two photographs of walnut trees of the English variety raised in this country, with a note from the raiser of the nuts, Norman Pomeroy of Lockport, N. Y.

"Few people realize," wrote Mr. Pomeroy, "that English walnuts can be grown extensively in the eastern part of the United States, and only by the merest accident was it found that they could be. My father, Norman Pomeroy, visited the Centennial exposition and, noticing a tree in the yard where he boarded at Philadelphia bearing nuts, gathered about a peck of them and brought them home with him. Some children found a small hole in the corner of the valise and got out all the nuts but seven. These he planted, and they sent up shoots that grew into fine large trees, which bore well. Some more trees were raised from this acclimated stock, and we now have a fine young orchard. Quite a number of our neighbors also raise walnuts from this stock."

Purpose of Stirring Soil. A newly stirred soil admits the airto the roots, conserves moisture and prevents the growth of weeds. Every shower tends to seal up the surface and exclude the air. So aim to stir up the soil after every rain.

Little More Than a Bushel. A box 16 by 18 by 71/2 inches inside measurement holds a little over a bushel of fruit. It has a cubical content of 2,160 cubic inches, whereas a standard bushel requires but 2.150.42 cubic inches.

A Good Investment.

Beautiful home grounds are an investment, just as good fences. drainage, etc., are. They add to the value of the farm and to the happiness of the family.

THE REPUBLICAN PAPERS ARE FOR HIM.

Solid Backing of the Upper Peninsula Press.

newspaper support is an important factor in a primary campaign, and the formidable position Mr. Osborn now occupies in the gubernatorial race is due to the loyal support he The query was, "What caused that is receiving from the Republican ediborn has been a newspaper publisher, and many of the assurances of editorial support have been received best through their intimate associato the welfare of the craft, during the years he was actively interested in the various editorial associations of the state. Other offers of support have been received from editors who admire the fearless way he has of discussing public questions. His utterances at the various political banwinning him hosts of supporters in every county where he appeared. It is instinctive to admire a man who talks plain and strikes straight out from the shoulder, and Mr. Osborn's progress through the southern part of the state has surpassed the fondest hopes of his stanchest friends. Sixty-five Per Cent Favor Mr. Osborn.

It is really impossible to make an accurate estimate of the per cent of Michigan newspapers that are supporting the respective candidates for governor for the reason that upwards of two hundred publications are independent, and are trying to maintain a neutral position. Of the Republican papers listed in the latest issue of the Michigan Manual sixtyfive per cent of the number are either actively supporting Mr. Osborn outright or are favorable to his candi-An additional ten per cent have, as yet, expressed no preference on the subject, and include the Clinton County Republican, Marshall Statesman, Hastings Banner, Charlotte Republican and several other strong weeklies, all of which are disposed to look upon the Osborn candidacy with genuine favor.

One of the pleasing things of the campaign, to Mr. Osborn, is the royal support he is receiving from his home papers, every paper in his congressional district, comprising 15 counties, with but two exceptions, doing active work in his behalf. The idle gossip frequently heard in the southern part of the state that Mr. Osborn is going to have genuine onposition in the upper peninsula not worth denying. His strength in the north country is well expressed by the sheriff of Alger county, who stated "Mr. Osborn will get 95 out of every hundred votes in the upper peninsula."

Newspaper Situation in Other Parts. The unsolicited action of many southern Michigan papers in floating the Osborn banner at their editorial masthead gives some idea of the way the sentiment in the lower peninsula is crystalizing for Mr. Osborn. In Mt. Pleasant, where Mr. Kelly opened his campaign, an Osborn club, with 300 members, has been organized, and the Central Michigan Times, edited by W. O. Hullinger, well known in state newspaper circles, is outspoken for Mr. Osborn's nomination. Isabella County Republican at Shepherd is favoring the Soo candidate. In Alcona county, the Review is for Mr. Osborn, likewise the Independent, one of the strong Republican papers of Antrim county, published at Bellaire. At Plainwell Mr. Osborn has a strong editorial support from Homer Bryan, editor of the Plainwell News. For several years Mr. Bryan was located at Alpena, and is well known to the craft. The Alpena Evening News, one of the strong papers in the tenth district, looks with favor upon Mr. Osborn, which is likewise true of many of the other party organs in Congressman Loud's bailiwick, including The Petoskey Daily Record, Harbor Springs Republican. The Cheboygan Tribune, the four papers in Presque Isle-Millesburg News, Inter Lake and Outlook of Onaway and Presque Isle County Advance, printed at Rogers. In Montmorency, the Atlanta Tribune is favorable. In Alcona, the Review, printed at Harrisville, is with Mr. Osborn In Iosco the Gazette at East Tawas and the Oscoda Press, both lean to the Osborn candidacy. The Au Gres Enterprise is for Mr. Osborn. In Midland county, the Republican, published at the county seat, is supporting the Osborn end. Bay county, Dick Fletcher is having a tough time to get things lined up for Mr. Kelley, notwithstanding the alleged "repudiation" of the state administration by Mr. Kelley at Mt. Pleasant. A recent postcard poll in Bay City showed Mr. Osborn way in the lead.

Still Farther South for Osborn.

In the second and third congressional districts, where heavy votes will be polled in interesting congressional contests, Mr. Osborn is receiving his share of the newspaper support. In Washtenaw, Ann Arbor Times-News is behind Mr. Osborn; in fact Washtenaw is conceded to Mr. Osborn, because of the splendid support he will receive in the University City. In a recent statement a wellknown Republican of that county said he favored Mr. Osborn because it would help the county tickets this fall, and the vote is always close on county jobs in Washtenaw. Mr. Osborn has many good friends in Monroe, and he enjoys the support of he only Republican paper in the county, the Record Commercial. Ostorn sentiment is growing in jackson, where his candidacy is being treated very cordially by the pub-ishers of the Patriot and Citizen Press. In Lenawee Editor Perry, of the Telegram, is an old time friend of Mr. Osborn's, while Mr. Dailey, of the Times, is devoting his energies to the Townsend campaign. In the third district Mr. Osborn has the support of the three daily papers in Battle Creek—The Moon, Journal and Enquirer—and is making considerable headway in that county, although it has long been regarded as administration territory. The failure to make County Clerk Ray Hart warden at Jackson may have something to do with the slump from Kelley. The Recorder, the Albion daily, has been with Mr. Osborn from the first. Statesman at Marshall is friendly. In Branch, the Courier favors Mr. Osborn, and the Reporter is not doing him any damage. In Hillsdale, Mr. Grandon's Standard-Herald, one of the best small town dailies in the state, is inclined to Mr. Osborn, likewise the Leader. Dr. Sawyer, a University regent from Hillsdale, is active for Mr. Osborn, and with the newspaper aid at hand it is expected Hillsdale will find a place in the Osborn column.

Looks Good Still Farther South.

The News-Palladium, of Benton Harbor, is very cordial through its columns to the Osborn candidacy, also the Banner-Register of the same In Dowagiac Mr. Osborn's friends state that he will have splendid editorial support. In Van Buren the South Haven Tribune is friendly, but this is in pro-Kelley territory, where the lieutenant-governor was born and married, and he has a good support in this section; in fact, the fourth congressional district is his best area in Michigan. The Hast-ings Banner, one of the strongest weeklies in the district, in the state for that matter, will be in the Osborn band wagon at an early date. Both M. L. and W. R. Cook are oldtime friends of Mr. Osborn and enjoy vouching for a candidate who stands for the political reform advocated by Mr. Osborn. In Ionia county the Portland Review, edited by Fred J. Mauren, is friendly to Mr. Osborn, and wields a strong influence in that locality. Over in the seventh another congressional fight is going on, and Mr. Cramton, of Lapeer, one of the insurgents in the last session, is after Congressman McMorran. Of necessity he is keeping away from the governorship. In Port Huron N Osborn is going to have a splendid newspaper support, which is also true throughout the seventh district. One of the strongest Osborn editors Hon. Perry F. Powers, of Cadillac, who is for Mr. Osborn because he believes him the ideal man for gov-Wexford county will be solid for Osborn, the other newspapers supporting the Soo man, including the Manton Tribune and Mesick Sun. Outside of Grand Rapids, not a single one of the large dailies is taking sides in the gubernatorial fight, although every paper in Detroit and Grand Rapids feels very kindly towards the gentleman from the Soo. 12

Watches and Pickpockets.

"It's a peculiar thing," said the headquarters detective, "that with the increase in popularity of cheap watches the number of reports which we have received of watches stolen by pickpockets has diminished greatly. No first class pickpocket tries for watches any more. The same skill is required to get away with a dollar watch as a hundred dollar one, so when the dips found they were touching well dressed men for imitations they gradually ceased trying for them. Siam's Royal Palace.

One of the most remarkable buildings in the world is the palace of the king of Siam. It is inclosed in dazzlingly white walls over a mile in circumference. Within these walls are temples, public offices, seraglios, stable for the sacred elephant, accommodation for 1,000 troops, cavalry, war elephants and an arsenal. There is also a very fine theater. Tar Water.

Tar water was a cure-all in the eighteenth century. It was prepared by pouring a gallon of water on a quart of tar, and the dose was half a pint in the morning and a second glass in the afternoon. Its use became so fashionable that a contemporary noted: "It's as common to call for a glass of tar water in a coffee house as a dish of tea or coffee.'

LITERARY UB EAST WAIF AWAKES IN MIDOCEAN West Indian Orphan Falls Astron

Professor Has Snap, No Matter What He Talks Of, Says Critic.

So Says One of Editors of Independent. Recognized Authority on University Life, in Article in Cap and Gown.

Chicago.—It is easy to be a literary professor—comparatively. Not for him the stern and unrelenting pursuit of cold facts, long hours in laboratories, excursions into dangerous parts of the world or dabbling in disagreeable materials. The literary professor gets paid for what others gladly do for nothing.

At least so asserts Dr. Edwin E. Slosson, one of the editors of the Independent and a recognized authority on American university life, in an article contributed to the Cap and Gown, the University of Chicago annual.

"The greatest advantage which the literary man has over his scientific colleague is that it does not matter what he says," writes Dr. Slosson. "That is why he is such a brilliant lecturer, or can be. We could any of us be brilliant if we did not care what we said. The easiest way to get a reputation for pungent philosophy is to take some common saying and reverse it. The most ordinary coat looks funny when you wear it inside out.

"The scientist has to stick to facts. The belle-lettrist hasn't many facts to stick to, and if he gets them wrong there is no harm done. If the lecturer on chemistry gets confused and tells his class to run ammonia into chlorine water instead of chlorine into ammonia water, he is likely to lose a student or two; perhaps a wing of the laboratory. But if the literary lecturer, in telling his students to trace the influence of Swinburne on Matthew Arnold, should get his instructions reversed the student would not get blown up-except by his professor.

"A professor of English literature aims to get his students to love Browning's poetry, not necessarily to understand it. A professor of chemistry aims to get his students to understand chemistry, not necessarily to love it. It is easier to learn to love something than to understand it. It is not necessary to understand a young lady before falling in love with herfortunately. Otherwise few of us would ever have married or even now be in love with our wives.

"The literary professor is not expected to write novels. It is regarded as rather discreditable if he doesespecially if they sell well. He lectures on the essential qualities of good fiction and the causes of its success. but he can not pick the winners out of the thousands of new novels that appear each year. If he could he would not be teaching. Any publisher would give him $10,000 a year as a reader of manuscript."

But it is the summer which is the special silly season for literary professors in common with others, Dr. Slosson declares.

"The temptation is irresistible," he says, "when one gets up before the usual summer audience of culture seekers in Kent theater or Cobb hall, to make them open their eyes as well as their ears, to shock them, to galvanize them into a semblance of life, to get some kind of a reaction from them indicative of independent thinking, of anything but tame acquies-

"Schoolmasters in long hair and spectacles, placid old ladies and ardent-eyed girls make up the audience. The lecturer in vain shakes before them the insanities of Nietzsche, the vulgarities of Whitman, the vagaries of Shaw, the crudities of Tolstoy, and sets off some epigrammatic fireworks of his own as a grand finale, but the most startling things he can discover in literature or invent they calmly listen to and take down in their note books.

"Two things they never think of doing: To question what they hear, or fortunately, to apply it to their own lives. One is appalled at the thought of what would happen if they took the lecturer either less seriously or more. CATTLE FED MIXED SAWDUST If they took him less seriously they would act in accordance with some of his suggestions, which would demoralize society."

Eye Ailment Recorded.

London.-In an address before the international electro-homeopathy congress at Caxton hall the other day Dr. W. Anderschon of Norway described how the new system of disease diagnosis by the eye was discovered by Prof. Peozely of Poland.

In capturing an owl as a boy Prof. Poezly broke its right leg, and he noticed that a black line at once appeared in its right eye, which faded away as the fracture healed.

Many years later he became a professor of medicine and by studying the eyes of hundreds of patients formed the theory of diagnosis of disease by lines on the iris.

"Easy Marks," Writes Burgiar.

After Eating Discarded Biscuits in Ship's Hold.

New York.—Philip Ingraham looked as if he might be about six years old when he arrived here from Jamaica on the steamer Tagus. He wasn't sure of his age, but thought he might be nine. His mother told him a year ago that he was nine, and he thought it must be correct. He remembered that she had died in a hut near Kingston a short while ago and his father had been killed in the recent earth-

The little fellow did not seem to have a care in the world as he told his story in the ship news office. The stowaway from Kingston aroused enough sympathy from passerby to fill a small envelope with dimes and nickels.

No one cared for him, he said. He was merely a child of the beach, sleeping by the shore near Kingston at night and in the day doing errands for people of his own race. Hunger drove him to the steamship Tagus, and he went aboard. He found a few discarded biscuits in the hold, and after eating them fell fast asleep. He did not wake up until the steamer was some ten hours out from nort.

Then Philip Ingraham came up on deck for a constitutional. It was colder at sea than on the beach at Jamaica, and the cheif steward abbreviated a cadet's old unfirm and gave it to the youthful stowaway. Philip was taken to Ellis island and will be deported on the Tagus,

BUYS FARM FOR FRESH EGGS

Disgusted Pittsburg Millionaire Builds Model Henhouse to Foil Cold Storage.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Alexander R. Peacock, multi-millionaire, one of the men who became rich over inght when the Carnegie melon was cut, has just started to carry out a resolution that recalls the exploit of the late George Harding, the famous patent lawyer.

No cold storage for Mr. Peacock! The other morning his breakfast egg shocked him. He got up and hurried away from it.

"If I can't get eggs fresher than that I'll grov my own!" he declared, and he rang up a real estate man.

"I want a farm," he said, "a farm that will grow chickens—a lot of chickens that will lay eggs. It seems that the only way one can get a fresh egg in Pittsburg is to have his own farm."

Two cays later Mr. Peacock had the form out in Plum township. It cost him $60,000. Now he is building a chicken house that is to be one of the wonders of the district. It is to have steam heat, electric lights, tile floors and the finest incubators.

Agents are out buying fancy breeds of chickens and good layers. It is expected that within a short time the cold-storage egg will have had its last chance to offend Mr. Peacock and spoil his breakfast. The thing is to be done completely. In time everything needed for the chickens is to be raised on imall Boys Near Lincoln Park in Chi cago Form Combination to Get Money From Lovers.

Chicago.—An "anti-spooners' trust' has been developed by scores of youngsters living around Lincoln park.

Similar to its larger brethren, this trust has an ulterior motive. Its coffers have been filled with the wealth of its victims. The "modes operandi follows:

When dusk begins to envelop the trees 100 lads steal quietly out of places of concealment. A command is given and they scatter to all corners of the park. Then comes the real work! Each youth lingers on a bench till a couple hit by Cupid's artillery comes strolling by.

The couple wishes to sit down and rest. All the shaded benches, however, are occupied by little Johnnieson-the-Spot. After a few futile efforts to dislodge the tormentor the gallant deposits a fee in the boy's hand andthereby hangs the tale.

Not Wholly Worthless as Food, Declares Lord Carrington, in House of Lords.

London.-Lord Carrington, president of the board of agriculture, was asked in the house of lords the other day why he had not prosecuted in a Devon case of cattle food found to contain 40 per cent. of sawdust.

Lord Fortescue thought it opened a new prospect for owners of timber.

He replied that it consisted of a mixture of molasses and some absorbent material which was undoubtedly derived from wood sawdust-but had undergone some chemical treatment which made it more or less digestible. His board was still investigating the case. He was informed that the sawdust so treated was not absolutely worthless as food.

Shanghai China.-Little is known even in China about the Loto country in the western part of the empire. but a short time ago a missionary came from this district and he was able to tell us that these savages are friendly to the white man who deals with them cautiously and that they are submitting to the teaching of the few missionaries that have penetrated into the district.

Lololand has attracted a good deal of attention in Shanghai, and even in America recently, on account of the travels in that district of Dr. Demenil, who accidentally shot a native of Tibet and had to be tried in Shanghal for manslaughter. Following this, an Englishman named Brooke was murdered by Lolos and the real facts have only come to light with the return of Mr. E. S. Little, who has been on an standed tour in western China Mr. Brooke was stoned to death after shooting a Lolo chief in self-defense.

Mr. Little traveled through the country from Yachow, across the Tungho river down to Ningyuan and across the Yangtsze, at a place 500 miles above the highest point at which it is navigable, and he found that this country consisted of lofty mountains with passes 10,000 to 11,000 feet high. The mountains tower on all sides and throughout the district named they are held by Lolo savages, who are continually at war with the Chinese, or each other. When Mr. Little entered the country he immediately On one occasion he passed through a valley on either side of which were opposing forces of Lolos. On another occasion he heard that the road in front of him had been the scene of two raids and he found that 40 people had been carried off captive and sold as slaves by the Lolos.

m IS OLDEST HORSE IN AMERICA

Samuel J. Tilden, Veteran Maryland Animal, Is Forty-One Years Old.

Chestertown, Md.—Chestertown lays claim to the oldest horse in America. This horse, which is the property of Joseph Guest, a retired merchant here, was foalded May 6, 1869, and was then owned by the late Thomas Van Dyke of near Kennedyville. Mr. Van Dyke sold the horse at public auction to Thomas Booson, who subsequently sold it to the present owner.

On April 19 last Enoch King of Millington called on Mr. Guest to take a look at the old horse, and said: "I am forty-nine years old. When a small boy my father lived on Thomas Van Dyke's farm and I often drove up the horses from the pasture field, and Stonewall, as is his name, was among them. On the day of the nomination of Samuel J. Tilden for president of the United States Mr. Van Dyke drove the horse to Middletown, Del., a distance of some 25 miles, and, being a great admirer of Mr. Tilden, Mr. Van Dyke then and there changed the name of the animal to Samuel J. Tilden, by which he has since been known.'

Mr. Guest has made numerous efforts to discover an older horse in the country than Tilden. He has written to the owners of all the horse reviews in the country, but up to the present he has been unable to find a norse in the country that is as old. The nearest approach to it was a horse owned by a gentleman in Pennsylvania who claimed the honor of senority. A comparison of ages, however, revealed the fact that the Pennsylvania animal was several years younger than Samuel J. Tilden.

Mr. Guest says he will let the horse spend the remainder of his days in peace and quiet, enpoying the verdure of his pasture lot and the comfort of good stable quarters.

On one occasion Hall Caine met a fellow writer who had to confess that he had never read any of his books. It was during one of Mr. Caine's visits to the United States, when, at a banquet given in his honor, Thomas Nelson Page had been asked to introduce the guest of the evening. Just before the toasts began one of the diners passed his menu card round the table with the request that Mr. Caine would sign his autograph upon it as a memento of the occasion.

"Good idea," said Nelson Page. "I'll send my card along also. I've got to introduce Hall Caine in a few minutes, and I want to be able to say that I have read something he has written."

What is Most Necessary to Happiness?

Are Doctors Any Good?

Foolish question! Yet some people act as if a medicine could take the place of a doctor! The best medicine in the world cannot do this. Have a family doctor, consult him frequently, trust him fully. If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds, we would not offer it to you. Ask your doctor. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Pills for constipation, biliousness, sickheadache, we would not offer them to you. Ask your own doctor about this. KELLEY AND PARTY HERE.

Mr. Whalen spoke first and credited Kelley with the taxing of rail-roads and telephone systems laws, topics of the day with the greatest and with the passage of the two-cent fare railroad law.

Mr. Kelley in his talk said that it was unsafe to elect an upper peninśula man for governor, as that would give that portion of the state too much power; that the upper peninsula now had several men holding important state offices, and that the addition of a governor to the list would fix matters so that the proper taxing of the great mining interests there would be fully and absolutely controlled by upper peninsula men; that a safe method would be to cast a primary vote for Mr. Kelley.

About 75 persons listened to the addresses. The party drove to Kingston from here.

FARMER'S SON HANGS SELF.

Otto Hornbacher, aged 26, the son of a farmer near Kilmanagh, committed suicide Monday morning by hanging. After breakfast he went to hitch up the horses to begin the day's work and a few minutes later when his father went to the barn, he found the son dangling from the rope of the hay unloading device in the hay mow. The young man weighed over 200 pounds and the fall broke his neck. No cause is known for the act.

It is cheering to learn that one of our large universities is introducing, as a part of the college work, the study of the liquor problem in its various phases. This should be done in all places of higher education where young men and women are being fitted for life. Knowledge is power, and there could be no bettr preparation for the final overthrow of the liquor traffic than through acquaintance by intelligent young people with its products and purposes.

He commanded our love, our highest respect, and we are here to fulfill a law of our nature that should not be disregarded.

If we are friendly we will make friends and this man did this very thing right along for years. One who has known him for over six years, declares he never heard one bad word escape his lips. He never became angry, never lost his temper, nor expressed any degrading passion.

Of his religious life I can say but little. He really wanted to go to church when his duties called him to the yard. He knew much of the teachings of Christ, although he said but little. He had a profound rev-erance for sacred things and we commend his good life to all as an example worthy to follow, save in this, he should have told us of his hope in Christ, and an expectation

It is a blessed privilege for us to leave his soul in the hands of a covenant keeping God, who will do right by us at all times.

THE NEW LEAF.

The improvement to come in any life from "turning a new leaf" is not to be based upon turning the leaf so much as upon the constant and resolute filling of the new page by dint of unremitting and often strenuous effort. An evil habit is not changed in a moment, but is supplanted by the good which is cultivated into a habit.

Human wisdom makes as ill use of her talent when she exercises it in rescinding from the number and sweetness of those pleasures that are naturally our due as she employs it favorably and well in artificially disguising and tricking out the ills of life to alleviate the sense of them.— Montaigne.
