MODEL PRIMARY SCHOOL

Goshen College Secures Miss Bertha MacKenzie as Conductor.

A model primary school for grades I, II and III, will be one of the new features introduced at Goshen college during the summer term. The administration has been fortunate in securing Miss Bertha MacKenzie of the Detroit public schools as conductor. Miss MacKenzie is an expert primary teacher of wide and varied experience and will, in addition to conducting the model school, give a series of lectures on primary methods. Miss MacKenzie is a member of the 1900 class of Cass City high school and has taught in the primary grades of the local school.

The model school will be held at the college for a period of four weeks, from June 28 to July 23, and will consist of morning sessions only. Children five years old and above who have not yet entered school will be admitted to the first grade, while those who are at present in the first and second grades in the public schools will be admitted to the second and third grades respectively. John E. Winter is principal of the normal school at Goshen.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To My Out-of-town Patients and the Public in General:

After due consideration I have concluded, after May 1st, to discontinue out-of-town practice, except when called upon to assist or consult with other physicians. I feel that the time has arrived when I am obliged to limit my work to office, hospital and town work, (except as above stated) in order to do full justice to my patients and myself. There have been times the past few months when there was not a physician to be had in town "for love or money," regardless of the urgency of the case, hence the necessity of a "Town Doctor." I expect by eliminating the long country drives to have more time for study, thereby becoming a better doctor and a better consultant. Also, I expect to be able to establish regular daily office hours, so patients, especially those coming from a distance, will not be inconvenienced and disappointed by not finding me at home as now so often happens.

It is not without regret that I am forced to give up my country driving but will be pleased to give my out-of-town families my very best services and care in office or hospital, and they may feel assured that the confidence and many kindnesses they have shown me during my eighteen years' practice will never be forgotten and their friendship will always be cherished.

Sincerely yours,
DR. M. M. WICKWARE.
P. S.—After a time if the wolf gets to howling too loud at my door, I may again "hit the trail."—Adv.

Arbor and Bird Day Proclamation.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

The half has not been told concerning the destruction of insects by birds. The farmer in particular is indebted to the birds. True, there are birds whose reputations are not above reproach. Some of them eat a few cherries and berries. This is only a small compensation for the service they render man.

Throughout the civilized world, birds are objects of admiration. Their beautiful plumage, their sweet and cheering songs, awaken the noblest emotions. The man, woman or child who has the heart to needlessly harm a bird will do injury to the human family. Thousands of our most beautiful feathered songsters are killed annually by the domestic cat. We need fewer cats and more birds.

By training boys and girls to feed the birds in winter and house them against storms, we stimulate the nobler emotions. The killing of birds for sport brutalizes the hunter. Michigan should conserve bird life. This is distinctively human.

Many of the birds are like men, dependent upon the existence of trees. A park without trees is a desert, unfit for birds or human beings. Farms without trees, school yards without trees, homes without here and there a tree, roadsides without trees, are desolate and unfriendly. Plant a tree.

Let me ask the boys and girls to conserve the life of our wild flowers. Pick only a few here and there. Leave enough for seed.

Let the country, as well as the city, engage in systematic tree planting, in tree culture for the delight and benefit of all useful forms of life.

Therefore, I, Woodbridge N. Ferris, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby designate Friday, May 7th, 1915, as Arbor and Bird Day, and do request that this day be observed by all schools, public and private, and other educational institutions, by the planting of trees for beautifying school grounds and parks, and by conducting suitable exercises for promoting the spirit of protection to trees and birds.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, this twenty-first day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, and of the commonwealth the seventy-ninth.

WOODBRIDGE N. FERRIS, Governor.

By the Governor:

COLEMAN C. VAUGHAN, Secretary of State.

Successful Candidate at Reese Banquets Post Office Patrons.

F. W. Thompson was the successful candidate for the appointment of postmaster at Reese, receiving the highest standing in the civil service examination in which one other Reese citizen was an applicant for the office. As an expression of appreciation for re-appointment to the postmastership, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson entertained patrons of the office and The Review spoke of the affair as follows:

"A formal banquet was tendered the patrons of the Reese postoffice by Postmaster and Mrs. Thompson last Thursday evening that was unique in many ways. In the invitations, which included everybody who could be reached, it was specified that the guests could come any time and stay as long as they liked. On arrival the guests were announced by assistant postmistress, Miss Margaret Jordan, who conducted them to the dining room, which was very appropriately decorated in white and green. The guests were then served with ice cream in the form of an envelope, with their name and address with stamp attached. Light refreshments and lemon punch were served. Mail carrier Findlay acted as postmaster for the evening. About 230 guests were served. The other route carriers had charge of the table. A constant throng of people were coming and going during the evening until 12 o'clock."

COUNTY FAIRS CHUMMY

Managers Plan to Arrange Special Train Service.

Representatives of Caro and Bad Axe business men met at Bad Axe last week with the idea of establishing closer reciprocal relations between the two towns particularly in the matter of county fairs. Caro's proposition was to have Bad Axe people go to the Caro fair on a special train and Caro people would come back to the Bad Axe fair in the same way. A big exchange of visits at the fairs will be worked for by the management of both.

"TUSCOLA ON THE WATER WAGON"

COPE SPEAKS TO LARGE AUDIENCE OF MEN.

Wets as Well as Dries Look to Officers for Law Enforcement Says Speaker.

A large audience of men gathered at the M. E. church at Cass City Sunday afternoon to attend the jubilee meeting and to hear Herbert Leon Cope speak on the subject, "Tuscola on the Water Wagon." Following the address, 74 of those present signed cards enrolling themselves as members of the Tuscola Anti-Saloon League.

In his address, Mr. Cope spoke in part as follows:

I talk today not so much from a feeling of "jubilee" as from pride in our country's stand for better things, and a feeling of thanks to the independent voters and the young voters who have been educated to the "con" game of booze politics. We have no desire to be like the Dutchman who kept kicking his dog after he had killed him to show that there was punishment after death. There can be no doubt that when the honest wets come to understand the honest dries, and I learn that there are more really good fellows among the dries than among the wets, that animosity will cease. I have found more true friendship and burning zeal to help the boys and the town to better things in a short fellowship with the dries than in all my long experience with the wets.

Our demands now are only what every decent citizen should demand—that law be enforced. One wet man said to me, "How would you like anyone to pass a law you couldn't raise cattle?" Well, if you will only add "cattle with hoof and mouth disease," you will find there is such a law, and if anything on earth will give the hoof and mouth disease it is booze.

The trouble is certain ideas have grown in peoples' brains such as "You can't prohibit." "A glass of beer contains as much nourishment as an egg." It does—as a rotten egg. Some say "whiskey is all right in its place." They are right, but its place is in hell. We must understand that sentiment has changed on the whiskey subject. Time was when Methodist preachers peddled booze to help out their salary; when Aaron Burr could kill a man and continue to reside over the United States Senate; and when people said slavery could not be abolished.

Today all big business cuts out the drinks; we have no excuse for a drunken conductor; we have no hesi-

DRY BILL IS A DEAD ISSUE

PROHIBITIONISTS TURN TO OUTWIT THE WETS.

Leader of Prohibition Forces Collapses After Crucifying Enemies of Measure.

BY DOUGLAS D. MARTIN.

Lansing, Mich. — (Special.) — The long sought, much discussed and highly debatable issue of state-wide prohibition has been lowered into its grave by the present legislature.

The question of state-wide prohibition has been one of the leading issues of the 1915 legislature ever since it convened. A poll of the house and senate early in the year showed that the dries had a majority of the votes, and that they would be able to put through almost any bill they chose if they clung together.

The trouble apparently has been that they didn't cling and that a handful of wets played ducks and drakes with their pet projects, and by superior generalship and brilliant parliamentary tactics drove the dries to commit hari-kari and murder their own measure.

Charges and Counter Charges Fill the Air at Lansing.

The wets declare that the defeat of the dries is due to desertions among the ranks of the liquorless element. They say that the Anti-Saloon League of Michigan doesn't want a state-wide campaign, never has wanted one, and that it had members in the legislature who sympathized with its stand in the matter. They say openly that the Anti-Saloon League doesn't want a state-wide campaign because all the salaried officers of the league will lose their jobs the moment the entire state goes dry. This is not quoted as a fact, it is merely one of the statements made by the wets, and the public is free to take it or leave it.

Dries Accuse Wets.

The dries in turn accuse the wets of so loading on the Straight bill with amendments, that it was worthless, and that state-wide prohibition would have met certain defeat if the measure had been submitted in the shape that the senate expected to pass the bill. The most telling of these amendments was the one which changed the time of voting on the bill from the general election in November of 1916 to the spring election of that year.

The wets proposed this amendment and got the support of a number of dries on the grounds that the submission of the question of state-wide prohibition at the general election in 1916 would confuse the political issues, and probably bring defeat upon the republican candidate for governor.

The dries realized full well the strategical advantage of presenting the question at a presidential election. The full voting strength of the state will be out at that time whereas in the spring a much smaller number of citizens will register their opinions at the polls. To have a chance to win the dries felt that the question must come up in the fall, and when the wets in the senate, assisted by some of the dries, succeeded in tack-

Hayo-Went-Ha Camp For Boys

Torch Lake, Mich.

P. O. Central Lake, Mich.

J. A. Van Dis.

There are two traits that exist in the life of every normal boy: First, his desire to get away from the conventionalities of his usual mode of living and second, his intense desire to be with fellows of his own kind. This is boy nature in the early teens and demands gratification. The problem confronting parents is how to satisfy these desires and make them serve in the all-around development of the boy's character, for when once satisfied, the appreciation of home grows upon him and the regard for parents increases.

With the approach of spring, the call of the outdoor life comes with almost irresistible force and appeal. He wants to live in the open with his chums. Surely the city lots, the back alleys, nearby woods, artificial parks or even summer hotels cannot give him the best type of outdoor life.

The summer camp, well planned and carefully supervised, where boys can have this natural, inherited desire gratified and be with the right kind of companions, solves the vacation problem for both parents and boy. "Boy," as Robert Louis Stevenson says, "although we should be grateful for good homes, there is no home like God's out-of-doors."

Such a vacation spot is to be found on the shores of Torch Lake, where the Michigan Young Men's Christian association has established the Hayo-Went-Ha summer camp for boys. Founded 11 years ago, the camp has grown in popularity and this year enters its twelfth season with an enviable record.

The camp site of 55 acres, with nearly a mile of lake front, is located on beautiful Torch Lake, just east of Grand Traverse Bay, near Michigan's great resort region, yet away from resort influences. It is four miles from Central Lake railroad station, on the Pere Marquette, at the north end of Torch Lake. A fine sandy beach, the depth of the lake increasing gradually for 200 yards, makes the swimming safe.

There are thousands of boys' camps in North America but few can compare with Hayo-Went-Ha in its equipment or supervision. Each year some new equipment has been added so that today the management owns land and equipment valued at fully $15,000. All the buildings have been constructed with a view to permanency, being built of cement. There are in use at present a two-story club building used for social purposes and indoor games; a photographic dark room, reading room, manual training and boat house; and administration building used for offices, store, bank and library; a spacious dining lodge, and a kitchen with all modern conveniences.

No camp has better sanitation. A cement toilet building with flush closets and septic tanks provides the best of sanitary conditions. The drinking water is from springs in the hills. The boys sleep in tents and the camp is a regular canvas city with its 20 waterproof tents. A special fleet of boats constructed especially for Hayo-Went-Ha makes the boating absolutely safe.

The athletic facilities are superb. There are 15 acres of cleared land and three tennis courts constructed of cement and asphalt. This makes it possible for boys to play tennis at all times when the weather is favorable. Hayo-Went-Ha camp for boys has always recognized from its beginning that a worthwhile camp is built around personality and not around equipment alone. It has constantly enlisted the highest type of leadership and each year has secured the services of experienced camp directors. J. A. Van Dis, state boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who is not only a supervisor of Michigan boys' camps but has supervised Hayo-Went-Ha camp for the last eight years, but is assisting each year in the organization of local Y. M. C. A. camps in the state.

F. P. Knapp has been selected as camp director for 1915. He comes well qualified for the position. He was among the first to assist at Hayo-Went-Ha camp as one of the leaders here years ago. He has given his entire time since he was graduated from Hillsdale college in 1907 to work with boys. He has been principal of schools and for the last five years county secretary of the association, conducting county camps for boys each year. Mr. Knapp will be assisted by men of national reputation in boys' work and will have fully 30 different men and older boys, representative Christian college men, who will act as leaders of the boys. Hayo-Went-Ha camp is not conducted as a money-making scheme, but to build character. A boy's expenses covers the actual cost of running the camp.

The camp opens June 23 this year for the annual conference of high school students. The regular camp, for boys 12 to 16 years of age, opens July 7, the first section continuing until July 21; second section, July 21 to August 4; third section, August 4 to August 18; fourth section, August 18 to September 1, open only to those who have been in camp one or more sections. Each year a larger number enroll for the entire season. Camp limited to 100 boys at each section. No two days in camp are just alike. The camp is non-military in character but a regular program, something like the following, is maintained:

6:30 Revellie. Setting up exercises. 7:00 Breakfast. Announcements. 7:30 Camp duties. Blankets out for airing. 8:00 Morning inspection. 8:15 Bible study. 9:00 Nature study, photography, hikes, fishing, boating, scout activities. 11:00 Swimming period. 12:00 Dinner. 12:30 Store and bank open. 1:00 Rest hour. 2:00 Athletics. Baseball and tennis. 4:00 Swimming period. 5:00 Camp duties. Beds made, etc. 6:30 Evening inspection. 6:00 Supper. 7:00 Scout games and boat crew races. 8:00 Camp fire or evening entertainment. 9:00 Warning whistle. 9:30 Taps.

An interesting booklet profusely illustrated with scenes from Hayo-Went-Ha camp has just been issued, in which the summer camp is described in detail. The booklet and application may be had free by writing J. A. Van Dis, 411 Association Building, Detroit.

SAVE THE WAR PICTURES

Getting a Collection of Splendid Views of Historical Interest is an Easy Matter.

What kind of a pictorial record of the greatest of all wars are you going to keep for future reference? London Lloyds, the famous insurance agents, are now betting three to one that it will end by December of this year, and already those who like to have records for future reference for themselves and their children are preparing scrap-books of many kinds.

Pictures, after all, are the best of records. The eye can take them in at a single glance, and the explanatory lines beneath are usually so brief that one does not have to do a lot of tiresome reading to refresh his memory. Take the war pictures in the Illustrated Section of The Sunday News Tribune for instance. For some time past four full pages of war pictures have appeared each Sunday, and many more interesting ones will be printed in The Sunday News Tribune between now and the end of the greatest of modern catastrophes.

In the issue of Sunday, April 11, were some very interesting views. There was a splendid picture of the French battleship Bouvet, which was sunk during an attack on the Dardanelles forts, and a general view of the ancient city of Smyrna, which has been under bombardment by the allied fleet. There was also a view of the Golden Horn at Constantinople, which it is predicted will soon be in the hands of the Allies.

In years to come those who keep these pictures now appearing in the Illustrated Section of The Sunday News Tribune will have a most valuable souvenir of the war. Each section contains about 24 pictures in color, so in the course of a few months a collection of rare value is compiled.—Advertisement.

CHAPTER XI. Happiness?

WHEN the dance was done Nu halted before Nat-ul. The girl rose, facing him, and for a long minute the two stood in silence looking at one another. It was the first opportunity that either had had to study the features of the other since the strange miracle that had separated them.

Nu found that some subtle change had taken place in his Nat-ul.

It was she—of that there could be no doubt, but yet there was that about her which cast a spell of reverential fear over him. She was infinitely finer and more wonderful than he ever had realized.

With the passing of the excitement of the battle and the dance the strange ecstasy which had held the girl in thrall passed slowly away. The rhythm of the dancing of the savage black haired giant had touched some cord within her which awoke the long dormant instincts of the primordial.

For the time she had been carried back a hundred thousand years to the childhood of the human race. She had not known for those brief instants Victoria Custer or the twentieth century or its civilization, for they were yet a thousand centuries in the future.

But now once more she saw through the eyes of generations of culture and refinement. Before her was a primitive man.

In his eyes was the fire of a great love that would not be denied. About her was the wild, fierce forest and the cruel jungle, and behind all this, and beyond, her vision wandered to the world she had always known—the world of cities and homes and gentlefolk.

She saw her father and her mother and her friends. What would they say? Again she let her eyes rest upon the man. It was with difficulty that she restrained a desire to throw herself upon his broad breast and weep out her doubts and fears close to the beating of his great heart and in the safety of those protecting arms.

But with the wish there rose again the question, "What would they say?" to hold her trembling and frightened from him.

The man saw something of the girl's trouble in her eyes, but he partially misinterpreted it, for he read fear of himself where there was principally self fear, and because of what he had heard Curtiss say, he thought that he saw contempt, too, for primitive people are infinitely more sensitive than their more sophisticated brothers.

"You do not love me, Nat-ul?" he asked. "Have the strangers turned you against me? What one of them could have fetched you the head of Oo, the man hunter?"

"See!" He tapped the two great tusks that hung from his loin cloth. "Nu slew the mightiest of the beasts for Nat-ul—the head is buried in the cave of Oo—yet, now that I come to take you as my mate, I see fear in your eyes and something else which never was there before. What is it, Nat-ul? Have the strangers stolen your love from Nu?"

The man spoke in a tongue so ancient that in all the world there lived no man who spoke or knew a word of it, yet to Victoria Custer it was as intelligible as her own English, nor did it seem strange to her that she answered Nu in his own language.

"My heart tells me that I am yours, Nu," she said, "but my judgment and my training warn me against the step that my heart prompts. I love you, but I could not be happy to wander half-naked through the jungle for the balance of my life, and if I go with you now, even for a day, I may never return to my people.

"Nor would you be happy in the life that I lead. It would stifle and kill you. I think I see now something of the miracle that has overwhelmed us. To you it has been but a few days since you left your Nat-ul to hunt down the ferocious Oo, but in reality countless ages have rolled by.

"By some strange freak of fate you have remained unchanged during all these ages, until now you step forth from your long sleep an unspoiled cave man of the stone age into the midst of the twentieth century, while I doubtless have been born and reborn a thousand times, merging from one incarnation to another until in this we are again united.

"Had you, too, died and been born again during all these weary years no gap of ages would intervene between us now, and we should meet again upon a common footing, as do other souls, and mate and die to be born again to a new mating and a new life, with its inevitable death.

"But you have defied the laws of life and death—you have refused to die—and now that we meet again at last a hundred thousand years lie between us—an unbridgeable gulf across which I may not return and over which you may not come other than by the same route which I have followed—through death and a new life hereafter.

Much that the girl said was beyond Nu's comprehension and the most of it without the scope of his primitive language, so that she had been forced to draw liberally upon her twentieth century English to fill in the gap.

Yet the man had caught the idea in a vague sort of way; at least that his Nat-ul was far removed from him because of a great lapse of time that had occurred while he slept in the cave of Oo, and that through his own death alone could he span the gulf between them and claim her as his mate.

He placed the butt of his spear upon the ground, resting the stone tip against his heart.

"I go, Nat-ul," he said simply, "that I may return again as you would have me."

The girl and the man were so occupied and engrossed with their own tragedy that they did not note the restless pacing of Terkoz, the wolfhound, or hear the ominous growls that rumbled from his savage throat as he looked toward the jungle behind them.

The searching party from the Grey-stroke ranch had come upon Ibn Aswad so unexpectedly that not a shot had been exchanged between the two parties.

The Arabs, pressed from behind by the savage Wambold warriors, had literally run into the arms of the whites and the Waziri.

When Greystoke demanded that the white girl be turned over to him at once Ibn Aswad smote his breast and swore that there had been no white girl with them, but one of the slaves told a different story to a Waziri, and when the whites found that Victoria had been stolen from Ibn Aswad by one of the sheik's lieutenants only a few hours before they hastened to scour the jungle in search of her.

To facilitate their movements and insure covering as wide a territory as possible each of the whites took a few Waziri and, spreading out in a far flung skirmish line, beat the jungle in the direction toward which the slave had told them Abul Mukarram had ridden.

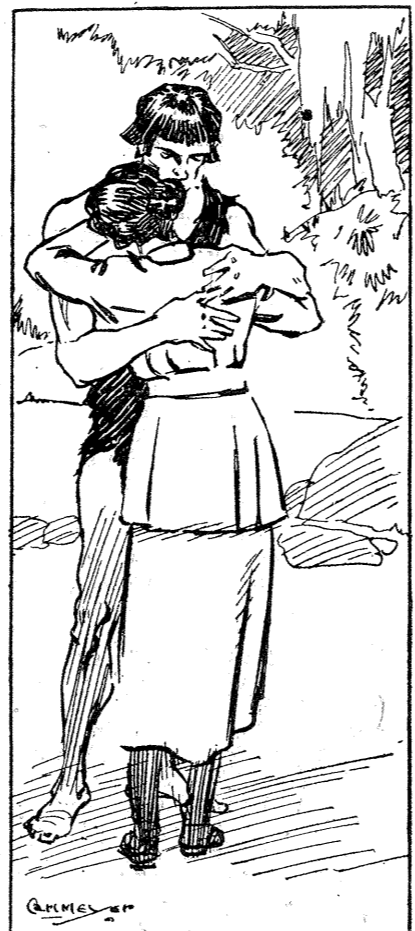

To comb the jungle finely each white spread his Waziri upon either side of him, and thus they advanced, seldom in sight of one another, but always within hailing distance. And so it happened that chance brought William Curtiss, unseen, to the edge of the jungle beside the parklike forest, beneath the giant trees of which he saw a tableau that brought him to a sudden halt.

There was the girl he loved and sought, apparently unharmed, and two donkeys, and the dead body of an Arab, and the great wolfhound, looking toward his hiding place and growling menacingly, and before the girl the savage white man stood.

Curtiss was about to spring forward when he saw the man place the butt of his spear upon the ground and the point against his heart. The act and the expression upon the man's face proclaimed his intention, and so Curtiss drew back again, waiting for the perpetration of the deed that he knew was coming.

A smile of anticipation played about the American's lips.

Victoria Custer, too, guessed the thing that Nu contemplated. It was in accordance with her own reasoning, the only logical thing for the man to do; but love is not logical, and when love saw and realized the imminence of its bereavement it cast logic to the winds, and with a little scream of terror the girl threw herself upon Nu of the Neocene, striking the spear from its goal.

"No! No!" she cried. "You must not do it! I cannot let you go! I love you, Nu—I love you!"

As the strong arms infolded her once more she gave a happy sigh of content and let her head drop again upon the breast of him who had come back out of the ages to claim her.

The man put an arm about her waist, and together the two turned toward the west in the direction that Abul Mukarram had been fleeing; nor did either see the white faced, scowling man who leaped from the jungle behind them and with leveled rifle took deliberate aim at the back of the black haired giant.

Nor did they see the swift spring of the wolfhound nor the thing that followed there beneath the brooding silence of the savage jungle.

Ten minutes later Barney Custer broke through the tangled wall of verdure upon a sight that took his breath away.

There stood the two patient donkeys, switching their tails and flapping their long ears. Beside them lay the corpse of Abul Mukarram and upon the edge of the jungle at his feet, was stretched the dead body of William Curtiss, his breast and throat torn by savage fangs.

Across the clearing a great, gaunt wolfhound halted in its retreat at the sound of Barney's approach.

The beast bared its bloody fangs in an ominous growl of warning and then turned and disappeared into the jungle.

Barney advanced and examined the soft ground about the donkeys and the body of the Arab.

He saw the imprints of a man's naked feet and the smaller impress of a woman's riding boots.

He looked toward the jungle where Terkoz had disappeared.

What had his sister gone to within the somber, savage depths beyond? What would he bring her back to were he to follow after?

He doubted that she would come without her dream man. Where would she be happier with him—in the pitiless jungle, which was the only world he knew, or in the still more pitiless haunts of civilized men?

A moment later he had reached his decision, and with resolution strong in the very swing of his stride he entered the jungle, but whether toward the east or the west I do not know, for I was not there.

Cass City People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills, For Cass City kidney sufferers, Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Cass City people.

W. C. Dickinson, Main St., Cass City, says: "A strain was the cause of my kidneys becoming disordered. My back was weak, and often I was seized by a catch in my loins when I attempted to lift. The kidney secretions were unnatural and irregular in passage, causing much annoyance. After using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wood & Co.'s Drug Store, my condition improved greatly. I was soon free from every symptom of kidney complaint."

Mr. Dickinson is only one of many Cass City people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. DRY BILL IS A DEAD ISSUE

ing on the amendment referred to Senator Straight, who led the fight for the drys, turned on his own bill and beat it.

A Memorable Occasion.

The battle which decided the fate of state-wide prohibition, so far as the present legislature is concerned, was fought previous to the day on which the actual vote was taken which sent it to defeat.

Heckled, ridiculed, attacked from all sides, Senator Henry Straight, who had for days been struggling to get his measure through the senate in something like its original form, turned at bay and faced his tormentors. The words of one of the most dramatic speeches ever heard from the floor of the senate chamber burst from his lips in a rising torrent. He flayed his enemies with biting words and then, while trying to repeat the prayer which he had learned at his mother's knee, he collapsed and sank into his seat. A moment later he was led from the senate chamber weeping, a complete nervous wreck. With wonderful fortitude he drove himself back into the area a few hours later, however, and directed the movement by which the drys turned the tables on their enemies, killed the bill and left whatever blame is attached for its death resting on the shoulders of the wet members.

Fitzgibbon Starts Row.

Senator Fitzgibbon, of Port Huron, started the trouble when he offered an amendment which made the date of the vote the spring election of 1917 instead of the fall election of 1916. A rising vote was taken and showed 16 in favor of and 15 against. Straight made a tactical blunder at this juncture for he called for a record vote and demanded the yeas and nays. Before the demand was made the amendment lacked but one vote. On the roll call it gained that one and was passed, 17 to 15.

The senators voted as follows: Yeas—Fitzgibbon, Gansser, Hanley, Hilsendegen, Hofman, Kelley, McPhillips, Murtha, Ogg, Paul, Roberts, Scott, Taylor, Verdier, Williams, Wood, Walters. Nays—Barnes, Corliss, Covert, Damon, DeLand, Foster, Groger, Morford, Odell, Planck Powell, Smith, Straight, Tripp and Woodworth.

Then Senator Fitzgibbon offered another amendment giving the saloons until May 1 1918, in which to operate in case the state voted dry. Senator Gansser, of Bay City, made a strong appeal in favor of Fitzgibbon's motion. He quoted from the scriptures, from Abraham Lincoln and from Gen. Grant's works.

Gansser's speech was as oil to the smouldering fire in Straight's breast. He leaped to his feet and called the attention of the senate to the fact that a few days ago the petitions of 10,000 Sunday school children hung on the walls of the senate, mutely asking for the passage of the state-wide prohibition bill.

"Mr. Gansser," shouted Straight, "says he is the superintendent of a Sunday school in Bay City. I want to ask him whether he is now standing by the principles of Jesus Christ or whether he is working for the interests of the liquor men."

"Where, Mr. Gansser, is your vaunted love for fair play now? Why withhold fair play from the children of the Sunday schools? You and every man like you who has voted for these amendments will be called to an accounting by the people of Michigan. You men who have voted to change the date of submission, thereby hoping to beat state-wide prohibition are ringing the deathknells of your political service."

"Senator Gansser asks for fair play for the saloon men. I ask for fair play for the children, for the men and women of Michigan. The saloon men paid $2,000,000 in license money in Michigan last year, but they took $44,000,000 out of the mouths of babes and wives. Three thousand men killed their wives while under the influence of liquor last year. Seven hundred mothers, while intoxicated, strangled their own babes. And you ask for fair play for this demon."

Senator Straight talked for almost an hour. The senate chamber was in an uproar when he started to repeat a prayer which he declared had been his guide in life, faltered when half way through it, and sank into his seat in a collapse.

Will Submit by Initiative.

Following a conference by the dry leaders the question was called to the floor the next day and submitted. It was beaten by a vote of 29 to 2. Grant Hudson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, announced as soon as the vote was taken that the league would call a meeting of all prohibition organizations in the state within 30 days and would play for the submission of the state-wide prohibition question by popular initiative. This means that if the people pass the amendment to the constitution no legislature in the future can change it or resubmit it, and that any future action would have to be taken by the people.

It also means that the measure which will go before the people will not be entangled with amendments which will jeopardize its chances, that it will be drafted as the drys want it, and that the question will be fought out on a strictly state-wide prohibition ground.

The general consensus of opinion is that the drys outgeneraled the wets when they turned on them and defeated the bill. With the initiative they can submit the question exactly as they see fit and in the meantime they have gained in popular appeal to the public through the battle made against their bill by the wets.

"TUSCOLA ON THE WATER WAGON"

tancy in condemning a grocer who cheats; a druggist who breaks the pure food law. Why, then, should people be so reticent about condemning a boot-legger, hotel man or other who break the laws? He breaks the law, gives nothing that helps in return and belongs to the category of the gambler, pickpocket and easy-money man.

Fellows who will buy booze of the boot-legger are the very ones who most need to buy things for the home; the man rich enough to own an automobile can go outside to get it, but as a class they are the ones least likely to do so.

I was a drinker in the period when the county was dry and believe I know the feelings of those who want booze and handle booze. You need their view-point to understand the situation and know the difficulties of law enforcement. Mr. Cope then gave illustrations of how drinkers think booze and all unconsciously become a servant of booze. One supreme passion consumes him. He thinks booze necessary to his life; he will claim he can handle it when he knows he is its slave. Once get him free from it and he will hate it as I have learned to hate it. The booze sold by a "good fellow" will raise just as much hell as any bad fellow's booze.

What we need to know is our personal responsibility in regard to enforcing the law against a thing we know to be bad. Before some fathers realize that they are needed in this fight they will need to follow their sons to the grave and some homes need a hickory gad more than a piano for the daughters who are allowed to go with boys who drink. Any girl who drinks with a boy should know he has no respect for her and should know what is coming to her. Mr. Cope then gave particulars of several cases and the blindness of fathers and mothers to it all.

Our need, I say, is a feeling of personal responsibility in enforcing law. The trouble has been that bootleggers in this county have been so intertwined in their relationships by marriage and in fraternal societies of various kinds that they were allowed to exist unmolested.

If I could do in five minutes what the bootlegger can do in six months to your boy—give him bloodshot eyes, scorched brain, blood-poisoned body, self-respect ruined, you would grab me quicker than you would a murderer. Why then should you hesitate to give evidence against a boot-legger?

We are in a big majority and it is reasonable to believe that this is a majority of the best citizens of the county. We stand on our rights, asking that laws be obeyed. Those who do not want the law enforced are, nine times out of ten, men whose wives do the work and whose children split the wood. It must be a personal matter with us as citizens. Mr. Business Man, your biggest gain will come from the workman who saves his wages from drink. Mr. Father, you would not trust your wife and children with a bottle. Why fear him?

I know that drink looks to politics for its life. Drinking places become logical recruiting places for candidates; but in this county, Mr. Politician, not only the drys but a majority of the wets as well are looking for law enforcement and I believe anyone who would be lax in his duties would become politically dead. But listen! Don't kick with your hobbles on Mr. Dry. The county isn't dry until May 1. The officers are your servants—the servants of all the people. It is your duty to find out what their duty is; what the law is; what the police powers of the officers are, etc. You wouldn't hire a man without telling him what to do. Don't hamper them. Don't nag. We know them personally. We believe they intend to do their duty. When they don't then it will be time for us to lend our voices and our organization in forcing them to do their duty, but it is up to you. Lend your eyes, ears and mouth; report all infractions of the law you know about; report all law breakers; look for evidence. It is our duty as citizens to help. This is our county. These are our laws.

If laws are not enforced one of three things must be wrong: 1. The Law. 2 The Officers. 3. The People.

The law is not wrong. The Pray law has been passed on by the supreme court.

Any law is a poor law if handled by its enemies, but we have faith in our officers, and the backing the big majority of votes gives them.

Either the devil is bigger than decency in this county or the people will "up on their hind legs and at them."

We believe in intelligence, morality and law. Why fear the enemies we make who would be enemies of law? Remember the liquor interests are always and at all times a unit against liquor; we must be a unit against liquor; they have always subordinated all else to this one thing; there is no interest they will not instantly sacrifice; no party they will not desert; no candidate they will not immediately crush. They never forget or forgive. Why should we when we stand for law? Politicians know these things but think "party" will be placed above issues and majority elements of drys can be pacified.

There is no country liquor would hesitate to destroy; no Christ its cohorts would not crucify; no God it would not blaspheme; this is the secret of its power—Hell-hot earnestness and to beat it we must have God-given enthusiasm to meet it.

A HOME OR JUST A HOUSE?

Which Will It Be?

You won't be satisfied with "just a house." There must be something more than practical construction of good materials. Its whole makeup must express your life, character and ideals and satisfy the hopes you have worked so hard and long to realize.

Unless it looks just like the picture you have in your mind of just the cosy, beautiful home you want, it won't be your home—it will be "just a house."

Let Us Help You Make That House Your Home

We sell all kinds of building materials. We would like to help you select the materials that will make your house your home—just the home you want.

How We Will Help

We will talk with you first about your ideas and ideals of beauty, harmony, comfort, convenience and durability—the things that will make a house your home. Then we can intelligently help you select just the materials that will put all those things into your home because we will be looking at that home with your eyes. The result will be a home—not a mere house.

No home is better than the materials that go into it.
We sell only good materials and only at very reasonable prices.
To talk things over with us does not place you under any obligation to buy.

A WARNING TO MANY Some Interesting Facts About Kidney Troubles.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1913, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

If you feel that your kidneys require attention, and wish a sample bottle, write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper, enclose ten cents and they will gladly forward it to you by Parcel Post.

Swamp-Root is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c. and $1.00.

Inactive Kidneys Cause Disease

"I shall not soon forget the benefits I derived from the use of Foley Kidney Pills."—AL. A. Godfrey, Forest Grove, Oregon.

Too much work and too little work seem to have about the same effect on persons past middle age. Proper action of the kidneys is necessary to good health. They act as a filter and remove from the blood poisonous waste matter which if permitted to remain in the system leads to many complications.

Many nervous, tired, run-down men and women suffer from pains in the back and sides, dizzy spells, bladder weakness, sore muscles and stiff joints and fail to realize that rheumatism, diabetes or even Bright's disease may result.

If you have cause to believe that your kidneys are weak, disordered or inactive you should act immediately. Foley Kidney Pills have been used by young, middle aged and old with complete satisfaction. They act quickly and surely and have given relief in cases of ten years' standing.

Sick People should Investigate

I KNOW diseases of both sexes like an open book. Have had 55 years' experience in this State in the practice of medicine and changed hundreds upon hundreds of nervous wrecks into fine, strong men and women. I accept no case I cannot help or cure.

I especially invite all the discouraged, dissatisfied ones to write me about their case or come and see me; it will cost you nothing to get my truthful, honest opinion of your case, as I hold out nor make any false promises. I have spent my whole life in the study and cure of chronic diseases, and my study and investigations have been blessed by many new methods of treating diseases. In 1859, I graduated from the Western Homeopathic Medical College, at Cleveland, Ohio, for two years had charge of the Alma Sanitarium, at Alma, Mich., and since that time have had Sanitariums of my own and have one now.

I treat with great success Bright's Disease and Diabetes with a special Lymph and medicated Milk Diet.

I Treat Nervous Troubles—wasting away of the body, loss of vitality, whether from excesses or overwork.

I Treat Epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, Paralysis, etc.—by striking directly at the cause trying to restore the diseased nerves to perfect health.

I Treat Locomotor Ataxia—by special treatment, a Lymph compound—injected into the blood, with massages and exercises.

I Treat Rheumatism—with baths, Hot Air and Lymph injections.

I Treat Piles—and have cured them in from ten to twenty days, never to return.

I Treat Diabetes and Bright's Disease—by a special medicated milk diet and injections into the blood of the Lymph Compound.

I Treat Consumption—the Great White Plague—in the first and second stages by a peculiar treatment of my own—the result of my life's experience.

I Treat the Morphine Habit, with a treatment that slowly decreases the drug used, avoiding suffering of the patient with the habit, which I have in such cases entirely cured, to stay cured. If you are suffering from any of these diseases, consult me on the above date or write me and I will tell you my methods of treatment, what it will cost and how long it will take to cure you.

"Resolved, That Corporate Farming Was Practicable," was before the house and men of seasoned brain and glib tongue had been selected on both sides for the wordy war, pro and con.
 W. B. Hicks, James Thomas and J. D. Funk were fixed on as judges while Daniel Ashley was foreman for affirmative and John McCracken waltzed forth like an inflated Goliath to put the negative on the top shelf. The assistant debaters are mild and retiring men and don't want their names in print, so suffice to say they did their part well. We can name only the leaders who grow stronger and more wise under a flourish of trumpets.

The affirmative set forth that three-fifths of the people of our nation were organized in their work, while farmers each followed his own idea and to his detriment refused to be governed by a leader. They did not say it in those words but showed that the farmers were not as wise as wild geese. That the tillers of the soil should be held in each township for instance, to one class of horses, to one breed of cattle, etc., dictate through our representative the sale of products and the purchase of our goods. But farmers being fickle-minded, must be bound in organization to stand firm 'till they saw the beneficial results then they would go forward; be willing to lay aside their individual liberty in business for the common good of all concerned. And right here let us note that the farmers' wives looked with steadfast eye wondering if these owners would also govern the cut of gown and the shape of hat.

The negatives met all arguments as best they could showing by history that agricultural co-operative societies had ever failed and ever would because of the Bunker Hill spirit and the advice that the plain people had received from the wise men of our nation telling us that it was our individual liberty that distinguished the plain people of America from the peasantry of Europe—every man giving a chance to make the most of what was in him and cultivate his genius if he had any. That the nation had advanced under the system and no infringement in the least should be placed on personal liberty. It is only fair to say both sides fired their best shots but as the affirmative must make the stronger argument, the judges did not see in that way, hence gave the decision to the negative. Still we learn the end is not yet, and the matter may again be debated.

ELMWOOD.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hall of Brown City visited with their cousin, B. J. Bentley, Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. Webber of Caro spent a few days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Hargrave.

B. J. Bentley is still very sick at this writing.

James Higgs of Caro was visiting Elmwood friends Sunday.

E. L. Burse is having his house painted by W. C. Morse.

Henry Dodge of Caro was a caller at Amasa Woon's Sunday.

Charles Woon is quite sick with lagrippe this week.

Laurence Dodge, formerly of this place, came last week from St. Louis, Mo., on his motorcycle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Burse and daughter, Edith, and Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wood were callers at Gagetown and Cass City Sunday.

W. C. Morse had a horse badly hurt by being cast in the stall.

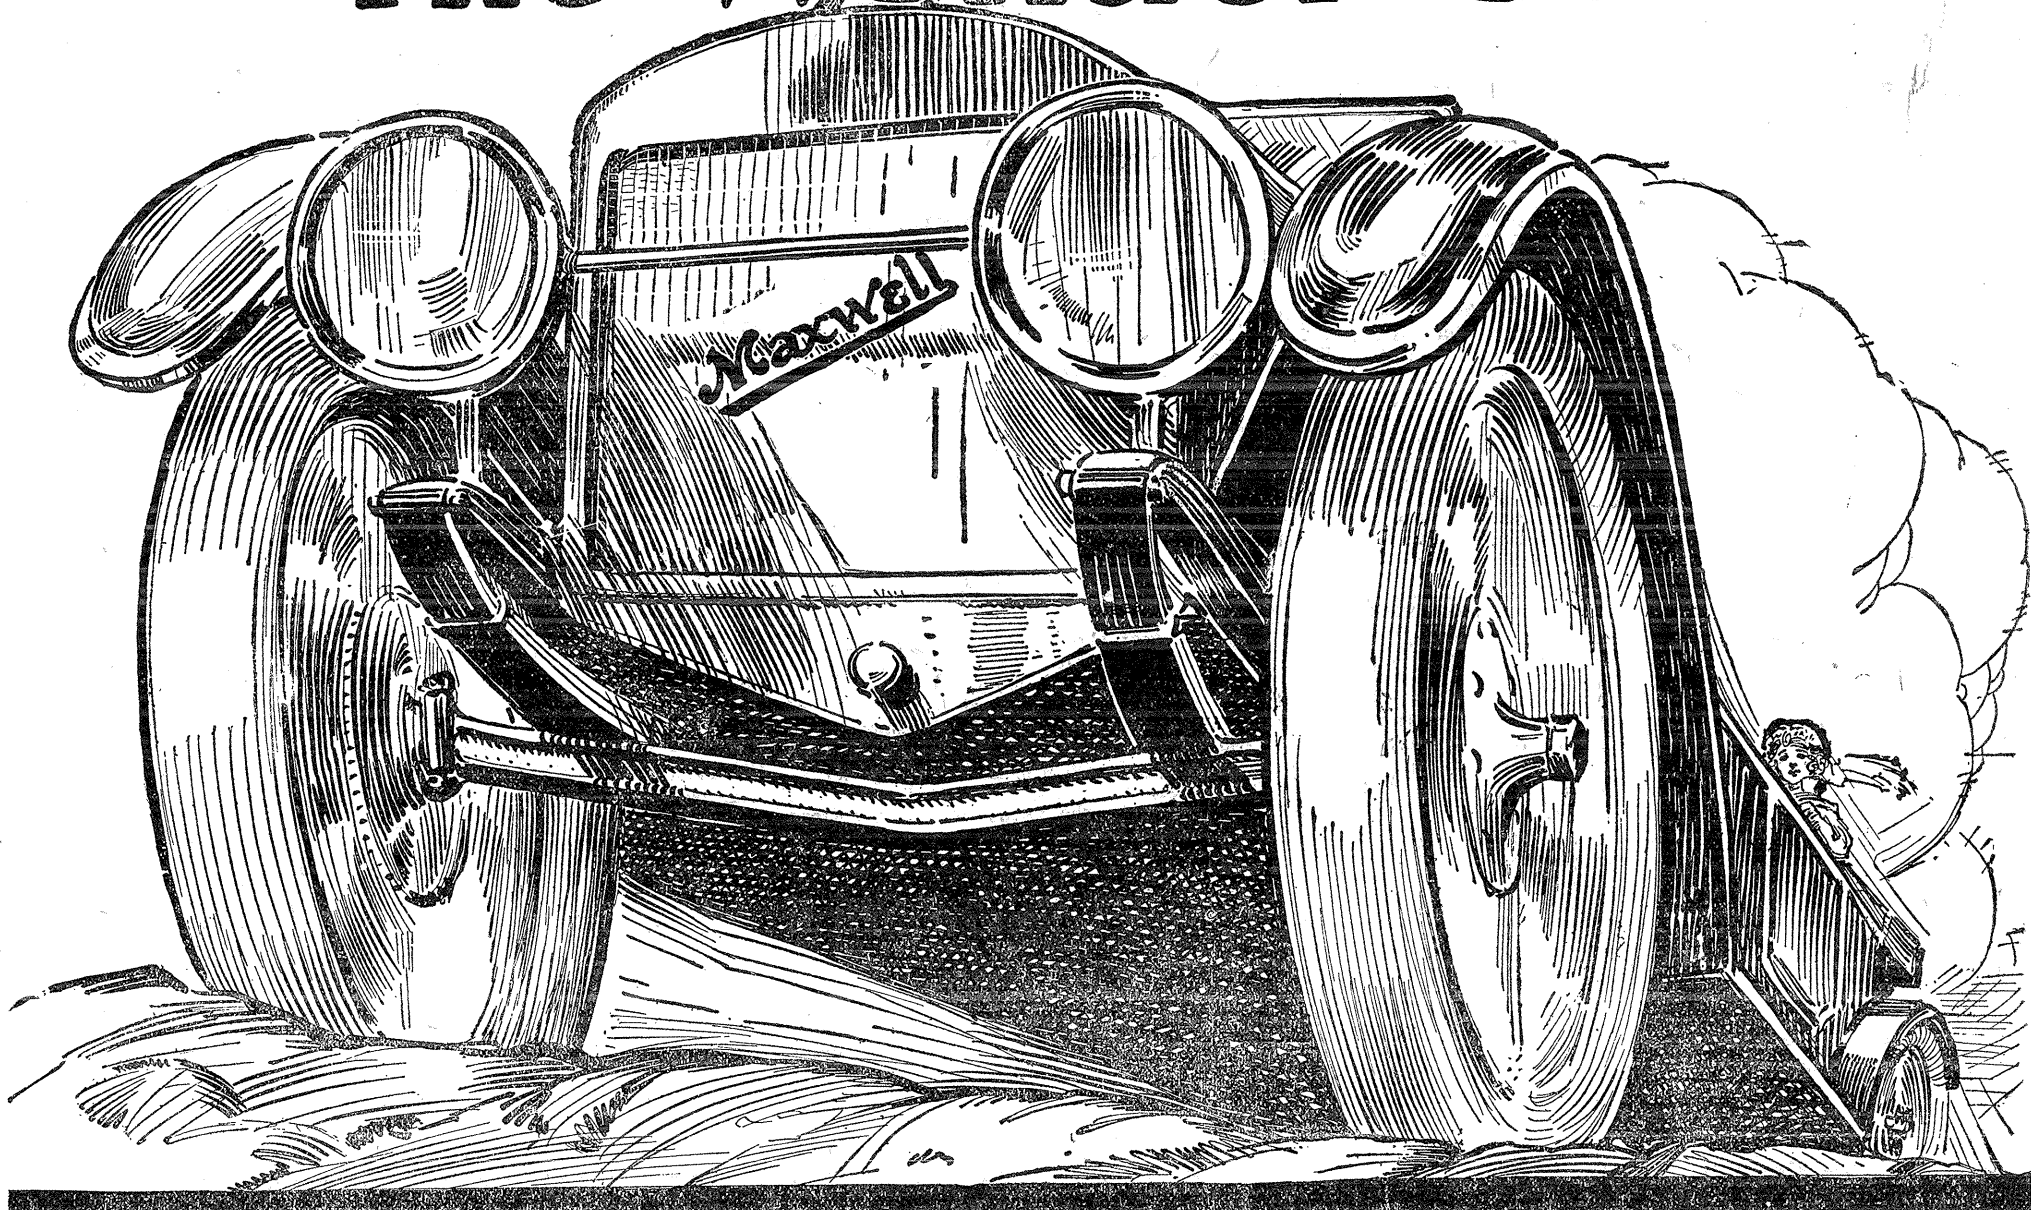

Mrs. Mary Brock visited her son, Ray Brock, of Ellington Monday.

NOVESTA.

E. Bearup has his housekeeper at last. She was in town the first of the week picking out linoleum and window curtains and fixing up his house. We expect they intend to go to Caro after her goods soon. We hope he will get his license at the same time in order to save another trip. He acts younger instead of older as he has 14 acres of oats in already. On the farm, he just seems to touch the high spots as he moves about.

Maxwell

"The Wonder Car"

You can own an exact duplicate of "Wild Bill" Turner's or Billy Carlson's record-breaking Maxwells

Think of owning one of these same Maxwells—think of driving it wherever you want to—over any kind of roads—up any kind of hills, wherever four wheels can go, the same car for $695.

Remember, every 1915 Maxwell is an exact duplicate of the regular stock Maxwell Touring Cars in which "Wild Bill" Turner broke the world's record up Mt. Hamilton, 21 ⁷/₁₀ miles in 48 ¹/₂ minutes, beating the world's record by 16 ¹/₂ minutes, and "Billy" Carlson broke the world's record up Mt. Wilson, California, making nine miles (up an elevation of 6,000 feet) in 29 minutes and 1 second, beating the previous world's record by 13 minutes.

That's the kind of hill-climber you get when you get a Maxwell.

Now about speed and endurance—here are some recent Maxwell Racing Car records:—

Barney Oldfield in a Maxwell Racing Car broke the world's non-stop record at Corona, California, for 300 miles, averaging 86.3 miles per hour! Think of it—not a stop made!

Then, right on top of this marvelous motor record, along came "Billy"

Carlson in his Maxwell Racer and made still another 300 miles non-stop record in the San Diego race. Again a Maxwell Racer ran 300 miles without a stop!

These Maxwell Racing Cars are built by the same Designers, the same Chief Engineer, that build the regular Maxwell Cars; and the same Maxwell Laboratory Tested Steel is used in them that is used in the regular stock Maxwell Touring Cars.

But, aside from hill-climbing and speed, power and endurance records, here are some of the facts about Maxwell comfort,—Maxwell special features,—Maxwell beauty and Maxwell service.

Read This List of Expensive Features. The 1915 Maxwell Has These Features And Many Others.

Attractive Streamline Body

Pure streamline body; graceful crown fenders, with all rivets concealed. All the grace, style and "snap" that you will find in any of the highest priced cars.

A High-Tension Magneto

Nearly all the high priced cars have high tension magnetos. A high tension magneto gives positive ignition. The Simms magneto, with which the Maxwell is equipped, is recognized as one of the best magnetos made.

Left Side Drive—Central Control

Left side steer with gear shifting levers in center of driving compartment—center control—has been accepted by leading makers of expensive automobiles as the safest and most comfortable for the driver; that is why the Maxwell has it. The Maxwell is so easy to drive and control that a child can handle it.

Three-Speed Sliding Gear Transmission

All high priced cars have a sliding gear transmission. It is costly to make, but it is the best. If the motor has the power, sliding gears will pull the car out of any mud or sand. The Maxwell has a three-speed selective sliding gear transmission because Maxwell engineers do not consider any other type to be worthy of the Maxwell car.

Double-Shell Radiator with Shock Absorbing Device

The Maxwell radiator is of handsome design, gracefully curved, and it is built to be trouble proof. It is the expensive double shell type and has ample cooling capacity. The radiator is mounted to the frame by means of a shock absorbing device on each side, which relieves the radiator of all twists and distortions of the frame, caused by roughness of the road. The shock absorbing device also minimizes the possibility of radiator leaks.

The Roomy Full 5-Passenger Body Adjustable Front Seat

The 1915 Maxwell has a full grown 5-passenger body. The front seat is adjustable, you can move it three inches forward or backward. This makes the car really comfortable for the driver. No cramped legs for tall people or uncomfortable reaching for short people. Most drivers' seats are made to fit anyone—so fit no one.

Low "Up-keep" Carburetor

The carburetor used on the Maxwell was especially designed for it after long and severe tests under every conceivable condition. Economy tours conducted by hundreds of dealers and owners in different sections of the country have proved its efficiency, its quick response to throttle and its extremely low consumption of gasoline. It has been termed the "low up-keep" carburetor.

Irreversible Steering Gear

The greatest margin of safety has been provided in the steering gear of the 1915 Maxwell. The Maxwell irreversible steering mechanism is of the expensive worm-and-gear type and its superiority over every other type lies in its many adjustments. At no time is more than a fourth of the bearing surface of the gear which operates the worm in use. When needed, a new bearing surface may be had by adjusting the gear a quarter of a turn. In short, the Maxwell steering gear has four times the adjustment of any other kind.

Heavy Car Comfort

What surprises most people is the smooth, buoyant riding qualities of the Maxwell. The spring suspension of the 1915 Maxwell is the same costly combination of long semi-elliptical front springs and the three-quarter elliptic rear springs that is used on most heavy weight, high priced cars. The Maxwell offers you every essential of the highest priced machines at a fifth of their cost.

One Size of Tire—Anti-Skids on Rear

The Maxwell car is one of the easiest cars in the world on tires. Maxwell owners carry but one spare tire and but one size of spare tubes. Economical 30 inch x 3 1/2 inch tires are used all around. A famous make of anti-skid tires are supplied on rear wheels.

A Dependable Electric Starter

For $55 extra, you can have your Maxwell delivered equipped with the famous Simms-Huff electric starter. This starter is efficient, trouble proof and easily operated.

And the Maxwell is completely equipped from the clear vision, ventilating windshield at the front to the spare tire carrier at the rear. When you buy a Maxwell you have nothing extra to buy.

The Maxwell Company's Guarantee of Service to Maxwell Owners

No other automobile is backed by a more reliable service than that guaranteed every Maxwell owner. More than 2,000 Maxwell dealers in every part of this country—are always ready to give expert advice, to make adjustments, and to supply new parts at reasonable prices.

This splendid Maxwell dealer service organization is perfected and completed by the chain of Maxwell owned and Maxwell operated Service Branches. Sixteen great Maxwell Service Stations are so located throughout the country that a Maxwell dealer can supply any part for an owner within a few hours if not in his stock. Maxwell Service is one of the great advantages enjoyed by Maxwell owners.

Order a Maxwell from us now, and when you want it delivered, we will give you your car—not an excuse on delivery day

SCOUT NOTES.

(By Scout Scribe).

There are not enough of the Boy Scouts who can help gather paper, so we have decided to stop gathering inside of two weeks. Any one having paper on hand and who wants to get rid of it will please notify any of the Boy Scouts and we will do our best to get it baled and shipped with the rest of the paper.

The date of the Boy Scout show in the Rex Theater has been changed from Apr. 28 to May 5, due to the fact that the films are so scarce, being only three in existence, and that they are used in large cities a good deal of the time. The show is entitled, "The Adventures of a Boy Scout."

Card of Thanks.

I desire to express my gratitude to friends for the kindness shown me during my illness and for the floral offerings. Mrs. Herbert Houghton.
