PUBLIC SCHOOL COMMENTS

A Brief Resume of Happenings on the Hill.

Great ingenuity was shown by the work of the pupils of Mrs. Beyette's room with their sand table. The children have been studying the life of Hiawatha by Longfellow, and have combined with it a partial study of the Pilgrims. By means of a sand table and material brought by the children, they have worked out a plan of their study. A tiny woods was formed of evergreen and beech boughs and in front of this little imitation forest, a miniature lake was made of glass and blue paper underneath to represent the bay where the Pilgrims landed, while on the shore a large stone was placed to represent Plymouth Rock. Along the shore were many tiny birch canoes and wooden paddles fashioned by the children, and the beach was strewn with shells. By soaking reed and corn husks the smail students created little figures of Indians and with dark colored cloth made fringed garment: for them. They were grouped about the shore and under the trees. The Pilgrims were represented by card board figures, some as armed men, others as women and children. The fort, the work of little Frederick Monroe of the first grade, was fashioned of card board, with logs, windows and doors in drawing. Interesting indeed were the tiny wigwams of birch bark and the Indian camp fire under the trees which were hung with the children, little papooses in their strange cradles. The work showed much study. The children, as well as teacher, are to be commend-

IMPRESSIONS OF THE EUROPEAN WAR

IRISH NOT ENTHUSIASTIC OVER CONTEST.

So Says Miss Charlotte Herrington, a Bad Axe Young Lady, in Writing About Conflict.

In writing of the "Impressions of the War in England and Ireland," in the Huron County Tribune, Miss Charlotte Herrington, a Bad Axe young lady, says that the Irish are not enthusiastic over the contest. She says in part:

"It was on the fourth of August, when we were visiting in Greystones, a quiet little seaside place in Ireland, that war was declared between England and Germany. The news was received there with very little excitement, as the Irish people had already been thinkinr of war-of civil warfor months. Now, the Home Rule controversy fell for a time into the background, and war with Germany became the new topic of general interest.

"It was not until the next day, when we arrived in Wexford, that we comprehended the full significance of the war. Wexford is a city of 12,-000, about 100 miles south of Dublin on the coast. It is a typical Irish town, that is, it is only an overgrown village. The streets in the old part of the town, the business section, are narrow and crooked and dark. In fact, they are so narrow that two donkey carts are barely able to pass one another there. And when Lady Morris' limousine (the wonder of the country street, all other vehicles needs must disappear. mother and the physician on his last visit was, I think, well worthy of recording here. The mother had told the doctor she felt so thankful that he had saved her child's life.

"That may be," said the physician, but your own training of that child is what has more likely saved her life. Teaching her how to gargle, to have her temperature taken, to have her throat examined, and to take evenbad-tasting medicine when necessary has made it much easier for me and far better for the child. Many of my little patients have a fear of a gate.

REFUSED TO RECOGNIZE DAY

Puritans of England Made Christmas Illegal and Declared It a Misdemeanor to Be Gay.

English Puritans of the seventeenth century guarded against looking upon see!" the rosy side of life.

Because Christmas is really a survival of the Celts' Yule, and is not mother's eyes on Christmas morning the actual anniversary of the birth of were proof of its success.-Youths' Christ, they refused to countenance Christmas festivities. Not only did they refuse to recognize the day, but they made laws to that effect.

CHRISTMAS CONSPIRACY How Grandmother's Heart Was Gladdened by Remembrances From the Children. "Grandmother Jessup!"

Stella's tone was distinctly accusing; it was evident that grandmother had something to answer for. Grandmother, from her invalid chair, looked across at the girl who stood at her bureau drawer. She had endured years of pain and weakness; but they had not succeeded in quenching the spirit in the frail figure; her voice was as saucy as a girl's. "Not guilty-what is it?

"It's your handkerchiefs. How many dozen have you?"

"Seven or eight. You see, I have seven of the dearest grandchildren in the world. It's queer, isn't it, that your nose should be so especially honored when you grow old?"

But Stella's grav eyes forgot to laugh back at grandmother's. Something had disconcerted her. She put the handkerchiefs back, made some trivial excuse, and ran up to her own room, where her sister and cousins were holding a Christmas conclave. "I wonder," she burst out, "that grandmother can endure Christmas at all!"

"What under the sun do you mean?" Corinne and Isabella exclaimed together.

"Corinne, what did you give grandmother for Christmas last year?" "A box of handkerchiefs. Why?"

"And you, Isabella?" "An embroidered handkerchief with little weeny initials." "Mollie?"

"Two handkerchiefs," Mollie confessed. "There didn't seem to be anything else-except slumber slippers, and Aunt Maria always knits those.'

"And Laurie and I gave her handkerchiefs. We always give her handkerchiefs-because she's old, and they're the easiest thing to think of! Girls-she isn't old-she's as young as any of us down in her heart, and she, sible. To bake the pastry you must loves pretty things just as much as ever. This year let's give her the biggest surprise of her life-a Christmas that will make her really happy.' "But how-what-" Corinne stammered.

"What do we like best-each of us?"

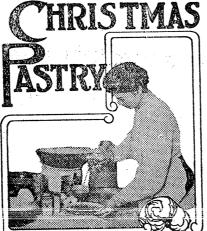

"Jewels!" "Books!" "Hand embroidery!" "Candy!" "Silk stockings!" The answers came in a laughing shower.

"Well, then, why not? Grandma'd love a bit of jewelry from us-chosen just for her. And books-not 'Thoughts of Cheer,' as if she were melancholy, but love stories that end well. And why not embroider her something? And if not silk stockings, then a pair of slippers with tiny velvet bows. As for candy, she'd love to have it to pass round, even if she couldn't eat much herself."

"And let Bob and Archie send her their absurd jokes as they do to the rest of us? It doesn't seem-respectful.'

"But grandma doesn't want to be seemed-respectful-to," Stella declared. "She'd just love to be counted in with the rest of us. little vanities and jokes and all. O girls, try it once and

And that was the way the Christmas conspiracy started. Grand-

IES-mince, cranberry, pumpkin etc .- are an important part of the Christmas dinner. Owing to the many other rich ingredients which comprise the Christmas feast, heavy pastry is likely to prove disastrous. Unless the housewife is an excellent pastry maker she would be wise to buy her Christmas pies. Only the best materials should go to the making of the Christmas pastry. Most housewives use lard instead of butter for shortening pies because it is cheaper. The result is not so good or so digestible as it would be if butter were used or even butter and lard together. The French use eggs in their puff paste, but they are not really necessary. Expert cooks have half a dozen different kinds of pastes suitable for various kinds of pastry. The finest of these is puff paste, but it is so rich that it is best to use it only for tarts and the upper crusts of pies. Materials Should Be Good.

The following rules for pastry making have been contributed by a clever cook: One of the first essentials for pies is to keep everything as cool as possible. Use the best quality of flour and sift it fine. The butter, lard or other shortening should be good and used in the proper proportions. When mixing the pastry use water sparingly. The paste should not be sticky. A knife should be used for mixing. When roll ing out use as little flour as poshave a hot oven. Do not open and shut the oven doors often. A draft will prevent the pastry from rising. When baked, cool gradually in a warm place. This will prevent the crust collapsing. If stored in a cool place and reheated when served pastry may be kept for several days.

Plain Pie Crust.

A good plain pie crust may be made as follows: Put one and a half cupfuls of flour in a bowl, a quarter cupful each of lard and butter and a teaspoonful of butter. With a chopping knife chop the shortening into the flour and add about a quarter to a half cupful of ice water, just enough to hold the ingredients together. Chop while the water is being added until the dough is smooth. The paste should be allowed to stand in a cold place a day or two before using.

To make puff paste take a half pound each of flour and butter, the yolk of an egg, a teaspoonful of lemon juice, a pinch of salt and water to mix. The puff paste should be allowed to stand ten minutes between every other rolling; otherwise it will be too soft and oily. Puff paste is better if made the day before it is to be cooked.

A cream crust may thus be prepared: Mix one and one-half teacupfuls each of graham and white flour. When smoothly blended moisten with one scant teacupful of cream as lightly as possible, making a rather stiff dough coll out not quite so thin as for wint flour crust. Use for pies as any crust The lower crust of a fruit pie should be dusted with a little flour and sugar mixed together. This will keep the juice from soaking in.

The Reasons

Why the Chronicle's Plan of Handling Auction Sales Ought to Be Favored by Every One Who Contemplates Having a Sale in This Section of the Thumb:

FIRST-BECAUSE IT IS A DEMONSTRATED SUCCESS. In the past five years, hundreds of auction sales have been advertised in the CHRONICLE to the mutual satisfaction of the seller and buyer. Many of those who advertised their sales in the CHRONICLE have said that on a single article they have realized enough more than they expected, to pay all the expenses of the sale. In practically all cases when results have been compared with expectations the sales advertised in the CHRONICLE have exceeded expectations, in some cases by several hundred dollars.

SECOND-BECAUSE PEOPLE HAVE COME TO LOOK TO THE CHRONI-CLE FOR ANNOUNCEMENTS OF SALES. The success of the CHRONICLE'S plan of advertising sales has naturally led people to expect that an auction sale in this section will be advertised in the CHRONICLE, just as they expect that the rural carrier will deliver their mail.

THIRD-BECAUSE OF ITS SMALL EPENSE. We make a uniform charge for our service in reaching practically all the people of this section, that is but a little above what used to be charged for sale bills that were read by only a few of the people.

FOURTH-BECAUSE IT PUTS THE SELLER IN TOUCH WITH HIS BEST AVAILABLE CUSTOMER. The CHRONICLE goes into practically every home in Cass City and the surrounding territory. The people naturally look to the Chronicle to learn about auction sales. If a man in this section of the country wants for his own purposes any tool or live stock advertised in any sale, he knows just where to go to find it. He will be prepared to bid what he believes the article or animal is worth, because he has use for it. There will be no element of speculation in his bid. With the old plan, the people in the immediate neighborhood were the only ones who knew of the sale, and they

The parliament of 1644 passed an act ordering all law abiding citizens to observe December 25 as a solemn fast, to be spent in silent atonement for previous Christmas days that had passed in riotous living and merrymaking.

Naturally the community did not share in these hard and fast rules, and many a turkey was surreptitiously killed, and many a plum pudding quietly boiled. But woe betide the unfortunate offender against the act were he luckless enough to be discovered.

Soldiers were sent to search the houses of those suspected of harboring such delicacies as mince pies, etc. and many were the nitched battles between disagreeing sections of the public.

UNDER THE MISTLETOE

To ask a girl if you may kiss her before doing it is an insulting way of laying all the responsibility on her. * * *

In a man's opinion a kiss is an end that justifies any means.

You needn't be afraid of a mere kiss. Thousands are exchanged daily by people of the highest reputation.

The kissed girl fears no mistletoe.

A kiss is as good as a smile-and a good deal better, too!

The ideal kiss is the kiss that is never given. * * *

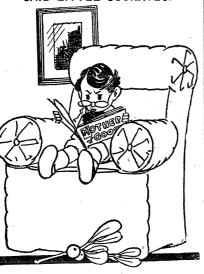

A kiss too soon may be a full stop in the tale of love.

The child who doubts about Santa Claus has insomnia. The child who believes has a good night's rest.

SAID LITTLE SOCRATES,

"Some generous person," said little Socrates Bulginbrow, of Boston, "has been kind enough to send me a copy of Mother Goose's lyrics for Christmas. Do you know, the theory that a representative of the bovine genus at one time leaped over the chief luminary of the night leads to some interesting calulations as to the muscular development of the cows of that time. I have ascertained that they must have been endowed with strength proportionate to that of the fiea of the present day."

THE JOY OF SHOPPING.

By Wilbur D. Nesbit. I love to go and shop for things To send as Christmas gifts to friends, For then my fancy girds on wings, I feel the joy that never ends. , what a rapture 'tis to stand And be stepped upon, bumped into, joggled, jostled, pushed, squeezed, shoved, frowned at, scowled upon, trampled, bruised, slammed, rushed, hurried, jolted, and finally get up to the counter and discover that you are at the wrong one!

One Crust Pies.

If pie crust is at best indigestible then surely one crust pies are prefera ble to those with two crusts, for each portion contains only half as much crust. And a well baked one crust pie is considered much more tempting and savory by many than a pie with two crusts. In many cases the one crust pie can be wholly or at least partly baked before the filling is put in. There are several ways of baking crusts so that they will keep their shape. Some cooks stretch the crusts over the outside of the pie plates and stand the pie plates upside down on a tin cup in the oven. When the crust is brown they turn it gently into a pie plate and put in the filling. Other cooks spread the crust in the pie plate, then cover it with a sheet of waxed paper and fill it with beans or rice to weight it down and so hold its shape. When the crust is brown the waxed paper and beans or rice are removed.

Making Cakes.

When about to make cake or any other dish read over carefully the recipe and directions. Be sure all required ingredients are at hand, and unless you are experienced do not substitute something else as "just as good." Have the best of everything needed, if you can get it, and do not skimp on butter, eggs and flavoring. Poor butter and stale eggs will give a bad taste to the entire batch of dough.

When baking cakes, particularly where a gas stove is used, the tin which contains the cake should be put inside another tin which has a layer of sand laid in. This will prevent it from burning.

would generally bid because they hoped to buy something cheap

FIFTH-BECAUSE IT AVOIDS HAVING TWO AUCTION SALES IN THE SAME NEIGHBORHOOD ON THE SAME DAY. The CHRONICLE makes dates for the auctioneers and practically all of them report the sales they book to this office, which is the recognized auction sale headquarters. If we find two sales are booked for the same locality on the same day we can and do at once take it up with the parties interested, and arrange for a change of one of the sales, thereby avoiding spoiling both sales.

SIXTH-BECAUSE THE CHRONICLE'S PLAN REACHES ALL THE PEO-PLE OF THIS SECTION WHILE THE AUCTION BILL REACHES ONLY A FEW IN THE IMMEDIATE LOCALITY OF THE SALE.

SEVENTH-BECAUSE THE CHRONICLE CONTAINING THE AUCTION ADVERTISING IS LAID AWAY AND PRESERVED IN THE HOME WHILE THE BILL IS SUBJECT TO THE WINDS AND RAINS AS IT IS TACKED ON THE FENCES AND TREES.

> The Chronicle's Method of Advertising Auctions is endorsed by the leading auctioneers.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1914.

 Oh, Tender Tale Of Old! Christmas Seal THE executive committee of the American Red Cross approved the design for the 1914 Red Cross Christmas seal, to be sold throughout the United States during this year's holiday season to help in the war on tuberculosis.

A different design for this stamp is adopted every year. The 1914 stamp is brightly colored, with red and green predominating. It is taken up almost entirely by the ruddy face of Santa Claus. The background, "in vividgreen, represents part of a Christmas tree. At the upper corners are red crosses. At the bottom on an unrolled scroll are the greetings "Merry Christmas" and "Happy New Year." The legends "American Red Cross" and '1914" appear.

Instead of an oblong design, as used during the 1913 Christmas season, the 1914 stamp is square.

The Red Cross anti-tuberculosis Christmas seal first was used by the American Red Cross as a national body in 1908. Since then over $1,800,000 has been raised through the sale of these stamps at Christmas time in the crusade against tuberculosis. Last Christmas over 40,000,000 of the stamps were sold in the United States. The Red Cross Christmas seal was first used by the Delaware chapter of the Red Cross in 1907 at the instance of the secretary of that chapter, Miss Emily P. Bissell, and the national organization took it up the following year.

The Star of Bethlehem.

This old sobbing world of ours is one vear older than it was when the last Christmas carol was chanted. It has had another twelvemonth of experiments and of experience, of advancement on many lines of human research and acquisition. But it has not out grown Jesus Christ. For him it has discovered no substitute. The star of Bethlehem is the only star that never sets. Jesus Christ alone can satisfy all human necessities and the loftiest of human inspirations. Christianity is the only universal religion, the only one adapted to all ages of life, to all human conditions, to all races and all nationalities. Other lights have arisen, waned and vanished forever. The Greek mythology is as utterly shaken to ruin as its own splendid Parthenon. The chief religions of Asia-Brahmanical, Buddhist and Moslem-all are limited and local; they are all moribund. While they make no inroads on Christianity, the religion of Bethlehem and Calvary makes constant inroads upon them. The systems of error which Paul and Peter fought have vanished out of sight, and the whole east is catching glimpses of the star that first dawned over Judea's sky. In spiritual dynamics blood tells, and God has trusted his gospel of salvation to the most powerful races on the globe .-

The Message of the Bells.

The Christmas bells are ringing. In every nealing note they say to the poor: "Jesus was one with you. He chose to share your lot because it was that of the majority. In all that you have to bear you are a brother to Jesus Christ." Christ never took on his blessed lips the philosopher's cant. He ever said that misery, poverty, dis ease and death were natural results of a divine law. They were as unnatural as hateful. But for them all he has a remedy, "That ye love one another as I have loved you."-Bishop Cheney.

He has an ambitious soul who would ask more; he has a hopeful spirit who should look in such an enterprise to be successful. There is indeed one element in human destiny that not blindness itself can controvert. Whatever else we are intended to do, we are not intended to succeed; failure is the fate allotted. It is so in every art and study; it is so above all in the continent art of living well. Uses For Left Hand Drills. No doubt many mechanics have never heard of left hand drills and would egard them as a joke, yet they are aseful things in many shops, says Popular Mechanics. These drills have their flutes cut in the opposite direc tion to the ordinary, and to cut they must therefore be turned in the oppo site or left hand direction. They are useful when, for some reason or other a regular drill "ligs" in or sticks in the cut. A common example is the drilling out of a hole that has threads in it. The points of a regular drill will catch in the threads and make a slow and poor job. A left hand drill will cut over the angle of the threads, not into them, and do it easily and Zinc white will now replace white lead, and it is thought that red lead can be replaced by oxide of iron, although the latter is not so good, says the Scientific American. But it appears that graphite used with linseed oil will protect iron perfectly from rusting and is much less expensive than lead or iron paint. Owing to the extensive use of graphite for many purposes the natural product no longer suffices, but fortunately the new electric furnace processes come in to make up the deficiency.

Motor Trucks at Panama Fair.

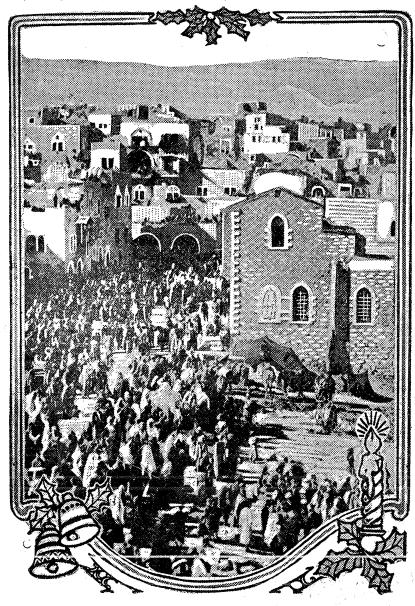

The motor truck will have a prominent place in the transportation exhibits in the vast palace of transportation at the Panama-Pacific International exposition. Blythe H. There are five Michigan life insurance companies and at the end of the last year their combined insurance in force in Michigan amounted to less than 1 per cent of the life insurance carried on Michigan people by the outside companies.

So far as we know, the Lincoln Life is the first company writing life insurance in Michigan and not organized within that state to elect Michigan directors to its board and thus lend the assurance to its Michigan policyholders that their interests are being looked after on board of directors by big business men of their own state.

The Lincoln Life has over $21,000,000.00 of life insurance in force and about $8,000,000.00 of it is on the lives of Michigan citizens. It is writing new business in Michigan at the rate of $2,000,000.00 a year and has about 40 per cent of its entire assets invested in Michigan farm loans and municipal bonds. In other words the life insurance premiums that have been paid on these Michigan policies have been reinvested in the state to help build up the resources of the Michigan people. This is more than any other outside company does and it should result in a greatly increased Michigan business for us.

How evidently He was put to death in flesh, but quickened in spirit! It was the Spirit Jesus who showed Himself, assuming different human forms and clothing, as best suited the occasion. This Spirit Being came into the assemblies of the disciples when the doors were fastened for fear of the Jews. He created or materialized a body and clothing in their presence; and after a few minutes He vanished, dissolving the body and the clothing. while He, the Spirit, remained invisible. Thus He was with the disciples for forty days before He ascended; vet they saw Him not, except for a few minutes at a time on seven different occasions.

Those forty days were very necessary to teach two great lessons:

(1) That He was no longer dead, but alive; (2) That He was no longer a man. but a spirit.-2 Corinthians 3:17.

The Importance of the Resurrection. These facts are clearly established by St. Paul's narrative of his own experiences. He explains that it was necessary that the twelve Apostles should be able to bear witness to Jesus' resurrection.

Evidently St. Paul in no way shared the views of those who unscripturally claimed that Jesus while dead was really alive, and that the resurrection of the dead is a mere formality, quite unnecessary to the carrying out of God's Plan. The Divine teaching is that "the dead know not anything." and that the resurrection is absolutely necessary to any future life.

The European war promised to send up the price of horseflesh, but the Chronicle has learned of one par ticular instance where the European demand had no effect whatever. The former owner claimed New York state as his home and said he was willing to sacrifice in order to get the coin to return to his native state. But the supreme advent is always by a man. The real gospel is not a gospel of beauty, but the gospel of a person. Perhaps if we had spent more time by the Christmas manger we might have sooner ceased expecting salvation to drop from the skies. God comes most and best by men and women.

Appeal has recently been made on behalf of the overworked employees of store and office, suggesting that Christmas purchases be made earlier than usual. In other words, it is suggested that while we are planning for a joyous Christmas of our own we give others a chance to have one. That is precisely the point. The Christmas message tle box came many bumps and knocks; must be translated by us in terms of consideration for others. Christmas joy must be borne to the homes of humbler folk, not by angels, but by human hands and feet.

A Christmas Carol.

"What means this glory round our feet," The magi mused, "more bright than morn?"

- And angels chanted dear and sweet. "Today the Prince of Peace is born!"
- What means that star," the shepherds said.

* THE MAGIC OF CHRISTMAS.

It is a wonderful thing-the period of Christmas! I wonder how many hundreds of thousands of parents have discovered at Christmas time under the magic of the season-through some little thing done by son or daughter-that those they thought estranged from them by those things which come between still loved them with a memory more tender than they had dreamed of. I wonder how many sons and daughters have under the magic influence of Christmas had their hearts softened so as to be moved by some little manifestation of love by father or mother, which they would have thought little of, perhaps despised, at any other season.-Charles Dickens. *****

A Christmas Acrostic. Many wish you joy and gladness Everywhere on Christmas day. Rich and poor, in smiles or sadness, Reach a hand and good words say. Yours and mine may be the pleasure; Care and woe our neighbors' share. Have we not in our heart's treasure Riches such as we can spare? Is there not a tender feeling, Something more than "That's too bad?" Think how much we need when kneeling Morn and noon and night, how glad And joyful is our portion here, Since overflowing is our cup Amid our sins of doubt and fear. Not that we're worthy, but we sup Daily with our Lord and Saviour. And how kind are his attentions, How ungrateful our behavior And how sinful our inventions. Pray that he may still show kindness. Pardon us our lack of love, Yearly blessing us. What blindness Not to ever faithful prove! Even now we may start living; We may live as from the dead. You and I may live by giving, Even lift a drooping head. And we'll have a happy day Right along through all the way.

HE turkey is of course the most important item on the Christmas dinner menu, and the choice of the fowl is one of the most delicate tasks which the housewife has intrusted to her.

It is wise to economize on anything but the turkey. When buying she should go to a first class dealer and see that he gives her the best fowl he has in stock.

There is less danger of getting a cold storage turkey than a chicken, for advanced methods are in vogue in poultry raising, and the dealers are not often overstocked with turkeys since only enough to supply the trade from season to season are raised.

Keeping the Fowl.

Do not keep the turkey in so cold a place that it will freeze. Freezing impairs the flavor. It should be cleaned and dressed as soon as possible after being killed. Pinfeathers are best removed with a small knife.

To draw the tendons from the drumstick make an incision lengthwise between the bones of the leg below the joint while the foot is still attached to the body. Next, take a strong, thin skewer and pick up the tendons one at a time through the incision, hold the skewer with the tendon on it with the first two fingers and give a vigorous pull. There are seven small and two large tendons. If these are removed the drumstick will be as tender as any portion of the bird.

The feet may now be cut off a little below the joint and long hairs on the body removed by singeing. Do this by holding over a burner of the gas range or by lighting a small saucer of alcohol and holding the fowl over it. There is then no danger of smoking the skin.

Drawing the Turkey.

The turkey is then ready for drawing. Make an incision in the skin below the breastbone and with the hand remove the gizzard, heart, intestines and liver, being very careful not to break the gall bag, which is attached to the latter, as it would cause the parts with which it came in contact to

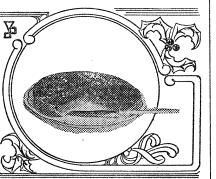

PUMPKIN PIES.

Considered Indispensable on Some Christmas Tables.

Many persons like pumpkin pies quite as well as mince and insist on having them at the Christmas season. They are more wholesome than the average Christmas mince pie. A good way of making them is the following: Steam a small pumpkin which has been pared and cored. When it is tender press through a sieve and take out any lumps. Season with a tablespoonful each of ground cinnamon and ginger. Beat well the yolks of two eggs and while the pumpkin is still warm stir in the beaten eggs together with a tablespoonful each of melted butter and flour, the grated rind of an orange, a teaspoonful of salt, a cupful each of boiled and seeded raisins and a cupful of cream. When it makes a thick batter sweeten and pour into a deep pie plate lined with a rich crust. Bake until golden brown.

Some people do not like the flavor of the pumpkin, but make their pumpkin pies in the form of custards. For pumpkin custard pies proceed as follows: Pare and cut up enough pumpkin to cook down into a pint. The way to cook this pumpkin is to put the pieces into a kettle with a half cupful of water and let the pumpkin steam until it is tender. Then take off the lid and allow the water to evaporate. Drain in a colander and press the pumpkin through, removing all moisture. Beat three eggs and combine with a pint of milk before mixing into the numpkin Stir in half a teacupful or sugar, a teaspoonful of cinnamon and half a tea spoonful of ginger. Mix thoroughly and then pour into pie dishes lined with crust. Cook until golden brown

TABLE ORNAMENTS.

Novelties For Beautifying the Christ mas Table.

The appearance of the Christmas table is an important question. If the housewife is expecting guests she desires something more elaborate than the dish of ferns, vase of flowers or dish of fruit which is quite elaborate enough to please the family. If she gives a Christmas dinner party there are favors to be thought of. Attractive tables may be got up with crape paper have a very bitter taste. Remove the lungs, which lie on either side of the backbone; also the kidneys, windpipe and crop.

A large bunch of holly placed in the center of the table in a low vase or fern dish may be tied with a flowing bunch of scarlet ribbon.

Wipe the bird well both inside and out. If there seems to be any indication that it has been kept too long wash with water in which a little soda has been dissolved and put a small piece of charcoal in the body to absorb any possible odor.

Trussing the Fowl.

Next truss the turkey as follows: Draw the legs up close to the body and fasten in place with a skewer run through both drumsticks and the body. Do the same with the wings, skewering them so that they lie flat. Cut the neck off close, fold the skin under and fasten it down with a small skewer.

Cut a slit in the skin just above that made for the removal of the intestines and pull the tail through the slit, fastening it in place with a long string that the opening may be concealed. Now take the same string and twist it round the ends of the skewer that holds the legs, cross the string over the back of the bird and fasten to the other skewer so as to hold all four joints in place and keep them from slipping.

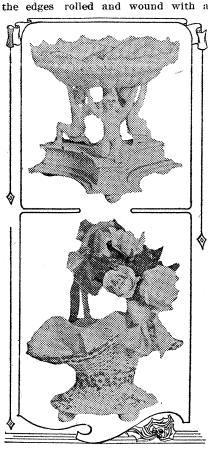

Prepared For Roasting.

There are several ways of getting the turkey ready for roasting. It may be trussed and roasted without being stuffed at all, the pure flavor of the bird being thus preserved, or it may be served with any one of a dozen different dressings. When it is served unstuffed it should be sent to the table on a dish garnished with watercress. The only sauce needed is its own gravy.

Most persons, however, prefer the turkey stuffed. It may be stuffed with bread or cracker crumbs which have been seasoned with sage, thyme, salt and pepper.

The turkey also may be elaborately garnished with holly, while nothing could present a more attractive picture than a dome of creamy white potatoes smoothed high in a tureen and mounted with a touch of green leaves.

No Christmas dinner is quite complete without a dish of fruit and nuts piled high. To pyramid a fruit dish is quite an art. First fill in the bowl with oranges and apples, ranging bananas around the rim in such a way that the heavier fruit will hold them in firmly Fill in the small spaces with lady ap ples, figs, dates, raisins and nuts. The picture shows two bonbon baskets made of spun sugar.

And Make Your Acetylene With a Pilot Lighting Plant

Pilot plants make Acetylene automatically a little at a time as you use it in your gas cooking stove and in your lights distributed throughout your house, your barns and out-buildings. You simply fill the generator with the gas-producing stone "Union Carbide" and water about once a month.

Pilot plants are approved by The National Board of Fire Insurance Underwriters.

All told, over 250,000 country homes are using Acetylene made the Pilot way.

A complete Pilot plant, consisting of generator, pipes-handsome light fixtures and gas cook stove, can be installed in any country home in a couple of days' time.

Such a plant is a permanent improvement and will furnish you with the cheapest, safest and most practical light and fuel now available for country home requirements.

ACTS that contradict each other are not facts," pronounced Chester Kent. Fumes of tobacco were rising som three pipes hovered about the porch of the Nook where Kent, Sedgwick and Lawyer Bain were holding late council. A discouraged observation from the artist had elicited Kent's epigram.

"Not all of them, anyhow," said Bain. "The chore in this case is to find facts enough to work on."

"On the contrary," declared Kent, "facts in this case are as plentiful as blackberries. The trouble is that we have no pail to put them in."

"Maybe we could borrow Len Schlager's," suggested the lawyer dryly.

"We don't seem to be getting much of anywhere." complained Sedgwick. "Complicated cases don't clear themselves up in a day," remarked Kent. "In this case we've got opponents who know more than we do.

"Schlager?" asked the lawyer. "And Dr. Breed. Also, I think, Gansett Jim. What do you think. Mr. Bain, is the mainspring of the sheriff's action?"

"Money," said the lawyer with conviction. "He's as crooked as a snake with the colic." "Would it require much money to influence him?" "As much as he could get. If the case was in the line of blackmail, he'd hold out strong. He's shrewd." "Dr. Breed must be getting some of it."

"Oh. Tim Breed is Len's little dog. He takes orders. Of course he'll take money, too, if it comes his way. Like master, like man.'

"Those two," said Kent slowly, "know the identity of the body. For good and sufficient reasons, they are keeping that information to themselves. Those reasons we aren't likely to find out from them."

"Murderer has bribed 'em," opined Bain

"Possibly. But that presupposes that the sheriff found something on the body which led him to the murderer, which isn't likely. How improbable it is that a murderer-allowing for argument, that there has been murder -who would go as far as to cover his trail and the nature of the crime by binding the body on a grating, would overlook anything like a letter incriminating himself!"

"What did the sheriff find, then, in the dead woman's pocket?"

"Perhaps a handkerchief with a distinctive mark."

"And that would lead him to the

"A man had chained the woman to himself?" said Sedgwick incredulously. "More probably the other way round. "That's even more unbelievable." "Not if you consider the evidence.

You will remember that your mysterious visitor, while talking with you, car ried a heavy bundle. The manacles were, I infer, in that."

"But what conceivable motive could the dead woman have in dressing herself up like a party, going to meet a man and chaining him to herself?"

"When you have a bizarre crime you must look for bizarre motives. Just at present I'm dealing with facts. The iron was on the left wrigt of the body; therefore it was on the right wrist of the unknown companion. It is natural to perform a quick, deft act like snap ping on a handcuff with the right hand. Hence, presumably, your visitor was the one who clamped the cuffs."

"And the man broke off his?" "Yes. But only after a struggle, un doubtedly. If I could find a man with a badly bruised right wrist I should consider the trail's end in sight. You'll make inquiries, will you, Mr. Bain?" "I will; and I will keep an eye or Len Schlager and the doc. Anything more now? If not I'll say good night.' After the lawyer had made his way into the darkness Kent turned to his host. "This affair is really becoming a very pretty problem., Why didn't you tell me of your meeting with Simon P.

Groot?" "Who?"

"The patriarch in the circus wagon." "Oh, I'd forgotten. Why, when I was trying to trail the woman I chanced upon him and asked if he had seen her. He hadn't."

"He had. Also he heard a terrified cry shortly after. The cry, he thought, was in a man's voice. Simon P. Groot isn't wholly lacking in sense of observation."

"A man's voice in a cry? What could that mean?" "Oh, any one of several hundred unthinkable things," said Kent patiently. "Wait! She must have attacked some other man as she did me. She was going to a rendezvous, wasn't she? Then she and the man she went to meet quarreled, and he killed her by throwing her over the cliff." 'And the handcuffs?'

Sedgwick's hands went to his head. "That, of course, is the inexplicable inal." thing. But don't you think that was the way she met her death?'

"No.'

"Then what do you think?" "Never mind that at present. The point is that Simon P. Groot naturally supposed you to have been mixed up in whatever tragedy there was going. You've an unfortunate knack of manufacturing evidence against yourself. Sedgwick. The redeeming feature is that the sheriff can't very well use it to arrest you."

"I don't see why."

Kent chuckled. "Don't you see that the last thing the sheriff wants to do is arrest anybody?" "No, 1 don't."

"Why, he has the body safely buried now. You'll remember that he was in a great hurry to get it buried. Identi fication is what he dreaded. Danger of identification is now over. If any one should be arrested the body would be exhumed and the danger would return in aggravated form. No; he wants you suspected, not arrested." "He is certainly getting his wish." "For the present. Well, I'm off."

The car swerved sharply, but immediately resumed the middle of the road. "Certainly, chance," said the motorist. "What else should it be?"

"Looked last night, of course," said Kent impatiently. "There's no other planet conspicuous over the sea at that hour from where you stood. That's not important, at least not now What did she say?"

"Oh, some rot about daring to follow her star and find happiness and that perhaps it might lead me to glory or something."

A kind of snort came from Kent. "Where have my brains been?" he cried. He thrust the bit of embroidery back into his pocket. Then with an abrupt change of tone: "Well, is your temper in hand?"

"For the present." "Tell me about it, then."

"You remember the-the picture of the face?" said Sedgwick, with an effort.

"Nobody would easily forget it."

"I've been doing another portrait rom the sketches. It was on opaque glass, an experimental medium that I've worked on some. Late this after noon I went out, leaving the glass sheet, backed against a light board, on my easel. The door was locked with a heavy spring. There's no possible access by the window. Yet somebody came in and smashed my picture to fragments. If I can find that man, Kent, I'll kill him!"

Kent glanced at the artist's long. strong hands. They were clinched on his knees. The fingers were bloodless "I believe you would," said the scien Hadn't Killed Him.

There is a certain young man who used to be notoriously egotistic. Some of his acquaintances were one day speaking of him before an old lady who was not "up" in the slang expressions of the day.

The next time she met him on the street she put out a congratulatory hand.

"Oh, Mr. Smith," she cried, "I am so glad you are better. I heard last week that you had a swelled head."-Lippincott's.

Casual Sympathy.

"Your daughter told me to come and ask your consent to our marriage," said the nervous young man.

ð ĉ ĩ A convenient baking table that will please any housekeeper can be made from any light, easy working material or good quality store boxes, as shown in the cut. The whole, table and cupboard, is six feet high, four and onehalf feet wide, table two and onehalf feet deep, cupboard one foot deep. Table should be high enough for ease in working. spices, etc.; h is a drawer for knives, rolling pin, etc. On the doors are hooks for hanging spoons, cutters, egg beater, cook books, etc., and pockets for papers to line cake tins.

Panned Chicken.

Select chickens four or five months old. After dressing cut them through the middle of the back, wash thoroughly, wipe and rub inside with salt. Pour an inch of boiling water into a roasting pan with three heaping tablespoonfuls of butter, lay the chickens flat, with breasts uppermost. Cover tightly and watch carefully, basting and adding water when needed. In an ordinary oven an hour and a quarter is sufficient for cooking them. When ready for the table spread with hot butter. Make gravy as for any chicken dish.

Pressed Chicken.

Select a large fowl, boil slowly until very tender so that the bones will slip out easily. Salt when it begins to cook. Take out the chicken and cool, remove bones and every particle of skin. Dissolve half a box of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water and pour over it a pint of the boiling stock in which the fowl was cooked, to which has been added four tablespoonfuls of butter. Lay the chicken in a mold and pour over it the gelatin and stock. Set in a cool place until the following day before slicing. Garnish with parsley.

Apple Butter.

Apple butter should be made with new cider, unfermented. Fill a large kettle and boil until reduced one-half. To four gallons of boiled cider allow a half bushel of good, juicy apples, pared, cored and quartered. When the apples are cooked soft and begin to settle, stir them continuously and cool until the butter is a dark brown, with the consistency of marmalade. No sugar is needed, nor spices, but if de sired cinnamon and nutmeg may be added to taste. It will keep unsealed, but should be covered closely.

said the clerk. "Isn't he about the hotel?" The clerk hesitated. "I ought not to tell you, sir, for it's Mr. Kent's strict orders not to be disturbed, but he's in his special room. Is it anything very important? Any new evidence or something of that sort?"

"That is what I want Mr. Kent to decide." "In that case I might take the responsibility. But I think I had better take you to him myself."

After the elevator had carried them to the top of its run, they mounted a flight of stairs and walked to a far corner of the building. "Nobody's been in here since he took it." explained the clerk as they walked. "Turned all the furniture out.

"Presumably. Also to some one. we may assume, who was willing to pay roundly to have that identity concealed."

"That would naturally be the murderer, wouldn't it?" asked Sedgwick. "No. 1 don't think so."

"It looks to me so," said the lawyer. "He's the one naturally interested in concealment."

"I'm almost ready to dismiss the notion of a murderer at all."

"Why so?" demanded both the oth-

"Because there was no murder probably."

"How do you make that out?" queried Bain.

"From the nature of the wounds that caused death."

"They look to me to be just such wounds as would be made by a blow with a heavy club."

"Several blows with a heavy club might have caused such wounds. But the blows would have had to be delivered peculiarly. A circle on the skull six inches in diameter, impinging on the right ear, is crushed in. If you can imagine a man swinging a baseball bat at the height of his shoulder repeatedly and with great force at the victim's head you can infer such a crushing in of the bone. My imagination hardly carries me so far."

"Beating down from above would be the natural way," said Bain.

"Certainly. No such blow ever made that wound."

"Then how was it made?" asked Sedgwick.

"Probably by a fall from the cliff to the rocks below."

"And the fall broke the manacle from the right wrist?"

"The broken manacle was never on the right wrist."

"That's merely conjecture." said the lawyer.

"No: it's certainty. A blow heavy enough to break that iron, old as it is, must have left a mark on the flesh. There was no mark."

"Why should any one put one handcuff on a woman and leave the other dangling?

"Suppose the other was not left dangling?"

"Where was it, then?" "On the wrist of some other person, possibly."

me?" suggested Sedgwick. "Getting nervous?" inquired Kent.

"It isn't that, but I think I could make you more comfortable." Kent shook his head. "Thank you. but I don't believe I'd better. When I'm at work on a case I need privacy. No house, not even a man's own, can possibly be so private as a strange hotel.' "Perhaps you're right," admitted the other with a laugh, then lapsing into pronounced gloom for the first time he said. "It seems pretty tough that I should be in all this coil and tangle because a crazy woman nappened by merest chance to make a call on me." Kent's pipe glowed in the darkness and silence before he replied. Then he delivered himself as follows: "Sedgwick"-puff-"try"-puff-"to forget if you can"-puff-puff-"that stuff about the crazy woman"-puff-puff-puff. "Forget it? How should I? Why should I?"

"Because"-puff-"you're absolutely on the" - puff - puff - "wrong track Good night."

Sundayman's Creek road, turning aside just before it gains the turnpike to the Eyrie hotel to evade a stretch of marsh, travels on wooden stilts across a deep clear pool fed by a spring. The most rigorous constable could have found no basis for protest in the pace maintained across the bridge by a light electric car, carrying a short, slender, elderly man, who peered out with weary eyes into the glory of the July sunshine. At the end of the bridge the car stopped to allow its occupant a better view of a figure prostrate on the brink of the pool. Presently the figure came to the pos ture of all fours. The face turned upward, and the motorist caught the glint of a monocle. Then the face turned again to its quest. "Are you looking for something lost?" asked the man in the car. "I'm hoping to discover the eggs of certain neuropterous insects."

"Ah! You are an entomologist. then."

"To some extent."

"So was I, once-when I had more time. Business has drawn my attention, though never my interest, away from it. I've entirely dropped my reading in the last year. By the way. were you here in time to witness the swarm of antiopas last month: Rather unusual, 1 think."

hanging to it. "This may or may not be an important clew to the curious death that occurred here three days ago.'

"It looks like the star from the collar of an officer. I should say positively that it was from an army or navy uniform.

"Are you yourself an expert in woolen fabrics, Mr. Blair?"

"I have been."

"Could you tell from that tiny fragment whether or not the whole cloth is all wool?" Without replying Blair gave the steering handle a quick sweep, and the car drew up before a drug store. He took the star and was gone a few minutes.

Somewhat less timidity characterized his next effort. A grow! of surpassing savagery from within was his reward.

"You see, Mr. Sedgwick," said the elerk. Raising his voice he called. "Mr. Kent, I've brought"-

"Get away and go to the devil." cried a voice from inside in fury. What do you mean by"-"It's I, Kent, Sedgwick. I've got to see you." There was a silence of some seconds.

"What do you want?" asked Kent at length.

"You told me to come at once if anything turned up."

"So I did," sighed Kent. "Well, chase that infernal bellboy to the stairs, and I'll let you in.'

With a wry face the clerk retired. Kent opened the door and his friend squeezed through into a bare room. The walls were hung and the floor was carpeted with white sheets. There was no furniture of any kind unless a narrow mattress in one corner could be so reckoned.

"It's happened." announced Sedgwick.

"Has it?" said Kent. "Lean up against the wall and make yourself at home. Man, you're shaking!" "You'd shake, too," retorted the artist, his voice trembling.

"No; anger doesn't affect me that way. Wait! Now, don't tell me yet. If I'm to have a report it must be from a sane man, not from one in a blind fury. Take time and cool down. What do you think of my room?"

"What's the game?" asked Sedgwick, interested in spite of himself. "It dates back to our college days,

Do you remember that queer freshman, Berwind?" "The mind reader? Yes. The poor chap went insane afterward." "Yes. It was a weak mind, but a singularly receptive one. You know we used to force numbers or playing cards upon his consciousness by merely thinking of them." "I recollect. His method was to stand gazing at a blank wall. He said the object we were thinking of would rise before him visually against the blankness. Did you ever figure out how he managed to do it?"

"Not exactly."

Came as He Went.

Jackson and Johnson are not now on speaking terms. It all arose as the result of an argument which required some mental calculation.

"I tell you," said Jackson, "that you are altogether wrong in your conclusions.

"Pardon me, but I am not," replied Johnson.

"Didn't I go to school, stupid?" almost roared his opponent. "Yes." was the calm reply. "and you came back stupid."-London Tit-Bits.

Good and Bad.

A noted wag met an Irishman in the street one day and thought he would be funny at his expense.

"Hello, Pat!" he said. "I'll give you eight (in) pence for a shilling."

"Will ye now," said Pat. "Yes," he replied.

The Irishman handed over the shilling, and his friend put eightpence into his palm in return.

"Eight in pence," he explained. "Not bad, is it?"

"No," answered Pat, "but the shilling is!"-London Tit-Bits.

MARRIAGE.

To marry for money or for any object whatever except all powerful love is to perjure and debase the human heart, but to marry without some provision for the future, such as money or money's worth in a well furnished mind and a capacity for skilled labor, is to defy common sense and invoke the evil fates,

Chicken Patties.

Line muffin tins with puff paste and bake. Have ready a pint of cold boiled chicken cut very fine and season with salt, pepper, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of cream and one heaping teaspoonful of cornstarch. Heat the cream and thicken with the cornstarch moistened in a little milk, and the parsley, and last the butter and chicken. Cool before filling patties and return to the oven to reheat when ready to serve.

Apple Jelly.

To make apple jelly wash the fruit and slice without peeling. Barely cover with water and cook slowly until the apples are soft. Drain through a jelly bag overnight. To one pint of juice allow a pound of granulated sugar, letting the juice boil before putting in the sugar. Stir and boil until the jelly point is reached. Put in tumblers and seal with paraffin.

Honey Cookies.

Mix together one cupful of strained honey, one cupful of granulated sugar, two eggs well beaten, two level teaspoonfuls of soda and a little salt. Add flour enough to knead into a soft dough and let it stand overnight. In the morning roll out the dough and cut it into fancy shapes. Bake in a slow oven.

Lemon Dumplings.

A WARNING TO MANY Some Interesting Facts About Kidney Troubles.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1913, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was suppored to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Sci-ence has proven Catarrh to be a consti-tutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactund by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitu-tional cure on the market. It is taken in-ternally in doses from 10 drops to a tea-spoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and tes-timonials.' Address: F. J. When heat and pressure are considered the great siege guns which the Germans have introduced must be comparatively short lived.

Infantry rifles because of their smallness of bore lose their accuracy far less quickly than large guns, but they wear out in time.
