Know Not "Impossible."

Know that "impossible," where truth and mercy and the everlasting voice of nature order, has no place in the brave man's dictionary; that when all men have said "impossible" and tumbled noisily elsewhere and thou alone art left, then first try time and possibility have come. It is for thee now; do thou that, and ask no man's counsel but thy own only and God's.

Insulted.

Duels have been fought over the most remotely fancied insults. M. Romieu, who seems to have been an editor in Paris, got a letter from a young lawyer which ran: "Sir, I send you with this note a ballad, which I beg you will read with great attention. If you think you can add a few words to it and they suit me I consent to accept you as a collaborateur."

Safeguarded.

The following is a bona fide statement made by a seven-year-old girl who had listened to medical talk all her life. Being asked her father's business, she replied: "My father is a doctor, but he isn't a quack! My father's got a license, so if he kills any one they can't arrest him!"

FEEDING GERMANS

Herr von Batocki, New Dictator, Establishes City Kitchens.

ABOLISHES PRIVATE PROFITS.

Hot Dinner at Midday and Supper Being Served at Minimum Charge. Wealthy Families Urged to Take Meals by This Method—Result of Speculation in Food. Berlin.—The food dictator of Germany, Adolph von Batocki, has started the feeding of the population by communal kitchens. In Berlin there are from twenty-five to thirty of them, directed by five or six committees appointed by Batocki.

HERR VON BATOCKI.

from Berlin the same as any other department of the imperial government. The war nutrition office has complete control of all foodstuffs and raw materials of food and fodder, and first of all will do away with private profit in the sale of food, especially meat, bread, milk and butter.

While the mass of the German people has displayed extraordinary self denial since the war began, there has been speculation in food, and the poor have suffered in consequence. Batocki's appointment was made shortly after butcher shops in Berlin and the suburbs were raided by angry mobs of women who had sought in vain to buy meat, only to be told by the butchers that they had none.

The police were active in prosecuting the gamblers in food, but the evil was not eliminated. One butcher, Klausmann, whose shop was in the Hoheluff-Chaussee, was convicted of selling sausage made of semi-putrid meats deodorized by chemicals.

The appointment of Batocki as food dictator, in the first place, was to control these "human food hogs," as they are called in Germany, the butchers, the bakers, the farmers, etc. His duties also are intended to regulate the expenditure of money for food among the working classes, particularly the young women, who are earning higher wages than they ever dreamed of getting and frequently spending it in expensive restaurants.

Batocki's appointment did not surprise his friends. A large landowner in East Prussia, several years before the opening of the war he had been president of the Agricultural Chamber of East Prussia and a member of the house of lords, an authority on political economy, the tariff and other questions concerned with commerce and industry.

GREENLEAF.

The marriage of Lillian Isabel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Robertson, to Egbert E. Germons of Saginaw, was solemnized Thursday, July 13, at Lapeer. Rev. C. Edward Broune of the Presbyterian church performed the ceremony. After a ten days' wedding trip to Saginaw and other places they expect to resume their duties as attendants at the Michigan Home Hospital. Their friends extend congratulations.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tanner had a narrow escape from death one day last week when he drank a quantity of fly poison. Prompt action on the part of a neighbor who administered an emetic and a doctor who arrived shortly after the accident put the little one out of danger.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hubbard entertained their son-in-law, Mr. Hayward, and a friend of Port Huron; also several relatives of Brown City Sunday. Their daughter, Mrs. Hayward, and little granddaughter, Wilma, returned to Port Huron with Mr. Hayward.

NOKO.

Make hay while the sun shines. J. A. McKenney sports a new Ford. Wm. Pape of Snover was a caller here Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Herb Lefler of Decker were callers here Friday. The old Moore telephone line is being torn down.

Miss Zelta Zulkine of Owosso is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Ed. Raduchell, Mrs. A. C. McKenney and Mrs. Heck Cameron, for a few days. Mrs. Thos. Colwell of Cass City is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Claud Shaw, for a few days.

Mrs. Burt Bullock of Colorado is visiting friends in these parts. Mrs. J. P. Granger and daughter, Hazel, of Snover called on Mrs. Frank Auslander on Thursday.

MANY IN CASS CITY TRY SIMPLE MIXTURE

Many Cass City people are surprised at the QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. This simple remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing. Treadgold's Drug Store.—Adv. 6.

GENERAL MANAGER WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR WONDERFUL GROWTH OF STATE FAIR

G. W. DICKINSON.

THE 1915 State Fair was a great success, both from an educational and financial viewpoint, and the 1916 exposition will be even a greater success if the efforts of G. W. Dickinson, general manager of the Fair, will make possible a better showing.

Mr. Dickinson announces that the exposition, which will open on Sept. 4 and will continue for ten days, will have many new features, including exhibits by several state institutions.

The general manager is working overtime to insure the success of the State Fair and says that with favorable weather all attendance records should be shattered. Inquiries in regard to the exposition are being received from all sections of the state, and many persons who have never been exhibitors at Detroit will show their live stock, farm products, fruits, flowers, dairy products and poultry for the first time.

BOYS AND GIRLS TO COMPETE FOR PRIZES IN STATE FAIR'S BETTER BABIES' CONTEST

So great was the interest manifested in the Better Babies Contest at the Michigan State Fair last fall that G. W. Dickinson, secretary and general manager of the big exposition, expects the entries in the 1916 contest will total several hundred.

Mr. Dickinson, who is the board member in charge of the contest, announces that Mrs. George G. Caron of Detroit will again act as superintendent and that Dr. Mary Thompson Stevens, also of Detroit, will continue as judge. Both women gave excellent satisfaction last year and both are intensely interested in child welfare work.

Entries Close Sept. 1.

Mr. Dickinson says that all entries must be received by Sept. 1 and that examinations will begin on the opening day of the Fair, Sept. 4. The awards will be made on Tuesday, Sept. 12.

The babies will compete in three classes—those from rural districts and towns of 1,000 population or less, babies from cities and towns of over 1,000 population and less than 10,000 and babies from cities of over 10,000 population.

Babies awarded first prizes will be given sterling silver cups. Silver napkin rings will be given as second prizes and silver spoons as third prizes.

The boys and girls will compete in separate classes, and there will be sections for babies from one year to two years of age and sections for babies two years of age and under three years.

Insures Better Race.

"The Better Babies contest is a popular, yet scientific movement to insure better babies and a better race," said Mr. Dickinson. "Mere beauty does not count in our contest. Physical and mental development only is to be considered by the examining physicians. Our Better Babies contests teach parents how to care for their children and improve the physical condition of their boys and girls. Conservation of child life is also aroused. We hope to receive many entries from all sections of the state and will be pleased to mail entry blanks on application to our Detroit office."

Youthful at One Hundred.

It is recorded that in Yorkshire, England, in 1501 Henry Jenkins was born. He died in 1670, cut off at the age of 169. He remembered well the battle of Flodden Field. This occurred in 1513, when he was twelve years of age. The registries of chancery and other courts show the administration of oaths to him 140 years prior to his death. He gave deposition as witness when he was 157. In his young manhood, when he was a little over 100, he was a remarkable swimmer. The remarkable thing about Henry Jenkins is the fact that he has left behind him no rules of living which would enable others to duplicate his feat.

Sons of Butchers.

Three of the stained glass windows in the hall of the Butcher guild, London, contain the portraits of Cardinal Wolsey, William Shakespeare and Daniel Defoe in recognition of their connection with the meat trade.

The cardinal was the son of a "respectable" butcher at Ipswich, in Suffolk, and "the immortal bard" assisted while a youngster a butcher in his native town of Stratford-on-Avon.

Defoe, nowadays known as the author of "Robinson Crusoe," but in his day an adventurer and secret agent of his government, was the son of a butcher in Fore street and a member of the guild.—London Mail.

Disadvantage in Last Resort.

If you must write love letters, wait until after you are married and write them to your wife. Then you may feel perfectly safe—unless she decides to sue you for divorce on the grounds of insanity.—Puck.

Cliff of Natural Glass.

A cliff of natural glass can be seen in Yellowstone park. It is half a mile long and from 150 to 290 feet high, the material of which it consists being as good glass as that artificially manufactured. The dense glass which forms the base is from 75 to 100 feet thick, while the upper portion, having suffered and survived many ages of wind and rain, has naturally worn much thinner. Of course the color of the cliff is not that of natural glass—transparent and white—but is mostly black and in some places mottled and streaked with brownish red and shades of olive green and brown.—Exchange.

The Quack Frog.

A frog once on a time came forth from his home in the marsh and made proclamation to all the beasts that he was a learned physician, skilled in the use of drugs and able to heal all diseases. A fox asked him, "How can you pretend to prescribe for others, who are unable to heal your own lame gait and wrinkled skin?"—Aesop's Fables.

Willing to Be Hanged.

One of the most curious cases of its kind on record was that of a Quebec citizen who passed himself off as a murderer for whom the police were searching. When the matter was investigated it was found that the self accused man had nothing whatever to do with the crime. "No," he said, "you're right. I'm not the murderer, but my wife leads me such a miserable life at home that I thought I would escape from matrimonial wretchedness by getting the government to hang me."—Pearson's.

For a reminder that we regret her leaving our numbers, the class presented her with a silver berry spoon and gravy ladle. May God bless her in her new home and we hope others may come along and fill up our ranks where all are welcome, and where true friendship is found. HER TUB FROCK.

OLD FASHIONED SHORTCAKE.

A Genuine Recipe For What Grandmother Used to Make.

This is the season for good old fashioned strawberry shortcake, the kind grandmother used to make, with a crisp, unsweetened biscuit crust and all the sweetness in sugared berries and rich, sweet cream to add the final touch. If you are one of the unfortunate who board and are unable to get any strawberry shortcake except the modern sort, made with sweet cake, with a few lumpy, whole berries scattered on top and between the layers, here is an old fashioned recipe for the real shortcake, which you can make in a quantity for four people in the tiny oven that fits over your one burner gas stove.

For the biscuit crust mix a cupful of flour (sifted) with a pinch of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder. With the fingers mix in a teaspoonful of butter until the flour and butter are thoroughly blended. Into the center pour half a cupful of milk and cut in the milk with a knife, using an over and over cut as though you were lapping the dough over the milk. Turn out the dough on a floured board and pat it light with the hands until it just fits a small square or oblong baking pan. In half an hour it will be well raised and crisply browned. Split the crust and spread each half with butter on the inside. Mash half a box of strawberries to a pulp and sweeten well. Pour over the buttered layer, fit the other layer on top and pour the remainder over the top of the shortcake piping hot again and serve at once with a pitcher of thick, sweet cream.

Table Covers.

Chintzes and French cretonnes come in charming colors and in odd conventional designs. When squares or runners of these materials are bound in heavy gold galloon no smarter effect could be asked for. Strips and squares of heavy crash bound with linen of a plain color or with a linen border buttonholed on are practical and good looking for camp or bungalow verandas.

The blue and white Japanese toweling is fresh looking and equally serviceable for summer table covers. The blue and white or red and white banded linen toweling, when finished with a white cotton fringe, makes smart covers for wicker tables when out of door teas and lunches are served.

Blackberry Jelly.

One quart of blackberries, one lemon, one cupful of sugar, one and three-fourths tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin, water.

Wash berries carefully, crush and put in a saucepan with the sugar, allowing them to simmer for five minutes to draw out the juices. Rub through a fine sieve; add the juice of the whole lemon and the grated rind of half. Add enough water to make three cupfuls of liquid, heat without boiling and stir in the gelatin, which should be previously soaked in two-thirds cupful of cold water. Pour into individual molds, let stand till the next day and serve with sweetened whipped cream.

Around the House.

Epsom salts has been found by many to be excellent for setting the color of a delicate fabric. Just add a teaspoonful to each gallon of water, and your garments, even those made of serge and other woolen materials, will wash easily without losing their color.

Cleans Brass.

To clean brass chandeliers, jardinières or anything brass and make them look like new use gasoline on a damp cloth, rub hard, then polish with a dry flannel.

How To Fight Tuberculosis

Interior Ventilation.

It is hard to make people believe it, but it is nevertheless a fact that much of our weariness is due, not to the work we do, but to our habit of stinting ourselves of breath. In this day there should not be so many men dragging themselves heavily home at nightfall, as though their work had taken the last ounce of their strength. Fatigue is a poison which accumulates within the body, and it accumulates faster than is natural if breathing is not done so as to remove it. Many a man who is "tired" is really poisoned. Many a woman lies down to rest, when it is not rest she needs at all, but some method of removing the poisons which shallow breathing has allowed to clog her system. A brisk walk in the air dispels drowsiness because it deepens the breathing and supplies the body with fresh air—the lack of which is manifested in drowsiness. When a class in school is listless, heavy-eyed and heavy-brained, the wise teacher opens the windows, calls the children to rise, and puts them through suitable calisthenic exercises. With the breathing quickened and deepened by the exertion and the lungs expanded by the air, the class sits down again and goes to work with energy. The poisons have been swept out of their bodies.

Someone will say at this point that certain forms of work give all the exercise and lung expansion that is necessary. Certain forms of work ought to do this, to be sure, but if you watch men at work which requires physical exertions, you will observe that they breathe fast and hard but not deeply. It is true, however, that in such heavy occupations you will find better chests than in others. Witness the blacksmith.

No sport is of great value unless it conduces to deep breathing. It is safe to say that in any heavy occupation, or in any sport, the person engaged will be much better, will endure more comfortably, will finish the day with less weariness, if he will stop at intervals to fill his lungs full—from bottom to top—with 20 deep breaths. If he will raise his arms while he breathes and lower them while he exhales, so much the better. If he removes coat and vest or anything that hinders full expansion of lungs, better still. You will see that there is no place in a health program for a tightly-bound body—whether it be bound by corsets or otherwise. Corsets are no longer topics for discussion. Their whole history is a bad one. Deformity, disease and death have been chargeable in a very great measure to the corset.

If you won't breathe—the folly of your refusal is on your own head. If you have not the will-power to keep yourself to the practice of breathing until it establishes itself as a habit, join a gymnasium class and tell the instructor that, no matter what else you learn, you want to learn to breathe.

In the treatment of consumption it is a short-sighted policy that allows the patient to breathe along at his old rate. Of what use is it to place a consumptive in the open air "where he may get a lung-full of fresh air at every breath" if his breathing habit restricts him to half a lung-full or less? Consumption's ally is short breathing—its effect is short breathing—and when consumption finds a shallow breather, its fight is almost won.

Interior ventilation—full, free draughts of air sweeping through the lungs, imparting vigor to the blood and carrying away all the waste—this is one great preservative of general health, and one great preventive of consumption.

Interior ventilation! Of what use is it that your room is full of fresh air if your lungs are not? You've got to learn to breathe. You are not a complete, healthy person until you do.

IS IT YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will not correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is where the danger often lies. You should realize that these troubles often lead to dropsy or Bright's disease. An effective remedy for weak or diseased kidneys is Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of this vicinity are constantly testifying.

Lyle Spencer, blacksmith, R. F. D. No. 2, Deford, Mich., says: "My kidneys were weak and I suffered from pains in the small of my back. There were sharp twinges in my back after I stooped over. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in the family with excellent results, so I tried them. They cured me."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mr. Spencer. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv. 7

If you meet a man, expect him to inform you that the weather is hot. Not because he considers you foolish and failed to make the discovery but because that is on his mind and our language is the index of our thoughts.

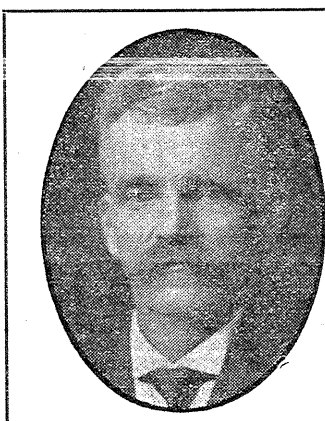

'Tis hardly fair to poke fun at the person who wilts in the heat whether they are 20 or 60. If we are in No. 1 health we can bear up under a very hot day. If our health is not robust we will go down regardless of our courage.

A Wells Center man cries out in Caro Courier. He defines theft, and sets forth how some poor creature took wild fruit from the vine and stored for winter use. And the reader must glean it was the writer's vine. Why Wells, read "Book." Doesn't it tell you as individuals we are not owners—all belong to the Creator. "The cattle on a thousand hills are his." We have the use of the stuff while here that we may live. Perhaps he needed the fruit more than you did. Just think so and feel better.
