

CASS CITY WILL HAVE GREAT FAIR NEXT WEEK

COMPLETE DETAILS ON PAGES
SEVEN AND EIGHT.

A Three-County Institution Drawing
Exhibits and Visitors From Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac.

The Cass City Fair is the big event of the season and the extensive arrangements being made by the officers and directors in charge of this year's event, the 22nd annual of the Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac District Fair Association, leaves no doubt that it will be the most successful number in the series. The plan and scope of the fair have been considerably changed in many respects, not the least important of which is the selection of dates considerably earlier in the season than has been the case heretofore. The coming affair will occur next week—Aug. 22, 23, 24 and 25—instead of late in September as in the past.

The Cass City Fair includes every department that any fair knows. The big watermelons are there, fine exhibits of live stock, the latest designs in ladies' needlework; also the pretty girls, the latest in farm machinery, and the fastest in trotting horses. The extent of the exhibits is remarkable, and the more so because of the fact that the fair is practically a three-county institution, drawing from Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac.

Complete details are given on pages seven and eight.

DOCTORS IN SESSION

Joint Meeting of Tuscola and Huron
Medical Societies.

A joint meeting of the Tuscola County and Huron County Medical societies was held in the I. O. O. F. hall at Cass City Monday afternoon. Twenty-six physicians were present. Dr. J. Walter Vaughn of Detroit and Dr. C. E. Smith of St. Louis, Mo., were also in attendance.

The doctors' wives met with Mrs. J. H. Hays and organized a "Co-Medical" or "Comedy" club. Mrs. J. E. Handy of Caro was elected president; Mrs. A. L. Seeley of Mayville, vice president; Mrs. G. W. Bates of Kingston, secretary.

The annual meeting of the Tuscola Co. Medical Society will be held at Caro in October.

CATHOLIC PICNIC.

The Catholic church of Sheridan will hold a picnic on Aug. 30. Slack wire performers and Scotch pipers and dancers will amuse the crowd. There will be dancing in the hall in the afternoon and evening and meals and soft drinks will be served.

COPY EARLY, PLEASE.

Advertisers and correspondents are requested to send in copy for the Chronicle early next week—fair week. Monday isn't too early.

PIANO GIVEN TO HIGHEST BIDDER AT THE FAIR.

Lotter & Gingrich of Elkton will exhibit three of their best high grade pianos at the Cass City Fair, one a self-player. One of these pianos will be sold to the person making the highest sealed bid with full address. Bids must all be in by 4 o'clock on the last day. After that time winner will be found. Consider this, as piano will go regardless of price. It is not a cheap piano but strictly high grade. Also leave orders for tuning of pianos and organs. All work guaranteed. No extra charges for regulating and adjusting action. $2.50 regular price, but complete finished work guaranteed. Lotter & Gingrich, Elkton, Mich. Dealers in M. Schulz and Janssen Pianos. 8-18-

Every cloud has a silver lining, and if your darkest cloud is the not being able to obtain the "swell togs" you want, at the price you want, you will find your silver lining in the "Guaranteed Clothing" which Crosby & Son are offering. It's great. 8-18-

Mellon's ice cream is its own salesman, inevitably. Not many people can forget it after trying it—and none of them would want to! At the Fritz Block.

The Temple Theatre will open on Saturday evening with new pictures and equipment. 8-18-

As we stroll down the avenue, How often do we meet?
We drop into Mellon's Ice Cream Parlors
Where everything is neat and sweet.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

At a recent meeting of the state board of health, Infantile Paralysis was made a reportable disease. From reports gathered from the newspapers the board believes that they have not received the reports of all the cases. This is highly desirable. The board has also recommended that the patient be isolated for a period of three weeks, and after recovery the house should be fumigated. Owing to the germ being present in the discharges from the nose and throat, these should be disinfected, antiseptic gargles should also be used. Because of the vagueness of symptoms of the onset and its crippling effects, no stone should be left unturned in its prevention.

WESTERN GROWERS COME HERE TO BUY LINCOLN RAMS

Ephraim Knight of Grant Township
Unable to Fill All Orders Received.

"If farmers in this vicinity would raise thoroughbred sheep, they would not have any difficulty in disposing of them at good prices. They could sell a carload at a time." So said Ephraim Knight of Grant township to the Chronicle Saturday. "I have tried to get farmers here to raise them, but thus far my efforts have availed little," he continued.

Mr. Knight has been unable to supply the demand for Lincoln sheep, the breed raised on his farm. On Aug. 12 he received an order for a number of rams from Idaho. The order came from G. Gooding, president of the National Wool Growers Association. Mr. Knight expects Mr. Gooding to come here to look over his flock.

Just recently Mr. Knight received an order from a grower in Wyoming for 75 yearling Lincoln rams. He has scoured the country and thus far has been able to secure 50 animals to fill the order.

NEWS FROM OTHER TOWNS IN THE THUMB

Maccabees of Huron County Will Discuss Proposed Rates; Other Nearby Notes.

Caro musicians have organized a band with Wm. Ayres as leader.

Michael Ryan, sr., for the past ten years a resident of Gagetown died at the home of his son, M. J. Ryan, at the advanced age of 83 years.

Walter H. Witt, well known attorney in Brown City, has been appointed postmaster at that place, vice George W. Dafee, who resigned the position and will move to Detroit.

Harbor Beach business men made a tour of Huron county one day last week and viewed business interests and agricultural pursuits in that portion of the Thumb. Nine automobiles carried the party.

Robert A. Crobar of Tuscola is receiving the congratulations of friends over his good fortune in being one of 16 heirs to the estate of his uncle, a western lumberman who recently died leaving an estate estimated to amount to $4,000,000. Mr. Crobar's share would amount to a quarter of a million dollars.

There is likely to be doings among Huron county Maccabees very soon. The 2,000 or more members of the order do not take kindly to the proposed raising of the rates to three times what they have been. Twenty years ago about four assessments a year were made. Lately they have reached one a month. Some members

SOME NEW LAWS NOW IN EFFECT

WOMEN'S HAT PINS MUST BE SHORTER.

No One Can Carry a Revolver Without Permission; Carrier Liable to Fine.

The compilation of new laws passed by the last legislature is out in book form and most of the laws are in effect since August 1st.

Below are a few of the new ones:

As to Women's Hat Pins

Any woman that appears in public wearing a hat pin more than ten inches long is guilty of a felony and liable to a fine of $500, imprisonment for two years or both. Representative Lord introduced it as an amendment to a bill forbidding the carrying of dangerous weapons.

No one can carry a revolver without a permit from a board consisting of the chief of police, the sheriff, and the prosecuting attorney. Otherwise the carrier is liable to a fine of $500, a year's imprisonment, or both.

New Powered Tax Commission

A law gives the tax commission the power on its own initiative or on the complaint of anybody in Michigan to investigate tax assessments in any part of Michigan. For example, anybody could complain that the mines in the upper peninsula were not assessed properly, and the tax commission could then engage experts and determine for itself if the complaint was justified. If it is decided in the affirmative, they would be the court of last resort from which no appeal could be taken.

Formerly the tax commission could not investigate any tax assessments except on complaint of some one living in the county where the alleged injustices occurred. The tax commission can under the new law go into Detroit and change every assessment and basis of assessment there.

To Equalize Assessments

The equalization board law is expected to bring all assessments on a cash basis inside of three years. This will do away, it is expected, with the complaints of the cities that their assessments are made on a higher per cent of total value than those of the country districts, thus making the cities pay more than their just share of the state taxes. The board every three years fix the basis of assessments in every assessment district in Michigan, to endure during the following three years. It is also hoped that this law will make for a more equitable taxation of the mining properties.

Tax on Mortgages

The specific tax on mortgages provides for a tax of 50 cents on each $100 of value of the mortgage at the time of registration of the mortgage the mortgage to be exempt thereafter from taxation. Under the present law mortgages are taxed the same as other personal property, about 1.8 cents on every dollar each year, or $1.80 on each $100. This would amount to more than three times the specific tax now a law. This law, however, does not apply until Jan. 1, 1912.

WILL MANUFACTURE CANDY FOR WHOLESALE TRADE

C. H. Mellon Handles Big Quantities of Watermelons During Summer Season.

Why not change it from Mellon, the candy man, to Mellon, the melon man? This suggestion is made because C. H. Mellon, the man under discussion, has made so many sales of this luscious southern fruit this summer. Several times the drayman has been seen unloading loads of melons there within the past few weeks.

A glance through Mr. Mellon's record of fruit shipments shows that 423 watermelons have been received and sold since July 1 and 100 more are on the way. Shipments of other fruits were handled in surprising quantities. Since March 28, 372 bunches of bananas, 97 boxes of oranges and 57 boxes of lemons were received and disposed of at this store. Mr. Mellon is an expert candy manufacturer and after the ice cream season closes this fall, he intends to manufacture large quantities of the sweets and sell to the wholesale trade. He was engaged in this business at Rock Island, Ill., and while there he had among his customers the Independent Five and Ten cent Store of Davenport, Iowa. M. Huehnberg, the manager of that institution, in a letter to Mr. Mellon states that the store purchased the latter's home-made cream candy for 14 months and during that period they had bought $2,100 worth of his candy. The writer further on comments on the excellent quality of the product.

"No man is older than he feels," and the way he dresses his feet has a lot to do with how he feels. Straighten out the kinks with a pair of Crosby & Son's new fall shoes—you needn't have the gay kind—but you'll feel gay in any kind because they fit. 8-18-

SEVERAL AMENDMENTS TO SCHOOL LAWS

ALL OF THEM IN NATURE OF IMPROVEMENTS.

In 1912 and Thereafter There Will Be One Primary Apportionment Annually.

The Michigan state legislature enacted several amendments to the school laws, all of them in the nature of improvements. It submitted an improvement which was adopted by the people; providing that no district shall receive more primary money until the amount of such money on hand is reduced so that it provides for teachers' wages for only two years in advance. The money goes into other districts having a smaller surplus or none.

The new primary fund law amendment goes into effect in 1912. The apportionments for the current year are made in May and November as usual, but in 1912 and thereafter there will be one apportionment for the entire year made from July 5 to 15. All the money can be collected for the whole year before school opens. Some of the other laws are as follows:

The school census for 1912 will be taken twenty days before June 1, instead of the first Monday in June as now. The school commissioner now shall appoint the trustee officer instead of the sheriff. This officer has much power in looking after school buildings.

The commissioner has the authority to appoint a clerk with a salary of not more than $300 per year, where there are over one hundred schools in the county.

On Columbus day, Memorial day, Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays school shall be kept and patriotic exercises held. None of these shall be holidays.

Funds shall be condensed to three namely: Primary, library and general funds. If building is carried on there may be a fourth fund known as the building fund.

Another school law that must be heeded, reads: Previous to the first Monday in August of each year the board of education or board of trustees, as the case may be, of each graded school district in this state shall cause to be published in a newspaper published in said district or in the county in which said district is located, said newspaper to be designated by said board of education, a complete statement of the proceedings of the annual itemized financial statements of the receipts and expenditures of said districts during the preceding school year, the expense of said publication to be paid out of the general fund of the district.

A NEW MILE RECORD.

Bob Burman, driving a 200-horse power Blitzen Benz, who established a new record for a mile on a half-mile track, covering the distance in one minute and eight seconds, two fifths of a second better than the record, at Scranton, Pa., the other day, is a former Tuscola county boy. He saw his first automobile when he was 17 years old. It was a primitive machine owned by W. J. Moore of the Moore Telephone System and Bob was as crazy about it then as has been ever since. Mr. Moore was driving near Bob's farm home and permitted the lad to inspect the car, and take a ride. Burman's prowess as a speed driver has made him nationally famous. He formerly drove a Buick and was at the Caro fair with a racing car last summer.—Caro Courier.

TO BUILD SAMPLE ROADS

Association Plans Good Speakers For Meeting.

Secretary T. M. Sattler, of the Michigan Good Roads' association, of Jackson, states the state highway department has offered to build samples of the different kinds of state reward roads for the delegates at the coming meeting at Lansing Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 to inspect. While the speakers have not yet been secured an effort will be made to engage such men as L. W. Page, good roads specialist from the agricultural department at Washington; N. P. Hull, master of the state grange; State Highway Commissioner Ely, ex-State Highway Commissioner Earle, President Brown, of the State Automobile association, and a representative of the Detroit association of Automobile Manufacturers.

A campaign is being planned for the betterment of public highways in Michigan. Competent road builders will be sent into every county, city and village to organize associations to build good roads, asking each merchant to pledge a certain amount for every mile of good road built, within ten miles of his store; to secure a similar pledge from every automobile owner and also from rural mail carriers.

It is figured that by this method good roads can be built so that the farmer will have to pay only about 20 per cent of the cost, the balance being paid by the state reward and by the State Good Roads' association.

Expectation.

O thou arch-cheat, with bright illusion shod,
Thou shameless herald of fictitious joy,
Full many an hour my trusting heart did toy
With thy delusive hopes, deceitful god!
And many a mile with thee I fondly trod,
Expecting rich delight from promise broad.
But now I know thee for a lying boy
And swear thou shalt not any more annoy
My daily peace nor confound in my breast
Sweet hopes and fancies that can never be Converted into fair reality.
So get thee gone, false imp, and let me rest.
Content to wait unmoved and patiently,
Since joys we look for least oft prove the best.

The Most Worthy One.

The late Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia was a diplomat of the first order and was possessed of a full share of Celtic wit and kindly humor.

Before the Catholic Standard and the Catholic Times were combined to form one publication there were keen rivalry and much controversy between their proprietors and readers as to which was the more truly representative Roman Catholic organ in Philadelphia. Each sought eagerly to gain the official endorsement of the archbishop. On one occasion a prominent layman tried to trap him into a statement as to which of the two publications he preferred.

"Well, I will give you my opinion," said the archbishop deliberately. "It is certain that the Standard is far ahead of the times, and it is equally certain that the Times is much above the standard; therefore I prefer to regard as most worthy the one which is thus proved to be superior."

The KITCHEN CABINET

REST is a fine medicine. Let your stomachs rest, ye dyspeptics; let your brains rest, ye wearied and worried men of business.

Rest is not quitting the busy career; rest is the fitting of self to one's sphere.

HOT WEATHER DISHES.

Ices and ice creams are always welcome in hot weather, and for dessert nothing can take their places. Faced fruits are easier to serve than fancy puddings and much better for the digestion.

During currant and cherry time, those delicious fruits will be used for pies as well as eaten fresh. A cherry pie is considered by most epicures the sine qua non.

In baking cherry pies remember to insert a paper funnel made from writing paper in the center opening and the juice will boil up and never run over and spoil the pie.

Tomatoes are such refreshing vegetables and are especially good for the blood.

To vary the manner of serving, chop a cucumber and an onion, mix with a sprinkling of chopped parsley and French dressing and heap on nice thick slices of tomatoes.

Individual berry shortcakes are prepared by baking powder biscuits. Split them and butter while hot; fill with crushed fruit and put a berry or two on top, if strawberries, if small fruit use more. When making the biscuit if they are rolled thin and spread with butter and another laid on top they split much easier and are not as apt to soak the juice and be soggy.

Macaroon Cream.—Soak a tablespoonful of gelatin in two tablespoonfuls of water. Make a custard with two cups of milk, three egg yolks and four tablespoonfuls of sugar. When cooked add the gelatin and stir in a teaspoonful of vanilla and eight macaroons crushed and sifted. Add a cup of whipped cream and mold.

CHAPTER X.

It was a quiet dinner they ate that evening. After much persuasion, the Count had remained. But even his stumbling attempts at witty sallies brought few smiles.

Harry had succeeded in quieting Carolyn's alarms, and she in turn had given her own version of matters to Lucy. And a long talk Harry had with Mr. Medders had helped. Harry would not tell Medders the inside facts, but he told him that later he would make everything plain. At this time, he said, to disclose everything would be to tarnish a woman's name—and Medders partly understood. The good old man was fond of Harry. And he had lived long enough to know that appearances were often deceitful. He was willing to give Harry the benefit of the doubt.

"My Boy," the General Said, "I Couldn't Help Coming Back to Assure You That I Am Deeply Sorry."

But it was a quiet dinner. After they had left the table Harry succeeded in getting Lucy to come and talk with him in the reception room, and there he begged her to be patient until he felt that the time had arrived for him to make a clean breast of everything to her. At last he coaxed back the smiles to her face, but only after giving his word of honor that so far as he was concerned, the presence of Daphne in his house was not a reflection upon him.

Meanwhile the Count, endeavoring to keep his promise to get Harry out of the scrape, slipped out into the lawn, and by throwing pebbles against the window of the room where Mrs. Blazes was attracted her attention.

She opened the windows, and in an almost hysterical voice, begged him to get her out.

"I will, if you only be quiet," the Count said. "Your husband chust vent in. I saw him ven I come out."

"But what can I do?" she asked. "Trust me!"

"I did," she sighed, "and lost my hat."

"Yes, and I let you haff my ring, too."

"Both your old ring!" she answered. "I'll give it back to you. I hate the sight of it!"

"Giff it to me, den," the Count whispered, eagerly.

"I will," she hesitated, "when I get out of here."

The Count swiftly disappeared from view as the front door opened and Harry and the General came down the steps. The General's arm was across Harry's shoulders.

"My boy," he was saying, "I couldn't help coming back to assure you that I am deeply sorry."

"Say no more about it, General," Harry begged.

"But, Harry," the General asked, confidentially, "how did that little rift happen to be in that room?"

"Well," Harry explained, "that was a little affair concerning her and Count von Fitz. I don't feel at liberty to go into details—but it's just a flirtation, you might say."

"She's a charmer, all right enough, Harry, my boy!" the General said. "Ah! If my wife only knew—if she ever found out how I have flirted with some of these dashing damsels!"

Mrs. Blazes, from the safety of her window, listened intently.

"What?" Harry asked. "You flirt, General?"

"I'm deep, Harry, devilish deep! I say nothing, but I saw a lot of wood. Don't worry about any little flirtations of your own. Come to me for advice if you need it. Everybody must sow his wild oats, you know."

"Yes," Harry agreed, "but the wild oats you sow the night before don't make good breakfast food the morning after."

"Well, anyway," the General said, "we understand each other. No more hard feelings?"

"Not a bit. Not a bit," Harry reassured him. The General waved his hand cordially as he strode down to the street. Mrs. Blazes watched him disappear in the dusk, nodding her head significantly.

"Wild oats, eh?" she said. "Flirtations, eh? Wait until I get home!"

She leaned out of the window and called to Harry. He glanced up at her and smiled wearily.

"How in the world am I to get out of here?" she asked, petulantly.

"I think I'll have that run as a puzzle in the Sunday papers," Harry answered, grimly. "I'll say this, though: When you do get out you needn't be too punctilious about making your party call."

"This is no time for joking—" "It's the only time I've got. You've put me in a pretty mess."

"I'm just as sorry as I can be, Mr. Swift. But look at the muddle I am in."

"Oh, I've seen worse muddles than this," Harry answers, easily.

"And I'm simply starving to death," she said, hungrily.

"I'm going to slip some sandwiches in there for you, if the blockade doesn't lift pretty soon. Meantime, keep away from that window as much as possible. Some one may happen to see you—and I'm out of explanations."

Mrs. Blazes drew back a bit from the window, and asked:

"Have you heard anything of my hat?"

Harry sank down on a lawn bench with a weary air.

"Where have I heard of hats?" he said. "I've ordered a hat for you. Daphne, the daffy daffodil, is making one for you. She'll have it here before long."

"That's dear of you!" Mrs. Blazes smiled, appreciatively.

"How do you know what it costs?" he asked, grimly.

Mrs. Blazes clasped her hands melodramatically and went on:

"And I'm so worried about my husband!"

"You are? You ought to be," Harry told her. "And he's worried about you—and I'm worried about both of you. Shut the window, and let me think."

She closed her window, and he resumed his meditations.

"Sometimes," he muttered, "it's against a fellow to be innocent. I could have straightened this out in two minutes if I had been guilty."

The front door opened, and Lucy appeared. She glanced down at Harry and smiled.

"May I come out with these awhile?" she asked. "It is so peaceful out here—everything seemeth so calm."

"This is the headquarters for peace and calm," Harry observed, pleasantly, rising. Lucy came down the steps and sat on the lawn seat while Harry leaned over the table beside her, looking down at her.

"Well," Lucy asked, "what can these say?"

"I can't say anything yet," he answered. "I can only ask you to trust me until I can explain everything."

"But surely these can explain everything now."

"No. Not yet. I don't understand it myself yet."

Lucy's face changed, and Harry went on:

"Later, I'll tell you everything. I can't now, Lucy, because some one else is involved."

"I saw her," Lucy said, coldly.

"I don't mean that way, Lucy," he protested. "What you saw may have a peculiar look—"

"Indeed, she had!" Lucy asserted.

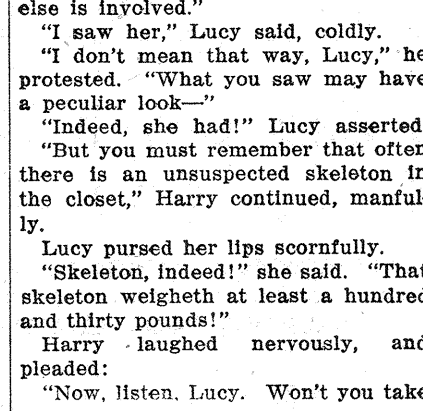

"But you must remember that often there is an unsuspected skeleton in the closet," Harry continued, manfully.

Lucy pursed her lips scornfully.

"Skeleton, indeed!" she said. "That skeleton weigheth at least a hundred and thirty pounds!"

Harry laughed nervously, and pleaded:

"Now, listen, Lucy. Won't you take

"Well," Lucy Asked, "What Can They Say?"

my word that everything is all right, so far as I am concerned?"

"I might take thy word, but thee cannot explain so easily to Cousin Socrates nor to father."

"Cousin Socrates has been in the attic writing sonnets about you all evening, and I have talked with your father, bless his good old heart! He believes in me, and he is willing to trust me."

"So do I believe in thee, Harry—but these cannot know how sorry I am that this has happened. I regret it."

With an earnest effort to turn her mind to a lighter view of things, Harry asked:

"So you regret it?"

"I do—very, very much."

"Then, if you regret it very, very much, I'll forgive you this time," he laughed, seating himself and taking her hand.

She took her hand away quickly and jumped to her feet in indignation.

"How can thee jest at such a moment?" she cried.

He rose and followed her.

"I shouldn't have jested," he said, humbly. "Lucy, you are not a city girl—and I'm glad of it—but you are apt to judge things too much on appearances."

Lucy turned and looked at him with a pathetic seriousness in her eyes.

"Until this morning, Harry," she said, "I wanted to be a city girl. I thought the little town where I have lived was a pitiful place."

"But it had you in it," Harry reminded her, gently.

"I am beginning to understand," Lucy said, "that here appearances are everything—but there isn't any everything—and that takes the deceit from the appearances."

"Why, you're a genuine little philosopher," Harry said.

"We have the blue sky in the daytime back there," Lucy continued, "and here these have clouds and smoke. There we have the stars at night, here these have electric signs. There we get up at sunrise and the little birds sing us a welcome from the trees, but here—"

"Here the folks stay up until sunrise and eat the little birds before that," Harry finished for her. "You don't want a city home, then, Lucy?"

"I want a home where the heart does not have to be hidden," she told him.

"And so do I. I want a real home, with the best little girl in the world as my wife."

There was no mistaking his meaning. Lucy looked at him for half a minute, then said:

"When these have explained, Harry."

CHAPTER XI.

Fifteen minutes later Count von Fitz cautiously crept beneath the window and whistled. Mrs. Blazes did not answer. He whistled louder. Still no answer.

"If you are gone, I'm glad," he said. "Cheer me by not replying."

But no such cheer was in store for him. Mrs. Blazes noiselessly opened the window and whispered:

"Sh! Be careful! Did you get my hat?"

"Not yet," the Count told her. "Dey haff to make him. I wouldn't trust dot Daffie woman. I vent to anudder hat place. Der name is 'Terese'."

"But they won't know the model," Mrs. Blazes feared.

"I eggplain him perfectly. I tell her a shape like a smashed balloon, yellow on der outside mit a garden of red poppies."

"Red poppies, you silly man!"

"Puppies or poppies—dey look chust as bad to me from now on."

"You'd best go right back and stay there until it is finished," Mrs. Blazes suggested.

"No. I told dem to sent it here, so I make sure I get it."

"That's good," she said, with a tone of relief.

"Now you come right out and ven der hat comes I giff it to you, und away you go."

"Come out?" she asked sarcastically. "Am I an aeroplane?"

"Lissen. Make a rope yet, und I pull you out."

"An idea!" she exclaimed with delight. "I'll tear up the sheets and things in here, tie them together in a rope, and let myself down."

"Splendid! I go und vatch for der messencher mit der hat."

The Count stroled away, while she closed her window.

A young couple came walking slowly through the flower garden. It was Pigeon and Carolyn.

The twilight spell had been cast upon them. Arm in arm, silently they strolled until they neared the bench.

Suddenly Pigeon said:

"Let's sit down here. I've got to see Harry through his racket, you know"—evidently continuing a conversation which had lapsed some moments before—"but after that—"

He looked down into Carolyn's eyes. "After that," she asked, softly.

For Carolyn had all a woman's intuition, in spite of the young years, and she diagnosed the symptoms of an approaching proposal. She did not intend to accept him, but no woman will allow a proposal to get away from her.

Proposals to a woman are as the scalps the Indian brave ties to his war belt.

"After that," said Pigeon, beginning to sit down, "I can look after my own affairs. And I—"

An ominous, ripping sound came. Mrs. Blazes was beginning to make her rope, but the young couple, of course, knew nothing of that. Pigeon straightened up with a jerk and tried to look unconscious. He did not know what had given away. Carolyn tried to smooth over his embarrassment by saying:

"Isn't it a lovely evening?"

Then she began to sink gracefully upon the seat, when an even more ominous ripping sound was heard. Carolyn abandoned her project with due and proper suddenness, while Pigeon mopped his brow, and said, in flustered tones that he tried to make sound matter-of-course:

"I thought earlier today that we might have some rain."

He lifted his foot to rest it carelessly upon the bench, not caring to try to sit down any more, but with the movement came a terrific rip as though something had torn loose forever.

He dropped his foot and tried to whistle a popular air.

Carolyn looked the other way and became nervous.

"I can't do a thing with my hair to-night," she observed, lifting her arms to pat it into shape.

R-r-rip!

Her arms dropped to her sides, soldierwise.

"I think," Pigeon said, desperately, "that the evening is the most pleasant time of the day."

He sat down, in spite of the ripping that still sounded.

"Won't you be seated?" he asked politely.

Carolyn slowly, carefully allowed herself to sit beside him, and to her evident relief there was no further sound of ripping.

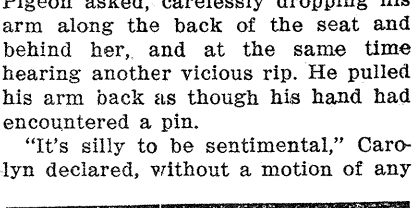

"Isn't it funny," Pigeon said, "how lonesome a fellow gets at this time of the evening, if he is all alone?"

"Now, don't get sentimental," Carolyn said, tapping him playfully on the shoulder.

Simultaneously with her movement there was a sudden, short rip. She drew back in confusion.

"Is it wrong to get sentimental?" Pigeon asked, carelessly dropping his arm along the back of the seat and behind her, and at the same time hearing another vicious rip. He pulled his arm back as though his hand had encountered a pin.

"It's silly to be sentimental," Carolyn declared, without a motion of any sort. By this time she was afraid even to turn her eyes toward him.

"Isn't it a Lovely Evening?"

"I'm silly, am I?" Pigeon asked, sulkily.

"I didn't say that," she answered.

"You did!"

"You did, and I can prove it!"

"I didn't, and I can prove it!"

Pigeon attempted to arise haughtily, but—r-r-rip!—and he sat down again.

"I suppose," he said to her, pettishly, "you think I can't do anything?"

"You can't!" she replied, pouting, for she was angry because of the ripping, and naturally wanted to vent her wrath on the nearest object, which in this instance happened to be the poor youth. "You can't. Doing nothing is the best thing you do."

"Boarding school wit!" Pigeon retorted. "Oh, well, there are plenty of other girls!"

"And don't you forget, Mister Williams," she snapped, with a heavy accent on the "Mister," "that there are plenty of other men!"

She brought out the word "men" with all the emphasis and meaning necessary to convey to him the idea that she regarded him as a boy.

Then she arose, utterly ignoring a terrific ripping noise, and strode into the house with the cold, heartless tread of a princess. But as she went up the steps, Pigeon, had he been watching, would have seen her clutching nervously at her skirt, while the ripping went merrily on.

Pigeon got up with an air of gloom, and grasped his belt in a tight clutch and marched off, his steps being timed by staccato rips, which he did not locate as coming from the room wherein was Mrs. Blazes.

And in that room Mrs. Blazes was feverishly tearing and tying strips of sheets, and towels, and table covers, together, all unconscious that in her strenuous efforts to effect her escape she was creating the first bump upon the pathway of a young love—but then love, as Mr. Shakespeare observed long ago, never did run smooth.

It Beats the World to cure Rheumatism

Aching and enfeebled muscles should remind you of slowness of tissue repair. Eruptions of the skin and catarrh of the mucous membranes show diminished nerve power in the tissues.

In health or disease there is need of an internal bath. This is best obtained by drinking a glass of pure water with one or two teaspoonsful of San Jak 30 to 60 minutes before breakfast, washing the blood. This passes quickly from the stomach and stimulates the bowels to increased peristalsis, overcoming constipation and its attendant ills. It is quickly absorbed and entering the blood stream bathes the cells of the liver and heart, then passes to the brain and washes out the cobwebs and awakens to new life every cell in the body.

San-Jak dilutes the ropy secretions and dissolves all abnormal crystalline substances that may be in the blood and urine. SAN-JAK greatly promotes elimination, creates downward peristalsis, stimulates a flow of digestive juices. It dissolves the sticky mucous in the mouth and throat, allowing the membranes to be bathed in their natural secretions. San-Jak is the great medium of exchange in the body, by enabling the kidneys to absorb and eliminate alkaline sulphates which are the products of intestinal decomposition and in renal weakness or the real cause of Bright's disease.

Man does not wear out like a piece of machinery by constant disintegration for he is self renewing. When he loses his ability to self renewal or fails in process of making young blood, the nerve tissue is not sufficiently nourished and his strength and health fall.

SAN-JAK is the only medicine which will enable you to keep a perfect balance between elimination and renewal of the body. Decay of the body at any time of life is unnatural. Permanent waste of the system can be avoided by the use of SAN-JAK.

Rheumatism, catarrh and bladder trouble, the source of trouble to humanity, is due to a too high or low specific gravity which may be regulated to normal by taking SAN-JAK.

Swelling under the eyes, grayish white or waxy color of the skin denotes granular disease of the kidneys. The cure is SAN-JAK.

ANXIETY.

Anxiety is the poison of human life, the parent of many sins and of more miseries. Can your solicitude alter the cause or unravel the intricacy of human events? Can your curiosity pierce the cloud the Supreme Being hath made impenetrable? To provide against every important danger by the employment of the most promising means is the office of wisdom, but at this point wisdom stops.—Blair.

The Kangaroo Rat.

One of the queerest little animals of the antipodean wilds of the paradoxical continent of Australia is a little zoological oddity which the naturalists have called the kangaroo rat. It averages no larger than the common rodent of the Norway variety, but is a miniature kangaroo in every respect. Its mode of locomotion is precisely the same as that of Macropus giganteus. Besides this, the female carries its young in pouches which nature has provided for that purpose and in many other respects imitates the habits and characteristics of its gigantic relative.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor Chronicle:

Since my return from Pleasant Hill, Ohio, on Tuesday noon, many have asked many questions concerning the Beery exhibition of horsemanship which I have been attending during the past week. Judging from this fact that it might interest your patrons, I will give you a few facts.

Without doubt Professor Beery is the greatest living horseman today. He subdues the worst kickers, balkers, biters or any with other vicious habits you could mention in 30 or 40 minutes so they will obey him and permit him to handle them in any way—take up their feet, climb on their back, etc.

I learned more about horses in one day there than I ever knew before. Having taken Mr. Beery's course, I could appreciate his demonstrations better. There were present 955 students registered. They represented every state and territory in the union and some foreign countries. There were 5,000 people every evening in the arena to witness these exhibitions which were certainly the most wonderful I have ever witnessed. In fact, the meeting was in some respects the most unique ever known in this country or any other. I believe there is no record of anywhere near the numbers ever having met at one time for the same purpose since we have any record of time or such a vast area of territory represented.

I purchased and brought home with me the entire set of appliances used by Mr. Beery for his handling of the horse is all done in that way. He does not use any severity or permit his students to do so, the wildest or most vicious horse being handled and entirely subdued without one hard stroke of the whip.

I am sure Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Goff, who were present through the whole exhibition, will bear me out in all I have said here and much more.

D. M. HOUGHTON.

Accused of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Mo., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy it is equal don't exist." Only 25c at L. I. Wood & Co.'s.

Finances of Heroism.

A new light on heroism is shed by Dr. Henry Rundle in his little book, "With the Red Cross in the Franco-German War." "Those soldiers," he says, "who have the good fortune to return whole and healthy are, of course, the heroes of the family. One of our patients, a young French cavalry soldier, did not wish his friends to know of his safety. He thought that if kept in suspense for some little time his family would be so overjoyed at his return that their substantial tokens of welcome would be the greater."

Michelangelo's Attempt at Suicide.

Michelangelo after receiving a painful injury to his leg by falling from a scaffold while at work upon "The Last Judgment" became so melancholy that he shut himself in his room, refused to see any one and "resolved to let himself die." Fortunately his intentions were frustrated by the celebrated physician Baccio Rontini, who learned by accident of his condition.

MANAGEMENT WILL PRESENT STRONG AND UNUSUAL SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

No Effort Spared to Make the Fair for 1911 the Greatest and Best in the History of the Association

The twenty-second annual district fair to be held at Cass City, August 22, 23, 24 and 25, will be the largest and best exhibition in the history of the association and will rank foremost with the fairs held in the Thumb of Michigan. The attractions, the music and racing will surpass anything the association has ever given. The special features offered are numerous and worth going miles to see.

The Cass City District Fair is the one big topic of conversation with the people of Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties.

This is due in large measure to the untiring efforts of the officers and directors in putting forth their best energies to secure a large and varied class of exhibits and a big and high-class amusement program.

The fair is held at a seasonable time—when every farmer and his household with nothing laborious to confront them requiring immediate attention can lay aside all cares and take a few days' rest and recreation.

The arrangement for the coming fair are more extensive than upon any former occasion, and cannot fail to inspire an exhibition of the highest and best character.

The premium lists will be found liberal, and should draw together a fine exhibition of live stock, as well as a nice display of the products from field, garden and orchard and for the floral hall.

The Attractions. Racing of the highest class is promised at the Cass City Fair next week. The Cass City track is recognized by all horse owners and drivers as one of the best half mile tracks in the state. The complete program of speed events is given in another column.

In the line of special attractions, the officers will pay out four times as much money as has been expended in any former year for these features. The airship in two flying exhibitions each day, Fred Darling's Animal Circus in open air exhibitions with change of program daily, and the Alabama Quartette in southern melodies—these form a combination of high class features—feats of daring and skill, comic and sensational animal acts, interspersed with musical numbers that are pleasing to all.

The premium lists are out and a large number have been mailed to farmers and others. It is the wish to place a list in the hands of every family interested in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties and those who have not received one by mail can secure one by addressing the secretary, Joseph Frutchey.

ETHIOPIAN BLACK BIRDS A SUNNY SOUTH NOVELTY

The Alabama Quartette on the Big Amusement Bill at the Cass City Fair.

"Who said chicken?"
"Carve dat possum."

Native southern artists, singing the old melodies with their peculiar dialect and gentle pathos are the Alabama Colored Troupe, who have been engaged by the fair management to furnish a portion of the big bill of free entertainment and amusement at the Cass City Fair next week.

The songs rendered by this quartette of sonorous sons of Ham are peculiarly their own, adapted to their voices and sung with that feeling which none but the native can impart. The program will be intermingled with coon shouting and up-to-date songs. They appear each day of the fair.

HAY WILL BE SOLD UPON FAIR GROUNDS

Farmers, Bring Your Dinners and Stay All Day. Plenty of Room for Your Vehicles.

There will be plenty of room for your wagons, buggies and automobiles on the fair grounds. The space within the ring affords ample room for all.

A 25-cent ticket admits one horse and furnishes it with one feeding of hay.

A 50-cent ticket admits one team to the grounds and provides them one feeding of hay.

UBLY BAND WILL PLAY.

The Ugly Cornet Band has been engaged to furnish music at the Cass City Fair. A few years ago, the Ugly boys did a like service at Cass City and they were on the job all the time. Good band music and lots of it—that's what the Ugly Band has in store for visitors at the fair.

The better class of concessioners in the country are turning their attention to the Cass City Fair. So many applications are being received that the management can afford to pick and choose from among these concessioners, and the result is that "Midway" will be filled with the best class of concessioners ever gathered together.

"NO FLIGHTS NO PAY" SAYS THE CONTRACT

AVIATOR HAS GREAT CONFIDENCE IN AIRSHIP.

Wonderful Flying Machine Will Make Two Flights Daily at Cass City Fair.

Airships are still in their infancy as regards being an attraction for county fairs—in fact, Cass City is the first to announce such a feature. Because of the rarity of this form of entertainment and the enthusiastic anticipation which awaits its appearance, the fair management feels that it has just cause to feel proud of this stellar attraction which will be offered during the coming fair.

To show what confidence is felt in the airship which will be exhibited at the Cass City Fair, it merely has to be remarked that the contract for the appearance of the machine reads, "no flight no pay." Considering the amount of money involved, this can be taken as an expression of the most extreme confidence that the aviator and his management have in their wonderful flying machine. Two exhibitions will be given each day of the fair.

The airship, because of certain recent improvements, might be said to be well past the experimental stage. These improvements mean that the operator at all times has the strange craft under complete control and can manoeuvre the airship as handily as can the driver of a motor car running smoothly along solid roadway.

In the January number of Hampton's Magazine, Walter Wellman gives a true chronicle, written from the log, of the thrilling seventy-two hour flight of the first motor driven balloon that ever sailed the high seas, in an article entitled, "The Thousand Mile Voyage of the Airship 'America.'"

Mr. Wellman says in part: "At eight o'clock Saturday morning, the 15th of October, the airship America set out from Atlantic City over the fog-shrouded ocean, headed for Europe. That she did not cross the Atlantic, but did make a memorable voyage of three days and nights, beating all records for airship navigation for distance and time, all the world now knows. When we fared forth that foggy morning, we of the crew had not the slightest idea what was to happen to us or where we were likely to stop. We knew we were going to try to reach Europe; we knew we had some sort of a chance—how good or poor we could not calculate—to do so.

"Glad of spirit but somewhat weary of body were we half dozen men when we took our last dim glimpse of the gray, mist-strewn Jersey shore. Glad, because we were at last on the way. Weary, because for days and weeks we had all been under nervous and physical strain in the prolonged and arduous work of preparation such as men must once endure to understand. After a brief, fitful sleep, we had been roused that morning long before the dawn.

"We had summoned our forces and had obtained from the Weather Bureau news that no change of the favorable conditions could be foreseen at that time. There was no wind, a dense fog, a good outlook. With the assistance of more than one hundred men, the America was taken from her hangar. One by one the members of the crew bade goodbye to their families and friends. No tears were shed by anyone, although we all realized the seriousness of the moment."

"So off we went to the eastward, the seven of us, including the cat. In a quarter of an hour the eight-cylinder motor was started; the propellers cut the air; the America vibrated, responded, moved over the water with her own power. She was a real cruiser of the air. Down below through the fog we could see the equilibrators swimming along, for all the world like a great sea serpent. There was a gentle breeze from the northwest. The ship was making fair headway. We felt the exaltation of this moment, and said little, but smiled at one another.

"All were happy save Kiddo, the cat, and he was still sullen with the strangeness of his garret. A strange garret, indeed, perched upon a frame of steel, suspended underneath a mass of silk and cotton and rubber, lifted by a ton of hydrogen, a whirling engine disturbing the silence and moving through gray space—pioneers in navigation of the atmospheric ocean which covers the world's high sea. But we who were conscious of the fact that no man before us had attempted what we were doing—conscious that no matter what and whom we had left behind, or what we were going to, we were the first of human-kind to sail these two oceans in one with a great engineered and cunning machine, designed to conquer them both—we should have been less than human if we had not felt a strange joy, an uncanny fascination.

"After we had been out two and a half hours, the motor was stopped to try the wireless. Jack Irwin was scrouched down in his corner by his instruments in the lifeboat, the wireless receivers at his ears, over them thick woolen pads to drown out the whirl of the motors and propellers. Now there is a broad bright grin underneath the pads. We all lean forward expectantly. He waves off

FRED DARLING'S TRAINED ANIMALS

WILL BE ANOTHER FEATURE AT CASS CITY FAIR.

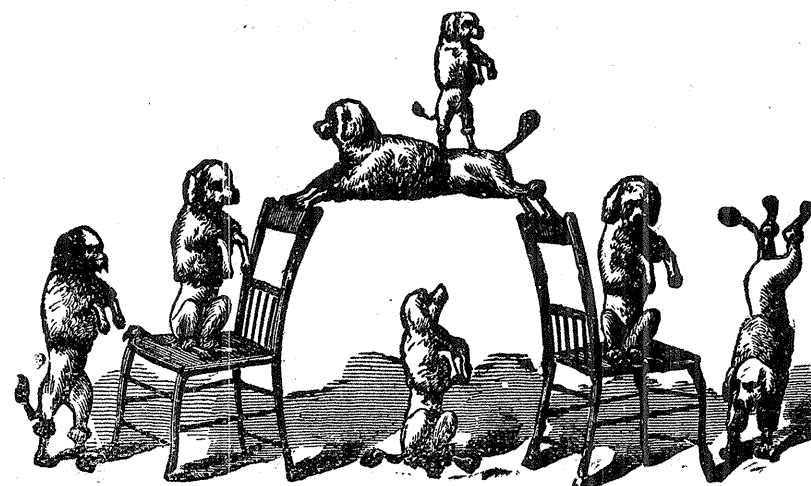

Officers Are Providing Heaps of Entertainment and Amusement For Visitors at Fair.

Education and entertainment seem to be the province of the modern fair, and these two things will be the main idea found throughout all the exhibits, displays and attractions of the coming Cass City Fair August 22 to 25.

The local fairs of years gone by have been good judging by the support given them, but the fair of 1911 will out-strip all its predecessors. This is made possible by the liberal expenditure of money, the broad-gauge plans and the careful preparations being made for the big show.

As to amusements, President Corkins and Secretary Frutchey have been unusually successful in their plans. The announcement of one of the free attractions—the airship in two flights each day—is made in another column. Another feature at the fair is Fred D. Darling's Animal Circus as a free open air exhibition. In a change of program each day, Mr. Darling offers seven acts to amuse fair patrons.

One of these is a performance of a pony on a revolving table, an act highly featured in Barnum & Bailey Circus. Other acts are military drill of eight horses, six musical horses, stunts by Maud, the mule, and pony and racibonia novelty. A chimpanzee in a steel automobile, making a descent from an elevated track and turning a complete somersault in mid-interruptions, then seizes paper and pencil and jots down this message from Atlantic City:

"Wellman, Airship America—We are getting your signals. What news?" I dictate to Irwin the reply: "Headed northeast. All well on board. Machinery working well. Good-by."

"And these were the first wireless messages exchanged between a station on shore and an airship navigating the sea. One world's record had been established.

"There was Vaniman, unemotional, unimaginative, a great mechanic, and seeming to live in his machines, a part of them and as matter of fact as they. Yet Vaniman confessed afterwards that when he realized we were well out to sea and were communicating to the shore back and forth with Marconi's wizard will-o'-the-wisp whisperings, through the misty miles, tears stood in his eyes. That was indeed a triumph of mind over matter.

"But frankly, at that moment we had no great degree of confidence in air before landing on another track, is one of the thrillers advanced by this wonderful aggregation of trained animals. This attraction creating heaps of amusement makes a big fun spot on any program and presents acts that are sure to please every visitor at the fair.

Darling's Animal Circus is now exhibiting at King Edward's Park at Montreal, one of the leading parks of Canada. It will come direct to Cass City from that point. The circus was one of the leading attractions during the winter months in one of the large parks in Havana, Cuba.

the successful outcome of our venture, only a hope large enough to cling to and work for. * * *

"By nightfall, nearly ten hours out, we were sighted and reported by the steamer Coamo, about 80 miles from Atlantic City, when we should have been nearly three times that distance." * * *

Manganese is one of the substances which had long been used in the arts before its existence as an independent metal was recognized. From prehistoric times it was employed as a coloring material, but it was not known to be a distinct metal until 1774. In India the primitive smiths used it as a flux and as an alloy for holding iron and bronze. Today its power as an oxidizer, rendering it a most important disinfectant, and its value as a chemical reagent, as well as its increasing use as an alloy, caused an active search to be made for its ores. It is widely distributed, forming about one-thousandth of the substance of the earth's crust.

THE END OF TUBERCULOSIS

Value of Suppressing It.

By DR. SIMON FLEXNER.

When it is recalled that tuberculosis causes about one-third of the deaths that occur between the ages of twenty and fifty years it becomes at once apparent what an enormous influence the suppression of this one disease must exercise upon the development and progress of society. The eradication of tuberculosis is among the chief ends to be accomplished by all the agencies which are striving to uplift human society and to make its individual units more efficient and self sustaining. Hence the conquest of tuberculosis becomes the proper field of endeavor for the statesman, legislator, physician and layman.

The First Comedy.

The first recorded comedy was played at Athens B. C. 578, when Susarion and Dolon, the earliest traveling actors, performed a comedy of Susarion's composition on a movable stage mounted upon four wheels. The new form of play was so successful that the actors were rewarded by the grateful populace with a cask of wine and a basket of figs. Susarion belonged to Megaris, a state of ancient Greece, whose inhabitants were celebrated for their coarse humor and who, in their villages during the evenings, were wont to hold what they called a comus, really a revel, in which impromptu acting, coupled with buffoonery, played a considerable part. From this word we have our comedy.

Violets on the Left Shoulder

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

In New England are two colleges in close proximity. In one young men are educated, in the other young girls.

One day Edwin Langdon, a senior in the man's college, was strolling on a road not far from the women's institution when he saw a black spot above him. He watched it sink gradually till it appeared as a paper balloon rocking in the air and fell not a hundred yards from him. Going to where it lay, he took it up and noticed that to the cross wires holding a sponge that had been saturated with alcohol hung a piece of pasteboard on which was written in a feminine hand:

I contain a secret.

"Yes," said Langdon to himself, "and judging by your handwriting the secret is not to be kept. Some undergraduate of the women's college has sent you off for the purpose of telling her secret."

The student carefully examined the balloon in every part, but the secret was not found. Thinking it might lie under the pasted seams, he took it to his room and moistened and opened them. He was not rewarded for his pains.

"I have it," he exclaimed suddenly. "Some girl has written the secret with a fluid that requires a chemical agent to bring it out. I'll take it to the laboratory and apply tests." He did so and succeeded. By soaking the paper successively in several different acids he at last found one that brought out letters containing a message.

You are warm, but you haven't got me yet. If you do a kiss—

The writing stopped abruptly.

"Oho!" said Langdon inwardly. "So I'm warm. Am I? That means that I'm on the right track. And a kiss is to be my reward if I get your secret. Only you didn't like to call kissing you a reward. Any man who wouldn't under such circumstances exercise all his wits to reach the goal is no man at all."

Ned Langdon tried all the chemical agents he could think of to bring out another message, but they failed. He puzzled over the matter for a week, then temporarily gave it up—that is, as to investigation. He continued to think about it pretty much all the time.

One evening he was holding the balloon close to a gas jet examining the paper with a magnifying glass, turning successively different parts to the jet, when on the paper, very near the flame, out came brown letters. They were too faint to be read, but Langdon knew he had got the secret—that is, if there was no more of the problem to be solved. Heat was the element required to bring out the writing. Holding the paper very close to the burning gas, a message in deep brown letters appeared:

Junior prom. Violets on left shoulder.

"Well, upon my word!" exclaimed Ned. "That's a round about way of making the acquaintance of a stranger. And to think that I didn't get on to the heat explanation. That message was probably written in common pen-ink on juice. But the 'junior prom' comes off next week. In four days more I would have been too late."

That ended Langdon's studies till the "junior prom." had taken place. He had no thought but for the girl who had sent the paper balloon. So she would be known at the function by violets on her left shoulder!

And what must have been the feelings of that girl as the evening in question approached? There were few chances of the balloon falling into the hands of one she would care to meet. And if it did, would he have the ingenuity to extract the secret?

"I'll bother that girl," mused Langdon, "by pretending not to recognize the token."

He entered the hall late purposely and stood in the background till he saw a girl pass with a bunch of violets on her shoulder. She was as pretty as a peach. He was enraptured.

Langdon showed himself in the company of different girls for half an hour, then secured an introduction to the girl of the secret, pretending not to notice her violets. He made himself agreeable, however—indeed, paid her marked attention. After having been with her for some time he gallantly asked for a souvenir, looking wistfully at the violets. The girl did not take the hint.

There was a gallery at one end of the hall, used during religious services for the choir. Langdon invited the girl to go up there with him. She accepted, and they sat back where they would not be seen. Beneath them was that mingling of voices common at social gatherings resembling the running of waters.

Suddenly every voice stopped at the sound of a muffled shriek. Fortunately sound has no direction for the ear.

"Some girl has been kissed," remarked numerous undergraduates. The professors looked shocked.

The hero and heroine of this story have long been married, and their sons and daughters are now fitting for college. The mother dreads to send her daughters where she cannot overlook them. When she talks this way her husband replies:

"Will you kindly tell me, my dear, what avaril it is to watch a girl? They say that 'love laughs at locksmiths,' but I once knew a girl who got a husband by sending up a paper balloon with a secret in it so concealed that"—

"Oh, heavens! Shall I never hear the last of that freak?"

MAKE

as much as you may, when you get old you have nothing unless you save. Did you ever notice how debts grow if you let them alone? Savings grow the same way. If you had put away five cents a day for the past 21 years how much do you suppose you would have now? Over $500, counting the interest added every January and July. Your money begins to the first of the next month after you deposit it. A bank account is as good as an insurance policy. Better than some.

YOUR

MONEY

FOR

you can't always get your money on a policy when you need it. If the shop shuts down, if the folks get sick, if you want to buy a home, if you want to take a vacation, there's nothing like a good bank account.

NOW IS THE TIME. HERE IS THE PLACE, AND

YOU

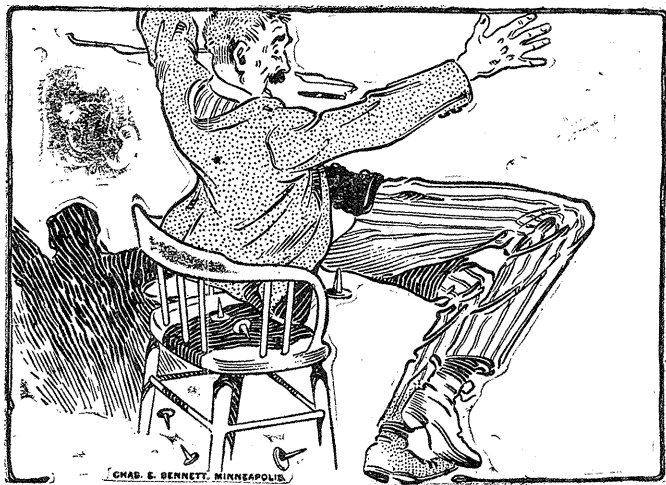

ARE THE PERSON.

GETTING ONTO THE FINE POINTS

When you get on to the "fine points" of the lumber business, then you'll begin to appreciate what it means to maintain a stock of lumber in such condition that one is justified in harping on

"QUALITY."

To the outsider who knows little or nothing about lumber grades and classification, "Lumber is Lumber," and that is all there is to it. But there's a difference in quality, and the quicker you learn this fact and demand the best, the sooner you'll begin to save money and acquire goodly chunks of satisfaction.

The surest way to avoid inferior quality is to make your purchase from our stock. It is the best.

Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Much sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale-people lack good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating for, after all, a man can be no stronger than his stomach. A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of diseases.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—the great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

The Larger Shave.

Shaving is a much more comprehensive business with the Japanese than with us. Jukichi Inouye in his "Home Life in Tokyo" says that "Japanese barbers shave not only the lips, cheeks and chin and the borders of the hair, but they also pass their razors over the whole face, not sparing the forehead, the eyelids between the eye-lashes and the eyebrows, the cheek bones, the nose and the ear lobes, and unless their victim objects they will insert a small narrow razor into his nostrils and ears and twirl it rapidly round with great dexterity."

The Parrot and the Nut.

Brutes are able to compare and distinguish. A parrot will take up a nut and throw it down again without attempting to crack it. He has found that it is light; this he could discover only by comparing the weight of the good nuts with that of the bad, and he has found that it has no kernel; this he could only discover by what philosophers would dignify with the grand title of a syllogism—namely, "all light nuts are hollow; this is a light nut, therefore the nut is hollow."—Max Muller.

SOME NEW LAWS IN EFFECT

ing or serving tables in cafes at the discretion of the state labor commissioner under the provisions of the "women's nine-hour law" passed by the last legislature.

To Curb Express Companies
A law prohibiting express companies from charging more than 25 cents for transporting any package of five pounds weight or less and a value of $10 or less between any two points in the state, went into effect Aug. 1.

Uniform Accounting
The "uniform accounting bill" also went into effect Aug. 1. Under its provisions every state office and institution must establish a uniform system of accounting and the state must provide accountants to install them. No county shall be subject to this law until the board of supervisors passes a resolution declaring that it wishes to.

Sane Fourth and Alarm Corks
A "sane Fourth" bill also became effective Aug. 1st. It is in most respects the same as the Detroit ordinance, forbidding the use, manufacture, or sale of dangerous explosives, and it applies to the entire state.

The much discussed "alarm-cork" bill for poison bottles, requiring corrugated corks on poison bottles, went into effect Aug. 1 as did the bill abolishing fraternities and sororities in high schools.

Andrew Hower, a resident of Au Gres, was drowned off Point Lookout 9 o'clock Monday evening while going over from Bay Port, in a fish boat with several other men. The fishing party was on its way to Au Gres, and when a short distance from the Point Hower in some manner fell over the side of the boat into the bay. Before his companions could come to his aid he sank. The boat remained on the scene during the night, cruising about in the hope of finding the body but without success. Tuesday morning a searching party was sent out from Au Gres and efforts were made during the day to locate the body, but up to evening the remains had not been recovered. Hower was about 40 years of age and was single.—Sebewaing Blade.

Last Monday night as the Masons were coming from their lodge meeting, they noticed a fire to the east. A number went in an automobile to investigate and found that the barn of Lemuel Tatton, living seven miles east and one north of Minden, was in ruins. The barn contained season's crop of hay. Near the barn were two stacks of wheat ready for threshing which were also burned up. Luckily the oats were yet in the field. The horses and machinery were saved but two calves and five pigs could not be gotten away in time and were consumed. Just how the fire originated Mr. Tatton has no idea. We understand there was no insurance covering the barn and its contents, so it makes Mr. Tatton's loss a calamitous one.—Minden Herald.

Over 53 years had elapsed since Ogden Atwell of Cass City and Wm. Hoover and his sister, Mrs. A. McKenney, of this place met on Wednesday. At the time of their first acquaintance they were situated about two miles south of where Imlay City now stands. Circumstances separated them in January, 1859, two years before the beginning of the war between the North and South. Mr. Atwell joined the army in the last year of the campaign and was one of the two hundred thousand strong under Gen. Sherman that cleared the way to the sea, which caused the final closing of one of the greatest wars in history. Mr. Atwell is very comfortable in his old age and tells us though the bullets often whistled near his head on the battle field he escaped without injury. Now in his 76th year, enjoying reasonable health, he is preparing to go to Norfolk, Virginia, to spend the winter with one of his daughters.

SPECIAL PERFORMANCE.

The members of Culhane's Comedian Stock Company, who will be seen at the opera house all next week, are fast gathering in this city. This company is one of the eight owned by the Will E. Culhane Theatrical Producing Co. and is said to be the strongest repertory organization ever playing this city.

There are ten people in the cast and the company carries its own special scenery, costumes and electrical effects. A different play will be given each night with vaudeville between the acts.

At the request of Mr. Hitchcock, manager of the opera house, the company will give a special performance Saturday night of this week, at which time they will present that funny comedy "When Reuben Comes to Town." The members of the company have played their parts in this play for several years and an exceptionally good performance is expected. The regular prices of 15, 25 and 35 will prevail Saturday night of this week. Monday night of next week the company will present "Reaping the Harvest," a beautiful play in four acts.

The company is headed by Miss Berenice Cooper, an exceedingly pretty young lady of exceptional talent. She will play the leading parts and will no doubt become very popular in Cass City.

All ladies will be admitted free Monday night if accompanied by one paid admission.
