TWENTY-ONE WERE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

LARGE AUDIENCE ATTENDED
COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

Program Rendered Was Short and Interesting and Students Pleased
Their Friends.

Commencement week of 1912 will always be remembered as one of the happiest events that have come to our high school during recent years. The weather was ideal and a large number attended the various exercises.

Baccalaureate Address.
Last Sunday evening the baccalaureate address to the Class of 1912 was given at the Presbyterian church. The music was furnished by the church choir and was highly appreciated by the large audience that filled the building. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. H. C. Hayward and prayer was offered by Rev. J. A. Schweitzer. Rev. S. H. Edgumbe delivered the address. The text was "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," and the thoughts presented were forceful and practical and pointed to the higher principles in life's work.

Commencement Exercises.

Standing room was at a premium and many were turned away from the opera house Wednesday evening where the commencement exercises were held. Shortly before nine o'clock the largest graduating class in the history of the high school made their appearance and took their places on the stage while the orchestra played the two-step, "The Brazen Coin." The 21 members of the class are: Ray N. Wickware, president; Carrie Hurley, vice president; Mildred W. Weaver, secretary and treasurer; Joyce Fonda Retherford, Cora K. Seeger, Marion McLellan, Ethelyn M. Striffler, Margaret M. Striffler, Marian J. Gilbert, Susan E. Vogel, R. D. Keating, Margaret A. Clark, Clifford J. Ball, Stanley A. Striffler, Gertrude McWebb, Clara B. Foster, Margaret A. Duncanson, Dorus Benkelman, Irene G. Retherford, E. Alex Miller, Grace E. Ball.

The stage was prettily arranged and the graduates in their dainty costumes made a pleasing picture. Cut flowers, potted plants and school banners were used in the decorations and the walls and pillars of the house were embellished with streamers of white and purple.

Following the entrance of the class, Rev. H. C. Hayward invoked divine blessing. Miss Joyce Retherford welcomed the audience in behalf of the class in a well delivered salutatory.

Miss Ethelyn M. Striffler told the history of the Class of 1912 in an entertaining manner, and Miss Gertrude McWebb displayed her ability as class poet in a good selection. Three declamations were given during the exercises by the Misses Marian Gilbert, Cora Seeger and Margaret Duncanson and all were well received.

The class prophecy by Grace Ball and Irene Retherford, the giftatory by Margaret Clark and the class will by Marion McLellan portrayed the whims and peculiarities of the members of the class in amusing ways. The valedictory containing beautiful thoughts was pleasingly delivered by Miss Margaret Striffler. Dr. J. H. Hays, president of the board of education presented the diplomas to the class.

Musical numbers on the program were a piano duet by the Misses Clara Foster and Mildred Weaver and four selections by Benkelman's orchestra, all of which were well received by the large audience present.

Teacher of sciences and manager of athletics during the past year in Cass City high school, to whom great credit is due for the high standings of the high school base ball team in the season just closed and of the track team in recent tri-county field meet. Mr. Harnish left yesterday to spend the summer vacation at his parental home at Mechanicsburg, Pa.

LOCAL TEAM CLOSES SEASON WITH STANDING OF .777

High School Base Ball Team Wins
Seven Out of Nine Games Played.

Cass City High School team completed the base ball season with a per cent standing of .777, having won 7 out of 9 games played. The boys have reasons to feel gratified and W. E. Harnish, the coach, to feel proud of the work the team has done this season.

The final game before school closed was played last Friday afternoon with the Marlette team. The visitors trimmed the local bunch when Cass City played on the Marlette grounds early in the season and Marlette appeared quite confident of repeating the dose when they arrived here Friday. The first four innings were closely contested, but after that period the locals hadn't much to worry over. The score was 14-9 in Cass City's favor.

The following are the games won by the local team this season: North Branch 6-3; Elkton 11-3; Caro 9-0; Bad Axe 11-4; Elkton 11-4; North Branch 26-7; Marlette 14-9. Cass City lost to Marlette 14-4, and to Pigeon 15-9.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF MARRIAGE CELEBRATED

Mr and Mrs. Henry Ball, sr., Settled in Elkland Township Before
Fire of '71.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ball, sr., arranged for a gathering at their home in Third Street Friday, when the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Ball was fittingly celebrated. The couple were presented with several nice gifts and the day was enjoyed by all present and especially by those in whose honor it was held.

Among those present were Henry, William and John Ball of this city and Mrs. Wm. Starr of Argyle, the four children of the aged couple, and their families, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wickware, Mrs. M. J. McGilvray, Miss Rose, and Rev. H. C. Hayward.

Mr. and Mrs. Ball were married in Branch county, Michigan, on June 14, 1862. In April, 1871, they came to Elkland township, settling on a farm. They passed through the hardships following the fires of '71 and '81. In the latter they were very unfortunate, having lost both their house and a new threshing machine. This put Mr. Ball "out of business" as he expresses it, and he had to begin life's struggles anew. The family moved to Cass City in the fall of 1888 and Mr. and Mrs. Ball have resided here since.

Mr. Ball has taken an active interest in politics for many years and has served several terms as constable of Elkland township. He has been an ardent republican for years.

Mrs. Harriett Deneen passed away Saturday night at her home, 502 north Perry St., Pontiac, as the result of old age, her death having occurred quite suddenly. She was 69 years of age, and was born in Imlay City, where she lived for a few years and then moved to Novesta, where the most of her lifetime was spent. Last fall she removed to Pontiac with her husband. She is survived by three children, William and Louis Deneen and Mrs. Neal Alward, all of Pontiac. A niece, Mrs. A. C. ONLY WOMAN POST-GRADUATE IN ST. LOUIS LAW SCHOOL

Mrs. Amabel Anderson Arnold Was
Also Member of Class of 1905 of Cass City High School.

Mrs. Amabel Anderson Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson of this city and a member of the Class of 1905 of the Cass City High school, recently graduated from the Benton College of Law at St. Louis, Mo., and was the only woman to receive honors this year from that school.

The St. Louis Times says: "Mrs. Amabel Anderson Arnold, who received her master's degree from the Benton Law School Thursday night, was the only woman in the class of 43 that was graduated, and the only woman in St. Louis this year to be graduated with a post-graduate law class. Huge bunches of American beauties greeted her when she went forward to accept her diploma from Judge George H. Shields at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Thursday night. The long standing rule of 'no flowers for graduates' having been waived in honor of the woman member of the class alone.

"Mrs. Arnold has for the past five years conducted a private school in the Benoit Building, which prepares for college, and meantime has been carrying on her own studies. In addition, she lectured for two years in the American Medical College on medical botany, and taught Latin in the dental department of the St. Louis University, in both cases being the only woman member of the faculty.

"Mrs. Arnold is chairman of the Literature Committee of the Business Women's Equal Suffrage League and president of the National Women's College Club. She expects to begin the practice of law next winter."

CLASS '12 BANQUETED BY CLASS '13 TUESDAY EVENING

Four-course Dinner Served and Faculty and Students Respond to Toasts.

Tuesday evening marked an epoch in school history which will probably never be forgotten by the classes of '12 and '13 of Cass City high school. A time honored custom of the seniors being entertained by the juniors was again fulfilled when these classes assembled at the Bender Hotel as guests of the juniors. About 8:30, a grand march formed, marching from parlors to the dining room, led by Prof. and Mrs. Kennedy.

The tables and room were prettily decorated in purple and white, the senior colors and the place cards were written in purple. A four course dinner was served.

Menu
Creamed Tomato Soup
Salted Wafers
New Potatoes (a creme)
Fried Chicken
Green Peas
Purple and White Pineapple Tripose with Whipped Cream.
Ice Cream
Assorted Cakes
Coffee

After dinner, Mr. Kennedy who proved to be an excellent toastmaster, called on several people for toasts. Mr. Harnish gave some fine ideas concerning "Athletics." Miss Whitney advised the graduating class about their "Future." Mr. Wickware, senior president, roared and toasted the juniors and Mr. Schwaderer, junior president, responded in like manner to the seniors. Miss Gertrude McWebb recalled "High School Memories" in verses form and Miss Joyce Retherford gave her ideas on equal suffrage through "When Women Vote." Miss Ethelyn Striffler gave her answer to a question which all young people must decide, "Is a Course in High School Worth While?" Wm. Deming gave some splendid ideas on "Not Drift but Row." The final number was an original poem by Miss Marie Brooker entitled, "The Village Students" which everyone enjoyed.

After a few moments of conversation, the guests departed declaring the banquet an honor never to be forgotten and hoping that the class of '13 may be entertained in a manner equally pleasing.

INSTALLS BIG SAFE.

A. H. Higgins has added a large Carey safe to the equipment of his jewelry store. It is burglar and fire proof and a large cement foundation was built to carry the heavy article. The safe has two doors each fitted with combination locks. The inside door has 12 bolts to hold it in place and the outer door 11 bolts. The safe is much larger than the one it replaced. Two drawers for storing customers watches have a capacity of 250 and the section for holding jewelry trays is commodious enough to accommodate 32 trays. Besides these arrangements, there are several pigeon holes to store valuable papers, etc.

The safe not only provides a much safer receptacle for the store's valuables, but it lessens the proprietor's worries regarding them and also decreases the burglar insurance rate.

Crosswell Masons Have Hopes of Realizing Organization of Lodge at That Point.

For more than a year some of the most prominent men of Crosswell have been striving for the organization of a lodge of F. & A. M. at that point, but have been prevented by having such by the organizations at Peck, Lexington and Sandusky. Great is the rejoicing of the Masons in the city and surrounding vicinity over the fact that at last their hopes are to be realized, through a special dispensation of the grand lodge of the state of Michigan, at Detroit this week. This action has been made possible through a new rule adopted by the grand lodge last year.

A great deal of talk has been heard about the expense of the big MacGregor trial. Most of the figures talked about, however, have been mere guess work. As a matter of fact the total cost has not been more than half what popular rumor has placed it at. From a talk with the county treasurer and prosecuting attorney, the Tribune is able to state that the entire expenses of the MacGregor case, from last August to the present, are not likely to exceed $10,000. Of this sum about $3,500 is for the jury's expenses. Assistant Prosecutor Snow will put in his bill to the board of supervisors and the

JOHN McLEAN

For 33 Years a Resident of Novesta
Died June 17.

John McLean, for 33 years a resident of Novesta, died at his home in that township on Monday, June 17. Mr. McLean has been in poor health for some time, but was able to come to Cass City Friday and work on his farm on the Saturday preceding his demise.

He was born in Clark township, Durham county, Ontario, 64 years ago. At the age of four years, he moved with his parents to Albrough, Ont., and there in 1871 he was united in marriage with Miss Eliza Patterson.

Thirty-three years ago they moved to Novesta township and took up a homestead where they have since lived. For the first three years in Novesta, the family did not have the advantage of public highway past their place and in the fire of 1881 they lost all their buildings except the house.

The funeral was held at the Church of Christ, of which Mr. McLean held the office of deacon, on Wednesday afternoon and interment in Novesta cemetery.

Besides the wife, he leaves four children, Mrs. John Paul, Mrs. Reuben Delong, John W. McLean and Mrs. Arthur Anthes, all of Novesta, and four sisters and two brothers.

Relatives from out of town who attended the funeral were: Donald McLean and Mrs. Henry Newcomb of Rodney, Ont., Miss Agnes McLean of Dutton, Ont., Alex McLean of Alpena, Miss Kate McLean of Wintaka, Ill., and Miss Lizzie McLean of Birmingham, Mich., all brothers and sisters of the deceased, and Stewart Patterson of Rodney, Ont., a brother-in-law.

the rear shovels work practically behind the wheels—leaving no such tracks, one of the many advantages this cultivator has.

It takes a smaller amount of labor to both guide and raise the machine.

The seat bar guide and horse lift make it decidedly easier to handle.

Cultivate your crops in the right way—the Oliver way—and increase the amount of your crops.

For The Nervous Woman,

Or the woman who experiences hot flashes nothing is so good to soothe, quiet and calm the nervous system as a pure glyceric extract of native medical plants, and made without alcohol, which has been sold by druggists for the past forty years, and most favorably known as Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In younger years some women suffer from dizziness, or fainting spells, hysteria, headache, bearing-down feelings and pain. All these symptoms of irregularity and female disturbance are relieved by the use of this famous "Prescription" of Doctor Pierce.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system, and in particular to the organs distinctly feminine.

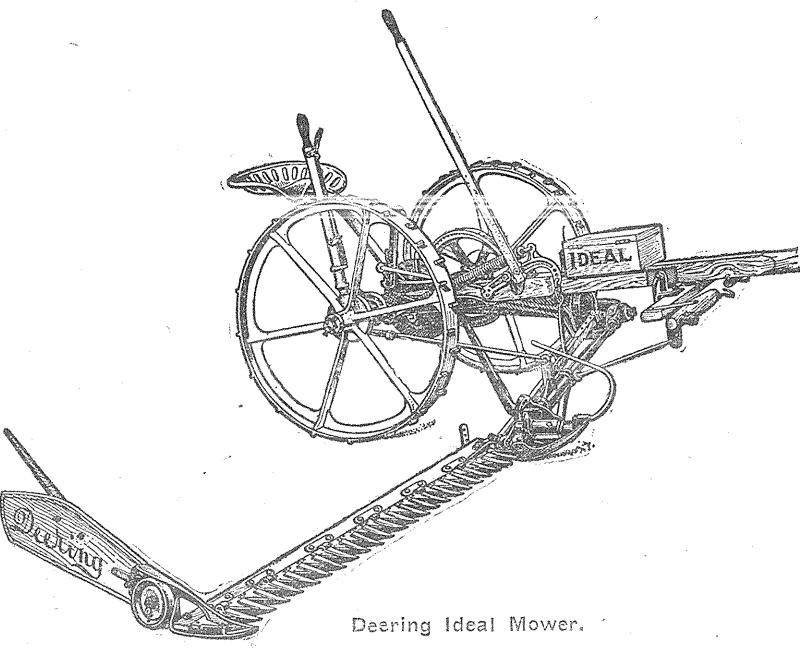

For over-worked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, it is an excellent appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

"My disease was called retroversion," writes Mrs. Lydia McDonald, of Mecosta, Mich., Route 1. "I had nervous chills and numb spells and they would leave me very weak. Then I had inflammation and the doctor said I had a floating kidney. I doctored seven months with our family physician. He said I would have to have an operation. Then I stopped taking his medicine. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicine I have not had any nervous chills or weak spells. I am better than for years."

"My daughter is now taking the 'Prescription' and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, also the 'Pellets' for nervousness and weak, tired feeling. These remedies have helped her ever so much in a short time. We have great faith in your medicines for female troubles."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets induce mild natural bowel movement.

Please Kill That Fly! HOUSEHOLDERS PLEASE READ BECAUSE

1. The fly is the most dangerous wild animal in America.
2. Flies breed in manure and other filth. Filth is the flies' food. Flies carry filth to our food.
3. Flies walk and feed on excreta and sputa from people ill with typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diarrhoeal affections and many other diseases.
4. One fly can carry and may deposit on our food 6,000,000 germs.
5. One fly in one summer may produce normally 135,812,500,000,000,000 descendants. Therefore kill the flies before they begin to breed.
6. A fly is an enemy to health, the health of our children, the health of our community!

A fly cannot develop from the egg in less than eight days. Therefore if we clean up everything thoroughly every week and keep all manure screened there need be no flies. Will you help in the campaign against this pest?

RULES FOR DEALING WITH THE FLY NUISANCE

- Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious diseases. Kill every fly that strays into the sickroom. His body is covered with disease germs.
- Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate on or near your premises.
- Screen all food and insist that your grocer, butcher, baker and every one from whom you buy foodstuffs does the same.
- Don't buy foodstuffs where flies are tolerated.
- Don't eat where flies have access to food.
- Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the cans cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime.
- Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened or sprinkled with lime, oil or other cheap preparations, as 98 per cent of the flies come from stable manure and 2 per cent from garbage and other filth.
- Keep the streets and alleys clean.
- See that your sewage system is in good order; that it does not leak, is up to date and not exposed to flies.
- Four kerosene into the drains.
- Burn pyrethrum powder in the house to kill the flies or use a mixture of formaldehyde and water, one spoonful to a quart of water. This exposed in the room will kill all the flies.
- Burn or bury all table refuse.
- Screen all windows and doors, especially in the kitchen and dining room.
- If you see flies you may be sure that their breeding place is in nearby filth. It may be behind the door, under the table or in the cuspidore.
- Remove all refuse and filth from house, yard and outhouses and thus prevent flies from breeding on your premises.
- If there is no dirt and filth there will be no flies.

IF THERE IS A NUISANCE IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD WRITE AT ONCE TO THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

"Health is wealth," and "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."
There is more health in a house well screened than in many a doctor's visit.
The only safe way is to keep out the flies.

THE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

On one's wedding anniversary is a good occasion to entertain the choice friends, a time to return the hospitality of friends.

The first year is the paper anniversary and nothing daintier or more appropriate can be imagined than the paper novelties which may so easily be made at home.

The table may be bare, with the dainty little paper lace doilies for each place, a centerpiece of paper flowers and candle shades of paper. Boxes or roses of paper to hold nuts or bon bons.

The rooms may be decorated with paper garlands, paper ribbons, lanterns and Chinese screens.

A box of home-made candy in a pretty box covered with wall paper in neat design would make pretty favors for each guest.

Becoming paper caps might be worn by the ladies and paper contests or guessing games a feature of the entertainment.

If the company is a large one, the refreshments might be served in boxes holding enough for two. Paper napkins and ice cream served in paper boxes on plates covered with lace paper doilies.

Theresa Punch.—Take half a teaspoonful of powdered gelatine, half a cup of freshly infused tea, two cupfuls of sugar, the juice of five oranges, one thinly sliced orange, one can of shredded pineapple, a few bananas, cherries, grapes and a pint bottle of sparkling water added several times during the serving.

Boil the sugar and water together for ten minutes, cool, add the gelatine and other ingredients. Serve with ice in the punch bowl.

Princess Cakes.—Cream four tablespoonfuls of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of sugar and two eggs well beaten, three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, a half teaspoonful of baking powder and a half teaspoonful of lemon extract. Mix well and bake in gem pans about fifteen minutes.

G. W. Goff, Cass City.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 178 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

A nearly square house design 24 feet wide by 30 feet long, with a cottage roof pitched rather low, is shown in the accompanying perspective and floor plans. This style of house is growing in popularity. In walking along the newer streets of Chicago, as well as in other cities, I notice a great many similar houses. It is a plan that offers a large amount of room in proportion to the material used in building. The nearer square you get a house, the more space you can enclose within the four walls. Every foot of wall costs money, especially during these times when the prices of almost all building materials must be picked from the top shelf.

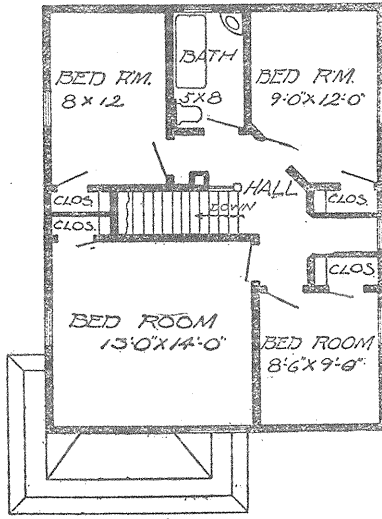

The general design of this house is simple and quite plain, yet its severity is relieved by ornamental effects secured through the wide, projecting eaves, the belt-course at the second-floor line, the location of openings, and the general sense of proper proportions and neatness. As a popular house, it is designed for economy in building; but, at the same time, comfort has not been sacrificed to save a few dollars.

There is great economy, for instance, in making one chimney do for the kitchen range and heating apparatus. There is still further economy in putting the chimney in the middle of the house, and running it out through the roof at the highest point.

stead, a good appearance is secured by studying out good elevations and proportions that go well together.

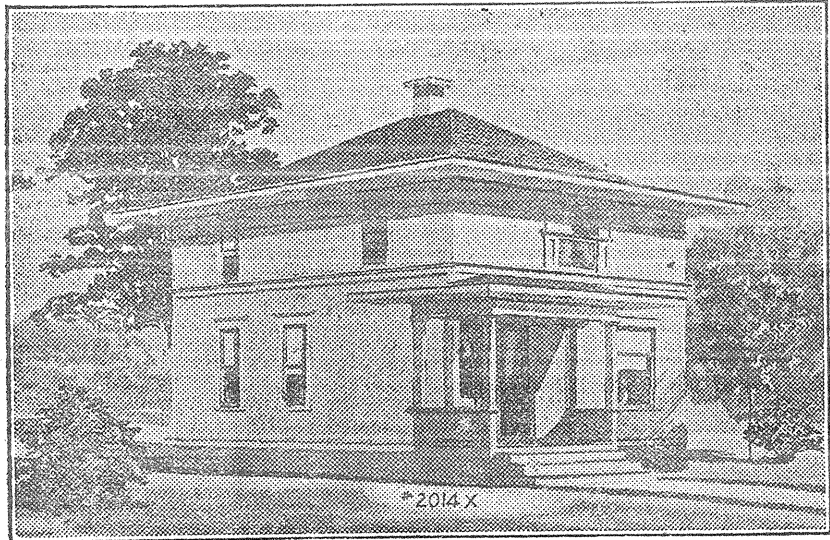

Cottage roofs like this were popular in Colonial days. They are easily made, and look especially well on a house as nearly square as this. Cheap help may be employed on such a roof, because it is all straight work. Anyone can cut the roof-boards and put on the shingles, after the boss carpenter lays out the rafters and puts them in place.

This little house contains every convenience necessary for comfort.

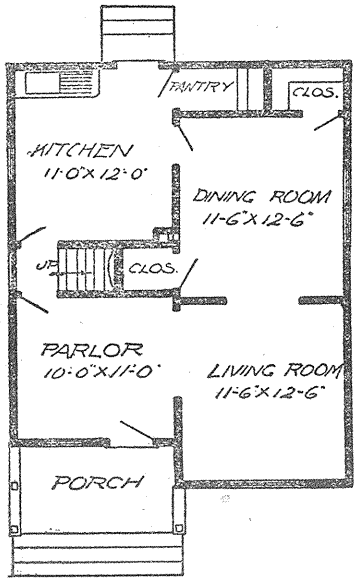

Second Floor Plan.

It is just the kind of house that is needed by the great majority living in towns and cities—the great majority whom we might call the "common people"—people who want comfort, who want to live right and enjoy life as they go along. Lincoln once said,

It costs less to shingle around a chimney at the ridge than any other place; the chimney is better supported; and it costs less to prevent water from rains or melting snow coming in around the chimney, when the latter goes through the roof at the peak, because there is no accumulation of water there such as you have to contend with down near the eaves.

You seldom see eight rooms laid out conveniently in a house that is only 24 by 30 feet. You must utilize every foot of space to the best advantage to secure so many rooms and still have them convenient. This is accomplished

ed by enclosing the stairway in the center of the house, where it takes up very little room downstairs; while the upper landing is within easy reach of the doors of all four bedrooms and the bathroom. You cannot take up a great deal of space for halls in a small house, and still leave room for the requisites. A hallway is not absolutely necessary; and we dispense with it entirely in this plan downstairs, and reduce the dimensions of the upper hall to the smallest possible space. Still, when you study this plan, you cannot find any fault with it. It is not an expensive house, as it can be built for about $2,000; but when it is finished and nicely painted, it is by no means cheap looking. The old-fashioned idea of putting considerable expense on a house to make it look well, is no longer necessary; in-

"The Lord must love the common people, because he makes so many of them." Probably Lincoln considered that 90 per cent. of the population would naturally come under the definition "common people." In my opinion the proportion is not very much different today. The common people are the kind to build up a community—the backbone and strength of the nation. We may require an uncommon genius occasionally as a leader; but for every-day dependence, the common people are just as important now as they were in Washington's or Lincoln's time. That is why I am so anxious to see more of these low-cost houses.

When I see a man start in to build a low-cost house for himself, I know right off that that man intends to build a home and have it paid for in a short time, and that he will succeed. More of such houses means more comfort and more contented citizens.

But while it is right and proper to be contented with the house you have, that does not mean that a person should not progress. A person may go from one step to another in house building, the same as in business; but it is difficult to feel happy and contented in a habitation which does not provide conveniences for doing one's work, and which is not comfortable in cold as well as in warm weather.

It is quite an undertaking to build a house. It means, for most persons, years of hard work; but they are the happiest years to look back over. Success depends upon the start made. If a person uses the right kind of plan—one the most of which will be well within his means, and one that will be reasonably satisfactory when the house is finished—the chances of paying for the property and of soon having a home free of encumbrance, are very much better than when a more elaborate design is selected.

The little details that go to make up a satisfactory house must not be overlooked. A house without a bathroom is a back number. No one wants a bedroom without a clothes closet, and it does not pay to try to do without hot and cold water both upstairs and down. When the plumber is at work it costs but a trifle more to have a pipe for hot water laid at the same time the cold water pipe is put in. There are other incidentals, but these are the most important.

Mrs. Hanson's Presentment

By Emma Sanderson

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"What makes you bake so much at once?" asked James Hanson of his wife as she stood looking meditatively at the array of pies, cookies and crullers which gave testimony of her morning's work.

It was some little time before Mrs. Hanson answered; she seemed to be considering whether she would say what was in her mind.

"You will need them all during the next few days, James," she announced finally. "For—I am going hence tonight."

"Going hence!" Mr. Hanson repeated. "What in the world do you mean by that?"

"Just what I say, James," Mrs. Hanson replied with convincing finality. "I know that tonight would be my last one so I have things all ready to leave. There won't be any too much on hand with all the relatives coming. You know what an appetite Henry Benedict always has."

"Mary!" said Mr. Hanson, coming nearer to his wife and looking critically at her, "do you feel cold or in a chill?"

"No, not a bit," the answer came calmly.

"Hot then?"

"No, not hot either. I feel remarkably well considering what is before me tonight. I have the bedrooms ready, too," she added, with satisfaction. "I have made up a bed in the east room; I thought it would do well enough for Henry."

"Mary, Mary! What ails you?" broke in Mr. Hanson, now thoroughly aroused to the awfulness of the occasion and with a long lost look of tenderness creeping over his grim face. "Do you mean to say that you really believe that you are going to die—tonight?"

"Certainly," responded Mrs. Hanson, "I know it."

"Come, Mary, now, and sit quietly while I go after Dr. Jones; he'll reason you out of this and tell you what a wrong idea you have in your mind." Mr. Hanson made himself ready in haste, noticing meanwhile the air of preparation that the whole house presented. Upstairs on the best dresser stood a huge bouquet of sweet peas of Mary's own raising which breathed out a welcoming fragrance. The entire effect sent his heart to his throat and he hastened out with anxiety on his face.

He was gone only a few minutes, however.

"The doctor isn't in, nor won't be until evening," he announced tremblingly. "How are you feeling now, Mary?"

"It's just as well he wasn't there, James," his wife answered cheerfully. "You know I'm not going till tonight, anyway."

"What would you say, Mary, to getting out for a ride? It's a beautiful day and it might do you good," Mr. Hanson suggested, at his wife's end to know what to do next.

"Why, I think that would be very pleasant. We might as well make the best of the time—and I haven't been beyond Main street in more than two years."

Once more Mr. Hanson hurried out, this time to return with a comfortable vehicle. Then followed the task of helping Mary get ready, which he fulfilled dutifully.

"Your bonnet doesn't look very well and your coat isn't what it ought to be; you'd better get some new things when you feel like looking around a little," with his voice full of a momentary hope that Mary's strange fancy was passing even now as quickly as it had come. Not so, however.

"The hat and coat are well enough for one more wearing," Mary answered, significantly.

Carefully Mr. Hanson lifted his wife into the carriage to take the ride under these most unusual circumstances.

"We'll go first and hunt up Hannah and see if she will come back to work," he proposed. "Times are going to be better now," he added lamely.

Mrs. Hanson smiled responsively at the better prospect for the world in general, but conveyed the impression that times, good or bad, could never again affect her personally.

Aloud she said, "I think myself that Hannah would do as well for you as anyone; she knows the ways of the house and is honest and faithful."

After they had satisfactorily accomplished this domestic errand the ride progressed without further incident, while Mr. Hanson furtively watched the quiet woman at his side. It was dusk when they reached home and Mr. Hanson, with increasing fear, assisted Mary into the house, then left her again just long enough to return the horse to the stable and leave word for Dr. Jones to come to the Hanson house that evening and be prepared to stay all night. The subject of supper was not broached. Mr. Hanson made lights, which instead of cheering only revealed those dreadful preparations everywhere.

The time dragged wearily until the doctor came, then James recited the facts of the case and told of the fateful end predicted by Mary. Dr. Jones looked puzzled and thoughtful.

Mary lay quietly and comfortably in her bed, but Mr. Hanson was now on the verge of a collapse and needed constant reassuring, which the doctor supplied with a patience acquired through years of experience.

Slowly the hours dragged by. "The night is not over yet," Mary would warn them occasionally, and the clock ticked on.

Finally James detected the first ray of light in the eastern horizon.

"Mary!" he cried joyfully. "The night is over and you are still here!"

"Why, so I am!" in apparent surprise. "It was such a strange idea that I had, James; it seemed to possess me through and through. Well, I had a real happy day yesterday, with the ride and getting ready for company."

Dr. Jones rose and started wearily for home. As the door closed after him Mr. Hanson said tenderly: "Now you lie still and rest, Mary, and by and by Hannah will bring you up some breakfast." Then he added, not without a pleased anticipation in his own voice, "And, Mary, I've been thinking that perhaps it would do you good if we went away for a little trip. I believe that with the housework and making over the carpet and the summer boarders maybe you've overdone a little without realizing it."

He hurried away to send Hannah up with the breakfast and left Mary looking affectionately after him with a strange smile on her face.

Then, "Maybe I didn't realize it and again maybe I did," she whispered oracularly.

Like a Matrimonial Bureau

Wherever Young Women Are Publicly Employed Cupid Has His Hands Full.

Not very long ago a restaurant keeper let it be known that he wanted a plain woman as cashier, because he was tired of teaching pretty girls their task only to have them whisked away to matrimony. Many girls in semi-public places find their occupation in some sort the equivalent of a matrimonial agency, which is exactly what some practical persons would call any sort of organized social life. Wherever young women are thus publicly employed Cupid seems to have his hands full. There is always some man talking confidentially to the girl behind the eating bar, and grizzled triflers display their overmature vanity to the laughing young women who dispense coffee at cut rates in a dozen neat little shops. It is happily given to most girls to see no farther than they choose to look, so that they are able to carry on the romantic little game day after day, and get out of it all the fun of the most amusing sport ever invented without troubling their pretty heads too much about the future, while the bewildering number and variety of men that go and come beneath the eyes of such women increases the romantic interest in the situation, and lends it a convenient indefiniteness. In a community where there is a feminine surplusage of many thousands the position of the few that have a daily speaking acquaintance with several hundred men each is unique and picturesque. They acquire the taste of the connoisseurs, and have definite opinions as to the kind of man that is worth a bit of extra trouble, and the kind that deserves to take his coffee and crullers unsweetened by even the ghost of a smile.—Boston Herald.

He "Didn't Give a Whoop."

When the 9:20 train from Tarrytown was drawing into the Grand Central station yesterday morning a pleasant looking, square-jawed young man, who had been studying a Sunday school lesson paper, rose and followed his wife to the door. A brusque, sportily-dressed man from the same up-river town saw that the wife had left her fur boa in the seat and, seizing it, he pushed forward and tapped the young man on the shoulder.

"Your lady has lost something," he said, holding out the boa.

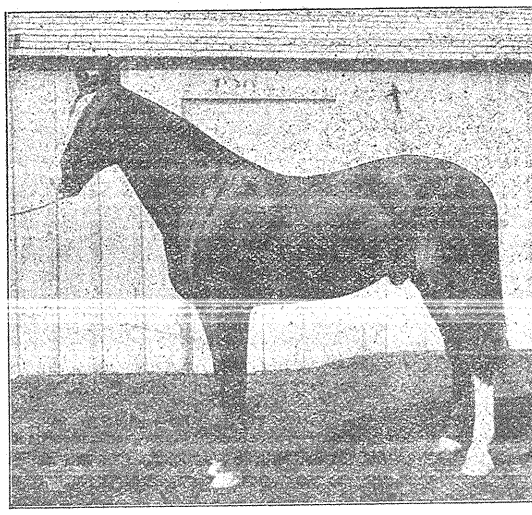

He of the square jaw smiled and thanked the stranger.

"Here's an umbrella back here, too," some one called.

"Gee! that's my umbrella; here, toss it over," exclaimed the brusque one. "By all means don't forget your umbrella in doing us a kindness," laughed the young man.

"You betcher life I won't." The car emptied and some one tapped the brusque man on the arm. "Very nice young man that. Did you know who it was?" he asked.

"No, and I don't give a whoop!" "He was John D. Rockefeller, Jr.," New York World.

Black Bucks of India. The black buck of India is a very graceful animal, weighing between thirty and fifty pounds. The hide of the male when full grown is of lanky blackness on the back, while the belly is as white as snow, the contrast being very striking. The horns are black and spiral in shape and in length average about eighteen inches, although they have been known to reach twenty-six inches. The animals are usually found in herds and are difficult to approach on foot, as the bucks toss their heads in the air from time to time in a very graceful manner, and some of them are almost sure to detect any attempt at stalking.

To the Editor:
Will you allow me a brief space in your paper for the purpose of contradicting the incorrect statement that has been waving in the air of this vicinity, by some mischief making person or persons. To the people whom this may concern, that no member connected with the Lady Maccabee Lodge, receives just treatment from physicians, nor the best of attention paid to them by the members of staff connected with the Grace Hospital of Detroit. This I wish to inform through your paper is incorrect. I have recently visited a member of the Earnest Hive, No. 226, located in Shabbona, Mrs. G. Gotham, who in the said institution has undergone a serious operation which has proved a splendid success. In my interview with this said lady she has given me satisfaction that she has received the very best of medical skill, and the members of the hospital staff have given her case the best of attention. There fore in this case, as in many others, when one has no evidence to make such statements, they ought to bridle their tongue. Thanking you kindly for this space and esteemed favor.

The base ball game between the Western Bloomer Girls and the Marlette team last Thursday afternoon resulted in a victory for the visitors by a score of 8 to 4. Drawn by the novelty of the affair a crowd of over 200 was present and for once at a game here everyone paid, as the travellers brought with them an immense canvas with which they surrounded the entire field. Three men were on the team of the visitors, one of them doing the pitching, although a young man disguised as a young woman did the twirling stunt for the first four innings. Snyder began the pitching for Marlette but threw out his arm and walked six men in succession, letting in seven runs in one inning. Ollie Burke then went in and allowed the B. G's. but one more score in the rest of the game. Marlette had a batting rally in the ninth but couldn't get enough to win.—Leader.

The Palms Hardware Co. which was robbed of about $125 on the 29th of December last when a stranger tapped the till in broad daylight while Mr. Thomas was in the back room filling an oil can, was surprised to see the same individual walk into their store last week Thursday. They were so sure that it was the same individual that they accosted him. His answers did not appear right with his actions so when he started up the track for Minden City he was followed. In Minden City he was recognized as the son of a highly respected and well to do farmer living many miles away. On being cornered he confessed that he committed the deed in a thoughtless moment. The amount taken has been paid to the Palms Hardware Co.—Herald.

Sebewaing merchants are now buying eggs according to quality. The highest price will be paid for regular run or first-grade eggs. Three cents less per dozen will be paid for second-grade stock, or small and dirty eggs. Checks and shrunken eggs, or third-grade, will bring five cents less. The merchants are getting in line with a movement which is making its influence felt all over the country and is only another step toward the solution of the pure food problem.—Blade.

The Melvin Gazette, which has been published by Purl Harding for the past year and the publication of which was suspended several weeks ago by the illness of Editor Harding will again be revived by the veteran editor Jasper H. Fire originating from a gasoline torch threatened to destroy a new barn on the farm of Noah Moore two miles east and two miles north of Deckerville Wednesday evening. A barn dance was in progress at the time and only prompt action on the part of a number of the young men present saved the building. The gasoline torch was hanging from a post and the gasoline began to leak and run down the post onto the floor and then down into the basement where there was a quantity of hay. The gasoline took fire and in an instant the flames were leaping from the basement to the roof of the barn. Water was used to keep the flames from spreading and the young men of the party assisted Mr. Moore in moving the hay which was not already on fire out of reach of the flames. By heroic effort the flames were confined to a small quantity of hay and no serious damage was done.—Recorder.

ESTABLISH LIBRARY

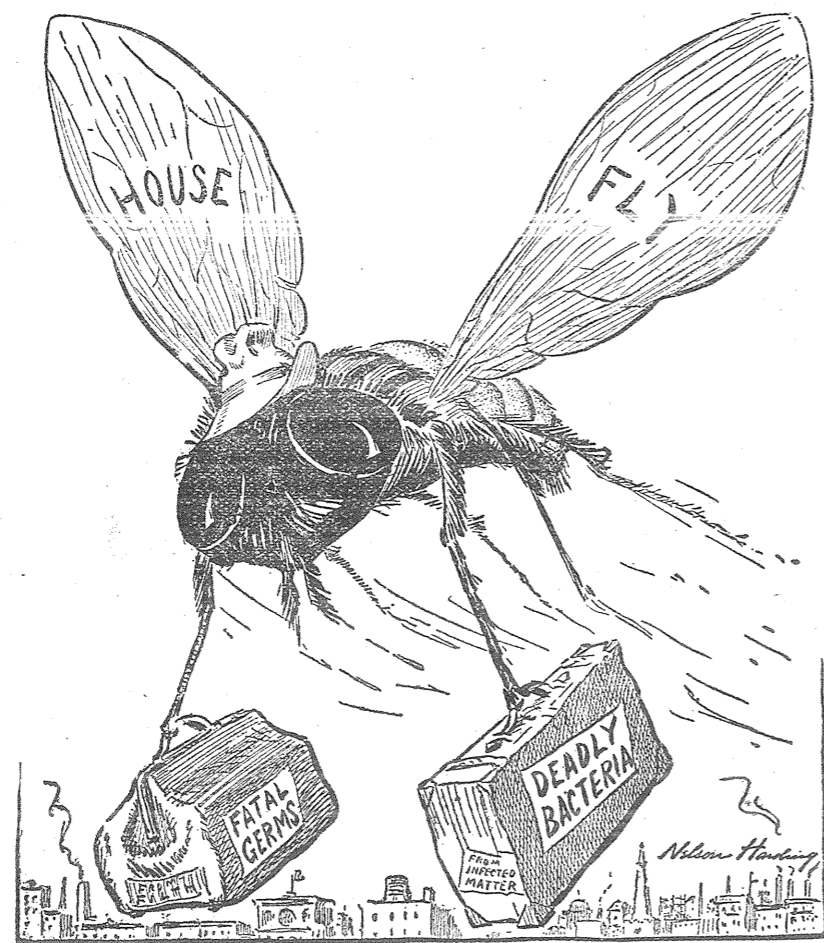

School Districts Can Secure Money from the County.

School districts, which have not already done so, are urged by the Department of Public Instruction to consider the establishment of a library at the annual school meeting to be held Monday, July 8. A majority vote of the electors present will carry the proposition, which does not cost the district a cent of money. Establishment of a library merely means that the school district will receive its share of the library fund which is made up of the penal fines paid to the county.

As soon as a school district votes to establish a library, the township board must give to the district its share of the books in the township library and of library money on hand. Thereafter the district will receive its share of the library appropriation, this being based upon the number of children on the census roll. A well-selected library is recognized by present-day educators as the most valuable school equipment possible.

CLOSE SCHOOLS

Districts with Small Enrollment May Send Pupils Elsewhere.

Scores of district schools throughout the state of Michigan and a few in this county, are being maintained for a handful of pupils, the enrollment in many cases being considerably below ten. The electors at the annual school meetings to be held Monday, July 8, may remedy this unsatisfactory condition by voting to close the school for the year and send the pupils to some nearby district or districts. The board is to pay the tuition of these pupils and their transportation if the distance to the other schools warrants the paying of transportation.

The districts following this plan does not lose its organization as a district nor its primary money. It simply provides training for its boys and girls in other schools. The advantages of this are obvious. Competition of children is the first essential for a good school and there is no satisfactory competition possible with a small enrollment, while teachers cannot do adequate work with few pupils. This plan makes better school training possible at less cost, for maintaining a school for a small enrollment is considered by educators as unprofitable from every point of view.

FRIENDSHIP AND BUSINESS.

The man who is not a familiar face in the business places of his home town is not a man who attracts many business friendships. He creates very little good will. People buy of him if they have to, if they find that he has bargains that they simply can't resist, but when things are about even they never go out of their way to serve him. Such a man gets a reputation for cold isolation, and if he wins it is by sheer hard work, and friendships never help him.

A great many of the prizes of life go by favor. The fellow who feels interested in his townsmen, who takes every opportunity to throw a good business deal in the way of a neighbor, has created a host of friendly and willing debtors. These favors are not forgotten. They seem bread cast upon the waters of a shoreless sea. Then some day, when he least expects it, along comes some man to whom he has done a business favor, to whom it is a pleasure to make some return.

Here is explained the mysterious ease with which some fellows get along in life. They never seem to work as hard as others. But they have a genius for business friendship, they throw business favors to friends whenever possible, they buy everything possible of their townsmen. They create such a host of business allies that by and by they find what a lot of people there are in life who enjoy and believe in returning favors and remembering mutual obligations.—Ex.

COMMUNICATION.

Last week's Chronicle announces the appointment of J. C. Corkins as postmaster at Cass City. Well, he is a good capable man but the question arises how this was brought about. We have not heard that any petition was circulated in Mr. Corkins' behalf while on the other hand there was a petition of over 600 voters and taxpayers asking that a man equally as capable be appointed. Our influence had no "heft" compared with the influence of the man or men who secured the privilege to name the candidate. Now, the question is, will this balancing up influence pay the Hon. Joseph W. Fordney when his name again comes before those petitioners for their franchise; also is it possible that the man or men with such a strong "pull" in politics should ever hereafter place their name before the people of that petition for their suffrage, what would our duty be in such a case? To my mind they should be repudiated at once as they already have more pull than 600 common men, that is, with Uncle Sam's officials. Now, fellow petitioners, let each one of us think this matter over. If everything has been done decently and in order, let somebody say so.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

To whom it may concern: Be it known that on the 28th day of May, 1912, an application was filed with Wm. V. Kelley, county drain commissioner of the County of Tuscola, for the deepening, extending and straightening of a certain drain which said drain was described in said application as follows, to-wit: Said drain to commence at Cass river at the mouth of the ravine in sec. 12 and the ravine which now takes the water of said drain. Said ravine to be cleaned out to a point about 10 rods west of the 1/4 line in said sec. 12; then from this point to the mouth of the old drain; then following the old drain to its upper end as near as may be following from this point the natural water course in nearly a northeasterly direction to a point about 55 rods north of section line between sections 4 and 9 on west side of the right of way of Grand Trunk R. R. That said drain shall traverse the Townships of Novesta and Ellington. Be it further known that on the 28th day of June, 1912, a joint meeting of the township boards of the Townships of Novesta and Ellington will be held at the residence of J. S. Parrott, sec. 8, Novesta, at two o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of determining whether or not the proposed drain is necessary and conducive to public health, convenience and welfare. That at such meeting all persons owning land liable to assessments for benefits or whose lands will be crossed by said drain may appear for or against said drain proceedings. Given under our hands this 20th day of June, 1912.

WM. KILGORE, Township Clerk of Township of Novesta. ROBT. SPAVEN, Township Clerk of Township of Ellington.

After the Wedding

"Well, what did you think of the weddin'?" cried Miss Connelly as she bounced into the car. "Beg pardon, Stell, for steppin' on you," she continued, stumbling over Miss Larson's feet and lunging into a seat next to that young person.

Miss Larson opened one sleepy eye. "Oh, did you step on me?" she droned, yawning widely and undisguisedly. "I didn't know it."

"Sure I did," responded Miss Connelly. "I thought I'd better wake you up and tell you about it. You can go to sleep again now."

Miss Larson opened the other eye. "I wasn't sleep, Nell Connelly," she said, indignantly. "I guess a person's got a right to shut their eyes if they want to. My eyes ain't very strong and the light hurts 'em."

"Don't let's waste our perfectly good time fightin' with each other this mornin'," said Miss Connelly. "If we do we won't have any time left to knock the weddin'."

"Say," began Miss Frizkie eagerly, "didn't you pretty near die over the way Mame's hair was fixed? Honest to goodness, when I get married I'll have a hair dresser fix my hair up swell if I don't have so much as a pork chop to eat for a year."

"I thought her hair looked pretty good for Mame," said Miss Larson, sleepily. "It always looks like she'd slept in it."

"Her dress was a peach, though, wasn't it?" said Miss Frizkie. "At least it would have been if it had any fit to it. All that hand embroidery and that bead trimming must have cost a pile."

"Hand embroidery!" ejaculated Miss Connelly. "That's all you know about it, Jen. I was over to look at Mame's clothes Toosday evening and felt of it good, and it wasn't no more hand embroidery than nothing."

"Well, she must 'a' goth a corner on this year's crop of beads," said Miss Frizkie. "What do you think I said to the lady that was standin' next to me when Mame came into the parlor? I give her a dig with my elbow and I says, 'Say, I says, 'Mame must have got mixed in her dates and thought she was a Christmas tree.'"

"My! The lady got as red as anything. I designed that gown," she says, sniffing up her nose at me, mad as she could be. 'It's modeled after a gown that was imported straight from Paris and you couldn't find its duplicate in Chicago. I'm a high-priced modiste,' she says, 'besides being Miss Peterson's own aunt.'"

"Land! I just faded away like I'd been blown off the landscape."

"It's a pity you couldn't learn not to have such rude manners, Jen," said Miss Connelly.

"I guess if I could just learn to shut up and keep shut up it would help some," agreed Miss Frizkie, good-naturedly.

"Mame didn't have such an awful lot of presents as I thought she would," Miss Larson opened her eyes long enough to remark "I kind of thought she'd have a lot more'n what she did."

"Some of 'em was expensive, though, I guess," said Miss Frizkie. "Now, I bet that cut glass pitcher and them glasses cost twenty dollars."

"Nix on that," said Miss Connelly, decidedly. "I picked up every one of 'em and run my finger over 'em, and they wasn't sharp like cut glass ought to be. They was real smooth."

"Well, that shows how you can fool me," Miss Frizkie admitted. "But then I'd a whole lot rather have a showy set like that than some little dinky piece that wouldn't make no show at all."

"Same here," said Miss Larson. "Anybody would, of course. I guess Mame's ma's folks are pretty well fixed anyway. Her ma's brother gave her that dandy set of knives and forks that was layin' upon the dresser with the plates with the hand painted fruit design up 'em."

"Nothin' much to them," said Miss Connelly. "I guess they didn't cost more'n about five dollars. They was plated and it wasn't first-class plate, either."

"Plated?" cried Miss Frizkie. "How do you know they was plated?"

"Why, I took 'em out and looked at them," replied Miss Connelly, placidly. "You can't fool me. All the silver things there was plated except that little pickle fork that the two Ryan girls gave her."

"My! I'd hate to give such an awful little thing, anyway," murmured Miss Larson. "I think it was a lot better to club together like us girls did and give her something big. Our silver tray looked like it could have bought up everything else she had."

"Includin' the feller she married," said Miss Connelly. "Say, wasn't he the farmer, though? I bet he rented them clothes. He was afraid to sit down in 'em, and the way they fit was a fright. Did you pipe how he kept hitchin' one shoulder all the time the preacher was talkin'?"

"No," said Miss Frizkie, "I didn't. I was too busy tryin' to count the beads of Mame's dress."

Miss Larson stuck her hands deep into her muff and yawned once more. "Well, I'm glad I went," she said, "but don't know as it was worth the money we put into that tray, even if it did look so grand. The ice cream I got wasn't no bigger'n a silver dollar."
