

Eliminating the Fakers is Good Work for Local Development Clubs

The theory that the world owes any person a living has long been discredited, and nowadays every respectable person is expected to be self-supporting. Nevertheless, the able-bodied and efficient part of the population in every community is obliged by considerations of public policy as well as by humane considerations to support a numerous group of persons who for one cause or another are at times unable to support themselves and therefore become public charges. Heavy though this burden is at times in some communities, it may well be questioned whether it is so heavy as that imposed by another class of persons who ostensibly are self-supporting.

Three methods or means of earning a livelihood are commonly recognized among civilized races—by mental effort, by physical labor and "by one's wits." These three methods are not always kept distinct; often they are used in combination and sometimes it is not easy to distinguish between honest mental effort and the "exercise of one's wits" as a means of earning a livelihood. But reputable and intelligent business men everywhere are perfectly familiar with the class of persons who exclusively "live by their wits." In fact, so familiar has this group become that we have taken into our language a word of eastern origin to give it a name—fakers.

Fakers are of many classes; indeed, they are of so many classes, colors and degrees that only the expert or the person of the greatest experience can possibly detect these impostors before they have had an opportunity to accomplish their nefarious purpose, which is always the same—to get money from others without honest effort and without the giving of value in return. Undoubtedly many fakers owe their success to the fact that they appeal to the sympathies of their intended victims rather than to their judgment. That is to say, they approach the business man from his sympathetic side and present their propositions in such a way as to appeal to his heart rather than to his head. They come up, as we say on the farm, "on his blind side."

Probably there are many needy persons and causes that deserve the aid of men who are able to give it, but experience has appeared to show that these cases are in a very small minority, hopelessly mixed with a great majority of persons who "live by their wits" in preference to exerting the honest effort that they are wholly capable of. Moreover, indiscriminate giving unquestionably is demoralizing to the recipients, and so it has happened that persons temporarily in need of assistance have found it so easy to secure the means of a livelihood by merely asking for it that they have adopted that means of getting a living permanently; and thus a large number of persons have been removed from among the self-supporting class and have been made dependent by the unconsciously misdirected contributions of sympathetic persons.

Organization is said to eliminate all human or humane qualities from consideration, and charitable organizations are said therefore to become mere machines that make the dispensing of charity a business differing little from that of manufacturing steel or mining coal. Needy persons forced by temporary adversity to seek aid are thus obliged to go to the same source to which the habitual beggar is directed, though of course he will avoid it. But there is another side to the question that deserves consideration, and that is that organized charity can be made effective so that instead of making the weak weaker, it gives them with the needed financial aid assistance in a direction calculated to place them beyond the need of further help of either sort. But whether this is always true or not, the danger is greater in indiscriminate giving than in systematic giving of the sort promoted by charitable organizations. Moreover, the demands made upon the time of busy men and the interruptions to the course of business that result from numerous visits of persons seeking aid in themselves require that means be provided to relieve business of this burden.

Hence, it has come about that business men, having organized to aid one another in other ways, have found it expedient to utilize their organizations to relieve them from the applications of charity seekers. Most of the larger commercial clubs have accomplished this end by organizing departments to which are referred all applicants for aid of a financial kind. Usually these departments have facilities for making investments of all cases and of reporting back to members the results of their investigations together with recommendations regarding the conduct to be pursued in each case. This not only eliminates the professional beggar but gives needed aid to the deserving applicant, at the same time that it gives to the business man needed assurance that his charitable contributions have been made to do the most possible good.

Business men are the specially selected victims for some kinds of fakes that other persons are exempt from; and it is common for committees on charity to make special efforts to protect members from these impostors. The Rochester (N. Y.) Chamber of Commerce in connection with its charitable work issued a neat and interesting booklet entitled "How Fakers Fake," designed to put its members on their guard against "The Philanthropic Parasites," "Special Advertising" fakers, "Directories" and other forms of impostors. This little book is very suggestive of the good work that a local organization can do in this direction and the methods pursued by the Rochester chamber are to be recommended for imitation by other clubs. This work, while it is calculated to make all able-bodied persons self-supporting, is designed to enable the merchant himself to be more efficient in his merchandise. If relieved of unreasonable financial burdens and demands upon his time and attention incident to them he will be better able to serve his community in a commercial way, and the community itself will thus benefit.—American Lumberman.

Electricity.

No one knows what electricity is. We know some of the things that it will do. We have to a certain extent learned how to control it and for want of a better name call it a fluid. We have discovered, too, that it is one of the most important forces, if not the most important force, of which we have any knowledge. We are almost as ignorant of many other great forces of nature—as, for example, the attraction of gravitation. For the present we must be content to observe such forces in action and to devise the best methods to control them. In this knowledge mankind has progressed wonderfully within a few years.—St. Nicholas.

Sardine Fishing.

In sardine fishing there are many uncertainties. There is a twenty-eight foot rise and fall of tide in the bay of Fundy, and especially constructed wooden picket inclosures are staked out in the water to gather in the fish. A man erected an inclosure in what he supposed to be excellent fishing territory, but got nothing. He deplored his loss and for a time failed to go near it. "Why don't you seine it again?" somebody asked. "What's the use?" he replied. "Let me try it," the other persisted. "Yes, and you may have all the fish you get." The other man pulled out $1,700 worth at one haul.

Mothers--This Child Was Cured of Bed-Wetting

Mrs. C. W. Peters, Lancaster, Pa., R. 3, writes: "My six-year-old girl has wet the bed since she was a baby. I found no relief until I tried your sample of Foley Kidney Pills. I saw they were helping her, and bought two bottles of my druggist and she is altogether cured. Thanks to Foley Kidney Pills for the benefit I have found in them, as it takes a lot of washing off me. I have told a number of mothers since I found the cure.

Parents no longer scold or punish a child for bed-wetting. Instead, they improve the little one's physical condition, until the annoying and mortifying act is done away with.

A few simple rules aided by the use of Foley Kidney Pills will stop any ordinary case of bed-wetting that is not caused by obstruction or malformation of the parts. They are safe to take and absolutely free of harmful drugs. Foley & Co., 2235 Sheffield Av., Chicago, will send their leaflet on bed-wetting to any one asking for it.

THE FIRST PAPER—AN EXCLUSIVE HISTORICAL ITEM.

When Adam's Eve began to do housekeeping for Adam, she had no cares such as pursue the modern Adam's madam. She did not know what was the rage, because there was no Woman's Page.

She did not get a Daily Hint from Paris full of passion to start her on a daily sprint to keep up with the fashion. She did not haunt the beauty stores in order to keep open pores.

When Adam capered home at night (he was no wearied plodder!) he did not shiver lest he might be served with curious fodder. There were no papers, so you see there was no Household Recipe.

Old Adam was a happy bloke and lived a life most cheery. He did not know that he would choke some day with his bacteria. Adam and Eve had never read Health Articles to scare them dead.

He never went through Adam's breeks when he was sweetly dreaming, because there were no Bargain Weeks to tempt her to such scheming. The serpent thought she was a goose. She was too good for any use.

The serpent was a clever brute. Though he'd not been through college, his sanctum made him mighty cute. It was the Tree of Knowledge. "Aha!" he said, "I'll publish, free, The Daily Eden Apple Tree!"

The first edition raised a row whose scandal shocked creation. Since that first issue Adam's brow is wet with perspiration. It told the scandal, rich and rare, that Eve had not a thing to wear!—From The Mergenthaler Lines O' Type News

Turning the Turtle.
 Turtle hunting is not without excitement. The method of capture consists of the simple act of turning the turtle on its back. Once in this position it is quite helpless. Its only defense is to cover its captor with sand thrown up by the powerful front legs or flippers. These are brought into action in an instant, and woe betide the captor who has his eyes and mouth open at the moment, for the sand is hurled with great force. When turned over the captive is dragged up the beach to above high water mark, and this is no easy task, for it weighs about four hundredweight. — London Telegraph.

COMMENCING OCTOBER 28, ENDING NOVEMBER 4.

During the past years we have always given our customers an opportunity in the fall of the year to do their shopping for winter and an opportunity to get their wants at wholesale prices. We take the profit the rest of the year, you take it for one week. In spite of the advance in all classes of merchandise due to the war, etc., we have been able to secure our fall stock at lower prices than ever before by buying in greater quantities to supply four of the stores operating in the Thumb of Michigan.

Shoes for Men, Women, Children

When we went to buy shoes for this fall, while in New York, the shoe manufacturer says 10 per cent increase in price on all shoes. We spent 12 hours with these people trying to get the old prices and we finally succeeded but we had to buy in case lots of every kind. During this sale you can buy these shoes at the price we will have to pay for them if we re-order. Catalogue houses never sold shoes at these prices.

Room Size Rugs

Here is where we show you how much we have appreciated your business during the last year. While in New York we were very fortunate to secure 45 room-size rugs at a price that was positively 20 per cent below the market value. With the rug market advancing by leaps and bounds we consider this a remarkable buy. They are all new fall rugs in a beautiful variety of patterns just delivered from the Smith Mills, the largest rug mills in the U. S. To sell them at these prices is a shame, but we bought them for this Bargain Sale and they are yours at a saving of $5.00 to $10.00 on every rug. Always glad to show them to you whether you buy or not.

HOW PROHIBITION BOOSTED SPOKANE

By C. A. FLEMING, Mayor of Spokane, Wash.

Unquestionably Prohibition in Spokane is responsible for: first, almost complete absence of drunkenness on the streets since January 1, 1916, the date when Prohibition went into effect; second, the removal from this city of a large number of vagrancies of both sexes; and, thirdly, a marked falling off in Police Court work and in the number of arrests.

Merchants report better business and an increase in cash receipts, and the general outlook is optimistic. There is a reduction in rents of a certain class of business property, which may or may not be regarded as a benefit.

Since the advent of Prohibition, the people generally expect good results and believe the present indications bear out the present expectation.

EX-SALOON KEEPER FOR STATE WIDE PROHIBITION

C. M. Carson, factory manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., has received a letter from a former worker for the Liberal league, an Ohio brewer and distillers' organization, asking for a job in the Cadillac plant, says the Detroit Times. This man, who drew a big salary and still bigger expense account, was an organizer in the Ohio campaign a year ago. Being in such intimate touch with the men who have the spending of liquor money, he knew how it was used and misused and became disgusted.

He decided to get out of the business and couldn't. He bore the marks of the saloon all over his face, as Mr. Carson expressed it. Time after time he applied for jobs he knew he could hold, but was refused them. Finally, so anxious was he to get away from King Alcohol, he took a $12 a week job in Detroit in place of the high-priced one he held in Ohio. This would not support him and he wrote Mr. Carson a personal letter:

"I have for the greater part of my life been connected with the liquor traffic as bartender, liquor salesman or saloonkeeper, and I want to say that I hate the business and would welcome a chance to get out of it.

"Two years ago, during the fight for state-wide prohibition in Ohio, I was employed by the Liberal league (distillers and brewers) as an organizer. My duties were to travel out of Columbus to different parts of the state, organizing Liberal league clubs. This was accomplished chiefly by the liberal use of money for free drinks. I lowered myself in my own estimation, but I had to eat. Whatever the outcome of my present effort I am for state-wide prohibition and eventually national."

This man is now employed in the Cadillac plant and is making good.

A Hummer.

"Do you still call your wife honey?"
"Yes, and I keep as busy as a bee supporting her."—Boston Transcript.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?
 When you meet a fellow on the street and his face is warped and twisted by an unholy scowl, what do you think?
 When a lazy duffer hogs a whole seat on a train and lets a tired woman stand with a baby in her arms, what do you think?

 When John Smith whispers into your ear that Tom Jones "is a good one to look out for," but that you do not tell anyone that he (Smith) said so, what do you think?
 When one woman tells you that another woman "is the biggest gossip in town" and that the gossip's own closet is just jammed with skeletons, what do you think?

 When a public official forgets all of his promises and loses his good resolutions and becomes as blind as a bat as soon as he is inducted into office, what do you think?

Funeral Director and Furniture

When you hear a fellow bragging of the great deeds he has done and you know he is lying faster than an automobile can speed, what do you think?
 When a man tells you a smutty story of some good woman and you know her character is as white as his soul is black, what do you think?
 When you hear a young braggart making suggestive remarks about every young girl in town except his own young sister, what do you think?
 When you see one man trying to undermine the legitimate business of another by making veiled allusions to possible financial disaster, what do you think?
 When a man owes you a dollar and crosses the street to avoid meeting you, what do you think?
 When a girl leads a man on to declaring himself and then deliberately tosses him over without compunction, what do you think?
 When a man trifles with the affections of a good woman and then is not honorable enough to live up to his word, what do you think?
 When a duffer borrows a five spot from you and promises to return it tomorrow, and tomorrow never comes, what do you think?
 When a man looks you in the eye and tells you a deliberate lie, and you know that he is lying and that he knows that you know it, what do you think?
 And if you should happen to do any of these things, what do you think other people would think?
