BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDY ON

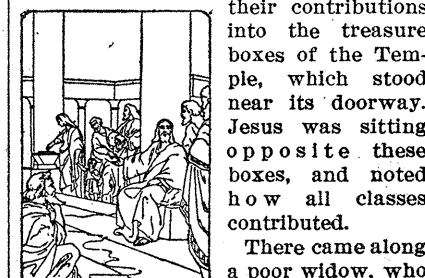

THE GREAT COMMANDMENTS. Mark 12:28-44—Sept. 6. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."—Luke 10:27. ON the question day when the Doctors of Divinity sought to entrap our Lord many questions were asked. A week ago we considered one. The final question constitutes today's Study. A Scribe, a man of more than average education, had heard the various questions propounded and had perceived how well our Lord had answered them. Then he assayed a question—quite probably with all sincerity, and not with a view to entrap Jesus. He asked, "Which is the chief commandment of all?"—doubtless referring to the Decalogue. Jesus replied that the first, the chief, of all the commandments is, "Hear, O Israel; The Lord our God is one Lord; and thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength; this is the chief commandment."

Our Lord here made a quotation from the Old Testament. (Deuteronomy 6:4, 5.) How wonderfully comprehensive the statement! Who today, centuries afterward, could more completely epitomize the great truth of this text? Heavenly Wisdom is manifested both in its first statement and in our Lord's reference to it. He added nothing because nothing could be added. In times gone by, we were told that the Almighty God of the Universe had a great hell of torture prepared from before man's creation, in which He purposed that the great majority of humanity should be eternally tormented. But that was in the creeds. The Bible stands out distinctly separate from all human creeds and superstitions, and tells us that God is Love, that He is the Father of Light and Mercy, from whom cometh every good and perfect gift.—James 1:17.

The Second Commandment. Proceeding beyond the question, Jesus declared that the second commandment stands related to the first; namely, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Again we stand astonished. No other religion than that of the Bible reveals such a God of mercy and compassion, as manifested by His loving provision for the welfare of His creatures. No other religion suggests so high a standard of dealing with our fellow men. This Law of God, now nearly four thousand years old, was probably made more or less known through the Jews & other nations and peoples (Deuteronomy 4:8-8), but none of them grasped its true import. The closest approach to this sentiment is probably found in the writings of Confucius, to the effect that one should not do to others what he would not have others do to him. But oh, what a contrast! One is merely a negative statement; the other is positive—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." The Scribe was impressed, and conceded the truth of Jesus' reply. The Master said to him, "Thou art not far from the Kingdom of God." By this Jesus meant that the Scribe was very near to the point where he might become a disciple—one of those waiting for the Kingdom. It was such "Israelites indeed," in whom was no guile, that Jesus especially sought to gather from amongst the Jewish people, preparatory to throwing open to the Gentiles the door of Kingdom privileges. The Jews understood that at Messiah's coming He would select a Kingdom class, to which would be granted Divine power. This was just what Jesus was doing. His words, His teachings, were drawing some and repelling others.

"God Looketh on the Heart." The Temple at Jerusalem was still new, and money was needed for its maintenance, etc. The people were privileged to contribute, and apparently did so with willing hearts, casting their contributions into the treasure boxes of the Temple, which stood near its doorway. Jesus was sitting opposite these boxes, and noted how all classes contributed.

There came along a poor widow, who put into the box two mites—each worth about one-eighth of a cent. Probably by Divine power Jesus knew of her circumstances and her gift. He made it a text for a little sermon to the Apostles. He declared that she had made a larger contribution in God's sight than had any one else; for practically she had cast in all she had, while others had merely contributed out of their abundance what they would perhaps not seriously miss. This little incident shows the Lord's appreciation of sacrifice. It is not the great things that we do, or attempt to do, that He highly esteems. The very small sacrifices and self-denials, that in the world's sight would be nothing, in the Master's sight would be great if they denote love, devotion and self-sacrifice to the Lord and His Cause. It is of just such self-sacrificing material that the Lord makes disciples—the class that do what they can.

We have a big eastern factory in Newark—a big central factory in Chicago and a Western Warehouse in Los Angeles. A complete plant includes the machine, gas pipes, light fixtures and the cooking range. Such a plant costs much less than a water or heating system. It is as permanent as either, and as necessary to make your home modern. Our 3,000 representatives are residents in the districts they serve. Each one established in a permanent growing business. They are on the grounds to see to it personally that purchasers of Pilot plants get "value received" for their money. In your district we are represented by S. A. K. WALDON Cass City, Mich. R. A. The acetylene which feeds this range and the lights on the Jones' place is, of course, home made. Jones makes it himself with the aid of a Pilot Lighting Plant. He fills the light machine with UNION CARBIDE and plain water, once a month. Fred Sheriff was saddened when he came to Cass City from Twining to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Riley Sheriff, to learn that his father had died five weeks previous to his arrival here. John McLellan broke the news to the young man soon after he reached town and before he had found his mother who resides with Grandma Seeger on Main St. west. The Sheriff family formerly resided in Novesta township and Fred left there three months before the family moved to Cass City. When Mr. Sheriff died, Mrs. Sheriff tried to get word to her son, but was unable to do so owing to the fact that she was not certain as to his residence. "Fred first wanted to go to the cemetery to visit his father's grave," said Mrs. Sheriff to the Chronicle Wednesday, "but later decided not to do so. He would rather remember his father as he last saw him about six months ago." Mrs. Sheriff will go to Twining to make her home with her son if the latter does not decide to come to Cass City to live.

No Fiction.

It was a clerk in a Detroit bookstore of whom a prim matron demanded a book for her son. "No fiction, please," she explained. "but absolute, literal truth, without unnecessary verbiage or absurdly fanciful pictures."

"Well, madam"—The bookseller paused, his eye running over his shelves; then, with a flash of inspiration, he took down a volume. "I should think this might meet your requirements," he said, and he handed her a popular geometry.—Exchange.

A Poor Congregation.

Robert Ford in his book "Thistle-down" tells an amusing story of a clergyman who stood for some time one Monday morning watching a man fishing for trout in a Scotch stream.

"I'm a fisher, too," remarked the minister in the course of conversation, adding rather unctuously, "But a fisher of men."

"Aye," was the dry retort of the angler. "I had a peep into your creel yesterday. Ye didna seem to hae caught many!"

TRUE HOPE.

True hope is based on strength of character. A strong mind always hopes and has always cause to hope, because it knows the mutability of human affairs and how slight a circumstance may change the whole course of events.

An Aggravating Boy.

Lord Curzon exhibited brilliant qualities both at Eton and Oxford, but was by no means a quiet, studious boy. One of his mathematical masters told how Curzon gave him more trouble than any boy he ever taught. "He was incessantly playing the fool and 'ragging' and apparently paid no attention to what I was teaching. But what made him more especially aggravating was that, whenever I came down on him suddenly and asked him to go through some difficult problem that I had been explaining, he never failed to give me a perfectly lucid and satisfactory proof. And very often he was the only boy in the class who could."—Pearson's Weekly.

Titled Daughters of Society Leaders Make Newport Season Gay.

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Newport is congratulating itself on the brilliancy of its social season. There are many distinguished guests present and expected. The beautiful and clever young Duchess Consuelo of Marlborough is the guest of her mother, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at Marble House. Other titled daughters of American families who may take part in the social festivities of Newport during the season are Lady Granard, the daughter of Mrs. Ogden Mills; Lady Camoys, daughter of Mrs. William Watts Sherman; Countess Szechenyi, daughter of Mrs. Vanderbilt, and Countess Guy de Lasteyrie.

The rank, beauty and public spirit of the Duchess of Marlborough have made her exceedingly popular in London society. Even Queen Mary has shown her liking for the young American woman who has been so generous with her wealth in relieving the London poor and devoting time and money to many movements for public betterment.

Her entertainments at Sunderland House are brilliant affairs, often graced by the presence of some member of the royal family.

Like her mother, Mrs. Belmont, the duchess is a suffragist, though not a militant one.

Her two boys, the elder of whom, the Marquis of Blandford, is heir to the dukedom, are in England in the care of their tutors.

THE VINE SCREEN.

Beautiful Effect in Nature That May Be Copied For the Lawn.

There is a beautiful curtain of hanging vines, stretching from one tree to another in a certain country place. It is the outgrowth of years, but it could be easily copied on a smaller scale by any one who has patience.

The curtain in question hangs from two old elm trees which stand about twenty feet apart. Virginia creeper is trained to grow up the trunk of the two trees to a height of about fifteen feet, and then it is trained along a strong wire fastened from one tree to the other.

The long tendrils of the creeper have grown many feet, and they hang down and intertwine until now they form a curtain, thick and strong, which reaches to within a few feet of the ground.

This curtain would make a satisfactory substitute for a conventional hedge in some situations. It could be copied with one of the thick growing annual vines, like hop or canary bird vine or balloon vine. Such a curtain could be trained to hang on one end of a sunny porch or veranda.

Of course the vines forming it would need gentle urging. The soil in which they are rooted should be rich and fine, and the vines should be scrupulously watered.

It might be better, in a sunny position, not to train the tendrils of the vine over wire, for wire becomes excessively hot and sometimes burns. Strong cord would be better.

Two Summer Hints.

To remove flyspecks from gilt picture frames beat the white of an egg lightly and add a half teaspoonful of baking soda; wipe the frames with this and then finish with a soft cloth. The legs of silk hose or the long arms cut from silk gloves make excellent cloths for this purpose. They are easily kept clean with soap and water and are easier to use than chamois.

To clean a willow chair scrub with soap and water, rinsing thoroughly in tepid water in which a tablespoonful of borax has been dissolved. This will prevent its yellowing. Then pour warm water over the chair and set it in the sun to dry to keep it from getting brittle. This also serves to tighten the willow.

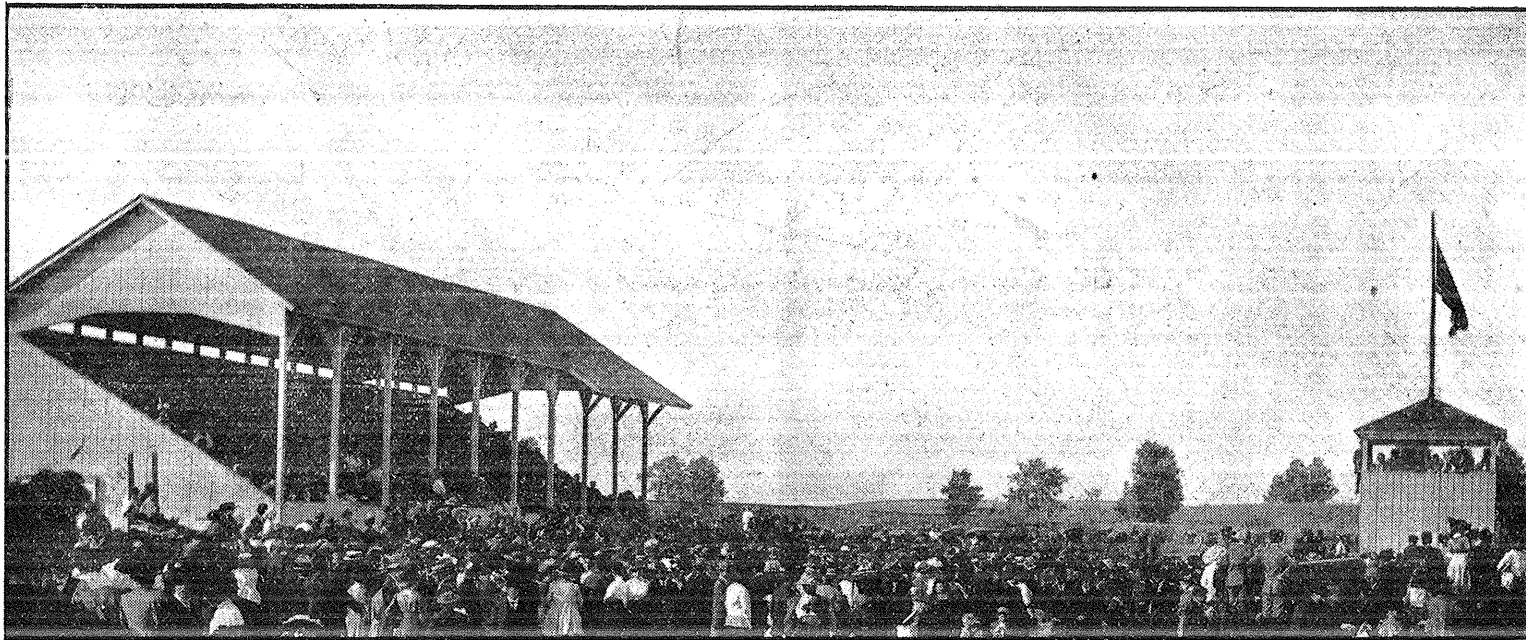

Leather Furniture.

Milk that is heated is excellent for cleaning leather furniture. Use soft cotton cloths and rub all over to take off spots and dirt. Then take a mixture of beeswax, melted and mixed with turpentine, one part wax to two of the turpentine. This should be rubbed in and soft, clean cloths used for rubbing off so dust will not settle.

Building an Auto Every Ten Minutes at the State Fair

BUILDING one automobile is quite a task, and building one in ten minutes presents difficulties that would be insurmountable for every person except Henry Ford. Just to show the people that it can be done he has contracted for one whole side of the Automobile building at the State Fair grounds. This he will transform into an assembling plant, and during the two weeks of the Fair, Sept. 7-18, he will put out a finished automobile every ten minutes during certain portions of the day. The State Fair factory will maintain a production of twenty-five cars daily during the exhibition. The illustration shows the traveling cranes and the tracks on which the chassis run which make possible the remarkable production.

Of Course Bigelow's Sell Furnaces

Like individuals, communities get false impressions and through our activity in featuring Steam and Hot Water Heating, the false idea has been spread that we do not sell Hot Air Furnaces.

We hereby announce that we have been selling Hot Air Furnaces for over twenty-five years and there are now more of our "Jewel Furnaces" in use in this community than any other make.

Among the new users of Jewel All Cast Furnaces are the three up-to-date local churches shown in this ad. That in the Presbyterian church was installed one year ago and our mechanics are now placing "Jewel Furnaces" in the Evangelical and Methodist Churches.

While we cannot take many more contracts for immediate installations, you had better see us. A "Jewel" is worth waiting for. "Buy a Jewel and save Fuel."

In the interest of better service to patrons on rural routes out of Caro, Postmaster Pattison has applied to the department for instructions to carriers to delay departure from 8:30 a. m. until 9:45 a. m.

Rev. S. C. Hathaway of Oberlin, Ohio, has been invited to become the regular pastor of the Caro Presbyterian church. He has accepted the call and will begin his labors there early this month.

Louis F. Shagene, of Argyle, while working on the stone crusher, fell and sustained three broken ribs and was badly cut about the head. Mr. Shagene lost his balance and fell from the scaffold. Some of the stone that were on the scaffold rolled, striking him on the head and cutting it badly.

It is rumored that the Roach canning factory may leave Lexington on account of poor shipping facilities. Crosswell, Bad Axe and Deckerville are said to be places being considered for the new location.

SIGN YOUR NAME.

An admonition that is as old as newspapers themselves, and one which seems never will be observed in all instances is the signing of one's name when sending communications to a paper. We have repeatedly stated that all communications must be signed to receive attention in this office.

The Chronicle regrets that several communications have been received without the names of the senders during the past few weeks. In keeping with the general rule observed by newspapers no communication is published by the Chronicle when the name of the writer is unknown to the publishers. The name must always accompany any contributed news, not that we would print the name of the author in every instance, but that we would have the name as an evidence of good faith. Simply signing, "A Chronicle Reader" or something equal to that expression in vagueness does not fill the bill. We want the news and we appreciate all communications, but the writer must not neglect to sign the communication.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

There will be a reception of probationers in full connection, Sunday morning at First church and in the afternoon at Bethel.

Much credit is due the Board of Stewards for the energetic, business-like way in which they are closing up the financial affairs of the church year. The year has been a record breaker in all departments of church life. It has been a steady progress and has been possible only because of the harmony, faithfulness and consecration of the membership.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The Boys' Athletic Association was re-organized Aug. 31 with the following officers at its head: Dugald Duncanson, pres; Nelson Higgins, vice pres; Otis Stockmeyer, sec-treas. The association decided to run a lunch counter at the fair next week and would appreciate very much the patronage of the people. "Watch for the High School stand." Our prospects for foot ball are not quite as good as they were last year, the bunch being very light, but we'll have to make each pound count as two. We have hopes of a successful year so if the town will boost, we will do something.

O. T. Stockmeyer, Secretary.

The average value of wood consumed in the United States is $2.91 per cord and $4.48 in this State. The average consumption per farm in the United States is 11 cords per annum.

Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Hayward and children returned Wednesday from a delightful vacation of three weeks at Walkerton, Ont., where they were the guests of Mrs. Hayward's uncle and aunt. Three weeks of enjoyment did not make home the less welcome, however, and they were happy to return again to Cass City. Rev. Hayward says "war talk" is less prevalent there than in the states and the Canadian news is so censored that little if anything is said of the German movements. One pleasing fact Mr. Hayward noticed in the church activities across the border was the punctuality of the attendants at church services.
