Deafness Cannot Be Cured
 by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CHAPTER II.
Mrs. Medcroft.

FOR ten minutes Brock protested, his argument growing weaker and weaker as the true humor of the project developed in his mind. He came at last to realize that Medcroft was in earnest and that the situation was as serious as he pictured it. The Englishman's plan was unusual, but it was not as rattle brained as it had seemed at the outset. Brock was beginning to see the possibilities that the ruse contained. To say the least, he would be running little or no risk in the event of its miscarriage. In spite of possible unpleasant consequences, there were the elements of a rare lark in the enterprise. He felt himself being skillfully guided past the pitfalls and dangers.

"I shall insist on talking it over thoroughly with Mrs. Medcroft before consenting," he said in the end. "If she's being bluffed into the game I'll revoke like a flash. If she's keen for the adventure I'll go. Rox. But I've got to see her first and talk it all over."

"Pon my word, old chap, she's ripping, awfully good sort, even though I say it myself. She's true blue, and she'll do anything for me. You see, Brock," and his voice grew very tender, "she loves me, I'm sure of her. There isn't a nobler wife in the world than mine. Nor a prettier one either," he concluded, with pride in his eyes. "You won't be ashamed of her. You will be proud of the chance to point her out as your wife, take my word for it." Then they set out for the Ritz.

"Roxbury," said Brock soberly when they were in the Rue de la Paix after walking two blocks in contemplative silence, "my poce of mind is poised at the brink of an abyss. I have a feeling that I am about to chuck it over."

"Nonsense! You'll buck up when Edith has had a fling at you."

"I suppose I'm to call her Edith?"
 "Certainly, and I won't mind a 'dear' or two when it seems propitious. It's rather customary, you know, even among the unhappily married. Of course I've always been opposed to kissing or caressing in public. It's so middle class."

"And I daresay Mrs. Medcroft will object to it in private," lamented Brock good naturedly.

"I daresay," said her husband cheerfully. "She's your wife in public only. By the way, you'll have to get used to the name of Roxbury. Don't look around as if you expected to find me standing behind your back when she says 'Roxbury, dear!' I shan't be there, you know. She'll mean you. Don't forget that."

"Oh, I say," exclaimed Brock, halting abruptly and staring in dismay at the confident conspirator. "Will I have to wear a suit of clothes like that and an eyeglass and—and—good Lord! spats?"

"By Jove, you shall wear this very suit!" cried Medcroft, inspired. "We're of a size, and it won't fit you any better than it does me. Our clothes never fit us in London. Clever idea of yours, Brock, to think of it. And, here! We'll stop at this shop and pick up a glass. You can have all day for practice with it. And, I say, Brock, don't you think you can cultivate a—er—little more of an English style of speech? That twang of yours won't—"

"Heavens, man, I'm to be a low comedian too?" gasped Brock as he was fairly pushed on to the shop. Three minutes later they were on the sidewalk, and Brock was in possession of an object he had scorned most of all things in the world—a monocle.

Arm in arm they sauntered into the Ritz. Medcroft retained his clasp on his friend's elbow as they went up in the lift, after the fashion of one who fears that his victim is contemplating flight. As they entered the comfortable little sitting room of the suite a young woman rose gracefully from the desk at which she had been writing. With perfect composure she smiled and extended her slim hand to the American as he crossed the room with Med-croft's jerky introduction dinging in his ears.

"My old friend, Brock, dear. He has consented to be your husband. You've never met your wife, have you, old man?" A blush spread over her exquisite face.

"Oh, Roxbury, how embarrassing! He hasn't even proposed to me. So glad to meet you, Mr. Brock. I've been trying to picture what you would look like ever since Roxbury went out to find you. Sit here, please, near me. Roxbury, has Mr. Brock really fallen into your terrible trap? Isn't it the most ridiculous proceeding, Mr. Brock?"

"Call him, Roxbury, my dear. He's fully prepared for it. And now let's get down to business. He insists upon talking it over with you. You don't mind me being present, do you, Brock? I dare say I can help you out a bit. I've been married four years."

For an hour the trio discussed the situation from all sides and in all its phases. When Brock arose to take his departure, he was irrevocably committed to the enterprise. He was, moreover, completely enchanted by the vista of harmless fun and sweet adventure that stretched before him. He went away with his head full of the brilliant, quick witted, loyal young American who was entering so heartily into the plot to deceive her own friends for the time being in order that her husband might profit in high places.

"She is ripping," he said to Medcroft in the hallway. All of the plans had been made and all of them had been approved by the young wife. She had shown wonderful perspicacity and foresight in the matter of details. Her capacity for selection and disposal was even more comprehensive than that of the two men, both of whom were somewhat staggered by the boldness of more than one suggestion which came from her fruitful storehouse of romantic ideas. She had grasped the full humor of the situation, from inception to denouement, and to all appearance was heart and soul deep in the venture, desisting the risks because she knew that success was always at her elbow in the shape of her husband's loyal support. There was no condition involved which could not be explained to her credit; adequate compensation for the merry sacrifice was to be had in the brief detachment from rigid English conventionalities. In the hazardous injection of quixotism into an otherwise overly healthful life of platitudes Society had become the sepulcher of youthful inspirations. She welcomed the resurrection. The exquisite delicacy with which she analyzed the cost and computed the interest won for her the warmest regard of her husband's friend, fellow conspirator in a plot which involved the subtlest test of loyalty and honor.

"Yes," said Medcroft simply. "You won't have reason to change your opinion, Brock." He hesitated for a moment and then burst out, rather plaintively: "She's an awfully good sort, demme, she is. And so are you, Brock. It's mighty decent of you. You're the only man in all the world that I could or would have asked to do this for me. You are my best friend, Brock—you always have been." He seized the American's hand and wrung it fervently. Their eyes met in a long look of understanding and confidence.

"I'll take good care of her," said Brock quietly.

"I know you will. Goodby, then. I'll see you late this afternoon. You leave this evening at 7:20 by the orient express. I've had the reservations booked, and—and—" He hesitated, a wry smile on his lips. "I daresay you won't mind making a pretense of looking after the luggage a bit, will you?"

"I shall take this opportunity to put myself in training against the day when I may be traveling away with a happy bride of my own. By the way, how long am I expected to remain in this state of matrimonial bliss? That's no small detail, you know, even though it escaped for the moment."

"Three weeks."
 "Three weeks?" He almost reeled.
 "That's a long time in these days of speedy divorces," said Medcroft blandly.

The Gare de l'Est was thronged with people when Brock appeared fully half an hour before departing time. In no little dismay he found himself wondering if the whole of Paris was going away or, on the other hand, if the rest of the continent was arriving. He felt a fool in Medcroft's unspeakable checked suit, and the eyeglass was a much more obstinate, untractable thing than he had even suspected it could be. The right side of his face was in a condition of semiparalysis, due to the muscular exertions required. He had a sickening fear that the scowl that marked his brow was destined to form a perpetual alliance with the snirk at the corner of his nose, forever destroying the symmetry of his face. If one who has not the proper facial construction will but attempt the feat of holding a monocle in place for unbroken hours he may come to appreciate at least one of the trials which beset poor Brock.

Every one seemed to be staring at him. He heard more than one American in the scurrying throng say to another, "English," and he felt relieved until an Englishman or two upset his confidence by brutally alluding to him as a "confounded American toady."

It was quite train time before Mrs. Medcroft was seen hurrying in from the carriage way, pursued by a trio of factures laden with bags and boxes.

"Don't shake hands!" she warned in a quick whisper as they came together. "I recognized you by the clothes."

"Thank God, it wasn't my face!" he cried. "Are your trunks checked?"

"Yes, this afternoon. I have nothing but the bags. You have the tickets? Then let us get aboard. I just couldn't get here earlier," she whispered guiltily. "We had to say goodbye, you know. Poor old Rox!" How he hated it! I sent Burton and O'Brien on ahead of me. My sister brought them here in her carriage, and I dare say they're aboard and abed by this time. You didn't see them? But, of course, you wouldn't know my maids. How stupid of me! Don't be alarmed. They have their instructions. Roxbury. Doesn't it sound odd to you?"

Brock was icy cold with apprehension as they walked down the line of waggons in the wake of the bag bearers. Mrs. Medcroft was as self possessed and as degagee as he was ill at ease and awkward. As they ascended the steps of the carriage she turned back to him and said with the most malicious twinkle in her eyes:

"I'm not a bit nervous."

"But you've been married so much longer than I have," he responded.

"Then came the disposition of the bags and parcels. She calmly directed the porters to put the overflow into the upper berth. The garde came up to re-monstrate in his most rapid French.

"But where is m'sieur to sleep if the bags go up there?" he argued.

Mrs. Medcroft dropped her toilet bag and turned to Brock with startled eyes, her lips parted. He was standing in the passage, his two bags at his feet, an aroused gleam in his eyes. A deep flush overspread his face. An expression of utter rout succeeded the buoyancy of the moment before.

"Really," she murmured and could go no further. The loveliest pucker came into her face. Brock waved the garde aside.

"It's all right," he explained. "I shan't occupy the—I mean, I'll take one of the other compartments." As the garde opened his lips to protest she drew Brock inside the compartment and closed the door. Mrs. Medcroft was agitated.

"Oh, what a wretched contretemps!" she cried in despair. "Rox has made a frightful mess of it, after all. He has not taken a compartment for you. I'm—I'm afraid you'll have to take this one and—and let me go in with—"

"Nonsense!" he broke in. "Nothing of the sort! I'll find a bed, never fear. I daresay there's plenty of room on the train. You shan't sleep with the servants. And don't lie awake blaming poor old Rox. He's lonesome and unhappy, and he—"

"But he has a place to sleep," she lamented. "I'm so sorry, Mr. Brock! It's perfectly horrid, and I'm—I'm dreadfully afraid you won't be able to get a berth. Roxbury tried yesterday for a lower for himself."

"And he—couldn't get one?"

"No, Mr. Brock. But I'll ask the maids to give up their—"

"Please, please don't worry, and please don't call me Mr. Brock. I hate the name. Good night! Now, don't think about me. I'll be all right. You'll find me as gay as a lark in the morning."

He did not give her a chance for further protest, but darted out of the compartment. As he closed the door he had the disquieting impression that she was sitting upon the edge of her berth, giggling hysterically.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine It in Cass City.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed, for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Cass City residents, expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

Mrs. Susan Randall, Seeger St., Cass City, Mich., says: "For some time I was bothered with kidney complaint and seemed unable to get cured until I took Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wood & Co.'s Drug Store. They soon brought me relief. Others of my family have taken this medicine with good results." "When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name." Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Randall had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. THE CHANGING WORLD.

We are naturally and justly sad when we think of this world as a place of unceasing change, but there is a point of view from which it appears to be a matter of thankfulness and rejoicing that it is so. This world is a place of trial and probation, in which the condition of no one of us is fixed, but a boundless possibility of change for the better is open to every one.—Hugh Macmillan.

Nice Distinction.

He stopped before a blind pedler and bought a pencil, putting 5 pennies into the man's hand. "How do you know these are cents I've given you?" asked the purchaser.

"Well, sir, I can distinguish the touch of cents by my sense of touch," was the blind man's prompt reply.—Boston Transcript.

A Shine In Every Drop!

Black Silk Stove Polish is absolutely. It does not dry out, can be used in the last drop, liquid and paste one quality; absolutely no waste, no dust or dirt. You get your money's worth.

Black Silk Stove Polish

is not only most economical, but it gives a brilliant finish that cannot be obtained with any other polish. Black Silk Stove Polish does not run off. It lasts four times as long as ordinary polish—saves you time, work and money.

Don't forget—when you want stove polish, be sure to ask for Black Silk. If it isn't the best stove polish you ever used—your dealer will refund your money.

Use Black Silk Air Drying Iron Flannel on grates, registers, stove-pipes, and automobile tire rims. Prevents rusting. Try it!

Use Black Silk Metal Polish for silverware, nickel, tinware, or brass. It works quickly, easily, and leaves a brilliant surface. It has no equal for use on automobiles.

CEDAR RUN.

Mrs. Clark Bixby and daughter, Veda, returned home from Ann Arbor Tuesday evening of last week. Miss Veda's eyes are better. She will have to return again in a few weeks to take more treatment.

Mrs. P. W. Stone and two children returned home from Durand Friday after a two weeks' visit with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Orson Hendrick, Jr., and daughter, Eunice, came from Bay City Saturday evening to visit Mr. Hendrick's people here. He returned Monday morning.

The E. E. J. A. C. boys held a club meeting and short program at the Cedar Run schoolhouse Saturday evening. They expected an outside speaker, but were disappointed.

The Misses Marie Martin and Gladys Jackson and Wm. Walters visited Cedar Run school Monday.

Ray Willson has been working for the last week west of here on the place they have rented for the coming year.

About forty attended the masquerade party given by the Misses Harriet and Rachel Hendrick at their home Thursday evening. The guests were received at the door by a ghost. About all classes of people were represented from colored people to tramps. About eleven o'clock a Halloween luncheon was served which consisted of pop corn, apples, sweet cider, pumpkin pie and cake. The first part of the evening was spent in trying to find out who the others were, but little "Miss" William Walters kept them guessing. After lunch old fashioned games were played.

Theodore Hendrick and Miss Effie Brown went to Bay City Saturday evening to attend a lecture. They returned Monday afternoon.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

President Wilson Designates Nov. 27 as Thanksgiving Day.

President Wilson today designated Thursday, Nov. 27, as Thanksgiving Day and issued the following—his first Thanksgiving proclamation:

"The season is at hand in which it has been our long respected custom, as a people to turn in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for His manifold mercies and blessings to us as a nation. The year that has just passed has been marked in a peculiar degree by manifestations of His gracious and beneficent providence. We have not only had peace throughout our own borders and with the nations of the world but that peace has been brightened by constantly multiplying evidences of genuine friendship, of mutual sympathy and understanding, and of the happy operation of many elevating influences both of ideal and of practice.

"The nation has been prosperous not only, but has proved its capacity to take calm counsel amidst the rapid movement of affairs and to deal with its own life in a spirit of candor, righteousness and comity. We have seen the practical completion of a great work at the isthmus of Panama, which not only exemplified the nation's abundant resources to accomplish what it will, and the distinguished skill and capacity of its public servants, but also promises the beginning of a new age, of new contacts, new neighborhoods, new sympathies, new bonds, and new achievements of co-operation and peace.

"Righteousness exalteth a nation and peace on earth, good will toward men' furnish the only foundations upon which can be built the lasting achievements of the human spirit. The year has brought us the satisfaction of work well done and fresh visions of our duty which will make the work of the future better still.

"Now therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-seventh of November, next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer and invite the people throughout the land to cease from their wonted occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks to Almighty God.

"In witness thereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington this twenty-third day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and thirty-eighth.

(Signed) "WOODROW WILSON.
"By the president: W. J. Bryan,
"Secretary of State."

(Seal) W. C. T. U. NOTES.

Contributed by Local Union. Next Sunday temperance will be observed in all the churches in accordance with World's Temperance Sunday.

This is very fitting to follow the great World's and National Temperance conventions in Brooklyn and Asbury Park. A national convention for Social Purity is being held in Milwaukee this week. Surely the world is growing better. Ignorance has been the cause of the downfall of many nations; ignorance of the result of evil habits whether of drunkenness or other intemperance, but when the people are aware of the results of intemperance and social impurity then they will eradicate these as easily and as thoroughly as any other vice.

A great budget of daily newspapers was sent to the president of the W. C. T. U. here, and when opened they were found to be the "Brooklyn Eagle" which contained a full daily report of the World's W. C. T. U. convention held there. The program of the next regular meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Jones, Nov. 14, will consist of items gleaned from those papers.

A dainty and elaborate dinner will be given in the basement of the Presbyterian church Wednesday noon, Nov. 19, by the W. C. T. U.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Did you ever stop and think that the man who stays at home on election day fails in a duty to society. Good citizens call him unpatriotic and they do right in so saying. Every man should stand one way or another on election day. But did it ever occur to you, my fellow member of our churches, that staying away from church without a reasonable excuse is kindred failure in duty and society. Men must vote for or against the church. It does not occur to most people that non-attendance upon religious service is really nothing more nor less than a vote against religious services—a vote to remove them from society. Charge almost anyone who does not attend church services in not believing in God, let us suppose the answer given. But how is the world to know his sentiment if he does not cast his vote. Beloved, let us be more loyal to religious services.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES.

Regular preaching services in the morning followed by Sunday school. At the Junior Endeavor at 3 p. m. Mrs. J. H. Hayes will give a talk on temperance.

There will be no Senior Endeavor meeting nor evening preaching service, both these services being union meetings at the Evangelical church.

The Sabbath school has decided to give a Christmas cantata on Tuesday evening, Dec. 23.

Notice is again given of the coming of Rev. A. R. Atwood of Lansing, Mr. Atwood is Sunday school specialist of Synod of Michigan and has a prominent part at the State convention held at Benton Harbor next week.

MIDDLETON'S CANDY LAND

PICK FOREIGNERS FOR FARM LABOR

ALBERT WASZNIK WILL PICK BEST ONES.

State Public Domain Commission to Open Office in New York City.

The public domain commission at its meeting at Lansing appointed Albert Wasznik its representative in the New York office, which will be established for the purpose of directing immigrants to the farms of Michigan. Only the class of immigrants adapted to the farming will be asked to come to Michigan and it will be the work of Wasznik to pick out the desirable ones. Hundreds of applications are already on file with the commission from farmers throughout the state, who desire labor and immigrants will be sent direct from the New York office to the farms.

"We do not propose promoting foreign immigration of labor into Michigan," declared Secretary Carton, "but so long as foreigners are allowed to enter the country, Michigan might as well be in a position to pick some of the best of them and supply farmers who are in need of help." Secretary Carton, who is also state land commissioner, will go with Wasznik to Washington in a short time, where matters pertaining to the New York office will be taken up with the proper immigration authorities, after which they will go to New York and make the necessary arrangements there.

GAGETOWN.

Miss S. Vanstone left Friday afternoon for Marlette to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kemma.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Fournier and baby daughter of Pontiac are visiting their parents and other relatives.

Prof. Cheney, Miss Merriman and Miss F. Smith attended the State Teachers' convention at Ann Arbor Thursday and Friday. While there Miss Smith attended a week-end house party given by Miss Mabel Combs.

Mr. and Mrs. Pere Case leave soon for Royal Oak where they expect to make their future home. Mr. Case will engage in the coal business with his brother-in-law. The good wishes of their friends go with them.

Mrs. M. Tanner moved in the Geo. Waun house last week which she bought, having sold her farm to Geo. Charter.

Mrs. M. Shaw and daughter, Bessie, and Miss Maud Quinn of Deford spent Sunday with the latter's sister, Miss Cassie Quinn. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw expect to move to Emmet where Mr. Shaw has a job on the section.

A party in the form of a surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. Mose Freeman last Thursday evening, it being their wedding anniversary. The playing was the amusement of the evening. A pot luck lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Roth of Brookfield was visiting at her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Burton, last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCarran were agreeably surprised when a host of friends took possession of their home. The occasion was Mr. McCarran's birthday. Cards and dancing were the amusements of the evening. Light refreshments were served and at a late hour the crowd dispersed wishing Mr. McCarran many happy returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Park of Caro were in town Tuesday calling on several people in town.

Mrs. R. A. Lyman, who has suffered from the effects of a slight stroke some few days ago, is improving slowly. Her daughter, Mrs. Alvin Moore, of Unionville is taking care of her.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Slough and son, Webber, returned last week from a three months' trip through the Canadian Northwest. While there they visited their daughter, Mrs. Andrew Dean. Mr. Slough reports a good crop through that section of the country but he would rather remain in Michigan as the Northwest reminds him too much of the early pioneer days here.

The second appearance of the Gagetown minstrel troupe was greeted by a full house and an appreciative audience. Every number was carried out in full and the characters acted their parts to perfection. They expect to give a home talent play sometime this month.

Mrs. McArthur of Bad Axe and Mrs. Webster of Detroit spent over Sunday at A. Russell's.

TO IMPROVE PRETTY HAIR AND BEAUTIFY UGLY HAIR
 Harmony Hair Beautifier, a delightful liquid hair dressing, is just what it is named—a hair beautifier. No matter how pretty your hair now is, it can be made to look even better by using Harmony Hair Beautifier. To those who mourn because the hair is stringy, dull, lustreless and homely, Harmony Hair Beautifier will prove a real blessing and pleasure. It seems to polish and burnish the hair, making it glossy, silky-soft and more easy to put up in graceful, wavy folds that "stay put." It overcomes the oily smell of the hair with a dainty, true-rose fragrance, very pleasing to the user and those around.
 Very easy to apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. It contains no oil, and will not change the color of the hair, nor darken gray hair.
 To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.
 Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store—one of the more than 7,000 leading drug stores of the United States, Canada and Great Britain, which own the big Harmony laboratories in Boston, where the many celebrated Harmony Perfumes and Toilet Preparations are made.

Facts in Nature
 FOR centuries 't has been known that Nature's most valuable health giving agents for the cure of disease are found in our American forests. Over forty years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the "Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N.Y., used the powdered extracts as well as the liquid extracts of native medicinal plants, such as Bloodroot and Queen's root, Golden Seal and Stone root, Cherry bark and Mandrake, for the cure of blood diseases. This prescription as put up in liquid form was called and has enjoyed a large sale for all these years in every drug store in the land. You can now obtain the powdered extract in sugar-coated tablet form of your medicine dealer, or send 50c in one-cent postage stamps for trial box to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y., and tablets will be mailed, postage prepaid.
DR. PIERCE'S Golden Medical Discovery
 The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, red blood, invigorates the stomach, liver and bowels and through them the whole system. Skin affections, blotches, boils, pimples and eruptions—result of bad blood—are eradicated by this alternative extract—as thousands have testified.
 Send 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only on a free copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1003 pages, clothbound ADDRESS DR. R. V. PIERCE, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Some Circulation!

YOU wouldn't believe it—no one does until he learns by actual experience—that the circulation of hot air produced by the "little furnace" in the Estate Hot Storm is as powerful as you find in the ordinary furnace.

But just try to hold your hand over the discharge ports of an Estate Hot Storm when it's fired up full, and you'll be quickly convinced.

Estate Hot Storm

—the heating stove with a "little furnace" in it works like a furnace because it's built like one. Air drawn into the "little furnace" through pipes on both sides of the stove, is heated to a very high temperature, and then discharged from the top of the stove, either into the room in which the stove sets, or into a pipe to conduct the heat to the upper floor.

This distinctive feature of the Estate Hot Storm's construction should be reason enough for you to give this stove the preference, but there are other reasons almost equally important. The Estate Patented Jointless Ash Box insures perfect fire control throughout the life of the stove; the Estate Tubular Hot Blast Attachment gets out of the fuel every atom of heat that's in it; the Estate Double Strength Single Fire Pot, Estate Patented Anti-Backling Rings, etc., all contribute to make the Estate Hot Storm the strongest, longest-lived, most powerful and economical heater that has ever been built.

Make up your mind to "Own an Estate" this season and make it an Estate Hot Storm—the stove with a "little furnace" in it. We'll be glad to explain the construction to you at any time.
