BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDY ON

HOW ISRAEL CROSSED JORDAN. Joshua 3:7-17—Nov. 30.

"Fear thou not; for I am with thee."—Isaiah 41:10. UNDER Divine direction the hosts of Israel removed to the Jordan River three days in advance of the time appointed for the crossing.

Priests Going Before the People.

The crossing day came. Joshua, by Divine instruction, directed the priests to bear the Ark of the Covenant and to go before the people. As their feet touched the water, it began to recede and they to advance, until finally they stood in the middle of the river bed, still bearing the Ark, representing the Divine promise under which they had left Egypt and were hoping for grand results.

The hosts of Israel, lining the banks of the Jordan for miles, crossed over from Moab to Canaan. Twelve large stones, representing the twelve tribes, were taken from the river bed and piled on the shore as a monument of God's aid. While twelve stones from the shore were placed in the river as a similar memorial. Finally the priests followed the people to the Canaan shore. Shortly thereafter the waters began to return to the river bed.

How the Miracle Was Done. The fact that we may know with considerable certainty just how this miracle was performed should not in the least detract from its value. With God nothing is a miracle, since He is able to accomplish His will in every respect. Many things are miracles simply because we do not understand the Divine processes. The growth of even a blade of grass is something wholly beyond our power, and in a general way beyond our comprehension as a process.

The account tells plainly enough that the heaping up of the waters was in the direction of Adam. This place has been located with considerable certainty by Prof. Wright as seventeen miles above Jericho, on the Jordan. There the waters became in a heap, or lake, the Professor assures us, by reason of a landslide which choked the narrow passage in the river, where there were steep banks.

The character of the soil in that vicinity would be favorable to the blocking of the narrow channel of the Jordan there by the slipping of the hillsides. Indeed, history tells that a similar slide took place in that vicinity in A. D. 1267, damming up the Jordan for several hours and leaving the river bed below quite dry, the waters draining off to the Dead Sea.

Prof. Wright says: "So striking is this conformity of facts to conditions indicated in the Biblical account that geologists can find but little difficulty in believing the written record. At the same time the written record is so precise itself and free from fantastic elements that the literary critic cannot well consider it anything but the unvarnished tale of an eye-witness."

The marvel of the story is that the Divine marching orders were so timed as to suit the circumstances and conditions exactly.

Entering into Canaan Rest. St. Paul, in Hebrews 4:5-8, gives us the suggestion that Israel's entrance into Canaan under Joshua's leadership typified the Church's entrance into the rest of faith and special privilege under the leadership of the antitypical Joshua—Jesus.

The Israelites had rest from their wilderness journeyings. It was a wonderful change for them, yet it was not the full realization of all that God had promised them. That condition will be attained only in Eden itself, as the result of Messiah's glorious Restitution work. Following the Apostle's lead, we perceive that Israel's experiences up to the time when Moses died represented the Law Dispensation, which ended at the Cross. The Gospel Dispensation, beginning at Pentecost, is typified by the crossing of Jordan and taking possession of the land.

HOW TO ENTERTAIN FOR THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving is a season when the woman who delights to dispense hospitality gathers relatives and friends around her hearthstone. If she happens to be a member of a large family she arranges a feast where young and old enjoy the delicacies associated with Thanksgiving. When her family is small, friends are invited to fill the "gaps" around the board.

The evening should be arranged for the amusement of the young people, particularly those who have returned home for the first winter holiday. A "Priscilla party" would prove most interesting to them. To the boys send invitations decorated with a Puritan maiden and draw Puritan lads on the invitations sent to the girls. Request them to represent the early colonial lovers, John Alden and Priscilla. These costumes are easily provided. A white kerchief and modest Puritan cap of white worn with a gray frock will transform the girls into dainty Priscillas. Broad white collars and cuffs, with knee breeches, attire the boys as John Alden.

To amuse the young people provide each with a card containing ten quotations from Longfellow's "Courtship of Miles Standish." These are written with three or more words omitted from each line. These are to be supplied, and the one being most successful in completing the quotations receives a copy of the poem. Request them to write a limberick about the landing of the pilgrims. This will cause much enjoyment, and while the laughter is at its height invite your guests to the kitchen, where arrangements have been made for an old fashioned candy pull. If possible, seat your guests at the table when serving refreshments.

Nervous and Sick Headaches. Torpid liver, constipated bowels and disordered stomach are the causes of these headaches. An Idea. The word idea formerly meant a completed performance, whether mental or physical.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS.

Because It's For One Thing Only, and Cass City People Appreciate This. Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for one thing only. For weak or disordered kidneys. Here Cass City evidence to prove their worth. Mrs. Mary E. Sherman, Church St., Cass City, Mich., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for two years whenever my kidneys have become weak or I have suffered from lame and painful back. I have procured my supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at Wood & Co.'s Drug Store and they always drive away the trouble. I recommend this medicine highly to other kidney sufferers."

The above statement must carry conviction to the mind of every reader. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Sherman had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. CHAPTER V. The Distant Cousins.

THE end of the week found Brock quite thoroughly domesticated—to use an expression supplied by his new sister-in-law. True, he had gone through some trying ordeals and had lost not a little of his sense of locality, but he was rapidly recovering it as the pathway became easier and less obscure. At first he was irritatingly remiss in answering to the name of Medcroft; but to justify the stupidity, it is only necessary to say that he had fallen into a condition which scarcely permitted him to know his own name, much less that of another. He was under the spell. Wherefore it did not matter at all what name he went by. He would have answered as readily to one as the other.

He blandly ignored telegrams and letters addressed to Roxbury Medcroft, and once he sat like a lump, with every one staring at him, when the chairman of the architects' convention asked if Mr. Medcroft had anything to say on the subject under discussion. He was forced, in some confusion, to attribute his heedlessness to a lifelong defect in hearing. Thereafter it was his punishment to have his name and fragments of conversation hurled about in tones so stentorian that he blushed for very shame. In the Bristol, in the Kartner-Ring, in the Lichtenstein gallery, in the gardens—no matter where he went—if he were to be accosted by any of the genial architects it was always in a voice that attracted attention. He could have heard them if they had been a block away. It became a habit with him to instinctively lift his hand to his ear when one of them hove in sight, having seen him first.

"That's what I get for being a liar," he lamented dolefully. Constance had just whispered her condolences. "Do you think they'll consider it odd that you don't shout at me too?"

"You might explain that you can tell what I am saying by looking at my lips," she said. He was immensely relieved.

Considerable difficulty had to be overcome at the Bristol in the matter of rooms. Without going into details Brock resignedly took the only room left in the crowded hotel, a 6 by 10 cubby hole on the top floor overlooking the airshaft. He had to go down one flight for his morning tub, and he never got it because he refused to stand in line and await his turn. Mrs. Medcroft had the choicest room in the hotel, looking down upon the beautiful Kartner-Ring. Constance proposed in the goodness of her heart, to give up to Brock her own room, adjoining that of her sister, provided Edith would take her in to sleep with her. Edith was perfectly willing, but interposed the sage conclusion that gossiping menials might not appreciate a preference so unique.

Roxbury Medcroft's sky parlor adjoined the elevator shaft. The head of his bed was in close proximity to the upper mechanism of the lift, a thin wall intervening. A French architect, who had a room hard by, met Brock in the hall, hollow eyed and haggard, on the morning after their first night. He shouted lugubrious congratulations in Brock's ear, just as if Brock's ear had not been harassed a whole night long by shrieking wheels and rasping cables.

"M'sieur is very fortunate in being so afflicted," he boomed. "A thousand times in the night have I wished that I might be deaf also. Ah! Even an affliction such as yours, m'sieur, has its benedictions."

Matters drifted along smoothly, even merrily, for several days. They were all young and full of the joy of living. They laughed in secret over the mishaps and perils. They whiffed and enjoyed the spice that filled the atmosphere in which they lived. They visited the gardens and the hofs, the chateau at Schonbrunn, the imperial stables, the gay "Venice in Vienna;" they attended the opera and the concerts, ever in a most circumspet "trinity," as Brock had come to classify their parties. Like a dutiful husband, he always included his wife in the expeditions.

"You are not only a most exemplary wife, Mrs. Medcroft," he declared, "but Chronic Dyspepsia.

The following unsolicited testimonial should certainly be sufficient to give hope and courage to persons afflicted with chronic dyspepsia: "I have been a chronic dyspeptic for years, and of all the medicine I have taken, Chamberlain's Tablets have done me more good than anything else," says W. G. Mattison, No. 7 Sherman St., Hornellsville, N. Y. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

But the day of severest trial was now at hand. The Rodneys were arriving on the fifth day from Berlin. Despite the fact that the Seattle "connections" had never seen the illustrious Medcroft, husband to their distant cousin, there still remained the disturbing fear that they would recognize—or, rather, fail to recognize him!—from chance pictures that might have come to their notice. Besides, there was always the possibility that they had seen or even met Brock in New York. He lugubriously admitted that he had met an unfortunate thousands whom he had promptly forgotten, but who seldom failed to remember him. It is not surprising, then, that the Medcrofts, ex parte, were in a state of perturbation—a condition which did not relax in the least as the time drew near for the arrival of the 5 o'clock train from the north. Constance strove faithfully even valiantly, to inject confidence into the souls of the prime conspirators.

"You have done so beautifully up to this time," she protested to the dolorous Brock, "why should you be afraid? I once read of an Indian chief whose name was Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Wife. He was a very brave fellow in spite of all that. You are afraid of Edith, but can't you be like the Indian? He—"

"That's all very nice," mourned Brock. "But he could cover his confusion with war paint. Don't forget that, my dear. Think of the difference in our disguises—war paint in daubs versus spats and an eyeglass! Besides, he didn't have to talk west end English. And, moreover, he lived in a wigwam and didn't have to explain a sky bedroom to strangers who happened along."

"That is a bit awkward," she confessed thoughtfully. "But can't you say that you have insomnia and can't sleep unless you are above the noise of the street?"

He looked at her with an expression that made a verbal reply to this suggestion altogether unnecessary.

"Nurse says that Tootles has forgotten the real Roxbury," she went on after a moment. "See how cleverly you have played the part."

Still he stared moodily, unconvinced, at the roadway ahead. They were driving in the Haupt Allee.

"I hope I haven't got Roxbury into trouble by that interview I gave out concerning the new method of fire proofing woodwork in office buildings and hotels. It occurred to me after ward that he is violently opposed to the system, I advocated it. He'll have a—I might say a devil of a time explaining his change of front."

As a matter of fact, when Medcroft, hiding in London, saw the reproduced interview in the Times, together with editorial comments upon the extraordinary attitude of a supposedly conservative Englishman of recognized ability, he was tried almost beyond endurance. For the next two or three days the newspapers printed caustic contributions from fellow architects and builders, in each of which the luckless Medcroft was taken to task for advocating an impractical and famous New York hobby in the way of construction, something that staid old London would not even tolerate or discuss. The social chroniclings of the Medcrofts in Vienna as dispatched by the correspondents offset this unhappy "bull" to some extent in so far as Medcroft's peace of mind was concerned, but nothing could have drawn attention to the fact that he was not in London at that particular time so decisively as the Vienna interview and its undefended front. Even his shrewdest enemy could not have suspected Medcroft of a patience which would permit him to sit quiet in London while the attacks were going on. He found some small solace in the reflection that he could make the end justify the means.

On their return to the Bristol, Brock and Miss Fowler found the fair Edith in a pitiful state of collapse. She declared over and over again that she could not face the Rodneys. It was more than should be expected of her. She was sure that something would go wrong. Why—oh, why was it necessary to deceive the Rodneys? Why should they be kept in the dark? Why wasn't Roxbury there to counsel wisely, and more, ad infinitum, until the distracted pair were on the point of deserting the cause. She finally dissolved into tears, and would not listen to reason, expostulation or persuasion. It was then that Brock cruelly but effectively declared his intention to abdicate, as he also had a reputation to preserve. Whereupon, with a fine sense of distinction she flared up and accused him of treachery to his best friend, Roxbury Medcroft, who was reposing the utmost confidence in his friendship and loyalty. How could she be expected to go on with the play if he, the man upon whom everything depended, was to turn tail in a critical hour like this?

"How can you have the heart to spoil everything?" she cried indignantly. He looked at her in fresh amazement. "Roxbury would never forgive you. We have both placed the utmost confidence in you, Mr. Brock, and—"

"Sh! Say, 'Roxbury, dear,'" interposed the practical Constance. "The walls may have ears, my dears."

Then Mrs. Medcroft plaintively implored his forgiveness and said that she was miserable and ashamed and very unappreciative. Brock, in deep humility, begged her pardon for his unnecessary harshness, and promised not to offend again.

"The first quarrel," cried Constance delightedly. "How nicely you've made it up. And you've been married less than a week!"

"Roxbury and I didn't have our first quarrel until we'd been married a year," said Edith reflectively.

"Oh, I say, Edith," exclaimed Brock, with a dark frown. "I'd rather you wouldn't be forever extolling the good qualities of my predecessor. It's very bad taste. Very much like the pies another used to make."

"Silly!" cried Medcroft's wife, now in fine humor.

"Besides, Rox is an Englishman. It would take him a year to produce a quarrel. The American husband is not so confounded slow. I won't live up to Roxbury in everything."

It was decided that Constance should greet the Rodneys upon their arrival. The Medcrofts were not to appear until dinner time. Afterward the entire party would attend the opera, which was then in the closing week. Brock with splendid prodigality had taken a box for the final performance of "Tristan und Isolde." It is not out of place to remark that Brock loathed the Wagnerian opera. He was of "The Mikado" cult. He took the seats with a definite purpose in mind to cast the burden of responsibility upon his wife, who would be forced to extend herself in the capacity of hostess, giving him the much needed opportunity to secure safe footing in the dark area of uncertainty. He believed himself capable of diverting the youthful Miss Rodney and his discreet sister-in-law, but he was consumed by an unholo dread of Rodney pere. Something told him that this shrewd American business man was not the kind who would have the wool pulled over his eyes by any one. Brock felt that the support of Constance was of greater value than that of Edith at any stage or in any emergency.

Besides, he was now quite palpably in love with her. "I've got it bad," he reflected in sober consideration of his plight; "but," came the ironic justification, "I'm able to confine it to the immediate family. That's more than most husbands can say."

MESSIAH'S KINGDOM.
The Glorious Day of Divine Favor is Nearing.

The period in which sin is permitted has been a dark night to humanity, never to be forgotten; but the glorious day of righteousness and divine favor is soon to be ushered in by Messiah. He, as the SUN OF RIGHT EOUSNESS, shall arise and shine fully and clearly into and upon all, bringing healing and blessing, which will more than counterbalance the dreadful night of weeping, sighing, pain, sickness and death, in which the groaning creation has been so long. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the MORNING."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Monarch Malleable
The "Stay Satisfactory" Range

THE BURNING QUESTION
Is your cook stove, or range, one that gives satisfactory results with a reasonable quantity of fuel or is it one of the kind that must be constantly filled and refilled to overcome the loss of heat caused by its many cracks and seams. This vital fuel question is solved by the

Monarch Malleable Range

The superior construction of the MONARCH is such that waste of heat is impossible. Every particle of fuel is consumed and the heat held captive until it does its full duty. The same splendid economical service which the MONARCH gives when new is retained through years and years of hard continuous use. That's why it's called the

"STAY SATISFACTORY RANGE."

We recommend the MONARCH as we have every confidence that it will make good all our claims as it has always done.

BUT WE DON'T KNOW OF ANY WHO CAN.

Not every clothing manufacturer can make young men's clothes worthy of the name.

We go to extremes here, in having our young men's clothes perfectly tailored. We believe we can make no wiser investment than to spend time and energy in having things made better.

"You forgot to put the word Leghorn in our liner regarding roosters last week," Mrs. Matt Parker told the Chronicle over the phone Tuesday, "but that didn't matter much. The paper was hardly mailed before we commenced to get inquiries. It pays to advertise." The liner is corrected this week so it reads Brown Leghorn roosters instead of Brown roosters.

A letter from the publicity department of the Emerson college of oratory states that Miss Fern Stevenson, who is attending that school, served as a member of the "Stunt" committee of the senior class. "In Deani Purgatorio," based on Dante's "Divine Comedy" was presented, and Miss Stevenson showed great originality of mind in arranging the program.—Vassar Pioneer.

S. Y. Kenyon was in Caseville Monday afternoon inspecting conditions around Oak Bluff. He reports that the big storm failed to do any damages about the cottages to speak of, but the shore outlines and the wreckage along the beach leaves evidences of the terrible force of the wind and waves.

"A cow is worth as much as a horse these days," said a gentleman Friday who wanted to sell his driving horse, but concluded to wait until prices were better. The comparison is a little overdrawn perhaps, but good cows are certainly up in price. This is particularly noticeable at auction sales. At the sale of H. P. Woolman & Son held recently, one cow sold for $90 and the lowest price cow brought $60. The average price was $75. "Striffler & McCullough, auctioneers, sold $1,725.00 worth of personal property for us in three hours," Mr. Woolman told the Chronicle.

Photographs for Christmas Presents

A good photographic Portrait of yourself is always a very acceptable gift to your friends, and especially so at Christmas time. It is only a little over four weeks until all our work will have to be delivered to the Christmas trade. We are not as a merchant who takes his goods from his shelf and hands them to you. We have to make ours first and must have time in which to do it, and for that reason we take this early opportunity to call your attention to the fact that you should not put off sitting until a few days before Christmas, but come in early. Rainy or cloudy weather does not interfere with taking photographs. Come any time.

We handle picture frames from 8x10 to 16x20, oval or square.

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.— Benjamin Franklin.

How to Use Leftover Meats.
The greatest economy in the home menu comes with the knowledge of making over meat into a dish that is both tasty and nourishing and a dish that does not proclaim too loudly the fact that it is a leftover, says the Modern Priscilla.

However, there are many ways in which the remnants may be clothed and adorned so that the original dish is not recognized.

Chicken, lamb or mutton may be freed from the bone, heated in its own gravy and used as follows: Make a small pan of biscuit dough and when it is baked split it open and pour on the meat. Place the remainder of the biscuit on top and pour over all the thickened gravy.

Slices of meat of any kind may be heated in a portion of the gravy and canned mushrooms added. Add butter, thicken with flour and serve on toast.

Pork may be cooked until the meat falls to pieces; then remove the bone, add seasoning, a little thyme, boiling water and thicken with cornmeal to make a stiff mush, boiling a half hour. Turn out into a bread mold, and when cold it is sliced and fried. It is known as scrapple.

Beef Loaf.—Use a cupful of cold beef that has been run through a chopper. Mix with a half cupful of breadcrumbs, some grated onion, a little melted butter, one egg and the thick pulp of canned tomatoes. Season well, mold in loaf form and bake in oven until brown. It should be basted occasionally with hot water and melted butter. Tomato sauce may be served with it.

Another form of using cold beef is to chop it fine, add one egg to a cupful of the meat, a little grated onion and breadcrumbs to thicken. Heat all together, cool and form into tiny balls. Dip these in egg and crumbs and fry in smoking hot fat. Drain on paper and serve.

Hash.—There are many forms of hash, and it may be made to taste and look very appetizing.

Cold corn beef perhaps is the most desirable meat to use. To one cupful of the chopped meat add two cupfuls of chopped raw potatoes. Cold boiled potatoes may be used, but they do not give the same taste that the raw ones do. Cover with cold water and cook until the potatoes are tender. Season well and thicken with cracker dust, adding a lump of butter. Cover and allow to set until a crust forms on the bottom of the mixture and then fold like an omelet. It may be garnished with parsley and rings of pepper. If it does not brown readily it may be shifted to another frying pan with hot butter, and it will brown quickly.

ENTERTAINING FAD.

How to Give a Unique and Popular Card Party.

Any game of cards may be played that the hostess prefers or that is popular in the town. Request the guests to dress in costumes representing either the face or suit cards. For instance, have two five of diamonds—one a lady and one a man—so that when all have arrived partners may be chosen for the first game. The prizes may be a handsome deck of cards in a case, a book on card games, ferns growing in a pretty jar, a bit of brass or a piece of pottery.

The score cards may be cut out of cardboard in the shape of diamonds, hearts, clubs and spades. The markers may be of these same figures, cut out of thin colored paper and gummed a few days before they are used, so they will be dry.

Serve hot bouillon in cups, patties of chicken and sweetbreads, salad, orange sherbet, small cakes, coffee, nuts, bouillon. If ice cream is preferred use the brick cut in thin slices, ornament with tiny hearts, diamonds, clubs and spades cut from citron and candied cherries.

How to Keep Baby Covered.

An old side garter solves the problem of kicked off bedclothes without the torn sheets that safety pins always perpetrate. To each side of the crib, around one of the side bars or sewed to the mattress by the elastic, fasten one of the clasps which held the stockings. These should be placed so that they come just to the fold of the bed clothes on each side. After the baby is laid in fasten the clasps to the sheet and one blanket on each side as if they were stockings.

How to Make Photographer's Paste.

This formula for making photographer's paste will be found very satisfactory:

One cupful flour, one dessertspoonful alum, half a cupful water. Mix this to a smooth paste, add two and a half cupfuls more water and let come to a boil. After it is boiled heat in 5 cents' worth of formaldehyde and a few drops of oil of cinnamon.

How to Make Perspiration Powder.

Mix French chalk, baking soda, powdered alum and orris root in equal proportions and dust the body after a bath, but not the face. The soda counteracts the acidity noticeable in excessive perspiration.

After Dark Chores are Easy for Jones

Jones has a big enclosed Acetylene light in his barn. A big, round, brilliant, white light. A light he calls "the sun's little brother." This big light is solidly fastened to a heavy timber, and unlike "Jones' old oil lantern, it can't be tipped over. Jones turns this high candle power light on—without a match, by simply pulling a little wire rod that hangs from the light. On cold winter nights when it's dark at 4:30. When he gets home from town late— Or when he has a sick "critter" to look after, Jones finds his big barn light a great convenience. He says he wouldn't take $1,000 for it. Mrs. Jones too, shares in the good thing. She has acetylene light in every room in her house, and her light fixtures are handsome ornaments of brass and bronze. Mrs. Jones cooks also on a big gas range—an acetylene range that furnishes heat on tap—just like millions of gas ranges in big cities. The acetylene which feeds this range and the lights on the "Jones' place is, of course, home made. Jones makes it himself with the aid of a Pilot Lighting Plant.

These Pilot Lighting Plants

Are not storage tanks. They make Acetylene—a very little at a time—as the burners use it.

The Pilot is one of hundreds of patented Acetylene machines.

All built on different principles to do the same work. The test of time has brought "The Pilot" out on top.

The principle on which it works has proved to be the correct one.

Today we sell more Light machines than all other manufacturers in this country put together.

We sell these Pilot plants complete—through three factories and 3,000 local representatives.

We have a big eastern factory in Newark—a big central factory in Chicago and a Western Warehouse in Los Angeles.

A complete plant includes the machine, gas pipes, light fixtures and the cooking range.

Such a plant costs much less than a water or heating system. It is as permanent as either, and as necessary to make your home modern.

Our 3,000 representatives are residents in the districts they serve. Each one established in a permanent growing business.

They are on the grounds to see to it personally that purchasers of Pilot plants get "value received" for their money.

In your district we are represented by

Many are the men found about who left the soil last spring tempted by high wages who are now sniveling to come back and raise vegetables.

Is the reader aware that sailors—all who are worthy of the name sailor—are men of courage—courage that shows no sign of danger at no time. Perhaps 'tis safe to say that in the loss of a thousand ships at sea not one officer would show the "white feather."

We learn that Rene McConnell has gone to Pontiac to labor for a time.

"Lit" Lester has settled on Ern's farm.

John Moshier has not been feeling "pearl" for some time past.

Beans are not panning out where we expected. Don't know how the others make the matter good but the writer just cuts down his amount intended for the preacher.

Perry Spencer, late of this place, is settled at Memphis in the hardware business. Elder Stubbs of this place is a silent partner of the firm.

Kindred from Detroit and Rochester spent last week among friends on the townline.

Milk condensory news has been bottled for three months. But wise ones inform us that the bottle will burst with a vengeance in less than a fortnight.

Really who is the game warden within Defords horizon? We hunger for the knowledge.

At J. McCool's sale all sold well but "hosses" which seems to have gone down, down, down.

Edward Martin has finished his drains on town line and gone home seemingly well satisfied with his treatment at all angles.

Mrs. Bessie Brown has moved her household goods from John Moshier's to her father's, Wm. Patch, of Novesta.

A hunter that chases the hare with a "grue" leaving the ferret at home informs us that a five dollar fine is saddled upon him who takes more than nineteen rabbits in one day. No fines reported as yet.

The man who drained Novesta and a noted son of the forge while attending a quarterly meeting at North Branch fell in conceit with "donk" that a fowl man kept in his flock to scare the hawks away. Separating themselves from a purse of silver they brought the quadruped to our city. 'Tis the favorite of the town when not in the leathers all good citizens watch fearing it may stray into the brush woods and be taken for an aged rabbit by some nearsighted nimrod.

Don't fear odd numbers but give thanks and elevate prayer on this the 1913 year A. D. and the 77th year of our commonwealth, on the 27th day of the month.

We hear that Bert Curtis has bought the Perry Spencer property known as the J. R. Lewis place.

A party at Jonathan Whale's Tuesday evening. Men's, ladies' aid performance.

Plenty of corn in the fields yet. Don't get there as we did in long ago.

We hear men talking open winter. Well, we will tell all about it next spring.

DEFORD, MY DEFORD

Thy shady streets I long to see,
Deford, my Deford,
From Goodrich tall whispering woods,
To where George Livingston sold dry goods,
Thy memory shines just as it should,
Deford, my Deford.

When down Main street we went to buy,
Deford, my Deford,
We saw D. Croop's sign on high,
Deford, my Deford,
Soon other names commence to appear,
There's Bruce's, McGregor and Kilgore's,
And barber shop with foundry near,
Deford, my Deford.

And next we see a front of stone,
Deford, my Deford,
Which gives Main street a look of tone,
Deford, my Deford.

And this we know is Striffler's bank,
Which for a small town takes first rank,
It never moved while big ones sank,
Deford, my Deford.

We sometimes think of Hack's place,
Deford, my Deford,
For which the drummers all do race,
Deford, my Deford,
From Daugherty's down to Kilgore's,
These drummers drum just as of yore

Gee! Get A Move On You

Some men have to be kicked into action. Others have to have a brick house fall on them before they "take a tumble." But the wideawake, aggressive, successful fellow requires no prodding. He acts. He doesn't wait for things about the place to get into a "rickety" condition. He knows that after things get started going to the bad, they go fast. He finds it much cheaper to keep things in shape than to put them in shape after they've gone to smash.

Which class do you belong to? Take another look about the place and see if a little lumber used in certain places, right now, will not save a big bill a little later on.

DON'T DOPE A PUNY CHILD

Parents—don't give that puny, ailing, under-weight child any of those so-called "tonics" containing alcohol or dangerous drugs—such stuff won't give relief and health to grown people, let alone children. Its purpose is to stimulate for a short time after each dose, just as whiskey or morphine does, thus making you believe it is doing real good. Give that child something that will really build it up—replenish the wasted tissues—feed the stunted, dwarfed, puny muscles—make it lively, strong, well—full of the animal spirits children are meant by nature to have. Give it Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion is wholesome, nourishing, free from alcohol and dangerous drugs. It's the ideal nerve, blood and body builder. It does the work it is planned to do better than any other medicine we know of, and our faith in it is so great that we not only urge you to use it and give it to your children—but we guarantee that it will do all we say it will, or cost you nothing.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion should be given to children who catch cold easily. Begin right now, and use it to build up the child's system to such strong health that it can resist colds, croup, grippe, bronchitis, catarrh, pneumonia, and other cold weather diseases. You who are weak and run-down, and you who are well-know, but unreliable to suffer from various cold weather ailments, use Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion to get and keep well and strong. For the tired-out, run-down, nervous, emaciated or debilitated—the convalescing—growing children—aged people—it is a sensible aid to renewed strength, better spirits, glowing health.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion—king of the celebrated Rexall Remedies—is for freedom from sickness of you and your family. You'll be as enthusiastic about it as we are when you have noted its pleasant taste, its strengthening, invigorating, building-up, disease-preventing effects. If it does not help you, your money will be given back to you without argument. Sold in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store—one of more than 7,000 leading drug stores in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

Woman Is As Old As She Looks

No woman wants to look old. Many in their effort to look youthful resort to the "beauty doctor's" prescriptions. Their mistake is that they visit the wrong department in the drug store. Beauty depends upon health. Worry, sleepless nights, headaches, pains, disorders, irregularities and weaknesses of a distinctly feminine character in a short time bring the dull eye, the "crow's feet," the haggard look, drooping shoulders, and the faltering step.

To retain the appearance of youth you must retain health. Instead of lotions, powders and paints, ask your druggist for

DR. PIERCE'S Favorite Prescription

This famous medicine strikes at the very root of these enemies of your youthful appearance. It makes you not only look young, but feel young.

Your druggist can supply you in liquid or tablet form—and 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., and trial box will be mailed you.
