Frederick Klump, Agent of Michigan Sugar Co., Will Sail This Week

Frederick Klump, founder of the Chronicle and a former resident of Cass City, will leave his home in Saginaw this week for Holland as agent for the Michigan Sugar Co. to arrange for the shipment of sugar beet seed from that country.

The shipment of seed from Germany has been cut off by the war, and inquiries by the company of Holland dealers have brought no reply, so the company decided to send a man over at once to arrange for a supply before the commercial situation grows any worse. The Michigan company has enough seed on hand for the campaign of next year, but is taking no chances on being left without any the following year, should the war last long.

(Political Advertising.) Vassar Republicans who are friends and supporters of Mr. E. C. Mr. Brainerd is Vassar's only Republican candidate for county office this year. In contrast with this, Caro has a candidate for every office on the ticket with the exception of representative in the state legislature and drain commissioner, according to the petitions filed with the county clerk. CHAUTAUQUA

READY

The Chautauqua closed Tuesday evening with the patrons well pleased with the entertainments presented and anxious for another in 1915.

The Chronicle cannot particularize with reference to the various attractions. No other plan could give so many and such high class entertainments except by the grouping of Chautauquas in circuits and supplying the talent from a central bureau. The Redpath Chautauqua recognized as the best, have an array of talent unexcelled and one can readily understand that expenses for supplying entertainment for so many could be reduced to a minimum under the circuit plan. The circuit to employed by the company for several which Cass City was annexed commenced the season in Mississippi on April 15. Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan villages and cities were visited by the Redpath talent in this particular Chautauqua circuit. The season ends in Septem> ber. The advance sale of season tickets in Cass City reached $782.00, just $18.00 short of the $800.00 guarantee made by the local committee. This small deficiency has been supplied by the local guarantors.

On Monday evening, pledge cards were passed through the audience and pledges taken for the sale of tickets for the 1915 Chautauqua. Supt. Coad made it plain that the Chautauqua management did not desire any one to pledge himself for more tickets than he expected to use in his family. As a result no big pledges were made, but the number of small pledges were numerous and 263 tickets were subscribed for. As the average number of tickets pledged at the first solicitation at a five-day Chautauqua is 180, Monday evening's canvass indicated the satisfaction of Cass City people with Redpath talof the offices of the county, while ent and treatment. PROPOSED DRAIN LAW Provides That Bonds Be Issued on the Drainage District.

John W. Smith, county drain commissioner of Sanilac county, whose address given recently before the state association of county drain commissioners at Saginaw won for him many compliments, has made a careful study of the drainage and the paying for the same under our present law and says it is impossible to make complete and efficient drainage districts without working hardships to many people.

Why should the people pay for a drain in one or two years and before receiving the benefits any more than they pay for a stone road, a school house, a county building, a paved street, or any other public improvement, he asks.

He stated, and his opinion was unanimously approved, that bonds should be issued on the drainage district and made payable in ten years so that the farmers will have received enough profit from reclaimed lands to pay the bonds.

The above is taken from the Detroit News. It may be of interest to our readers to know that an amendment to the constitution giving the counties the right to bond for drains will be voted on at the November election, and the people will no doubt give Mr. Smith due credit for bringing the matter before the drain commission ers of the state some time ago.

of Michigan there is no more able candidate aspiring to the office of sheriff.

A point too that is strongly in his favor is the fact that he is not tied up to any faction, and that if nominated and elected he will go into office without any restrictions upon him in the way of promises to any person. He will be absolutely free to carry out nis own ideas in conducting the af-to the Jews, saying to them that were bidden, "All things are ready. Come to the marriage." But the people, under the guidance of the scribes and the Pharisees, the theologians of that day, made light of the Message and wentone to his farm and another to his merchandise-saying, We do not believe this Kingdom Message. Some did even worse than this. They treated these servants shamefully and slew them.

Then, as seen in another parable, Jehovah was wroth with Israel. He sent forth armies and destroyed those murderers and burned their city. The fact that it was the Roman army under Titus which destroyed Jerusalem, A. D. 70, did not make it any less Jehovah's army; for He is able to make the wrath of man praise Him and able to use whom He may please as His messengers for good or evil.

Gentiles Called to the Wedding. Meantime God said to His servants, the Apostles, and others through them. The wedding is provided for; but the Jewish nation, which was especially invited, has not proved worthy of the honor. erywhere the fact that God is now The Man Without a Wedding Garment. calling out of the world a little company, lovers of righteousness, to become eventually Christ's joint-heirs in His Kingdom. Be it noted that these ambassadors were not to intercept all in the highways, but merely to urge upon all they met in the concourse the great privilege of the open door to the wedding feast.

Inspecting the Guests.

The man found without a wedding garment in the presence of the King represents a class, not merely one individual. Today we might find just such a class, professing to be Christ's followers, but declaring that they no longer trust in the merit of His sacrifice for sin. They have rejected Jesus as their Savior, their Redeemer, and retain Him merely as their Teacher, apparently accepting only a part of His teachings. The parable shows that this class will be rejected from the Kingdom privileges.

When our minds were filled with hallucinations of the Dark Ages, we assumed that this class, represented by the man without a wedding garment, would be cast into eternal torment. But now we perceive that as the guests were called out of the darkness of the world into the light of the wedding chamber, so the casting of one into the outer darkness would mean merely the taking from him the knowledge and joy represented by the light.

Our Lord's statement, "Many are called, but few chosen." does not mean that only an elect few will receive God's favor in the future. For eighteen hundred years the Gospel Call has sounded. Yet comparatively few have accepted and come into the elect condition-the Church, the Bride of Christ. Thus again the Master explained the matter saying, "Fear not, Little Flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom." The Little Flock, composed of Jews and Gentiles, will through faithfulness become God's chosen people-the Bride of Christ.

M. A. C. OWES FOUNDING

The Michigan Agricultural college, the foremost institution of its kind in the United States, owes its existence largely to the Michigan State Fair. It was founded five years after the first State Fair, in 1849, and after successive exhibitions of the state's agricultural products and of its possibilities had pointed the need.

"What a splendid thing this Fair is; how it encourages men to raise better portions of the state. and larger crops and women to make ted about much as did the circuit ridtheir homes more pleasant to live in," said these pioneers. "But look at the ers when the state was young," says acres there are left to drain, to cultivate and to bring to their fullest fruition. These are tasks for trained men, and in order to teach them we must have a school. The Fair, then, will not only be an exhibition place for the state's products; it will be a means of showing to the people the scientific methods that are pursued there and what they are accomplishing." And the action was suited to the word. The legislature, at the solicitation of Governor Ranson, the first president of the State Fair, and the directors of the State Agricultural society, passed an act creating the school. That the Fair might carry out its demonstration program it was decreed that it should be held in cities in different "And year after year the Fair trot-

G. W. Dickinson, general manager. "There wasn't much of a Fair to move on the start, and this part of the plan worked pretty well. Along about 1900, however, it began to present many difficulties.

"The directors found it too much of a job to put a $250,000 plant on wheels and send it across the state, especially as it was growing bigger all the time. The improvement of transportation facilities made it far easier for the people to go to the mountain than for the reverse to be the case, and the permanent location at Detroit was chosen.

"The wisdom of the step soon became apparent. Buildings especially design? ed to house the stock and the other displays could be erected, the grounds could be beautified and the Fair could become what its directors hoped it might be-a fitting exhibition of the state's progress."

berries. She lived in the house with Mrs. Mary O'Camb. A few cans of the dwelling, the fire having been discovered too late to secure anything more from the flames. The residence was insured or $200, but no insurance was carried on the personal property. Dr. and Mrs. A. N. Treadgold, who have spent the past few months in the living rooms back of Dr. Treadgold's offices, are pleased to announce that they are completely settled in their newly remodelled home. The house, while not changed much in outward appearances except for fresh paint and a small extension at the back, is completely altered as to interior plans for all partitions have been moved except one. The first floor now consists of a reception hall, living room, dining room, kitchen, bedroom and bath. The wood work on this floor is beautiful southern wood in mission style, stained dark, while the ceilings are beamed giving a pleasant finish to the dark mission work. In the living room a large fire place of red brick and heavy wood makes the room delightfully homey while the bungalow windows of which there are several in the house afford a good circulation of air. From the reception hall a broad stair way leads to the second floor while through beautiful bungalow doors one gets a glimpse of the dining room with its sunny south windows. The second floor has four sleeping rooms with their corresponding closets, a sewing room, a den, a small toilet room and a long hall. The wood work of this story is a dull white enamel finish and is indeed pretty for sleeping apartments and all upper rooms. The basement contains a vegetable room a laundry, a storeroom and the heat equipment which is a steam plant. The fixtures of the house are brush brass while the door knobs and handles on the wall cupboards are of cut glass which show up prettily on the dull wood work. Dr. and Mrs. Treadgold have handsome furniture and this with the newly papered walls makes every room seem delightfully distinguished and home like.

While Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Montague and son, Clark, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Daines were returning from Caro Saturday afternoon in the Montague automobile, a Ford, they met with an accident which serious enough as it was, might have been much more so, for only one of the occupants of the car, Mrs. Montague, was injured beyond slight bruises, and she is getting along nicely. The company had reached an excellent piece of road $3\frac{1}{2}$ west of town and Mr. Montague "let her out a little" in order to show Mr. quickly a light car can be speeded up. The speedometer was registering 34 miles an hour when a tire blew tance, the car tipped onto its side shaking the autoists up and doing some damage to the car. Mrs. Montague struck on her shoulder, injuring her collar bone and shoulder quite severely, and because of former ill health, her injuries were the more serious. The top of the car was broken and the wind shield smashed but otherwise it is apparently sound. Mr. Montague says he has run his car 2, 100 miles and this is the first accident which has occurred. He considers it a fairly good record.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Striffler are this week moving into their new residence which is nearing completion. When finished they will have a home of which they may be proud and which to them. CHEERFUL PATIENCE.

Patience and cheerfulness work wonders. One of the hardest and vet one of the most useful lessons we can ever learn is to smile and wait after we have done our best. He is not a philosopher who has not learned the secret of smiling and waiting. A great many people can smile at difficulties who cannot wait, who lack patience, but the man who can both smile and wait, if he has the tenacity of purpose which never turns back, will surely win.

New Polo Ponies Needed.

Many of the American polo ponies that took part in the international matches will be sold, and a new lot of ponies will be purchased before a challenge is sent to England. Several of the American ponies that played in the big match games were clearly outclassed by the English mounts. The committee of the Polo association, realizing this, will take steps to replenish the old, wornout material with young, fresh and fast ponies. Several noted poloists who are good horsemen will be named as a committee to purchase the ponies. They will pay a visit to the ranches in Texas, California and the Hawaiian Islands, where the breeding of polo ponies is made a specialty.

Some good ponies were sent east early the past spring. They were ridden and played in practice games and placed in training. But as the old ponies showed up so well in practice the entire cavalry forces of the nation have been pushed to the front to prevent raids by either the Germans or the Austrians while the infantry was stated that there have been numerous skirmishes and heavy losses were sustained by the enemy, but that none of them has assumed the importance of a general engagement.

An official statement issued by the war office Tuesday declared: "The German frontier has been crossed by forces of the czar in at least six different places. Small German forces were driven back and several hundred prisoners taken."

Meanwhile the mobilization for all practical purposes is completed. En route to Moscow, the czar, who left the capital August 12, was greeted everywhere with outbursts of patriotic enthusiasm. It is stated here that he plans to go to the front as soon as it shall be determined where he can best serve the nation.

Lansing.-Plans are being made for the meeting of the state board of equalization in Lansing next week and it is expected that every county in the state will have representatives here. The constitution provides that the board shall meet in Lansing every three years. The members of the board now are Secretary of State Frederick O. Martindale, Auditor General O. B. Fuller, State Treasurer Carton and Chairman O. A. Barnes of the state tax commission. Secretary of State Martindale, one of the candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, will give up his campaign work next week in order to devote his time to the duties of the board.

The Cass City Schools Will Open August 31, 1914

will offer this year thorough instruction in college preparatory subjects. Upon completion of the four year course admssion may be had to the University of Michigan and the other colleges of the state, without examination.

The course of study is also adapted to meet the needs of those not necessarily intending to enter college but to teach in rural schools or to take business positions immediately upon graduation.

At a special meeting of the board of education it was voted to institute a course in Agriculture for the coming year. The course will be open to all High School students and will provide instruction in the elements of Agriculture. We urge that those from the country districts enroll in this course as the work will be carried on along practical lines.

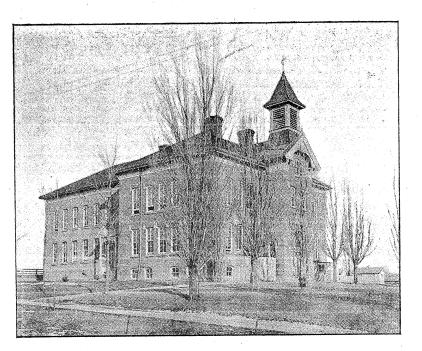

The work in the grades will be thorough and we especially urge grade pupils to attend.

The Board of Education has provided instruction of the highest possible grade in all branches.

Many improvements are now under way making attendance more profitable and pleasanter than ever before.

Cass City is a City of Good Homes and there are more than the ordinary chance for the pupil who wishes to support himself or herself while attending school. Every effort will be made by the superintendent to place pupils desiring work in good positions where half or all of the expense of attending school can be met.

The tuition for non-resident pupils in the High School will be $25.00 for the coming year.

The office at the High School will be open all day Saturday, August 29, for enrollment and to answer any questions concerning courses of study, rooms, board, etc.
