THE DANGER OF
HOUSE INFECTION

Please understand at once that what we are now to speak of does not concern what may happen, but what actually does happen, over and over again, everywhere.
We are not merely saying that people may contract consumption by going to visit or live in an infected house; we are saying, and say with deliberateness and emphasis, that they do so contract it.
An infected house or room is one in which a consumptive has sojourned or lived. The period of his presence there need not be long in order to infect the house or the room. Periods of a few days' visit have been known to so infect a house that the family afterward developed tuberculosis. This is so well known that even in a tuberculosis hospital, where every possible precaution against infection is taken, no room is ever vacated by a patient without that room being thoroughly disinfected for hours thereafter. And such hospital rooms, as you know, are subject continuous disinfection by air and light.

If open-air hospital rooms need such thorough disinfection, what must be the need of the ordinary room or house where the consumptive has lived?
What is the process of infection? The sick person breathes and coughs and spits in a room—that is enough. Though he be ever so careful, he cannot guard every droplet that may fall from his lips in speech or coughing. If he guards his mouth with his hand, that hand is almost certain to come in contact with a door-knob, a coverlet, a book, or some other article, and infection begins.
How can infection be proved? Any competent bacteriologist can enter a consumptive's room, and by catching the dust that rises from shaken bed-clothes, or the dust swept from the floor, or the dust scraped or brushed from the walls, can find in that dust living tubercle bacilli with which he can inoculate guinea pigs or rabbits and produce virulent tuberculosis. It has been repeatedly done, and could be done in any consumptive home.
The conditions of a home not being those of a hospital or sanatorium, it follows that infection is greater here than elsewhere. That is, it does not follow merely as an argument but as a fact.
Now, this is of the utmost importance both to the family living in the house and to all house-renters in general. We shall later discuss the case of the family, but just now we are discussing the house itself.
It is astonishing how thoughtlessly people move from room to room, from house to house, without the least inquiry as to the kinds of diseases which existed in the rooms which they and their children are to occupy.
Would you be so careless about wearing another person's underclothing? Would you thoughtlessly don the garments which have been worn next the skin of a person whom you did not know? Yet, a house is but another form of clothing. A house is worn in the same sense that a shirt is worn. People breathe in it, sweat in it, cough and spit in it, eat in it, are sick in it, and, as a suit of clothes gradually takes on the shape of the person who wears it, so a house gradually takes on the health tone of the people who inhabit it. If they are insanitary, the house stores up an insanitary atmosphere.

People who would not wear the shirt of a person who had died of disease will readily occupy the room in which the disease progressed and the death occurred, without thinking to ask a question or to demand a thorough disinfection.
When you stop to think of it, it savors of the utmost risk and danger.

CHARMING GIFTS
FOR YOUNG GIRLS

Things That Are Pretty For Her
Christmas Stocking.

THE dainty brassiere shown is made of finest linen, hand embroidered with an eyelet pattern. The edges are finished with an exquisite linen torchon lace.
Another gift the college girl always revels in is quantities of handkerchiefs. The very newest and at the same time the only really smart and elegant handkerchief is made of a very fine linen in white or any delicate color. It is hemmed by hand, the hem not more than an eighth of an inch wide, in the corner of which is embroidered the monogram or crest in color or white, preferably white.
If you want to be up to the minute make some of them of fine voile.
One style of handkerchief is of solid pale pink voile and is bound with a narrow white hem. Blue, lavender and green voiles are used in the same way. A number of the handkerchiefs have a very wide border of white around a solid portion of color.
Golfing, tennis, riding, dancing, walking, photography, butterfly chasing, wild flower collecting, crocheting, embroidery, swimming, dogs, chafing dish suppers, music—any possible hobby may have its symbol embroidered in colors in the corner of the newest handkerchief. Just think how the girl who is "simply wild about autoing" will appreciate a half dozen fine linen handkerchiefs showing a little red machine ready to run about the hem-stitched edge, but securely embroidered in place!
The making of these very attractive little accessories might very well prove a hobby in itself, as they offer such possibilities for most original gifts and favors. A yard of handkerchief linen one yard wide will make nine twelve-inch squares, which may be finished in various ways. If you are brave scallop the edge in small scallops and colored cotton. If time is a consideration apply a very narrow separate hem of a colored linen and either stitch it by hand or by machine. Another pretty and decorative way of finishing the handmade handkerchief is to roll the edge and overcast it with a colored cotton, going back over this overcasting and reversing the process so that the second stitches cross the first ones. There is also a plain buttonhole edge that may be done in colors or a buttonholing that is being much used for centerpieces, where, instead of each stitch following the other in even procession, about four or five buttonhole stitches radiate from one point to the edge, forming something very like a shell crochet.

IF YOU MAKE A TOBACCO POUCH.

If you are contemplating embroidering a tobacco pouch for a man of your acquaintance please keep in mind his color preferences.
Don't make it too big—he doesn't want to carry his entire supply of the "weed" in it—nor yet too small. Remember the size of his pockets and think how large the bag will be when filled.
Line it with oil silk to keep the tobacco in good condition and get good oil silk while you are about it.

A CRETONNE TWINE BOX.

A necessary fitting in every household is a twine box. An ordinary square box, such as some jewelry comes in—as a small clock box or wooden salt box, for example—is covered with some pretty stuff. A hole is punched on the top; a ball of twine is put into the hole, the end being drawn through the box. A cheap pair of scissors may be fastened to the box, so that the string and the scissors for cutting it are always in a convenient place.

SCOUT NOTES.

By Scout Scribe.
As last Monday was examination week a list of candidates for Tenderfoot, Second Class and First Class honors was taken. A hike was decided upon for today at 8 a. m.
Taking for his subject "The Soldierly Qualities of a True Boy Scout." Mr. Cathcart gave a terse, earnest presentation of the soldierly qualities which make for success in private life. With graphic pictures, gleaned from his life in the Canadian Volunteer Service and his acquaintance, with Mr. Kaiser, he made us understand that obedience, cleanliness, politeness and self-sacrifice should be from self respect. When comments were made on the fact that certain Scouts were disloyal in non-attendance, he emphatically stated that the townspeople counted their boys greater than money; and if interest, which means attendance and devotion to Scout standards, increased until enough boys warranted it, we could be provided with a home of our own. This "Challenge" to boys of Cass City, whether Scouts or non-Scouts ought not to go unheeded. Especially by those stay-at-homes, who knock the Troop Committee for the very lack of interest they show themselves. A word to the wise is sufficient, so please remember that loyalty is in the Scout law and that upon breaking one point of the twelve, a Scout may be compelled to hand over his Scout badge.

The Scout Basket Ball team opened its season on Friday, November 12, at Clifford. As the game was in the open air perhaps a few more infringements on the rules were made than would have been the case indoors, but on the whole we can dismiss that with the comment that both teams were inexperienced. The final score was 14-2 in Clifford high school's favor. Clifford plays a return game here later and as her players are husky and the game will be indoors, a close game should result. Our line-up was as follows: Earl Buchanan, C.; Alvin Ward, R. G.; Neil Johnson, L. F.; Robert Agar, R. F.; Vernon McConnel, L. G.; Andrew Champion, substitute.
The Gagetown game last Friday resulted in 20-14 victory for Gagetown high school. The result shows, however, that our boys are improving with experience and will make an interesting time of it when playing under the eyes of the home bunch Thanksgiving evening. Robert Agar, playing right forward was easily the star making 12 of the 14 points in our favor. During the latter half of the game, Robert Brown relieved Neil Johnson as left guard. Let's all work off that turkey by walking to the Town Hall to see the first home game, Gagetown high school vs. Cass City Boy Scouts.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

By Supt. Co. Press.
"You might as well try to hold back Niagara as to stop woman suffrage. It is coming, and our national party might just as well have the benefit of it instead of opposing it."—U. S. Representative Baker of California.
Our state with a membership of over 15,000, was entitled to thirty-seven delegates. In spite of great distance and pressure of work at home sixteen of these were present, and when the total gain in membership was announced as 29,709, our delegates were happy because our state made nearly one-tenth of the entire gain.
Dundee union has put twenty Bibles in the village hotel. This union won a ten dollar prize in a recent "home coming" parade.
Goal for 1916—20,000 members in Michigan W. C. T. U. by June, and state-wide prohibition in November. Awake W. C. T. U. workers. There is a fight ahead of us in Michigan. Everyone in line. No half-hearted service will count. Do not look for easy places. Just be ready for hard work and self denial and sacrifice. The price may seem high but full value will be received. It means time and money freely given. It means safety for many boys and girls.

That the cool wet summer had at least one good effect is the contention of Prof. P. H. Pettit, head of the etomology department of the Michigan Agricultural college. "Wet weather has the effect of producing parasites which kill off the insects which under normal conditions have been killing crops," said Professor Pettit.

The box social at the Bird school on Friday evening was successful in every way. James Maharg, the auctioneer, succeeded in selling the boxes at prices which net the school $53.75. And the play was presented in a manner proclaiming talent. Miss Edith Kramer, the teacher of the school, is surely interested in her pupils to put forth the effort necessary for such a presentation.

B. J. Dailey and Samuel Champion returned home from the vicinity of Newberry Monday where they had been hunting deer with John Barnes and Chas. Wickware. The gentlemen were in a party of nine, each of whom has one deer to his credit. From the Chronicle's Northern Michigan correspondent comes the news that Dailey won the camp's title as chief and was known as "Chief Peewash" which in the Indian language may mean "merciful." He won the title when he let six feet-foted deer jump out from under him without harming one. Champion came near winning the honors from the big chief. Our correspondent says that Sam couldn't hit them when they jumped out into the road and stood watching him.

Mrs. Joe Ziekowitz and son, a lad of nine years, came to the Chronicle Tuesday and requested an item placed in the paper regarding their husband and father, who they said had left nine days previous for Crosswell to see his cousin, Amuel Posts, and secure employment in the sugar factory in that city. They hadn't heard from the man since he left and were not able to get into communication with him. The wife said she feared he had met with foul play and that she was left penniless with three small children. She was able to speak very little English and the boy did most of the talking. They described Ziekowitz as an Austrian of 40 years, medium height, white hair, weight 153 pounds, moustache, speaks little English. The family has been living on the Stewart Ballagh farm east of town where they worked in the sugar beets the past season. The Chronicle endeavored to learn more regarding the lost Austrian and telephoned to a neighbor of the family Wednesday. He furnished the information that he had just been talking to one of Ziekowitz's countrymen who had just visited Ziekowitz and had found him at home in bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway are spending Thanksgiving and the week end here before going to their new home in Flint.

E. W. Jones recently found among some relics of his mother a family register which gave the date and place of birth, and the dates of marriage and death of Mr. Jones' great grandparents and their family of 12 children. The great grandfather was Thomas Wing, who first saw the light of day at Sandwich, Mass., on Sept. 23, 1781. His wife was Rebecca Swift, who was born at Falmouth, Mass., on July 20, 1778. Mr. Jones' sister (now deceased) derived much enjoyment in tracing the Wing family history and was successful in following it back to 1630, within 10 years of the landing of the Mayflower. They have every reason to believe that one of their ancestors was a passenger on this Pilgrim vessel. The Wing family of America is incorporated and holds a re-union every two or three years in one of the large cities in the United States. The family also has its own publication, "The Owl," which is issued quarterly.

SURVEY CASS RIVER DRAIN

Two Crews Are Busy Running Lines and Taking Levels.

Two crews of surveyors have begun the survey of the south branch of the Cass river, the work being started under the supervision of Drain Commissioner Nicol of Sanilac county at a point about a mile west of the county line southeast of Cass City. One party is running the lines while the other is taking the levels. It is probable that the survey work will not be completed before the middle of December.

This survey is the preliminary work necessary for the dredging of the south branch of the Cass river which the drain commissioners of Tuscola, Sanilac and Lapeer counties in joint meeting recently decided that drain construction to be a necessity. This drain will be between 35 and 40 miles in length and will have an 80-foot bottom at the outlet. It is one of the largest drains in the state. It has been roughly estimated by several that the drain will cost about $250,000.

Drain Commissioner Nicol hopes to have the preliminary work so completed that contractors may bid on the drain some time next summer.

Hand Knitting Makes Useful Christmas Gifts.

At no time within fifty years has hand knitting been more in vogue than in the present year. Everywhere one went—in the railway trains and stations, in the street cars, even it is rumored in the theaters between acts—the busy click of the knitting needles has been in evidence. The slippers shown here are very easy of accomplishment and made of silk would be a handsome present.

Scotch Scones When Baking

You can always depend on Mother having something in readiness at the lunch hour. Never caught napping, even though the "cupboard is bare", and the bread is in the process of baking. She keeps a sack of

STOTT'S Diamond Flour

and just rolls out thin sheets of bread dough and bakes, or scorches, on a griddle. My, but Scotch Scones are good! Buttered when hot and wrapped in a napkin, a most delicious treat. Mother's Scones are excellent because her bread dough is of the best—she always uses Diamond Flour and knows she can get good results without a worry. Be sure and specify Stott's Diamond Flour when the grocery list is made out. David Stott Flour Mills, Detroit

"Oddfellowship! Working in manhood's prime and ardent youth In that sublimest, most ennobling strife, To show for man, best Friendship, Love and Truth." In memory of Brother James Allen, who died November 21, 1915. "So let him sleep that dreamless sleep, our sorrows clustering 'round his head: Be comforted, we-loved who weep, he lives with God—he is not dead." Once again Death hath summoned a Brother Odd Fellow, and the golden gateway to the Eternal City has opened to welcome him to his home. He has completed his work in the ministering to the wants of the afflicted, in shedding light into darkened souls and in bringing joy into the places of misery, and as his reward has received the plaudit, "well done," from the Supreme Master.

And Whereas, The all-wise and merciful Father has called our beloved and respected Brother Home, And Whereas, He having been a true and faithful brother of our Mystic Order therefore be it Resolved, That Cass City Lodge No. 203, I. O. O. F., State of Michigan, in testimony of her loss, tenders to the family of the deceased brother our sincere condolence in this deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

Have you a "little furnace" in your stove?

YES!—if it's an Estate Hot Storm. Otherwise—no! For the wonderful little furnace is an exclusive and patented feature of the Estate Hot Storm's construction.

While the stove is working overtime, radiating its heat upward, and downward, and every which way, the little furnace inside is shooting an enormous volume of pure hot air into the room.

—Hardly seems possible for a stove to do so much work as the

Estate Hot Storm

does—and to do it so nicely, without any smoke or gas getting into the room, without any puffing or exploding, without requiring any attention whatever except to put in some coal every day or two.

Make up your mind to "Own an Estate" this season, and make it an Estate Hot Storm—"the stove with a little furnace in it." See it here at our store.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure deafness,
and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by

Santa Claus in the Movies

By GENE MORGAN

YOUR information is in part correct," said Santa Claus, receiving the interviewer in the library of his ice palace. "It is true that I have received several flattering offers to star in moving picture productions. But it is not true that I have accepted any one of these propositions. I am still in doubt as to whether it would be the proper thing."

"I have my duty to the children of this world, and I must not impair my health or my power of service to them by the strenuous work demanded in the movies. No doubt I would prove a very popular star at the children's matinees. But I wonder if the children who see me in their dreams do not get a better and more flattering idea of me than they would in the picture."

"You see, my dear sir, the camera does not lie. I am sure it would not lie for me when it will not tell falsehoods about the appearance of kings and potentates. Every child in the world thinks of me as a very handsome old gentleman. Some of them may have an idea that I am inclined to be a little stout—but a good many others imagine I have as graceful a form as that of a young soldier. They think I curl my whiskers and have a beautiful wave in my long, silky locks."

"Your Uncle Santa is Getting Fat."

"They are not aware that your uncle Santa is getting so fat that there isn't room in the sleigh for himself and the larger toys. Nor that my noble mane of hair isn't what it used to be. If people ever sent me presents—which, of course, does not occur to them—I should like to murmur a little wish for a bottle of hair tonic.

"One moving picture firm wants to put me into a play. The plot is something like this: I am driving my reindeer over the treetops, when I am set upon by a band of aeroplane pirates. The pirates make me hold up my hands and then divest me of my stock of toys. Just when the banditplane is about to fly away, leaving me in distress, the chief of the robbers makes a discovery.

"Amid the pack of toys he finds a rag doll. By the tag around its neck he sees that it has been addressed to his little daughter. My thoughtfulness in remembering his little girl, despite her father's profession, touches the bandit's heart. He weeps, and then to the astonishment of his pals, he orders them to lift me into the aeroplane.

"Now, Mr. Claus," he says, according to the subtitle, "we are going to deliver your toys for you all over the world tonight. Give us directions and we will fly wherever you command."

"So at my direction, the bandit's aeroplane starts delivering the toys, making much better time, let me tell you, than my poor reindeer who were left behind. Things are going along fine. Our aeroplane toy conveyance has covered Canada, the United States, Australia and South Africa, when suddenly, to our dismay, we find that we are being pursued.

"More pirates? I ask in alarm.

"No, the aero-police!" shouts my pirate friend.

"The police had found my empty sleigh and motionless reindeer. They naturally concluded that I had been robbed and kidnaped. Now they are on the trail of my captors. The pirates are very much afraid that if arrested, they will be hanged at once. The police craft is gaining upon us. In order that the pirates may escape, they decide they must throw all of my toys overboard. The vicious crew demands that your old friend St. Nick be thrown overboard too, as I am pretty heavy, besides being the cause of all the trouble.

"The race continues through the sky.

"I want to raise the white flag as a token of surrender. I pledge myself to the captain of the pirate aeroplane that I will plead the cause of himself and his crew and secure their release from the police. I tell them that the police will do them no harm, after I have explained their kindness in carrying my toys all over the world.

"The police craft is now so close that escape seems impossible.

"Give me a white flag," I cry.

"There isn't a white flag on board—nothing but black flags," says the pirate. "Hurry up and do something. You have no time to lose. If you don't surrender they will shell us. And in that case, we will have to throw you overboard, St. Nick."

"My mind works quickly. I have no white flag. My handkerchief, like those of the pirate's is a red bandanna. What am I to do? Whiz! Another shell rips past our airship.

"Ah! I have it. It is the scheme that saves the day."

The interviewer at this point leaped to his feet and shouted in excitement: "Well, what do you do to have your life?"

"I wave my white whiskers at 'em," replied Santa Claus, proudly. "It is the signal of truce. Our lives and our precious cargo of toys are spared. What do you think of that idea for a play? They want to name it, 'Santa Claus in High Life.' Do you think I would make a hit as the star? Well, I'm glad you think so."

Gratitude as the Real Key to Christmas Joy

By "BILLY" SUNDAY

NINETEEN hundred years ago a star poised above a lowly manger in Bethlehem, and above the moonlit hills of Judea the angels heralded the beginning of the life of Jesus Christ upon this earth. And once more the birthday of the Saviour approaches.

How fast these festal days follow one another! Only a few days ago I was penning a Thanksgiving day message. Now we are looking forward with happy hearts and bright anticipations to Christendom's great gift-giving day.

Gratitude inspires in us the grace of giving.

Gratitude is the great original source of noble living and service, just as sin is the original source and root of all selfishness. The great all-seeing eye of God, as it surveys this planet, with all its scenes of revelry and its riot of sin, beholds but one festering ulcer—selfishness—and gazes upon one thing of great beauty—gratitude—which recognizes in every need of man the voice of God.

The immortal Frances E. Willard said: "I regard ingratitude as one of the basest of sins."

The Psalmist said: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his goodness to me?" Then answers his own question by saying: "I will take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord."

Never before have we so seriously faced the question of our obligation to Almighty God. There are thousands of heavy-hearted, world-worried men and women who will never find life worth living until their lives are linked with Jesus Christ.

There is no safety save in service. We must use or lose. The Dead sea gives nothing out, and that's why it is dead. Many lives are like the Dead sea. If you would have the joy of Christmas, you must find it in doing what Jesus did. He went about doing good. No one will ever find the Christian secret of a happy life save by trying to make it easier for others to do right and harder to do wrong.

There is joy in lifting any burdens of others, as the little girl found it who was carrying her baby brother across the street. He was almost as big as she was.

"Isn't he heavy?" asked a passer-by. "Oh, no; he's my brother." You cannot be a Christian without being a good fellow in the sense of trying to help others to be good, or, as someone has put it, "Except you erect the cross in your own heart, Jesus will profit you nothing."

O Holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend on us, we pray;
Cast out our sin and enter in;
Be born in us today.

ALL READY FOR HIS WORK

Spirit of Christmas.

The core of Christmas is the truth of unselfishness. This day of the new spirit that irradiates all the earth, is the day of lavish pouring out of self. "Somebody cares," is written large over every Christmas gift and Christmas plan. It is the day of taking thought for other persons. Christ in Christmas means unselfish love—the love of God for man, and of men for one another.

Met Every Christmas.

Cromwell's long parliament made a point of meeting every Christmas day.

IN MEMORIAM.

Written by Elizabeth Smith for those who mourn the loss of their loved one, James Allen:

You are lonely tonight, Oh! so lonely, None but those who have lost loved ones can feel—
The heartaches we know you are bearing
For the loved one, no earth's power could heal.

Stricken down in our midst was this loved one,
The true husband, father, brother and friend,
Spared to you a short time in his illness
That you might give loving care to the end.

Tho' you are lonely tonight, Oh! so lonely,
We know in kindness of heart you must feel

'Tis better he be called from his suffering
By a Loved One who has power to heal.

He has guided his steps through life's journey,
Judged each act by the motive at heart.
He knew at what time he was worthy
To be called and in His great plan take a part.

I go to prepare mansions for you,
Was His kind promise that we might not despair.
Who knows, perhaps He called Home your loved one
That he might help your great mansion prepare.

Tho' we miss him, each hour we miss him,
Miss the glad smile and the warm clasp of hand,
We must go on our way doing kindness,
Not striving to God's ways understand.

You have others to love and to love you,
Some one needs your help, his burden to bear.
We must not spend our time vainly grieving,
But in God's earthly work do our share.

When we complete the tasks He assigns us,
Guided through mysteries of death by His hand,
We will be greeted up there by our loved ones.
Let us pray 'twill be an unbroken band.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the many kind friends and neighbors who so kindly helped us during our time of sorrow, and especially the singers and for the beautiful flowers. The Rebekah lodge and Odd Fellows were also appreciated. Ellen Welsh and brothers, Wm. and Thomas. 11-26-
