ARGYLE HOTEL

NARROW ESCAPE FRI-DAY AFTERNOON.

The Argyle hotel, owned and managed by James Perkins, was burned to the ground Friday afternoon. The insured for $1,000. Insurance of $800 was carried on the furniture and $200 on the stock of cigars and tobaccos. The origin of the fire is unknown.

When discovered, it had made its way between partitions to the upper floor. A greater part of the contents of the first floor was saved and some of the furniture from the second story. James Perkins, the proprietor, had been kicked by a horse shortly before the fire and was handicapped by his injury in directing the removal of his property from the burning building. The fire attracted a large crowd and all turned in and kept the flames from spreading to near-by buildings.

S. W. Striffler's store, situated just across the street from the hotel, had a narrow escape. COMPLETION AND WILL BE A BEAUTY.

The Croswell Jeffersonian says: It was the good fortune of the editor of the Jeffersonian to be shown through the new court house at Sandusky on Monday last and the result of the visit is that we are prepared to say that few if any of the counties of the state have a better or more convenient building. There have been all kinds of stories in circula-Robt. Sanilac county will have a building that will be a credit to the larg-Russel Yake and Arthur Haynes, est county in the lower peninsulas co-partners, vs. James Cadow, as and one that will stand for many years. The work throughout seems to be of the best and we feel sure that if the kickers will take the time togive the court house a close inspection they will have reason to change their expressed opinions.

In company with Sanford Utley and Richard Loree, clerk and treasurer, the Jeff. was given every opportunity to see the building from boiler pit to roof and in no case could see one place that was not right up to anything that could be asked for in any public building of this class. The work has been pushed along at the very best pace possible and had not there been some holdups for material would have been ready for occupancy on time. As it is it will probably be a month or six weeks before it will be completed, though some of the rooms can be used in a shorter time. No photographs could be secured or we would have given a cut of the new court house. In general appearance it is of the latest style in architecture, massive appearing, without the old time tower. The front is made handsome by two heavy columns running to the cornice and the whole building had a substantial look that strikes one much better than does the style of twenty or thirty years ago.

The building is two stories and a basement, though the latter is really a story as it extends but a couple of feet below the sidewalk level. In this basement are some of the finest offices to be found anywhere, with marof Margaret (Maggie) Stoliker, an ble wainscoting and all the modern conveniences.

At the left of the entrance is placed the ladies' waiting room. This is a large light room and has a retiring room with closets attached. Here the ladies will be made to feel that they are really a part of the county, something that was not accorded them in the old building.

Back of these are the offices of the school commissioner consisting of two large rooms, a lobby with coat room and closets. The school commissioner will have plenty of room,

The surprise drill given by the Cass City ladies at the Gleaner home coming was a surprise long to be remembered. So nimble were their dainty feet as they kept time with the music that many were kept guessing just who the young ladies were, and when they left the floor amid thundering applause, Joe England's hearty laugh and shout of "What's the matter with Cass City!" was heard above the tumult. And, again there was still another surprise awaited the audience. As the ladies unmasked, it was found they were girls grown to mature years, and mothers of Cass City.

CHAPTER VI. The Prince and Mr. Blithers.

A PROPORTION OF THE PROPORTIO

NY one who imagines that Mr. Blithers accepted Maud's defection as a final disposition of the cause he had set his heart upon

's very much mistaken in his man. It was a nuisance getting rid of it, that was all, and he wanted it to be completely out of sight when he returned from Red Roof. If a vestige of the ruins remained some would hear from him. That was understood. And when Maud came home on the 5:14 she would not find him asleep, not by a long shot.

Half way to Red Roof he espied a man walking briskly along the road ahead of him. To be perfectly accurate, he was walking in the middle of the road, and his back was toward the swift moving, almost noiseless "Blow the horn for the dam' fool," said Mr. Blithers to the chauffeur. A moment later the pedestrian leaped mimbly aside and the car shot past, the dying wail of the siren dwindling away in the whirr of the wheels. "Look where you're going!" shouted Mr. Blithers from the tonneau, as if The walker had come near to running him down instead of the other way around. "Whoa! Stop 'er, Jackson!" he called to the driver. He had recognized the pedestrian.

The car came to a stop with grinding brakes, and at the same time the pedestrian halted a hundred yards

"Back up," commanded Mr. Blithers in some haste, for the prince seemed to be on the point of deserting the highway for the wood that lined it. "Morning, prince!" he shouted, waving his hat vigorously. "Want a lift?"

"No, I'll walk if you don't mind. Out for a bit of exercise, you know. Thank you just the same.'

"Where are you bound for?" asked

Mr. Blithers. "I don't know. I ramble where my fancy leads me." "I guess I'll get out and stroll along with you. God knows I need more exercise than I get. Is it agreeable?" He was on the ground by this time. Without waiting for an answer, he directed Jackson to run on to Red Roof and wait for him. twinkle in the tail of his eye. "An prince. You've got American blood in eight or ten mile jaunt will do you a world of good, I'm sure. Shall we explore this little road up the mountain and then drop down to Red, Roof? I don't believe it can be more than five or six miles.' enthusiasm. He happened to know that it was a "short cut" to Red Roof and less than a mile as the crow flies. True, there was something of an ascent ahead of them, but there was also a corresponding descent at the other end. Besides, he was confident he could keep up with the long legged youngster by the paradoxical process of holding back. The prince, having suggested the route, couldn't very well be arbitrary in traversing it. Mr. Blithers regarded the suggestion as an invitation.

They struck off into the narrow woodland road, not precisely side by side, but somewhat after the fashion of a horseback rider and his groom. or, more strictly speaking, as a knight and his vassal. Robin started off so briskly that Mr. Blithers fell behind a few paces and had to exert himself considerably to keep from losing more ground as they took the first steep rise. The road was full of ruts and cross ruts and littered with bowlders that had ambled down the mountain side in the spring moving. To save his life, Mr. Blithers couldn't keep to a straight course. He went from rut to rut and from rock to rock with the fidelity of a magnetized atom, seldom putting his foot where he meant to put it and never by any chance achieving a steady stride. He would take one long, purposeful step and then a couple of short "feelers,' progressing very much as a man tramps over a newly plowed field.

At the top of the rise Robin considerately slackened his pace, and the chubby gentleman drew alongside somewhat out of breath, but as cheerful as a cricket.

"Going too fast for you, Mr. Blithers?" inquired Robin.

"Not at all," said Mr. Blithers. "By the way, prince," he went on, cunningly seizing the young man's arm and thereby putting a check on his speed for the time being at least. "I want to explain my daughter's unfortunate absence last night. You must have thought it very strange. Naturally it was unavoidable. The poor girl is really quite heartbroken. I was par-

I ticularly anxious for you and Maud to meet under the conditions that obtained last night," he went on, with a regretful look at the log they were passing. "Nothing could have been more er—ripping.'

> "I hear from every one that your daughter is most attractive," said Robin. "Sorry not to have met her, Mr. Blithers."

"Oh, you'll meet her all right, prince. She's coming home today. I believe Mrs. Blithers is expecting you to dinner tonight. She"-

"I'm sure there must be some mistake," began Robin, but was cut short. "I was on my way to Red Roof to ask you and Count Quiddux to give us this evening in connection with that little affair we are arranging. It is most imperative that it should be tomight, as my attorney is coming up for the conference."

There was a note in his voice that Robin did not like. It savored of arro-

"I daresay Count Quinnox can attend to all the details, Mr. Blithers. I have the power of veto, of course, but I shall be guided by the counsel of my ministers. You need have no hesi tancy in dealing with"—

'That's not the point, prince. I am business man-as perhaps you know. I make it a point never to deal with any one except the head of a concern, if you'll pardon my way of putting it. It isn't right to speak of Growstock as a concern, but you'll understand, of course. Figure of speech."

"I can only assure you, sir, that Graustark is in a position to indemnify you against any possible chance of loss. You will be amply secured. I take it that you are not coming to our assistance through any desire to be philanthropic, but as a business proposition, pure and simple. At least that is how we regard the matter. Am I not right?"

"Perfectly," said Mr. Blithers. "I haven't got sixteen millions to throw away. Still I don't see that that has anything to do with my request that you be present at the conference tonight. To be perfectly frank with you, I don't like working in the dark. You have the power of veto, as you say. Well, if I am to lend Groostork a good many millions of hard earned dollars I certainly don't relish the idea that you may take it into your head to upset the whole transaction merely because you have not had the matter presented to you by me instead of by your cabinet, competent as its members may be. First hand information on any subject is my notion of simplicity.

"The integrity of the cabinet is not to be questioned, Mr. Blithers. Its members have never failed Graustark in any"-"I beg your pardon, prince," said Mr. Blithers firmly, "but I certainly suspect that they failed her when they contracted this debt to Russia. You will forgive me for saying it, but it was the most asinine bit of shortsightedness I've ever heard of. My office boys could have seen farther than your honorable ministers. What you need in Groostock is a little more good. American blood. If you are going to cope with the world you've got to tackle the job with brains and not with that idiotic thing called faith. There's no such thing these days as charity among men, good will and all that nonsense. Now, you've got a heard any one say that? But that's splendid start in the right direction, nonsense. She's not in love with any your veins, and that means a good deal. Take my advice and increase the proportion. In a couple of generations you'll have something to brag about. Beget sons that will think and act. Weed out the thin blood "Capital," said Mr. Blithers with and give the crown of Grasstick something that is thick and red. It will be the making of your"-

"I suppose you are advising me to marry an American woman, Mr. Blithers," said Robin dryly.

Mr. Blithers directed a calculating squint into the treetops. "I am simply looking ahead for my own protection, prince," said he.

"You way rest assured, Mr. Blithers, that I shall marry to please myself and no one else," said Rebin, regarding him with a coldness that for an instant affected the millionaire uncom-

"Well," said Mr. Blithers after a moment of hard thinking, "it may interest you to know that I married for

"It does interest me," said Robin. "I am glad that you did."

"I was a comparatively poor man when I married. The girl I married was well off in her own right. She had brains as well. We worked together to lay the foundation for awell, for the fortune we now possess, a fortune, I may add, that is to go, every dollar of it, to my daughter. It represents nearly $500,000,000. The greatest king in the world today is poor in comparison to that vast estate. My daughter will one day be the richest woman in the world."

"Why are you taking the pains to enighten me as to your daughter's future, Mr. Blithers?"

"Because I regard you as a sensible young man, prince."

"Thank you. And I suppose you regard your daughter as a sensible young

"Certainly!" exploded Mr. Blithers.

"Well, it seems to me she will be capable of taking care of her fortune a great deal more successfully than you imagine, Mr. Blithers. She will doubt- Magazine less marry an excellent chap who has the capacity to increase her fortune the possession of an ambitious king." There was fine irony in the prince's Nevertheless Mr. Blithers turned a City.

shade more purple than before and not from the violence of exercise. He was having some difficulty in controlling his temper. What manner of fool was this fellow who could sneer at $500, 000,000? He managed to choke back something that rose to his lips and very politely remarked:

"I am sure you will like her, prince. If I do say it myself, she is as handsome as they grow.'

"So I have been told." "You will see her tonight."

"Really, Mr. Blithers, I cannot"-"I'll fix it with Mrs. King. Don't you worry.

"May I be pardoned for observing that Mrs. King, greatly as I love her, is not invested with the power to govern my actions?" said Robin haughtily.

"And may I be pardoned for suggesting that it is your duty to your people to completely understand this loan of mine before you agree to accept it?" said Mr. Blithers, compressing his lips.

"Forgive me, Mr. Blithers, but it is not altogether improbable that Graustark may secure the money elsewhere.

"It is not only improbable, but impossible," said Mr. Blithers flatly. "Impossible?"

"Absolutely," said the millionaire, so significantly that Robin would have been a dolt not to grasp the situation. Nothing could have been clearer than the fact that Mr. Blithers believed it to be in his power to block any effort Graustark might make in other directions to secure the much needed money.

"Will you come to the point, Mr. Blithers?" said the young prince, stopping abruptly in the middle of the road and facing his companion. "What are you trying to get at?"

Mr. Blithers was not long in getting to the point. In the first place, he was hot and tired, and his shoes were hurting; in the second place, he felt that he knew precisely how to handle these money seeking scions of nobility. He planted himself squarely in front of the prince and jammed his hands deep into his coat pockets.

"The day my daughter is married to the man of my choice I will hand over to that man exactly twenty million dollars," he said slowly, impres-

"Yes; go on." "The sole object I have in life is to see my girl happy and at the same time at the top of the heap. She is worthy of any man's love. She is as good as gold. She"-

"The point is this, then: You would like to have me for a son-in-

"Yes," said Mr. Blithers. Robin grinned. He was amused in spite of himself. "You take it for granted that I can be bought?"

"And how much will you hand over to the man of her choice when she marries him?" inquired the young "And how much will you hand over

"I have not made any such state-

"You will be her choice," said the other without the quiver of an eyelash. "How can you be sure of that? Has she no mind of her own?" "It isn't incomprehensible that she should fall in love with you, is it?" "It might be possible, of course, pro-"It might be possible, of course, provided she is not already in love with some one else."

Mr. Blithers started. "Have you one, take it from me. And just to show you how fair I am to her—and to you—I'll stake my head you fall in love with each other before you've been together a week.

"It is possible that I could fall in love with her inside of a week or even sooner. But I don't intend to, Mr. Blithers, any more than she intends to fall in love with me. You say that $20,000,000 will go to the man she marries if he is your choice. Well, I don't give a hang, sir, if you make it $50,-000,000. I am not for sale, Mr. Blithers. Good morning." Robin turned into the wood and was sauntering away with his chin high in the air when Mr. Blithers called out to him from behind:

"I shall expect you tonight, just the same." Robin halted, amazed by the man's assurance. He retraced his steps to the roadside.

"Will you pardon a slight feeling of "Will you pardon a slight feeling of curiosity on my part, Mr. Blithers, if I ask whether your daughter consents to t'e arrangement you propose. Does she approve of the scheme?" Mr. Blithers was honest. "No, she Mr. Blithers was nonest.

doesn't," he said succinctly. "At the honest the ho least, not at present. I'll be honest with you. She stayed away from the ball last night simply because she did not want to meet you. That's the kind of a girl she is."

"By jove, I take off my hat to her!" gried Robin. "She's a brick, after all. Take it from me, Mr. Blithers, you will not be able to hand over twenty millions without her consent. I believe that I should enjoy meeting her, now that I come to think of it. It would be a pleasure to exchange confidences with a girl of that sort. Shall I instruct your chauffeur to come for you up here, or will you walk back

"I'll walk to Red Roof," said Mr. Blithers doggedly. "I'm going to ask Mrs. King to let you off for tonight."

About Fishes.

Fish are nearly the same weight as the water in which they live, so that they can move in it with great ease. The majority of them also have an air bladder inside of the body, which enables them to go up or down in the water at will. When a fish desires to go down deep it can press the air out of this bladder by means of certain muscles and thus increase the weight of its body, and when it wishes to rise again it takes off the pressure, the bladder fills with air again, and its body becomes light enough to rise.

A Man Admires A Watch For What It Will "Do."

A boy loves one if it is his very own just because it is his.

A man demands that a watch run accurate to the minute. A boy doesn't mind a slight variation-just so long as the watch keeps running. Men's watches cost more than boys' because they cost more to turn out.

But it is doubtful if a man gets a quarter the satisfaction from owning a watch that a boy does. This is the point--if you want to make that boy of yours radiantly happy, get him a watch. A. H. Higgins

COMMUNICATION.

Seeger and Seventh streets are to have a street light. Some time ago there was a petition sent in asking the village council to give us a street light upon south end of Seeger St. The petition was acted upon and referred to the committee to investigate. It was talked over and decided if a light be placed anywhere, there it should be, on the corner of Seeger and Seventh Sts., and if located there. they thought the people south of Seventh St. ought to do something toward installing it. It was then talked over among those living south of the city limits, and they all agreed that if the city thought best to locate the light on the corner of Seeger and Seventh St., that they would donate anything reasonable. Then at the next meeting a resolution was passed that if South Cass City would raise $50 to help erect a light on Seeger & Seventh St they would locate it there. In a few days the $50

LEADING TOBACCO TOWN

Winston-Salem, N. C., Now Manufac tures More Tobacco Products Than Any Other City in World.

Following are extracts from an address delivered by Col. A. D. Watts, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifth District of North Carolina, at a smoker given by The Twin City Club, Winston-Salem, February 4th, 1916:

"Winston-Salem is supplying onefourth of all the chewing and smoking tobacco consumed in the United States, besides exporting vast quantities to foreign lands. This statement is taken from the report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the first quarter of the present fiscal year and from private advices from Washington, as to the second quarter, which ended December 31st,

"Your city is making one-seventh of all tobacco products—chewing and smoking tobacco, cigars, cigarettes snuff—manufactured in the United States. Your manufacturers are paying on an average about $37,000 a day revenue taxes to the government and the amount is increasing from month to month. When your government building, much the handsomest in the state, was completed last July at a cost of $250,000 your newspapers made the statement that the taxes paid in your city to Uncle Sam for the first eight days of its occupancy would pay for it. Since September, it has taken only a fraction over seven average days collections here to equal its cost. So far this week, Mr. equal its cost. So far this week, Mil. Cranford has taken $206,428.50. I predict that before 1916 shall have ended your average weekly payments government on tobacco will more than pay for this magnificent building, leaving the collections for the other fifty-one weeks at clear profit to the government.

"Winston-Salem is shipping on an average each week day to all parts of this country and to feering leads of this country and to foreign lands at least $150,000 of tobacco products. "In conclusion, Winston-Salem nanufactures more tobacco, all tobacco products are taken into this statement, than any other city on earth, little or big. Industrially, she is easily first in North Carolina, population considered, first in America and I believe, in the world; socially, a never failing delight to her friends."

Profit in "Baby Beef"

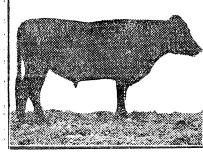

Young Animals Must Have Liberal of millinery. Supply of Right Feed.

Grain End of Ration Will Need to Be Increased Steadily During Late Winter-There Is No Better

Suppose "baby beeves" are to be finished for the market next fall. This means that they must have a liberal supply of the right kind of feed all winter long, feed that will keep them ily during the winter, writes L. Hunt is no better feed than corn for this purpose, and it should be fed liberally. using, say, from one-half to threequarters corn in the grain ration. Use bran and oil meal for the remainder.

ing redtop or timothy hay let about one-fifth of the ration be oil meal or cake. Watch the calves and increase the ration as they take on size and weight. If they come along all right during the winter they ought to weigh around 800 or 900 pounds by spring, and on a good pasture they are soon ready for the market. It is really a better plan, however, to put them on a fattening ration early in the spring and finish them on dry feeds.

When they are to be finished on the pasture it is possible to limit the grain ration considerably during the winter, and finish on a few weeks of grass. However, it will be necessary to give an ample grain ration while they are on the pasture. On clover and alfalfa ten per cent concentrates in the grain ration will be plenty when the calves are on bluegrass or Feb. 27. The calves ought to be ready for market by the middle of June and weigh around 1,100 pounds.

Calves to be finished as two-yearolds should be grown more slowly. Roughage and a little grain will see them through their first winter, and March 12. they should make their way on the pasture the next summer. The second winter they should be fed hay or silage and some grain. Give them all the roughage they can eat. Where there is no legume hay feed them some oil meal along with the grain.

Give Hens Physic When Systems Need Cleaning Out-Give Epsom Salts in Their Mash.

When hens go off their feed and you suspect that their systems need cleaning out, give them a physic, as you would a person. If it is a single fowl a half teaspoonful of epsom salts may be dissolved in water and poured down its neck. For the flock or a pen the salts solution may be used to wet a mash.

It won't hurt the flock to have a physic once in two months anyway, whether they show special signs of needing it or not.

For chicks under three weeks of age a half-pound of epsom salts is enough for 300 of them. Proportional amounts should be given for older

There is very little chance of making money from squabs unless through cleanliness pigeons can be kept comparatively free from disease and insect parasites. The stock should be carefully

The Most Cream Separator Value For Your Money

N a Primrose separator there are no mechanical adjustments to make except the turning of one screw to bring the bowl to the correct height—once a year, perhaps. Every bearing is oiled with clean, fresh oil before the handle makes a quarter turn. There is no chance to injure the spindle or spindle bearings when replacing the bowl. These are three exclusive Primrose separator features.

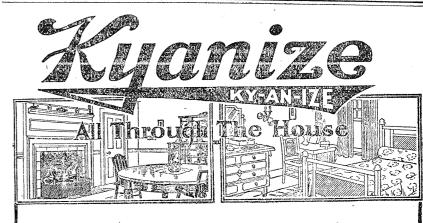

The milk supply bowl is firmly set in one place—the right place. The milk float goes into just the right position, either side up. The gears are all rigidly fastened. The bowl has the cleanest, closest-skimming device and the largest skimming surface ever put into a cream separator.

The Primrose is worth more than any other separator built, and it sells for less than many of them. Drop in and let the dealer show you why.

Large rooms are accorded final receipts filed. Order made dis- him with plenty of vault room for his records. All these rooms are well lighted with large windows above

> At the rear of the drain commissioner are offices for the county surveyor and county agent for corrections and charities, both commodious and well fitted up.

At the rear of the basement are the two large boilers which supply the building with plenty of heat and coal rooms are also provided on this

The next floor has the offices of the county clerk in the southwest corner. These consist of a large public room divided by an iron railing, with private office and toilet rooms in the rear. This office is also provided with ample vault room, this being a feature. In addition to a large vault, on the same level is another one reached by a stairway from the main vault, almost doubling the size. There will be no question as to the safety of the county records in these as they are of the very latest construction. The register of deeds has his offices in the northwest corner of the building, just back of the clerk and his rooms are almost a counterpart of the clerk's with the double vault as well. There is no question as to its being one of the best rooms of the kind in the state.

The front to the east will be given over to the treasurer and this will be one of the pleasantest and best rooms in the building. A large vault, private office, toilet rooms, etc., will make the treasurer so comfortable that he will more than ever regret the law tive terms in the office.

In the northeast corner of this floor are the probate offices. These are fitted up as a court room, a couple of private offices, vault and toilet rooms. Retiring rooms for ladies are also provided here. With the number that the judge of probate has had to care for at his sessions of court he has been badly handicapped for room, a condition that should no longer exist.

The third story is given over to court room, supervisor's room, jury rooms, library, a suite of rooms for sheriff. The court room was hardly sufficiently along to show how it would appear, yet one was struck with the chances for a cozy court room, a big change from that of the old building.

The supervisor's room was nearer completion and showed that the county legislature had been well provided Nelson S. Arnold et al to Mary J. for. This room is in the northeast purposes for which it was intended. Jacob E. Burkell and wife to Conrad It can also be used for a court room > undoubtedly be used for this purpose. The jury rooms, the prosecutor's office, the judge's room and the library run along the front of the building. The latter is connected by a stairway with the clerk's office be> low and is very convenient. Away up under the roof is another room that will be a new one to Sanilac county. It is a dormitory for the jury when a case is on trial. Here the twelve good men and true can be housed during the trial of a case and no jury fixer can get near them unless he files to the roof and comes down the skylight. It is an airy place and will comfortably take care of a panel.

> The whole building is well equipped with steam heat with proper ventilation, thermometers for the regulation of the heating, electric lights, water, and telephone wiring, all done up in the latest and most improved style. From present indications the contractors, the Covell Construction Co. of Ionia, have done their work well and substantially. We are of the opinion that the court house will be a building to which the builders and the architect, Mr. J. E. Mills of Detroit, can point to with pride during the next generation, and one which the taxpayers of Sanilac county will look to with the knowledge that it is a man's journal a good way to protect an open face watch from wet. This also helps to keep it from falling out of a pocket. "To keep one's watch dry. even though you go overboard, take a piece of pure rubber dental dam eight inches square, put the watch in the center and bring the rubber together at the stem, tying the puckered up rubber with a bit of string. When you wish to see the face simply stretch the rubber over the front and you can see the hands clearly through it."-Outing.

Morocco, in spite of its close proximity to Europe, is the most fanatical of the Mohammedan countries.

Seed Beans

We have seen several samples of Beans that have been shipped from Wisconsin at different elevators in the state and we find they are quite free from disease but very uneven in size. Why not pay 30c an acre more for uniform beans and just as free from disease.

Be Your Own Judge

Compare a sample of our Charlevoix Seed stock with other Seed Beans.

If you intend to pay a premium for seed beans, why not buy the best? A few cents per acre more at planting time will mean dollars to you at harvest time.
