For the man who want a shoe that will give perfect satisfaction, we recommend the

Hard Pan Shoe

"SIX MONTHS WEAR IN EVERY PAIR"

This shoe is made of soft, pliable, chrome-tanned, waterproof leather, with two full soles. These soles are of overweight steer hide—the toughest leather made. It has also a heavy gusset that will not permit dirt to come in through the lacing. Every part of the Hard Pan Shoe is put together in the strongest manner known to modern shoemakers. The result is the best work shoe made—the shoe for hard work, long wear and dry feet.

Let us show you these exceptional shoes today. They come in either black or tan leather.

$3.00 to $8 according to height of top.

DEATH OF GRANT TOWNSHIP PIONEER

MRS. ELIZABETH RICKER PASSED AWAY MONDAY.

Was a Resident of Grant Township 45 Years. Funeral Held Wednesday.

Another name is stricken from the ever lessening roll of our old settlers and another pioneer wearied with life's duties and cares has been laid to rest.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ricker, for 45 years a resident of Grant township, died at the home of her son, Arthur Ricker, three miles north of Gageton, on Monday morning at 6:30 o'clock. Elizabeth Smaltz was born in Hasadamstadt, Germany, 70 years ago. While still a young girl she left the Fatherland and came to Ontario. When she was 17 years of age, she was united in marriage with Christian Ricker, and to this union 12 children were born, three of whom preceded the mother in death. Mr. and Mrs. Ricker spent the early years of their married life in Caseville, later removing to Grant township and became some of the first pioneers of that section. Mr. Ricker died about 17 years ago.

Mrs. Ricker was a member of the M. P. church of Brookfield. Her life was a cheerful and helpful one until about a year ago when disease made her a helpless invalid. Her suffering was borne patiently and death came as a sweet release.

The funeral service was held at the residence Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Coombs of Gageton and Rev. Faupel of Kilmanagh officiating. The deceased is survived by nine children: Samuel, Arthur, George and John, all of Grant township; Chas. Ricker of East Lake; Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Carson, and Mrs. Ross, all of Owendale; Mrs. Carson of Santa Monica, Cal.

On Thursday, Nov 10, J. D. McCaugha will have a sale 1/2 mile south of Novesta Corners, commencing at ten o'clock. A free lunch will be served at noon. Announcement on page eight.

Striffler & McCullough are the auctioneers at all of the above sales.

VICTIM OF TUBERCULOSIS.

Third Son of Ross Family Died of Disease Monday.

Philip A. Ross, son of Phinley Ross, died at his home in Sheridan township Monday at the age of 29 years. Philip is the third son of the Ross family who has succumbed to tuberculosis. The second victim of the disease was buried about six weeks ago.

The funeral service of Philip Ross was held at the Catholic church at Sheridan on Wednesday and interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

HELLO GIRLS GO TO STRICKEN CITY

LILLIAN YAKES ONE OF THREE VOLUNTEERS.

Mayor Stewart Has Ordered All Public Meeting Places Closed in Saginaw.

Three telephone operators from the central exchange of the Michigan State Telephone Co. at Flint left for Saginaw Tuesday night to fill the ranks of the telephone operators there which have been depleted by the smallpox scourge.

When Manager W. C. Benschoten of the telephone company called the girls of his exchange together and explained the situation to them and asked for volunteers, Miss Minnie Rose from Rose City, Lillian Yakes from Cass City and Elizabeth K. Berry from Durand stepped forward and announced that they were willing to go.

Their decision was made in spite of the fact that Manager Benschoten had told them of the terrible deaths of some of the victims of the "black" smallpox in Saginaw. The girls are being quartered in the best apartments obtainable in the Vincent house at Saginaw and all of their expenses are being paid.

Saginaw is leaving no stone unturned to stamp out the smallpox scourge which appears to have picked out that city for a run. There is no disguising the fact that drastic measures are required, and that drastic measures are being taken. New cases are appearing in the infected homes and other cases are appearing elsewhere, so that the authorities are fully determined to make a fight that will win out. Nine or ten new cases, some of the "second crop" which must go to the limit, shows that the worst of the disease is not over, as was supposed last week.

Mayor Stewart, appreciating the danger and seriousness of the situation, has issued a proclamation ordering all public meeting places closed for the time being.

STATEMENTS VICIOUS AND MISLEADING

L. O. T. M. M. COMMANDER MAKES EXPLANATION.

Says the Order Is the Most Economically Managed of All.

Frances E. Burns, in a letter to the press says that certain misleading, not to say vicious, statements reflecting on the Ladies of the Modern Maccabees recently appeared in a number of newspapers in the state. Commenting on these, Mrs. Burns, the Great Commander of the order, continues in her communication as follows:

The official statement under the signature of Insurance Commissioner Barry concerning the L. O. T. M. M. declares this order to be "honestly and intelligently administered."

A comparison of the management of this order with all other fraternal orders in the state shows conclusively that the Ladies of the Modern Maccabees is the most economically managed of all.

For 20 years, we operated under the same rates. Last June we adjusted our rates to insure the perpetuity of the order and did so with the advice of Abb Landis, considered the foremost actuarial authority in this country. We now operate under scientific tables. During the past year, 17 other fraternal societies did the same.

During the past 20 years, the L. O. T. M. M. paid out $5,000,000.00 in benefits and today has out $700,000.00 in banks. And yet, the insinuation is made that we have no funds to pay our obligations.

CASS CITY A GOOD MARKET TOWN

FOR ALL THE PRODUCTS OF THE FARM.

Five Cars of Live Stock Were Shipped From Cass City Saturday.

That Cass City is considered one of the best market towns in the Thumb for hay, grain, live stock, poultry and farm produce of all kinds is conceded on all sides, the business of the firms dealing in these lines amounting to a large figure each season.

The local live stock buyers are making shipments each week to the eastern markets and the prices paid have attracted many to sell stock early this fall. Last Saturday was a busy day for the shippers, a long line of teams being in waiting to unload at the yard during the afternoon. Seven decks of live stock—five cars in all—were shipped Saturday.

Paying top prices for grain, beans and hay account for the fact that these products come here from within a few miles of some of our sister villages. During September and October, 18,000 bushels of grain and 16,000 bushels of beans were shipped out of Cass City.

FOOTBALL GAME TODAY ON HOME GROUNDS.

Two Well Matched Teams Will Compete for the Honors of the Gridiron.

The local high school eleven will meet the strong Marlette high school aggregation this (Friday) afternoon at three o'clock on the local grounds.

When the locals met the Vassar team two weeks ago, they anticipated a hard game and possible defeat because of Vassar's successful commencement of their season's playing. They found the "champions" a much weaker team than they anticipated, and but for an error, would have held them scoreless. In Marlette, however, the Cass City boys have always found them clever players and the Sanilac county team has carried off the victory in several of the games in former years.

The local team wants the 1910 game and are going to play well to achieve the laurels. The game will be worth going to see. Come out and be a sport, attend the game and encourage the boys by your presence.

James P. Devereaux, Democratic Candidate for Congress

The following is a short sketch of the early life of James P. Devereaux, which was recently published in the Detroit News, an Independent newspaper:

"The Democratic candidate who has undertaken the job of beating Congressman Fordney in the eighth district—his name, James P. Devereaux—probably finds it rocky up-hill work but that's nothing. He has been against many a rocky up-hill job before in the 35 years since he first saw daylight on a farm in Hartland township, Livingston county. He is now a lawyer and lives at Chesaning, Saginaw county. The old folks are still living on the homestead. James P. was the oldest of the nine children and all are in vigorous health.

There was a mortgage on the homestead and everybody had to work. This was the situation in James P.'s early boyhood days. The two-room school house in Hartland village is the one he attended, but when he reached 13 he attended only during the months between the last of the corn husking and the beginning of the spring plowing. At 17 he qualified to teach in a district school. There he had a teacher's sit for a few winters in the old home neighborhood, and in 1898 he struck out for Texas. For the next several years he was a locomotive fireman, district school teacher, book agent, seller of tornado insurance to farmers, and a threshing machine hand. As for the rest let us have it in his own words as he spoke to the late Saginaw Democratic county convention:

"I have been informed that Congressman Fordney in his speech to his home county convention sarcastically said he did not know who or what his opponent was. I presume he does not for I was not born to wealth or position.

"When Mr. Fordney was first elected to congress I was working with a threshing machine in Texas from before sunrise until after sunset, eating my meals standing up at a 'chuck wagon,' and when the day's toil was over, laying my body to rest in the straw stack with Heaven's blue for a roof, and all for a dollar a day. When he took his seat in congress I was a coal begrimed locomotive fireman, clad in blue overalls, shovelling into Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad engines, with a ten foot-six fire box, frequently on duty 24 to 36 hours; and, once from Muskogee, Indian Territory to Kansas City and back, was 48 hours without sleep.

"There were no big newspapers, mouthpieces of 'the system,' or 'the interests,' giving me space. Unheralded and unknown, I gathered up my savings, returned to the old home, and spent my savings, with some more borrowed of three very good friends, in paying for a course through the State Normal at Ypsilanti, and through the law department of the State University. Since then I have been practicing my profession in a small town which I regard as the best in the state for its size. Your nominee must confess that he is unknown, that he is but a home spun country lawyer, that he has been content with his lot and life, whether between the plow handles on the old Livingston farm sweltering in the hot sun, or feeding a 'queen of the rails' on the Texan plains. My life has been such that my sympathies are with those who produce wealth and not those who absorb it."

He is in favor of, and if elected, will work for the following:

1. The destruction of Cannonism, thus ending the control of politics by the special interests.
2. An honest downward revision of the tariff.
3. The Payne-Aldrich tariff is not a compliance with the pledge of the Republican party made in its national platform."—Wisconsin State Republican Platform of 1910.
4. A graduated income tax upon all large incomes.
5. Election of U. S. Senators by direct vote of the people.
6. Strict conservation of the natural resources of the country.
7. Destruction of trusts by criminal prosecution of the "men higher up."
8. Physical valuation of railroads to the end that fair rates of transportation may be established. (Adv.)

TO SAVE LIFE AND PROPERTY

WAS PURPOSE OF APPEAL IN FIRST OFFICIAL REPORT.

Osborn Has Been Constant in His Contest for Stronger Passenger Coaches.

The Detroit News directs favorable attention to Chase S. Osborn's statements that it will be a purpose he will have in mind if elected governor to require the steam and electric roads of Michigan to use coaches constructed of steel, so far as possible as a safeguard for the lives of passengers, and to force the separation of grades where needed.

As a matter of fact, in his first report as state railroad commissioner, in 1901, Mr. Osborn called attention to the inevitable loss of life in time of collision or other accident through the use of the comparatively light passenger coaches then in use, and he urged that the best possible cars should take the place of coaches which could not stand the car strain inevitable in cases of emergency.

It is further true that in his very first report as state railroad commissioner, Mr. Osborn gave more emphasis to his appeal in behalf of arbitrary requirement for separation of steam railroad and electric railroad grades in Michigan than to any other subject. In that first report he makes this declaration: "There is absolutely no way to adequately protect life and property at railroad crossings except by separation of grades."

TOWNSEND RATE BILL AUTHOR

Michigan's Future Senator's Record in Congress a Brilliant One—Made Reputation in His First Term.

When Charles Elroy Townsend's choice by the people of the state at the primaries is ratified by the next legislature at Lansing, Michigan will be represented in the senate of the United States by a statesman and lawyer of sterling worth; an able co-worker of that brilliant William Alden Smith, and a fearless, progressive Republican.

Charles Townsend's record in congress, meritorious to a marked degree, is a sufficient guarantee of his future accomplishments as United States senator from Michigan.

He, like Senator Smith, is a self-made man. Townsend received his education in the public schools and the University of Michigan. He worked on a farm until nineteen years of age, when he began teaching school.

Townsend is one of the authors of the Roosevelt rate bill, and as an authority on all matters pertaining to railway legislation he ranks second to none. He first leaped into prominence in his first term of congress, when his stand on rate legislation placed him conspicuously before the eyes of the nation, and at that time his reputation was made.

He had served his district well and faithfully for nearly six years when the death of Russell A. Alger left a vacancy in the senatorial ranks that it was up to Michigan to fill. Mr. Townsend made a bid for the seat, but was defeated by his colleague in congress, William Alden Smith.

The people of his district then returned him to congress by an overwhelming majority over his Democratic opponent. But the reward of true merit could not be denied him, and, at the last primaries, he was chosen by the Republicans of the state as their candidate for United States senator.

Charles E. Townsend is a progressive and voted to depose Speaker Cannon from the rules committee of the house at the last session of congress. He himself has said: "I am a firm believer in the progressive policies inaugurated by Roosevelt and advocated by Taft. These policies are in harmony with the traditions and principles of the Republican party and must be maintained by that party if it is to retain the confidence and support of the people."

Making Sure of It. Groom—What's your father going to give us for a wedding present? Bride—A big check, darling. Groom—Then the ceremony must take place at 2 p. m. instead of at 3. Bride—But why? Groom—The banks close at 3.—Cleveland Leader.

THIS IS IMPORTANT!

Election of Townsend as United States Senator Can Only Come Through Republican Legislature.

Attention has been called to the fact, but it can well be repeated, that the election of a Republican United States senator in Michigan as the result of the coming state election can only be accomplished through the election of Republican members of the state legislature. Congressman Charles E. Townsend was made the candidate of the Republicans of Michigan at the primary election, but under the terms of our state constitution the senator from this state must be formally elected by the next state legislature. Failure on the part of Michigan Republicans to elect a majority of the legislature would result in the defeat of Mr. Townsend and the election of a Democratic senator from this state. Your vote for the Republican candidate for member of the legislature from your district will be a vote for Mr. Townsend for United States senator, and in no other way at this time can the individual Republican voter assist in Mr. Townsend's election. It is important not only to the Republicans of Michigan but to all who are interested in the progress and advancement of our state that this matter should be kept clearly in mind.

NOTICE OF GENERAL ELECTION.

To the electors of the Township of Elkland, County of Tuscola, and State of Michigan:

You are hereby notified that at the General Election to be held in this state on Tuesday, the eighth day of November, 1910, the following officers are to be voted for in this county:

Flight of the Locust.

Locusts in South Africa are very tiny creatures, at most two or three inches long, yet giant jawed and shelled in a grim brown mail so hard that as they strike it causes a sharp smart. They travel in such numbers that it takes them four or five days to pass over. The scouts alone, hovering in patches like red dust clouds, are numerous enough to destroy the vegetation of a district, while the main body, high up in the air, a host of little black specks, stretches out into an interminable screen between heaven and earth. The fanning of their wings brings a fresh coolness over the hot earth even in the depth of summer. There seems to be a fresh breath of ozone as of the sea.

Reynolds and Two Pictures.

Sir Joshua Reynolds having become a great man, it was but natural that the town council of Plympton, near Plymouth, where he was born, should elect him mayor. In acknowledgment of the honor he painted a fine portrait of himself and presented it to the corporation. He wrote to a friend asking him to see that the picture was hung in a good light. This friend not only did so, but hung a poor picture alongside of it in order to lighten the merits of Sir Joshua's work by contrast. Then he informed Reynolds of all the trouble he had taken. In thanking him Sir Joshua told him that the poor picture had been painted by himself (Reynolds) in early life.

Why He Fired Him.

"He wouldn't do for me," this man was heard to say in the comparative lull as the train slowed down for a station in the subway. "I tried all I could, nursed him along and was good to him, but he wouldn't work, and I had to let him go. Why, he was too lazy to laugh, and when a man gets as lazy as that, why, there's nothing"—But the rest was lost in the rumble of the train.—New York Sun.

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over and over again for the last 36 years, but it is always a welcome story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Sold by L. I. Wood & Co.

CALUMET The BAKING POWDER That Makes the Baking Better

Failures are almost impossible with Calumet. We know that it will give you better results. We know that the baking will be purer—more wholesome. We know that it will be more evenly raised. And we know that Calumet is more economical, both in its use and cost. We know these things because we have put the quality into it—we have seen it tried out in every way. It is used now in millions of homes and its sales are growing daily. It is the modern baking powder. Have you tried it? Calumet is highest in quality—moderate in price. Received Highest Award—World's Pure Food Exposition.

CHAPTER II.

It had been a forlorn hope at best, this attempt of his to escape Kellogg—Duncan acknowledged it when, his packing rudely finished, he started for the door. Robbins reluctantly surrendering the suit case after exhausting his repertory of devices to delay the young man. But at that instant the elevator gate clashed in the outer corridor and Kellogg's key rattled in the lock, to an accompanying confusion of voices, all masculine and all very cheerful.

Duncan sighed and motioned Robbins away with his luggage. "No hope now," he told himself. "But—O Lord!" Incontinently there burst into the room four men—Jim Long, Larry Miller, another whom Duncan did not immediately recognize and Kellogg himself—bringing with them an atmosphere breezy with jubilation. Before he knew it Duncan was boisterously overwhelmed. He got his breath to find Kellogg pumping his hand.

"Nat," he was saying, "you're the only other man on earth I was wishing could be with me tonight! Now my happiness is complete. Gad, this is lucky!"

"You think so?" countered Duncan, forcing a smile. "Hello, you boys!" He gave a hand to Long and Miller. "How're you all?" He warmed to their friendly faces and unfeigned welcome. "My, but it's good to see you!" There was relief in the fact that Kellogg, after a single glance, forebore to question his return; he was to be counted upon for tact, was Kellogg. Now he strangled surprise by turning to the fourth member of the party.

"Nat," he said, "I want you to meet Mr. Bartlett. Mr. Bartlett, Mr. Duncan."

A wholesome smile dawned on Duncan's face as he encountered the blank blue stare of a young man whose very smooth and very bright red face was admirably set off by semi-evening dress. "Great Scott!" he cried, warmly pressing the lackadaisical hand that drifted into his. "Willy Bartlett—after all these years!"

A sudden animation replaced the vacuous stare of the blue eyes. "Duncan!" he stammered. "I say, this is rippin'!"

"As bad as that?" Duncan essayed an accent almost English and nodded his appreciation of it, something which Bartlett missed completely.

He was very young—a very great deal younger, Duncan thought, than when they had been classmates, what time Duncan shared his rooms with Kellogg, very much younger and suffering exquisitely from oversophistication. His drawl barely escaped being inimitable. His air did not escape it. "Smitten with my old trouble," Duncan appraised him—"too much money. Heaven knows I hope he never recovers!"

As for Willy, he was momentarily more nearly human than he had seemed from the moment of his first appearance. "You know," he blurted, "this is simply extraordinary. I say, you chaps, Duncan and I haven't met for years, not since he graduated. We belong to the same frat, you know, and had a jolly time of it, if he was an upper class man. No side about him at all, y' know, absolutely none whatever. Whenever I had to go out on a spree I'd always get Nat to show me round."

"I was pretty good at that," Duncan admitted, a trifle ruefully.

But Willy rattled on heedless. "He knew more pretty gels, y' know. I say, old chap, y'ou know as many now?" Duncan shook his head. "The list has shrunk. I'm a changed man, Willy."

"Ow, I say, you're chawfin'." Willy argued incredulously. "I don't believe that, y' know, hardly. I say, you remember the night you showed me how to play faro bank?"

"I'll never forget it," Duncan told him gravely. "And I remember what a plug we thought my roommate was because he wouldn't come with us." He nodded significantly toward the amused Kellogg.

"Not him?" cried Willy, exultant.

"Not really? Why, it can't be!"

"Fact," Duncan assured him. "He was working his way through college, you see, whereas I was working my way through my allowance and then some. That's why you never met him. Willy, he worked and got the habit. We loafed with the same result. That's why he's useful and you're ornamental and I'm"—He broke off in surprise. "Hello," he said as Robbins offered a tray to the three on which were slim stemmed glasses filled with a pale yellow effervescent liquid. "Why the blond waters of excitement, please?" he inquired, accepting a glass.

From across the room Larry Miller's voice sounded. "Are you ready, gentlemen? We'll drink to him first, and then he can drink to his royal little self. To the boy who's getting on in the world! To the junior member of L. J. Bartlett & Co."

Long applauded loudly. "Hear, hear!" and even Willy Bartlett chimed in with an unemotional, "Good work!" Mechanically Duncan downed the toast. Kellogg was the only man not drinking it, and from that the meaning was easily to be inferred. With a stride Duncan caught his hand and crushed it in his own.

"Harry," he said a little huskily, "I can't tell you how glad I am. It's the best news I've had in years."

Kellogg's responsive pressure was answer enough. "It makes it doubly worth while to win out and have you all so glad," he said.

"So you've taken him into the firm, eh?" Duncan inquired of Bartlett.

The blue eyes widened stonily. "The governor has. I'm not in the business, y' know. Never had the slightest turn for it, what?" Willy set aside his glass. "I say, I must be moving. No, I can't stop, Kellogg, really. I was dressin' at the club and Larry told me about it, so I just dropped round to tell you how jolly glad I am."

"Your father hadn't told you, then?"

"Who, the governor?" Willy looked unutterably bored. "Why, he gave up tryin' to talk business with me long ago. I can't get interested in it, 'pon my word. Of course I knew he thought the deuce and all of you, but I hadn't an idea they were goin' to take you into the firm. What?"

Long and Miller interrupted, proposing adieux which Kellogg vainly contended.

"Why, you're only just here"—he expostulated.

"Cawn't help it, old chap," Willy assured him earnestly. "I must go, anyway. I've a dinner engagement."

"You'll be late, won't you?"

"Doesn't matter in the least. I'm always late. Night, Kellogg. Congratulations again."

"We just dropped round to take off our hats to you," Long continued, pumping Kellogg's hand.

"And tell you what a good fellow we think you are," added Miller, following suit.

"You don't know how good you make me feel," Kellogg told them.

Under cover of this diversion Duncan was making one last effort to slip away, but before he could gather together his impedimenta and get to the door Willy Bartlett intercepted him.

"I say, Duncan"—

"Oh, rats!" said Duncan beneath his breath. He paused ungraciously enough.

"We've got to see a bit of one another, now we've met again, y' know. Wish you'd look me up. Half Moon club 'll get me most any time. We'll have to arrange to make a regular old fashioned night of it, just for memory's sake."

Duncan nodded, edging past him. "I've memories enough," he said.

"Right-oh! Any reason at all, y' know, just so we have the night."

"Good enough," assented Duncan vaguely. He suffered his hand to be wrung with warmth. "I'll not forget. Good night." Then he pulled up and groaned, for Willy's insistence had frustrated his design. Kellogg had suddenly become alive to his attitude and hailed him over the heads of Long and Miller.

"Nat, I say! Where the devil are you going?"

"Over to the hotel," said Duncan. "The deuce you are! What hotel?"

"The one I'm stopping at."

"Not on your life. You're not going just yet. I haven't had half a chance to talk to you. Robbins, take Mr. Duncan's things."

Duncan, set upon by Robbins, who had been hovering round for just that purpose, lifted his shoulders in resignation, turning back into the room as Miller and Long said good night to him and left at Bartlett's heels, and smiled awry in semi-humorous deprecation of the way in which he let Kellogg outmaneuver him. When it came to that it was hard to refuse Kellogg anything; he had that way with him, especially if one liked him. And how could any one help liking him?

Kellogg had him now, holding him fast by either shoulder, at arm's length, and shaking a reproving head at his friend. "You big duffer!" he said. "Did you think for a minute I'd let you throw me down like that? Have you dined?"

At this suggestion Duncan stiffened and fell back. "No, but"—

Kellogg swept the ground from under his feet. "Robbins," he told the man, "order in dinner for two from the club, and tell 'em to hurry it up."

"Yes, sir," said Robbins, and flew to obey before Duncan could get a chance to countermand his part in the order.

"And now," continued Kellogg, "we've got the whole evening before us in which to chin. Sit down." He led Duncan to an armchair and gently but firmly plumped him into its capacious depths. "We'll have a snug little dinner here and what do you say to taking in a show afterward?"

"I say no."

"You darsent, my boy. This is the night we celebrate. I'm feeling pretty good tonight."

"You ought to, Harry." Duncan struggled to rouse himself to share in the spirit of gratulation with which Kellogg was bubbling. "I'm mighty glad, old man. It's a great step up for you."

"It's all of that. You could have knocked me over with a feather when Bartlett sprang it on me this morning. Of course, I was expecting something, a boost in salary, or something like that. Bartlett knew that other houses in the street had made me offers. I've been pretty lucky of late and pulled off one or two rather big deals, but a partnership with L. J. Bartlett—Think of it, Nat!"

"I'm thinking of it, and it's great."

"It'll keep me mighty busy," Kellogg blundered blindly on. "It means a lot of extra work, but you know I like to work."

"That's right, you do," agreed Duncan drearily. "It's queer to me. It must be a great thing to like to work."

"You bet it's a great thing. Why, I couldn't exist if I couldn't work. You remember that time I laid off for a month in the country for my health's sake? I'll never forget it—hanging round all the time with my hands empty—every one else with something to do. I wouldn't go through with it again for a fortune. Never felt so useless and in the way!"

"But," interrupted Duncan, knitting his brows as he grappled with this problem, "you were independent, weren't you? You had money—could pay your board?"

"Of course. Nevertheless I felt in the way."

"That's funny."

"It's straight."

"I know it is. It wouldn't be you if you didn't love work. It wouldn't be me if I did. Look here, Harry. Suppose you didn't have any money and couldn't pay your board and had nothing to do. How'd you feel in that case?"

"I don't know. Anyhow that's rot."

"No, it isn't rot. I'm trying to make you understand how I feel when—when it's that way with me, as it generally is." He raised one hand and let it fall with a gesture of despondency so eloquent that it roused Kellogg out of his own preoccupation.

"Why, Nat!" he cried, genuinely sympathetic. "I've been so taken up with myself that I forgot. I hadn't looked for you till tomorrow."

"You knew, then?"

"I met Atwater at lunch today. He told me. Said he was sorry, but"—

"Yes, everybody is always sorry, but"—

Kellogg let his hand fall on Duncan's shoulder. "I'm sorry, too, old man. But don't lose heart. I know it's pretty tough on a fellow"—

"The toughest part of it is that you got the job for me, and I had to fall down."

"Don't think of that. It's not your fault!"

"You're the only man who believes that, Harry."

"Buck up. I'll stumble across some better opening for you before long, and"—

"Stop right there. I'm through!"

"Don't talk that way, Nat. I'll get you in right somewhere."

"You're the best hearted man alive, Harry, but I'll see you blasted first."

"Wait," Kellogg demanded his attention. "Here's this man Burnham. You don't know him, but he's as keen as they make 'em. He's on the track of some wonderful scheme for making illuminating gas from crude oil. If it goes through, if the invention's really practicable, it's bound to work a revolution. He's down in Washington now—left this afternoon to look up the patents. Now, he needs me to get the ear of the Standard Oil people, and I'll get you in there."

"What right 've you got to do that?" demanded Duncan. "What the dickens do I know about illuminating gas or crude oil? Burnham'd never thank you for the likes of me."

"But, thunder, you can learn. All you need"—

"Now, see here, Harry!" Duncan gave him pause with a manner not to be denied. "Once and for all time understand I'm through having you recommend an incompetent just because we're friends."

"But, Harry"—

"And I'm through living on you while I'm out of a job. That's final."

"But, man, listen to me—when we were at college"—

"That was another matter."

"How many times did you pay the room rent when I was strapped? How many times did your money pull me through when I'd have had to quit and forfeit my degree because I couldn't earn enough to keep on?"

"That's different. You earned enough finally to square up. You don't owe me anything."

"I owe you the gratitude for the friendly hand that put me in the way of earning—that kept me going when the going was rank. Besides, the conditions are just reversed now; you'll do just as I did—make good in the world and, when it's convenient, to me. As for living here, you're perfectly welcome."

"I know it—and more," Duncan assented a little wearily. "Don't think I don't appreciate all you've done for me. But I know and you must understand that I can't keep on living on you—and I won't."

For once baffled, Kellogg stared at him in consternation. Duncan met his gaze steadily, strong in the sincerity of his attitude. At length Kellogg surrendered, accepting defeat. "Well"—He shrugged uncomfortably. "If you insist."

"I do."

"Then that's settled."

"Yes, that's settled."

"Dinner," said Robbins from the doorway, "is served."

Horse Sense.

A Yankee owned a fine horse, which, however, suffered from periodical fits of dizziness. To a friend whom the owner consulted as an expert in "hosses" the question was put as to what should be done with the beast.

After a careful and extended examination the expert shifted his quid from one side to the other of his mouth and delivered himself thusly:

"Waal, Richard, I have reached the conclusion that the best thing you kin do with this hoss is to take him out some time when he ain't dizzy an' sell him to a stranger."—Lippincott's.

The lower part, dipped in boiling caustic potash, was entirely dissolved, proving it to be pure wool. When boiled in caustic potash the wool inside the squares was dissolved, leaving only the cotton bars.

Clothcraft Stands the Acid Test

YOU always find in your Clothcraft suit a regularly signed, legal, binding guaranty that the suit is pure wool.

That guaranty could not be given if the makers and we ourselves did not absolutely know the goods to be pure wool.

This is the test: Pure wool boiled in caustic potash completely dissolves. If there is any cotton in the mixture, it remains.

Every piece of cloth coming from the mills must be able to stand this test before it is accepted for Clothcraft.

Wool lasts. Wool keeps its stylish shape and color. When you can have all-wool guaranteed at $10 to $25 it is foolish to take anything less. Then come in today and pick out your Clothcraft suit or overcoat.

ROOSEVELT IS FOR CHASE OSBORN

THE EX-PRESIDENT CALLS CANDIDATE AN ABLER MAN.

Roosevelt Deeply Regrets That He Cannot Come to Michigan During Campaign.

Theodore Roosevelt gives his unqualified endorsement of the candidacy of Chase S. Osborn, Republican candidate for governor, and Charles E. Townsend, Republican candidate for United States senator.

The endorsement is in the form of a letter to Curtis Guild, Jr., who spoke here Saturday night for Mr. Osborn and the state ticket.

State Chairman Knox informed the Detroit Journal that he has been in communication with Mr. Roosevelt endeavoring to secure him for one speech in Michigan. The colonel declared this to be impossible, because his time was completely filled.

Governor Guild was informed of the situation while here and he immediately wired Colonel Roosevelt, urging him to accede to the request of Mr. Knox.

The following letter, which was received by Mr. Knox from Governor Guild, was the result.

To Curtis Guild, Jr.: I thank you for the telegram. I agree with every word you say in describing the situation in Michigan, and I deeply regret that it is a physical impossibility for me to accept the invitation to go to Michigan to take part in the campaign for the entire Republican ticket as I would gladly do.

I thoroughly understand, as you say, that in Michigan the progressives won a clear-cut victory; that their platform takes a proper stand in favor of a tariff commission and conservation of natural resources. My friend, Chase S. Osborn, the candidate for governor, is a progressive and singularly able and honest man.

Moreover, I also agree with you as to the great desirability of electing Mr. Townsend as senator. Mr. Townsend as joint author with Mr. Esch of the first railroad rate bill, and while I was in the White House, did excellent work for railroad rate legislation, and I heartily wish him success as senator. It is a cause of genuine regret to me that I am not able to go and do all I can for the entire ticket in Michigan.

Mr. Osborn is a man like Stimson of New York, who will clean house from cellar to garret, driving every wrong-doer from office. The effective way to prevent a thorough clean up would be not to elect him, and indeed a failure to elect him would be a genuine calamity from the standpoint of good citizenship.

Mr. Townsend's attitude on the railroad rate legislation is sufficient proof of the desirability of sending him to the senate, and this can only be done by voting for the Republican candidates for the legislature. Michigan Republicans have nominated two progressive candidates and it is imperative that they give them aggressive support at the polls. (Signed)

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
Binghamton, N. Y., Oct. 24.

This is the first letter of the kind which Colonel Roosevelt has allowed to be made public in the campaign and indicates the high regard in which he holds Messrs. Osborn and Townsend.

He has actively supported Mr. Stimson in New York and went into Massachusetts to aid Senator Lodge and has also given attention to Ohio, but he has steadfastly refused to promiscuously issue letters of indorsement to candidates, both state and congressional, in various parts of the country.

Immediately after the nomination of Mr. Osborn as the Republican candidate for governor of Michigan the colonel expressed his pleasure in a private letter and expressed his hope that the Soo man would be elected.

While on his last trip west he endeavored to shift a date so that he might enter Michigan to make one speech, but this was found impossible because of his engagements in Indiana. He assured State Chairman Knox, however, of his desire to aid in the election of Mr. Osborn and Mr. Townsend and the letter to Governor Guild is the result.

The indorsement of Colonel Roosevelt will aid in rolling up the majority for Mr. Osborn and assuring a solid Republican legislature," said Mr. Knox. "There has been no question about the election of either Mr. Osborn or a legislature which would name Charles E. Townsend as United States senator, but the strong expression of opinion by the ex-president will aid materially in rolling up an old-time Republican majority.

"The Republican party of Michigan is to be congratulated in presenting candidates for governor and United States senator who can be singled out for indorsement by Colonel Roosevelt."

A FEW FACTS REGARDING SANILAC COUNTY POLITICS

Fact I.—The issue before the people was and is Local Option and Law Enforcement. Mr. A. C. Graham favors both.

Fact II.—The best people of Sanilac county are tired of lax-law-enforcement. Mr. Graham will enforce the law.

Fact III.—It is easy for officials to be partial in law enforcement and men say that they are doing their work conscientiously and to the best of their ability, for some of them have little conscience and less ability. Mr. Graham has a live conscience and superior ability.

Fact IV.—The best people of Sanilac county including some of the leading Republicans will favor Mr. Graham. They know his character.

Fact V.—The lowest classes of the people, the profane, the law breakers together with the wet Democrats do not favor Mr. Graham. They know he is a man.

Fact VI.—The election of Mr. Graham need not and will not materially change the Republican majorities. Mr. Graham is not seeking to change men's political opinions. Party politics do not enter into this issue. It is honesty, conscience and ability in law enforcement.

Fact VII.—Like priest like people. Our people will be no better than our officials and leading men. If we want respect for law and stalwart manhood and womanhood in this generation and that which will follow, we must put into office men who have clean records, clean hands and pure hearts. Those to whom principle is more than party.

REV. A. BEEDON.

For Over Sixty Years.

This country has been blessed with great prosperity, varied at intervals by panics, after which each time business was better. During all this time we have had on the market the finest stock food in the world; Harvell's Condition Powders. The best horse, cattle, sheep, hog, and poultry condition powder ever offered for sale. Every particle has a medicinal value. Sold everywhere at 25c per package. J. F. Shear, Beech, Mich., writes: "I have used your Harvell's Condition Powders for over ten years and have always found them to be just what my horses and cattle needed when out of sorts. They always bring back their appetite. My stock show the results. Since feeding Harvell's Condition Powders to our poultry they have not been troubled with rouse or cholera and we get lots of eggs. Sold by Wood's Drug Store."

McDONALD FOR SHERIFF.

Of all the nominees on the Republican ticket in Sanilac County none is more worthy of the solid party vote than John S. McDonald, of Sandusky, candidate for sheriff. No candidate for a public office ever put up a cleaner or more gentlemanly campaign than did Mr. McDonald. The writer can see no good reason why any Republican should let his temperance sentiment warp his judgment to the extent of voting for a Democrat when the Republican nominee on his ticket stands for everything good claimed by opponent.

We believe and know that if Mr. McDonald be elected sheriff on November 8 next no man will have to cause to regret the fact, unless it be some violator of the law.

We judge the future by the past; judge what a man will do and what he stands for by his past actions. Basing our judgment on Mr. McDonald on these premises it is doing him a very great injustice when his opponents say that he is liable to be lax in the enforcement of all the laws.

During his residence in Sandusky he has given the people a hostelry that all citizens of the county were pleased to point with pride, and since the local option regime there has never been a finger of suspicion pointed toward the hotel or its proprietor.

Musical Note.

"Your daughter practices on the piano faithfully, I notice. Now, mine hates it."

"Mine does too. But she'd rather practice all day than help with the housework." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Croup is most prevalent during the dry cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers are never without it in their homes and it has never disappointed them. Sold by L. I. Wood & Co.

Doan's Kidney Pills relieve back-ache. Cure every kidney ill. Many people in this locality recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's one case:

Mrs. Sam'l Hamilton, 146 W. Gamble St., Caro, Mich., says: "I am constantly recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to my friends as I was cured through their use of a severe attack of kidney complaint. The money I spent for doctor's treatment and remedies might just as well have been thrown in the street, for I never received any benefit to speak of. My back troubled me greatly and at night the pain was almost unendurable. I tired easily, lost strength and energy and felt miserable in every way. I heard Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended for complaints similar to mine that I knew it would do me no harm to give them a trial. I am now glad that I did so."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

State of Michigan. In the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola, In Chancery.

Hattie B. Spencer, Complainant, vs Earl B. Spencer, Defendant. Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola in Chancery at Caro on the sixth day of September, A. D. 1910.

In this cause it appearing from affidavit on file, that the residence and whereabouts of the defendant, Earl B. Spencer, are unknown, on motion of T. J. Eveland, complainant's solicitor, it is ordered that the said defendant cause his appearance to be entered herein, within five months from the date of this order, and in case of his appearance that he cause his answer to the complainant's Bill of Complaint to be filed, and a copy thereof to be served on said complainant's solicitor within fifteen days after service on him of a copy of said bill, and notice of this order, and that in default thereof, said bill be taken as confessed by the said defendant.

And it is further ordered, that within twenty days said complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Cass City Chronicle, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said county, and that such publication be continued therein at least once in each week, for six weeks in succession, or that she cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said defendant, at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for his appearance.

A FREE Prescription ADVICE

From a physician of 52 years' experience in colleges, sanatoriums and general practice. Weak, nervous men, regain your strength and vigor. So great was my sympathy for weak men in the early years of my experience that I have made it a special study, and formulated two prescriptions, one for men under 50 and one for men over 50 years of age. In my declining years, I want every man to have the benefit of my long years of careful study, research and long experience. I am now 73 years old and as strong and vigorous as at 40 and the rest of my life will be spent in aiding suffering manhood. I realize that my time is short, but will do all in my power to aid men and women who are helpless and seeking relief. I know there has been a great many disappointed when they thought relief in their grasp, but let me send you my free prescription and booklet of private lectures to men which is the result of study since I began lecturing to student classes, way back in '71. Since that time I have cured many cases that are now pleased to recommend me.

MILK ADULTERATORS.

Some Patrons of Ubyly Condensery Again Busy.

The prosecution of parties suspected of watering or skimming milk sold to the Ubyly condensery began before Judge Gibson last week. Inspector Howe, of the State Dairy and Pure Food department making the complaint.

July 11, Inspector Howe, quietly dropped into town and took 57 samples of milk and the matter rested until Tuesday when he appeared and began making complaints before Judge Gibson. Up to Wednesday night eight warrants had been issued, five of which had been served. Of these two came in and pleaded guilty and were assessed for fine and costs $75.00 each. Just how many warrants will be issued no one knows but Inspector Howe, and he is not giving out any information.

WIDE-AWAKES' BANQUET.

(Contributed).

The Wide-awakes met at Mrs. J. D. Crosby's Halloween and arranged for a banquet at Mrs. A. Frutcheys for Tuesday evening. The time was spent in music, games and toasts, given and responded to by different members of the club. Mrs. E. B. Landon gave a short talk on "What is True Independence?" Mrs. M. L. Moore gave a riddle which they all are still guessing on. The table decorations were yellow chrysanthemums and ferns and the table lighted by candles in carrot candle sticks. All had a fine time.

CASE-ROSS.

At the M. P. parsonage at Kinde on Wednesday, October 26, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon occurred the union of Miss Maud E. Case and Almond T. Ross of Marlette in the presence of immediate relatives. The attending couple was William Brinker and Miss Lucy Stoner.

The bride was very prettily gowned in blue silk massaline trimmed in cream, the bride's maid wore nile green silk and the gentlemen conventional black. After the ceremony which was performed by Rev. W. H. Mitchell, the party went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stoner in Hume where an elaborate dinner was served.

Mrs. Ross is the daughter of the late William H. and Mary Case and a very prominent young lady. Mr. Ross is a well known and popular young business man of his city.

The happy couple left on the afternoon train for Clinton, Iowa, where they will visit her sister, Mrs. Valeria Damrow. They take with them the best wishes of a large circle of friends. They will soon be at home in Decker, Lapeer county, where Mr. Ross is starting a general store.—Kinde Farmer.

NOVEL EXCURSION.

Will Be Given to Caro Boosters Over the New Road.

As a capstone to the efforts put forth by the people of Caro, in aiding in the construction of the Detroit, Bay City & Western railroad, and a preface to the inaugural of permanent passenger service on the line, Handy Bros., the promoters and builders will give the people of the city the first excursion over the road.

"We wish to show Caro people our appreciation of their untiring efforts in working with us in this enterprise, and every one who aided in any way is entitled to an excursion over the road" said T. L. Handy Wednesday at Hotel Montague. The excursion will be unique in that neither tickets nor money will be accepted as transportation. The only condition is that every man and woman wear a Caro booster button which have been distributed to all who have paid their proportion of the fund necessary to secure the road.

In addition to the excursion, the Caro delegation will be banqueted by the people of Bay City, and a day of pleasure and amusement is being planned by the citizens of that place. It will be "Caro Day" in Bay City and her people feel that when the Caro boosters turn out something special should be done.—Advertiser.

Everlasting Bricks.

Once made, a brick is practically indestructible. Nearly every brick that has ever been made by man from the beginning of time is still in existence on this earth. The men who made and laid them and who directed these operations have long since been gathered into dust. Some of them have doubtless contributed in their bodies to the making of more bricks. But the steadfast and enduring square of baked clay persists and will until the heavens and earth are shriveled like a scroll.

LOOK OUTSIDE.

If you want to make the best of your life don't spend much time in looking within and wondering if your feelings are all right. Look outside instead and see what you are doing for others, what you are saying about other people, how you are behaving to those around you. If you are behaving kindly and truly to your neighbor you will not go far wrong.

DUTY OF MAN.

The duty of man is not a wilderness of turnpike gates, through which he is to pass by tickets from one to the other. It is plain and simple and consists but of two points--his duty to God, which every man must feel, and, with respect to his neighbor, to do as he would be done by.—Thomas Paine.
