About a dozen young ladies were initiated into the secrets of the Priscilla Club Monday evening and perhaps some citizens who wondered at the boisterous behavior of certain popular young ladies will now understand that this action was obligatory. The club met at Dr. A. N. Treadgold's home with Miss Anna Finkbeiner as hostess and after the new ones had been blindfolded and plentifully daubed with lamp black, they were taken for an hour's stroll around the city, each one being obliged to do some especially exciting stunt along the route. Finally the crowd arrived at the home of Miss Edythe Mead where the candidates were brought to light and entertained by more stunts and Priscilla songs. As a final touch to the initiation each candidate was presented with a beautiful flower which they are to wear constantly until the next Priscilla meeting as a mark of fidelity. Delightful refreshments consisting of brick ice cream, cake and wafers were served.

MAINTENANCE OF HIGH STANDARDS IS FIRST THOUGHT OF MANAGERS

Conscientious Efforts Being Put Forth to Give to Communities Not Entertainment Alone, But Vital Messages of Uplift and Inspiration—Lyceum Platform Doing a Great Work.

THOUSANDS KNOCK AT DOORS OF THE BUREAUS, BUT FEW ARE CHOSEN

NOT long since a leading Ohio daily paper was conducting a Lyceum entertainment course for its patrons, and a member of the staff suggested that possibly the attractions offered were too "high-brow" and that lighter material should be substituted. Acting on the suggestion, the manager wrote the Coit Lyceum Bureau of Cleveland, O., from whom the attractions were being secured, intimating that the substitution of lighter entertainment to its inquiry, the paper said editorially: "That has been the reason for the signal success which the Lyceum has attained. That is why the Lyceum courses multiply from year to year. That is why Lyceum attractions are always clean, why there is nothing objectionable about them, why each year a superior line of offerings is made. The Lyceum business is profitable, certainly. It ought to be for its pro-

Cartoons by Ned Woodman

Cultivate or Degenerate—Which Shall it Be?

tainments would popularize the course.

The reply of the bureau was typical of its spirit. It summed up the Lyceum ideal, which is making the Lyceum a moving force for good in America. The Lyceum, said the manager of the bureau, in his reply, should not try to give the people just what they want. The moment it caters wholly to public demand it falls from the high standard it has set for itself, and removes itself from its distinctive field of operation to become a competitor of the cheap theater and trashy amusement hall.

Commenting editorially upon the significant reply made by the Coit Bureaus take great risks. But it is well to remember that it is not primarily a money-making institution. It has certain very high standards, both moral and technical."

It can but be a matter of pride to our community that the local Lyceum committee is associated with a bureau which preserves to so high a degree the best Lyceum ideals, and refuses to sacrifice quality at the altar of commercialism. The list of talent under contract with the Coit Bureau is known as "the select list," and it is indeed a select list of men and women chosen for the exceptional character of their message to the communities of America.

SAVE THE HOME TOWN SAYS MAGAZINE EDITOR

The Greatest Get-Together Agency at Work in the Nation Is the Lyceum and Chautauqua Movement.

MAKE YOUR HOME TOWN THE BRIGHT SPOT ON THE MAP

THOUSANDS of towns and villages are dead or dying—and they don't know it! (The dead rarely know it!) They have lost sight, heart and hearing, says Ralph Parlette, in the Lyceum Magazine. They have sleeping sickness; and have been torn by feuds and schisms; have been stabbed by trolley wires; have committed sears-roebuck-icide. They have cut their long distance connection with Progress and blown out the gas. They say to every child reaching skyward: "Is not this the Carpenter's son?"

So Jesus did not do mighty works in Nazareth, and He left the Home Town. Every Home Town that is losing its boys and girls is losing its immortality. The town that young people leave is the town that young people ought to leave. "The reason some boys go to hell is because they have no other place to go!"

O, let us save the Home Towns! America is to become glorious not in the glory of a few great cities, but in the glory of innumerable Homes and Home Towns. Here is the source of the red blood of redemption, not the crowd and the storkless city.

The Lure of the Country must conquer the Lure of the City. We must get together and make the Home Town the brightest spot on the map. The greatest get-together agency in the world is the Lyceum and Chautauqua movement, as it gets together all the town and then brings all the world to its gates. Where the Lyceum and Chautauqua have failed they have been run as peanut stand propositions. They must be made great by getting a great vision of them. This is Conservation—the Conservation of the Home Town and its most precious product, the next generation.

We can not save the city until we save the village. The menace of the swelling city is the menace of the shrinking village. The village which fails to support the Lyceum should be arrested for failure to defend its homes. The Home Town must wake from its stagnation, its local conceit, its factional feuds. It must line up solidly its churches, its schools, its Lyceum, its people—not a few people, but all the people!

This community needs the Lyceum, and it needs every good citizen enlisted as the champion of this great free forum. The brains, the culture, the art, the oratory, the opportunity of the world are brought to our doors by it. We can make no more effective contribution to the Better Community than a whole-hearted interest in and support of this young giant in the fight for Civic Morality—the Lyceum.

No boy ever left a home town which offered him the opportunities he craves. Give him clean amusements, good music, proper associations, and an opportunity for Service, and he'll remain in the Home Town, to be a dreamer and a builder, and lift the Home Town up. Stifle his energies by robbing him of right amusements, and you turn his eye rovingly to the bright lights of the cities. The Lyceum is the Hope of the Home Town! It brings to the youth the vision of Service! It glorifies labor for humanity! It entertains and uplifts! Happy the town that has beheld the vision, and feeds its youth at the Lyceum banquet table!

"The Lyceum is dying out," barks an occasional croaker. But it isn't. It is founded on human need, and it will continue to grow, just as schools and churches grow.

 signed before the affidavit accompanying the petitions was made. This was not done and as a result it looks as if the board will not be required to submit this question to the voters next spring.—Sandusky Farmer.

The local option forces of Sanilac county recently met at Carsonville to make arrangements for the campaign next spring. A county committee was named as follows: J. C. Merriman, chairman, Deckererville; Dr. W. T. Atkinson, Secretary, Mariette; A. R. Niles, treasurer, Carsonville.

Two small children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lindsay, had a narrow escape from being burned to death Monday morning at their home in Bad Axe. Mrs. Lindsay had gone to a neighbors for a minute and as the children, aged two and four years, were not dressed yet she locked the door so that they couldn't get out. The house was discovered to be on fire by Irma Babcock, a child in the next house, who called her mother's attention to it. The latter ran to the Lindsay home and found the kitchen ablaze, with the flames almost surrounding the screaming children. By the aid of two men, who were passing, the house was broken into and the children rescued just in time to save their lives. Tribune.

Sebawaing might have had a disastrous fire Saturday evening when a barrel of alcohol caught fire and exploded in Herman Clabuesch's drug store. Arthur Wender, who is employed in the store, had been drawing off some of the fluid in one of the back rooms of the store and used a lighted candle to illuminate the room, which is not lighted with electricity. He had just left the room, carrying the candle with him when he heard the explosion, and, turning, saw the place in flames. A couple of men who happened to be in the store made a rush for the burning cask and rolled it out doors, running the risk of having their clothing ignited by the burning fluid. The peculiar part of the explosion was that the burning alcohol did not set the store on fire. The only trace it left in the building was a cracked board in the roof, which was struck by the barrel head. After the barrel had been removed outside no fire remained in the place whatever. The flames of the cask were put off by prompt action with a fire extinguisher.—Blade.

SMEN LRUOJ LIRIOO

Wintermute Found Guilty. Disagreement in Smith Case.

(From Sanilac Co. Farmer).

After listening to the case of the People vs. George Wintermute, who was convicted for violation of the local option law last Friday, a new jury was secured, some of whom were talesmen, to try the People vs. John W. Smith, of Lexington, charged with violation of the local option law last July.

The case was simple in that the prosecution claimed that Smith sold gin to a detective; and that gin was found on the premises several days after the sale when the raids were made. Mr. Smith denied the charge, stating that he never sold nor possessed intoxicating liquors at the time, and in fact never had any all summer. Evidently some of the jurors believed Smith as they could not agree upon a verdict. However, it is understood that Mr. Smith will again be brought to trial at the January term of court as new evidence has been discovered since the trial began.

As Judge Beach did not desire to have the same jurors sit on the several local option cases, he ordered that another panel be drawn. These were summoned to court on Monday noon, but did not sit to hear the case of the People vs. Joseph Johnson as the attorney for the defendant made a motion for continuance, the judge setting it for trial on the fourth of November.

The first regular jury is called for next Monday to hear the case of the People vs. Charles Fisk who is charged with burning his store in Crosswell. This case will probably last all week. During this time between jury cases, Judge Beach is listening to chancery matters. The first of the week he heard some testimony in the divorce case of Annie O'Conner vs. John O'Conner and Wednesday afternoon heard witnesses in the divorce matter of Daniel Nehmer vs. Martha Nehmar, residents of Crosswell.

Thursday morning the chancery case of Andrew Wedge and Ellen Wedge vs. George A. Wedge and Ellen Wedge was being tried. This case involves the title to land. Wm. H. Burgess represents the complainant and F. A. Farr the defendant.
