HORSES RACE

RACES AT FAIR CLOSELY CON-TESTED.

Ubly Won Ball Game From Marlette in Thrilling 10-Inning Battle.

The races at the Cass City Fair were especially good and those of Friday were particularly thrilling. Six heats were necessary in the half mile named race on Friday afternoon to decide the winners for first and second places. Rivard was awarded first money and Patsy Sphinx second. The last heat of this contest introduced a new feature in the fair's speed program, that of racing by moonlight, for this race was not completed until 7:30 o'clock.

The first five heats of the named race resulted as follows:

Rivard, ch. g......3 1 1 6 2 P. Harris, Owosso.

Billy Swack, br. s..... 6 W. Cowan, Deckerville.

In the consolation race, R. C., A Confer's bay gelding, stumbled on the first time round of the second heat, throwing the bike over the horse and Harris, the driver, with it. Spectators expected the man to be seriously injured or killed, but he had hardly touched the ground before he was on his feet. He caught his steed immediately, and with the help of a few horsemen, adjusted his equipment so that he was able to complete the heat. Miss Celia won first money, Grace Allenwood second and Walter N and R. C. tied for third and fourth places. The race:

C. H. Adams, Swartz Creek. Grace Allenwood3 2 Free For All. C. Sellers, Caro. Frank Ross, b. g...........5 F. Crysler, Yale. Shadeland Nutlear, br. s..... 6 4 5 L. Dondinear, Pigeon.

CROSWELL - Croswell citiens were not as well pleased with their chautauqua entertainments this year as they anticipated and for that reason they expect to forego the pleasures next season. The attendance at the chautauqua just closed was much better than in 1914.

BAD AXE—Bad Axe will vote on the sewer proposition at a special election to be called in October. Mayor Whitney announced that all preliminary details and arrangements had been completed including surveys and profiles. These were submitted to a number of business men and tax payers and it was decided that public sentiment as it has been expressed the past spring and summer was so strongly in favor of home this week. sewers that it would be best to launch the proposition at once.

Mr. Randall, in touring Michigan as hunter and trapper, came to the Thumb in 1856 and bought a 400-acre to the home of Ross, several miles out tract of land in the northwest part of the government for $500, at the rate of $1.25 an acre.

It was in 1861, on a later visit to his Elkland township land that the he left Pt. Sanilac for the hunting old, 1, Geo. Ackerman; 2, Chas. Striffground (Elkland township), arriving here on the 3rd. On the 20th he killed a deer, on the 28th a wild cat, on Feb. 8 an elk, on the 22nd a coon and on Mar. 1 a deer. May 18, he travelled to Vassar to pay his taxes and lost his dog while away. Other entries in the diary, show where he klled more elk and other wild game, where he was engaged in cutting road and making sap troughs, and where he made infrequent visits to the post office and to neighbors. A memorandum of weather conditions for a period of several months is also given and book accounts for meats sold to early settlers are written on the diary's pages. Entries are made of elk meat and dried venison being sold to T. Seder, Wm. Meredith, Peter Nicely, Geo. Nicely, Jacob Seder and Mr. McLoch-

Ex-county clerk and Mrs. N. Hamilton were very pleasantly surprised at their home on Grant street when thirty of their neighbors walked in bringing a fine picnic supper with them on Thursday evening, August 12. The evening was spent in music and visiting, after which Clare Purdy, in a few kind words, presented Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, in behalf of the company present, a beautiful set of silver knives and forks as a slight token of esteem in which they were held by their neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton thanked them for the kindness extended to them and many expressed regret at losing such good neighbors. On Monday evening the Hamilton at a six o'clock dinner at the beautiful home of Mrs. C. W. Clark on West Lincoln street. Twenty-five ladies were present. The house was made beautiful with flowers, and the only sadness that marred the pleasures of the evening was the thought that they were so soon to lose so dear a friend and such a kind neighbor as Mrs. Hamilton, who has endeared herself to every one. The ladies presented Mrs. Hamilton with a beautiful cut glass dish to help her remember her home in Caro where she has lived the past twelve years. Physical education will play an important part at the Michigan State Gage. Fair, to be held at Detroit Sept. 6 to 15. G. W. Dickinson, secretary and general manager of the big exposition, announces that W. J. Foster Walker of Detroit has been appointed superintendent of this new department. Mr. Walker, who has been a student at various colleges in physical education departments, has been actively connected with athletics for many years. He formerly was physical director at the Detroit Athletic club and athletic coach at the Detroit University school. He now conducts the Solvay and Franklin street settlements in Detroit and has been very successful in his Lectures on Care of Body.

Daily lectures will be given on the care of the body and how to keep weil. Mr. Foster will be assisted by Miss Lotta Broadridge, who now is in charge of women's athletics and physical education at the Panama-Pacific exposition. She will conduct basketball and field hockey tournaments for girls and assist in the games which will feature Children's day at the Fair.

In all the athletic events and games appropriate medals and prizes will be awarded by the State Fair. There will be a Marathon race for men from Pontiac to Detroit, with five miles of the finish of the event staged on the race track at the Fair grounds. A ten mile Marathon for boys will attract considerable attention, as many prizes will be given the leading contestants.

One of the semi-final games for the American amateur baseball championship will be played at the Fair grounds. The final game will be contested at the San Francisco Fair.

In addition there will be Newcomb games for children and a tennis tour-

Home Exercises to Be Demonstrated. Mr. Foster will demonstrate how gymnasium classes for children should be conducted, and an advanced class in apparatus work will give an exhibition drill. Exercises for the home will be featured, and Mr. Foster will demonstrate how every business man who has but a few minutes for exercise may keep well by following a fifteen minute program daily.

"Our physical educational department is an innovation and, I think, should accomplish much good," declared General Manager Dickinson. "People do not give enough thought to physical exercise, and we purpose State Fair an opportunity to hear these lectures on how to keep well. A few minutes devoted to physical exercise each day will do much to curtail future doctor bills."

Special Awards to Sheep Breeders. Three sheep breeders' associations will award special cash premiums to prize winning sheep at the Michigan State Fair to be held at Detroit, Sept. 6 to 15.

The American Shropshire Registry association offers $80 in prizes in eight classes, the American Cotswold Registry association $15 and the American Hampshire Sheep association $30.

Cass City Public Schools Open Monday, August 30

The school facilities of Cass City offer special inducements for non-resident students.

THE GRADES.

Each of the elementary grades is under a teacher who is an expert in the work of that grade. See to it that your son or daughter completes at least an eighth grade course.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

A complete, easy working reference library, expert instruction, fine laboratory equipment, a direct supervision and interest in each student makes Cass City High School the best in the thumb.

The High School offers courses in English, Latin, German, History, Science and Agriculture.

Graduation from Cass City High School admits to University of Michigan and all colleges and universities of neighboring states.

Cass City has no saloons and the moral tone is such as to make it a most desirable place to send your boy or girl to school. The office at the High School will be open Friday and Saturday, August 27 and 28, for consultation with Superintendent.

Trademarks.

A trademark is a registration of a word or design attached to goods of a certain trader making it clear to the public that they are his manufacture and that nobody but he can use that 3 ame trademark. Its use is almost indispensable in the commercial world, and this can be realized better when one knows what its functions are in respect to the trader and his customers. In the first place, being a certificate of genuineness, it protects the public. Secondly, being an identifying mark, the trader is protected by the law against any competitor who endeavors to trade on another's name or goods. Trademarks were issued as far back as the time of James I.-London Mail.

The Human Face.

Rosa Bonheur, the great painter of animals, had a system of mnemonics which was exceedingly quaint. She could trace in the faces of those people who visited her a resemblance to some sort of animal. For instance, if some one reminded her of a certain iady she would probably hesitate for a moment and then say, "Oh, yes, the lady with the camel face!" or, "Oh, I remember—she had a cow face!" This memory system was not flattering to her friends, but it showed how saturated she was with a knowledge of animals and their characteristics. On every human face she found a likeness to some animal she had studied and de-

Mr. A. is a well to do man. He is a good Christian and a church member, but the oldest inhabitant can not remember that he has ever cut his weeds along his farm and his roadside. Mr. B., across from him, cuts his weeds but his farm keeps well seeded for all of that. So many poor Robert Hooke in 1667 conveyed sound hay fever and asthma sufferers look to a distance by distended wire, and forward every fall with dread and apprehension, knowing it means sickness and enforced idleness for them to breathe the dust from the poisonous rag weed, goldenrod and other weeds which are allowed to mature. Why is this? I known of townships where the weed laws are enforced. Of course there is trouble. There are law suits and fines have to be paid, but the conditions are improved undoubtedly. Now, dear people, think this over and act.

BATH UPSETS ROUTINE, GEORGE DICKY GETS DRUNK AND "KIDS" JUDGE.

"Good morning, judge! How are you feeling this morning?" That's the way George Dickey, of Ubly, Mich., saluted Justice Stein when arraigned in police court at Detroit Friday on a charge of being intoxicated and pandering.

"You are wrong, George; this is afternoon. Where have you been keeping yourself?" remarked the justice.

"I don't know where I am or what time it is," replied George, who then told the court that he was an engineer and that he had operated threshing engines, hay press engines and even 'fired" on the Harbor Beach train. 'Why, gee whiz, judge, I can run any kind of an engine," he remarked.

Of Interest to Those Who Can Make Lace

Those who understand the making of battenberg, princess or renaissance lace will be interested in this overdress of hand-made lace and heavy net. If one has leisure to do this fascinating and not too difficult needlework a garment of great elegance and beauty may be made, which will repay the maker for her patience and

The overdress shown in the picture consists of a bodice of lace and a skirt of net bordered with lace set together with a belt of lace. The skirt is made in four gores, cut from the net and decorated with small, flat wheels made of braid. There is a wide front panel of the net, a narrower panel at the back, and two side gores. The overdress opens at one of the side seams

When the net gores have been cut and decorated with the wheels of braid they are ready for the deep lace border. This is made for each one separately. The borders are set on to the net gores with a narrow braid. and, after all have been placed, the lace braid also. Then the gores are sewed together, by hand, with the braid edges joined and forming an insertion of braid instead of a seam.

The bodice consists of four separate pieces (besides the sleeves), which are made of lace and set together/with finishing braid. The sleeves are made separately and set in with braid so that the finished bodice appears to be one piece of lace. It fastens at one side of the back with tiny hooks and eyes. The lace band which forms the belt is made last and joins the bodics to the skirt. In the picture it is concealed by a sash of shaded chiffon, which fastens at the side with a 'chou," and two hanging ends.

A lace overdress may be worn over a slip of linen or silk or net in white or a color. In keeping with the ideas of the season this one is shown over an underdress of filet net, finished with a flounce at the bottom. The underdress might be of black net or of colored taffeta.

Little Hat Holds Its Own

The little hat is holding its own, and the white or black-and-white tur- indented top-crown is of satin, and the bans continue to triumph along with side crown and narrow rolled brim are their wide-brimmed and picturesque competitors in midsummer millinery. The group of three shown here includes two turbans and a small brimmed hat. The little hat is of leghorn and has a round crown and decorated with small black-and-white a brim that distinguishes it as an unusual shape. It is trimmed with a wreath of small, elegant flowers set in velvet foliage, and there is a bow of velvet ribbon set on the upturn of the brim where it widens at the left side. It begins to roll upward (toward the left) at the middle of the front. At the right it droops and widens, giving a charming little rakish angle about the forehead. It is a daring ornament and apparently hat for a youthful face.

ban of satin and hemp braid. The of the hemp braid. There is a wide band of black satin about the brim, having slasked openings bound with white satin. A band of white ribbon is slipped through the slashes and ornaments. At the front a fancy feather, tall and slender, is finished at the base with an ornament made of feathers and chenille.

The white turban is a shape draped with wide hemp braid and trimmed with a long stiff white quill, backed with black. The stem ends in a cabochon of black which supports this fastens it to the turban.

II.—A CLOAK AND SUIT COMEDY

[Copyright, The Frank A. Munsey Co.] AWRUSS, I don't like the looks of Mengel Bros. & Gunst," said Abe Potash to his partner, Morris Perlmut-

"Why not?" Morris asked. "Because I seen Ike Mengel in front of the Bingler House this morning, and I asked him how is business. He smiles and says, 'Thank Gawd!' Then he says he would like to duplicate on them forty-twenty-twos and double up on sixteens, seventeens and eighteens.

"That's bad," Morris commented. "I should say so," Abe added. "Why, them forty-twenty-twos is stickers, as you know, Mawruss, what trouble we had to sell 'em, and if he gets rid of that last order already so quick, Mawruss, he done it by auction houses.

Morris nodded gloomily, and Abe walked back to the office in the rear of his commodious salesroom.

"Miss Cohen," he said to the bookkeeper, "you should please write to Mengel Bros. & Gunst: 'Gentlemen, we inclose you statement of your account, which, as you are aware, is past due, and we must say we are surprised we should not hear from you. Please send us check at once, as we pay our bills prompt on the day, and we are obliged to you to do the same. Yours truly.

Don't I know Ike Mengel from old times yet when he was with Krieger Bros.? A bad egg, Mawruss—a loafer and a gambler. His father before him"-

Here the conversation was interrupted by the entrance of Philip Unterberg, a friendly competitor of Potash & Perlmutter in the cloak and suit trade.

"Good morning, Mr. Unterberg," Abe broke off. He shook hands warmly with the newcomer. "I know what you want before you open your mouth. Mawruss, tell Henry to bring over them forty-twenty-twos. That's a popular line, Mr. Unterberg, and I don't wonder you can't make 'em up quick enough. They're in big demand for the out of town trade, ain't it, Mawruss, and we're always glad to help, out our neighbors."

Mr. Unterberg's breath, which had been taken away by Abe's sudden onslaught, came back at this juncture, and he made haste to disclaim the imputed reason for his visit.

"I don't know the numbers of your stock," he said, "but if you mean them striped tourist coats, our factory ain't exactly working night and day on 'em, y' understand. The fact is," he concluded, "I ain't come to buy goods at

"Well," Mr. Unterberg went on, "the fact is, we got an order this morning from Mengel Bros. & Gunst-not a big order, y' understand, but only a thousand dollars. "Sure not," Unterberg protested. "But Mengel Bros. & Gunst." Abe continues, with a wicked gleam in his eye, "while they ain't exactly millionaires nor nothing like that, are good bright boys. Ike Mengel-I know him twenty years already-ain't never done notody for a cent, so far what I hear, and I consider 'em that whatever you sell 'em you needn't be afraid."

"I'm much obliged to you," Unterberg declared, beaming. "Of course I sin't scared nor nothing, but so long as I was passing by I thought I'd just drop in and ask your advice what you think in the matter.'

"You're welcome," Abe replied, and Mr. Unterberg, with a nod to Morris, left the store.

Morris, who had stood transfixed during the latter part of the conversation, gazed at his partner in silent astonishment.

"Dat ain't no lie, either, what I tell him," Abe apologized. "Mengel Bros. & Gunst ain't no millionaires, believe me, but they are good bright boys—too ain't never done nobedy for a cent. That ain't saying nothing about a thousand dollars. As for Unterberg being afraid, he needn't be, Mawruss—he needn't be a bit afraid that he'll ever see the color of their money. No, siree. Mawruss, if any one says Mengel Bros. & Gunst to me, Mawruss, I hear a noise like a petition in bankruptcy."

"But the way I understand it," said Perlmutter, "you gave 'em a good send off. Unterberg thinks it's a recommendation, that Mengel Bros. & Gunst is good for a thousand."

"Does he?" Abe retorted. "All right, let him think so and ship 'em the order at once. We may be suckers, Mawruss, but you' know what the fellow once said, Mawruss. Suckers likes company, and don't you forget it."

For ten minutes Abe smoked in silence, and then he rose and re-entered the office.

"Miss Cohen," he said to the bookkeeper, "don't you send that letter. I'll go up and see Mengel Bros. & Gunst myself.'

II.

Ike Mengel, the senior member of the firm of Mengel Bros. & Gunst, was adding up figures on the back of an envelope as Abe came in, and apparently found no pleasure in the operation. "H'lo, Ike," Abe said, "what are you Unterberg on his way out. "Good morning, Mr. Unterberg." Morris said pleasantly.

Philip Unterberg stopped short and fixed Morris with a terrible glare. Then he turned his face to one side and spat out on the ground, "T'phooee," even as did Shimei of old.

Morris dropped his sample case and clutched Unterberg by the elbow. "What's the matter, Mr. Unterberg?" he asked. "Have we done you some thing?

Unterberg choked and at length found speech.

"Done me something? A question!" he gasped. He waved his hands imbright for you, Mawruss. Ike Mengel potently. "Wait," he shouted-"wait; fix him yet, that—that scoundrel-Abe Potash!

ty-twenty-twos.' "Why not?" Morris murmured.

"A fine chance," Abe retorted bitterly.

"And all sixteens, seventeens and eighteens," Morris went on calmly; "also them old princess styles and one gross style forty-one-twenty-five.' Abe's lower jaw dropped.

"You struck it good, Mawruss, what?" he said.

For answer Morris spread out to his partner's astonished gaze a thousand dollar order.

"Mr. Fishblatt himself gave it to me," Morris said.

Abe took the paper and read it over twice; then he went to the customers' E to J first and second credit box and lit himself a fine cigar. For ten miputes he blew reflective rings at the patent sprinkler and finally gave voice to his thoughts.

"Mawruss," he said, "the Boston Store done always a good business,

"Yes," Morris replied. "And Kugel & Fishblatt is two pretty good smart boys, ain't it?"

"And always pays prompt, ain't it?"

"That's right," said Morris. "Then why is it they never buy nothing but seconds from us in two and three hundred dollar orders, and today they jumped us to a thousand? It looks suspicious anyhow, ain't it?"

Then it was that Morris told of his encounter with Unterberg.

"Abe, I give you my word," he said, 'he abused me like a pickpocket. He says I'm always stealing his best customers. He just sold 'em a big bill this very morning, and you know, Abe, if Kugel & Fishblatt was at all shaky Philip Unterberg ain't looking for no orders from them. can sell 'em, I guess we can, too; what? V'y don't you say somedings?"

"Sure," Morris agreed. Inside of ten days the Boston Store, Kugel & Fishblatt, proprietors, received the last shipment of the Potash & Perlmutter order.

One morning, six weeks later, Abe Potash came down early, and proceeded at once to open the firm's mail. First he shuffled the envelopes over, but on none of them could he see the trademark of Kugel & Fishblatt. By the time his partner arrived he had Russia. "I know," Abe said. "That's all right, too; but just the same I like to see a check from them people. I ain't feeling good about that account, Mawruss. I'm feeling rotten."

Morris said nothing, but busied himself about the stock. He was engaged in bullying the shipping clerk, when a shriek, half rage, half despair, came from the office. Morris took the intervening fifty feet in six jumps, and found Abe seated in his revolving chair brandishing the Daily Trade Register.

"What's the matter?" Morris asked. but the unfortunate Potash was too busy fighting off an imminent fit of apoplexy to reply. Instead he pointed a trembling forefinger at a black headline on the front page of the paper: BIG DRY GOODS FAILURE—BOSTON STORE SUSPENDS.

Kugel & Fishblatt, Proprietors, File Petition In Bankruptey.

There was a notable gathering of jobbers and wholesalers at the first meeting of the Boston Store's creditors which occurred a month later. Abe and Morris were both there, and they vainly scanned the faces of the assembled host for the features of Philip Unterberg. They also made careful examination of the schedules of indebtedness, but nowhere could they find the name Unterberg.

"Ain't Philip Unterberg in it with the rest of us?" Abe inquired in trembling tones of Louis Marcus, a fellow creditor, who was standing near by.

"Why, no," said Marcus. "I seen him yesterday, and he told me that the last time he was in Kugel & Fishblatt's he collected a hundred dollar bill that was three weeks overdue. He said he met Morris going in and want ed to give him warning, but he forgot about it. He says, too, that I should tell you from him that Kugel & Fishblatt is two good, bright boys, only they ain't exactly millionaires. But so far what Unterberg hears, they ain't never done nobody for a cent up to Unterberg also says that I should tell you from him that any goods what you might of sold Kugel & Fishblatt you shouldn't be afraid for, because it won't be no use."

Turner and His Pictures.

"The glory of Turner," writes E. W. Chubb in a study of this eccentric famous artist in "Sketches of Great Painters," "lies not in the details of his life but in the healty of his art his life, but in the beauty of his art. Personally, I shall never forget the shock of charmed surprise I experienced when first I entered a large room filled with the glorious coloring of Turner's landscapes. His pictures have an individuality that is never forgotten. But little knowledge of art is needed to recognize a Turner or a picture done in Turner's style. He belongs to the few who have the force of personality which bursts the bonds of convention. He is a pioneer. What Dryden said of Shakespeare may be said of Turner, 'He needed not the spectacles of books to read nature.' With sketch book in hand he trudged over Europe, absorbing beauty and sublimity wherever beauty and sublimity could be found. This man, so mean and sordid and uncouth, at least so regarded by a conventional society, must have had an inner nature marvelously beautiful and magnanimous and imaginative, for how else could he have seen the beautiful and sublime? The world without is but the reflection of the world within."

The First Sleeping Car.

The first real sleeping car was built in 1864. It was called the Pioneer, and he builder further designated it by the in 1864. It was called the Pioneer, and the builder further designated it by the letter "A," not dreaming that he would soon exhaust the letters of the alphabet. The Pioneer cost the almost fabulous sum of $18,000. That was reckless extravagance in a year when the best of railroad coaches could be built at a cost not exceeding $4,500. But the Pioneer was blazing a new path in luxury. Without it was radiant in paint and varnish, in gay stripes and lettering. It was a giant compared with its fellows, for it was a foot wider and two and a half higher than any car ever built before. It had the hinged berths that are the distinctive feature of the American sleeping car today, and the porter and the passengers no longer had to drag the bedding from closets at the far end of the car.-Ex-

When You "You must have always something Build a Home

Get the Most House-Value for Your Money

Everyone who owns a home pays for it "by the year." There is no other way.

The building cost is the first payment. Then there is the cost of repairs every year.

The house that requires least patching and altering will give you best house-value. The original dollar's worth is worth a dollar longest.

Spend Your Building Dollars Wisely

Buy the right kind and quality of building materials. Then you'll have no regrets, no useless repair ex-

Quality does not mean mere "showiness." Quality refers to the backbone of the material—the sound. clear, strong, uniform fiber and texture of the lumber, brick, cement, etc.

That is the quality you want—backbone quality. It is the only quality that will insure you real housevalue—the pleasing, comfortable home that lasts longest at least expense—a daily source of satisfaction and bringing full value if you want to sell or rent.

Take Plenty of Time to Look Into the Matter of Quality

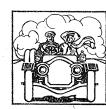

See and know every building material you buy.

Come to our store and see the different grades of material. We'll show you the different grades of material that are so "awfully cheap" and, therefore, so "awfully expensive" in the end; also the grade that is the most ecothe end; also the nomical in the long run—the kind with backbone quality and reasonable price. You and reasonable price. You will readily see and feel the difference. You will be surprised at the big difference in quality and the small dif-

Boston and New York Circle Tours

Grand Trunk Railway System

No trips can be offered with such variation of scenery and interest as those of the Grand Trunk System. The "Circle Tour" booklet outlining 80 eastern tours, covers the most important and interesting places to which a visit is worth while. All include a journey through Canada. From Toronto a side trip may be made to the Highlands of Ontario—thence down the St. Laurence to Montreal Quebec, through New England's beautiful mountains to Portland, Me.; steamer may be used to Boston, thence rail or boat to New York, and return via Lehigh Valley, Lake Seneca, Niagara Falls and Detroit. This is only a bare outline of one of the many trips. Send for copy of our "Circle Tours" booklet describing routes and giving rates for each. Call or write for particulars.

A Real Comeback.

One of the most remarkable comebacks in baseball is Harry Coveleskie, the left handed pitcher of the Detroit club. Coveleskie was considered out of major league baseball when five or six years ago he was sent to the South- ill effects of the heavy rains. ern league. For a time his work there was only mediocre, and those who were responsible for his going there felt satisfied that no mistake had been in his experience. made. But Coveleskie continued to improve and finally became a star in that company, and Detroit drafted him. He now is one of the best pitchers in the league and is very likely to make a better record this year than he did Touching the Runner.

The fact has been noted many times that a winning team is practically always strong around the middle sack. Here is where proper handling of the ball means the breaking up of the steal or the double steal. Wagner of the Pirates and Wagner of the Red Sox are both great men at touching a runner. Collins will ride him in and so would Otto Knabe. Lots of men are good at getting the man sliding into second, but most ball players will tell you that the greatest man of all at this sort of thing is Johnny Evers.

Javelin Throwing Improving.

Javelin throwing has shown a wonderful improvement during the past few years in this country. Five years ago 162 feet 1 inch was the record. At the present time 184 feet 91/2 inches, made by Liversedge of California, is on the record book. We now have half a dozen men capable of doing 170 feet or better. At the rate our athletes are improving it will not be very long before the world's record, 204 feet 5% inches, held by E. V. Lemming of Sweden, is eclipsed.

Hard to Discover Golf Feat. What the no hit pitcher is to baseball the hole in one golfer is to golf. The latest golfing immortal is Douglas Conklin of Huntington, N. Y. He made a 150 yard hole on the Huntington golf links in one. A party of four spent some time seeking the ball beore a caddy thought to look in the cup.

Thinking about selling your house?

To get the greatest cash value for your property you should make sure that it looks in first-class condition. Repainting makes a world of difference in an old house.

CONTRACTOR SECONDARY SECONDARY

A clean, fresh-looking house sells quicker and commands a higher price than the dingy place. The cost of the paint has been known to come back ten to one because of the greater desirability to the purchaser.

If thinking of selling, think also of painting and use "High Standard," the paint made to give best results.
