AUTO LICENSES ARE NET PROFIT

NEARLY $63,000 RECEIVED BY STATE THIS YEAR.

Bill Proposed to Place Money Received From Licenses Into Highway Fund.

Approximately $63,000 has been received by the state this year from the sale of licenses and tags, and on these sales the state nets a profit of better than $55,000. This work is handled in Secretary of State F. C. Martindale's department.

About 43,000 new licenses of which about 3,000 are plates, which are sold manufacturers of automobiles in the state, to be used on cars used for demonstrating purposes, have been received.

The state sells these licenses at $3.00 per pair, which gives the state a nice profit. Under the old law the state simply furnished the license and the owner could purchase a number plate wherever he pleased, but this method proved very unsatisfactory on account of the uniformity in size and color of the plates used. Now the plates are furnished at the same time the license is issued.

The money derived from the sale of the tags is put into the general fund and distributed afterwards, but it is being seriously talked of drafting a bill to present to the next legislature whereby this additional money received from the sale of automobile licenses and number plates be placed in the highway fund of the state and use to better the condition of the roads.

The number plates for the year 1909 were black letters on a white background but the plates for 1911 will be just the reverse, a black background with white letters. This change is brought about by the department to further assist the police officer of the state in running down offenders who do not purchase a license every year.

STILL BOOMING SEN. BURROWS.
Millington Gazette Editor Evidently Off on Vacation.

Brother Brooks was evidently off on a vacation last week and left the selection of the boiler plate to occupy the space not filled with the home news in his paper, the Millington Gazette, to the office devil. That worthy probably had more on his hands than he could conveniently handle and took no time in making selection from the plate box—hence, the three columns of plate in last week's issue of that spicy journal boming Senator Burrows for the primary election, which election had been decided over four weeks before.

LOST BARN AND SEASON'S CROPS

FIRE VISITS FARM OF ROBERT DAY IN GRANT.

Sparks From Threshing Engine Start Conflagration; Loss Fully $3,000.

Sparks from a threshing engine started a fire which destroyed a large barn and the season's crop of hay and grain on the farm of Robt. Day in Grant township, five miles north and one-half mile west of Cass City Monday morning.

The threshing crew had placed their machine Monday morning and had just started to work shortly after eleven o'clock when the fire was discovered in a stack of oats located on the barn bridge. The fire had not gained much headway, but though the men worked hard to subdue the flames, their efforts proved futile and it was but a short time before the fire communicated to the hay in the mows and all hopes of saving the structure were lost. Then the threshing crew and the neighbors, who had hurried to the scene assisted in saving the live stock and implements and preventing the spreading of the flame to the smaller buildings near the burning structure. In this they were fortunate and all the heavy implements, harnesses and live stock were saved. Mr. Day is very grateful for the assistance so promptly and willingly rendered. A pair of sleighs, some cultivators, hay track, forks and smaller tools were destroyed.

The barn was 42 by 60 feet in size, with basement and finished in a first class manner, and contained 30 tons of hay, 15 loads of the best wheat ever grown on the place, 9 loads of beans and 8 loads of oats, while 10 loads of oats were in the stack next to the building. Mr. Day says his loss was fully $3,000, partly insured.

While endeavoring to extinguish the fire on the stack of oats, Mr. Day was severely burned on the left arm and hand. This injury together with a nervous shock sustained by reason of his loss resulted in his collapse on the afternoon of the fire and was unconscious over an hour. His condition was considered most serious at the time, but his friends are glad to learn that he has improved rapidly within the last few days. He feels the loss of his property keenly.

Mr. Day is satisfied that the cause of the fire was accidental and in no way due to any carelessness on the part of the threshing crew. Every precaution had been taken to avoid an accident of this nature.

MICHIGAN CROPS TURN OUT WELL

AVERAGE YIELD OF POTATOES PER ACRE IS 86 BU.

Estimated Wheat Yield 15,200,000 Bushels; Corn, 46,438,000; Potatoes, 27,828,000.

According to the crop report issued by Secretary of State Martindale, the estimated total yield of wheat in Michigan this year was 15,200,000 bushels. The per cent of acreage sown this fall compared with the average for the past five years in the state is 104. A few correspondents throughout the state report wheat affected with smut, otherwise the quality is good. The estimated total number of bushels of wheat marketed in August and September is 2,750,000.

The estimated acreage of rye harvested is 372,300 and the estimated yield 5,956,800. The per cent of rye sown this fall compared with the average for the past five years in the state is 87.

The estimated acreage of corn harvested is 1,498,000 and the yield 46,438,000 bushels.

The average yield of potatoes per acre in the state is placed at 86. The estimated acreage is 298,000 and the estimated yield 27,828,000. The estimated yield of beans is 6,113,250 bushels, buckwheat 778,500 bushels and sugar beets 900,000 tons.

FOOT BALL SCHEDULE.

Cass City Plays at the County Seat To-day.

Arrangements have been made for foot ball games between the high school teams in the Thumb as follows:

- Oct. 14—Cass City at Caro.
- Oct. 21—Vassar at Cass City.
- Nov. 4—Marlette at Cass City.
- Nov. 11—Bad Axe at Cass City.

The local team has lost only four members from last year's bunch and diligent practice has put them in shape for the coming contests. The boys are light and fast which makes them well adapted to the new rules in foot ball which provide a more open game. W. E. Harnish coaches the bunch and the boys say he puts them through some strenuous practice. Mr. Harnish knows the game thoroughly, having played in an eastern college team. Alex Cleland is the captain.

The local team is endeavoring to arrange for a game with Brown City later in the season.

MICHIGAN STATE TEACHERS' ASSO.

58TH ANNUAL MEETING AT BAY CITY OCT. 27-28.

List of Speakers Contains the Names of Most Prominent Educators of the Day.

The program of the fifty-eighth annual meeting of the Michigan State Teachers' Association, which is to be held at Bay City, October 27 and 28, has for its general theme the moral and physical well-being of the child. We note that the list of speakers contains the names of some of the most prominent educators and speakers of the day. Dr. Luther H. Gulick of New York City, is to discuss "The New Attitude Toward Health" and "Fresh Air." The annual president's address will be delivered by Supt. E. C. Warriner of Saginaw. Other names and topics are: Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, Pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., "The America of Today and Tomorrow"; President John W. Cook of the Northern Illinois State Normal School, "Recent Tendencies in Education"; Professor Chas. Hughes Johnston, Dean of the School of Education, University of Kansas, "The Moral Mission of the Public Schools"; Commander Robert E. Peary, "The Discovery of the North Pole (illustrated with stereopticon views)"; Professor P. P. Claxton, Head of the Department of Education, University of Tennessee, "Education and Peace." The various sections are: college, commissioners, education of the deaf, drawing, grammar school, high school, kindergarten, library, manual training, music, primary school, rural school, and ward school principals. The program of these sections, in the main, is devoted to the special problems of the various departments of the public schools. Altogether it would seem that the educational field is covered in such a comprehensive way that it will be of decided advantage to any teacher to attend.

PARKER-HARRINGTON.

Miss Cora Parker, daughter of Mrs. Anna Parker, and Edward Harrington were married Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Frank Swan, 206 Norton Ave., Pontiac. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Rufus Traver of the Baptist church. The couple was unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrington visited at the home of the bride's mother at Cass City the first of the week. Mrs. Harrington expects to remain here a few weeks after which she will join her husband in Pontiac where he is employed as a plumber. They will make their home in that city.

PLAN AN EXTENSION TO HARBOR BEACH

S. & F. OFFICIALS TO CONFER WITH BUSINESS MEN.

Plans to Take In Tuscola County Towns Along the Proposed Route.

Officials of the Saginaw & Flint interurban line are expected to be in Saginaw within the next ten days to confer with the local business men relative to the proposed extension from Frankenmuth, taking in the cities of Vassar, Caro and beyond as far as Harbor Beach, which is the proposed terminus of the line. The officials will meet with the Saginaw Board of Trade transportation committee upon their arrival and the matter will be thoroughly investigated. It is probable that a delegation from the Tuscola towns will also be in attendance at this conference to present their side of the case and show how profitable such an interurban railroad would prove. All the residents along the proposed route are enthusiastic and interested in the project and are booming for the proposition. The line would give Saginaw direct communication with all these growing towns in the Thumb and open up a rich farming district. At present many of these places only have an indirect connection with the larger cities.—Courier Herald.

COMMISSION IN U. S. SERVICE.

Delmer Lenzner Only One Out of Eight Successful.

Delmer S. Lenzner, 22 years old, and a son of Samuel Lenzner, formerly in the furniture business in Cass City but now of Detroit, has just received from the government a commission to lieutenancy in the United States coast artillery corps. According to military law only 15 civilians are permitted to receive such commissions and their military standing is the same as those from West Point or other military schools, but are considered educationally better qualified.

Lenzner was the only one out of eight who took the examination who passed successfully. The examinations were held at Fort Wayne, Detroit, last July. The appointment came Oct. 2. Lenzner graduated from the Amos school in 1904; from the Western High, Detroit, in January, 1906 and from the University of Michigan in 1910, in the electrical engineering department. At present he is in New York City where he has been employed by the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. He expects to remain there a short time and arrange for his military equipment after which he will return to his home in Detroit until he gets orders to report for duty. His position commands a salary of $1,700 a year with quarters.

Dell Lenzner has visited Cass City several times during his limited career on Mother Earth and the friends he made here will be pleased to learn of his success.

Thumb Notes

BAY PORT—At a recent session of the Young People's Alliance of the Evangelical churches, comprising the Flint district, a committee was appointed consisting of Rev. Pohly of Elkton; Rev. Rodiseller of Pigeon; Rev. Faupel of Kilmanagh; Rev. Giese of Sebewaing and Messrs. Kellerman, Kretschmer, Dietzel and Schwalm, for the purpose of locating an assembly ground at Bay Port. The committee met at Bay Port last Monday and took under advisement a very liberal proposal made by W. J. Orr, the well-known manager of the Wallace & Orr Company. No doubt steps will be taken in the near future which will lead to the establishment of a permanent summer place for religious assemblies. The committee was royally entertained by Mrs. Orr, the esteemed mother of W. J. Orr.—Owendale Herald.

PIGEON—Some time ago a Mr. Griffith of Flint, who holds the patent on a new gasoline engine, was interviewed by a number of our businessmen with the view of organizing a company for the manufacture of the engines here. During last week local people were solicited and over $5000 of stock was sold. It is the intention to capitalize the company at $10,000. Monday evening a meeting of the stockholders was held and the following gentlemen were selected to act as a board of directors: J. J. Murdock, E. C. Leipprandt, H. B. Harder, R. W. McElmurray, W. J. Steadman, W. A. Schriber, J. J. Campbell, A. H. Sauer and John Diebel.—Progress.

Sanilac county has a lady candidate for county school examiner in the person of Miss Anna Mahon, superintendent of the Downingtown schools. She has been in charge of the Downingtown schools for nine years and is a very successful teacher. Her voting place is Minden City.

C. F. Bach of Sebewaing, who owns a farm of 350 acres of tillable land in the tract known as the Columbia Swamp, located near Owendale, says he expects to harvest $20,000 worth of crops therefrom this season. He has 100 acres of wheat which he thinks will thresh 4,000 bushels, 50 acres of oats and 150 acres of sugar beets which are said to be among the most promising in the state. Other crops, corn, hay, etc., are expected to bring the total crop value up to the figure mentioned by Mr. Bach. It would appear from the above that in Huron county farming is a profitable business and it is doubtful if an investment can be made in any business that will yield a better profit in proportion to capital than will Huron county farming lands.—Elkton Review.

DESIGNS FROM OLD CHINA.

Latest Wrinkle to Match Table Linen With Decorations. There is always such a demand for variety in fancy work patterns that, provided they are fresh and original, it is not easy for the enthusiastic needlewoman to become overstocked with ideas and suggestions. The "old china" work will doubtless be welcomed as something rather uncommon. The finished appearance will be found effective for all kinds of decoration, and the practical carrying out of the work is not difficult. A careful copyist possessed of deft fingers will readily secure the best results. Many of the designs found on even the everyday household ware of long ago are really beautiful both in line and color and worth consideration to those interested in pattern making. The idea of reproducing them exactly on articles to be needleworked may well commend itself, and in this way many charming schemes of decoration can be arranged. The actual needlework of the patterns requires some skill, and it is important to choose soft, clear colors. It is worth while taking pains to secure the exact china shades. Fine silks, as a rule, are better than coarse, but a good deal depends on the size and general appearance of the pattern.

It is rather a quaint idea, which may take the fancy of the possessor of a fine old tea service, to have the tablecloths embroidered to match it. Some of the blue and red and gold patterns look very handsome carried out in this way. The cloth may be cream or white, but a faint Paris shade is really better than either. The china pattern shows to the best advantage on this, at it gives a softer finish as a background than either of the two before named. The experienced needlewoman will easily realize that something of the success of this kind of work will depend on the final touches of bordering and mounting, and she will know better than to edge an elaborately embroidered article with showy lace. As a rule, it is the wisest plan to keep to plain machine stitched hems; otherwise the china embroidery is apt to lose its distinctive appearance. However, if the piece which is being copied has a pretty border it is sometimes worth while to copy and adapt it.

A Dreaded Visitor.

"The visitor I most dread," remarked a hospitable soul to a sympathetic audience, "is a sister-in-law I have, who from the moment she enters this house begins to borrow things for use and for wear. Her excuse is always that she hates to carry any unnecessary articles, especially when coming out here, where she feels so at home, and, to add insult to injury, she always brings her oldest clothes, which she wears with a supercilious air. There are, when one thinks it over, very few people who go to visit their relatives fully equipped or with only their best frocks unless they are new in the family and trying to make an impression, and, besides, the relatives' intimate friends are very likely to take it for granted that anything they lack will be lent to them. Dressing jackets and wrappers are garments most frequently borrowed, and next to these handkerchiefs. One man when visiting his sister's house never brings his brushes and every time carries off those she supplies, so on the occasion of his last stay he found a brush on his dressing table attached to it by a chain as a gentle hint that it was not to be a souvenir. Of course each well regulated guest room has all possible toilet articles, bath robes and slippers and either pajamas or a nightgown and a washable wrapper for the incoming guest in case luggage is delayed. But, just the same, the well-mannered guest brings a complete line of belongings, and the 'company things' are given to the maid to be put away during the guest's occupancy, for who would use a brush or comb other than one's very own or revel in another's fine linen for dreams?"

The Wisdom of Others.

A woman who confides in one of the home magazines tells her sisters how she saved the price of a new stair carpet. These economical schemes, to be sure, almost always take a well-stocked attic for granted. They are a little like the recipes that begin with "take the remains of a cold chicken" when there are never any remains to be taken. But to return to the stair carpet. The woman found that, though her old Brussels carpet was badly worn, the back of it was an even neutral color. She ripped the seams and on the wrong side of the carpet made a stenciled border in brown. The carpet looks well on the stairs and wears like iron, she says.

SAVED THE STEW.

Quick Wit When to Falter Meant a Financial Crisis.

The late Little Tim Sullivan, one time pride of the Bowery and potent factor in New York politics was always resourceful even in his youth. When a lad on festive occasions Little Tim knew what o'clock it was. He and Colonel Mike Padden, secretary of state in the Sullivan cabinet, were at an east side ball with two of the rosy cheeked lassies of that neighborhood of peachy young women.

Little Tim and Colonel Mike had between them exactly $1—no more, no less. Supper time came. Before taking the girls into the supper room Little Tim and Colonel Mike secretly scanned the bill of fare and found that four oyster stews at 25 cents each would just fit their pile. Little Tim blandly and innocently impressed this conclusion upon the young girls. Anything Little Tim said was accepted as the top notch of hospitality. The four stews were before the little party. One of the girls liked catchup. While administering a dose of the condiment the stopper shot into the stew and with it spurted half the bottle's contents.

"There! I've spoiled my stew," piped the beautiful one. "I'll have to have another."

Little Tim, alert to the size of the joint wad of a dollar, reached for the girl's ruined stew, plumped it before Colonel Mike, grabbed Colonel Mike's untasted and unadorned stew and, placing it before the girl, soothingly said:

"No, no, girlie. Colonel Mike never eats an oyster stew without souping it with catchup. He likes 'em that way—don't you, Mike?"

Mike said he did and took his medicine like a man.

A Woman Finds a Way.

Two burglars were on their trial and had engaged a smart lawyer for their defense, who, on cross examining one of the witnesses, said: "You say that on the night in question the moon was so bright that you could see the burglars in the room. Was your husband awake at the time?"

Witness—I don't know.

"Was his face turned toward you or not?"

The witness answered that she did not know.

"What! You don't know? Now, come, tell me, was his face turned toward you or the wall?"

"I don't know."

"Ah, ha! I thought so," turning to the jury. "She could not see. She who identifies the prisoners could not see which way her husband's face was turned. Explain that if you can."

"Well, sir, my husband is so bald that in a dim light I can't tell his face from the back of his head."

Wronged.

"I am sorry to hear, Mrs. Newcomb," said the minister, "that your husband gambles by buying grain and stocks on margins."

"He doesn't do anything of the kind. I've just been looking up the definition of the word gambling, and, according to the dictionary, one who gambles has a chance to win.—Chicago Record-Herald.

ROOSEVELT UNSELFISH

Republican Candidate For Governor, In Speech Before State Convention, Says Pingree Was One of First Progressive Leaders—People Are Now In Power, He Says.

Chase S. Osborn, in his speech before the Republican state convention, said, in part:

"Michigan Republicans are concerned first for the state and secondly for the party, but always for both, which is as it should be. They are determined that their state shall be the best governed in the nation, and they are equally insistent that the Republican party shall be the instrument of that accomplishment."

G. O. P. Reflects People's Character.

"It is profoundly satisfying to see the internal activity of the grand old party in its successful effort to prune and purge itself, accomplish a poised development in harmony with the times and take a position of new usefulness to nation, state and all the people. There can be no organic or fundamental weakness in the Republican party that does not exist in or of the people, because it has been for ages the party of majority and must have taken on the character of the majority of the people. The Democratic party has lost its best men to the Republican party because they could find within the Republican party opportunity to serve their state. They found that in failure the Democratic party led only to a dismal nowhere, and it wanted to a point where it even lost the powers of adequate criticism, all so necessary to a government by a free people. To compensate for this loss the Republican party instinctively took itself over to careful introspection, asked itself a number of most pertinent questions and out of it all has come a new band of progressive Republicans led by the most fearless and able public man in the world today, Theodore Roosevelt.

"Thus, out of the old party chrysalis will come a newer and better Republican party, more alert than ever to guard the interests of all the people and guide the nation to the highest achievement of human destiny.

M. C. Dominated State Politics.

"Under the old regime the Chicago Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad companies owned Wisconsin politically; the Michigan Central dominated Michigan politics; the New York Central, United States Express company and allied interests ruled in New York. There came a LaFollette in Wisconsin, a Pingree in Michigan, a Roosevelt in New York. Similar conditions existed in almost all the states, and nearly all have developed progressive leaders to wrest them from the powers of privilege. Philletus Sawyer and John C. Spooner tried to run over LaFollette with the car of political juggernaut. This embittered the young fighting man and made of him an extremist. The Michigan Central machine fought Pingree, but the people saw in him a sturdy champion of their rights and supported him. Platt and Depew fought Roosevelt to their discomfiture and defeat.

"So the people find themselves in power. But in power they must be right and just. Individual injustice is bad enough, but in its destructiveness it cannot be compared with the power for evil of public injustice. The future will show the public viewpoint to be fair.

Roosevelt Marvelous Leader.

"I may be pardoned for calling attention to the rather unusual fact that all, or nearly all, of the progressive leaders are great political lawyers who have never had business experience and for whom it may be difficult to see the commercial viewpoint. They will undoubtedly appreciate this fact and seek counsel of honest and patriotic business men of wide accomplishments. Selfishness may be trusted, usually, to care for the commercial side of the nation's interest, leaving another and, in the past, rarer instinct to develop and guard the ethical interest. Personally, I believe that Theodore Roosevelt is not only a marvelous leader, but is unselfish and is not aiming at personal political gain; that he is a teacher and preacher whose power for usefulness is greater as a private citizen than as president.

"Our race will not be one for martial supremacy of the world, but for love and mercy and justice. The impudence and unhappiness of wealth will disappear before the better attribute of heart. There will be no servant and no master, but a friendship and brotherhood where the strong will help the weak. Until these things come to pass the thin veneer of civilization will illy conceal the barbarian beneath.

"So let us work together for our mutual refinement and improvement, nor fearing Pope's lines: "Truths would you teach or save a sinking land? All fear, none aid you, and few understand."

Anybody who knows how to take the altitude of the sun or a star with a sextant and wishes to take that of any distant hill, steeple or the like should put a tea tray on the ground, fill it with water and then retire from it until the top of the hill, steeple or what not is reflected in the liquid. Now take the sextant and make the image of the summit coincide with its reflection in the liquid. The angle of elevation will thus obviously have been measured double. Half of this will give the measurement required.

Warner Corsets

Fashionable figures are not made by chance, but by careful Corseting. The effect of the most beautiful gown may be entirely spoiled if the base—the corset is not right. For instance, the waist of the dress may not touch the figure at the exact point and the gown may wrinkle, be too tight or too loose as a result of improperly shaped hips. The corset shape may not be right, or it may result from careless adjusting or wrong lacing. We do not carry the full line of Warner's Corsets, but we do carry sufficient to properly fit every woman who comes for a Corset.

The farmers are living in royal luxury these days. A farmer's wife can bring two dozen eggs to market and with them buy all the materials for a new dress. Two pounds of butter will buy a pair of kid gloves. A couple of chickens will buy an up-to-date hat. A turkey buys a pair of blankets. One load of wood buys an all wool suit of clothes or an overcoat; and a couple of bushels of corn buys a pair of pants or a pair of shoes. The ordinary town man has to work ten hours to get two pounds of butter and three dozen eggs and a whole week to get a load of wood and a turkey. And yet every once in a while a man moves from the country into town.

Breechloaders.

Breechloading in artillery and small arms is popularly supposed to be an invention of the middle of the last century, but such is by no means the case. In a Dublin gunsmith's shop at Cork Hill is on view a breechloading rifle offered to the British war office at the close of the eighteenth century and rejected, as it was considered to need too much ammunition.

Tutinary Trees.

Ancient people had their tutelary trees just as they had their tutelary gods—the former being the altars and shrines of the latter. Among the Scandinavians the ash was held to be the most sacred tree. Serpents, according to their belief, dared not approach it. Hence the women left their children with entire confidence under its shade while they went on with their harvesting.

How He Lost a Million.

Colonel Ochiltree used to tell a story of how he once lost $1,000,000.

"It was at a banquet," he would say, "and Senator Hearst of California sat beside me. I burst into tears. 'Senator,' I said, 'I am that red haired boy. Behold the boy in me!'"

"But Hearst said, 'Ochiltree, you lie!'"

"And thus I lost a million."

A One Sided Duel.

An anecdote of General Israel Putnam describes him as having declared his detestation of dueling as a mere excuse for turning assassination into a game of chance and yet having been forced by public opinion to accept the challenge of a brother officer. They met the next morning, but before the challenger could fairly get into position "Old Put" began blazing away at him, reloading as fast as possible after each fire. His victim protested vigorously. "Great heaven, sir," he ejaculated, "is this the conduct of an officer and a gentleman? What are you trying to do?"

"What am I trying to do?" roared Putnam as he rammed another charge into the muzzle of his pistol. "I'm trying to kill you, sir. You came here bent on murdering me, and do you suppose I am going to stand tamely and submit to it? No, sir! If you don't beat a retreat in less time than it takes old Heath to hang a Tory there'll be nothing left of you to carry off."

FRANZ C. KUHN FOR ATTY. GEN.

Mt. Clemens Man Wins Out In Only Contest of Republican State Convention.

GOVERNOR WARNER IGNORED

No Mention Made of Name or Administration of State's Chief Executive. Convention Short and Harmonious. Expected Fight on Platform Failed to Materialize.

REP. STATE TICKET.

Governor—Chase S. Osborn. Lieut. Gov.—John Q. Ross. Supreme Court Justice—John E. Bird. Sec. of State—F. C. Martindale. State Treas.—A. E. Sleeper. Auditor General—O. B. Fuller. State Land Commissioner—Huntley Russell. Atty. Gen.—Franz C. Kuhn. Chairman State Central Committee—W. F. Knox.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 11.—Enthusiasm and oratory were the two marked features of the Republican state convention at the Wayne Gardens, in this city. Only one serious contest developed, that for attorney general, in which five candidates lined up for the honor. Franz Kuhn of Mt. Clemens, who now holds the position by appointment, and Grant Fellows of Hudson were the chief contenders, the former winning a slashing victory after a hard fight.

Wayne, Kent, the Thumb and the upper peninsula were Kuhn's chief assets and they turned the trick for him. On the first ballot Kuhn received 598 votes and Fellows 462. This left Kuhn 54 votes short of the required majority, but before the ballot was announced Cass county swung from O'Keefe to Kuhn, and this ended the battle, a dozen others clamoring to change their votes. Kuhn was tickled over the result. A movement was started to delay the nomination of Supreme Justice Bird until after the attorney generalship on the theory that this might affect the result, but the committee on permanent organization and order of business refused to permit the judiciary to be made a political lever, and Justice Bird was placed first on the list. With the other state officers who were renominated, his selection was made unanimous.

With all the talk of insurgency the speeches delivered by Congressman Diekema, in calling the convention to order, and by Senator William Aldrich Smith, who presided as chairman, as well as the platform which was adopted, were tempered with sense and good judgment. Instead of the tariff being attacked, as was expected in some quarters, it was commended with the recommendation for perfecting the various schedules by the aid of a tariff commission.

A sharp fight was expected over some of the planks in the platform, but when read it was greeted with applause, and there was nothing in it to create any friction.

Some ingenuity was exercised in avoiding any mention of Governor Warner's name or administration, but it was accomplished by commending the legislature for the good laws that were passed at the last session and endorsing the candidates nominated by the convention.

The usual committees were appointed. The committee on credentials reported that there were no contests; that all the counties were represented, and that all the delegates whose names were presented were entitled to seats in the convention.

There was practically no vacant seat in the space reserved for delegates, and the rest of the room in the big auditorium was packed with an ever increasing crowd as the convention progressed.

When Chairman Diekema in his opening address sounded the keynote for a progressive campaign in Michigan the delegates rose in their seats, waved arms, hats and handkerchiefs and cheered again and again.

Charles E. Townsend, nominee for the United States senate, was called for and he paid a glowing compliment to the speeches of Congressman Diekema and Senator Smith, saying that they were the things that impressed him most in connection with the convention and that they had practically made the platform for the party in this campaign.

Lieutenant Governor Kelley was called on for a speech, and he pledged Mr. Osborn his loyal support.

Franz C. Kuhn was called before the convention, and he pledged himself, if elected, to give Osborn the best help there is in him to make his administration a clean and creditable one. John Q. Ross, nominee for lieutenant governor, made a similar brief address. The election of W. F. Knox of Sault Ste. Marie as chairman of the new state central committee and the reading of the resolutions wound up the convention.

Altogether the convention was in actual session about four hours, and about half of that time was consumed by speech making.

SATURDAY NIGHT SERMONS

BY REV. SAMUEL W. PURVIS, D.D.

SHADOWS.
Text: "They that dwell in the land of the shadow."—Isalah 43, 2.
Was it Burke who said: "What shadows we are! What shadows we pursue?" He might have added, "By what shadows are we pursued." We Americans are called very materialistic people, supposed not to take stock in anything unless we can see it and feel it. Don't you believe it. We are as sensitive to shadows as a groundhog in February. Shadows are mighty real sometimes. At least they seem so. The engineer flying along through tunnels and around curves dreads the shadow across the track. It may be a man; it may be a tie spiked there. The treasurer of the lodge hurries homeward, along the deserted street; stops; grips the canvas money bag in his pocket a little tighter. What's that near the corner? Footpad? Thank goodness, only a shadow! The money was taken from the employer's desk. Your son was the last one seen at the drawer. He telephones, "Father, come quickly." Heavens, your own boy under the shadow of suspicion! To the person concerned the shadow is as full of portent as the substance itself.

Living In Shadows.
In the quaint little story of "The Land of the Shadow People" Elaine found that the people walked and worked with their backs to the sun. In the morning they faced west; in the afternoon they faced east. A strong, husky man groaned because he was so dark and thin. He was looking at his shadow. A beautiful girl moaned as she looked at the ground because she was so shrunken and deformed. But she was looking at her shadow. "Oh," said Elaine, "turn your faces to the sun and you won't see those ugly shadows." Sister Black was an "awful" good Christian, conscientious, exacting. Her keynote was the old hymn "And Am I Born to Die?" No one doubted her goodness. But, my, you wouldn't want to live in the same house. Gloomy? She was doleful as a deaf mute at a funeral. She kept in the narrow way all right, but she walked on the shady side. To dress neatly and attractively was a sin. Her hair wasn't bad, but she considered it vanity to learn "the sweet deceit of a woman's art." She lived in the shadows. Brother Chance and his wife were "hanted" by superstitions. He didn't dare walk under a ladder, sit at the table with thirteen or attend business on Friday. She went to the fortune tellers to get a lucky charm to ward off the spooky effect of breaking a looking glass. When her baby came its life and hers were made miserable by dread of what was "unlucky." The same faith toward their God would have kept them in sunshine, but they lived and suffered in shadow land.

Pursued by Shadows.
"Hence, horrible shadow! Unreal mockery, hence!" cries Macbeth when the ghost of Banquo flits across the boards of his mental stage. Only a shadow, of course. Such shadows are awful things though. You can bar the windows and barricade the doors against the burglar and the thief, but you can't bar out such shadows. They will creep in through cracks and crevices which do not exist. What dungeon is so black, what jailer is so merciless? Many a lash in the dark does he give. The lie told to a trusting mother. The blow struck at a kind father. Dr. Johnson may stand in the market place at Litchfield in his bare head in the pelting rain, but it doesn't bring back the cutting taunt to his old father on that spot years before. Shadows! Jacob's sons sinned greatly against their brother Joseph, and twenty years after the ghost of their foul doings rose out of Egypt like a shadow. Ahab put Naboth to death cruelly and falsely slew him. He forgot his deed for many a year, when lo! he trembles before the ghost of his bloody crime. Belshazzar, with terror in eye and fear writ on every feature, sees the shadow creep along the wall and the fingers of a man's hand write his doom. Shadows, shadows, shadows of a crooked past! Shadows of sins unsatisfied! Shadows of death and the dark valley!

The Shadows We Cast.
"Coming events cast their shadows before them." So do men, and behind them too. Life doesn't begin at the cradle, nor end at the grave. Luke tells us in the Acts of the Apostles that one day when Peter passed along the street the people brought out their sick "that the shadow of Peter passing by might overshadow some of them" and heal them. That makes one think. Coal throws off heat, violets give perfume, fruit gives refreshment and this mysterious bundle of forces called man carries a shadow for good or ill. It goes with us wherever we go. If we don't like our house we can move into the next street, or the next town, but not from our shadow. It's the projection of one's own self. It is so powerful. Needn't say, "There is no God." Just live as if it were so. Needn't cry, "Crucify him!" Just stay away. Toward evening the shadow ought to grow longer. It may be flung across the grave. Dwight L. Moody's shadow is still here. So is Ingersoll's, "Pilgrim's Progress" is Bunyan's shadow. The "Age of Reason" is Paine's. Surely we are the people of Shadow Land. Morning, noon, evening of our little day comes, sunset and evening star, then—shadows! Afraid? Of what? Night? No! Our God staideth in the shadow.

HER HASTY JUDGMENT

By ANTOINETTE PATTERSON

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)
Isabel Stevens had been out of boarding school somewhat less than a year when she married Fred Carrington, a man some years older than herself, but whose youth had been crowded so full of care and anxiety that his courtship of Isabel had been, as she was never tired of having him tell her, the very first romance of his life. Fred, with all his appreciation of Isabel's intensity of nature, would have been greatly surprised had he fully known how much this meant to the girl. She felt perfectly sure of the future; such was her trust in her husband's loyalty and devotion, but that even the past held for her no rival, or no tender memory for Fred to look back upon, had for her a meaning that words could not adequately express.

And now what was it that had happened to make Isabel's pretty, fair face look years and years older, and had marked it with the lines etched only by a breaking heart.
It was summer, and they had been having a lovely month in the new house—Fred's poverty was now a thing of the past. They had built this house on the New England coast. Suddenly, affairs of urgent importance, connected with an estate of which he was executor, called Fred to Philadelphia for a few days. The city was just then in the grip of a hot wave, so in spite of her pleading, Fred simply would not hear of his young wife's accompanying him; and, as it was the first separation they had ever known in their married life of two years, it was regarded by Isabel as something only a little short of a tragedy.

After Fred had gone she locked herself in her room, and, silly, childish thing that she was, cried for a whole hour. Afterward, but only because she had promised Fred, she went to the next house and spent the rest of the day with the charming friends who were her neighbors, also.
The next morning Isabel, more lonely than ever, realized the best thing she could do would be to find some active employment. There was an old desk which had come down to Fred by inheritance from the colonial days and which had been shipped with all its contents straight from his bachelor quarters to this new house, since it was too big for their apartment in the city. Nothing would be more absorbing, Isabel concluded, since it was so intimately associated with Fred, than to give this desk a thorough cleaning out. Fred—he was different from most men in this respect, as in every other—would be so pleased when he should return to find everything in the apple-pie order. She knew where the keys were, and the morning had passed very happily. The old desk had assumed a rejuvenated appearance—all but one drawer—when something happened that took the sunshine out of everything for Isabel.

In this last drawer, stuffed away back, she had come across a photograph of a ballet dancer! And, more agitating still, there was written across it, Fred's name and a silly sentimental message. Also there was a date, which Isabel realized with horror, coincided to within a few months of their wedding.

And so this was the truth, and it had been but a fool's paradise in which she had been living these two years. She picked up the hateful picture and forced herself to look at it. There was no denying that the face with its wealth of fluffy blond hair was pretty. But she took positive comfort in the fact that the feet were decidedly big in spite of the tight, pointed slippers. And then the costume—what there was of it! How could any woman appear in such a dress, much less be photographed in it? And how dared she send it to Fred?

But the bitterest thought of all was that Fred had not only received it, but had cherished it all this time. And had kept it in a place where she would be most unlikely ever to see it. Of course everything was perfectly clear now—the visit to Philadelphia was only an excuse to see that woman, and the heat but a flimsy pretext to keep her from going, too. She thought of suicide; she pictured herself coming home and finding her lying cold and still across the threshold of their room, the fatal picture clasped in her stiffening fingers, and the little heart-shaped pin he had given her on her last birthday lying broken in two halves by her side!

But, on second thought, that would not do at all; for it would only make it possible for him to marry the dancer. And a divorce would have identically the same advantage. No; she must live out her life somehow, bearing to the silent grave this terrible knowledge. Scraps of doleful poetry, from Byron, of course, now began to float through Isabel's mind—lines she had not recalled since her morbid school girl days. How true, how absolutely true, were the words: My days are in the yellow leaf. The flowers and fruits of love are gone. The worm, the canker and the grief. Are mine alone. And the tears were now flowing copiously:

Far thee well!—thus disunited, Torn from every nearer tie, Seared in heart, and love, and blighted, More than this I scarce can die.
At this moment, and while she was assuring herself that "thus the heart will break, yet brokenly live on," there was a knock. But nobody must see her until she had time to compose herself, so she asked what was wanted without opening the door. The maid said a letter had just come, and this Isabel told her to slip under the door. It was one with a special delivery stamp, from the faithless Fred.

In spite of her lacerated feelings, she tore open the envelope with a most unseemly haste and read:
"My Darling Belle: I will write you a long letter tonight, but this is just a line to ask you to look through that old desk of mine and see if you cannot find a photograph of my old friend Bob Johnson. He was a member of the Mack and Wig club, and had that picture taken long ago. Bob has just become engaged and wants the photograph to play a joke with—jokes were always so dear to his heart. But I am forgetting to say the picture is of him in the character of a fairy dancer and has some crazy words written across it. You can't possibly miss it!"

Isabel got no further for a full five minutes. And then one of the maids was heard to say to another down stairs: "Mrs. Carrington ain't missin' the boss so much as we thought after all. Just listen to her—she's a-singin' away like a burrd!"

OLD-TIME AUCTION SALE

One Still On Which Has Lasted for Nearly a Quarter of a Century.

An auction sale, which has already lasted nearly a quarter of a century, is still far from finished at Sothby's in London.

It is the sale of the most extensive collection of ancient manuscripts in the world—the Bibliotheca Phillips, the collector of which, who died 40 years ago, devoted a long life and a fortune of $500,000.

The disposal of the vast library, which packed his country mansion, Thirlestaine house, Cheltenham, from basement to attic, began in 1886, and the sales will continue at least another generation. Already 13 separate sales, totaling nearly 16,000 lots, have realized $225,000, and there have been several sales by private treaty as well.

The French and German governments have bought in many national manuscripts, which Sir Thomas Phillips acquired while ransacking Europe for his unmatched collection.

Anything written on vellum, whatever its nature, was purchased by this eccentric collector, who described himself as "a vello maniac," and gave any price that was asked for old manuscript. The account books of kings and queens, the early records of ancient monasteries, long-forgotten treaties between nations, and the autograph poems of fourteenth century bards were all eagerly bought by him.

The Pacific Codfishers.

The codfish is a sacred bird in this section of the world, and anything that has to do with his ultimate fish-bait destination is of interest at the Sunday breakfast table. We of New England are prone to forget that the fog hung banks off our Atlantic coast are not the only playground of Gloucester's claim to world fame, and even if the great African bank is too far away to count commercially, there are other habitats of the progeny of the State house symbol which must be taken into consideration. There is a codfishing fleet in the Pacific, and Boston men have recognized the fact by interesting San Francisco capital in forming a fishing trust to control the catch of the Bering sea grounds. The little fleets out of Frisco and Seattle have worked under a "gentleman's agreement" as to prices for some years, but bad weather and two poor seasons made cut rate prices popular, and war came to the drying sheds. The proposed combination of the five leading Pacific interests is the result.—Springfield Republican.

Cordial Greeting.

"One of my acquaintances is much interested in the Chagrin Falls Hunt club, and is an onlooker at most of the functions of that organization," said Ward Jackson to the Cleveland Leader. "The other night he said to me, with some show of enthusiasm, that gradually he was getting acquainted with the club members. 'Why, Dan Hanna came right up and spoke to me today,' he said, exultantly. 'Is that so?' I replied. 'What did he say to you?' He said 'Don't get too near that horse there or he'll kick your darned head off.'"

Cabbages in Pledge.
There is one pawnbroking establishment in connection with Covent Garden market that is absolutely without a rival. This pawnbroking house enables the holder to lend money on garden and other produce by special contracts that only hold good for forty-eight hours as the extreme limit. Many a good load of fruit, flowers or vegetables that may arrive late for market or that may not be instantly salable is pledged. Next morning the stuff can either be redeemed or sold by the broker. Too Late.
After the guests had waited for half an hour in a Berkshire church for the bride to arrive messengers were dispatched to the livery stable to try to discover what had happened. The liveryman, made to understand that he had omitted to send a carriage to her house, acknowledged that all the blame rested on him and apologized in manly fashion, but when they suggested that he should proceed to remedy the delay he failed to see their point. "What'll be the use o' fetchin' 'er now?" he argued. "The service 'll be 'arf over."—London Globe.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work day and night. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Charles J. Witkosky, William St., Sebawang, Mich., says: "My back was extremely lame and I could not stoop or lift without having sharp pains through the kidneys. I was also bothered by too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. The contents of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me and I have had no cause for complaint since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Paris newspaper on one occasion made a blunder which excited no small amount of merriment at the expense of a man of real talent. The following paragraphs, intended to have been printed separately, were by some error so arranged that they were read consecutively: "Dr. X. has been appointed head physician to the Hospital de la Charite. Orders have been issued by the authorities for the immediate extension of the cemetery at Mont Parnasse. The works are being executed with the utmost dispatch."

A FREE Prescription ADVICE

From a physician of 52 years' experience in colleges, sanatoriums and general practice. Weak, nervous men, regain your strength and vigor.
So great was my sympathy for weak men in the early years of my experience that I have made it a special study, and formulated two prescriptions, one for men and one for women over 50 years of age. In my declining years, I want every man to have the benefit of my long years of careful study, research and long experience.
I am now 73 years old and as strong and vigorous as at 40 and the rest of my life will be spent in aiding suffering manhood. I realize that my time is short, but will do all in my power to aid men and women who are helpless and seeking relief. I know there has been a great many disappointed when they thought relief in their grasp, but let me send you my free prescription and booklet of private lectures to men which is the result of study since I began lecturing to student classes, way back in '71. Since that time I have cured many cases that you have tested it for yourself.
If you are suffering from falling memory, lame back or weakened manhood or nervous difficulties, LET ME SEND YOU A RECIPE in a plain sealed envelope that you can use in your own home. I am confident that you will thank me every day in your life after you have tested it for yourself.
Take advantage of this offer NOW before it is too late. Address me personally.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreadful disease that scientific has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Capitol Dome.

The capitol dome at Washington is the only considerable dome of iron in the world. It is a vast hollow sphere weighing 8,000,300 pounds. How much is that? More than 4,000 tons, or almost the weight of 70,000 full grown persons, or about equal to 1,000 laden coal cars of four tons each, which, if strung out one behind the other, would occupy a mile and a half of track. On the very top of the dome the allegorical figure "America," weighing 13,985 pounds, lifts its proud head high in the air. The pressure of this dome and figure upon the piers and pillars is 14,477 pounds to the square foot. It would, however, require a pressure of 755,286 pounds to the square foot to crush the supports.

Capt. Bogardus Again Hits the Bull's Eye.

This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says: "I suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and used several well known kidney medicines, all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley Kidney Pills I had severe backaches and pains in my kidneys with suppression and a cloudy voiding. On arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and again feel like my own self." L. I. Wood & Co.

Italy's Marriage Brokers.

Marriage brokers are a regular institution in Italy. In Genoa there are several marriage brokers who have pocketbooks filled with the names of the marriageable girls of the different classes, with notes of their figures, personal attractions, fortune and other circumstances. These brokers go about endeavoring to arrange matrimonial alliances in the same offhand mercantile manner which they would bring to bear upon a purely business transaction, and when they succeed they get a commission of 2 or 3 per cent upon the dowry, with such extras of bonuses as may be voluntarily bestowed by the party.—London Standard.

An Eclipse.

For quick and certain action Renne's Pain-Killing Oil eclipses any and all remedies ever offered to the public. It drives away pain. Just the thing for cramps, colic or diarrhoea. Cures rheumatism, sprains, stiff joints, sores and bruises. It is not a new remedy, but a very old and reliable one, over seventy years on the market. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Wood's Drug Store.

PERSISTENCE.

Nothing can take the place of persistence. Talent will not; unsuccessful men of talent abound. Genius will not; unrewarded genius is almost a proverb. Education will not; the world is full of educated delinquents. Persistence and determination alone are omnipotent.

The Hen Lifts the Mortgage.

Statistics show that the hen is the best paying investment on the farm, when given proper care and attention. If you want to get the best results feed your chickens a little of Harvell's Condition Powders occasionally, it makes the hens lay and that is exactly what you want. No feed stuff mixed with it to make a large package. Nothing but pure drugs. Price 25 cents per package. Wood's Drug Store.

Webster Was Willing.
When Daniel Webster's market man had sued him for a long unpaid bill and got his money he was so scared at his temerity that he stopped calling at the door for orders. The godlike Daniel asked him why one day, and the man confessed that he supposed Mr. Webster would never trade with him again. "Oh," said Webster, "sue me as often as you like, but for heaven's sake don't starve me." There was never a time when the great man was not willing to owe as much as anybody was willing to let him owe.

Eddystone Lighthouse.
The first Eddystone lighthouse was finished in 1695 and destroyed in the dreadful storm of Nov. 27, 1703. A wooden one by Rudyard was then built by order of parliament, which was burnt Dec. 4, 1755. Another wooden structure was burnt later, which was replaced by stone. The foundation of this one giving way, a new structure was designed, the foundation stones of which were laid in 1789. The cornerstone was placed in 1881, and the first light flashed out over the waters May 18, 1882.

LUCILE MARIE WARNER,

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Warner of Novesta.

Lucile Marie Warner was born in Novesta township, Mich., July 3, 1902, and died at her home in Novesta Oct. 9, 1910, aged 8 yrs. 3 mo. 6 days. She leaves to mourn their loss, a beloved father and mother, two brothers, Hiltin Burnell and Robert Herald, three grandparents, other distant relatives and many friends.

Lucile was a child, who was dearly loved by all who knew her and will be greatly missed not only in her home but in the school room and at church and in every spot and place wherever she was accustomed to go. Let us not mourn as those without hope as we are satisfied beyond a doubt that she has gone to live with her Saviour whom she dearly loved while upon earth. About two weeks before the Master called her home, she came up to her father's side and said, "Papa, I love you and mamma and brothers, but you would not want me to love one more than the rest, would you? But you would want me to love God more than any of the rest for that is right." Need we question her present place of abode?

The funeral service was held in the Church of Christ in Novesta township Wednesday, Oct. 12, Rev. L. A. Townsend officiating. Interment was made in the Novesta cemetery. (Contributed.)

LAPEER—Goodland L. O. T. M. M. had a big time last Friday night. What once was a thrifty tent-hive of nearly a hundred members has disbanded. The money on hand was used in serving a big supper. The rituals and other combustible property was burned or destroyed and the photos of the great camp packed up and sent to them C. O. D. in disgust, on account of what is considered an unwholesome and excessive advance in the rate of assessments which is considered a regular soak. A big time for the bees.—Press.

New Brown Bread Recipe

Never soggy—Easily made

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Nearly everybody likes Boston brown bread, but so many have experienced trouble with its being soggy, they have become discouraged. Here is a new recipe that cannot fail if the few simple directions are carefully followed. You will be delighted with the results.

K C Brown Bread

One and one-half cup yellow cornmeal; 1 1/2 cup entire-wheat flour; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 1/2 cup sweet milk; 1/4 cup molasses; 5 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder.

Sift together, three times, meal, flour, salt and baking powder. Mix molasses and sweet milk and stir into dry ingredients to make a smooth batter. Turn into two empty K C Baking Powder boxes, thoroughly buttered, and let steam three hours. This bread is particularly good to serve with salads or raw oysters; also at breakfast, as toast of all kinds.

Raisins or currants may be added, though some prefer it without.

Readers of this paper may obtain The Cook's Book containing this and 89 other delicious recipes free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JACQUES MFG. CO., Chicago. Send for The Cook's Book today. 28

Mr. Marshall exhibited the same team at the Bad Axe fair and won first prize besides a robe which was offered as a special premium.

BOY SCOUTS.

Editor Chronicle:
General Sherman said, "War is hell." As I understand it, War is murder. "Thou shalt not kill" and yet in war the opposing armies kill as many men as they possibly can for glory and ——"Peace on earth good will toward men". What a mockery when we consider the efforts made to enlarge our army and navy. The Dick Military Law compels every able-bodied man from 18 to 45 years to be a military man, subject to the call of the President of U. S. A court martial for the man who fails to report for duty when called.
And now efforts are made to organize "Boy Scouts" in order to train them for the army and navy. Isn't it about time that this great nation with over a hundred and fifty different kinds of religions, take heed of what Isaiah, the prophet, says viz: "And they shall beat their swords into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks; nations shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."
