WICKWARE IN LEAD ON COUNTY TICKET

REPUBLICANS ELECTED ENTIRE CO. TICKET.

Progressives Carry Tuscola County for Presidential and Congressional Candidates.

New County Officers.
Judge of probate, D. Healy Clark.
Sheriff, D. Knox Hanna.
County clerk, Robt. Brown.
County treasurer, Henry S. Wickware.
Register of deeds, Joseph Walton.

Coroners, Sherman F. Chase, Carroll W. Clark.
Drain commissioner, Albert Hunter.
Surveyor, Lawson M. Brumley.

Tuscola county Republicans elected their ticket by majorities ranging from 500 to 50. The lowest majority was that accorded the candidate for register of deeds.

Henry S. Wickware of Cass City led the ticket, where candidates were opposed by Progressives, by a majority ranging between 400 and 500. D. Healy Clark, elected probate judge, probably received a larger vote than Mr. Wickware, but he had no Progressive opposition.

Roosevelt carried Tuscola by a majority ranging between 400 and 500. Musselman was first in the race for governor, Watkins second and Ferris third.

Terry Corliss for state senator in the 21st. district carried Tuscola county by a majority near 1,500.

A. L. Chandler won in the race in this county for congressman by a small majority over Fordney.

PRISCILLAS ENTERTAINED.

Miss Lura De Witt entertained the members of the Priscilla club on Halloween at a masquerade party. As the guests arrived a large sign on the door asked them to be quiet. Upon knocking they were admitted by a ghost and conducted to a room lighted only by two small jack-o-lanterns. Here they remained until all the guests had arrived. The ghost then conducted them to a lighted room, handed them pencil and paper and told them to 'guess' who's who? 'Twas then the guests discovered that they didn't know each other as well as they had thought for among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, Gold Dust twins, two country lassies, a clown, Red Riding Hood, an Egyptian lady, an Indian maid and a perfectly up to date young man. The evening was spent in various guessing games and Halloween stunts with a tempting autumnal luncheon at a table fittingly decorated later.

WILSON ELECTORS NOW TOTAL 387

ROOSEVELT IS SECOND WITH 89;
TAFT HAS 12.

Uncertainty of a Few States Will not Change Final Results.

Only the uncertainty of a few close states whose electoral vote in no way can effect the election of Wilson and Marshall; speculation over the popular vote of the three presidential candidates, and the complexion of legislatures that will name United States senators held interest Wednesday night in the final returns of Tuesday's general election.

The total of the Republican electoral column apparently was fixed at the 12 votes of Idaho, Utah and Vermont, but the footing of the Wilson and Roosevelt columns flickered alternately during the afternoon and night, as late returns from Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wyoming gave indications of change from the results accepted previously.

On the basis of the latest returns early in the evening with the vote of Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wyoming placed in the "doubtful" column, President-elect Wilson had 387 certain votes in the electors college; Colonel Roosevelt 89 and President Taft 12.

Whether the Democrats, in the widespread victories of Tuesday, have secured control also of the United States senate is a question that will not be settled for a day or two. In many states where counting was still going on last night, the control of the legislatures is in doubt.

A by-phase of the general election that became known Wednesday was the success of woman's suffrage in four of the five states where constitutional amendments were submitted to the people. The victory of the women was complete in Kansas, Arizona and Michigan; late returns from Oregon indicated they had succeeded there also, while from Wisconsin came returns showing the decisive defeat of the equal suffrage proposal.

SPRING LAMB 170 LBS.

John Profit, Jr., Sold Animal for $9.35.

Schwaderer Bros. & Striffler, local stock buyers, shipped six decks of live stock from Cass City to eastern markets Saturday.

Alfred Wallace, one of the hustling farmers of Elkland township, received a check for $260.00 from this firm for five head of cattle. John Profit, Jr., another farmer from the same township, sold the largest spring lamb of the season. The animal tipped the scales at 170 pounds and the owner received $9.35 for it.

PASSENGER TRAINS FROM CARO TO WILMOT

Traffic on D., B. C. & W. R. R.
Starts Monday Morning to Wilmot.

Freight and passenger traffic on the Detroit, Bay City & Western Railroad will start Monday from Caro to Wilmot. Two passenger trains are scheduled. The first train will arrive at Wilmot at 8:00 a. m. and return west to Caro at 8:15 a. m. Another passenger train will arrive at Wilmot at 5:00 p. m. and leave at 5:15.

Cement blocks are on the ground for building a union station at the junction of the P., O. & N. and D., B. C. & W. railroads at Wilmot. The foundation for the building has already been laid. The old P. O. & N. depot building was moved the first of this week from its old site to the junction point of the two roads, about ¼ mile south from the village. This will be used until the new station is completed.

Workmen are now engaged in drilling a well and laying the foundation piers for a water tank on the banks of the river next to the D., B. C. & W. track.

COOPER-REAGH

Miss Laura Cooper and John Reagh
Married on Election Day.

A quiet marriage service was performed at the Presbyterian manse at Caro by Rev. Lashley, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when John Reagh and Miss Laura Cooper, both of Cass City, were united in the bonds of matrimony. Miss Mary Gulick acted as bridesmaid and Lloyd Reagh, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride was becomingly gowned in a blue silk voile trimmed with cream lace.

After the ceremony the couple went directly to their farm home in Ellington township where they will be at home to their host of friends.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

Topics for Sunday services; Morning, "Wild Grapes;" Evening, "The Honey Tongue."

The young people have made a fine start on the piano fund.

The debate on woman suffrage at the church Friday night was interesting. The young people acquitted themselves creditably and of course the suffragists won, but we understand there are some who are now in favor of the recall of judges.

About fifty of the young people gathered in the church parlors Tuesday evening for a social time. "Best time ever" was the universal verdict. Miss Krapf's generalship was thoroughly appreciated by all.

The Epworth League business and social meeting will be held at the home of the Misses Gable Friday evening.

On account of the pastor's absence in Detroit on conference committee work next week, the class leaders will have charge of the prayer meetings.

MR. AND MRS. N. McLAREN WRITE FROM BISHOP, CAL.

Find Mountain Scenery in the Golden State Very Beautiful and Interesting.

Bishop, California,
Oct. 24, 1912.

Dear Chronicle:

As it is now time to renew our subscription, will also write a few lines to the friends many of whom we would enjoy seeing very much. It is now over a year since we landed in California. Will say the longer we are here the better we like it. The past year has been a very prosperous one, much more so than we anticipated. The crops were very good. The ranchers have taken off three or four crops of alfalfa hay this season. They also raise lovely fruit. We were surprised to know they raise everything here that is grown in the east with the exception of potato bugs and Canada thistles.

We took a short trip to the mountains this summer which was about 26 miles. On the way stopped at Round Valley and found Mr. Parent's people well and prospering. The mountain scenery is beautiful beyond description. We were only 6,295 feet above sea level, yet it seemed pretty high when at the summit looking down into Rock Creek.

Our carnival this year was a great success and surpassed anything they had ever had in the valley. Large numbers were here from South California. The Cass City friends will be pleased to know that one of our Michigan girls, Miss Florence Hill, was crowned Queen of the Valley. The western people seem very enthusiastic in whatever they undertake and do not seem to think of the cost. Remember us kindly to the friends. Would be pleased to have them visit us in California.

MR. AND MRS. N. McLAREN.

SANILAC COUNTY'S VOTE

Sheriff Graham Defeated by Republican Candidate.

Early reports from Sanilac county indicate that the entire Republican county ticket was elected. Sheriff Graham lacked 600 or 700 votes, according to Wednesday's figures, to secure him the second term.

Cramton carried Sanilac for congressman and Roosevelt for president.

HURON COUNTY RETURNS

Vote Was Close on Office of Drain Commissioner.

The Republican county ticket in Huron was elected. The vote was closest on drain commissioner, where the majority was reduced to 100. X. A. Boomhower won out in the race for prosecutor by a majority near 1,200. The winner for the office of state representative is still unknown. Roosevelt carried the county.

HOW IT WENT IN MICHIGAN

LATE RETURNS GIVE FERRIS
13,000 PLURALITY.

Appearance of Bull Moose Ticket After Battle Began Broke Party Lines as Never Before.

Up to 1:30 o'clock Thursday morning complete returns on the presidential vote had been received at Detroit from fewer than 25 per cent of the counties in Michigan. In an estimated total vote of about 560,000 Roosevelt's plurality probably will be 30,000.

With 17 districts missing the state legislature seemed safely Republican, thus ensuring the re-election of U. S. Senator William Alden Smith.

The election of W. N. Ferris, Democratic candidate for governor, is conceded by the Republicans here by a plurality of 13,000. Late returns have slightly increased the Big Rapids schoolmaster's lead over his opponent, Amos Muselman, Republican and E. Whitney Watkins, Progressive. Roosevelt will probably carry the state by 30,000, even Wayne county returning a majority on the later returns.

The balance of the state ticket is much in doubt. Many Republican office holders and seekers for re-election fear that Ferris has defeated the entire state Republican ticket. P. H. Kelley, however, appears a favorite in the race for congressman-at-large.

FORDNEY CARRIES 8TH DISTRICT BY 1,576 VOTES

Chandler Crowds Purcell for Second Place and Is Third, 1,796 Votes
Behind Fordney.

Congressman Fordney's plurality over Miles J. Purcell in the eighth congressional contest is 1,576. A. L. Chandler, the Progressive candidate ran third, and complete returns put him 220 behind Mr. Purcell and 1,796 votes shy of Rep. Fordney's total. The complete returns follow:

Saginaw county—Fordney, 5,961; Purcell, 6,371; Chandler, 4,054. Shiawassee (complete)—Fordney, 2,361; Purcell, 1,946; Chandler, 2,920. Clinton (complete)—Fordney, 1,964; Purcell, 1,838; Chandler, 1,336. Tuscola — Fordney, 2,733; Purcell, 1,283; Chandler, 2,853.

FAIR EXCHANGE.

A New Back for an Old One—How a Resident Made a Bad Back Strong.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame that to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back if the kidney are weak. You cannot reach the cause. Follow the example of this Cass City citizen.

W. C. Dickinson, Main St., Cass City, Mich., says: "I received great benefit from Doan's Kidney Pills and therefore feel justified in recommending them. Straining was the cause of my kidneys becoming disordered. My back was weak and often I was seized by a catch in my loins when I attempted to lift. The kidneys secretions were also unnatural and irregular in passage, causing much annoyance. After using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wood & Co.'s Drug Store, my condition improved greatly and I was soon free from every symptom of kidney complaint."

WELL PREPARED REPORT

Commissioner Kelley's Annual Gives Complete Information on Status on His Work.

The annual report of Wm. W. Kelley, county drain commissioner, was filed last week for the consideration of the board of supervisors. The document recites that weather conditions during the year have been decidedly adverse to satisfactory progress of drains in course of construction, and for this reason the ratio of applications to lettings is greater than usual. There has also been some delay in getting matters closed up, but it is expected there will be a greater number of lettings during the next three months.

Twelve drains reported as incomplete at last annual report have been finished; several others are practically complete. Over a dozen drains let during the past year are in varying stages of progress, and are given detailed mention.

Twenty-one applications, comprising original drains, deepening, widening, extending, etc. have been acted on favorably and action taken toward final location and establishment.

The report also submits a financial statement for the year ending September 30, showing debits, credits and balances for sixty drains. The report is comprehensive and well prepared with reference to giving definite and detailed information on the work of the drain commissioner's office. Mr. Kelley's term expires December 31, and he will leave the office with a record of much work faithfully performed.—Caro Courier.

MAKE MONEY SAVE YOUR BEANS

Do not let your Beans spoil if you got them in damp. Thresh them and bring them in.

We will dry them for you.

If the price we are paying is $2.40 per bushel, hand picked basis, we will pay you $2.30 for DAMP BEANS (deducting 10c per bushel for drying) and 2 to 5 pounds per bushel for shrinkage, according to how damp they are.

If you try to DRY them at home they will shrink in weight 2 to 5 pounds per bushel and it will cost you nearly 10c per bushel in labor, besides your quality would be much poorer. You are also taking a chance of the market going lower.

HAPPENINGS IN THE CITIES

Shylock's Insistency Beaten by a Black Portia

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—Notwithstanding the fact that the United States Constitution declares that no one shall be imprisoned for debt, the effort is sometimes made to use the police court as a collecting agency, generally by a creditor preferring a charge of obtaining goods by false pretences or embezzlement.

There was a reversal of this procedure the other day at the police court when Elsie Allen, a tall, gaunt negro woman of forbidding aspect, was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct based on her efforts to collect a debt of 20 cents.

The old woman acted as her own attorney in the case and in the ability to ask rambling questions easily came up to any of the distinguished practitioners that daily haunt the city forum.

The principal witness against the amiable Elsie was a Xanthic colored maiden of elephantine proportions named Molly Maybray. Molly's statement was to the effect that she had purchased 20 cents worth of peaches from the angular Elsie, and that she intended to pay for them sometime before the winter holidays. According to Molly's testimony, Shylock was not more insistent for his pound of flesh than was Elsie for her two dimes, the aforesaid insistency resulting in an attack on the fairy form of the corpulent Molly.

"Do you want to question the witness?" asked the judge at the conclusion of the statement of Molly.

"Does ah want to ax any questions?" snorted Elsie. "In course ah does. Didn't ah gin yo dat basket er peaches fur 20 cents?"

"Ah reckon so."

"Did yo' pay me dem two dimes when ah axed yo' fur 'em like er lady?"

"Lak er lady! Yo' said if ah didn't pay yo' would frow er brick at me head."

"Did yo' gin me dat change?"

"Ah done tole yo' ah didn't have no money."

"Yo' ain't payed me twell yet, is yo'?"

"No."

"Dar yo' is," said Elsie, triumphantly addressing the Caledonian on the bench.

"That will do" commented his honor. "You are discharged, but you must not undertake to collect any debt by such forceful methods."

Elsie glared at the judge a moment and said:

"Ah bet ah gets dat 20 cents befo' dat yaller nigger is er day older."

TWO CONSECUTIVE HITS.

An American Clergyman's Brilliant Performance in Paris.

A well known illustrator while studying in Paris was visited by his father, a dignified and amiable old clergyman from the west. The student took great delight in conducting his father about and showing off the real life of the Parisians. One evening in a quaint cafe the father sat on a sort of balcony watching excitable men gesticulating and talking to each other, when the reverend gentleman inadvertently put his hand on a siphon of vichy and squirted a stream straight into the face of an anarchistic looking individual at a table below. The cafe was in an uproar at once. The two Americans were surrounded by Frenchmen, talking vehemently, demanding explanations and apology, and it was only on arrival of the proprietor that order was restored.

"LIKE THIS, YOU SEE"—

The men resumed their places, and the interrupted meal was taken up again. The clergyman, agast at his mishap, kept brooding over the matter, showing a wistful desire to set himself right with his son at least.

"Why, Rob," he said earnestly, laying a trembling finger on the siphon, "I just touched the bottle—barely touched it—like this, you see!"

There was a hiss of charged water, followed by a rumble of fury from the table below. The clergyman had repeated his performance with unerring aim, the stream striking the long haired Frenchman in the identical spot of the first performance. There was no use attempting a second apology. The two Americans seized their hats and fled from the gathering wrath.—New York Press.

Risky Chance.

She was a little bit of a girl and was canvassing the neighborhood with a "chance" book in an effort to enlist public sympathy and ten cent pieces in an individual charity. She went up to the big brownstone house bravely in spite of her childish nervousness. A very pretty young woman answered the bell.

"Lady, please," she stammered out, "won't you take a chance on an old man sick in bed?"—Everybody's.

Beyond Him.

In our north of England town there was a shiftless man who would never accept gifts outright, although he was always depending on charity, says Al Priddy in his book, "Through the Mill."

He painted landscapes, and my aunt, when benevolently inclined, would hire him to decorate our walls with rural scenes, highly colored in glaring tints, as if nature had turned color blind. There were cows in every scene, and Aunt Millie noticed that all the cows were up to their knees in water. Not one stood clear on the vivid green hills.

"Jorvey," she remarked to the old man, "why do you always put the cows in the water?"

"It's this way, Mrs. Brindin," the old artist responded. "You see, ma'am, I never learned to paint 'oofs."

In Distress.

Not long ago a bottle, tightly corked, was picked up by a resident of St. Brevin, France. He took it to the maritime authorities. They saw that the message was written on stationery of an English steamship line and so hastily sent for the British consul. With much solemnity the message was handed to him, and this is what he read:

"Ship in distress. No whisky on board. Fill the bottle and return it."

A Very Funny Englishman.

A story is told concerning Beerbohm Tree, who, after an evening at one of the London clubs, called a hansom from a nearby stand he frequently patronized.

"Home," shouted Tree to the cabby, who was a new one about town.

"Beg pardon," said the man.

"Home," repeated Tree in commanding tone, and the driver whipped up his horse. He drove his fare about for half an hour or so and then returned again. Stopping his horse and arousing the sleepy actor, he apologized and asked to what number he should drive.

"Home," thundered Mr. Tree, this time thoroughly indignant.

"And where might your home be?" queried the cabby, shaking in his boots.

"You idiot," replied Tree, "do you think I'm going to tell you where my beautiful home is?"

Go-Cart Is Cause of Mix-Up in Thrilling Comedy

DETROIT, MICH.—"The Comedy of a Go-Cart" would be an apt title for a sketch in which a woman, her two little children, a boy and a trolley car figured the other afternoon. The curtain rose when E. H. Lerchen, 146 Tuxedo avenue, hired Ed Schultz, aged sixteen, 322 Hunt street, to take a go-cart to his sister on the West side. From then on the action was swift.

Ed boarded a Jefferson car and not having any little brothers and sisters who use one of the tiny carriages, he forgot all about Mr. Lerchen's when he alighted from the car at Fourth and Grand River avenues.

In a few seconds it dawned on Ed that he must be in that part of the city for something.

"Ah, ha, I have it," exclaimed the boy. "I was to deliver Mr. Lerchen's go-cart. But where is it?" he asked himself, feeling in his pockets. "Must have left it on the car," he said finally.

Ed appealed to a patrolman, who advised him to wait on the corner for the car to return and recover the cart. That appeared logical, so he sat down on the curb to wait.

After a while a pay-enter came along and Ed saw a go-cart on the rear platform. He jumped at the conclusion that it was Mr. Lerchen's. He stopped the car and the platform door swung open. Before the conductor could close it again Ed had the go-cart and was making off.

Mrs. Frank Marvin, 278 McGraw avenue, spied him. She had two little children with her, but that didn't deter her. She grabbed them both and made a race for Ed.

"Where are you going with my go-cart?" she commanded. "Put it down this instant."

But Ed ignored her and tried to continue his journey. Mrs. Marvin wouldn't have it that way and there was a struggle for possession of the cart. The boy wouldn't let go and Mrs. Marvin clung on. Somebody called the police and Mrs. Marvin, the children, Ed and the go-cart were given a ride to police headquarters.

Municipal Elephant Serves as a Thief Chaser

MINNIE, the municipal elephant, the mother day rescued Mrs. Jennie Plau, 3338 Paris avenue, from three hoodlums in the Brookside Park woods. Minnie dispersed the young men and nearly caught one of them in an exciting chase down the side of one of the peaks that rise across Big Creek opposite the Fulton road entrance.

Mrs. Plau is the wife of Paul Plau, Minnie's keeper. She had taken her young son, Arthur, eight years old, to the park to accompany Minnie and her husband on their morning walk before the visitors began to throng the meadows and woods.

Minnie is becoming very sure-footed and climbs hills like a goat, Plau says. On the morning of the adventure he had taken on a high path, fringed with bushes, that runs near the edge of the cliff. Mrs. Plau and her son had preceded the keeper and the pachyderm by 100 feet or more.

Suddenly three young men jumped from behind a clump of trees and one of them made for her. Mrs. Plau carried a handbag with $40 in it in notes and she screamed.

Plau and the elephant arrived in a hurry. The boys had not seen the elephant, which had been concealed by the bushes.

"One of the boys was only a few feet away from Mrs. Plau when Minnie saw him," said Plau. "I had heard the elephant snort a little while before and I thought either a man or a dog was near."

"Go after him, Minnie," I told the elephant and she did. It was the first time I had ever seen her try to injure anyone and she surely did try to get that fellow. He dodged behind a tree and then ran down hill. Minnie went after him, but the grade saved him. Minnie is slow in going down hill."

Homes Disrupted and City Divided By Lobster

PHILADELPHIA.—This city is agitated as over a question which baffles solution. Wherever one goes it is being discussed. Arguments have arisen, fights have followed and arrests resulted. Homes have become disrupted and the whole city is practically divided into two factions.

The question is: "What is a lobster?"

It was handed up to a higher court here the other day by a police magistrate after he had spent a week in conferring with the leading lobster authorities all over the country.

The case is that of John Hauducaur, a chef in a local hotel, who was arrested on a charge of cruelty to animals for placing a wooden peg in the first joint back of the claw of a lobster to prevent it from snapping.

The case was argued today before Police Magistrate Haggerty by two lawyers, an amateur fisherman from Maine, a member of the cruelty society and the proprietor of the hotel. The fisherman declared that he was well acquainted with lobsters and that he never knew one that lived in salt water that could feel pain. The attorney for the society then pleaded that all animals experienced pain and that the chef was guilty of cruelty.

The defense argued that the charge fell because the lobster is not an animal. Then the same argument that caused the adjournment of court a week ago arose and the magistrate threw his hands up in despair.

"It's too much for me," he said, "I'll hold the defendant in $100 bonds and let the court decide the matter."

When the action of the court was announced, several fights occurred in various saloons where wagers had been placed on the outcome of the case. In the meantime the defense is planning to make a bitter fight and to carry the case up as high as it will go, provided a judgment is rendered against the chef.

The Roman Forum.

There were many forums in Rome, but the oldest and most famous was not created like a building at a certain time. The Forum Romanum was originally the lowlands between the Palatine, Capitoline and Quirinal hills, used as a meeting place for barter and politics by the tribes living on the hills named and on other hills near by. The development of this crude trading place and neutral ground into the Roman forum of later times was very gradual and irregular.

A Speedy Recovery.

On one of the visits of the American fleet to English waters Admiral Erben was in command, with Captain Alfred T. Mahan, the writer on naval affairs, as his flag captain. One morning Captain Mahan came to his admiral with an invitation to dine with a duke which he had received.

"I can't accept," said Captain Mahan, "as they forgot to invite you." "I should say you couldn't," growled the admiral. "I'll answer for you." Whereupon the admiral wrote: "Admiral Erben, United States navy, regrets that Captain Mahan, his flag captain, cannot accept the invitation of the Duke of Blank. Captain Mahan is on the sick list."

An hour or so later a messenger from the duke returned with invitations for the admiral and the captain, whereupon the admiral wrote again:

"Admiral Erben accepts with pleasure the invitation for Captain Mahan and himself. He wishes also to advise the Duke of Blank that he has taken Captain Mahan off the sick list."

The Superseded.

As newer comers crowd the fore We drop behind. We who have labored long and sore Times out of mind And keen are yet must not regret To drop behind.

Yet there are of us some who grieve To go behind, Stanch, strenuous souls who scarce believe Their fires declined And know none cares, remembers, spares Who go behind.

'Tis not that we have unforgotten The drop behind, We feel the new must oust the old In every kind, But yet we think must we, must we, Too, drop behind?

—Thomas Hardy.

Worse Yet!

Wilton Lackaye, the actor, once made a dramatization of "Les Miserables." He had spent much time on his work. The dramatization of the Hugo masterpiece had been one of the dreams of his early youth. Truly, the completed drama was to the actor as a child he dearly loved. But when Mr. Lackaye tried to interest theatrical capital in the production he found dearth of enthusiasm. Every one knew that Lackaye had dramatized "Les Miserables," and it was one of the live topics of Broadway. Oscar Hammerstein met Lackaye in this particular period, and his first question was:

"Wilton, have you got a manager to produce 'Les Miserables'?"

And to this Lackaye sarcastically replied:

"A manager to produce it! I haven't found a manager that can pronounce it."—Kansas City Star.

Result of the Chase.

John Burroughs is well known as one of the foremost of nature writers in this country. Some time ago he visited his brother, Eden Burroughs, who lives in the Catskills, at a place called Hobart. The two brothers went fox hunting together. The honor of the hunt came to Eden, who shot the only fox. It so happened that foxskins were worth about $5 at that time, and the successful Nimrod took much pride in telling how he got the better of the sage of Slabside. Later, in boasting to a few friends about it in the presence of his brother, John, he was interrupted by: "You have bragged about that fox hunt long enough. You shot the fox, sold the skin and got $5. I wrote a little account of the hunt and got $75 from the magazine which published it. So there you are!"

Four of a Kind.

Judge Isaac Russell, chief justice of the court of special sessions of New York city, undertook a private and unannounced tour of inspection among the various corrective and charitable institutions of his jurisdiction, says the Saturday Evening Post. Late in the afternoon he entered the outer office of one of the insane asylums.

"I should like to make a trip through this place," he said to an underkeeper who chanced to be in sole charge of the office temporarily.

"Visitors' days are Wednesdays and Saturdays," said the keeper shortly. "and, besides, it's after hours."

"But I insist on being shown through," said his honor.

"Well, you've got a nerve!" growled the keeper. "Who are you to be givin' me orders?"

"I am Chief Justice Russell of the court of special sessions," was the answer.

"That'll be about all," said the keeper wearily. "We've got three of you in here now. Why don't you call yourself George Washington? There's only one of him."

Too Much Riding.

A Kansas man who stutters badly visited Chicago and got into the elevator of one of the skyscrapers. He worked his jaw frantically, but could not get the elevator boy to understand what floor he wanted until he had been carried up fourteen stories above where he wanted to go. Then he came down to the lower floor and started up again. After he had gone through this performance several times he stepped out in disgust and hunted up the man who was directing the running of the elevators. "S-s-say," he stammered, "w-w-w-would y-you m-m-mind speakin' t-to th-th-that f-f-feller in th-that cage? I w-w-w-w-want t-to st-stop at the s-s-sixth f-floor, b-b-b-b-before I can s-s-say s-s-sixth h-he has me up t-to t-the t-twenty-s-seventh."—Kansas City Star.

the contents. The letter was written in Spanish, as the child cannot write English, although she speaks it well.

Translated, the letter reads: "Dear Mr. President Taft—My papa is not a murderer. He is a brave soldier fighting for his country. Please don't let the American soldiers give my grandpa to Mr. Madero, for Mr. Madero would shoot him, and that would kill poor grandpa."

The Orozco children are living in Los Angeles in temporary exile because of the disturbed conditions in Mexico.

A large party of Camarillo and Oxnard people were in attendance. Games of various kinds were played and refreshments served."

Now Is The Time

Pretty soon the leaves will begin to turn scarlet and yellow and brown. The cold days are coming---are you ready for them?

It's not too early to plan for heating during the cold months. You'll probably need a new stove---and you want the best one.

You can have every room in your home warm and comfortable day and night this winter---and with less expense than you paid last year for heating one or two rooms---if you buy a Favorite Base Burner.

The Favorite is the only base burner that pours heat into the house from every square inch of its surface. Every nook and corner---upstairs and down---may be luxuriously and evenly warmed with a Favorite.

You cannot afford to buy a stove without investigating the Favorite. Come and see us now, and we will show you why the base burner that bears this mark will throw out more heat, and consume about half as much fuel as other makes.

DON'T BE BALD.

Nearly Any One May Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

We have a remedy that has a record of retarding baldness and promoting hair growth in 93 out of every 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. That may seem like a strong statement---it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until he has put our claims to an actual test.

We are so certain Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will eradicate dandruff, act to prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, arrest premature loss of hair and promote hair growth, that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid us for it in every instance where it does not give entire satisfaction to the user. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is delightfully perfumed, and does not grease or gum the hair. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. With our guarantee back of it, you certainly take no risk. Sold only at our store---The Rexall Store.

A WOMAN'S WISDOM.

The worried mother wakes up to hear her baby's heavy breathing---a little cough---perhaps the croup or whooping cough. She does not want to send for the doctor when perhaps the trouble does not amount to much. Finally she thinks of that medical book her father gave her, The Common Sense Medical Adviser, by R. V. Pierce, M. D. She says "just the thing to find out what is the matter with the little dear." Two million households in this country own one---and it's to be had for only 31c. in stamps---1,000 pages in splendid cloth binding. A good family adviser in any emergency. It is for either sex. This is what many women write Dr. Pierce---in respect to his "Favorite Prescription," a remedy which has made thousands of melancholy and miserable women cheerful and happy, by curing the painful womanly diseases which undermine a woman's health and strength.

"My desire is to write a few lines to let you know what your valuable medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. MARGARET ZUEBERT, of 323 S. Bentalon Street, Baltimore, Md. "Before the stork came to our house I was a very sick woman. I wrote you for advice which was kindly given and which made me a different woman in a short time. After taking the first bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' I began improving so that I hardly knew I was in such a condition. I did my own housework---washing and ironing, cooking, sewing, and the worst of all nursed three children who had whooping cough. I hardly knew of the advent ten minutes before---so easy was it. The baby is as fat as a butter-bail. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best medicine for any woman to take when in this condition. I recommend it to all my friends."

Miss Irene Frutchev entertained a number of her girl friends at a Halloween party last Wednesday afternoon and evening. About 4:30 p. m. Mr. Frutchev's auto called for the girls and they were taken for a long ride which lasted until supper-time. A bounteous Halloween supper was served to them and the rooms were very artistically decorated. After supper, many games were played and as no one won the prize, which was a large box of chocolates, the box was opened and everyone enjoyed the contents.

The Young Peoples Alliance of the Evangelical church held their monthly business meeting at the home of Ben and Miss Kate Schwegler Tuesday evening. There were 32 present and after the business meeting a social time was enjoyed. A guessing contest was participated in and Harvey Klinkman was fortunate in winning the prize. A bounteous luncheon was served and the guests departed in a very pleasant state of mind despite the rain. A box social has been planned for the members of the society Friday, November 15, at the home of Rev. Schweitzer and all Y. P. A. members are invited. The proceeds of the function will be used to make a payment on the piano which the young people have purchased.

Misses Ruth Fritz and Helen McGregory entertained a number of their school friends at a Halloween party last Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Fritz. The rooms were decorated in a becoming manner and all sorts of Halloween stunts were participated in, such as bobbing for apples and roasting marshmallows. Refreshments consisted of apples, popcorn, candy and roasted marshmallows, which were served in an interesting way. The lights were turned out and a small jack-o-lantern used, then the guests all seated themselves on the floor and the refreshments served in large tin dishes from which each one helped himself. Everyone had a very good time and voted Misses Fritz and McGregory excellent entertainers.

New York, Nov. 6.—It was not long after the returns began to pour in until the Herald and other papers conceded victory for Woodrow Wilson in a majority of eastern states and throughout the south.

At 7 o'clock George W. Perkins and Senator Dixon conceded all eastern states to Wilson. Their only hope for Roosevelt at that hour was that there would be a landslide for their candidate in the west.

The Washington Times, Frank A. Munsey's Washington paper, concedes

Woodrow Wilson's election "by a tremendous sweep."

Chairman William Barnes, jr. of the Republican state committee, made the statement that Governor Wilson will carry New York state by a majority of between 10,000 and 150,000.

The Evening Mail, one of the Roosevelt organs in this city, conceded the state to Wilson and claimed second place for Roosevelt.

Woodrow Wilson, whose experience in active politics is only a little more than two years old, will be the next president.

The election of Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey as president and Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana as vice-president by a safe majority of electoral votes was made certain by incomplete returns received from the country-at-large up to 10 o'clock.

At 9 o'clock Tuesday night Chairman McCombs of the national Democratic committee issued the following statement:

"The victory is now complete. I have received reports which are sufficient to elect Mr. Wilson overwhelmingly and he is elected without any of the western states. The returns are coming in so fast I cannot keep up with them. Wilson has Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Maine, Maryland, New Jersey and all of the south. We have no decided reports from Illinois. Roosevelt seems a little ahead in Cook county, but Wilson is running 2 to 1 down state. A statement has been sent here that Senator Penrose concedes Pennsylvania. I believe Wilson will carry Pennsylvania and Illinois as well as New York by tremendous majorities. National Committeeman King of Oregon, who is here with me, says Wilson will carry Oregon by a good majority and that we will carry the legislature there."

The Victor's Way Of Looking At It

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 6.—When assured that he was called to the high office of president of the United States, Gov. Wilson issued a statement in which he said:

"A great cause has triumphed. Every Democrat, every true progressive of whatever type, must now lend his full force to the fulfillment of the people's hope, the establishment of the people's right, that justice and progress may go hand in hand."

Roosevelt's Remarks On Wilson's Triumph

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Shortly before midnight Col. Roosevelt made the following statement:

"The American people by a great plurality have decided in favor of Mr. Wilson and the Democratic party. Like all good citizens I accept the result with entire good humor and contentment. As for the Progressive cause, I can only repeat what I have already so many times said: the fate of the leader for the time being is of little consequence, but the cause itself must in the end triumph, for its triumph is essential to the wellbeing of the American people."

Col. Roosevelt sent the following telegram to Gov. Wilson:

"The American people by a great plurality have conferred upon you the highest honor in their gift. I congratulate you thereon."

President Taft's

Comment on Result

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 6.—At the home of Charles P. Taft, his brother, President Taft issued a statement at midnight in which he conceded the election of Governor Wilson.

Commenting on the result of the election President Taft says:

"In this, our great country, it is the duty of citizens who have held office to retire gracefully, quite as much as to perform the work of their office faithfully. That the will of the American people may be realized has been and is now my greatest wish. I am a Republican; I believe in Republican principles, and this is one of them."

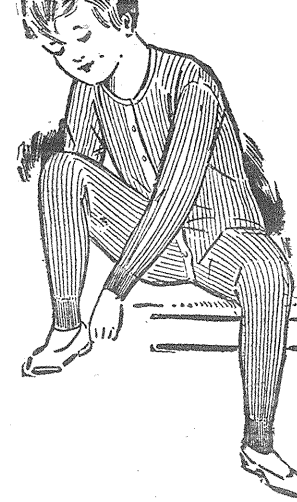

Worry.

Worry is one of the most fatal of all transgressions. It is a sin against not one organ of the body, but against the whole body. It is a vice whose pressure is felt upon the heart, and there is not a capillary in any gland or tissue which does not shrink under the glance of its gloomy eyes.

He was about to board a car on his way home from Detroit but fell backwards and was struck by another car and killed instantly. Jas. Allen went to Orion Monday to attend the funeral which was held on Wednesday.

A young man by the name of Edwards was arrested here Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Striffler on the charge of entering the home of Mrs. Cooley near Wickware and conducting himself in an ungentlemanly manner on Oct. 27. Sheriff Graham of Sandusky came to Cass City and Edwards returned to the Sanilac county seat with him Sunday.

The young ladies of Miss Audrey Pell's Sunday school class of the M. E. church had a walking party last Wednesday evening to the home of Jos. H. Wood. Mr. Wood's farm is 1½ miles from Cass City and the girls walked both ways. Among the entertainments of the evening was a reading by Miss Seva Withey and a piano solo by Miss Edna Wood. A four course luncheon was served and after a lingering farewell the girls started back to town, reaching here happy though tired.

HERE THERE and EVERYWHERE

Miss Anna Mahon has been re-elected a member of the county board of school examiners in Sanilac county.

Huron county's board of supervisors has decided to again submit the matter of a new court house to the voters at next April's election.

The Gagetown Grain Co.'s, elevator is now enjoying steam heat throughout their establishment. The bean department just added is completed and a full force of women and Huron county's board of supervisors gave the Hubbard Memorial hospital at Bad Axe a substantial boost in the way of finances when they voted $1,000 to assist in paying for the new addition now being built. ness of the village.—Blade.

Sunday last Herb Kreh, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kreh, of Pigeon, invited his friends, Frank Moyer, Chester Ruby, and Lawrence Draher for a ride in his car. When going on the road south of Pigeon, at very fast speed, in some way Mr. Draher lost control of the car and the machine turned over. Kreh's three companions were thrown clear of the car but he was not so fortunate. Two of his ribs were broken and he is also severely internally injured.—Pigeon Progress.

At Monday's special election in Sebawaing on the proposition to bond the village for $6000 to meet expenses in connection with the lighting plant 92 votes were cast in favor and 60 against. As a proposition of this kind requires a two-thirds vote to carry it lost out by a very small margin. The general fund of the village is nearly exhausted and it looks as though it will be only a matter of a short time before there will be no money on hand to carry on the bus-iness as busy picking beans.

Surveyors for Handy Bros. of Bay City are at work laying out a line from Akron to Sebawaing along which they intend laying a track to connect Sebawaing with the Detroit, Bay City & Western railroad at Akron. They are now within a few miles from town. As soon as the surveyors are through the right-of-way will be secured. Just when the laying of the rails will be begun we do not know, but we expect to have more to say about it next week. The new road, if built, will be hailed with delight by Sebawaing — Sebawaing Blade.

It is unfortunate that it should occur in Minden, or for that matter in any town. The people were aroused last Friday when it was discovered that the home of Mrs. Stipe had been damaged by vandals. Nearly every window pane on three sides of the house was broken. A pail of tar outside was emptied on the kitchen floor and stones rolled in on the tar were thrown on the carpeted rooms. Mrs. Stipe is a widow and no known motive is known why such a dastardly trick should be perpetrated. Mrs. Stipe was away at the time. It is needless to say that if the persons are discovered the citizens of the village would give summary punishment.—Minden Herald.

THE VALUE OF GOOD ROADS

Of Great Benefit to Farmer As Well As Town People.

"What Good Roads Mean to a Community," is the subject of an article in the Southern Agriculturist. It says:

"First, they mean a decreased expense in hauling produce to market and in getting goods home from town. A farmer in Sullivan, Tennessee, in 1908 had to haul barbed wire from Kingsport to Bristol, a distance of 25 miles. He found that with a two horse team the largest load he could draw was 500 pounds, and that three days were necessary to make the trip. To haul one ton, therefore, took 12 days, which reckoned at $3. a day for man and team was an expense of $36. A bond issue was finally made and the strip of road over which he had hauled the wire was improved so that the same team can haul a ton to the load and make the round trip in two days at a cost of $6. In Madison county, Tennessee, before the roads were improved a bale of cotton was a load for a team. Now the same team can haul ten bales to the load in less time. Figure it out.

"Second, good roads improve farm values. A farmer in Lee county, Virginia, owned a tract of 100 acres which he offered for $1,800. In 1908 the road past his farm was improved, and though he fought the improvement he has since refused $3,000 for this place. On this same road a tract increased from $6,000 to $9,000 in value after the improvement of this highway.

"Third, road improvement means better access to schools and better schools. It means the facilitation of the rural mail service, which is now seriously handicapped in many places by the condition of the roads. It also means a better and more attractive country and a consequent lessening of the cityward drift of rural population. Let us have more good roads. They are worth while."

MADE DEFINITE

"I hear that you and Jack are to be married."

"Yes, and we have agreed what ever happens, to stay married until the vacation season is over."

One day an impudent, incompetent woman applied. She delivered as her ultimatum that she was to have two afternoons off, the use of the kitchen for the entertainment of her society friends and various other dispensations. General Grant came into the room and heard her.

"Do you speak French?" he asked. "Who? Me? No, sir."

"Do you play on the piano?" "No, sir."

"Well," said the general, "we can't think of having a cook who isn't able to speak French and play on the piano."—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

"FROM THE CAR BEHIND"

In The Detroit News Tribune.

The above is the title of a new serial story which started in The Detroit News Tribune, Thursday morning, Nov. 7. It is a story of a young man through college at 18, his hero worship of a great automobile manufacturer and race car driver, and his defense and protection of his fiancée from the just charge of attempted murder. It carries the thrill of the automobile race track from cover to cover. Did you ever attend a big automobile race? You hear the cry "Car coming," and before you fairly realize what has happened it is past like a flash. In "From the Car Behind," by Eleanor M. Ingram, such a situation arises. This story also has a fine love theme running through it, and aside from interesting automobile lovers will prove a great attraction to every man, woman and child who is fortunate to read it. You can only get this splendid, thrilling romance in The Detroit News Tribune. Be sure and read the first installment Thursday morning, Nov. 7. Advertisement.

SARTORIAL CRUELTY.

Sad Story of a Parisian Smart Set Dame and Her Seven Gowns.

They tell a story of an unfortunate Parisian society woman who, being terribly pushed for a gown to wear at a great occasion and being also in debt to her dressmaker, sold seven gowns for the price of one to Mme. X., who is a shrewd dealer in castoff finery.

Among these gowns was one hardly rumpled and which, though very magnificent, had evidently been worn at most only once. This dress Mme. X. sold as a model to Mme. Y., who was the society woman's dressmaker and who had been obdurate about making another thing for the poor little woman without cash down.

When this "model" came the dressmaker saw a chance for a big return of money, so she compromised with her customer and agreed to let her have a new dress, just imported, for a very low figure, whereas the poor little woman paid all the money she had received for all her dresses, and out Mme. Y. brought the model, newly pressed and touched up.

The poor society woman talked herself blue in the face, but she could not say anything to protect herself without betraying her dealing with Mme. X., so, poor thing, she danced in her old frock after all, having swapped all her other gowns for the privilege.

MARY and the MEAT TRUST

Mary had a little lamb.
With mint sauce on the side;
When Mary saw the Meat Trust's bill,
It shocked her so she cried.

Mary had a little veal—
A cutlet, nicely broiled.
Her papa, to pay for the veal,
All morning sorely toiled.

Mary had a little steak—
A porterhouse, quite small.
And when the bill came in, she sighed,
"No dress for me next fall."

Mary had a little roast—
As juicy as could be—
And Mary's papa simply went Right into bankruptcy.

Mary isn't eating meat;
She has a better plan,
She vows it's ladylike to be
A vegetarian.

The Clutch.

"Oh, sir, if you could only give me something to do—any kind of work, so that I may make enough to keep soul and body together!"

It was a beautiful, though emaciated, woman who spoke. The man to whom her remarks were addressed looked at her with surprise.

"Why," he said, "how came it that a young woman of your evident refinement and culture is seeking menial employment?"

"Oh, sir, I will tell you. My father once was prosperous and successful; he made plenty of money and was lavish in its expenditure for the comfort and well-being of the family, but within the last summer a mad desire to succeed in a vain ambition seized upon him, and now—"

The silvery voice broke and tears filled the violet eyes.

"And now," she went on, recovering her composure, "we have nothing!"

"Lord bless me! That is too bad. How did your father lose his money? On the stock market?"

"Oh, no, sir! It was in cantaloupes."

"Cantaloupes? Did he try to corner them?"

"Oh, no, sir! Early in the summer father became possessed of the delusion that he could buy a good one. When they first appeared on the market he would bring one or two home with him of an evening. Each time he cut them open and found them green as gourds he would become more and more aggravated. As the season went on he grew to buying them by the basket. He would bring home a basket of them, and sit down and open them, one by one, talking harshly as he discovered each one to be unfit for human food. In September this habit had grown to alarming proportions. He was now buying them by the crate. He would have a crate shipped to the house each day and would sit up half the night cutting them open and muttering to himself.

He closed his office and spent all his money and all his time among the commission houses, buying cantaloupes as they came into the market, and opening them on the spot. Why, he pawned all mother's jewelry and his watch and diamonds, and he mortgaged the house to a cantaloupe merchant! In October the mortgage was foreclosed and we had to give up our beautiful home and go to live in a tenement. Father actually got to begging pennies on the street corners, and hoarding them until he got enough to buy one of the late cantaloupes. At last we were in the direst penury and want."

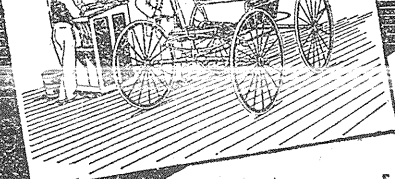

"And did your father ever find the good cantaloupe?"

"Oh, yes, sir! He brought it home yesterday, but to our shame, he it told, we were so famished that we ate it!"

A torrent of sobs shook the slender frame, and the strong man at the desk dashed his hand hastily across his eyes to wipe away a suspicious moisture.

"I will give you a position, my poor girl," he said huskily. "But—do you recollect the name of the place where your father bought that good cantaloupe?"

When Buying Baking Powder

For this is the baking powder that makes the baking better.

It leavens the food evenly throughout; puffs it up to airy lightness, makes it delightfully appetizing and wholesome.

Remember, Calumet is moderate in price—highest in quality.

Ask your grocer for Calumet. Don't take a substitute.

RECEIVED HIGHEST AWARDS,
World's Pure Food Exposition,
Chicago, Illinois, Paris Exposition,

GOOD ROADS IN MICHIGAN.

Given Great Impetus by Sugar Beet Industry's Growth.

The rapid growth of the beet sugar industry in Michigan has been one of the powerful factors contributing to the extension of good roads in the state. While an acre of wheat or oats yields a crop weighing from half to two-thirds of a ton, the output from an acre of sugar beets averages ten tons or more. The beets cannot be marketed at any time that suits the convenience of the farmer. They must be delivered to the factory when it is ready to receive them, and this time is in the fall, when ordinary dirt roads are likely to be in bad condition.

The result has been that a strong demand for good roads has arisen wherever sugar factories have been established. The manufacturers have given heed to this, and the various sugar companies have adopted the custom wherever good roads funds have been started of contributing a dollar to this purpose for every dollar raised by the farmers themselves. The result is that nearly every town containing a beet sugar factory has become a center for good roads development. The benefits of this movement have not been confined to the beet farmers, of course, but have become evident in the improved appearance of the towns themselves, in the increased business done by their merchants and in the advancing values of all property.

There is nothing that will give a community a bigger boost in development and prosperity than the establishment of good roads, and it is fortunate for the state that its two greatest industrial developments of recent years, automobile manufacturing and the beet sugar industry, have both worked so powerfully toward the construction of the best type of highways.

PERFECT SUGAR BEET SEED.

New Type Being Developed by Department of Agriculture.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington is run on the principle that small perfections mean large profits. This is exemplified by the fact that the government scientists have tried for ten years to develop a certain type of sugar beet seed. The perfect seed is now in sight. Its establishment will mean an annual gain of from $11,000,000 to $13,000,000 to the sugar beet farmers of the west.

The possibility of developing the perfect seed was called to Secretary Wilson's attention by Truman G. Palmer, secretary of the United States beet sugar industry, in 1902. Secretary Wilson was confined to his home with a severe cold at the time, but he grew so excited about the matter that he forgot his cold and started his scientific men at work immediately.

Here is the story of what the perfect beet seed will do for the farmer:

The sugar beet crop needs unusual care. The seed is drilled in rows, several beet seeds being planted to the inch. When the beets are up laborers go through the fields with a hoe and "block" them out, leaving a single small bunch every eight inches. And here the trouble comes, for a beet seed is rarely a single seed. It normally contains several beet germs—perhaps as many as six—so the little beet clusters must be thinned. Laborers go through the fields on hands and knees, grasping one hardy beetlet between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand, while with the right they pull out the remaining beetlets. If this operation is not performed at a certain period in the development of the beetlets those left to grow will die.

By great labor the government scientists secured 2,000 single germ beet seeds. As only 1 per cent of beet seeds are normally single germs, over 200,000 seeds had to be minutely examined for this selection. It took two years to secure the first generation of the selected plants, for the beet is a biennial. The best plant yielded 26 per cent of single germ seed. In the second generation one plant yielded 50 per cent single germ seed. The fifth generation has just been reached and shows one plant yielding over 80 per cent of single germ seed. Probably in a few more generations the constant single germ seed will be a reality.

As a result the beet farmer will save from $5 to $8 an acre on hand labor, and it is estimated that his average tonnage will be increased from one-third to one-half, thus adding from $23 to $26 to his profit per acre.

Root Crop Every Fourth Year.

Few persons realize that a large portion of Germany is but a sandy plain and her enormous crop yields due to the fact that for each three acres of cereals grown her farmers raise one acre of hoed crops, thus producing a root crop on each field every fourth year. They grow sugar beets wherever possible and are the greatest producers of this vegetable in the world. So thoroughly do they appreciate the influence of a root crop on the yield of other crops that in sections where there are no factories to which they can sell their sugar beets they grow beets or other root crops and feed them to stock, as they do in Great Britain. But where there are sugar factories the farmers secure the double advantage of first selling the crop for sugar and then hauling its full feeding value back to the farm in the residue.

Professor Aerolo
A Story of a Balloon Flight
By CLARISSA MACKIE

Four times had Lettice Hallett's heart paused in its fluttering when the big balloon wavered unsteadily and then rose slowly upward, tilting until it gained balance in the free air above the treetops. Four times had she watched the scarlet clad aeronaut sitting unconcernedly on his light swing, saw him wave a flag and scatter confetti on the upturned faces below and then, growing smaller as he mounted toward the clouds, prepare to make his perilous descent by means of a parachute. As the aeronaut swung back and forth on his airy perch, maneuvering for a good position from which to make his drop to earth, the breathless interest of the watchers in the fair grounds abated a trifle, and they found tongue.

"There isn't a bit of wind today. Wouldn't it be terrible if that big bag didn't float away after he cut the rope? What if it dropped right on top of him?" Young Alice Beems asked shrilly of the little group of women about her. "What would happen?" "I guess the balloon wouldn't go up tomorrow," answered Mrs. Beems grimly. "And he'd never go up again," added Ellen Wently.

"Oh!" breathed Lettice Hallett, horror-stricken. "It's a risky business. They expect to get killed sooner or later," remarked Mrs. Beems practically. "Lem says he's paid $40 every time he goes up." "He must hold himself mighty cheap. It isn't all clear profit either. He pays $5 to the one who picks up the bag when it falls. I wouldn't mind finding it. It would buy me a new washing machine."

AWAY UP IN THE AIR WAS THE TINY SPECK OF HUMANITY.

They all laughed as Ellen Wently finished. It was amusing to think of Ellen as running after the falling balloon with the small boys of the village. "There—he's leaving the balloon now!"

Lettice Hallett glanced once and then closed her eyes. It made her head reel to see that tiny figure up there beneath the clouds slipping from his only tangible hold on life and safety and boldly trusting himself to the questionable security of his parachute. Lettice inwardly vowed she would never witness another flight.

"There—it opened all right. Doesn't he look fine sailing along? I suppose he picked out a good place to drop. Look, Alice—see! He's going to land right in Uncle Bill's hayfield! My, won't Bill be pleased!" Mrs. Beems chuckled with delight. "He's real nice looking," said young Alice pensively. "That gray hair is becoming to him."

"Nonsense, child," chided her mother sharply. "Don't take any notion of admiring circus folks. They're all very fancy and fine, but they ain't practical, and they have wild ways."

"But they're only plain, everyday people, after all, and from the way he spoke to some of the boys around the balloon I know he is kind hearted," persisted the girl. "It isn't always what folks' business is—it's what they are themselves. Isn't that right, mother?"

"Lawdy, Alice, don't put any puzzling questions to me!" cried her mother impatiently. "Handsome is as handsome does' used to be in my copybook, and it holds good today. A Wheatlane boy once fell in love with a circus life and followed the show, and he never came back again. You remember Owen Baldwin, don't you, Ellen?"

Ellen Wently shot a swift glance at Lettice Hallett's pale face and nudged the loquacious Mrs. Beems. "Of course I remember Owen," she said hurriedly. "He never came back again because he didn't have any folks around here to come back to. He was only a bound boy to Farmer Lake. For all we know, he might have left the circus years ago and maybe is president of the United States by now," she added recklessly. "Pooh!" ejaculated Mrs. Beems, with a smile at Ellen's exaggerated remark. "Anyway, I hope he did go into some nice respectable business. Maybe he'll come back to Wheatlane some day." "Let's all go and have some ice cream," said Ellen tactfully, and she led the willing flock to the ice cream tent.

Late that afternoon Lettice Hallett parted from her friends and went up the grassy street that led to the hilltop where her home was. The Hallett land sloped away on all sides and formed sunny pastures and admirable vegetable gardens and afforded excellent drainage for the house and garden on the summit.

Lettice had a garden of roses and old fashioned flowers and a scattering of tall, gracefully drooping elms about her white house, and she lived there contentedly alone with her mother, a gentle invalid. These four afternoons at the county fair had been the first treat Lettice had enjoyed for several years, and now she would not have been able to take advantage of the merry-making if an aunt from another village had not volunteered to take her place at the bedside.

Now, walking slowly up the hill toward her home, Lettice determined that she would not witness another flight of the balloon.

If others did not recognize in the intrepid Professor Aerolo their one time acquaintance Owen Baldwin, Lettice Hallett's loving eyes did not deceive her.

The next day Lettice did not go to the fair. Mrs. Adams, her aunt, decided to return home, and when she went away she kissed Lettice very tenderly. "I hope you'll be happy, my dear," she said; "you've been a good girl."

Lettice smiled—she seldom laughed—"I am happy, Aunt Becky," she said proudly.

"I should have said I hope you will be happier!" and with the last word Aunt Becky drove away.

"Lettice," said her mother that afternoon, "when the balloon ascension occurs you will go into the garden and watch it so as to describe it to me when you come in?" "Yes, mother," said Lettice obediently.

At 4 o'clock she went into the rose garden, where one could look away over to the high hill from which the balloon ascensions were made. Her heart was beating rapidly, and a pretty pink color flickered in her cheeks. To Lettice Hallett it was not Professor Aerolo who was making the daring ascent, but it was her first and only lover, Owen Baldwin.

All at once the dark shape shot upward and, influenced by a strong north-west wind, came straight toward Lettice Hallett's garden. Away up in the air was the tiny speck of humanity which would trust itself once more to the hazardous parachute.

A little to the west of Hallett's hill the man cut the rope and dropped. Then a blue parachute came sailing gently down, growing larger and larger and coming straight down into Lettice's rose garden.

Lettice saw the brilliantly clad figure of Professor Aerolo gently alight in her rose garden and stand in that very path where her father had surprised their first and last kiss.

Lettice leaned against a tree and stared at him, colorless and trembling. He looked down at her from Owen Baldwin's true blue eyes and took off the gray wig.

Lettice looked at the dear blue eyes and the sunny hair, now more deeply tinted than her tender memory had recalled, and tears filled her own soft brown eyes, and she hid them in her little hands.

Owen Baldwin drew the hands away and looked in Lettice's face. "You have not forgotten," he said simply. "Neither have I, Lettice. I have wanted to come before, but I pictured you as happily married long ago, and I did not dare investigate. I am such a coward!"

"You a coward?" repeated Lettice incredulously, her cheek against one of his scarlet clad sleeves.

"Oh, you mean this business? That needs an explanation, Lettice. I went away with the circus as a hostler. Nothing very romantic about that, eh? Then I fell in with a balloonist—Professor Aerolo he called himself—and he taught me the business. I had nerve and a cool head, and I did very well, but it did not appeal to me as a life profession, for I was determined to make all of you Wheatlane people proud of me. Lettice, no one may be proud of me, but they have no need to be ashamed. You have heard of O. William Baldwin, the landscape gardener? That's I, Lettice."

"You?" gasped Lettice in wonder. "Yes. A few weeks ago I came upon my old friend, Professor Aerolo, in deep waters. He was down with an attack of rheumatism and could not fulfill this engagement at the county fair. He needed the money sorely, yet he could not find a man to substitute for him, so I volunteered to come down here, Lettice. I caught a glimpse of you once on the outskirts of the crowd, and when I saw your frightened face I felt that you recognized me."

"I did, Owen."

"And I hoped you—cared, Lettice."

"I did—I do, Owen," confessed Lettice bravely.

"Yesterday, while you were away, I came up here to see your mother, and I told her all about it and asked if she cared if I dropped here today. I had her full consent, so everything will be all right after all, Lettice, if you feel just the same. There has never been any one else for me."

"Or for me either," whispered Lettice. "Let us go in and tell mother."

When the curious came, seeking the brilliantly appeared gray headed Professor Aerolo, they could not find him, but there passed them going away from Hallett's hill a sunny haired, blue eyed man, buttoned up in one of Deacon Hallett's long ulsters and wearing a pair of the late deacon's best boots. He also wore a very contented smile.

THE GOSPEL OF THE SUGAR BEET
Dr. Harvey W. Wiley Preaches It to Farmers.

A WONDERFUL TRANSFORMER.

"Wherever the Sugar Beet is Cultivated," Dr. Wiley Declares, "the Farmers Are All Prosperous"—America Fully Fifty Years Behind Europe.

"Farming practices in vogue upon a great majority of the cultivated tracts in America are obsolete," declares Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture. "In agriculture we are fully fifty years behind Europe, and the better utilization of our farm resources is one of the most important problems before the country."

"Old fashioned, slipshod methods of producing wheat and cotton and corn are still in vogue in over 95 per cent of the country devoted to these industries," said Dr. Wiley, continuing his impeachment of our lax farming methods. "The growing of these crops until within a few years could not have been ranked as agriculture, but should have been described as highway robbery of the soil. As a result the average production per acre of these crops has fallen to a minimum."

"Farming, for one thing, must be made more profitable. This will be done as our farmers learn more thoroughly the principles of intensive cultivation and get a knowledge of the methods of feeding the soil and of the rotation of crops."

"To this end I have been preaching for the past thirty years the gospel of the sugar beet."

"The production of the sugar beet requires the highest style of intensive culture that science has been able to suggest. The principles of feeding the sugar crops, the methods of culture and handling, the attention and skill of the workers, are such as to create in every field and factory devoted to sugar culture an agricultural experiment station of the highest type. The soil and climatic conditions in the greater part of the United States are thoroughly favorable to beet culture, and America is the greatest sugar market in the world.

"In the case of the sugar beet the crops which are grown in rotation with it yield very much larger returns than when the old fashioned system of agriculture prevailed. The reflex action of this influence becomes a benefit to American agriculture the value of which it would be difficult to measure in dollars and cents."

"Wherever the sugar beet is cultivated the farmers are all prosperous, no matter what kind of other crops they raise. The beet generally improves the productivity of the soil in all kinds of agriculture. It causes the employment of more labor and indirectly benefits commerce and transportation and produces in every community conditions of prosperity in agriculture which it would be difficult to bring about in any other way."

"The culture of the beet brings into the neighborhood the large sugar factory using fuel and other raw material, with its complement of laborers and experts, thus giving a better and more profitable market to the surrounding farmers for all their products."

"While there has been a general tendency toward the reduction of tariff duties, this tendency has not reached in many cases the extent of the abolition of import duties altogether. In any changes of this sort let as much as possible be saved to the farmer. In view of the great importance of domestic sugar production to the prosperity of the American farmer, if tariff adjustments are to be made, I believe that this should be the last rather than the first point at which to remove the customs duty."

"One of the best things about sugar beet culture from the point of view of agricultural improvement is that it fits in so perfectly with dairying and stock growing. It is, of course, one of the elementary facts of practical dairying that the rearing and keeping of live stock afford the easiest, cheapest and most natural means of improving the fertility of the soil."

"Clean Up the Bowels and Keep Them Clean"

There are many remedies to be had for constipation, but the difficulty is to procure one that acts without violence. A remedy that does not perform

by force what should be accomplished by persuasion is Dr. Miles'
Laxative Tablets.
After using them,
Mr. N. A. Waddell,
315 Washington
St., Waco, Tex.,
says:

"Almost all my life I have been troubled with constipation, and have tried many remedies, all of which seemed to cause pain without giving much relief. I finally tried Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets and found them excellent. Their action is pleasant and mild, and their chocolate taste makes them easy to take. I am more than glad to recommend them."

"Clean up the bowels and keep them clean," is the advice of all physicians, because they realize the danger resulting from habitual constipation. Do not delay too long, but begin proper curative measures.
Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are a new remedy for this old complaint, and a great improvement over the cathartics you have been using in the past. They taste like candy and work like a charm. A trial will convince you.

Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are sold by all druggists at 25 cents a box containing 25 doses. If not found satisfactory after trial, return the box to your druggist and he will return your money.

The Scrap Book

A Very Fine Stew.
From Belgium comes a funny story of the reporter of an Antwerp paper who was sent by his editor to Brussels to take down a report of the king's speech. In order to add interest to the event the reporter was given two carrier pigeons, trained to fly between the two cities, by which he should send back his message.

When the reporter reached the capital he went into a restaurant and,
handing the pigeons to the manager, took a seat and ordered his dinner. He was kept waiting a long time, but finally a delicious stew was served,
which he much enjoyed.

When he had finished he called for his bill, settled it and then asked for the pigeons.

"Pigeons!" cried the waiter in great astonishment. "Why, sir, you have just eaten them."

Content.

To love and bless my kind,
To help men to be free,
To know the godlike mind
Behind humanity,
Is sweeter far to me
Than it would be to find
My little name enshrined
In song or history.

Within my soul I claim
A sweeter symphony
Than all the blasts of fame
Could ever give to me,
And on life's heights I see,
Far brighter than a name,
A light like golden flame
From out eternity.

—J. A. Edgerton.

He Wore the Robe.

A story is told of the late Dr. Peddie, a Scotch minister, to whom his congregation had presented a pulpit robe. He had never worn a robe, and after acknowledging the gift he said he would wait in the vestry five minutes after service to hear any objections to the innovation. Nobody appeared but one old lady, who, on being asked what her objections were, answered that she had read the epistles of St. Paul and could not find any reference to the apostle wearing a gown. "What epistle did you read?"
asked the doctor. "From Romans to Hebrews," answered the old lady.
"Well, Janet," said her minister, "I have read from Romans to Hebrews also, and I could never find any reference to the apostle wearing the breeks.
What would you think if you saw me going into the pulpit without breeks?"
The old lady quit right there, and the minister wore the robe.

The Best They Could Do.

Of all the illegible writers none was more famous in this country, of course, than Horace Greeley, of whom one compositor said once, "If Belshazzar had seen this writing on the wall he would have been more terrified than he was." Once Mr. Greeley wrote to decline an invitation of the Iowa Press association:

"I have waited till longer waiting would be discourteous, only to find that I cannot attend your press meeting next June as I would like to do. I find so many cares and duties pressing on me that with the weight of years I feel obliged to decline any invitation that takes me a day's journey from home."

Out of this the recipients in consultation assembled made:

"I have wondered all along whether my squirt had denied the scandal about the president meeting Jane in the woods on Saturday. I have hominy, carrots and R. R. ties more than I can move with eight steers. If eels are blighted, dig them early. An insinuation that brick ovens are dangerous to hams gives me the horrors."

Real Patriotism.

One of the reputations which the American has abroad is that he can always overtop anything he sees in Europe by something he has at home.
An Italian was showing an American friend about Italy and had not had much success in arousing his enthusiasm. If he showed the campanile the American said, "We've got a monument in Washington 200 feet higher."
If he showed him the coliseum he remarked, "The auditorium at Chicago is bigger." Finally the Italian showed him Vesuvius in eruption and thought surely that must stir his awe. But the American, after gazing for a moment at the burning mountain, said, "We've got a waterfall in America that would put that out in five minutes."—Chris-

A Funny Naval Battle.

Not far from St. Thomas, a matter of perhaps a hundred miles, was fought the most wonderful naval battle in all history. The Dutch admiral detected the enemy in the early morning, when the sea was covered with a thick mist, and his guns opened fire at once without warning. The fire was returned with interest, the ocean fairly quivering with spasms caused by the shock of frequent discharges. Somehow or other the enemy's shots, which sounded like a bombardment, seemed to fall short or go wide of the mark, for not even a splash of a ball was heard, and the Dutch ships remained unscathed.
On the other hand, the Dutch could not see the terrible execution their guns were doing until nearly the middle of the forenoon, when the fog lifted, revealing to their astonished gaze not the vessels of the enemy, but a great rock standing out of the sea. They had been firing at it for five hours, and the sound of the return shots they heard was the echo from the solid wall of granite.
They named the place Redonda, which means sent, rolled or driven back, and Redonda it is to this day.

We are so positive our remedy will relieve constipation, that we offer to furnish it free of all cost if it fails.

Constipation is caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestines or descending colon. To expect relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen those organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies

Needs a Dictionary.

Two young men who have a tumbling act appeared in a Manhattan vaudeville theater one Monday night and were closed by the manager Tuesday. They couldn't understand why.

"We got a swell writeup in one of the papers," said the younger of the two. "Here; I'll show it to you."

He drew a clipping from his pocket and continued: "It says, 'Their tumbling was fair.' Of course that's not so good, but listen how it boosts us after that." Then he read, "but their comedy was atrocious."

"Now, what do you think of that guy closing us after that boost?" concluded the offended tumbler.—New York

The Horse Was Brave.

It is said that General Crittenden used to tell with great glee of what his small son, then eight or nine years old, said to him a day or two after the battle of Chickamauga. The general had ridden during the battle a horse named John Jay that was a great favorite with the little fellow. The child, visiting the camp, asked after the horse and was told that in the fight he had acted badly, insisting upon taking his rider to the rear.

The boy considered gravely a moment, then, shaking a remonstrant finger, cried:

"Papa, that must have been your work. I know John Jay would never have acted like that of his own free will!"

When My Dreams Come True

James Whitcomb Riley

WHEN my dreams come true—
when my dreams come true—
Shall I lean from out my casement, in the starlight and the dew,
To listen—smile and listen to the
tinkle of the strings
Of the sweet guitar my lover's fingers
fondle, as he sings?
And as the nude moon slowly, slowly
shoulders into view, Shall I vanish from his vision—
when my dreams come true?

WHEN my dreams come true—
shall the simple gown I wear
Be changed to softest satin, and my maiden-braided hair
Be raveled into flossy mists of rarest, fairest gold,
To be minted into kisses, more than any heart can hold?—
Or "the summer of my tresses" shall my lover liken to
"The fervor of his passion"—when my dreams come true?

A Cure For Hunger.

The king of Italy was brought up splendidly by Queen Margherita. When he was a boy he used on certain days to lunch with the king and queen. One day the king was detained, and luncheon was considerably delayed. The prince ventured to remark that he was hungry and couldn't wait any longer for his meal. Crossing the room to a bookshelf, the queen took a copy of Dante and laid it before him, saying, "Read this and your hunger will all go."—London Graphic.

People Who Do Not Read Books.

There is a story of an educated man and an author who believed and maintained that "The Heart of Midlothian" was written by Gladstone. The literate man is astonished to find that people can be happy and refined, witty and wise, without books at all. * * * He should remember that Dickens rarely read anything except his own novels, that Millais never opened a book and that Prince Bismarck is said to have been chiefly happy with Vidocq. ## HOW IT WENT IN MICHIGAN

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6.—Viewed from any angle, the campaign of 1912 was without precedent in the history of Michigan as well as in the nation at large.

Battle lines that were formed immediately after the Chicago and Baltimore conventions which pitted Taft and Wilson against each other as the leading presidential candidates, were thrown into confusion and the whole course of events changed by the third-party movement which put the Bull Moose ticket in array against both of the old dominant parties.

Since the day of the first Progress-

WOODBRIDGE N. FERRIS.

Second Dash for the Governorship at Head of Democratic Forces.

sive convention at Jackson this state has been one of the chief storm-centers of the campaign nationally, with visible influence upon the state campaign that puzzled all the political prognosticators up to the last hour.

Not in many years were the people so aroused over an election, and the determined forces at work in the tri-party contest did all in their power to bring out the full voting force of Michigan's electorate with the result that a heavy vote was cast throughout the state.

In general the Democrats at least held their normal vote, and in many cases increased it, while the Republicans and Progressives combined polled far more than the normal Republican vote.

On the early returns Taft was running third, with Wilson and Roosevelt close together. Ten precincts out of the 41 in Grand Rapids showed 2,300 for Taft, 1,400 for Wilson and 1,200 for Roosevelt, while Saginaw city, with two-thirds of the returns in, showed Wilson in the lead with 2,300, Taft 2,050 and Roosevelt 1,960.

Adrian gave Wilson 1,094, Taft 718 and Roosevelt 653, and Hudson city Wilson 234, Roosevelt 230 and Taft 188. Both these cities are in Le-nawee county, which is inclined to be Democratic normally.

Marquette complete, the first upper peninsula city reporting, gave Roosevelt 956, Taft 709, Wilson 621.

As in the case of the presidency, Ferris's early lead, when the returns were largely from the counties containing more urban population, began to drop when the agricultural counties were heard from. Musselman began to pick up, but Watkins gained still more largely, indicating that the Progressive candidate was polling a large vote just where it was expected his strength would be the greatest—among the farmers.

On account of the tremendously heavy vote cast, the great number of offices voted on, and the fact that there were three parties in the field, resulting in much splitting of votes, the count is very slow.

One feature of the returns is the way the Progressive ticket ran in the upper peninsula. The customary Republican majority of 15,000 to 25,000 has apparently faded away completely; in fact, been turned into a victory above the straits for the Progressives.

The Secret of Golf.

The true secret of successful golf is accurate iron play. A man cannot be a really first class player unless he is more or less a master of all manner of iron clubs. Deadly accurate approaching will make up for many defects in wooden club play, and in consequence it is the iron clubs above any other with which a player should practice. I am not going to say that it is necessary for a player to be a complete master of every class of iron shot and to have intimate knowledge of the correct way of playing them, but I will say that it is absolutely necessary for a player who is anxious to attain any great measure of success to have a good command of his iron clubs.—Outing.

Preparation of special maps with zone circles marked off in red, for use of postmasters in determining rates or parcels post packages, being rushed by the postoffice department at Washington.

The maps, 125,000 of which are to be printed, are to be taken from so-called "flawless" maps of the United States coast and geodetic survey. The necessity of obtaining a perfect map to prevent the slightest error in computing postage as such would make a considerable difference in the rate from any given point. The aim is to get the maps in the hands of postmasters as much in advance of Jan. 1 next, when the law becomes effective, as possible.

WILSON VOTED STRAIGHT.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 6.—Governor Woodrow Wilson voted the straight Democratic ticket at 10:51 o'clock in the interior of an engine house. He was in the voting booth four minutes, and remarked as he came out that the ballot was so big he "had a hard time finding the Democratic presidential electors."

TAFT VOTED AND SMILED.

Cincinnati, Nov. 6.—President Taft did not arrive at the polling place, where more than 500 persons waited for two hours, until 12:30 o'clock. He remained in the booth five minutes, and came out wearing his magnetic smile. It had been reported that he would vote at 10:30, and a large crowd gathered at that time.

HOW TEDDY VOTED.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., November 6.—Colonel Roosevelt arrived at the polling place in a fire truck house at 12:05 o'clock and a few minutes later had cast his ballot. Seven neighbors accompanied him and he waited 20 minutes until each of them had voted before returning to Sagamore Hill.

A PAIR OF 'FOURS

Cabman (from the south)—Ah'll carry yo' anyhow fo' fo' bits, mistah. Cholly (who is broke)—What I'm looking for is four bites, don't you know.
