Dear Daffy:
Does guidance the tango?
Just what does the household?
Why is it that night falls and doesn't break, while day breaks and doesn't fall?

The Week in History.
Monday, 1—Detroit destroyed by fire, 1805.
Tuesday, 2—Magic lantern invented 1643.
Wednesday, 3—Lee takes command of Confederate army, 1862.
Thursday, 4—First telegram sent to China, 1871.
Friday, 5—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" first published, 1854.
Saturday, 6—Dutch West India company chartered, 1629.
Sunday, 7—Monotype machine patented, 1902.

Facts Worth Knowing.

Wise and Otherwise.
Dressing has much to do with both women and salad.
Dentists are invited to attend many a swell gathering.
One may sometimes guess how a young man will turn out by noting the time he turns in.
Some people who claim to be wedded to their occupation have good reason for divorce.
The devil has a hard time getting his snare about the feet of a girl who has a good mother.

Kitchen Kinks.
Put vaseline on the cork of the glue bottle and it will never stick.
When putting raisins, dates or figs through the food grinder add a few drops of lemon juice to prevent the fruit from clogging the chopper.
If sour milk is not at hand and needed put one tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice in one cup of sweet milk and allow to stand three hours.
Table cloths will last much longer if, when they are washed, they are folded, one week three times, the next week four, thus changing the crease and adding to the wear of cloth.
To remove labels from bottles, wet the label with water and hold it over a flame for a second or two. The label and softens the gum or paste.
To clean sultanas quickly, place the fruit in a floured cloth. Tie the ends of the cloth and shake well for five minutes. The stalks will fall off and the fruit will be clean for using.

POULTRY FACTS

SUCCESS IN RAISING DUCKS

One of First Essentials is to Have Quarters Dry and Clean—Keep Old and Young Separate.

(By ANNA GALIGHER.)
Ducks always sleep on the floor or on the ground, therefore all such places should be as clean and dry as possible. Keep the floors covered with clean litter or straw, and change it every day, or as often as necessary. If a large number are housed together, once a day is none too often. Keep old and young separate, and don't keep ducklings of different sizes together. The larger ones will abuse the smaller ones, especially at feeding time.

It is best to keep not more than 35 in a flock, as they grow faster than when a large number are kept together.

Pekin ducks that have been well fed and cared for through the winter will usually begin laying very early in the spring; sometimes before the cold weather is over. Ours used to begin about the last week in February. But it is difficult to keep the eggs from getting chilled, when they begin to lay so early, and besides, the first few Pekin lays each season will not hatch.

If the weather is not too cold, March is about the proper time to begin saving the eggs. Remember they will not keep in hatchable condition very long.

Wrap each egg in paper and keep in a cool place (50 to 60 degrees is about right) and turn every day until placed for hatching. These directions should be observed in caring for other eggs.

If incubators are used, the ducklings will be very thirsty after they are hatched. Open the outside door and look through the glass once in a while. If they are too warm they will be panting with their mouths open.

They should be removed at once and given a drink of tepid water. If the air is cold they should be placed in a brooder as soon as taken from the incubator.

Be sure to have the brooder properly regulated. The temperature should be about 90 at first. Keep the ventilators in operation all the time, and lower the temperature as the ducklings get older.

When two weeks old 75 degrees will be warm enough. When four weeks old they need not be kept in a brooder at night if they have a comfortable house to sleep in.

Don't overcrowd or overheat in brooders. The first feed for the ducklings is dry bread soaked in sweet skim milk or water. Don't let it soak too long, or it will get gummy, and that is what ducks do not like.

They cannot or will not eat sticky feed; they simply shake it out of their mouths, and then it is wasted. Old ducks do the same thing. Place some clean water beside the feed each time. Cold water will do when the ducklings grow older.

Some coarse, clean sand should be placed in the water each time or in some shallow vessel near the feed or water. They need both grit and water while eating.

But do not add sand or any other grit to the feed. Don't confine ducks to one kind of feed. They like a variety. Never give young ducks milk to drink. They will smear their heads with it and become very messy.

Corn bread is very good for young ducks, but it is very fattening. We never feed raw mixtures to newly hatched ducks. They will eat raw food, of course, but it will sometimes cause bowel trouble.

Too much milk will sometimes cause it, also. Green food is essential from the start. If there is plenty of grass in the yard that will do, although they like it best when it is added to their grain food.

We use green clover, green rye, cabbage, dandelions, onion-tops, etc. Green oats are also good for this purpose. All should be cut small enough for growing ducks to eat with ease.

We do not often begin feeding raw mixtures until the ducks are several weeks old, although some green stuff is added once or twice a day.

The Pekin ducks should be fed four or five times a day from the time they are hatched until ready for market. The best time to sell ducks is when from 10 to 14 weeks old. At this age they should weigh anywhere from four to seven pounds each.

Eggs for Hatching.
In getting eggs for hatching purposes, try to select them from the strongest birds.

Make It Easier For the Housewife

House cleaning is so back-breaking that the housewife should not be obliged to do it oftener than in the spring and fall.

But if you postpone those repairs much longer—shingling, new floors, new windows, new porch, or what not—she'll have to do her spring house cleaning all over again—in the hot exhausting weather, too.

It costs no more to do it now and she will appreciate your thoughtfulness if you save her this extra work.

Fix Up Before the Clean-Up

Then the house cleaning can be done once for all. The house will look so much better, too, with the repairing done.

Let us know what the needed repairs are. You can readily find in our large complete stock just the repair materials you want. We will furnish you only the right quality of the right kind for the purpose for which you want it—and only as much as you need and you'll be pleased with our prices.

Let us help you help the housewife right away.

LARGER PROFITS FROM YOUR CHICKENS

Larger profits from your chickens are possible if you take advantage of the latest developments in chicken breeding.

But if you want your chickens to do their very best for you, they must be kept in properly built, comfortable houses.

Well Planned Chicken Houses Increase the Egg Crop

Building chicken houses is not expensive, but it is a science. They must be of certain size for a definite number of chickens and of a certain design for the convenience of the laying hen.

They must be well lighted and ventilated and easy to clean. There are other important details, too. We'll be glad to tell you about them.

We have a complete stock of just the building materials and interior equipment you will need. You are certainly welcome to the help we can give you in properly designing the houses. Talk it over with us anyway.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR NEIGHBORING VILLAGES

PIGEON.

From the Progress.
 Solomon Schluchter, J. E. Wurm, E. Paul, F. W. Merrick and J. A. McLean were at Chicago this week looking over engines for the electric light plant.

During the severe electrical storm Wednesday morning the home of D. C. McDonald was struck by lightning. The current passed down the chimney, shook up the stove and passed to the basement of the building. No fire was started.

The partnership existing between William Broderick and Wesley Thiel has been dissolved, Mr. Broderick now conducting the barber shop and Mr. Thiel the pool room.

UBLY.

From the Courier.
 The men of St. John's church had a shingling bee Friday and placed a new roof on the entire building. About 40 workmen took part in the job.

The base ball park will be improved with a new grand stand and bleachers, the diamond will be graded and leveled with the steam roller and will be in the fittest of conditions for the opening game Thursday, June 25.

An auto load of pleasant gentlemen from Cass City, Messrs. Wm. Murphy, E. W. Jones, Mr. Supernaw, H. F. Lenzner and L. I. Wood, were over here Tuesday looking after business, jollying the men, admiring the girls and otherwise enjoying themselves as live people from a live town do.

Rumor is busy with another change in station agents. Agent Whitehead is off for a 30 day vacation and a Mr. Manning, a "supply man" from Pigeon, is subbing for him. It is understood that Whitehead has another position in view on the new Handy Bros. road at Decker. The trouble seems to be that the work at Ubyly is too strenuous, and the men consider the lighter positions, such as the Bad Axe, Harbor Beach or Wadsworth stations, where but very little shipping is done, to be preferable to this point where the traffic is heavy seven days in the week, and a good part of the nights.

GAGETOWN.

From the Times.
 Contractor Neil McLellan of Bad Axe has completed the big cement basement for St. Agatha's new church. Over 500 barrels of cement were used in constructing the mammoth walls. The work was done in quick time considering the amount of form work necessary. The men of the congregation are to be complimented for their assistance with the work.

An electrical storm and heavy wind passed over here Wednesday morning, doing slight damage to buildings northwest of town. Patrick Phelan's barn was stripped of its doors, and at the L. T. Hurd farm lightning struck the silo, demolishing it to some extent, and passed on into the house in which his son lives and a sister of Albert's wife was struck and rendered unconscious, a physician was called and at present she is recovering.

L. J. Bartholomy returned Tuesday evening from Ann Arbor where he spent several days with his wife who recently underwent an operation. For several days she had gained rapidly and was out driving, but Friday she suffered a relapse and is again confined to her room.

OWENDALE.

From the Herald.
 Baccalaureate address in the Evangelical church Sunday evening, June 7th. Rev. Wm. Richards will deliver the address on "The Higher Place."

Those in this vicinity who successfully passed the 8th grade examination are William Schumacher, Jr., Pearl Meters, Daisy Grant, William Blasi, Gertrude King, Iva Sheinfeld, Irene Cousnow, Laura and Andrew LaClaire.

Ethel Ellis, daughter of Richard Ellis, of Canboro, and Garnet Switzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Switzer, of Kilmarnagh, were united in marriage at the home of the bride, Wednesday noon, Rev. Jno. Schurman, of Owendale, officiating. Gladys Duffield and Wilbert Ellis acted as bride's maid and groomsmen. The happy couple will make their home on the groom's farm near Kilmarnagh. They have the best wishes of their many friends.

CARO.

From the Courier and Advertiser.
 The engagement is announced of Miss Mary Janks to Dr. William James Lovering. A quiet marriage ceremony is to take place June 16th at the home of Miss Janks' sister, Mrs. George Ward, 801 Seyburn Ave., Detroit.

Commencement exercises of Caro High School will be held Wednesday, June 24. Dr. Leslie W. Sprague, of Chicago, will deliver the address. The salutatory by Miss Theresia Kile and valedictory by Miss Hattie Herman will also be interesting features.

N. Hamilton went to Detroit on Saturday to visit his sons, Donald who has position with the Maxon auto company, and John who is attending the Detroit Law School. Mr. Hamilton also attended the welfare conference of the G. O. P.

Miss Rhea Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holmes, was married Wednesday morning to Charles Shellito, of Pontiac, at the bride's home two miles southwest of Caro. The ceremony was performed at ten o'clock by Rev. H. C. Heise of the Evangelical church in the presence of only the immediate family.

UNIONVILLE.

From the Crescent.
 Miss Martha Metzger has resigned as primary teacher for next year and has signed a contract with the Louisville school at $60.00. It is to be regretted that Miss Metzger leaves the school as this will close the German class which she has taught.

Several farmers in this vicinity are having the Russells drill their wells deeper as the mine has effected the supply of water. East of town at one place they got one of the old time flowing wells by going deeper.

The council, Monday evening awarded the contract for the outside construction to The Capitol Electric Supply Co., of Lansing, the price was $1,845 but a change was made to heavier wire so the price will be some over that amount. The contract for the engines was awarded to the Fairbanks Morse Co. for $3,518 for a one 20 and one 50 horse-power engines. The contract for the building was awarded to S. C. Metzger for $1,400. The work of setting stakes for the location of poles commenced Tuesday and everything will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

BAD AXE.

From the Independent and Tribune.
 At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Martin of Verona, May 22nd, 1914 was one of the most pleasant gatherings that has taken place in Huron county for some time. The occasion was the golden wedding of Eliza and Thomas Martin, who were married fifty years ago in Ontario and came to this county 47 years ago. At the time they landed here there were only five other settlers in Verona township. The roads were mere trails through the woods. The country was full of wild animals such as deer, bear, etc. Mr. Martin spent many pleasant hours hunting and even killed the bear which had attacked Henry and William Shien.

The Carr Bros., drovers, received another car load of Canadian cattle on Friday evening of last week. They were "stockers" and will be turned out to pasture for the summer. Nelson Bros. of Meade township, have bought the Gleaner hall at Kinde, and will transform it into a general store. The boys have already begun cleaning up and putting things in shape for business.

MARLETTE.

From the Leader.
 Appearing without collars at high school Wednesday morning fifteen or twenty of the boys were invited to leave the school until they could come back, dressed "respectably." Inasmuch as the day was a sweltering hot one, and nearly all the girls were cool and comfortable in collarless dresses, the boys decided to accept the ultimatum and so spent the morning among the collarless business and townspeople. Some are unkind enough to suggest that if there is to be a reform along "decollete" lines it had better include the opposite sex. In the meantime a strange and wonderful array of necks of the young men.

A. L. and Jas. C. Juhl are home from their trip abroad, the latter reaching Marlette last Saturday evening and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Juhl arriving Monday evening. They were away twelve weeks and report an extremely interesting and enjoyable trip. At Nordburg, Germany, they visited a brother whom they had not seen since they were boys and their coming was a complete surprise to him. They visited many European cities and spent several weeks with relatives in Denmark and Germany. Both enjoyed tinguished father insured them a warm welcome in many unexpected circles.

The program committee of the Research club are hard at work arranging the program for next year. The study of Shakespeare's plays has been very interesting this year and will be continued together with a study of the social and civic affairs of the country.

SPORTS.

When a fellow owns an auto
 With a speed that beats the wind,
 It is fun to frighten children
 And their aged parents, then
 Go a-plowing up the highway,
 Leaving ruin in our wake—
 Lifeless dogs, and pigs, and chickens—
 But the loss is theirs to take;
 We're out for sport.

Or, if one should own a bird-dog
 With a nose that can't be beat,
 And a gun that's true and deadly—
 Then it is a royal treat
 To go tramping through the woodland
 On a search for blood and gore,
 Scaring, maiming, and a-slaying
 As the heathen did o yore.
 Sport? Well!

And the future holds another,
 Even newer, richer joke—
 'Twill be fun to fool the women
 When they ask us how to vote.
 Though, of course, our victims suffer
 When we thus ourselves amuse,
 We must prove that we are manly
 And at suffering enthouse—
 We are sports.

So She Wouldn't Be Shocked.

It was the fourth consecutive night he had been away until late. The old lodge theory would seem to be threadbare, but he sprang it again. "What was going on at lodge this time?" she asked coldly and incredulously.
 "Insulation of officers," he replied.—

FORD

The Universal Car.

There's nothing small about the Ford—except its purchase price and cost to keep. In number of cars, in world-wide use, in quality of service to owners and in its daily performance it is the biggest car in the world. 530,000 users will testify to these facts.

It's the most talked of car in the world. Sterling merit has sold it to over 530,000 people of every nation the world over. Ford service and guarantee are both included in the price. This means a lot to any auto buyer.

If your pocket-book could talk—it would recommend the Ford. The man who practices economy and wants utility invests his dollars in the Universal car. He knows it serves his every purpose best and at lowest cost. And don't forget Ford service and guarantee.

Put the difference in the bank. The saving between Ford cost and heavy car cost is "velvet" for the prudent buyer. He knows the Ford not only saves him dollars but serves him best. It's a better car sold at a lower price backed with Ford service and guarantee.

What counts isn't what you pay—but what you get for what you pay. The Ford buyer gets the most value for his money in the car and the best service afterwards. Big production, skilled workmen and best materials make Ford quality high and Ford prices low.

Think of the Company behind the car—and you'll realize why Fords and Government bonds are bought with equal assurance. Strongest financially—world-wide in scope—largest in volume of output. We build our reputation into the car and guarantee service afterwards.

If you deal in values—you'll appreciate the Ford. Its simplicity—its economy—and its dependability give it a value that cannot be measured by its price. The Ford is the one car that has "made good" in world-wide service.

The Empress of Ireland Disaster

THE greatest marine disaster since the sinking of the Titanic and rivaling it in extent occurred off Father Point, the landing place down from Rimouski, Que., when the Empress of Ireland, crack of the Canadian Pacific's Atlantic was in collision with the big car-ship Storstad, bound in, load-ool.

The Empress of Ireland sank in nine-nates after the collision, which in a dense fog, and close to lives were lost. In the Titanic aster, April 14, 1912, the life loss was about 1,503.

Asleep When Crash Came.

A dense fog covered the gulf of St. Lawrence at the time of the collision. The point where the disaster occurred is slightly less than 200 miles from Quebec, from which port the Empress of Ireland sailed May 28.

At this time of the year accidents in the gulf of St. Lawrence are frequent and oftentimes serious.

This great disaster of the sea is remarkable in that it happened not in midocean, but so close to land that the operations of the government vessels, the Storstad and the lifeboats were plainly visible from the tower above being summoned by the wireless telegraph on board the doomed liner.

The Canadian government steamer Eureka and the mail tender Evelyn were at Father Point when the wireless station at that point received at 2:30 in the morning quick, frantic "S O S" signals. Both vessels were under steam and went out at once at their highest speed.

The wireless calls weakened rapidly. Fifteen minutes after the first was received they ceased. The rescue vessels were without wireless, and until dawn there was no news from the wreck.

Whistles Echo In Fog.

Captain Kendall was on the bridge of the Empress of Ireland when at 2:30 o'clock he heard the siren of a vessel close at hand. The vessel was the collier Storstad, Captain Anderson, laden with 7,000 tons of coal and bound from Sydney, N. S., to Quebec.

With signals sounding, the vessels approached each other in the fog. The boom of the siren of the Storstad grew louder with each repetition. Captain Kendall ordered the engines stopped, and the big passenger steamship lay to in the fog while the officers on the bridge peered anxiously into the fog to try to locate the ship so close at hand.

The whistle signals of the two vessels echoed in the fog. From the re-ounded by a score of lifeboats, caused gasps of relief to the watchers who had strained their eyes through the night.

With marine glasses the spot on the peaceful basin of the river where the Empress of Ireland had gone down was clearly visible with the lifting of the fog after sunrise. Not even floating wreckage was to be made out on the surface of the water, ruffled by the morning breezes.

The fog lifted shortly after sunrise, and it was that which enabled those ashore to make out the scene with glasses and thus confirm the fears that the worst had happened to the Empress of Ireland.

Wireless Tells Story.

Brief wireless dispatches were sent from the Storstad, which gave thrilling and graphic details of the disaster. From the quickness of the time in which the Empress of Ireland sank some of the passengers were caught in their berths and drowned. Others, in their night clothing, rushed to the rail and flung themselves into the sea without waiting to put on life preservers.

Both men and women were picked up with children clasped in their arms. There was little opportunity for the gave aid wherever possible. Every doctor in the town was on the scene, and many of the injured were taken to private homes.

From cedar chests and closets the townspeople brought garments of all descriptions for those who had lost their belongings. Two headquarters were established—at the wharf and at the station of the Intercolonial railway. At the station those injured and not removed to homes were cared for.

The rescue boats Eureka and Lady Evelyn, found on reaching the point where the Empress sank a scene similar to that which greeted the liners which rushed to the Titanic's aid. They found the ship sunk and the surface of the water, fortunately calm, dotted with lifeboats and smeared with floating debris.

In the lifeboats were huddled the survivors, dazed and moaning, some of them dying of injuries sustained in the rush of leaving the sinking liner. Few could give anything but incoherent, almost hysterical, accounts of what had happened.

J. L. Black and Mrs. Black of Ottawa said they had jumped together into the river. They had been roused by the shock of the collision and, unable to get into a lifeboat, had risked the leap. They were picked up by a boat from the Lady Evelyn.

Of a party of 140 Salvation Army members only twenty were rescued. They had left Quebec, bound for the army's international conference in London. Among the Salvation Army passengers on the liner were the seventy members of the territorial staff band, one of the largest bands of the Salvation Army.

EMPRESS OF IRELAND, CRACK CANADIAN PACIFIC-ATLANTIC STEAMSHIP (1), ST. LAWRENCE RIVER OFF FATHER POINT, WHERE VESSEL SANK (2), AND CAPTAIN KENDALL OF THE ILL FATED SHIP.

the telegraph station at Father Point and from other elevated spots along shore. The coast along that part of the St. Lawrence is of volcanic rock formation, and it would have done Captain Kendall no good to try to run his vessel ashore. In fact, it is believed that his engine rooms were so quickly flooded that the vessel was powerless from the moment of the collision.

On account of the hour at which the vessels came together—2:30 o'clock in the morning—only those actually engaged in the navigation and operation of the steamers were awake. The others were in their berths asleep.

The collier ripped open a great hole in the liner, and there was but scant time for the launching and manning of lifeboats. The confusion aboard the vessel was of the wildest as the passengers were shaken out of their slumber into immediate contact with the gravest peril. A large majority of those who were saved were clad only in their night attire, with clothing in their hands, hastily seized as they fled to the deck.

The first authentic account of the cause of the collision was sent to Captain Walsh, marine superintendent of the Canadian Pacific at Montreal. It was:

"Empress of Ireland stopped by dense fog. Struck amidships in vital spot by collier Storstad."

It was followed a little later by a dispatch from Captain H. G. Kendall of the wrecked ship to Captain Walsh, which contained the two words:

"Ship gone."

The Empress of Ireland was probably the fastest transatlantic liner plying between Canadian ports and Liverpool. She established a record in 1906, three years after her launching, when she made the voyage from Quebec to Liverpool in five days and ten hours.

At the time of her fatal crash with the collier she was bound for Liverpool with her 1,437 souls, a heavy mail and a valuable cargo.

Three hundred and fifty men and women were saved by miraculously rapid work with the lifeboats that had ports at hand it appears that the captain of the Storstad or whoever was in charge at the time had no idea that the other vessel was so close. The Storstad was wallowing along at a good rate of speed when she was sighted from the Empress of Ireland. The clumsy collier was headed for the liner, which presented a broadside target.

Deep laden, her decks almost awash, the Storstad blundered along. Her steel prow tore into the side of the Empress of Ireland. The force of the blow was exerted below the water line. The big liner keeled over and then settled back as the Storstad, after a minute or two, became disengaged and drifted away in the fog.

For only a moment the Empress remained on an even keel. Swiftly she began to sag toward the side that had been torn in the collision. Water was gushing into her hull in torrents, flooding her engine and boiler rooms and compartments. Steadily she keeled over, pulled by the weight of the water below.

The wireless operator sent out an "S O S" call, repeating it frantically. It was heard by the wireless operator at the big station at Father Point, a few miles away.

At the long steamship dock at Father Point were the Canadian government steamer Eureka, used for the transfer of pilots, and the government mail boat Lady Evelyn, tied up for the night. The wireless man at the shore station telegraphed the news that the Empress of Ireland was sinking to the land telegraph station a short distance away, and from the land telegraph station a messenger hurried to the Eureka and the Lady Evelyn.

By the time these vessels were ready to start the wireless operator had learned the position of the sinking Empress.

An Awesome Sight.

Waiting for light, without news and with only the least of hope after the sudden cessation of the steamship's wireless, the coming out of the misty dawn of the two rescue ships, sur-officers of the ill fated steamer to put into effect the old rule of the sea—women and children first. The disaster came so quickly and was so overwhelming that it was a case of every person for himself. Captain Kendall was picked up after jumping overboard.

One survivor on the damaged ship gave a brief and graphic description of what had happened. Said he:

"Through the fog we could mistily make out the figure of the ship which had run us down. She was listing badly, and we did not know whether she was going to the bottom or not. This feeling of uncertainty and the likelihood that our neighbor might be sinking with all on board aroused us to a still higher tension of excitement."

"Both men and women dropped to their knees upon the decks. Some prayed aloud. Some buried their faces in their hands and sobbed with a frenzy born of despair and the presence of death."

Survivors Suffered Terribly.

The condition of the survivors was pitiful. Some had broken arms and legs, and all had suffered terribly. L. E. Gossetin, a lawyer from Montreal, saved himself by clinging to a raft.

When the rescue ships docked at Rimouski the station platform was converted into a hospital, and the townspeople, bringing food and clothing, united in a common effort to aid the sufferers. Twelve bodies, with faces covered, lay side by side on the wharf. They had made the lifeboats only to be fatally hurt. The vast majority of the saved were members of the ship's crew.

Besides Captain Kendall, the first and second engineers and the ship's surgeon were rescued. The captain was too overcome to give at first any extended account of the disaster. He had sent a wireless to his line after the vessel was struck saying, "Ship gone."

The residents of Rimouski, numbering only 3,000, came silently to the dock where the dead and exhausted living were being landed and, under the direction of the mayor, H. R. Fliset,

Description of the Ships.

The Empress of Ireland was a sister ship to the Empress of Britain. She was built at the Fairfield Shipbuilding company's works, Glasgow. She was 570 feet long and 63 feet 6 inches beam.

The disaster recalls the accident which happened to a sister ship of the ill fated vessel, the Empress of Britain, which two years ago ramed and sank the collier Helvetia in almost the same spot in which the Empress of Ireland collision took place.

She was built to accommodate 350 first cabin, 350 second cabin and 1,000 third class passengers. She was 14,500 tons register and about 20,000 tons displacement and was classed as an express steamship. There were five passenger decks, with a boat deck above. The upper deck was famous among travelers, affording a walk of about an eighth of a mile.

She had been plying in the service of her owners between St. John's and Quebec and Liverpool, and especially during the summer months carried large numbers of passengers.

The Storstad, a screw steamer, Captain Anderson, was built in 1910 at Newcastle, England, by Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., for A. F. Klaverness & Co. Her registered home port was Christiania, Norway, and she steamed under the Norwegian flag. She was 440 feet long, 58 feet 1 inch beam and had 24 feet 6 inches depth of hold. The Storstad was a craft of 3,561 tons, with triple expansion engines.

One of the features of the Empress of Ireland was the daily magazine published during the voyage, the news being received by Marconi wireless. Besides her wireless apparatus the Empress of Ireland was equipped with submarine signals to insure safety as far as possible. The big steamship was equipped throughout with electrical devices to add to the comfort of her passengers.

Kendall Captor of Crippen.

Captain Kendall, commander of the lost liner, the Empress of Ireland, gained prominence in world news at almost the very spot where his steamer sank. He is the man who procured the arrest of Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, murderer of his wife, Belle Elmore, the actress.

Captain Kendall, who holds the rank of lieutenant in the Royal Naval reserves, was in 1910 commander of the liner Montrose, on which Crippen fled from the continent with Ethel Clare Le Neve, love of whom inspired him to murder his wife.

The commander of the liner recognized the Le Neve girl from photographs in a London paper, which he had on board the ship. He flashed the news by wireless, and Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard met the Montrose at Father Point on the Canadian government ship Eureka—one of the two rescue boats that went to the aid of the Empress of Ireland. The inspector had made the trip across on a faster ship than the Montrose, passing that vessel on the way.

At Father Point everybody was ordered below, and Dew went aboard and placed Crippen under arrest.

Captain Kendall, through the shrewdness and sagacity he displayed in assisting the police to take Crippen, became a hero of two continents. So carefully did he conceal his detective work aboard ship that not a soul besides himself and Lewellyn Jones, the wireless operator, even knew that a person suspected of being Dr. Crippen was among the passengers.

Laurence Sydney Brodribb Irving, one of the passengers on the Empress, was the second son of Sir Henry Irving and widely known in England as an actor, author and manager. He made his first appearance on the stage with F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company in Dundee in 1893.

Mr. Irving played in his father's company from 1900 to 1904 and then for two years toured with his wife, Mabel Lucy Hackney Irving. He was the original Crawshawy in "Raffles."

Mr. Irving wrote many sketches for the stage and translated Sardou's "Robespierre." Maxim Gorki's "The Lower Depths" and other plays.
