PIONEER LADY ANSWERS SUMMONS

MRS. CHRISTIAN STRIFFLER DIED
TUESDAY, OCT. 31.

Came to Elkland Township in 1877
and Settled on Farm Four Miles from Cass City.

Another pioneer was called to rest when Mrs. Christian Striffler answered the final summons at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Helwig, three miles east of Cass City, at five o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Striffler has been in poor health for several months, and as her illness developed into a serious nature several weeks ago, the end was not unexpected.

Mary Rommel was born in Germany on Dec. 9, 1837. She came to the United States with her parents while she was yet young and they located at Lancaster, N. Y. Later she went to White Pigeon, Mich., and at that place she was united in marriage with Christian Striffler on July 3, 1856. Shortly after they returned to Lancaster and resided there about seven years when they came to Michigan, locating near Sturgis. In 1877 they came to Cass City where Mr. Striffler's brothers resided and soon after purchased the farm four miles northeast of town on which they lived until Mr. Striffler's death on Feb. 6, 1911.

Mrs. Striffler was a loyal and constant Christian lady and a member of the local Evangelical church. She was ever of a kind indulgent disposition and none ever entered her home without a warm welcome nor left without feeling the warmth of a genuine hospitality.

Her home was blessed by eight children, two of whom, Christian and Mrs. S. G. Benkelman, preceding the mother in death. The remaining children are: Samuel W., of Argyle; William D., Mrs. Chas. Patterson, Mrs. H. L. McDermott, Mrs. Edward Helwig and Solomon C., all of whom reside in this vicinity. She is also survived by two brothers, Andrew and George Rummel, of Sturgis, one sister, Mrs. Geo. Benkelman of St. Francis, Kansas, 18 grandchildren and 1 great grandchild.

The funeral services will be held at the residence of Edward Helwig at 12 o'clock today (Friday) and later in the afternoon at the Evangelical church.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS.

A. A. Hitchcock—"Business is going to be good this fall. Last Saturday was a busy one for us and the cash register showed it to be the best cash day we ever had."

D. Tyo—"I was in Wells township Monday assisting my father-in-law harvesting his crop of potatoes. Up to ten o'clock I had a fine time driving the team which drew a load to Caro. But when I had to carry 40 crates filled with the tubers down the cellar stairs, the fun was all over."

LOCALS TRIM CARO FOOT BALL PLAYERS

County Seat Boys Take Home Small
End of a 27 to 0
Score.

Accompanied by a strong contin-gent of rooters, the foot ball team of the Caro high school came to Cass City Wednesday afternoon and played a game with the local high school squad at the fair grounds. The visitors played a clean game throughout, but they were up against a hard proposition as the locals kept the ball in their possession the greater share of the time and persisted in making many long gains and scoring often. The contest ended with Cass City securing the big end of a 27 to 0 score. This is the second game won from Caro by the local team.

In the game played last Friday with the Marlette team, the locals had to be content with the tail end of a 10 to 0 score. The game was interesting and close, but the visitors played the game well and appeared to have a slight advantage over their opponents Friday.

200 ARE INVITED TO CONFERENCE

INVITATIONS SENT TO THUMB BUSINESS MEN.

Necessity of Additional Transportation Facilities Will Be Discussed at Port Huron.

Two hundred invitations have been sent out by the Young Men's Business Association of Port Huron to the business men of the Thumb asking them to be present at the luncheon and conference to be held in Port Huron next Tuesday, Nov. 7.

The conference which is scheduled to occur in the afternoon will deal with the necessity of having a new railroad line into the Thumb, to care for the immense freight and passenger traffic of this section. Besides Thumb business men and representatives of the Port Huron association, a delegation from the Detroit Board of Commerce is expected to attend. The committee in charge of the conference urges all interested in the progress and development of their portion of the Thumb to bring along their ideas and other data that may assist in the logical discussion of this project.

WILL ASK SPECIAL SESSION

Committee of 100 Men in Different Parts of State to Meet
Governor.

Gov. Osborn will be asked to call a special session of the legislature to submit amendments to the state constitution to the people providing for the initiative, referendum and recall.

For several months a movement to have these measures which were turned down at the last session of the legislature, again put up to the members. A committee composed of 100 men from various portions of the state has been selected to meet with the governor in Lansing, November 9, at which the arguments for a special session will be urged upon the chief executive. Several men will make addresses.

The committee will urge that the percentages in the proposed amendments be fixed, as in the original drafts of the bills that were before the legislature last January as follows: For the initiative on constitutional amendments, eight per cent; for the initiative and referendum on state laws, five per cent; for the recall, 20 per cent.

Other propositions that will be urged in support of a special session will be the necessity for rearranging the representative districts and the proposed amendments providing for the election of United States senators by popular vote.

COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Masons of Lapeer County Perfect Organization.

Nearly all of the Masonic lodges of Lapeer county were represented at a meeting held at Dryden recently when an organization was perfected, to be known as the Lapeer County Association of F. & A. M., the object of which is for the enhancement of fraternal interest and mutual benefit along various lines of Masonic endeavor. Any Mason of good standing may become a member and the annual dues were fixed at 25 cents.

Those present were very enthusiastic concerning the new organization, believing it will result in a better acquaintance among the fraternity in the county and in raising the standard of Masonic work and increasing its influence.

The annual meeting this winter will likely be held in Lapeer with a program of degree work.

NEW SCHOOL LAW.

Among the state laws of especial local interest which went into effect August 1, without much noise or commotion, was that giving to school districts the authority to pay weekly sums to the indigent parents of school children in order to keep them in school. The law provides that after due investigation by the truant officer, or the juvenile court, and upon recommendation, the board of education may pay $3.00 a week to a family to prevent a child leaving school and going to work. No more than $6.00 a week can be paid to any one family. There is no compulsory provision as to this payment, it being made discretionary with the board. The law provides that the money so spent must be taken from the regular maintenance fund of the school board.

MADE WITCH BISCUITS

Two young ladies of Novesta township burned midnight oil Tuesday evening experimenting in all sorts of witchcraft in an endeavor to ascertain what sort of a husband the future held in store for them. One of the ladies is a school teacher and the other is a dressmaker. As persons in these walks of life usually have many admirers and have their pick among men their friends fail to understand why they wasted the time making witch biscuits and trying other experiments.

humed for this purpose. Prosecuting gation in charge. Developments of interest by the people of Uby and other parts of Huron county.

HALLOWE'EN PARTIES IN TOWN AND COUNTRY

A masquerade party was held at Doerr's hall Monday evening. Dancing was enjoyed by the guests.

Eleven little girls, members of the Mission Band, were delightfully entertained Tuesday evening at the home of their instructor, Mrs. Frederick Klump. Various games were included in, jack o'lanterns taking a prominent part. While seated at the dining room table enjoying refreshments, a ghost appeared. Some of the little guests were startled by the strange apparition and hid under the table but soon recovered and enjoyed the joke immensely.

Hallowe'en was joyously celebrated at the home of Miss Irene Frut-chey Tuesday evening when that young lady entertained twelve of her girl friends. They were met by two ghostly personages, one of whom received the guests, while the other conducted them to the cloak room. A candy contest, a girls' name contest and a mind tester on state abbreviations provided pleasant hours of entertainment. The guests were also given a glimpse into the future by a visit to a gypsy fortune teller.

Another ghostly personage led the guests to the dining room where supper was served. Here they found dainty ghosts of tissue paper holding the place cards and a pumpkin fruit dish forming the center of pretty table decorations appropriate to the annual visit of goblins.

Members of the Y. P. A. were pleasantly entertained at a Hallowe'en party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin J. Striffler Tuesday evening. When the guests arrived they were welcomed by two ghostly figures, robed in white. A card containing directions to a gypsy camp in the form of poetry guided the young people to the dimly lighted abode of the fortune tellers. Here were revealed to the guests the blessings and misfortunes they would receive in the future time. Later the gypsies un-wound from a rolling pin a long stretch of tape on which were inscribed particular stunts for each person to accomplish. Without exception these were performed amid merriment. Blindfolded guests were then informed of their future in marimonial life by a test in dipping the forefinger in one of three dishes which indicated marriage to one young and wealthy, to a widow or widower, or single-blessedness. Married and single—all availed themselves of the opportunity. A delicious lunch of sandwiches, olives, fried cakes, pumpkin pie and sweet cider was served.

GEORGE WARNER FINDS MAN DEAD IN DITCH

Startling Discovery Made While Driving to Harbor Beach for Load of Fish.

About three o'clock last Wednesday morning, while George Warner of Cass City was enroute to Harbor Beach for a load of fish, he saw a team in the ditch about three miles from the shore town. Mr. Warner stopped and started to investigate and found John Artman of Sand Beach township with his legs covered with sacks of cement so heavy that he could not extricate himself.
In the center of the ditch was Edward Hill of Sherman township all covered with cement and parts of the wagon box and half of his body under water. Mr. Warner then ran to a nearby house for help. When he accompanied by the farmer whom he had summoned, came again to the scene of the accident, they found that Hill was dead. Artman was greatly exhausted, but beyond a severe exposure in water and mud in the ditch, he did not suffer any injury.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Cass City People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, and Bright's disease follow as the kidneys get worse. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with the reliable and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Cass City.

John Fisher, Grant and Pine Sts., Cass City, Mich., says: "I was caused much suffering by kidney trouble. I had pain and lameness across the small of my back and when I stooped or brought any strain on the muscles of my back, my suffering was intensified. I knew that my kidneys were disordered and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention I procured a box at Wood & Co.'s Drug Store. They soon improved my condition and before long I was in better health. I do not hesitate to recommend this splendid remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Father's Vengeance
Would have fallen on any one who attacked the son of Peter Bondy, of South Rockwood, Mich., but he was powerless before attacks of Kidney trouble. "Doctors could not help him," he wrote, "so at last we gave him Electric Bitters and he improved wonderfully from taking six bottles. It's the best Kidney medicine I ever saw." Backache, Tired feeling, Nervousness, Loss of Appetite, warn of Kidney trouble that may end in dropsy, diabetes or Bright's disease. Beware! Take Electric Bitters and be safe. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c at L. I. Wood & Co.'s.

A Potato Record—

Benjamin Hicks, one of the prosperous farmers of Novesta township, lays claim to one of the largest yields from one hill of potatoes so far this season. Four potatoes from one hill tipped the scales at 8 3/4 pounds.

A Real Hen Party—

A "hen" party was held Tuesday night at the residence of Mrs. Celia J. North of Vassar, in honor of Miss Effie Brainard, each person bringing a chicken. About 20 chickens were let loose in the barn and Miss Brainard succeeded in catching all of the flock which were given her. A fine supper was served.—Caro Courier.

Ton of Hay Brought $64—

Will Hoff of Watertown sold a ton of timothy hay that netted him $64. This may seem a pretty high figure, but nevertheless it is true. Before bringing the hay to market Mr. Hoff had it threshed and secured seven bushels of timothy seed which he sold for $7 per bushel. Afterwards he baled the hay and sold it for $15.

City Delivery at Bad Axe—

E. M. Cosgrove will go to Bad Axe today to conduct a United States civil service examination for clerk-carrier. The Bad Axe postoffice is planning to establish city delivery of mail about the first of the year and in starting it is expected two carriers will be employed. In order to select men for these positions the examination will be held today by Mr. Cosgrove who has charge of the local civil service examinations.—Saginaw Courier Herald.

Will Review Contest—

Representative Fred L. Woodworth of Huron county, who led the fight in the last legislature to secure submission of a proposed amendment to the constitution for the initiative and referendum, and succeeded in getting the propositions through the house by more than a two-thirds vote will seek election to the state senate next year to resume the contest. Mr. Woodworth anticipates that the state grange at its annual meeting in December, will open the next campaign for the initiative, referendum and recall.

Dry at Marlette—

Pretty dry at Marlette. Here is what they say about it: "It is so dry here that wagons are going around with their tongues out. Ice has to be soaked in water all night before it is wet enough to make lemonade. The catfish kick up such a dust in the bed of the river that the river has to be sprinkled before you can go fishing. A spark from an engine set fire to a pond and burned up a lot of bull frogs before the fire could be extinguished, and the ground is so dry and hard that crawfish holes in low places are being pulled up and used for gas pipes."

Not At All Sociable—

Sheriff Graham and John D. Allin are liable to lose many votes on the route they took on their return from Palms recently, when they next present their names to the common people. The sight of a whiskey jug on the rear end of the auto and the aromatic scent projected vigorously into the air by the bumps of the machine, could not fail to catch the eye or nose of many who had seen wetter days. "How dew you do, Archie! How dew doo, John!" came from all sides, but those gentlemen bowed politely and autoed on. The weary sons of toil rolled their dry tongues about their fevered mouths and dashed if they would vote for men who campaigned with a whiskey jug and never offered them a chance to wet their whistle.—Minden City Herald.

Backache, Headache, Nervousness

And rheumatism, both in men and women, mean kidney trouble. Do not allow it to progress beyond the reach of medicine but stop it promptly with Foley's Kidney Pills. They regulate the action of the urinary organs. Tonic in action, quick in results. L. I. Wood & Co.

Entirely Original.

"Do you consider Wobbleton's humor original, Binks?" asked Dubbleigh. "Sure it is," said Binks. "Absolutely. I don't believe there is any humor in existence that antedates Wobbleton's jokes."—Judge.

A Household Medicine

That stops coughs quickly and cures colds is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Mrs. Anna Pelzer, 2526 Jefferson St., So. Omaha, Neb., says: "I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound as a sure cure for coughs and colds. It cured my daughter of a bad cold and my neighbor, Mrs. Benson, cured herself and her whole family with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Everyone in our neighborhood speaks highly of it." L. I. Wood & Co.

Betel Nut Chewers.

Writing of the disgusting betel chewing habit, the United States consul at Siam says: "The green leaf of the betel pepper, smeared with red lime, tobacco, catechu and the areca nut make up the material used in betel chewing. This habit is quite universal among the Siamese, especially among the women. Siam does not produce enough betel nut for home consumption, but imports from India, Singapore and Java annually about 5,000,000 pounds."

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes, it's some satisfaction to know that many people can wear shoes a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease in to them. Just the thing for Patent Leather Shoes, and for breaking in New Shoes. Sold Everywhere, 25c. Sample free. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

Canaries to Detect Firedamp.

A cage containing a canary is indispensable on approaching a mine after an explosion. Canaries and small warm blooded animals, such as mice, are, probably because of their extremely delicate organisms, particularly sensitive to carbon monoxide. Thus a cage containing one or two canaries should always be taken with an advance exploration party. They are affected by minute quantities of this gas a short time before it will affect a human being.—Cassier's Magazine.

Starts Much Trouble.

If all people knew that neglect of constipation would result in severe indigestion, yellow jaundice or virulent liver trouble they would soon take Dr. King's New Life Pills, and end it. It's the only safe way. Best for biliousness, headache, dyspepsia, chills and debility. 25c at L. I. Wood & Co.'s.

CHAPTER VI.
THE BLOWING OF THE COYOTE.

IN the new excitement that pulsed with every fiber of his being Howland forgot his own danger, forgot his old caution and the fears that gave birth to it, forgot everything in these moments but Meleese and his own great happiness, for he was happy, happier than he had ever been in his life, happier than he had ever expected to be. He was conscious of no madness in this strange, new joy that swept through his being like a fire. He did not stop to weigh with himself the unreasoning impulses that filled him. He had held Meleese in his arms, he had told her of his love, and though she had accepted it with gentle unresponsiveness, he was thrilled by the memory of that last look in her eyes, which had spoken faith, confidence and perhaps even more. And his faith in her had become as limitless as the blue space above him. He had known her for but a few hours, and yet in that time it seemed to him that he had lived longer than in all of the years that had gone before. She had lied to him, had divulged only a part of her identity, and yet he knew that there were reasons for these things.

Tomorrow night he would see her again, and then—
What would she tell him? Whatever it was, it was to be a reward for his own love. He knew that by the half fearing tremble of her voice, the sobbing catch of her breath, the soft glow in her eyes. Impelled by that love, would she confide in him? And then—would he go back into the south?

He laughed softly, joyfully. Yes, he would go back into the south. He would go to the other end of the earth if she would go with him. What was the building of this railroad now to that other great thing that had come into his life? For the first time he saw duty in another light. There were others who could build the road. Success, fortune, ambition—in the old way he had seen them—were overshadowed now by this love of a girl.

He stopped and lighted his pipe. The fragrant odor of the tobacco, the flavor of the warm smoke in his mouth, helped to readjust him, to cool his heated brain. The old fighting instincts leaped into life again. Go into the south? He asked himself the question once more, and in the gloomy silence of the forest his low laugh fell again as he clenched his hands in anticipation of what was ahead of him. No, he would build the road! And in building it he would win this girl, if it was given for him to possess her.

His saner thoughts brought back his caution. He went more slowly toward the cabin, keeping in the deep shadows and stopping now and then to listen. At the edge of the clearing he paused for a long time. There was no sign of life about the cabin abandoned by Gregson and Thorne. It was probable that the two men who had passed along the path had returned to the camp by another trail, and still keeping as much within the shadows as possible he went to the door and entered.

With his feet propped in front of the big box stove sat Jackpine.
"Any one been here, Jackpine?"
"Thorne," he grunted, pointing to a paper on the table. Howland spread out the paper in the light of the lamp and read:

My Dear Howland—I forgot to tell you that our mail sledge starts for Le Pas tomorrow at noon, and as I'm planning on going down with it I want you to get over as early as you can in the morning. Can you get on to everything in the camp between 8 and 12.
THORNE.

A whistle of astonishment escaped Howland's lips.
Jackpine had half opened the door, and for a moment the engineer caught a glimpse of his dark, grinning face looking back over his shoulder. He hesitated, as if about to speak, and then with a mouthful of his inimitable chuckles, he went out.

After bolting the door Howland lighted a small table lamp, entered the sleeping room and prepared for bed.

"Got to have a little sleep no matter if things are going off like a Fourth of July celebration," he grumbled and rolled between the sheets.

In spite of his old habit of rising with the breaking of dawn it was Jackpine who awakened him a few hours later. The camp was hardly astir when he followed the Indian down among the log cabins to Thorne's quarters. The senior engineer was already dressed.

"Sorry to hustle you so, Howland," he greeted, "but I've got to go down with the mail. Just between you and me I don't believe the camp doctor is much on his job. I've got a deuced bad shoulder and a worse arm, and I'm going down to a good surgeon as fast as I can."

For an hour after breakfast the two men were busy with papers, maps and drawings relative to the camp work. Before that hour had passed he was certain of at least one other thing—that it was not incompetency that was taking the two senior engineers back to the home office. He had half expected to find the working end in the same disorganized condition as its chiefs. But if Gregson and Thorne had been laboring under a tremendous strain of some kind it was not reflected in the company's work, as shown in the office records which the latter had spread out before him.

"That's a big six months' work," said Thorne when they had finished. "Good Lord, man, when we first came up here a jack rabbit couldn't hop through this place where you're sitting, and now see what we've got—fifty cabins, four mess halls, two of the biggest warehouses north of Winnipeg, a post-office, a hospital, three blacksmith shops—and a shipyard!"

"A shipyard!" exclaimed Howland in genuine surprise.

"Sure, with a fifty ton ship half built and frozen stiff in the ice. You can finish her in the spring, and you'll find her mighty useful for bringing supplies from the head of the Westusko. We're using horses on the ice now. Had a deuced hard time in getting fifty of 'em up from Le Pas. And, besides all this, we've got six miles of roadbed built to the south and three to the north. We've got a sub-camp at each working end, but most of the men still prefer to come in at night." He dragged himself slowly and painfully to his feet as a knock sounded at the door. "That's MacDonald, our camp superintendent," he explained. "Told him to be here at 8. He's a corker for taking hold of things."

A little, wiry, red headed man hopped in as Thorne threw open the door. The moment his eyes fell on Howland he sprang forward with outstretched hand, smiling and bobbing his head.

"Howland, of course!" he cried. "Glad to see you! Five minutes late—awful sorry—but they're having the devil's own time over at a coyote we're going to blow this morning, and that's what kept me."

From Howland he whirled on the senior with the sudden movement of a cricket.

"How's the arm, Thorne? And if there's any mercy in your corpus tell me if Jackpine brought me the cigarettes from Le Pas. If he forgot them, as the mail did, I'll have his life as sure—"

"He brought them," said Thorne. "But how about this coyote, Mac? I thought it was ready to fire."

"So it is—now. The south ridge is scheduled to go up at 10 o'clock. We'll blow up the big north mountains some time tonight. It'll make a glorious fireworks—125 barrels of powder and four fifty-pound cases of dynamite—and if you can't walk that far, Thorne, we'll take you up on a sledge. Mustn't allow you to miss it!"

"Sorry, but I'll have to, Mac. I'm going south with the mail."

MacDonald seemed to be the life and law of the camp, and he wondered more and more at Thorne's demeanor. He began to note that there was a strange nervousness about Thorne when they were among the men, an uneasy alertness in his eyes, as though he were looking for some particular face among those they encountered.

"I want Howland to see this south coyote go up," said MacDonald. "Can you spare him? We'll be back before noon."

"Certainly," replied Thorne. "Come and take dinner with me at 12."

Howland fancied that there was a certain tone of relief in the senior's voice, but he made no mention of it to the superintendent as they walked swiftly to the scene of the "blowout." The coyote was ready for firing when they arrived. The coyote itself—a tunnel of fifty feet dug into the solid rock of the mountain and terminating in a chamber packed with explosives—was closed by masses of broken rock, rammed tight, and MacDonald showed his companion where the electric wire passed to the fuse within.

"It's a confounded mystery to me why Thorne doesn't care to see this ridge blown up!" he exclaimed after they had finished the inspection. "We've been at work for three months drilling this coyote and the bigger one to the north. There are 4,000 square yards of rock to come out of there and 6,000 out of the other. You don't see shots like those three times in a lifetime, and there'll not be another for us between here and the bay. What's the matter with Thorne?"

Without waiting for a reply MacDonald walked swiftly in the direction of a ridge to the right. Already guards had been thrown out on all sides of the mountain and their thrilling warnings of "Fire, fire, fire!" shouted through megaphones of birch bark, echoed with ominous meaning through the still wilderness, where for the time all work had ceased. On the top of the ridge half a hundred of the workmen had already assembled, and as Howland and the superintendent came among them they fell back from around a big, flat boulder on which was stationed the electric battery. MacDonald's face was flushed and his eyes snapped like dragon flies as he pointed to a tiny button.

"God, but I can't understand why Thorne doesn't care to see this!" he said again. "Think of it, man—7,500 pounds of powder and 200 of dynamite!"

AN EXPLOSION LIKE THAT OF A THOUSAND GREAT GUNS RENT THE AIR.

A touch of this button, a flash along the wire and the fuse is struck. Then four or five minutes and up goes a mountain that has stood here since the world began. Isn't it glorious?" He straightened himself and took off his hat. "Mr. Howland, will you press the button?"

With a strange thrill Howland bent over the battery, his eyes turned to the mass of rock looming sullen and black half a mile away, as if bidding defiance in the face of impending fate. Tremblingly his finger pressed on the little white knob, and a silence like that of death fell on those who watched. One minute—two—three—five passed, while in the bowels of the mountain the fuse was sizzling to its end. Then there came a puff, something like a cloud of dust rising skyward, but without sound, and before its upward belching had ceased a tongue of flame spurted out of its crest, and after that, perhaps two seconds later, came the explosion. There was a rumbling and a jarring, as if the earth were convulsed under foot. Volumes of dense black smoke shot upward, shutting the mountain in an impenetrable pall of gloom, and in an instant these rolling, twisting volumes of black smoke became lurid, and an explosion like that of a thousand great guns rent the air.

As fast as the eye could follow sheets of flame shot out of the sea of smoke, climbing higher and higher in lightning flashes until the lurid tongues licked the air a quarter of a mile above the startled wilderness. Explosion followed explosion, some of them coming in hollow, reverberating booms, others sounding as if in midair. The heavens were filled with hurrying rocks; solid masses of granite ten feet square were thrown a hundred feet away; rocks weighing a ton were hurled still farther, as if they were no more than stones flung by the hand of a giant; chunks that would have crashed from the roof to the basement of a skyscraper dropped a third and nearly a half a mile away. For three minutes the frightful convulsions continued. Then the lurid lights died out of the pall of smoke, and the pall itself began to settle. Howland felt a grip on his arm. Dumbly he turned and looked into the white, staring face of the superintendent. His ears tingled, every fiber in him seemed unstrung. MacDonald's voice came to him strange and weird.

"What do you think of that, Howland?"

The two men gripped hands, and when they looked again they saw dimly through dust and smoke only torn and shattered masses of rock where had been the giant ridge that barred the path of the new road to the bay.

Howland talked but little on their way back to camp. The scene that he had just witnessed affected him strangely. It stirred once more within him all of his old ambition, all of his old enthusiasm, and yet neither found voice in words. He was glad when the dinner was over at Thorne's, and, with the going of the mail sledge and the senior engineer, there came over him a still deeper sense of joy. Now he was in charge. It was his road from that hour on. He was in charge—in charge of the greatest railroad building job on earth—he, Jack Howland, who less than twenty years ago was a barefooted, half starved urchin peddling papers in the streets where he was now famous! And now what was this black thing that had come up to threaten his chances just as he had about won his great fight? He clinched his hands as he thought again of what had already happened—the cowardly attempt on his life, the warnings, and his blood boiled to fever heat. That night, after he had seen Meleese, he would know what to do. But he would not be driven away by Gregson and Thorne had been driven. He was determined on that.

The gloom of night falls early in the great northern midwinter, and it was already growing dusk when there came the sound of a voice outside Howland's cabin, followed a moment later by a loud knock at the door. At Howland's invitation the door opened, and the head and shoulders of a man appeared.

The Danger Trail.

"Something has gone wrong out at the north coyote, sir, and Mr. MacDonald wants you just as fast as you can get out there," he said. "He sent me down for you with a sledge."
"MacDonald told me the thing was ready for firing," said Howland, putting on his hat and coat. "What's the matter?"
"Bad packing, I guess. Heard him swearing about it. He's in a terrible sweat to see you."
Half an hour later the sledge drew up close to the place where Howland had seen a score of men packing bags of powder and dynamite earlier in the day. Half a dozen lanterns were burning among the rocks, but there was no sign of movement or life. The engineer's companion gave a sudden sharp crack of his long whip, and in response to it there came a muffled "Hello!" from out of the gloom.
"That's MacDonald, sir. You'll find him right up there near that second light, where the coyote opens up. He's grilling the life out of half a dozen men in the chamber, where he found the dynamite on top of the powder instead of under it."
"All right!" called back Howland, starting up among the rocks. Hardly had he taken a dozen steps when a dark object shot out behind him and fell with crushing force on his head. With a groaning cry he fell forward on his face. For a few moments he was conscious of voices about him. He knew that he was being lifted in the arms of men and that after a time they were carrying him so that his feet dragged on the ground. After that he seemed to be sinking down—down—down—until he lost all sense of existence in a chaos of inky blackness.

The Sting Ray.

Of the many dangers which beset navigators of the tropical rivers of South America perhaps the natives fear the sting ray most. It is poisonous and is to be found in very large numbers when the river is low. That is the time when boatmen have to get in the water to push their canoes over the shallows. They are often stung by the tail of the ray and usually die unless medical assistance is promptly given. The ray cannot be seen, as it is of the same color as the sand on which it coils itself. The stab of its sharp knife-like tail is the unwary navigator's first intimation of its presence.—Pearson's Weekly.

Balked at Cold Steel.

"I wouldn't let a doctor cut my foot off," said H. D. Ely, Bantam, Ohio, "although a horrible ulcer had been the plague of my life for four years. Instead I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my foot was soon completely cured." Heals Burns, Bolls, Sores, Bruises, Eczema, Pimples, Corns. Surest Pile cure 25c at L. I. Wood & Co.'s.

Yeggmen's Soup.

Careful yeggmen carry their "soup" (nitroglycerin) in a rubber bottle, but many, in spite of their knowledge of the danger, use only a glass bottle, in which it is likely to be exploded by a sudden jar. Baltimore Blue, a noted yeggman, in alighting from a freight train was blown to pieces by his "soup."

Saved Many From Death.

W. L. Mock, of Mock, Ark., believes he has saved many lives in his 25 years of experience in the drug business. "What I always like to do," he writes, "is to recommend Dr. King's New Discovery for weak, sore lungs, hard colds, hoarseness, obstinate coughs, lagrippe, croup, asthma or other bronchial affection for I feel sure that a number of my neighbors are alive and well today because they took my advice to use it. I honestly believe it's the best throat and lung medicine that's made." Easy to prove he's right. Get a trial bottle free or regular 50c and $1.00 bottle. Guaranteed by L. I. Wood & Co.

Father Time Is The Thief.

Every time you put off buying the lumber for that new machine shed, Father Time steals a few more dollars from the value of those machines standing around in barnyard and field. Carelessness is the curse of farmers in this country. Wind and weather do more damage to machinery standing idle than is caused by the wear and tear of actual use. Are you one of the careless ones? Can you really afford to let your expensive machinery rust or rot out there in the sun and rain? If you haven't money to burn, get busy and house that idle machinery.

A Hair's Breadth.
A "hair's breadth" is seventeen thousandths of an inch. For the purpose of such fine and delicate measurement toolmakers use what is called a micrometer calliper. The hair's breadth is something that has to be taken into consideration in the manufacture of a thousand and one things in the machine maker's art. Close calculation of this sort must be done on the doors of bank vaults, for example, where every part must fit to the nicest degree.—Harper's Weekly.

To Escape Appendicitis.
A simple way to prevent appendicitis was recently described by a well known physician. Every night and morning, he advised, go on your knees, bend backward until you sit on your heels, and at the same time bend the upper part of your body forward as far as possible. Do this six to ten times. You may vary the exercise by standing with heels together and toes pointing straight forward and then stooping into a sitting posture until the knees touch the chest. Do this also six or eight times slowly. The effect is to stir up the intestines in the neighborhood of the vermiform appendix and to keep it free from the obstruction which is the primary cause of appendicitis.—London Answers.

Hard work.
"You lazy, good for nothing thing!" said the citizen to the tramp. "Why don't you go to work?"
"Work?" said the tramp. "Do you imagine that walking from New Orleans to New York twice a year is pleasure?"—Detroit Free Press.

Monster Lobsters.
Lobsters six feet long were frequently taken from New York bay by the first settlers.
