CAUCUSES MUST BE HELD EARLIER

NEW LAW SAYS THEY MUST BE HELD 20 DAYS BE-FORE ELECTION.

New Provision Made Necessary to Enable Clerks to Mail Ballots to Travelling Salesmen.

The people of this state, by constitutional amendment, voted that travelling salesmen who could not be at their places of residence on election day should have the right to vote mevertheless, and provided that official ballots should be mailed to them in time so that they could mark them and NINE ARE CRIMINALS, 15 CIVIL, return them to the city, village, township or county clerk in time for delivery to the election boards on election day.

Agreeable to this amendment, which the voters of the state enacted, the last legislature provided the law for making it operative. The new law provides that any travelling salesman who will not be at his place of residence on election day, may apply to the city, village or township clerk for an official ballot to be sent him at an address he may give. The clerk to whom the application is made must forward by registered letter to the travelling salesman who applies for an official ballot in time so the recipient can mark it and have it returned by registered letter to the clerk early enough so the clerk may file it on election day with the election board where the travelling salesman may

To enable all this to be done it is necessary to have nominations made heretofore. Therefore the legislature amended the election law so that all the courts. caucuses, conventions or primary elections for nominating candidates for any office whatever must be held at least 20 days before election, and the ballots for every election must be peal. printed at least 12 days before elec-

Township, village, city and county committees should note the provisions of the new law, and call all party caucuses in townships, villages and cities not later than 20 days previous to the spring election and the tickets for the election must be printed not later than 12 days before election.

This new law makes no change in time or dates of registration. These can be held at the times they have been heretofore.

It will be well for all interested to study this new law, and be prepared to follow its provisions. The time will be much earlier than caucuses have been held heretofore; but the new law is mandatory on that point so that no township or city caucus can be legal Monday, March 13, 1916. Village caucus should not be held later than Feb.

CASS CITY AGAIN WINNER

Defeated North Branch in Fastest Game of Season.

Cass City\ took a long jump on the Thumb championship by defeating North Branch Friday night. The score was 28-20, Cass City's better condition and team work putting them in the lead in the last few minutes of play. In only the first few minutes was North Branch at all dangerous when they got as far as two baskets ahead. Although the few flashes of speed and team work which Cass City showed delighted the basket ball fans, the team is far from its maximum speed and much is to be looked forward to in the coming games,

 How to Fight Tuberculosis ‡ * ************

Some Cases of Factory Infection. Restricting our discussion to tuberculosis, it must be constantly borne in mind that in the factory, as in the family and the school, tuberculosis can be spread only by persons who have the disease in its "open" form, who eject the bacilli in their sputum and who carelessly dispose of the sputum. A great authority on this disease has said, "The consumptive himself is almost harmless, and only becomes harmful through bad habits"that is, insanitary habits, habit which permit infection to escape and spread.

Take the following detailed histories of cases of factory infection, and contemplate them. How do the conditions tally with your own work-place?

1. Bernard B., a wood-turner, 29 years old. Family history good—no consumption. The workshop was large and well-ventilated. In 1889 a fellow-workman died of tuberculosis. The same year Bernard began to cough and spit blood. Shortly afterward the boss took the disease and died, and an apprentice came down with it. There was a "center case" here, as you see, but there need have been no spread of the disease but for the fact that all these infected persons, including Bernard himself spat freely upon the wooden floors, and the floors were swept dry-each sweeping scattering the dried spittle into the air, carrying the germs with it, for the workmen to breathe.

NOKO.

An Ohio winter.

Mrs. S. Lewis is on the sick list. one day last week.

J. A. McKenney is preparing to do some extensive tile draining in the spring. Last summer was a good season to teach us the necessity of better drainage.

Frank Kerbyson is suffering with a very sore hand. Blood poisoning, it is feared, has developed.

Roy Shard of Detroit was a visitor here among old neighbors and relatives last week.

The special services are going well in spite of bad roads. A good spirit is evidenced. Rev. Hiram Voorheis of Port Huron will be here on Thursday and remain over Sunday. On Sunday quarterly services will be held. Everyone come who can. Meetings every night this week.

OLDEST SETTLER OF SANILAC COUNTY HAS PASSED AWAY

From Noko Correspondent.

Enos Johnson died at his home in Lamotte township, Sanilac county, on Friday, January 21. The funeral services were held on Sunday, January 23, and interment was made in Riverside cemetery. Rev. A. A. York was the officiating clergyman.

Enos Johnson was born in the state of Ohio in 1824. He came to Lamotte township in 1855, over 60 years ago, and is probably the oldest settler in Sanilac county, who has lived to a recent date. During the early part of his residence here he towed a canoe to Saginaw for provisions, Cass river being the only road in or out of the sparsely settled territory. He was a sufferer from fire in both '71 and '81, being obliged to lie in the river for two days during the conflagration of '81. He was married to Dinah Glendenning in 1868 and ten children were born to them. Two have preceded the father in death. The others with his wife survive him. Mr. Johnson was a good citizen and neighbor and highly respected by all who knew him.

So the question was altered to, Well, what are your deductions as to the future?"

It is not the life of the times of peace, I grant you, but the difference is such that it is really greatly in favor of the future when you ask whether aircraft will remain part of the daily life in Europe after

"I'm not going to say that we shall see aeroplanes as common as automobiles on Fifth avenue and Broadway. But they have undoubtedly won their place. Their use in war has proved their utility in peace. As to seaplanes and airboats, I am confident that they will very soon be as common a sight as ships and motor boats are today.

"Odd as the idea may seem at the moment, the war will certainly result in knitting the peoples of the world more closely together. The wireless PT. AUSTIN-Frank Kinch was in telephone will come apparently immetown Tuesday where he sold 1800 diately peace is established, and that will emphasize the ever increasing feeling for closer relations and the demand for speed in transportation which is a necessary consequence. The seaplane will become an absolute necessity. Its development may, perhaps, be practically without limit.

"As a beginning someone will cross the Atlantic in an airboat the first fine day that the world is again free street and turn on the lights each eve- to take interest in that side of the ning; also that resident porch lights development of flying. This could be be turned on. Let's get out of the done any day now. Craft are already in existence which could cross the Atlantic in a single nonstop flight.

The machine will easily carry all the supplies necessary for a nonstop flight of that distance together with an allowance as a margin be held in the M. E. church Sunday at for possible exigencies. Do you wonder that I have left off dreaming?

Plan Trial Flights.

"To give the aviators the necessary experience in ocean flying we purpose locating the machine here in New York city and making flights along the coast and to sea-at least, such are our present plans. When a man can do, say about 750 miles at the flight will present little further difficulty to him."

"And then afterward?" put in the questioner.

"The next deduction should not be hard," replied Mr. Curtiss, and then "A regular transatlantic air service the way of visions," returned Mr. Curtiss, with his smile of the Sphinx.

> "You asked me what in my opinion are the chief outstanding features of Europe is affording us in aviation. I would say that they are these: The increase in the size, but principally in the power of the machines, the amazing work shown to be possible by flyers and, above all, the urgent need of proper and adequate aerial forces

Lesson for U.S.

"For us I think this last lesson is by far the most important. We have practically no machines and almost no flyers. We could perhaps get the machines, if the enemy was good enough to give us the grace of a little time; but how about the men to use them? It takes time to make a flyer, a lot more time than any foe would give us. The situation is a serious one. No country can afford to take chances these days. Something ought to be done at once.

"Congress has voted $2,000,000, but most of it, I understand, is going for experimental workshops. That's all right, but it won't produce aviators. As a builder of aircraft I shall be considered 'interested,' I suppose. But I will run that risk. I speak because I know. For that matter, everybody ought to know; it is so obvious.

"In the last two naval maneuvers the defending fleet was eluded each time and the enemy succeeded in landing on our shores. We were told we had not enough scout ships. The obvious fact was that we had no seaplanes. Efficient watch on a long coast line like ours can only be kept by means of seaplanes. The expense of scout ships is unnecessary, and they could not do the work so well no matter how great their number.

"Our entire coast, I believe, should be guarded by a system of seaplane stations. The big seaplanes of today can go far out to sea, drop anchor and ride there for days if necessary. They can see infinitely farther, their speed is twice or three times that of a scout ship, they can keep in touch with each other more easily, they run little danger from the foe, and are a peril to submarines instead of being in peril from them.

Seaplane Ali Eyes.

"The seaplane is the only thing from which a submarine cannot escape. To escape from a warship a submarine has but to submerge, and once it is below the surface it is out of sight, and, far from having to flee, can turn back on the warship and have it at its mercy. But experience on the other amaker, for whom I built the America | side is showing that once it is spotted to fly across the ocean last year, is from a seaplane a submarine is still as keenly interested as ever in doomed as surely as a pigeon over which a hawk is hovering, and from the air it can be spotted and followed even when submerged.

"British aviators have adopted an ingenious, daring and deadly method with the German U-boats when they come upon them submerged. Unseen from the U-boat, they follow aloft another plane to fly the Atlantic, and | until the foe starts to the surface to take a peep around. Then they swoop down and, swishing along the surface of the sea at terrific speed, pass right over the U-boat, breaking off its periscope and leaving it helpless.

"One of the marked features of the seaplanes now is the great strength with which they are built. We no longer use the fine silk that was put on the America, and while I am not favoring metal for the surface of the planes, much of the framework is of metal. I am not at liberty to give dimensions of the biggest machine yet turned out, but I can say it is considerably larger than the America and more than eight times the weight of the machine with which I flew down the Hudson five years ago and won the World's $10,000 prize for the flight from Albany.

"More important than the increase in size is the increase in reserve engine power. On the America we had two motors of 90 horse power each, but they developed only 80 horse power, or together 160. On a similar machine today we put two 160 horse power motors.

Aeroplane That's Safe.

"Were we now building for peace purposes we could build enormously larger machines than we are turning out. But in war machines very high wheel in one spell, the transatlantic speed is essential rather than size. It is absolutely necessary, of course, that aircraft in war shall be able to rise very speedily. The perils of war are evolving an aeroplane that is as safe, apart from war perils, as a coach on a paved road.

"Among the war flyers of the allies the mishaps essentially aeronauticalthat is, not due to war conditionshave been fewer, I understand, than accidents among a similar number of automobiles. Taken altogether, the losses in the flying corps have been remarkably light compared with the amount of flying done and the risks

"Records of their work show that some of the men we trained have been in the air more than one thousand hours in less than a year, and one of them has recorded 1,200 hours aloft, which means more than four hours a day in the air over the foe without being hit or having a mishap to his machine. Some of the escapes have been miraculous. From one flight a man returned with more than a hundred bullet holes in his planes, but he had not been hit.

"Two other developments illustrate the inherent reliability of the aeroplane today. The first is that flight is now made with safety no matter how rough a wind is blowing. Weather no longer counts. The other is that, though in peace flight over a city was forbidden because of its danger, cities are now being protected by aeroplanes and we have not heard of any disaster through a machine fall-

Expecting Too Much.

"I am often asked why the British flyers cannot protect London from the Zeppelins. My answer is that that is expecting too much. It is impossible. The truth is that they are so far protecting London that the Zeppelins dare not venture near in the daylight and can make their raids only under cover of a dark night. Even at night the raiders have to turn back if the sky is cloudless.

"But even if the aeroplanes were already hovering high over the city when the Zeppelins came the chances would be in favor of the raiders. It would be possible to fly quite close to a Zeppelin and not know it. If you did happen to see it, the next moment it would be lost in a cloud. If, as must be the usual case, the defenders have to wait on the ground until the Zeppelin is picked up by a searchlight, the raiders will have done their work and be fleeing at top speed before an aeroplane can reach their height.

"The Germans say they make their raids at an elevation of 3,000 feet, but I believe 8,000 feet is nearer the mark. That is why they escape the guns. Londoners will have to bear with the raids as part of the fortunes of war. They can put out their lights, but they cannot hide their river.'

IS STAR MILK PRODUCER

Holstein Cow From New York Proves a Marvel in the State of Washington.

Seattle, Wash .- A Holstein cow on the dairy farm of Albert Lacosta, justnorth of this city, is attracting hundreds of city folk. The animal looked just like an ordinary cow when she arrived from New York state last summer, but now that she is fresh. it's another thing. The cow produces for Lacosta each and every day 21 gallons of the finest milk.

The morning milking yields nine gallons and the evening 12 gallons. The udder of this cow is a marvelous sight, equal in size before milking to a washtub, and drags so low that it is with difficulty the milking is done. Lacosta gets all his stock from the eastern part of the country and has another cow from an Iowa breeder which has been yielding 19 gallons of milk Marcelle Le Grand, on whom had been conferred the distinction of being the "prettiest mannequin in Paris." ### Sheep Breaks Farmer's Leg.

Groton, S. D. - Albert Shadduck, seventy-two years of age, is laid up with a double fracture of the left leg as the result of an encounter with a recalcitrant sheep at the Burnham farm. Mr. Shadduck called at the farm to dispose of some vegetables. The sheep started for him and Mr. Shadduck flecked its nose with his whip. The result was dynamic. The sheep charged, and before it could be drawn off the accident occurred.

PACK POULTRY

Specialists Urge Unusual Care in Preparing Fowls.

Methods Recommended Which Are Essential to Perfect Product at Any Time, Especially When Weather Is Unfavorable.

Poultry packers are urged by the specialists of the United States department of agriculture to give unusual attention to preparing and packing their birds for shipment, particularly if the mild weather, which has been widely prevalent this autumn, continues. The poultry specialists say that the weather conditions in many sections have been very similar to those which prevailed in the autumn of 1913 and which, as poultry shippers will remember, proved disastrous to all packers who did not dress, chill and pack properly.

The specialists, therefore, recommend the particular observance of the following methods of handling dressed poultry, which are essential to a perfect product at any time and are of vital importance whenever weather conditions are unfavorable:

1. Keep the holding batteries for your incoming stock clean, well aired,

chickens have plenty of fresh water and plenty to eat. 2. Don't kill a chicken when the crop is full of feed. Give the chicken only water for 24 hours before it is per 100 - - $2.00 only water for 24 hours before it is killed. Food in the crop or in the intestines of a dressed chicken causes loss of flavor and hastens decay, which more than offsets any gain from extra

> 3. Good bleeding is absolutely essential to a good appearance on the market and retards decay. Circular 61, bureau of chemistry, department of agriculture, explains the best methods of bleeding and loosening the feathweight.

4 Hang the chicken by both feet while picking. Hanging by one leg spoils the shape of the bird. Picking on the lap gets the skin dirty and hastens decay.

5. Dry pick if possible. Scalding is particularly undesirable because it hastens decay.

6. Chill every dressed bird until the body temperature is below 35 degrees F. Never pack or ship an imperfectly chilled bird. More decay is due to imperfect chilling than to any other single factor in dressing. Dry chill, if possible. Chickens cooled in water lose flavor, decay sooner, will not coldstore as satisfactorily as dry-chilled. and are in every way more undesirable on the market. Refrigerator cars will er ry well-chilled goods in good condition, but they cannot chill warm goods to a sufficiently low tempera-

7. Pack in boxes or small kegs whenever possible. A large barrel makes an undesirable package, because where poultry is packed in large masses the weight of the upper layers crushes the birds at the bottom.

8. Line all packages with parchment paper and cover the top of the poultry before the lid is put on.

9. Wrap every head in suitable paper so that blood from one bird will not mar the appearance of another.

10. Use only good refrigerator cars and see that they are in good order. Ice and salt the car 24 hours before loading. The car, at the end of 24 hours should show a temperature below 40 degrees F. at a point four feet above the floor and between the doors.

General Suggestion's.

Never handle chickens roughly, either before or after killing. Rough handling causes bruises, broken bones, scarred skins, and soft places in the flesh. Undue haste on the part of the killers and pickers results in lowered keeping quality and poor appearance of the product.

Piecework, which leads to quantity rather than quality, makes for lower prices on the market. Those who pay by the piece should remember that they sell by the quality of the piece. These directions will apply with equal force to turkeys intended for the market. Don't Expect Too Much. Even with the best of management and care, too much must not be expected of poultry.

Fine Harbors for Insects. Trash and weeds make fine harbors for insects to winter in.

TO DRIVE STAPLES STRAIGHT

Handy Tool of New Design for Wire Fence Construction—Device Used for Other Purposes.

In the erection of wire fence it is generally necessary to drive a large number of staples and for the security of the fence it is desirable that the staples should be driven straight and accurately. Owing to the irregularities of the wooden posts and the strain of the fence wire, which is under a heavy tension when being erected, it the staples just where they are wanted to be of the most service.

The tool shown in the accompanymay be driven in a given time and they are driven in a much superior manner. Besides being a convenience to fence erectors there are other mechanics who will find use for this tool such as electricians, box makers, coopers and the like.

WOOD LOT VERY CONVENIENT

Useful for Fuel Supply as Well as for Fence Posts and Timber for Other Purposes.

During the years that have passed many men have been engaged in fighting the forest, cutting and clearing land of timber, preparing it for the plow. In other words, making farms and homes. The work still continues in the heavily timbered sections.

Much bad judgment was used in the early clearing, often rather steep hillsides were denuded of timber and the soil put under the plow, while in many instances more level portions of the farm were left in timber. Washing soon followed the cultivation of such rough tracts, and today many of them are badly scarred by deep gullies and much of the surface soil has been carried away.

Every farm should have a small wood lot. Forestry on the farm is today an important feature of agriculture and ought to receive considerate attention from farmers. A wood lot is very convenient to have, not only as a source of fuel in times of scarce ning. and high priced coal as at present, for various uses and to add beauty to the landscape and premises, afford shade, shelter and comfort to a large extent for all the occupants of the
