GAGETOWN.

Mrs. Sellers of Caro spent the first of last week with her sister, Miss E. Miller.
Miss Lizzie Lenhard went to Saginaw last Wednesday to visit her sister, Mrs. A. Rochleau.
Miss Jennie Wolf of Detroit came Monday for a two weeks' visit with her mother, Mrs. C. Wolf.
Mr. and Mrs. B. Bingham left Saturday for a month's visit with relatives at Unionville, Gaylord and Harrison.
J. L. Winchester, who has been ailing for some time, entered the hospital last Thursday, at Bad Axe for treatment.
Mr. and Mrs. Geo. LaClair have moved into the rooms in the Seurnyck building which were recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McComb.
Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Winchester met with quite a serious accident last Sunday evening when the team became frightened at a passing automobile driven by P. Bartholomy. The occupants were thrown out and sustained very severe injuries. Mrs. Winchester was taken to the home of Mr. Poole where she remained unconscious for a long time.

WICKWARE.

Too late for last week.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Dodge and family of Deford and Miles and Fred Dodge of Elmwood spent Sunday with their brother, Steve Dodge.
Eugene Hartwick and mother, Mrs. H. Hartwick, and Bertie Wayne visited relatives in Elmwood Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ross of Cass City were callers at Steve Dodge's home Sunday.
Mrs. Floyd Townsend of Gladwin visited her mother, Mrs. H. Hartwick, part of last week.
The Wickware W. C. T. U. met at the church Thursday afternoon. There were seven of the new members present to join the union. Two other members were taken in at a previous meeting. After the short program, refreshments consisting of sandwiches, pickles, potato salad, pie, cheese, tea and assorted cakes were served. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all present. It is hoped that we may have more of these meetings in the near future.

TINSEL EFFECTS POPULAR.

Spangles and Metallic Laces on Elegant New Evening Gowns.

WHITE CRAPE EVENING GOWN.

Spangles and metallic laces are featured for popularity this season. Paris has accorded them high favor in the designing of evening gowns. The model illustrated is of white tango crape, the skirt draped to form a slash and trimmed with two rippled bouffants of spangled net. The bodice is of black tulle with long flowing drapery.

THE ICE SUPPLY.

Economy in Buying an Ample Quantity For the Refrigerator.
Ice is not a cleanly product in spite of its crystal clearness. It collects dust and germs on its travels. If it is not possible to wash it on the back porch, set it in the sink and dash cold water over it so that it may go into the ice box as clean as possible. Remember that it is a saving to keep the ice chamber of the refrigerator full.

A good big piece three times a week is much more economical, both in regard to the degree of coldness maintained and the amount of ice required, than a piece every day.

Never put foods in the ice chamber. It is the very warmest part of the refrigerator, and the presence of food, either lying upon or standing against the ice, causes it to melt more rapidly. The only exception to this rule may be in the case of a vegetable which is wanted very crisp, as salad, etc.; then we must accept the extra melting. Very carefully wash the lettuce or parsley, cress or celery, wrap it in oiled paper and lay on the ice for a couple of hours.

EVENING SLIPPERS.

Extreme Elegance is This Season's Footwear For Smart Women.
Much importance is attached to the elegance of the footwear donned with evening costumes. Illustrated here one sees the latest novelty in evening slippers in black satin with embroidery of silver metal threads, clear crystal beads and rhinestone brilliants. It emphasizes the fondness for black and white effects by use of white crystal beads and jet in combination. Much importance is attached to decorative footwear in Paris. This model is shown in vivid shades of satin matching the dress. With these slippers are stockings in fine black silk duplicating the pattern of embroidery on the slippers.

SATIN EVENING SLIPPERS.

Hand Mirror Case.

For the woman who travels a hand mirror case will be a convenience. It is made of heavy cardboard lined with cotton flannel and covered with cretonne and bound with gold galleon. The two sections are caught together all around the handle and part way up the sides of the round part of the glass, then left open so that the glass may be slipped in. Ribbon ties at the end hold it in place.

SYSTEM IN FARMING.

One fact we seek to impress on all is that system and intelligent management are quite as necessary in successful farming as in any other occupation, says Professor, W. J. Spillman of the department of agriculture. There is an utter lack of system in the management of farm enterprises on many farms. Too little attention has been given to standardizing systems of management of enterprises for different localities. Herein is an explanation of the low average returns from the farming industry. The great success that invariably has followed the application of intelligent system to farm management demonstrates the truth of this statement.
The small farm quite as much as the large farm—in fact, more so—requires systematic farm management. The large farm often is easier and cheaper to manage than the small farm, since to get profit such intensive methods as a small farm requires are not needed.

STORING CELERY.

Advantages of Field Pitting and Celery Care.
From bulletin of Montana experiment station.

Celery may be either pitted in the field or stored in a cool, well ventilated cellar. As a rule, however, cellars under the dwelling are too warm and not well enough ventilated to keep celery long. In pitting in the field a trench is dug twelve inches deep and eighteen inches wide, and the plants are set upright in this, with a little dirt worked in about the roots. The plants may be set as close as convenient without crowding. If the ground is dry the trench should be filled with water and this allowed to seep away before the plants are set in. If to be left in the trench only a short time a light covering of straw will be all the protection needed. If to be stored until severe freezing weather comes it will be necessary to build a framework over the trench to keep the weight of the covering off the plants and pile upon this, as needed, straw and earth to keep the plants from severe freezing. Ventilators should be provided at intervals in the covering.

In a good cool cellar, with a dirt floor and good ventilation, Golden Self Blanching or Giant Pascal may be stored until after the holidays without any trouble. The plants are placed in the cellar about as if pitted in the field, not too crowded, and with a little dirt worked in about the roots. Alleys should be left every eighteen inches to allow for watering and to give good ventilation. The cellar should be ventilated in the cool of the day and closed during the warm hours. The temperature should be kept as near 32 degrees as possible. In watering celery in cellar storage run the water on the surface of the soil in the alleys and never wet the leaves.

Fruit Picking Bag.
For reaching inaccessible parts of fruit trees the half bushel basket is not as convenient as the bag. But the bag is an awkward thing to manage without some such device as the one illustrated herewith. It consists of a stout wire not smaller than No. 9 to hold the mouth open, as shown. From each end of this wire a stout cord is hemmed in the mouth of the bag up to the ring, into which when the bag is in use a snap hook attached to a strap is caught. The strap is firmly sewed to the bottom corner of the bag, which is slung over the shoulder and carried under the arm. By proper manipulation the fruit need not be bruised as in ordinary bag gathering methods.

AN OPEN MOUTH.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Onions should be harvested and put on the market as soon as possible. Pull and throw three or four rows together to dry and then clean and market in hundred pound sacks.
Fall planting is generally recommended for peonies and is much to be preferred above spring planting since the buds start so early in spring that it is practically impossible to get them set in time unless one buys plants from a reliable cold storage. Many of the best gardeners, however, always transplant their peony crowns in late summer, the last week in August or the first week in September. At this time the plants are perfectly dormant, having completed their year's growth, and the transplanting is less of a shock than at any other time.

The New Black Hawk Manure Spreader

The latest improved LOW DOWN. The only SPREADER with a CONCAVE.

20 REASONS WHY

it is the simplest and strongest—the most satisfactory one to buy.

- REASON NO. 1
Because it has an AUTOMOBILE front axle. What advantage is that?
- REASON NO. 2
It provides a short turn and short wheel base, which means a short spreader. This means light draft.
- REASON NO. 3
It means there is no neck weight and no side lash of the pole, and has the most simple and convenient set-over pole ever seen on a spreader; readily adapted to the use of 2, 3 or 4 horses.
- REASON NO. 4
It means the wheels are under the spreader, where they should be; not projecting out on each end.
- REASON NO. 5
This spreader is from 6 to 8 feet shorter than other LOW DOWN spreaders of the same capacity, while the extreme height from the ground to the top of the side boards, midway between the wheels, is under 41 inches; our style of construction gives a clearance of several inches more under the machine than is possible on the long coupled LOW DOWN spreaders. This feature is very desirable in trashy fields or in rough traveling, and is also a great convenience when it is necessary to load manure from under the machine.
- REASON NO. 6
The rear wheels do not project out behind the cylinder, to be filled up with manure on windy days and when working on hillsides.
- REASON NO. 7
The cylinder is not on the rear axle. The rear axle has enough to do to carry the load and furnish the power. This means small repair bills.
- REASON NO. 8
Because it is the only spreader that has a CONCAVE, which is the greatest improvement ever put on a manure spreader.
- REASON NO. 9
The CONCAVE will regulate the backward movement of the load, so there can be no racing backward when going up hill or driving over rough ground.
- REASON NO. 10
You can drive up a hillside as steep as a house roof and the load will not slip backward and choke the cylinder.
- REASON NO. 11
The CONCAVE will cure 90 per cent of your spreader trouble and breakage, because it prevents choking of the cylinder.
- REASON NO. 12
The CONCAVE will keep the manure out of the cylinder while loading, so the cylinder is free to start and will not throw out bunches.
- REASON NO. 13
The CONCAVE causes the spreader to pulverize better, run lighter, spread more evenly, and gives absolute control of the load when going up hill or going down hill.
- REASON NO. 14
The rear axle of the BLACK HAWK SPREADER has three bearings instead of two. These bearings are held in line with a double wood bolster. This is the best combination ever made for hauling heavy loads over rough ground.
- REASON NO. 15
The cylinder runs in babbitted self-aligning bearings. The bed of the spreader is too inches wider behind than in front. Great combination for light draft.
- REASON NO. 16
The bottom of the BLACK HAWK SPREADER is made of first-class White Oak. It is stronger, better made, better ironed, better painted, and will last longer than any other.
- REASON NO. 17
The material in the BLACK HAWK SPREADER is of the very best. Genuine Oak cylinder bars—Oak cross pieces—Oak bottom, and an Oak frame that will keep its shape; at the same time has a life and flexibility not possible in metal construction. The doubltrees and singletrees are Hickory.
- REASON NO. 18
The BLACK HAWK SPREADER is simple, strong and durable. There is not a cog wheel on the whole machine. All nuts that are liable to work loose are secured with lock nuts.
- REASON NO. 19
The BLACK HAWK SPREADER has the capacity and light draft that will enable an average team to do a big day's work, and do it right. It has a range of feed from 3 to 75 loads per acre.
- REASON NO. 20
Before you buy, take a look at the new LOW DOWN BLACK HAWK SPREADER with CONCAVE. You will like its looks, and you do not need to be an expert or mechanic to see that this spreader is high class and first-class in every respect. It is built to last, stay sold and give satisfaction. It bristles with D. M. SECHLER quality, design, material and workmanship. If you appreciate and like to work with a real good tool honestly made, get acquainted with the NEW BLACK HAWK at Woman's World Mrs. George Law, International Beauty, a Red Cross Nurse. Includes a portrait of Mrs. George Law.

MRS. GEORGE LAW American women who live in Paris and London have been leaders in relief work there. Money for the work, splendid mansions for use as hospitals and personal service have all been tendered to the Red Cross. Mrs. George Law of New York, whose beauty has been the admiration of two continents, is one of the recruits. It is with the French Red Cross that she is said to intend to work. Mrs. Law was Miss Alga Smith. In 1894 she married George Law, who made a fortune in traction interests. Her husband died in 1898, and she was left a widow at twenty-two years of age, with an income of $300,000 a year. Since the death of her husband Mrs. Law has lived in Europe, residing in Paris and London. She has been presented at most of the European courts and was a friend of the late King Edward and Queen Alexandra. At various times she has been reported engaged to the maharajah of Kapurthala, the khedive of Egypt, Count de Dion, Count Chasselon, Prince Fuerstenberg and Gerald Lefevre Pontalis.

THE BURDEN BEARERS.

In France It is Up to the Women, Says a Correspondent. "The women of France who paid the 5,000,000,000 francs of indemnity to Germany with their economies have announced their intention to harvest the fields and care for the country's herds and flocks while their husbands, sons and brothers fight the battles of the republic on Alsatian and Belgian battlefields," says Joseph Chamberlain in the New York Mail. "There is no picture of human or public devotion in all history which surpasses in pathos and beauty the record of the women of France. It is they who have chiefly suffered by the wars of conquest or defense that their kings, emperors and presidents have waged, and it is always by their industry, their thrift, their quiet wisdom, that the ravages of war are repaired. "For the French wife is the 'business man' of the household. It is generally she who carries on the little shop which keeps the family alive or makes it prosperous. It is she who makes the family's plans and advances its fortunes. Her economies make it possible for the French people to pay the heaviest taxes in Europe and to pay them without a murmur. "And it is she who will stand in the gap and save the home industries and the production of France in the present crisis." Some two months ago the French suffragists held their parade in Paris. No police protection was given them, but the usually excitable Paris crowd watched in silence and respect. No police were needed.

HOW TO EAT PEACHES.

Always Discard Skins, as Physicians Pronounce Them Unwholesome. The aristocrat of fruits, tracing its lineage far back to China and Persia, the peach, is now with us and at its very best. While a ripe, fresh peach peeled and eaten out of hand can scarcely be improved upon, desserts, salads and other dishes run a close second. The skin never should be eaten under any circumstances, but the flesh of a ripe peach is permitted by up to date physicians as entirely wholesome—so much so that very young children and even typhoid patients are allowed its use. One well known physician goes so far as to declare that in dysentery troubles the peculiar acids of the peach, when ripe and sound, was better than any medicine that could be suggested. It would, however, be on the side of safety to consult one's local doctor before administering peaches ad lib. to any patient.

Lace Plate Covers. Covers for plates of cakes and sandwiches are made of filet lace, mounted on wire frames to give them the proper form. Some are square, some round and some domelike, and they are made in various sizes. For refreshments served on the lawn or veranda these lace covers are most useful, for they protect the cakes or sandwiches or biscuits under them from flies and dust.

The War, and the Price of Shoes

HOWEVER distasteful it may be to contemplate, the fact must be admitted that the price of shoes will shortly be materially affected by the present war conditions in Europe. It cannot be otherwise, as 75 per cent of our calfskins come from Austria and Germany, and 90 per cent of the goat and kid leathers come from Russia and India.

It so happened that we have prepared heavily for fall and winter this year. Our stocks embrace complete provisions in shoes for men, women and children in spite of the fact that we shall more likely have to replenish stocks within ninety days, when prices will have advanced from 50 to 75 cents per pair.

And while they last Crosby & Son's prices will not be advanced---

If there was ever a time when it paid to buy early it is this season, and we are particularly anxious that all regular customers of ours shall provide their Fall and Winter footwear before an advance in prices becomes necessary. Present prices are the same as they always have been.

Again we advise you to buy early.

CIRCUIT COURT NOTES

Liquor Law Violator Gets 20 Days and $100 Fine.

A stiff sentence of two years at hard labor in the Michigan state penitentiary at Jackson was handed out Thursday by Judge Watson Beach to Lloyd Osborn, found guilty of stealing a horse at Deford Sunday night.

Lyle Patch, the 14-year-old boy implicated in the crime with Osborn, was released, the court holding that Osborn was responsible for the theft.

The passing of sentence upon convicted persons marked the closing of the September term of circuit court. The two-year sentence given to Osborn was the most severe.

Raymond Wagner suffered a penalty of serving a minimum of one year or a maximum of two years at the house of correction at Ionia. He was guilty of unlawfully taking and using an automobile.

Another sentence that was not long but which was sensational was that of 20 days in the county jail and a fine of $100 assessed against Elbridge DeLong formerly of Reese, convicted of a violation of the liquor law. The costs of $50 were also charged to DeLong. The sentence further provides that in case the fine and costs are not paid within the 20 days DeLong serves, he shall remain in the jail until the amount is paid, provided that he shall not be held more than 40 days after the 20-day sentence expires. DeLong has disposed of his hotel and liquor business at Reese and gone to farming since the affair which caused his conviction. He will start serving his sentence October 15.

Pall Zanoski and Felix Kavinski, two foreigners from Reese, were found guilty of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder. They were given nine months each at Ionia to think it over.

Judge Beach told James Jones, convicted of assault and battery after he had been arrested, charged with "assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder," that the jury had been lenient with him. Under the circumstances Judge Beach sentenced him to only 90 days in the county jail. Jones attacked Albert Reinbold at Reese.

Charles Martin drew one year at Ionia for assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder.

Several divorces were granted. Wilhelm M. Ranke was freed from Katherine Ranke on the grounds of desertion. William Freeman obtained a decree from Lillie Freeman.

Bonna Cornell obtained a divorce from Braid H. Cornell of Fairgrove upon a cross bill.

Ralph Timlick and Douglas Miller, guilty of larceny from the person, are on probation for a year.

The case against Frank Cooper, Robert Babcock and Earl Foster was continued to the December term of court. That against Calvin Hall, charged with larceny, and against Gerald Shaver, charged with stealing, were also continued.—Caro Advertiser.

All Around The Farm

HENHOUSE VENTILATION.

Much Sickness Caused by Improper Air Feeding.

From bulletin of Illinois experiment station.

The ventilation of a poultry house is very important. A house with tight walls, roof and floor and an open front will contain cold, dry and pure air, three essentials for the health of the fowls in winter. With such a construction there will be no drafts, but plenty of fresh air. Cloth curtains on the front openings can be dropped on cold nights or during stormy weather, and a glass window will allow entrance of light at all times.

Many cases of colds have been cured by removing the south side of the house and allowing sunshine and cold, pure air to enter. Hens must not freeze, neither do they need to be kept too warm.

A WELL VENTILATED HENHOUSE.

In the summer time a ventilator in the back of the house is opened. Air enters this and goes up between the studding and rafters through the hood, above the heads of the fowls. This allows circulation of air, thereby allowing the warm air to escape in the summer without a draft on the chickens' heads. To allow for this air passage the back plate is cut out between three studding.

It is not advisable to use ventilator shafts or other devices to insure ventilation. In fact, many houses that have proved satisfactory in every way have no ventilating schemes whatever nor any roosting hood.

EXTERMINATE WHITE GRUBS.

These Pests Are Likely to Cause Untold Losses Next Year.

[Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

The destructive May beetles, or so called June bugs, as was previously predicted by the United States department of agriculture, were extremely abundant the past spring in northeastern Iowa, southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois, parts of Minnesota, the southern part of Michigan and northern Ohio; also in northeastern Pennsylvania, southeastern New York, parts of Connecticut and New Jersey. This is indicative of a great abundance of white grubs in 1915, and, judging from the greater abundance of beetles in most of these sections last spring than three years ago, the grub injury will be even greater than in 1912, when it caused many millions of dollars damage. It is of greatest importance, the department's specialists say, that farmers properly handle their fields this fall and next spring to prevent a repetition of the enormous losses occasioned in 1912.

The beetles lay their eggs in land covered with vegetation at the time of their flight (May and June); consequently land in small grain, timothy and such crops which cover the ground as well as land overgrown with weeds at that time, are most likely to be infested the following year. It is also noticeable that ground nearest timber will be heaviest infested, other conditions being equal, since the parent beetles feed on tree foliage and do not fly great distances if they can find suitable places to lay their eggs near by.

Fields likely to be infested with grubs should be thoroughly plowed between Sept. 15 and Oct. 10. The date of plowing will depend on latitude, and the weather conditions for the grubs go down as cold weather approaches, and it is desirable to plow the fields just before they go down when possible. If the grubs are abundant, hogs should be allowed to run in the field wherever this can be done. Chickens and turkeys are also valuable aids if allowed the run of newly plowed ground. If it is impracticable to make use of hogs to rid the infested fields of grubs a deep and thorough disking should follow the plowing, and in 1915 only crops least susceptible to injury, such as small grains, buckwheat, clover, vetch, etc., should be planted, and by no means should susceptible crops, such as corn, timothy and potatoes, be planted. While fall plowing should be practiced and is of great value for destroying grubs, nevertheless it cannot be depended upon solely to eradicate grubs. Cornfields which were kept cultivated and free from an undergrowth of weeds in May and June of 1914 may, with reasonable safety, be planted to corn or potatoes in 1915, although it is advisable to inspect the field first for grubs.

Proper precautions and planning of rotations for next year at this time will save many thousands of dollars in crops which otherwise would almost certainly be destroyed by the grubs.

EVANGELICAL CHURCH.

Rally Day will be observed Sunday in connection with the regular Sunday school service. A short program will be given and the pastor will close with an address.

Woman Spends $600,000,000 For Hats.

HERE is a sum so great one cannot comprehend its enormity, and yet it is said the women of the world spend that amount every year for hats. On the face of it, it seems woman is extravagant, but if we divide the total amount by the number of women in the world, the sum each one spends is diminutive, and if compared to man's hat bill, would be in woman's favor.

Our Fall and Winter Millinery Is In,

And, while there is not $600,000,000 worth of it, the line is large enough to allow you to choose something absolutely correct at a very low figure.
