LOCAL RED CROSS RESPONSE GENEROUS

BIG PARADE THURSDAY PRE- LIMINARY TO LIBERAL SUB- SCRIBING TO CAUSE.

Over $2,800.00 Have Been Subscribed by Local Citizens and More Is in Sight.

Seventeen hundred dollars in less than an hour! Yes, that was the pace set by citizens of the Cass City community last Thursday evening in subscribing for the Red Cross fund being raised in Tuscola county. And the following day, a few solicitors were busy and the local subscriptions have since been increased to over $2,800.00 and the end is not yet.

Tomorrow (Saturday) is tag day in Cass City. Have your dollar ready to buy a Red Cross button when the girls call upon you. The receipts of tag day together with many larger individual subscriptions which are still to be received by the committee will augment considerably the amount which has already been raised by local citizens.

What will be remembered as one of the finest parades ever witnessed in Cass City took place last Thursday evening in the interest of the Red Cross county campaign.

Every business house was decorated with the national colors and large Red Cross ensigns hung at the corner of Main and Seeger streets. In the parade were young ladies dressed as Red Cross nurses under the leadership of Miss Frances McGillivray, members of the training squad, members of Tyler Lodge, F. & A. M., school children, the Caro and Cass City bands, and citizens riding in automobiles resplendent in red, white and blue decorations. The parade marched from the corner of Main and Seeger Streets to Brooker Street, thence to Pine St., down Pine to Grant St., then to Main and down Main St. to the opera house corner. All along Main Street the paraders were greeted with applause by the many spectators who lined the thoroughfare.

At the opera house which was made unusually attractive by the hands of competent decorators, patriotic addresses were made by Henry Bush, Rev. Cansfield and H. H. Smith, all of Caro, who were interested in promoting the Red Cross work in Tuscola county. The speakers were profuse in their compliments regarding the activity of the local workers and praised Mrs. J. B. Cootes and the ladies appointed by her for the unequalled success in the parade held just previous to the evening's meeting. James Yakes of Cass City and Mrs. McKellar of Caro contributed vocal solos during the evening. These were encored and the speakers were frequently interrupted during their remarks by hearty applause from the large audience which crowded the building.

As noted in the first paragraph, $1,700 were subscribed at Thursday evening's meeting and the amount has steadily increased since. Below is found a list of those who have contributed more than $1.00. As Saturday is tag day, many more will buy a Red Cross button at the dollar rate and the list of all those paying $1.00 will be published at a later date together with others who later subscribe larger amounts.

MRS. REUBEN MOSHIER, EARLY NOVESTA PIONEER, DEAD

Was the Mother in First White Family to Settle in Novesta Township.

Mrs. Reuben A. Moshier, one of the first settlers of Novesta township, passed away at Caro on Thursday, June 21, at the age of 74 years.

Louisa M. Beach was born in the township of Norridge, Ont., May 9, 1843, and went with her parents the same year to Marine City where she lived for nine years. At the death of her father, she went to Sombra to make her home with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Roberts.

Jan. 12, 1860, she was united in marriage with Reuben A. Moshier and seven years later Mr. and Mrs. Moshier with their family of three small children came to Michigan and were the first family to settle in what is now known as Novesta township.

Mrs. Moshier was a very energetic woman, not only acting as nurse but often as doctor among the settlers in the early days. She was the mother of nine children, seven of whom are still living. They are: Geo. S. Moshier of Anchorage, Alaska, Mrs. C. C. Hall of Maryville, Wash., Mrs. Robt. Brown of Caro, Mrs. Levi Lewis of Roscommon, Mich., Mrs. Alex Sangster of Marlette and Mrs. J. H. Coulter and Mrs. Elmer Allen of Novesta.

Her youngest child, Mrs. Geo. Hicks, who preceded her mother in death, left to Mrs. Moshier's care a little daughter, Marjory Hicks, now 12 years old, who is grief stricken over the loss of one who has been both mother and grandmother to her. There are 26 grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Mrs. Moshier was the last to go of a family of ten children.

On April 18 Mrs. Moshier fell from a chair and fractured her right hip. She was taken to Pleasant Home hospital at Cass City where she improved very rapidly. On Monday, June 4, she left the hospital and was taken to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robt. Brown, at Caro and on the Friday following was taken very ill. On Monday, June 11, she was removed to the Edmunds hospital at Caro where all that good care and medical science could do was done but of no avail. The good Father claimed her life's work was ended and called on her to go at six o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Funeral services were held at the Church of Christ Sunday morning, June 24, and interment was in Novesta cemetery. St. John 14:2 had been chosen by Mrs. Moshier as the text for her funeral sermon and Rev. S. Cormany spoke comforting words to the bereaved ones, basing his remarks on this text.

Reuben A. Moshier, the aged husband, is at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Coulter, of Novesta.

BEWARE OF RED CROSS "CHAIN LETTERS"

The National Society Has Never Authorized This Means of Raising Money.

The "chain letter" is again in evidence, and this time some one has evolved the idea of raising funds for the Red Cross by means of the "chain letter." The matter has been brought to the attention of the National officers of the Red Cross Society, and they send out the information that nothing of this sort has ever been authorized by the Red Cross and all such methods of raising money are without the countenance or counsel of the National Headquarters. These letters are not authorized by the National Society and we would advise our readers to pay no attention to them. If you wish to pay anything to the Red Cross, the officers of the local chapter are duly authorized to receive it.

MARRIED MEN WIN.

Monday night's storm put a crimp in farming operations the first of the week so the farmer boys arranged for a ball game at Cass City Wednesday afternoon. It was a married-singles men contest and the married fellows carried off the big end of a 4-3 score. The singles proved to be the better hitters, Wm. Profit securing a three-bagger and L. Copland and S. Muntz each two-base hits. The singles were equally successful in piling up a greater number of errors and their opponents were not slow in taking advantage of the situation and piling up a number of scores. Both pitchers are credited with excellent work. The line-up:

Married—Champion, lf; Karr, p; Stout, c; Johnson, ss; Osborne, 2b; Flynn, cf; J. Muntz, 3b; Talmadge rf; Allen, 1b.

Singles—S. Muntz, lf; Spurgeon, rf; Fordyce, c; Copland, 1b; Murphy, cf; Hall, p; Profit, 2b; Bird, ss; Benkelman, 3b.

PHIL QUINN RAISES BARN.

Phil Quinn, well known among the well-to-do farmers of Elkland township, raised a 40 by 60 hip roof barn on his farm four miles north and one-half mile west of Cass City, Monday afternoon. A large company of Mr. Quinn's neighbors and friends assisted him at the raising Monday and 150 enjoyed the bountiful supper served at the conclusion of the afternoon's job.

Mr. Quinn tore down his old barn and some other smaller buildings and used the timber and lumber in the construction of the new building which provides much room for his crops and a large basement gives roomy quarters for live stock.

The owner takes pride in the cellar and milk room which are placed under the approach to the barn. Mr. Quinn keeps a large number of cows and the convenience of the milk room next to the barn with its cream separator and other equipment means the saving of many thousands of steps and many miles of travel in a year's time.

RED CROSS SEWING SOCIETY IS ORGANIZED

A Hundred Women Enlist in Good Cause to Aid Suffering Humanity.

The first meeting of the Red Cross Sewing Society was held in the Council Rooms Tuesday, June 26. The spirit of the good work to be done was certainly manifested by the large number of women in attendance—about 100.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Cootes. Mrs. Edw. Pinney was chosen as secretary and Mrs. G. A. Tindale as treasurer. The committee consisting of Mrs. L. E. Dickinson and Mrs. A. J. Knapp reported that a very suitable place for work rooms and to hold all meetings in the future, was at the disposal of the women; over the town hall, and these were to be had free from rent.

The chairman appointed the following committees:

Advisory Board—Mrs. A. J. Knapp, Mrs. Chas. Wiley, Mrs. I. B. Auten.

Committee to secure sewing machines and work tables—Mrs. E. McKim, Mrs. I. W. Hall, Mrs. A. H. Higgins.

Buying Committee—Mrs. Tennant, Mrs. A. A. Hitchcock, Mrs. McCue. Cutting committees—children's dresses, Mrs. C. Robinson; pajamas, Mrs. A. McGillivray; shirts, Mrs. Land, Mrs. Wm. McBurney.

Brooker, chairman; for comfort pillows, Mrs. Champion, chairman; for knitting bandages, Miss L. DeWitt, chairman; for gauze bandages, Miss Schell, chairman; for entertainments, Mrs. P. A. Schenck, chairman; for music, Mrs. F. Bigelow, chairman; for reading, Mrs. J. C. Farrell, chairman.

A committee to see about getting the work rooms in readiness was then appointed—Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. McGillivray, Mrs. A. Jones.

A box will be used at each meeting wherein each woman may drop a small offering if she wishes. This money will be used in buying material necessary. The Woman's Study Club has started such a fund and it will be necessary to keep adding to it in order to buy the needed materials.

The women expressed their appreciation of the work done so ably by Mr. Champion in helping to make the parade such a success.

It is hoped that every woman in Cass City and surrounding country will be willing to help in this good cause to aid suffering humanity. This is not a military movement but only a movement whereby we can prolong and save the lives of the brave men at the front. All are welcomed to the meetings and it is hoped that a great work can be accomplished. The time of meeting will be announced later.

AUG. 24 WILL BE BIG DAY AT CASS CITY

MONUMENT TO "GOOD ROADS"
EARLE WILL BE UNVEILED
HERE THAT DAY.

Every Good Road Leading to Cass
City Will Be Traveled by Thousands of Boosters.

During the next 60 days Cass City will be one of the most talked of places in the state.

In the summer of 1904 the first mile of state reward road was built in Michigan. This is the road beginning at the cemetery corner and running one mile east. As an honor to this first miles and its builders, the several automobile and good roads clubs of Michigan will erect a monument to "Good Roads" Earle, who was state highway commissioner at that time.

The state committee, who visited Cass City some time in early May and selected the site, have informed the local committee that Friday, August 24, has been selected as the date for unveiling this great tribute to the good roads of grand old Michigan. It is now estimated that fully 2,000 automobiles will pass in review that day—as every auto club member is laying plans to make Cass City his mecca on August 24.

This will be a real red letter day for the whole Thumb as every good road leading to Cass City will be traveled by thousands of people who have never had the privilege of visiting this garden spot of Michigan.

Now is the time for every resident to blow his own horn, fix up his premises as best he can and fill himself with the genuine pride he should show to have his community so greatly honored.

It is also noted that August 24 is during the week of Cass City's fair. The advent of thousands of visitors to Cass City at that time insures an enormous crowd for the fair.

To My Friends and Former Patients.

As has been previously announced in these columns, I have disposed of my hospital and practice to Dr. I. D. McCoy, who has already taken possession. Within a few weeks shall move to Detroit to locate for practice and thereby be in closer touch with the duties of the medical appointment recently received. I wish to take this opportunity to sincerely thank my friends for their loyalty, for their many kindnesses and for the confidence evidenced during my twenty years of practice in Cass City, and to assure them all that, though removed to a new field, their friendship will ever be cherished. The "Old Home Town" will always be regarded as home and, not living too far distant, hope to be able to renew friendships at occasional intervals. We believe that our labors towards the upbuilding of Pleasant Home Hospital have not been in vain, and prophesy that it will continue to grow and become still more of a credit and source of pride to this community. My successor, Dr. I. D. McCoy, is a promising and rising young physician and needs no introduction from me. I bespeak for him the same liberal support as has been accorded me in the past. Not saying good-bye, but just again assuring all of my deep appreciation and sincere friendship, I remain as ever,

Studebaker
Established 1852

To get as much POWER as Studebaker offers in a Four at $985, you must pay on the average $2753. To get as much POWER in a six as the Studebaker Six at $1250, costs on the average $4078.

As a matter of fact, there are very few FOURS on the market that equal the Studebaker Four in Power, just as there are but few SIXES that match in Power the Studebaker Six. And they are all very expensive, as the figures show.

In ratio to power, Studebaker is the most economical car made, because Studebakers are the lightest cars in the world in ratio to their power.

This lightness, together with the enduring strength that characterizes Studebakers, is the evolution of four years' intense study of the performance of hundreds of thousands of Studebakers in actual use under all sorts of service conditions. Let us show you some other points of Studebaker value. You owe it to yourself to know them before you buy.

Studebaker Value may only be judged by comparing Studebakers with cars costing many hundreds of dollars more.

You will think of someone whom this week's "character" fits and no doubt some day one will be run that you will find fits you. You'll like "Town Characters," we know.

Caesar Rodney's Ride

By Richard J. Beamish

HOW the historians and romanticists have missed the true and dramatic story of Caesar Rodney's ride is one of the mysteries which surround the Declaration of Independence.

Pennsylvania and South Carolina had voted against independence. New York held aloof because her delegates had not received instructions from the assembly. Congress was in turmoil, the army panic-stricken, the sentiment for submission to Great Britain growing hourly in all the colonies. It was necessary that all the colonies should vote in the affirmative if independence was to be proclaimed, as the defection of anyone in the federation would mean division and inevitable defeat.

In the vote that was taken in the State House (now Independence Hall) on July 1, Delaware's vote was not cast, there being but two of the three delegates present. Thomas McKean voted for freedom, and George Reed against it. Caesar Rodney was ill at his home with a cancer that had attacked his face to such an extent that he was compelled to wear a veil to conceal the fearful ravages of the disease.

McKean shrewdly calculating that if Delaware's vote was cast for independence on the following day, Pennsylvania and South Carolina might be induced to change their votes, sent a horseman to Rodney and arranged relays of horses to bring the sick man to Philadelphia.

In spite of the terrific heat, the urging of relatives and the commands of a nurse and physician, who warned him that the ride might mean his death, the patriotic Delawarean set out for Philadelphia. There with his remaining strength Rodney cast the vote of Delaware for American independence. Edward Rutledge of South Carolina thereupon was deeply moved and changed the vote of his colony. After a stormy scene the Pennsylvania delegates opposed to independence left the chamber, and the patriotic faction, with Franklin at its head, promptly cast the colony's vote for freedom.

Rodney rallied from the strain of his ride and died at Byfield a few years later in his forty-sixth year.

TEACHERS, tell us of Rodney. Rodney of Delaware! Some of you start and stammer. Others stand mute and stare. Put up your sums and fables. Listen that you may hear The gallop of Caesar Rodney with Death always riding near.

Heat, like a thick, black blanket, closely on Byfield lay. It harried the flesh and spirit of him who waited for day.

His fevered eyes watched the candle that blinked like a far-off star. They looked from a face upon which all the grace was hid by a cruel scar.

Out of the heat and blackness clamors a-trooping came, Barking of dogs and a thunder of knocks on a door's stout frame. Sternly a nurse hissed, "Silence!" and then came a stranger's call: "McKean bids you ride. I will be at your side. Come quickly or freedom will fail."

"He'll die on the way," shrieked a servant, but Rodney was out of his bed. "Boots, horses and spurs," he commanded; "and the velling to cover my head."

"Horses are posted to meet you," the voice in the doorway said. "It is well. I am ready." The weak voice was steady. "I will vote or you'll bear me there dead."

It's seventy miles to the State House in the city of William Penn.

Seventy miles of torture, to forward the freedom of men. For some in the Congress were Tories and others too timid to dare, So Rodney must ride that his vote might decide the ballot of Delaware.

Neck by neck through old Dover they galloped, and Rodney bent low to his task. It was gray in the East when he tarried to cover his face with the mask.

A woman screamed loud at the vision, but Rodney was riding again. Though, beneath him, the back of his horse was a rack to torture the bravest of men.

Great weariness came upon Rodney. He galloped as one in a dream; But lightning-like pains broke his trances as rocks break a mountain stream. Somewhere, in the misty morning, his comrade faltered and fell.

Thence rode at his side, with a long silent stride, a Shape that Rodney knew well.

The tropical heat-haze closed round him, the Veiled and the wreath at his side, At inns and by-lanes he changed horses, then, on with the furious ride. Weakness at last made him falter. He fed and then slumbered awhile. But the will was so strong that the rest was not long, for the goal still lay many a mile.

And then he came into the city, the half-Tory town of Penn.

Down Passyunk Road he galloped, past wondering women and men. His veil streamed, a pennon of Freedom, and his limbs hung like bags of sand; But the horse he bestrode knew the turns of the road and needed no guiding hand.

So to the State House came Rodney, merely the shell of a man. There McKean met and bore him as gently as only a sturdy friend can.

Steadied him in the chamber, and gloried to hear him declare: "For the right to be free, and to end tyranny, we vote aye, for our Delaware."

You know the rest of the story, you teachers who teach by rote, How prudent South Carolina announced the change of its vote; How Pennsylvania also veered round in Freedom's gale; How the Thirteen broke from their necks the yoke, and a nation came through travail.

Paint us a noble portrait; Story or Sargent or Chase. One of the missing Signer. Show us an eager face. Glorified through its velling, and we will uplift it where He ended his ride with Death by his side, brave Rodney of Delaware.

HERE THERE and EVERYWHERE

Chas. W. Leipprandt, assistant manager of the Mich. Sugar Co.'s plant at Sebawaing, suffered a stroke of apoplexy on June 17, after returning to his home from a short auto drive. He passed away the following day at noon.

The proposition to bond the Vassar school district in order to build a new $50,000 school building carried by a vote of 188 to 67. The result of the voting was a surprise to a great many who while they thought it would carry did not believe that there would be such a large affirmative expression.

The Flanders Co., of Detroit which has contracted for the growing of 200 acres of cabbage at Deckerville this season, will soon begin the erection of a fine factory building in that village. This building will be approximately 100 ft. wide and 200 ft. long and there will be a smaller building 35 ft. wide by 100 ft. long. These buildings will be the first installment of a mammoth plant which this company expects to locate at that point.

School Commissioner Musselman of Sanilac county has sent out the information that though the new school law passed at the last session of the legislature required the school districts to pay a $25 tuition fee to high schools for pupils from their district, the new law does not go into effect until Aug. 10, 1917, which is after the annual school meeting, consequently the new law will not be operative until next year. All the school districts will be required to pay is $20 tuition as under the old law.

Sunday a small tennant house on the farm of Howard Foster, a quarter of a mile north of Decker was destroyed by fire. Fifty dollars worth of seed beans which were stored in the house were also a total loss. John Waters, who was keeping "bachelor's hall" had built a fire and gone out-of-doors to attend to chores and the fire may have resulted from an overheated stove. There was no insurance. Besides the beans and house a quantity of household effects were lost.—Farm-er.

Walter, the eleven year old son of Murton Morris, of Hurd's Corners, was accidentally shot Tuesday morning by his fifteen year old brother, Millard. It was the old story of not knowing the gun was loaded. The older boy brought down the gun from an upstairs room and took it out on the porch to clean it and in setting it down the 22 rifle was discharged into the left side of the abdomen of the younger brother. He was brought to the Edmunds hospital and although in a serious condition will undoubtedly recover.—Caro Courier.

For the first time in its history, Vassar Lodge No. 163, F. & A. M., conferred its three degrees upon a candidate in one evening. This was done June 16 under a special dispensation from the Grand Lodge and the candidate to be so honored was Donald E. Morrison, son of Robt. Morrison, editor of the Vassar Pioneer-Times, who left Sunday evening to enlist in the regular army. It was after twelve o'clock when the work was completed. The reason for giving the degrees was that the candidate who was anxious to enlist before the draft was made, had not the time to wait the regular length of time, and it was thought that under the existing conditions it was the proper thing to do. He was greatly pleased with having the opportunity to join before he left home to enter the service of his country.

Three of Imlay City's young men got themselves into trouble last Saturday. Will Harvey, Carlton Glann and Harold Worthy, all minors, went to the warehouse of Lewis Steele and appropriated nine bags of beans which they loaded into an automobile and started west, reports saying they intended going to Flint. Their machine broke down at Lapeer and they ran it into a garage. They made an effort to sell the beans at an elevator there, which caused suspicion and the matter was reported to Sheriff Carrigan, who made an investigation, resulting in one of the boys making a confession. They were allowed to return home, but given to understand they may be called upon later to answer for their escapade. In the confession it came out that the boys claim they had been entertained by one Joseph C. Shaw in his rooms where gambling games were carried on and that this was one of the causes of the downfall of the boys, and this information led to an investigation which called a number of our citizens to Lapeer Wednesday to give testimony.—Imlay City Record.

POTATO LUXURIES.

PIMENTO POTATOES.—Peel and cut the potatoes into cubes and boil in salted water until almost tender, then drain. Melt two tablespoonsful of butter in a saucepan, add a heaping tablespoonful of flour and, when well blended, add gradually a cupful and a half of milk. Stir constantly until the sauce thickens and boils, season with salt and celery salt to taste and add two tablespoonsful of chopped parsley, a tablespoonful of minced pimentos and the cooked potatoes. Turn into the upper part of the double boiler and let cook over the hot water until the potatoes are tender, but not soft. Serve in a heated vegetable dish.

Stuffed Irish Potatoes.—Select roundish smooth skinned tubers for baking. When soft remove from the oven and with a sharp knife cut a slice from one side of each, insert a teaspoon and remove the inside to a dish. Season this with salt, pepper, butter. Mix with sardines minced very fine after mashing thoroughly, return to the skins. Replace the end piece of skin, set in the oven, heat thoroughly and serve at once.

Browned Sweet Potato Puff.—The sweet potato puff is made and baked the day before in a brick pan; then cut into half inch slices. Place on hot griddle with a little bacon drippings and brown nicely on both sides. This makes a very pleasant change and is easily and quickly prepared.

Baked Potatoes on Half Shell.—Bake potatoes and when done cut in two, lengthwise. Scrape out contents into hot bowl and mash. To every six potatoes add two tablespoonsful of butter and three tablespoonsful of hot milk and half a teaspoonful of salt. Beat thoroughly, then add beaten whites of two eggs. Refill the skins tightly, heaping high on top. Return to oven until well browned.

Potato Puff.—Two cupfuls of left over mashed potatoes, a tablespoonful of melted butter, an egg well beaten, a tablespoonful of flour. Mix all together, add paprika, salt and pepper to taste. Form into a roll, fry in deep fat until brown and garnish with parsley.

The mother-in-law is an indispensable institution, an ornament and a necessity in many American families and an outcast from precious few of them, yet she has from time immemorial been made the unhappy butt of cheap jokes by witless jokers, and as a class she has suffered in the general esteem. But as an individual the mother-in-law of one family is the mother of another family. Who has ever dared say a word against a mother? Who that might have dared has ever said it?—Portland Oregonian

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

Contributed by Local Union.

The following resolutions were adopted at the convention held at De-ford May 23-24:

Resolved, that in the present crisis of our country we consecrate ourselves unreservedly to God and stand as one solid body to carry out the plans of our leaders to destroy the cigarette evil that is in our land, and also any other evil that they may endeavor to put down.

Resolved, that all local unions' officers respond readily to the county officer's call for dues and for blanks filled out, etc. Resolved, that it would be a good plan for local unions to devoted a few minutes at each meeting to the study of parliamentary laws, and that any good any members may have done since the last meeting be reported to their secretary, as many things are forgotten when not reported at each regular meeting. Resolved, that we thank this union for the church and the kind hospitality they have extended to us all, which has been everything that could be done, also we thank the ladies' aid for the lovely meals they have furnished us,
and the kindness they have shown us, and we thank the Rev. Meredith for the part has taken in our convention, also all who contributed the music for our benefit and pleasure. We are also grateful to the janitor for making the church so warm and pleasant.

The Rev. J. Meredith in addressing the convention said in part, that he was sure we would all be helped by what we had listened to these last two days and he hoped we would allow him just to give a few words of warning. He said "Take every precaution against your union becoming a limited circle and doing a limited service." At least two women had said to him they would like to join the W. C. T. U. but the union did not act as though they would welcome them, rather made them feel they did not consider them good enough. Then he thought the union was a wonderful power for good but he never could see why it was the Women's Christian Temperance Union, why did they not allow the men to have a share with them and help the good along. But perhaps it was like the story he had heard of a minister who was visiting in a city and he thought while there he would visit the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. He found that they were both situated in the same street, the Y. M. C. A. on the one side, and the Y. W. C. A. on the other side, exactly opposite each other. He first visited the Y. M. C. A. On entering he did not see a single person so he waited a while and after a time the janitor came along. He said to him
"Where are all the young men?"
"Oh," said the janitor, "this is devotional evening they are on the top flat." So he went upstairs and they were all singing at the top of their voices "Oh, to be over Yonder." Thinking that was all right he quietly slipped out and crossed over to the Y. M. C. A. building. On entering he did not see a single person. After a time the janitor came along and he said to him "Where are all the young women?" and the janitor said "Oh, this is devotional evening they are on the top flat." He went upstairs and he heard them all singing "Why Are You Waiting Brother? Why Do you Still Delay?"

Mrs. Hawley, president, in thanking Rev. Meredith for his address said, "He has given us something to think about. It was the aim of the W. C. T. U. to welcome every woman to the union and she was very sorry to hear we had failed in our duty, and she trusted we would all think of this in future and make special effort that it should not be said of us. As to admitting gentlemen, we had a few gentlemen who were honorary members, who paid their dues regularly and were always willing to subscribe to any good cause in connection with the W. C. T. U.

On Decoration Day in Cass City willing helpers under the leadership of Mrs. G. A. Striffler gathered bunches of flowers and made them into bouquets and wreaths with which they decorated the soldiers' graves and monuments.

A big step toward national prohibition was taken on June 11 when the senate judiciary committee reported out the Sheppard prohibition bill with the recommendation that it be passed by the senate.

It was also decided to combine the many prohibition amendments to the food bills in one separate measure for conservation of grains and thus prohibit the manufacture of food-stuffs into beer and malt liquors as well as distilled spirits. The senate agriculture committee reached this decision.

SUGGESTIONS FOR POULTRYMEN, MIDDLE-
MEN AND CONSUMERS

To Producers.

1. Raise every chick hatched. Next winter's egg and meat supply depends on the care given the growing chick

this spring and summer.

2. Keep every early hatched pullet for egg production next fall and winter, when eggs will be high.

3. Hatch all possible chicks this spring. Late hatching is permissible this year if the late-hatched chicks are used to increase the country's meat supply. Late-hatched pullets will not make early winter layers unless given exceptionally good care.

4. Keep all hens until about September 1st. It does not pay to sell laying hens in the spring or early summer, for their eggs are of more value than the few extra cents per pound obtained at this time.

5. Do not sell early hatched cockerels as broilers under two or three pounds in weight.

6. Caponize late-hatched cockerels to put on the market next winter,
when meat will be scarce.

7. Sell all old roosters in June, so that every egg produced this summer will be an infertile egg. Doing this one thing will save thousands of dozens of eggs, usually spoiled by hot weather because they are fertile.

8. Take good care of the summer eggs. See that they are gathered daily from clean nests, and kept in a cool, sweet cellar until cold. Sell at least twice a week in hot weather,
and insist that they are bought on a quality basis. Know that every egg you sell is a good egg.

9. After harvest get the poultry buildings in shape for winter use.
Many farm poultry houses need remodeling, and a few dollars spent in doing this will be returned in extra eggs next fall and winter. For best results pullets will have to be placed in the laying house early in the fall and not disturbed thereafter, so do not put off repairing their house.

To Middlemen.

1. Give the producer a "square deal" by buying all summer eggs on a "loss-off" basis. Then you will have a right to insist that the producer give you a "square deal" by taking good care of his eggs and poultry. Besides, you will save thousands of dozens of eggs which will otherwise be lost.

2. Hold a "Rooster Day" in June, and on that day pay a price for roos-ters which will be high enough to encourage farmers to sell you every rooster on the farm. You can afford to lose a cent or two a pound on them,
for you will make this up by the reduced losses in summer eggs.

3. Country merchants, and others not having proper storage facilities for eggs, must take great pains to market them often, which means at least twice a week in hot weather.
Don't ask the farmer to sell you strictly fresh eggs, then spoil them yourself by holding.

4. Candle every egg you retail, which means a square deal for the consumer. Use President Wilson's suggested motto: "Small profits and quick service."

5. Help the producer with his poultry problems when possible. Arrange a community poultry meeting and get a good poultryman to come and help you make it a success.

6. Try to prevent undue newspaper agitations and boycotts of poultry and eggs. Educate the consumer to understand the reasons for seasonal scarcity of eggs.

To Consumers.

1. Help increase the food supply of the country by keeping a flock of a dozen hens in your back yard. A very little grain added to your waste garden products and table scraps will feed them.

2. Insist that your merchant candle every egg he sells you. You are entitled to quality when you pay for it.

3. Use cold storage eggs next winter for all cooking and some eating purposes. They are good eggs, much better than most people imagine.

4. Do not give up the use of eggs, for they are an economical source of food. They can take the place of meat in the diet, and contain food values which are not found in any other natural product.

Our country is at war. Our President in this time of national need, has called upon every producer, middleman and consumer to do his share in food production and food conservation.

We who produce or handle these products can render an untold service to our country, not only by increasing their production, but by preventing their waste. The suggestions given are all necessary, and hence patriotic.

Cure for Lumbago

Rheumatism and lumbago are awful things and cause great pain and misery, but Foley Kidney Pills can rout them.

Mrs. G. H. Eveland, Duncan Mills, Ill., writes the following letter: "I was stricken down with lumbago and was unable to turn myself in bed. A neighbor brought me a half bottle of Foley Kidney Pills, and said she had been similarly afflicted and that they had helped her. So I tried them and was completely relieved by the use of two or three bottles. I have had splendid success with them and have never known them to fail. I most heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills."

Foley Kidney Pills tone up weak, inactive, sluggish kidneys, rid the body of poisons, give appetite, energy and refreshing sleep after pain. Don't neglect kidney trouble. Remove the MARKET BASKETS.

Wartime Measures About Deliveries of Groceries.

If you see anybody generous with food wrappings and string these days you may be sure it is not the owner of a food business. Many employees, feeling no responsibility, continue to be as lavish as of old with bag and twine, but a small dealer almost wept when a customer offered to take home a grapefruit in her basket without a wrapping. "What! You would save me a cent!" he exclaimed.

Some grocers will ask you if they shall deliver your purchases, which may number half a dozen or more, but they will not let you have a big bag to take them home in. You ask, "The big bag costs less than delivery, does it not?" "Yes, but we have to pay for the delivery anyway." Not willing to drop the subject, you say, "You ought to charge everybody 5 cents for each delivery." The grocer replies: "But that would not pay for what it costs us. Our wagons cost us $150 a month."

Of course the grocer adds this cost to our foods, and he allows a safe margin. Those who are willing to carry goods home pay equally with those who do not. Customers could work a change in one week if they all chose the market basket way.

The "cash and carry" stores have lately displayed conspicuously a basket with a price mark, 5 cents. Stout and handsome baskets, which will last years, may be bought for less than $1. How much more sensible it is to use these than to buy paper at present prices, which is used but once! We cannot expect market development to be so one sided a thing as most of us have allowed it to be to the great expense of our pocketbooks. We have gone to silly lengths in the free delivery system.

Don'ts For Mothers.

A writer in a recent issue of Mother's Magazine gives some very pertinent advice to mothers in regard to their attitude with their children. She says in part: "Don't think that the moment you are alone with your boy or girl you must find fault or endeavor to improve the occasion by a little moralizing, no matter in how loving a spirit. This is a hard don't, for no one is so anxious to help a child toward perfection as the parent, yet it surely leads to an avoidance of the moments alone together, which should be times of happy confidences."

"Neither should a parent correct the child before others. Never mind if a well meaning relative does say, 'My dear, I am surprised that you do not show more force of character; your children are suffering from a lack of discipline.' Pass the matter over till you and the small offender can have it out alone. If the circumstances are such that it cannot be passed over take him out of the room."

Saving Gas.

A gas saver and comfort in cooking on gas stoves is to place a sheet of zinc or sheet iron on top of the stove the size of the stove top. One lighted burner will heat the entire sheet and serve to cook as many articles of food as there is room for vessels. It also is cleanly, protecting the stove from the results of boiling over, and the sheet is much easier cleaned than the several burners are when not so protected.

THE BEST DAIRY FEED

Made From Grain From Which the Human Food Values Have Been Taken.

By Prof. F. D. Fuller.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The reason why the best dairy feeds are less expensive than the same grains on the farm is because the principal elements of human food are taken from these grains before they are ever made into feed. The by-products of cereal mills, glucose factories, malt houses, etc., constitute often more than 50 per cent of the total bulk of mixed dairy feeds of the better class.

These oats, barley and corn by-products are considered by experts in animal nutrition as very valuable feed materials. After these cereals are ground in the manufacture of alcohol, for which the use is growing more important daily in the arts, the solid residue is dried in vacuo, and is then known as "dried grains." If made from corn, these grains contain on an average of about 30 per cent crude protein and 10 per cent crude fat. If made from rye, while valuable, they are of somewhat lower feed value. The barley residue contains over 70 per cent more crude protein than wheat bran and twice as much crude fat. In fact, their food value is largely increased by the process.

All these products are widely used by the best dairy feeders and are relied upon very extensively in milk production. There is no doubt of the fact that if the supply of these products were radically limited or entirely exhausted, it would have a serious effect upon the milk production throughout the country and the dairymen would have one more burden added to their already overtaxed strength.

Cottonseed meal is composed principally of the kernel, with such portion of the hull as is necessary in the manufacture of oil. Cottonseed meal, if choice, must contain at least 41 per cent crude protein. It is one of the richest of all feeds in this substance and carries about 8 per cent crude fat. On account of its extreme concentration it can be fed only in limited quantities and always in conjunction with some products to furnish bulk. This meal is an important ingredient in many manufactured feeds.

HOME MIXED FEEDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When a man undertakes to mix his own rations, what does he do? He buys straight feeds. Take cottonseed meal as a common example. There are a great many different grades of cottonseed meal, and the man who is looking for a low-priced feed is sure to get a low grade. The demand for cheap feeding ingredients has caused the quality to be gradually whittled down. Consequently the farmer nearly always works with feeds which are poorer than he believes them to be. He does not get adequate state protection because inspectors do not go to a farmer's barn to draw samples, and even if they did, it would be hard to get a complete chain of evidence.

A farmer has no facilities for having his feed analyzed and he doesn't know what he is working with. The analyses of mixed feeds costs about ten cents per ton, and if every farmer will read the various bulletins from the agricultural colleges he will soon know those brands which can be depended upon. There is no doubt that at the present prices of grain any farmer can save money by selling his cereal crops and buying mixed feed. Cornmeal, oil meal and cottonseed meal are all high, but the by-products of barley and rye are all more reasonable in price.

Corn has become costly largely due to the demand for pork and beef. Americans will have those meats at almost any price. This puts corn on a meat basis, and the dairy business will have to fall back on the by-products of grains.

GIVE COWS PLENTY OF WATER.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When cows are in full milk they require plenty of water. It is stated authoritatively that cows in full flow of milk will consume 50 per cent more water than when dry.

Poor feed sells to poor feeders.

Only that part of the feed that digest is of use—the rest is mostly fertilizer material.

No protein—no casein; no casein—no milk; not enough protein—not so much milk; also not enough feed—not so much food.

Foods with the highest protein and highest analysis are usually but not always the cheapest to use.

Cows won't make milk out of water and air.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Starchy feeds like corn and oats often sell as high as protein feeds because of the demand for them for horses and other work animals. Starchy feeds are also good to fatten steers. That is why they are often as high in price as dairy feeds, which are strong in protein.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Home-grown grains can often be profitably traded for protein feeds. While oats are generally demanded for horse feed, they are nearly always too expensive for dairy feed. Oats by-products, however, are very useful for bulk.

How About That Hog House?

EVERY farmer who goes into the hog business right makes good money.

No farmer makes the maximum profit on his farm unless he raises hogs. And there never was a time when hog raising was so profitable as right now.

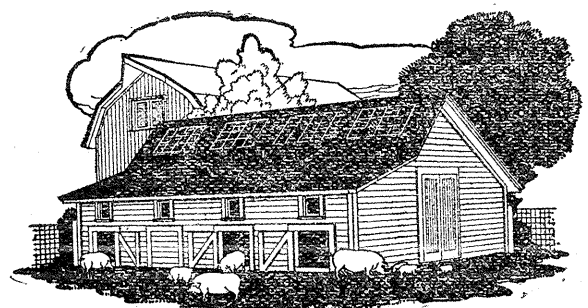

To go into the business right you need first of all a good hog house—you must give brood sows and young pigs the best possible protection from extreme heat and cold.

Come in and talk over hog houses with us—or let us come and talk to you. We have complete, practical working plans for the hog houses shown here, and will gladly give you prices on them.

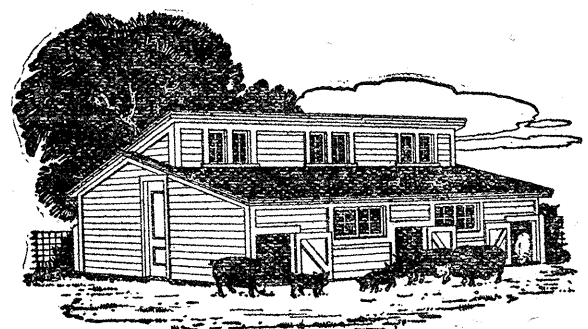

We also have plans for a number of other farm buildings. Whatever you are going to build this year, we can help you. We are better equipped than ever to serve you—and our service is free.

To get the greatest value for your money use White Pine for the outside of every building you build. It lasts longer, when exposed to the weather than any other wood, and does not warp, twist, split or open at the joints.

NAVY RELIEF SOCIETY
PROCLAMATION BY GOV.

The Great Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society has asked me to issue a proclamation calling attention to the work and needs of its organization.

The object of the Auxiliary is to assist financially and otherwise the widows and orphans and mothers of men of the Navy and Marine Corps, who die, leaving their families in need.

Relief is given in every necessary case. When a death occurs in the navy or marine corps, steps are taken immediately to ascertain if any relatives are left in need of assistance.

This is usually given in the form of a monthly allotment and continues until such time as other means of support can be provided. The Auxiliary also advises and assists dependent relatives in obtaining pensions and takes the necessary steps to insure the education of the children left fatherless. It will, therefore, be seen that the Auxiliary will care for the families of those men from our own communities who have offered their services and their lives for the protection of the nation. The scope and work of the Auxiliary are wide-spread and its needs are immediate.

The society believes that it is the duty of every American citizen, particularly at this juncture of national affairs, to assist in this excellent work.

Therefore, I, Albert E. Sleeper, governor of the state of Michigan, do issue this, my proclamation, and I earnestly request our citizens to respond, as liberally as they are able, to this urgent appeal.

ALBERT SLEEP, Governor.

PREVENTS SIDE DRAFT

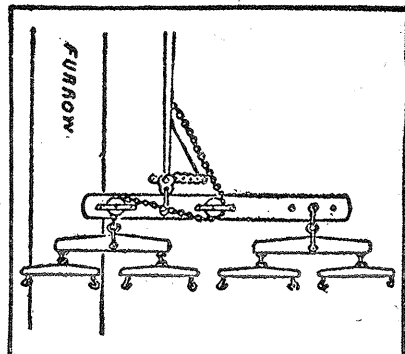

Illustration Shows How Eveners Is Constructed.

Two Ordinary Doubletrees, Good, Tough Stick, Two Iron Pulleys for Strong Chain and Two Braces, Are Needed.

In response to numerous queries Wisconsin Agriculturist illustrates and describes a four-horse evener to prevent side draft as follows:

Two doubletrees of ordinary length, a good tough stick of which to make the long evener, two iron pulleys which will let a strong small link-chain work through them, two bolts to go through the pulleys, and two strap-iron braces over the pulleys, will be needed.

The stick for the evener should be 5 feet 4 inches long, and the first pulley will be put on 7 inches from the right end of it, measuring to center of pulley. Measure 15 1/4 inches from the center of this pulley and bore hole for the plow clevis. Now measure 30 3/4 inches from the right end of this evener and bore hole for the second pulley bolt so that the two pulleys are 24 inches apart.

It is best to bore two or three holes at the left end of the long evener. Put the first one 3 inches from the end and the others 2 and 4 inches farther in. This evener works one horse in the furrow and three on the unturnd land with no side draft, say those who have used it.

LIME REQUIRED BY ALFALFA

On Soils Which Are at All Acid It Is Absolutely Essential for Successful Stand.

Alfalfa is one of the great lime lovers. Reports made to the Iowa experiment station indicate that in an average of over a thousand fields, those which received no lime yielded 3.4 tons to the acre, while those that received lime before seeding yielded at the rate of four tons to the acre, and those which received lime after seeding, at the rate of 3.8 tons to the acre. Lime generally pays for itself, even on soils which are fairly rich in lime, and on soils which are at all acid it is absolutely essential to successful alfalfa growing to spread lime at the rate of one to two tons to the acre. The easy way to spread it is with a lime spreader. With the increasing use of lime, there should soon be a lime spreader in every community in the corn belt.

TELL ALFALFA FROM CLOVER

Formation of Leaf Enables One to Distinguish Plants While Young—Longer When Old.

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The leaf of alfalfa is divided into three leaflets, the middle one of which has a short stem, differing in this respect from red and alsike clovers, in which the center leaflet is attached directly at the base.

This difference in the two plants readily enables one to distinguish alfalfa from red clover when the plants are very young.

As the plants become older the leaflets of the alfalfa become more elongated than in the clovers.

METHODS OF DOCKING LAMBS

Burning With an Iron Is Favored by Kansas Expert—Wound Is Seared and Doesn't Bleed.

When docking lambs the four feet of the animal should be held together tightly against the body of the operator, points out A. M. Paterson, instructor in animal husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

There are two methods of docking. One is by cutting off with a sharp knife and the other is by burning with a docking iron. The latter is preferred, especially if the lamb has a large tail. The hot iron sears over the wound and prevents bleeding. If the lambs are old it is well to tie a string around the stump to prevent bleeding.

COMFORTS FOR WORK HORSES

Proves Small Pasture Which They Can Be Turned Into After Day's Work—Does Them Good.

One of the best things you can do is to provide a small pasture for your work horses. It should be near the barn so the horses can be easily turned into it each night after they come from the field. A bite of green grass, a roll and an hour or two out in the open will do them a world of good. On hot nights leave them out all night. The work the following day can be much more easily done if such comforts are provided.

QUALITY OF PROTEIN VARIES

Source of Nutrient Is Important as Well as Quantity—Furnished, Say Wisconsin Experts.

Hart and Humphrey of the Wisconsin experimental station report that there is a difference between the quality of proteins coming from various kinds of feeds. As an instance, an animal is able to use more of the protein found in milk than in any other article of food. Sixty per cent of the protein in distiller's grain can be used, 61 per cent of oilmeal, 45 per cent of gluten feed and 60 per cent of skim milk powder when fed with corn.

An animal producing from 40 to 45 pounds of milk daily and receiving no skim milk powder stood no nitrogen, but rather drew from her system in proportion to the amount demanded. No more protein was fed in the ration when the skim milk powder was used; the results were simply owing to the fact that in one form the protein was usable, while in the other it was not.

The source of nutriment is therefore important as well as the quantities furnished.

NECESSARY FOOD FOR PLANT

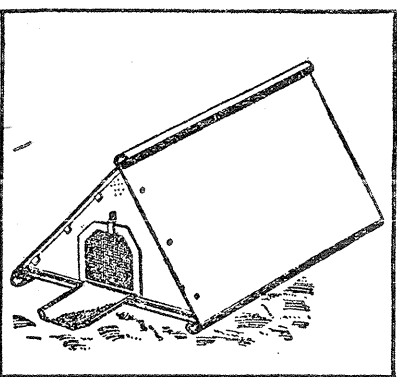

Humus Has Power of Holding Nitrates of Soil Fertility—Holds Moisture in Position.

Humus is the substance formed in the soil by decaying vegetable matter, such as leaves, stubble, roots, manure, crop plowed under and so on. Humus not only comprises elements of plant food itself, but it has the power of holding the necessary nitrates of fertile soil to prevent their escaping through washing or other means. It also has the effect of a sponge in absorbing and holding moisture in position and form available for the use of growing plants and aids in keeping the soil porous. Humus is indispensable to plant growth. Poor crops are in many cases due to its lack.

by clips. There is an outer door of sheetmetal and an inner one of wire netting; both turn down on a beaded edge, and when down serve as an inclined entrance way for small chickens.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

GROW CORN THAT IS ADAPTED

Most Profitable to Raise Crop That Will Mature and Require Entire Season to Ripen.

It is the most profitable, ordinarily, to grow corn that will mature and that will require the entire growing season in order to ripen. In the northern portion of the state, corn that has been introduced from southern sections will frequently not mature. In the southern portion of the state, on the other hand, some corn is grown which does not require the entire growing season for its maturity. Such corn is of a smaller type and does not yield as much grain as the length of season makes possible.

CULTIVATION OF CORN CROP

There Is No Work Which Will Take Place of Good Plowing Near Enough to Destroy Weeds.

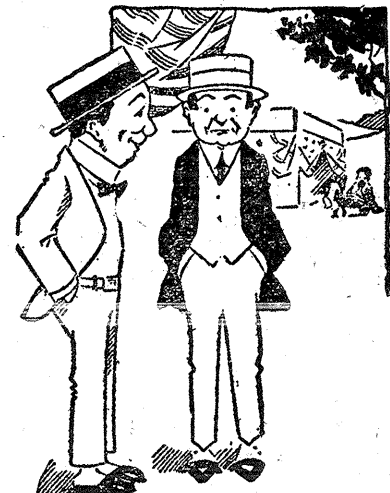

Some plow the middles, but do but little plowing near the corn. While it is important to clean the middles, there is no work which will take the place of good plowing near enough the corn to destroy all the grass. The plow is the implement for grass destruction, but after all can be done with it there may be here and there some hoeing to do. When the corn is laid by as to plowing, the hoe should go immediately over the fields and destroy every weed and every sprig of grass which may have been left. The rule on every farm should be to lay by the corn absolutely clean.

BEST DISPOSITION OF ASHES

Scatter Them in Henhouse Over and Under Roosts and Wherever Filth Has Collected.

The best place to use the ashes from the range or coal stove is in the henhouse. Scatter them liberally over and under the roost and wherever any filth has collected. Keep the feeding portion of the house heavily littered with straw and feed the grain in the straw. Make the hens work and they will not get lazy.

Fourth of July Spiel.

Jinks—I admire your loyalty to a friend.

Blinks—I beg your pardon?

Jinks—Why, when Jackson criticized so harshly the speech that Maxson made you knocked him down.

Blinks—Yes; I wrote that speech myself.

First Compulsory Service.

Switzerland was the first European country to adopt universal military service. The original founders of the Swiss confederation enacted that whoever shirked military training, which began at the age of fifteen years, was declared "devoid of honor and perjured," and his house was vowed to destruction. Should a man summoned to take part in a military expedition prove unable to respond owing to illness or some other valid reason he had to furnish a capable substitute at his own expense. From earliest days, too, the military authorities made special provision for tending the wounded. In this respect they seem to have been in advance of their times.

It is said that the famous "Thousand and One Nights" was written on the island of Java.

STORM ECHOES.

Wm. Leepia's farm home in Greenleaf township was struck by lightning Tuesday morning and slightly damaged.

The residence occupied by Mrs. Della Bardwell on Pine St. east was struck by lightning during Monday's night's electrical storm. The damage was slight.

Geo. Gulick had a cow killed by lightning and Dougald McIntyre, west of Argyle, lost two cows.
