BLOOMER GIRLS LOSE GAME TO KINGSTON TEAM

Female Ball Tossers Attracted a Crowd of 400 Fans at Kingston Wednesday.

The last Kingston ball team took the Western Bloomer Girls' team into camp on the Kingston grounds Wednesday in a snappy and well-played game, by a score of 12-3. One of the largest crowds of the season witnessed the struggle and were apparently more than satisfied.

The Bloomer Girls team is a high class bunch of female ball tossers, aided by three male players, and certainly put up a credible game, with the "never-say-die" spirit strongly in evidence until the last opponent is out. Maude Nelson, the reliable lady pitcher, started the game for the visitors, but retired in the 4th inning in favor of Ryan, who is a box man of fine ability, but who had his troubles stopping the hard hitting Kingston team. Dutcher, for the Kingston team, pitched his usual steady game and was handed airtight support by his mates.

The game as a whole was a very satisfactory one and was thoroughly enjoyed by those present, who unite as one in warmly congratulating the Bloomer Girls on their ladylike conduct and general ability to play the national game.

The following is the score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
B. Girls	0	0	1	1	1	1	0	0	0	3	7	4

MUSSELMAN, FORDNEY, CRAMTON WINNERS

MUSSELMAN'S MAJORITY ESTI-MATED 3,000 TO 5,000.

Congressman Fordney Is Nominated by Majority of 2,600 in 8th District.

Incomplete returns from 66 of the 84 counties, including 207 of the 212 precincts in Wayne, compiled early Thursday, gave Amos Musselman a majority of 2,945 over Frederick Martindale, his opponent for the republican nomination for governor. The total vote was Musselman, 58,457; Martindale, 55,512.

On the face of the returns Mr. Musselman will probably be nominated by a majority estimated from 3,000 to 5,000. The vote in the 207 precincts in Wayne county gave Mr. Martindale 16,492; Musselman, 9,192.

Congressman Joseph W. Fordney had an easy victory over his opponent, Emory Townsend. Incomplete returns gave Mr. Fordney an estimated majority of 2,500.

Louis C. Crampton of Lapeer won the republican nomination for congressman in the seventh district.

HOLINESS CAMP MEETING ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

Negotiations Are Being Made for Holding Meetings at Cass
City Fair Grounds.

A campmeeting association which bids fair to rival in size and efficiency that of the one at Romeo is the latest Cass City organization. On last Thursday evening August 22, the Cass City Holiness Camp Meeting Association was formally organized at the M. E. church. Nearly fifty people have agreed to join, and others are interested. These are just from the vicinity of Cass City and Bethel. It is planned, however, to make this more than a local organization. The desire is to have included in the association a district extending from North Branch to Caseville. Already some of the other towns on the P. O. & N. R. R. have signified their intention of joining in the general association and the prospects are fair for a big camp meeting the very first year. The promoters hope that the camp meeting next August will bring to Cass City from 100 to 200 out of town people.

At the organization meeting, the following chairman of committees were appointed to report at the general meeting of the association on Thursday evening, Sept. 5th, at the M. E. church: Committee on constitution, Rev. Wm. B. Weaver; committee on program, Rev. Arthur F. Wesley; committee on nominations, Robt. Day.

The program committee is at work now lining up a corps of evangelistic workers who will mean much to the community.

SERIES OF ACCIDENTS AT THE VASSAR FAIR

Motorcycle ran into Fence and Cook Stove Sets Fire to Balloon.

Harry Wilcox of Caro was seriously injured at the Vassar Fair Friday while racing on his motorcycle. Wilcox was running very close to the fence when something went wrong and he went into the fence, tearing away three posts, demolishing his machine and injuring himself severely. He was badly cut about the head. A "raginaw" machine won the race.

Prof. Annsdill, a Lansing balloonist, had a narrow escape from death while 300 feet from the ground in his gas bag at the Vassar grounds Friday when in making an ascent a rope caught in a cook stove on the midway and carried it aloft where sparks set fire to the big silk bag. The balloon rose rapidly to such a height it was possible for the imperiled man to make a successful parachute drop. The burning balloon dropped to earth a few minutes later.

Chas. Mann, while returning to his home in Vassar early one morning while the fair was in progress in that village, was knocked down with a club by two men. He had considerable money at the fair grounds and the motive is believed to have been robbery. He was battered unconscious. The two men dragged him into a hole near the new bridge on Main street, and were covering him up with boards when Officer Tivey appeared on the scene. He, too, was knocked down with clubs and badly injured. Tivey fired three shots without effect. The thugs made their escape on a train in the direction of Bay City.

CASS CITY FAIR WELL ATTENDED

CATTLE EXHIBIT WAS LARGEST IN YEARS.

Special Attractions, Ball Games and Horse Races Pleased the Big Crowds.

Up to the opening day of the Cass City fair last Tuesday, the weather conditions were about as unfavorable as could be imagined, with the country flooded by prevailing rains and the harvests delayed. The first two days were graced with encouraging weather, but Thursday afternoon's rain dampened the ardor of the fair officials for a few hours. Friday weather was much better than that of the previous day. Despite the unfavorable season, the Cass City fair attracted large crowds and the patrons declare it was the best exhibition of several years.

The exhibits, on the whole, were well displayed and the number of entries exceeded those of last year in several departments. These were especially noticeable in the Floral Hall and the cattle exhibit. Among local business men who had exhibits were N. Bigelow & Sons, J. A. Caldwell, Cass City Milling Co., The Hub Music House, Striffler & Patterson, Ehlers & Nique and the Sherwood Piano House.

The entertainment features were pronounced high class in every particular. The music by Stone's Famous Band of Detroit was exceptionally good and the special attractions were the subject of many complimentary remarks. The officials of the fair spent their money wisely.

The Races.

Thursday's rain interfered greatly with the race program and it was impossible to have any harness event at that afternoon. In both Wednesday events, nine horses were entered in each, and the same number were entered in the Free-for-all on Friday afternoon. There was a large number of race horses and their owners were much disappointed in the unfavorable weather making it impossible to carry out the program in its entirety. The results of the events were as follows:

Mrs. Hemstreet of Detroit is the guest of her brother, Lon Perkins, at present.

Geo. Taylor of Deckerville, Mrs. Jos. Taylor and daughter, Mable, of Owendale spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Pettit.

A very sad accident occurred at the home of Duncan Morrison Saturday afternoon. Mr. Morrison was drawing in hay, he being on the load, Mr. Walker in the hay mow and Mr. Morrison's daughter driving the team. It appears that when the hay fork was coming back for another forkful, it became stuck in some way, and Mr. Morrison gave his rope a jerk, which caused the fork to come loosened from the pulley and fell about fifteen feet. Mr. Morrison dodged, but did not get out of reach of it, one time striking him in the side and piercing his lung. His daughter heard him call and was first to reach him and remove the fork. Dr. Holdship was called on the phone and reached there in fifteen minutes, but Mr. Morrison died about five minutes after his arrival. Mr. Morrison leaves five daughters, besides a father and mother and several brothers to mourn his death. The funeral services were held on Tuesday.

Chris Sparling has shipped his household effects to Ypsilanti and the family will leave for that place in a few days. Mr. Sparling has not yet decided what business he will engage in but wishes to go where there was a good school for his family.

Dr. and Mrs. Kingan returned from their vacation last week.

Rev. Hurd is expected home from his vacation this week and there will be services in the Presbyterian church as usual next Sunday.

Lenses.

Roger Bacon knew lenses and that they were useful for near vision in the old. For optical purposes they appear to have been ground first about 1285 by a certain Salvino degli Armati, said to have died in 1317. A monk of Pisa, Alexander della Spina, who died in 1313, also has been accredited with the invention of spectacles.

A Browning Anecdote.

In Lihan Whiting's "The Brownings" occurs this anecdote: "In the last days in Venice Browning was reading to his son and daughter-in-law that 'Epilogue' which sums up his own attitude to life and its problems—the familiar verse beginning, 'One who never turned his back, but marched breast forward' and, pausing at the stanza, said, 'It seems almost like praising myself to say that, and yet it is true, the simple truth, and so I shall not cancel it.'"

Cookery Points

New Pie Suggestions.

New suggestions for pies are always welcome to the housewife. Pie is one of the most favored of all desserts, especially by the men of the household. Several recipes for palatable pies are given, with the foundation a flaky pastry.

Light, Flaky Pastry.—To make light, flaky pastry chop the lard and butter through the flour with two knives instead of using the hands, which makes the mixture too compact. Add ice cold water gradually and mix with a fork. Lifting it lightly through the flour. The baked crust will be in delicious, flaky layers.

Cocoanut Pie.—Put two even tablespoonfuls of grated cocoanut into a pint of milk. Add three even tablespoonfuls of sugar, the yolks of two well beaten eggs and two even tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, stirred to a paste with a little cold milk. Add butter the size of a walnut and cook until thickened and smooth. Line a pie plate with crust, prick in several places and bake in a hot oven. Then fill the crust with the cocoanut mixture and spread with meringue made from the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Sprinkle with cocoanut, set in an oven and brown slightly.

Chocolate Fig Pie.—Beat the yolks of four eggs, add one cupful of sugar and stir well together. Add eight heaping tablespoonfuls of grated chocolate and beat again. Put into a saucepan, and as it heats stir in slowly two tablespoonfuls of flour dissolved in a quarter cupful of cold milk. As it begins to thicken take from the fire and add one large cupful chopped figs. Line two pie tins with pastry and bake. Then put in the filling and return to the oven a few moments to "set." Beat the whites of the four eggs with four scant tablespoonfuls of sugar and a tablespoonful of vanilla. Spread lightly over the pies. Set back in a moderate oven to puff and brown.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie.—Either fresh or canned pie plant may be used. Take enough stewed pie plant for one pie, about a half pint, and stir into it while boiling a heaping teaspoonful of cornstarch mixed with the yolks of two eggs, a cupful of sugar and one tablespoonful of butter. Have ready a pie tin lined with a nice crust already baked. Spread this with the pie plant mixture and cover with a meringue made of the whites of the eggs, beaten stiff, with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Set in the oven until nicely browned and serve cold.

Orange Indian Pudding. Put four heaping tablespoonfuls of cornmeal into a basin, add half a pint of molasses and a level teaspoonful of salt. Boil three pints of milk, pour it scalding hot on the meal, stirring carefully until perfectly smooth and free from lumps. Butter a pudding dish, cover the bottom thickly with chopped dried orange peel, pour in the mixture and, last of all, pour gently over the top a tumblerful of cold milk. Bake four and a half hours in a hot oven. Serve with whipped and sweetened cream flavored with one teaspoonful of orange essence.

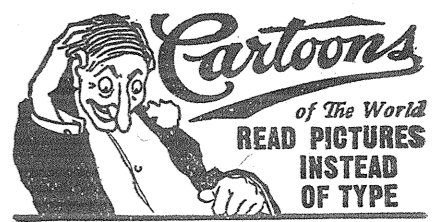

French Drip Coffee. For French drip coffee a filter of porcelain must be used. A gauze filter must be thoroughly rinsed after using and hung up to dry if possible. Heat the filter and pot, put grounds in the filter and moisten with boiling water. Let it stand five minutes, then add more boiling water every two or three minutes. The dripped coffee must be boiled. It is especially good for the demi tasse, being rich and fragrant without becoming muddy or bitter. Best of all, it never fails, as boiled coffee is sure to do when hastily prepared.

Orange Juice. Take a sweet, juicy orange, cut in two at the circumference and squeeze out all the juice with a lemon squeezer. Strain or leave some of the pulp in, as preferred. Set on the ice until thoroughly chilled, then serve in a thin glass, crystal clear, and set on a little china plate with a small doily between glass and plate. Grapefruit is refreshing served in the same way, adding if desired a little sugar and a teaspoonful of sherry.

Almond Cake. Take two ounces of butter and beat it well with one ounce of sugar; then add to it two well beaten eggs, beating the mixture well together. Sift into it two ounces of flour; add two tablespoonfuls of ground almonds and half a teaspoonful of almond extract. The cake should be baked in a tin lined with greased paper in a moderate oven and sugar be sifted over the top.

Fried Sausages. Prick the sausages with a fork (this prevents them from bursting) and put them into a frying pan with a small piece of butter. Keep moving the pan about and turn the sausages three or four times. In from ten to twelve minutes they will be sufficiently cooked unless they are very large, when a little more time should be given.

Apple Water. Slice a half dozen sour, juicy apples into an earthen pitcher, add a tablespoonful of sugar and pour over all a quart of boiling water. Cover closely, and when cold strain and chill.

Guard Your Children Against Bowel Trouble

Many children at an early age become constipated, and frequently serious consequences result. Not being able to realize his own condition, a child's bowels should be constantly watched, and a gentle laxative given when necessary. Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are especially well adapted to women and children. The Sisters of Christian Charity, 531 Charles St., Luzerne, Pa., who attend many cases of sickness say of them:

"Some time ago we began using Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets and find that we like them very much. Their action is excellent and we are grateful for having been made acquainted with them. We have had good results in every case and the Sisters are very much pleased."

The form and flavor of any medicine is very important, no matter who is to take it. The taste and appearance are especially important when children are concerned. All parents know how hard it is to give the average child "medicine," even though the taste is partially disguised. In using Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets, however, this difficulty is overcome. The shape of the tablets, their appearance and candy-like taste at once appeal to any child, with the result that they are taken without objection.

The rich chocolate flavor and absence of other taste, make Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets the ideal remedy for children.

If the first box fails to benefit, the price is returned. Ask your druggist. A box of 25 doses costs only 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Natural Rock Chimney.
What is said to be the most wonderful rock chimney in America stands near High Bridge, Ky. This natural chimney is seventy-five feet high and only 4 by 6 feet at its base. It is so delicately molded that it looks as if a push would send it over, yet it has successfully defied the storms of unknown ages.

Half Truths.
Half truths are often more calamitous than whole falsehoods. Not a word may be uttered, but a half suppressed innuendo, a dropped lip, an arched eyebrow, a shrugged shoulder, a significant look, an incredulous expression of countenance—nay, even an emphatic silence—may do the injurious work.

The Chronicle has been requested to publish the following item by a member of the local G. A. R. post: All will remember the failure of the Five County Soldiers and Sailors association to hold a meeting here last summer. Many of our people expressed regret at the failure at the time. Now after a conference with several, both ladies and gentlemen, it has been decided to call a meeting of the people of Cass City and vicinity to be held in the Town Hall on Saturday evening, August 31, at eight o'clock, when D. M. Houghton, president of the association, will explain the necessities, objects, results, etc. This conclusion has been reached from the fact that it is quite evident that many of our people were laboring under misconception of the matter. Also the fact that nearly everyone asked, subscribed willingly and liberally, and the Woman's Study club, backed by all good citizens, carried to grand success a decoration program last May. Every one is invited to attend the meeting Saturday evening when the matter of completing arrangements for the entertaining of members of this association here next month will be thoroughly discussed. The ladies of all the churches and other organizations are especially invited.

He Was Enlightened.
We don't approve of the impertinence, but perhaps in the following case the grouchy street car passenger got no more than he deserved: He had asked a conductor if he knew when a certain train left the North station, and, on being answered in the negative, he exclaimed offensively, "Why is it that this road employs so many farmers?" "Just to look after the cattle that travel on the cars," was the conductor's quick retort.—Boston Transcript.

After Supper Sale

Wednesday, September 4

We were quite sure that there would be no lack of buyers at the first Wednesday Night Sale—the crowd came—it saw and was conquered—it needed no microscope to discover the remarkable values. The merchandise was here, exactly as we advertised it—the prices, well we only know that action began at the stroke of 7:00 o'clock bell and continued unabated until closing time.

One can bring a crowd with an offering of big values, but one won't do business unless the prices match the advertisement. We did business.

We have prepared for the second After Supper Sale with another great budget of bargains. We will see a large percentage of the people who came to the first—and a host of friends—because there has been much talk of the plums that were picked at the first sale. So you had better come to—another crop is ready for those who like to buy goods at retail, at less than most stores pay wholesale.

CHEERFULNESS.

Cultivate a cheerful disposition. If a person determines early in life that a cheerful disposition is worth having and strives to obtain it and does so that person is a success in a fine sense of the word. Of course comparatively few men and women ever stop to think about success in this form but if they will acquire the habit I will guarantee a larger measure of satisfaction than they may have met with before. — Leigh Mitchell Hodges.

The Cicada Fable.

Several species of insects have apparatus for producing sounds similar to that of the grasshopper or modifications of it. Of a different type is that with which the cicadas are endowed. Only the males of this family are singers, for which the Greek poets called them happy because their females were dumb. With the ancients a cicada sitting on a harp was the symbol of music. A pretty fable tells of the contest between two cithara players, in which the curious event happened that when one of the contestants broke a string a singing cicada sprang on his harp and helped him out so that he gained the prize.

Whistler once came very near to painting a portrait of Disraeli. He had the commission. He went down to the country where Disraeli was, but the great man did not manage to get into the mood. Disraeli put his arm in Whistler's for a little way on the street, bringing from the artist the exclamation, "If only my creditors could see!"

Old Parchments.

Old parchments of all descriptions always fetch good prices. Dealers have invented a process for removing the ink, and eventually the cleaned parchments in many cases come back as "fine French kid gloves." The clippings remaining when the gloves are made are not wasted. Mixed with vellum and bits of leather, they are boiled down for "size." Smoking Hemp.

"One of the curses of the natives of central Africa," said a Scottish missionary, Mr. Crawford, "is smoking hemp. It is worse than opium. I knew a case where a native tied his wife up in a parcel and sold her for a smoke of hemp. I was told of the sensations of hemp smokers by a chief who had conquered the habit. It causes a peculiar glazielike enamel to come into the eyes and has the effect of making a man quite friendly one moment and the next he would like to stab you." —London Standard.

Some New Features at The Michigan State Fair

Good Road Making at Michigan State Fair.

The Michigan State Fair this year will continue from Sept. 16 to 21, inclusive, a feature which has drawn the attention of the United States Government to this Fair and which brought President Taft to Detroit last year. That feature is the good roads demonstration, road building. For two years the Fair has provided the material and the manufacturers of road building machinery have contributed the machines, the time and the workers to construct in the Fair grounds a stretch of good road that shall be to the farmers and other residents of Michigan an example of good road work. All know that Michigan stands about 20th in good roads mileage and this in spite of the fact that the State is the leader in automobile manufacturing. The farmers want good roads, the automobilists want them and the Michigan State Fair undertook a great work when it put before the public this splendid example of road work. The enterprise has been commended by good roads organizations the country over. In past years it has attracted much interest at the State Fair and this year, owing to the spreading desire for good roads, it will attract far more attention. The visitors at the Fair last year gathered round the rock crushers and along the stretch of road way under construction and the interest shown was remarked upon by officials from all over the country. It is said that the Michigan State Fair alone carries on this class of work and it is credited the country over with its enterprise. It is thought that with reasonable weather a considerably greater stretch of road will be completed this year than last, owing to the fact that many additional firms building road machinery have taken an interest in the matter and promised assistance. Right outside the Fair grounds the visitors will see samples of the Wayne County concrete roads which are attracting road supervisors and road builders from all over the country to Detroit and Wayne County as these roads are considered remarkable in many ways and most economical of all roads to build.

Showing Midway at Michigan State Fair.

Everyone who has attended State Fairs in the past has found the Midway the very center of attraction apparently with a location which could not be overlooked providing the State Fair was to be seen. In the past the Midway at the Michigan State Fair has been located right in the center and spectators were forced to pass through the noisy crowds with the barkers all about them shouting lustily, to reach the horse track, night horse show, automobile races, aeroplane contests and fireworks. The Michigan State Fair management decided to cleanse the Midway of pit attractions and every objectionable feature. Herbert A. Kline was commissioned to bring his attractions to the Fair and the Midway was moved to one corner of the grounds, down by the Grand Trunk railroad. Every catch-penny attraction is thus barred and this year it will be possible for women and children to travel fearlessly through the department of the Fair given over to Midway attractions and to witness anything that is there to be seen and that without question. Last year many of the so-called attractions were barred by President Thos. E. Newton and the other officials and this move proved so popular that the President then and there decided that the 1912 fair would be made more popular by a complete cleaning out of everything that could arouse even the slightest objection. In the place where the former Midway was located there has been placed a sort of child's Midway with the riding ponies provided by S. W. Klingman and merry-go-rounds, a child's play ground and other attractions that will appeal strongly to the little ones. The walk to the track where the horse races, the automobile races, the night horse show, the fireworks and the Land Show under the grandstand will be seen, will be past pleasanter surroundings than formerly and general commendation of the management will be sure to result.

A Great Question at the Michigan State Fair

(By J. E. Hannon, Secretary and Manager Michigan State Fair).

In less than one month the Michigan State Fair, which occurs this year, Sept. 16 to 21, inclusive, will open its gates. At this Fair you will have the opportunity to pass judgment on one of the greatest questions that has been presented to the American people, and that question plainly is "What will you do when the increase in population in the United States has overtaken the grub rate?" In other words, too little attention is being paid to agriculture and to the people that are engaged in raising the foodstuffs necessary to feed our enormous industrial population. The city resident is largely to blame for the state of affairs that now exists because in the past he has taken pleasure in passing gibes at his country brother referring to him as a "Rube" which carries with it the meaning that he is ignorant, ill-informed and not up-to-date. These gibes and the jeers must be recalled, and the country cousin must not be looked down upon for the time is fast approaching when it will be necessary to look elsewhere for your food for the raw material from which your clothes are made and for your sustenance which is at stake. Everything possible must be done to overcome the great stream of country boys rushing toward the city to engage in ill-paid occupations in a majority of cases simply that they may get away from the appellation of "Rube" to become citified and up-to-date. These boys and girls who rush to the city have become imbued with the idea that the farmers of the nation are looked down upon—that they are looked upon as people of a lowly nature simply because they till the soil.

They must be taught that agricultural pursuits are among the most independent—that the farmer is a necessity—that he comes before the industries of the city because the public must of a necessity depend upon him and his products for the necessities of life. We of the State Fair believe that we have adopted the right methods to bring this about by the creation of the Boys' State Fair School and the "Miniature Model Farms" and the press of the country generally has commended the State Fair for having in a way solved the problem. In promoting the knowledge of scientific farming the boys of the city come in closer touch with the country boys.

The Cass City Public Schools Will Open September 2

The public schools of Cass City will open on Monday, Sept. 2. We hope to see all former pupils and many new ones.

Come and spend an enjoyable and profitable year with us. The opportunities for an educated man and woman were never greater than they are today. Come equipped with the best of health and a determination to work.

The Cass City Public Schools rank among the very best schools in the state. It is expected that the work of the coming school year will be superior to that of former years. A special effort has been made to improve the equipment and increase the efficiency of the teaching force. The best teachers have been secured for all departments.

The Cass City High School is on the U. of M. credited list. Its graduates are qualified, as a consequence, to enter, without examination, any college in Michigan.

All young people expecting to attend school, and desiring information regarding the course of study or arrangements for entrance are invited to write, telephone or call upon

JOHN E. KENNEDY, Supt. of Schools.

Greatness in Victory and Defeat

By Former United States Senator WILLIAM E. MASON

Be neither swelled nor puffed up by wealth and honors that in the loss thereof you may not shrink. —John the Unafraid.

IN a long life of association with great men and small, I have found that the great man was great in all conditions of life. I have seen great men in the hour of defeat and in the hour of victory. I have seen small men in both conditions. I recall one man of wealth who was loud of dress and voice, who when given a great office, became louder in both, and more tenacious of his "official" rights. In his loss of both wealth and power, he seemed to shrink and, to so perceptibly sour, that life became a burden to himself and to his friends. Before his loss he was an object of ridicule and after it an object of pity.

One of the men I knew well, who never changed either his manner or disposition, in victory or defeat, was General John A. Logan. He was as simple in the senate as he was out of it, and as great out as he was in the senate. After he was defeated for vice-president, an old friend said to him: "General Logan, you seem just the same, just as independent as you were before election; you ain't shrunk a bit." To which he replied: "I hope I am the same. If an office don't swell a man, he can lose it without shrinking."

The practice of naming farms would be alright if men had judgment and were honest enough to tell things as they are. For instance we know men on sand lots that can't raise an umbrella on the soil, averting that there is no better land outdoors, and again many who have farms peppered with Canada thistles will insist that there is just once in a while a weed on the ranch. Farms are like children, the owners want to give the thing a nice name, no matter how it looks.

On the other hand, the sand about Plymouth is bluish gray in color, probably owing to the shells of mussels broken and mixed with it, and on the coasts of the North sea the sand of the seashore is yellowish brown or reddish. The sand on the coast of Argyllshire, in Scotland, is remarkable for its whiteness.—London Globe.

WOMEN TAKE NOTICE!

A man cannot understand the torture and suffering many women endure uncomplainingly. If the majority of men suffered as much pain and endured with patience the weakening sicknesses that most women do, they would ask for immediate sympathy and look for a quick cure.

Many women have been saved from a life of misery and suffering by turning to the right remedy—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy which is safe to take because containing no narcotics, alcohol or injurious ingredients. It is an alterative extract of roots, made with pure glycerin, and first given to the public by that famous specialist in the diseases of women—Dr. R. V. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y.

MRS. LIZZIE M. HESSEMER, of Lincoln, Neb., 529 "C" St., says: "I send a testimonial with much pleasure so that some suffering woman may know the true worth of your remedies. I was a great sufferer from female troubles but after taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which a friend advised me to take, I found myself very much improved. After taking three more bottles, and using two boxes of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets, I found myself on the road to recovery. I was in poor health for five years but now I am cured. I hope all women suffering from female weakness will give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a fair trial."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules.

success of the camp. While not in a position to make definite announcement, Mr. Wesley is trying to secure the singing and preaching evangelist, Rev. Geo. Bernard, also the Rev. W. G. Nixon, president of the Simson Park Holiness Camp meeting association at Romeo, and the Rev. C. W. Ruth, one of the most noted evangelists in the country. This or a similar band of workers will assure success from the evangelistic standpoint.

The place of meeting is not definitely decided, but negotiations are being conducted with the fair association looking to the rental of the fair grounds for these meetings. The main sessions will be held in a large tent, seating several hundred.

The association is interdenominational in character, being open to all who sign the membership card and pay the yearly fee of $1.00.

The purpose of the association is to conduct a summer campaign for the conversion of unbelievers, the reclamation of backsliders, and the sanctification of believers. They will avoid, the promoters say, wild-fire and fanaticism on the one hand, and dead formality on the other.

MIX POLITICS AND FUN.

Oxford has raised $1,000 for free street attractions for a home-coming carnival to be held in that village Sept. 4, 5 and 6. Stone's famous colored band is to furnish music and there are to be balloon ascensions, games, races, sports, free street shows, a Masonic base ball tournament between Ortonville, Lapeer, Pontiac and Oxford and an endless variety of amusements. Each day there will be political speeches, the first day being given up to the Bull Moose party, the second to the republican and the third to the democratic.

AUTOMOBILE LAW.

There seems to be some confusion in the minds of men concerning the correct law governing the action of parties meeting and passing each other on the public highways.

Our law makers seem to have been of different minds at different times. The law of 1905 says, "a vehicle drawn by horse, horses or other draft animal when overtaken by a motor vehicle, the driver of which expresses a desire to pass such vehicle, shall turn to the left of the center of the wrought or travelled part of the highway. The law of 1907 says, "shall turn to either the right or left." The law of 1909 "shall turn to the right of the center of the travelled portion of the highway." The law at the present time being that when you meet a motor car or any other vehicle turn to the right, and when you are overtaken by a motor car and the driver thereof "toots his horn" turn to the right the same as though you were meeting them. In other words always turn to the right going or coming so far as automobiles are concerned.

The Hour of the Rose

By Dorothy Arthur

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"It's so dear of you, Aunt Rose, to come all the way up from Virginia, just for my wedding."

"Why, child, don't you know what a romantic old maid I am at heart?" laughed Miss Carruthers, laying off her wraps, and sinking restfully down in an easy chair before the fire. "I wouldn't have missed it for worlds. It needed the joy-bells of a wedding to rouse me from my sleepiness. I was turning into a regular Miss Van Winkle."

"The ideal. You don't look a day over 29, auntie." Bettina knelt down on a heap of cushions, and looked up adoringly at the face over which the firelight played. It was a piquant, changeful face, that time had been too much in love with to deface with many lines. The eyes were tender and endearing under their long lashes.

"I am 40, Bettie, and proud of it, proud to have attained such a dubious age and found life sweeter, filled with richer opportunities than ever. Why, I am just beginning to wake up to what a really splendid old world it is. When I was your age, dear, I felt a hundred years old, and was—"

The door opened hesitatingly. It was Bettina's younger sister, Grace.

"Bettie, the bishop's here," she said. "Don't you think you ought to greet him? He asked for you the first thing."

"We'll be down in a minute," sang back the little bride-elect. "Aunt Rose, did I write you that I am to be married by the bishop himself—the dear, splendid bishop, that I've loved and cherished ever since I could toddle?"

Miss Carruthers looked attentively at Bettina.

"What bishop, child?" "Hepburn. Don't you know him, dear? He used to be rector of St. James, oh, years and years ago."

Rose smiled. Fate had surely played a strange trick on her after 20 years. It was foolish, she told herself, that at 40 her pulses should play traitor and start to beat at the mere sound of a voice, the sight of a form. Was it only 20 years ago, or 20,000, since the morning he had found her alone in the old rose garden at Twin Towers? He had been such an eager, boyish wooer in spite of his sober clerical garb. And she, in her blind, girlish narrowness, had sent him from her. She did not care for the life of a clergyman's wife, she told him. She loved society and movement and action. She would share no dreamer's lot. She meant to travel and revel in variety. She had told him that a man who donned the cloak of the prophet in these days was a shirker of the real battle of life.

Now, they called him the fighting bishop. She had followed his career closely, tenderly, through the years. Wherever there had been a chance to raise the standard of the church militant, he had pressed forward. She who had loved action, had slipped into her serene old-maid's life down at Twin Towers in Virginia, and he at whom she had laughed had become the fighter, the man of action. Bettina was actually introducing them in her eager, girlish fashion. The bishop's rich, deep voice broke in on her words.

"But we are old friends, are we not, Miss Carruthers? Do you still teach the roses how to grow?"

He had drawn her a little apart from the others. Tall, lean and clean shaven, with his keen, merry eyes, he made her think of the young rector. Most unaccountably, Miss Carruthers lost her sense of humor and her tender, beautiful lips quivered.

"Paul, Paul, how I wronged you! Oh, don't be kind to me now and try to smooth it over. I was a selfish, untaught girl. I hope life has given you in full measure all the happiness you deserve."

The bishop smiled down at her whimsically. "What sort of happiness, Rose? I am a bachelor."

Here Bettina swept down on them and bore the bishop away to the tea table, where her mother wished to speak to him. Rose slipped back to her room. She would not be missed in the wedding rush of guests, she knew, and she wanted to look at the face the bishop had just seen after 20 years. Unsparingly she raised the window shade, and threw back the softly tinted curtains. Then she moved the little dressing table over in the full daylight and sat down before it to look at herself. And presently she put her head down on her arms and sobbed quietly, almost pitifully for the stupidity of that girl who had taught the roses how to grow 20 years before.

"Do you know, auntie," Bettina told her in strict confidence that night, when she came in and sat on the floor before the fire to braid her hair, "I am almost sure our bishop is seriously smitten with Grace. Wouldn't it be interesting to have a bishop in the family? Keep us all in good order, I think. He admires Grace immensely, and she's 19—almost. How old is the bishop?"

"Forty-four," answered Rose, smilingly. "That won't do at all." But he is such a dear, and I do want to keep him in the family."

"So do I, Bettie," laughed Miss Carruthers.

But the bishop remained heart-whole and very circumspect. The wedding was a junior function, and the girls eddied around him like brook wavelets around the roots of a sturdy oak.

Miss Carruthers was to take an early train. It was in the dim winter dawn that she found her way into the southern express, and as it started, saw the bishop placidly arranging his suit cases in the section across from her. When he found out he was discovered he crossed the aisle.

"But I said goodbye to you last night," exclaimed Rose.

"That was only good night, but I could not contradict you dear, for there were too many spectators. You know, Rose, I never liked spectators. Therefore, I am going down to Virginia with you."

"To Virginia? Why?"

"I am going into the old rose garden with you, and ask you the same question I did 20 years ago, Rose."

"But—"

"Now, don't scold, or plead, for I am surely going. And, dear, if I could have seen your eyes and lips, I should have come years ago. They have grown so tender, so infinitely tender, dear. Surely, they betray you, they are betraying you now."

Rose looked at him wistfully.

"But—the roses are gone."

The bishop laughed.

"You can't scare me off this time, spring is too near. We will brush the snow off the sundial and read the old legend on it. See how well I remember it, dear. 'I only record the hours that are bright.' Let us forget our own lost hours and gather the bright ones while we may. Shall we, Rose?"

"Don't ask me," she answered, softly. "I would rather tell you that in the garden."

WITH MARRIAGE AS MOTIVE

Leap Year Originally Was Given to Proposals by Women by a Royal Edict.

Although most women are well aware of the great privilege which they may enjoy during leap year, it is not to be presumed that they are all equally conversant with the fact that their premarital right was originally secured to them by a statute law of England enacted in 1606 under James I. (1603-1625) which readeth thus: "Albeit it is now become a part of the common laws, in regarde to the social relations of life, that so often as everie besextile year doeth returne, the ladies have the sole privileges, during the time continueth, of making love unto the men, which they may doe, either by words or looks, as unto them seemeth proper, moreover, no man will be entitled to the benefit of clergy who dothe refuse to accept the offers of a ladye, or who dothe in any wise treat her proposals with slight and contumely."

A Scotch statute of 1228, under Alexander II. (1214-1249), however, preceded the above, and will appear to be even more stringent:

"It is statet and ordaint that during the year of his maist blissit majestie, ilk fourth year known as leap-year, ilk maiden lady of both high and low estate, shall hae liberty to bespeak ye man she likes, albeit, if he refuses to tak her to be his wif, he shall be mulcted in the sum of one poundis (£1) or less as his estate may be, except and anis if he can mak it appear that he is betrother to ane woman, that he shall then be free."—From Harper's Weekly, 1865.

Weather Prophets of 150 Years Ago.

A century and a half ago people used to depend upon the weather prognostications of Partridge's Almanac. One day Partridge himself put up at a country inn for dinner. The hostler advised him to stay the night, as it would certainly rain. "Nonsense!" said Partridge, and proceeded on his way. Soon a heavy shower fell, which so impressed the traveler that he instantly rode back to the inn and offered the hostler half a crown if he would tell how he knew the rain was imminent.

"Well," replied the man, with a grin, pocketing the coin, "the truth is, we have Partridge's Almanac here; and he's such a liar, that whenever he promises a fine day we know it will be foul. Today is set down as fine." The weather prophet, like many other weather prophets before and since, passed on discomfited.

CARELESS OF BONDS

School Districts Not Particular Enough About Safety of Their Finances.

Many school districts in the state are not properly safeguarded in that their treasurers are not under lawful bonds. The law provides that the treasurer must give a personal or surety bond for the full amount of money to come into his hands during each year of his term of office. This bond must be at least two sureties, who are liable for the amount and each signer of it must justify in writing and under oath to the amount for which he is holden. The bond cannot be signed by a member of the school board nor is the name of a married woman good on a bond. Practically the only districts in the state which have lost money are those which failed to have their treasurers under proper bonds.

All district money must be kept by the treasurer separate from other funds and must be on hand at all times in actual cash or must be deposited in the name of the treasurer as treasurer in a bank or banks. Any interest accruing on the school money must be placed in the general fund of the district. A treasurer who loans district money to any person or organization, no matter how good security he may have, or who appropriates any interest for his own uses, lays himself liable to fine and imprisonment.

AT OPERA HOUSE TUESDAY.

Do you know who your party boss is? Do you know what kind of a life he leads? Do you know that most of the petty bosses in the large cities are men of dissolute characters? Well if you don't, you should see "The Minister's Daughter" which is the attraction at the Hitchcock Opera House on Tuesday, Sept. 3. Its chief character is a political boss of Chicago, and the author has drawn his picture from life. The play makes a great plea for clean politics and good morals. It created all kinds of comment during its run last spring in Chicago, both from the press, politicians and the clergy. Several prominent ministers have used its theme as the subject for their Sunday sermon.

YOUR OWN RESOURCES.

Make it a point always to endeavor to rely upon your own resources. Unless a man is accustomed to trust to his own resources his talents will never be fully developed, he will never gain that quickness of perception, that promptness of decision, that readiness of action which are essential to the successful conduct of affairs.
