 J. B. Cootes was badly burned about the face Tuesday morning while doing some plumbing work in the new Chronicle building. The accident occurred while he was dipping a ladle into a pot of hot lead.  Yes, these are hard times. We throw away ashes and buy soap. We raise dogs and buy hogs. We grow weeds and buy vegetables. We catch fish from a four dollar rod. We build school houses and send our children away from home to be educated. And last, but not least, we send our boys out with a forty dollar shotgun and a twenty dollar dog to shoot ten cent game. Yes, these are hard times, but whose fault is it? Don't place all the blame on the presidents and the trusts.—Ex.
 John J. Gallagher's residence on Main St. west is nearing completion and is a nice addition to that part of the city. It will be heated with a hot air furnace and will have other modern conveniences. Mr. Gallagher and family expect to move from their farm to the new residence in the spring. Mr. Gallagher has been a resident of Elkland township for 33 years and is accounted among the best farmers. He came here from Canada, walking all the way from Pt. Huron, and had about enough money in his pocket on his arrival to make a jingle like a dollar bill and the total sum did not exceed that amount. He was a diligent young man and he wasn't long landing a job as a farm hand with Eugene Morse as an employer. He worked and saved and later purchased the farm where he first found employment. Mr. Gallagher has worked hard and can now take life easier in his new home, but his friends know that John will not be idle even though his circumstances permit him to be. The farm has been leased to the Darling Bros.
 Mrs. M. L. Gulick, who, with her husband, left Cass City recently to spend the winter at Los Angeles, California, has written a letter to Mrs. D. R. Graham and among other things she says: "I am sitting in my room writing with my window open. It is a little cool. There has been frost several times since we came, but it gets warm during the day. I think you would enjoy the flowers here. Some show the effects of the frost but at a little distance they look nice. There are red geraniums that are nearly to the roof of this house which is a one-story bungalow. The ferns are beautiful. An asparagus fern in the ground goes nearly to the top of the roof. There are some fine places here, but there is quite a sameness in the houses. Nearly all of them are bungalows, lots of them one-story and some two-story. Mat says we would freeze to death in Michigan in houses built as these are, but they are alright here. We had a fine trip, and such rocks! I cannot describe them, but the scenery was grand. There were over 500 through passengers to California, besides those that went part way."

Oldest Candy in World is Licorice. Most of the black licorice comes from Spain, where it is made from the juice of the plant and mixed with starch to prevent it from melting in hot weather. The licorice plant is a shrub about three feet high and grows wild where its roots can reach the water. It grows largely on the banks of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers.

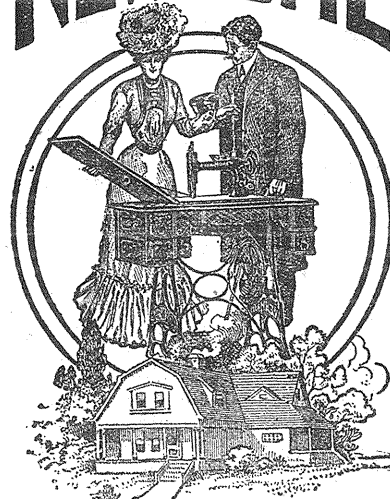

As the valley of the Euphrates contained one of the earliest civilizations in the world, it is probable that licorice is about the oldest confection in the world and that the taste which boys and girls like so well today was enjoyed by the boys and girls of Babylon and Nineveh 3,000 years ago.—New York Mail.

EAST COURT, PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

THE great East Court at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is designed for pageantry surpassing the famous Durbar of India. It will constitute a suitable setting for oriental or modern drama upon a colossal scale. From a huge staircase or from the tops of its encircling walls the visitor to this "Court of Joyousness" will be enabled to witness the pageants that will be a feature of the exposition. The main tower of the court will contain a great pipe organ, with echo organs in the smaller towers; within the center of the court will lie a basin containing groupings of classic statuary, dancing figures, fauns, satyrs and nymphs. Electric scintillators will play upon fountains at night. Tropical shrubs and flowers will contrast with the sterner effect of the colonnades, statuary and facades of the court. In its architecture the East Court, which will lie among the main group of exhibit palaces, will resemble the oriental phase of the Spanish-Moorish architecture.

SPRING ELECTION

Several State Officers Are To Be Chosen. At the coming spring election several state officers will be elected, including two members of the supreme court. Judge Steer's term expires Dec. 31st. next year also Judge Moore's term expires the same date; also the state highway commissioner. This latter office has always been appointive but a recent act passed by the legislature made the office an elective one and Townsend A. Ely's term of office will expire on July 1st., 1913, thus making that office vacant. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wright's office also expires as does that of Dexter M. Ferry, of the State Board of Education. Alfred J. Doherty, of Clare, and Robert D. Graham, of Grand Rapids, member of the Michigan Agriculture College Board, whose terms of office expire the last days of December of this year, will mean that two members of that board will have to be elected. Thus the state convention will have to place in nomination seven state officers, none of them being under the primary election law.

CHURCHES COMBINE.

The Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists and members of the Christian church of Alma have decided to unite in one congregation and support a non-sectarian church. Separately none of the four were strong enough to keep up an institution. All the denominations will be represented on the governing board and all sectarian teachings will be avoided. Members will have their choice of procedure. Baptist, for instance, will be immersed, while those who do not favor immersion will be allowed the form of ceremony they desire.

OFFICERS INSTALLED.

The officers of Elkland Arbor, A. O. O. G., were installed on Dec. 12 by Wesley Medcalf of the Ellington Arbor, assisted by Mrs. Mary Davenport. Supper was served and a short program was given which was enjoyed by all. The officers are: C. G. F. J. Nash, jr.; V. C. G., Mary Hoagland; Sec.-treas., Mary Davenport; Chap., Alma Root; Con., Arthur Anthes; Conductress, Martha McConnell; Lecturer, Henry Hulburt; I. G., Geo. McConnell; O. G., W. Root; Field Foreman, A. Pickings For the Parson.

A Dover bridegroom gave his best man an envelope. "Hand it to the parson after the ceremony," he said, "but don't do it ostentatiously." The best man followed instructions but it seems that he performed his task too covertly, for the father of the bridegroom, after the pair had departed, believed that an omission had occurred and quietly pressed a banknote into the minister's hand. But he also was too secretive about it, and before the party broke up the bride's brother felt called upon to draw the minister aside and thrust a ten dollar bill upon him.—Newark News.

MEN OF LITTLE WIT.

Eight men who deserve to be slapped on the face—he who despises a man of power, he who enters a house uninvited and unwelcomed, he who gives orders in a house not his own, he who takes a seat above his position, he who speaks to one who does not listen to him, he who intrudes on the conversation of others, he who seeks favors from the ungenerous and he who expects love from his enemies.—From the Persian.

HELPS FOR THE NEEDLEWOMAN

Labor Saving Devices That Will Rob the Sewing or Darning Day of Many of Its Annoyances.

ONE hopeful sign of the times is the interest that is being taken in fine needlework. Custom demands so many dainty embroideries and handmade laces in the smart toilets that many women who, as a rule, do not handle a needle are now devoting themselves to fine needlework. Handmade lingerie, blouses and neckwear are so much in demand that sewing has become fashionable, and millady has her dainty needlecase or workbox conspicuously displayed on the table in her boudoir. Pretty handmade trifles for the workbox are popular. Two very odd ones are illustrated here. They are a thimble case crocheted to look like a carnation and a needlecase made like a very round and roly poly brownie. The thimble case is done in silk in double crochet stitch. The needlecase is of flannel and brown velvet. The features are painted on the the round flannel head with water color paints. The cap is of brown velvet. The head may be used as a pincushion. The round body is also stuffed to be used as a pin or needle cushion. The brown velvet coat is closed with little brass buttons. Underneath is a flannel vest in which needles of all kinds and sizes are stuck. The zephyr for darning or crocheting sometimes gets inconveniently tangled. To overcome this make a bag in which to keep it. Take a piece of bright colored ribbon or silk about eight inches long and twice as many inches wide. Turn each end over and gather it into a small brass ring, leaving sufficient space open in one side of the bag to slip in the ball of yarn. Stitch a small patent dress fastener on either seam above where the ball rests. This is to keep the ball in place and prevent the continual annoyance of the yarn slipping. The bag may be made in any size to fit smaller knitting and crocheting balls, in which case use a smaller brass ring for closing either end of the bag. There are many ways of making the needlewoman's work less onerous. A few hints are given here: Home dressmakers should bear in mind the fact that the underarm seam of a sleeve should be set to come two and a half inches nearer the front than the underarm bodice seam. Puckering is caused by holding the right elbow close to the side in sewing. The needle, of course, continues to slant, and one half of the stitch becomes wider than the other half. If the elbow be brought slightly forward and the hand held so that the inside of the palm faces the sewer the needle will point straight and both halves of the stitch will be of the same size. To insure an even hem, if the skirt is cut long enough to touch the floor, mark at the floor length with a bit of tailor's chalk all round; then turn up the hem the desired number of inches from that point. To mend a hole in a sweater use yarn as for darning. Start at the top and chain stitch down the length of the hole with a darning needle, catching each loop securely. This will make a neat piece of work, and no one will notice where the hole has been. If a strip of tape a half inch wide is basted along the back seam of a dress skirt and sewed down while sewing the seam the skirt will not sag at the back. The same may be done to any seam that is cut bias.

THIMBLE AND NEEDLECASE.

An Awful Shock.

The deputy stage manager at the Theater Royal, Dublin, at one time was a little man named Linders, who had a strange dislike of the ladies of the ballet and treated them rather harshly. He wore a wig, but the fact was not generally known. On one occasion, however, an enraged coryphee seized him by the hair, and off came the wig, exposing a shiny expanse of cranium. He at once dashed off to complain to Mrs. Harris, the manager's wife, but the good lady could only gasp in stupefied tones: "Good gracious, Mr. Linders! Why, you are bald!" To which Linders instantly replied: "No, madam, no. My hair became loose with horror!"

Voice of the Tiger.

The tiger may be "shod with silence," but he has a voice that is terrifying. It is said the voice of the tiger, a wonderful thing in its way, is not only the most mournful, but the most terrifying, of jungle sounds and that it is a powerful aid to him in his hunting. The natives believe the deer hearing the tiger's voice and unable from the reverberating nature of the sound to locate the position of the enemy stands still and so gives him the chance of stalking them. Sportsmen hold there is probably some truth in this, for unless one is following the tiger and has seen him it almost is impossible from the sound alone to tell with any certainty where he is.—New York Sun.
