LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Margaret Livingston of Deford is the guest of Mrs. I. W. Hall.

J. C. Corkins was called last Friday to Ypsilanti to attend the funeral of his father. He returned Monday.

Mrs. Robt. Griswold from Portland, Oregon, has come for a three months' visit with her mother, Mrs. George Predmore. Her two children, Billy and Judith, accompanied her.

Mrs. John Gray, south of town, received a telegram Wednesday announcing the very serious illness, with pneumonia, of her son who is at Camp Custer. Mrs. Gray left Wednesday.

Street Commissioner Wm. R. Kaiser has not only made the fire hydrants of our town conspicuous, as they should be, but has also added to the neat appearance of the streets by giving each hydrant a coat of bright red paint.

Talk about not being able to take the Chronicle. Why, there are bargains enough offered in the advertising news in this issue, if taken advantage of, to pay the subscription price for many years. Look them over and see if this is not so.

The Catholic society held a service in their church called the Forty Hour Devotion Beginning Sunday morning at seven o'clock and continuing until nine o'clock mass Tuesday morning. Father Dolan of the local church was assisted by Fathers Lewis of Sebawaing, O'Sullivan of Argyle and Dwan of Gageton.

The condensary is responsible for a greatly increased interest in the handling of the corn crop by the silo process. Among others who are erecting silos this season, Wm. H. Lapeer is building an unusually large stave silo. It measures 14 by 40 feet. This will care for a large acreage of corn and furnish silage for a great number of cattle.

When the Red Cross, nearly a year ago, left the direction of the Saturday afternoon teas with Mrs. Farwell and Mrs. Knapp, they certainly acted wisely. The society has secured from this source alone in that length of time nearly $1,000.00. They lack so little of having that amount that they hope and expect next Saturday's returns to bring it up to that handsome figure.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Council of National Defense was held at the Council Rooms Monday evening. Special instructions were sent in that the ladies must adjourn at 8:15 promptly. One can scarcely imagine a company of forty or fifty women meeting at 7:30 and disbanding at 8:15. The village authorities seemed to realize this fact for later (through the courtesy of our village president) word was received that the ladies might use the room the entire evening. The council meeting was held in Dr. Schenck's office.

Mrs. Margaret Livingston has received a letter from her son, George, in which he stated that his cousin, Ed Bonner, whose arm was injured by a shell several weeks ago on the western front had been a patient in a hospital in England. He was gradually recovering and expected to return soon to resume his activities with the Yankees in France. George has been in an artillery school in France since July. He writes his mother that such good news comes from the front lines that he wishes he were back on the job.

RUSH CALL FROM CAMP CUSTER

An urgent call to the local Red Cross for blankets and quilts has been received from Camp Custer. Both large and small sizes can be used, the smaller ones being suitable for cots. The only requirement is that they must be clean and in good condition but not necessarily new. Leave your contributions at Wilsey & Cathcart's store or the Chronicle office so they may be shipped to Caro early tomorrow (Saturday). This is a rush call so act promptly.

Nelson Karr takes an examination for war training at the Michigan School of Mines.

Johnson has gone to Detroit to visit her brother, John McCallum, who is very ill at this time. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Russo visited at the home of Mrs. Russo's sister, Mrs. Frank J. Nash, a few days last week. They made the trip from their home in Detroit by auto. Mr. Russo is a talented violinist and is at present a member of the Temple Theatre Orchestra in their home city.

W. L. Ward received news Friday that the injuries received by his son, Lieut. Wm. Ward, were of a much more serious nature than was at first anticipated. His right arm was shattered and he was totally blind for some time. He is recovering the sight in one eye and will be sent home from France as soon as he is able to make the journey.

Twenty-five little girls girls with their school teacher, Miss Hickey, helped Elizabeth Nash celebrate her eighth birthday last Saturday afternoon. Miss Hickey proved herself a most delightful entertainer for little folks and the children passed a most enjoyable time. Especially were they happy when the dainty and plentiful refreshments were passed.

Capt. Harold Dickinson writes from Mercedes, Texas, that 26 men out of his troop have the Spanish influenza. They do not seem seriously ill but are confined in the hospital. He says the civilians and "spicks" (as they call the Mexicans) and slackers have the disease. He also says it is too bad that the slackers have it for he thinks they would look a great deal better in the front line trenches.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harrington and two children of Pontiac are guests of their uncle, Matthew Parker and sister, Mrs. Myrtle McLellan from Tuesday to Saturday of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson, also of Pontiac, spent Tuesday here on their way to Caro to visit at the Orlo Pattison home. One week after Mr. Heller's arrival at Lansing, on Friday, he was appointed Corporal, one week later (Friday), he was advanced to Sergeant and the next week still on Friday, was ordered to the Officers' Training Camp. Mrs. Heller and son will return the latter part of the week.

Folks interested in the purchase of cows, horses and other live stock, farm implements, grain, lumber, automobiles, gas engines, household goods, etc., should not pass it by. Mrs. Arthur Helwig announces the first sale for Tuesday, Oct. 15; Ernest Hillman on Thursday, Oct. 17; Guy Hoadley on Friday, Oct. 18; Dr. A. N. Treadgold on Saturday, Oct. 19. Herb Houghton will have an auction two miles north of Cass City on Monday, Oct. 21, announcement for same appearing in Chronicle next week.

LOCALS WON FROM CARO TUESDAY 84-0

Visitors Smiled and Fought with Grim Determination Even when Struggle Was Hopeless.

Foot ball this year has been at a low ebb, no games being played during September, but a start was made this week. A midweek game was scheduled with Caro for Tuesday.

The Caro boys appeared rather out of trim, but the game and most sportsmanlike bunch that the locals have met in some time. Even when the score had reached the high mark of 84 to 0 in favor of Cass City, they still fought on, with a smile and a grim determination to do their best.

The local team outweighed their opponents by many pounds. Hump was heard to say, "I hadn't the heart to hit the little kid I played against." Even though the score was high, the Cass City boys are far from being in good trim shown by the way Caro got away with a couple of long passes and made several good gains through the center of the line.

The line-up for the first half was as follows: C, Cathart; R. G., Craft; L. G., Colwell; R. T., A. Champion; L. T., Hutchinson; R. E., Brooker; L. E., Wallace; Q., F. Champion; L. F., Gowen; F., Dodge; R. F., Benkelman. A few changes were made during the last half and some new men were tried out.

Don't fail to see the game of Cass City and Bad Axe at the local grounds this afternoon.

FATHER OF FAMILY SHOOT'S HIMSELF

Leaving a widow with seven living children of the 14 born to her is the pathetic plight of a Hungarian woman near Akron. For some unknown reason, Mike Schwingle, shot and killed himself.

Schwingle evidently had planned the act. Sunday he told his wife and family that he was going to hunt rabbits.

bits. When he took his gun he also secretly took a sheet off the bed and went to a nearby cornfield where he threw the sheet over himself, placed the muzzle of the gun over his heart and pulled the trigger. He was found later in the day with the sheet over him and scarcely ruffled, bearing evidence that death was instantaneous.

Neither his wife nor friends are able to explain any reason for his act; so far as known he had no trouble with anyone and his domestic relations were of the most amicable nature. It is thought, however, that he worried about the war.

ATTRACTIVE LECTURE COURSE PROGRAM

First Number Will Be Given November 15 by the Schumann Quintet.

The Woman's Study Club offers an attractive and instructive program to lecture course patrons this season. As in the 1917 season, the proceeds over expenses will be given to the Red Cross.

The program which is furnished by the Redpath Bureau is opened Nov. 15 by the Schumann Quintet, who bring to the Lyceum a genuinely new idea—that of presenting symphonic concerts with a company of only five musicians. To secure this symphonic effect a specially constructed organ is carried by this company. This gives all the reed and wind effects of a large orchestra and, combined with the piano and stringed instruments, produces results as surprising as they are unique.

Chancellor Geo. H. Bradford, who has taken a broad look at the problem of education, has spent his whole life studying that problem. His study of education has been unusual, along original lines, and as he has looked at education more from a social standpoint and based his study on a study of a social education, his lecture on Dec. 13 promises to present many new thoughts on this important subject.

On January 24 come the Bryn Mawr Entertainers—John F. Chambers, dramatic reader and interpreter of plays, and Miss Marian Faville, recognized as an accomplished accompanist and endowed with a delightful lyric soprano voice.

Chas. Howard Plattenburg, popular lecturer, comes on March 19 with a message that leaves his audience thinking broader, cleaner thoughts. He is highly educated, is a student and philosopher and has had large contact with his fellows both at home and abroad.

The lecture course comes to Cass City this season without an increase in the price of season tickets.

FARMER LOSES ARM.

His right arm was so badly mangled by the cutting knives that amputation was necessary and the arm was taken off above the elbow.

UNBOUNDED JOY AT SUNDAY'S IMPROMPTU CELEBRATION

At No Time Was Such Enthusiasm Evidenced in the Village of Cass City.

Sunday afternoon beheld a scene of great commotion on our streets. About four o'clock word was received by phone that the Kaiser had accepted President Wilson's fourteen peace terms. Whistles blew, bells rang, bells rang and whistles blew and soon the Main street was lined with wild inhabitants. Such enthusiasm in Cass City was never evidenced before and joy was unbounded. Everybody knew everybody else and all seemed united in the glorious thought. Old Glory suddenly waved from nearly every place of business and in spite of the drizzling rain the Home Guards and Band appeared, almost as if by magic, in uniform. The Kaiser's form in effigy hung dangling in the air but was hurriedly shot to pieces. The flags of the Allies were raised to their places beneath the Stars and Stripes and were saluted by the firing squad from the Home Guards.

The impromptu character of the celebration was its charm and no "trumped up" enthusiasm could equal the fine, united spirit of the overjoyed throng. Every new demonstration of whatever character was thoroughly entered into and when Rev. Barker stepped out and proposed the singing of America, a chorus of more male than female voices woke the echoes down Main street. This was followed by the Doxology sung with reverence by all and when a prayer of thanksgiving was offered, all men stood with uncovered and bowed heads and each joined fervently in the Lord's Prayer. After cheering successively for President Wilson, the Allies and the United States of America, the crowd gave way to a procession of honking, screaming, squawking automobiles decorated with flags and filled with cheering, happy people who didn't give a rap for the gasless edict if the Kaiser was only licked.

A grand mass meeting was arranged for, to be held in the evening. Shortly after this, news reached here by way of the Bay City Times-Tribune that the Kaiser's acceptance of the peace terms was an unbending demand. This rather took the edge off the first hilarity but nevertheless the announcement had been made and a very enjoyable evening was spent at the M. E. church where a union service was held. I. B. Auten presiding. Short speeches were made by the Revs. Zander, Barker, Cormany and Young, Prof. Riggs, Edward Pinney, John Marshall and Mrs. Everett Mudge, a selection by the band, a vocal solo by F. A. Bigelow, and familiar sacred and patriotic songs by the crowd left everybody with the blissful sensation we hope soon to feel again when the knowledge reaches us for a certainty that war is no more. An offering of $52.50 was taken for the Red Cross.

Peace Celebration Briefs.

Albert Goff was first on the scene with a snare drum but the dripping skies and some "honest to goodness" drumming smashed both heads. Said he didn't care because Germany was busted too.

In putting up the Allies flags, Sam Champion forgot the French flag. By the way, how many of us know the colors of our several Allies?

The war map in the post office window was brought up to the supposed status by covering everything east of the Rhine with red, white and blue bunting.

Ten cents for a newspaper is a good price but a Ford load was sold at that price to the anxious crowd.

The telephone girls did noble work as the "big show" progressed, sticking to their posts until all calls were answered.

Had the "Beast of Berlin" seen the rough treatment handed his hated figure by the boys, it would require a very smooth real estate man to sell him a home in Cass City. When the Allies are through with him, a quiet spot in the World's Pest House at St. Helena will look like "Home, Sweet Home" to him.

Though the M. E. church was packed to the point of "standing room only", we didn't see a Baptist, Presbyterian, Evangelical, Catholic or Methodist in the whole audience, but hundreds of worshippers who had left all denominational feeling in the hope of a world freed from Hun oppression.

"Rather premature" is the remark frequently heard, but we couldn't get it all out of our system in one day anyway. It sure will be a "Hot time in the old town" when the Yanks get to Berlin.

CIDER MILL STILL RUNS TWO DAYS A WEEK

"Reports that the cider mill at Cass City has discontinued business are false," says J. A. Caldwell, the proprietor. "We are making regular runs for cider manufacture every Tuesday and Friday and will continue to do so as long as the farmers bring in apples and keep us busy."

This week's copy of the Chronicle will be the last some subscribers will receive unless they promptly pay up and renew their subscription by payment in advance. Quite a number who were in arrears have paid since notice of the Government requirement was published, but quite a number have neglected to do so, who must be cut off unless they act promptly.

The publisher regrets the necessity for such drastic action, but he is under orders and must promptly obey.

The date on the yellow label tells the story. If it reads any date earlier than "Oct. 1918" a remittance for all months in arrears and something for the future should be mailed at once.

NEWS REVIEW OF
THE GREAT WAR

Kaiser's Back Wall Has Fallen and His Front Wall Is Crumbling Fast.

HINDENBURG LINE SMASHED

Bulgaria Surrenders Unconditionally and Turkey is Wobbling—St. Quentin and Damascus Captured—Huns Preparing To Get Out of Belgium.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

The kaiser put his back to a wall in the vain effort to check the allies on the western front, and the wall collapsed. Bulgaria surrendered, practically unconditionally; Turkey at once put out peace feelers; Austria-Hungary cried for cessation of the war, and the Ukrainians rose in revolt against the Huns.

Meanwhile the allies kept up their ceaseless hammering at the kaiser's front wall—the Hindenburg line—and by smashing through it at many points proved it was not the impregnable system of defense that the Germans had supposed it to be. From the sea to Verdun the battle blazed day and night, and the official reports showed an almost unbroken series of victories for the allies. The Belgian army, assisted by British troops and, unexpectedly, by a French army, jumped into the fray at the beginning of the week, and, taking Dixmude and the important Wyttschaete ridge, advanced swiftly as far as Roulers. Thereupon the Huns began making preparations that indicated complete withdrawal from Belgium. North and south of La Basse canal they were in full flight, with the British close on their heels, and as Haig's men approached Lille the enemy began the evacuation of that city, the German commander requisitioning all means of transportation to remove his plunder. Investing Roulers, the allies gained control of the railroad to the German submarine bases at Ostend and Zeebrugge and it was reported the foe was removing his heavy guns from the Belgian coast and that the governor-general of Belgium had instructed the provincial governors to send all their archives at once to Brussels.

Armentieres and Lens were abandoned by the Huns Tuesday night.

In the attack on Cambrai the British, with whom an American contingent was fighting, met with desperate resistance and here and there suffered a local reverse, but they could not be long checked and pushed ahead with dogged determination until they had the city at their mercy. The Huns burned vast quantities of stores in their preparations for withdrawal.

Next to the south comes the St. Quentin sector, and there the French under General Debeney won a great victory, capturing the city after tremendous fighting, which was fiercest in and about the St. Quentin canal. This place was one of the keystones of the Hindenburg line and its capture assured the retirement of the Germans on a wide front. Immediately north of St. Quentin the British were engaged by enemy reserves of storming troops and the fighting was furious. But the British succeeded in breaking through the German line on the Beauvois-Viancourt front and created a salient that greatly helped in the capture of St. Quentin by the French.

Between the Oise at La Fere and the Aisne the French pushed on toward Laon and succeeded in passing beyond the elaborate system of waterways that comprised the chief defense of the enemy and reaching open country where the tanks could operate to advantage. North of Reims Foch's troops drove the Huns back to the Aisne and the Aisne-Marne canal, clearing the country north of the Vesle and releasing a number of towns. They also gained the entire St. Thierry massif.

In Champagne there was no marked change during the week, though both the French and the Americans continued to move forward. The Yankees were up against a hard proposition in the forest of Argonne, where the dense woods were full of machine gun nests and the fighting was almost like a battle in the dark. This style of warfare, however, seemed to suit the Americans and in broken groups they battled their way onward, passing beyond Cierges and always keeping in contact with the retreating enemy. For miles they were hampered by the scarcity of roads, the mud and the innumerable and bravely defended fortified shell craters. They captured during the week great numbers of guns and quantities of material, including three big observation balloons. On the left flank of the Americans Gouraud's Frenchmen fought their way northward with the greatest intrepidity and cut off the Germans opposing them from communication with their comrades in the Argonne forest region. If they can keep up this advance the Huns in the salient pointing towards Reims will find themselves in an awkward pocket. The Germans in this sector were falling back to the so-called Kriemhild line, and captured documents showed they intended to try to hold that line through the winter. The fact is they have no organized line of defense between it and the French border. The Americans in Champagne as well as those in the St. Quentin sector displayed gallantry and dash that have not been surpassed.

The most spectacular exploit of the week was the raid on the Austrian naval base at Durazzo. American, British and Italian warships made their way through the mine fields and completely destroyed the base and all the Austrian vessels in the harbor except a hospital ship. The only damage to the attacking force was the slight injury of a British cruiser by a torpedo.

The Bulgarians in signing the armistice submitted to every demand of the allies, which included demobilizing their army and surrendering the control of all their means of transportation, besides breaking entirely with the other central powers. They even said they were willing to attack Turkey, in conjunction with the allies. Their troops at once began withdrawing from Serbia and all their military supplies were turned over to the forces of the entente. The internal situation in Bulgaria was somewhat confused, but the claims of Berlin that King Ferdinand would remain faithful to the central alliance seemed unfounded. However, he evidently feared for his own safety, for he was reported to have taken refuge in a royal castle near Vienna. Naturally, it will be some time before the allies can reap the full benefits of the Bulgarian surrender in the way of cutting across the "corridor to Bagdad" and isolating Turkey. Meanwhile they continued the task of driving the Austrians and Germans out of Serbia. It was said a large number of German troops were sent to Sofia to try to force Bulgaria to retract her action, but these, if there, more likely are to be used in defending the communication with Constantinople. When the French, Serbians, Greeks and Italians have advanced far enough to the northward they probably will be joined by great numbers of Southern Slavs and men of other races who have long waited for the chance to revolt against Austria. The way will then be open for an attack on the dual kingdom from the south.

Though not yet officially confirmed, there were various well authenticated reports last week that Turkey had informally sought for information as to the terms on which she could make peace. Her condition is desperate, for General Attenby continued his victorious progress in Palestine and on Tuesday occupied Damascus, the Turkish base in Syria, taking more than 7,000 prisoners. With the British was a portion of the army of Arabs of the Hedjaz, now recognized by the allied governments as co-belligerents.

Necessarily all this had great effect in the Teutonic nations. The excitement in Berlin approached panic and the newspapers made no attempt to conceal the gravity of the situation. The first concrete results were the resignation of Chancellor von Hertling, Vice Chancellor von Payer and Foreign Minister von Hintze, and the invitation of the kaiser and of Emperor Charles to their people to participate in the government. Late in the week it was announced that the kaiser had selected Prince Maximilian of Baden for the post of chancellor. He has been known as head of the Delbruck moderates and opposed to the schemes of the pan-Germans, and it is presumed he will make great efforts to bring about a negotiated peace. That, however, is just what the allied nations are determined shall not be accomplished, and their leaders and the press already are at work to show the people that unless the war is carried on until the Huns are beaten to his knees and forced to accept a dictated peace, all their sacrifices will have been in vain. The time is ripe for the silly sentimentalists, secretly urged on by the friends of Germany, to spring their pleas of pity for the defeated and of the benefits to be gained by ending the war at once by negotiation. But all this foolish and actually treasonable talk will have no effect on those who believe in justice and patriotism.

News from Russia and especially from Serbia is scanty and belated these days. The most important coming lately concerns the anti-bolshevik government set up in Omsk. Minister of War Michailov attempted to make himself dictator by forcing the resignation of the cabinet and organizing an administrative council to succeed it. The council declared the duma dissolved, but that body refused to dissolve, released the imprisoned ministers and put Michailov under arrest. The Czecho-Slovak authorities there promptly put a strong military force in the city and ended the attempted coup.

In northern Russia the allies are making progress southward from Archangel along the Dvina river, and Americans are holding the point farthest south, only forty miles from Bielsk, the bolshevik base.

A British expedition has landed in Spitzbergen and seized the German mining property and other plants there, and the immensely rich iron and coal deposits already are being developed rapidly.

The state department at Washington was informed of a big uprising of the Ukrainians against the Germans, in the course of which the Huns lost 1,500 men and were forced to evacuate two cities. This news, together with the knowledge that Roumania was about ready to re-enter the war on the side of the allies, was considered of great military importance. A large part of the population of Roumania, led by the queen, has consistently refused to recognize the treaty of Bucharest by which their country was robbed by the Huns. If they get into action again, the plight of Austria will be indeed most distressing—to Austria.

The apparent determination of the Germans to destroy utterly every city in France and Belgium that they are compelled to relinquish has given rise to a general demand that the allied governments shall warn the Huns that for every place wantonly destroyed a city or town in Germany will be laid in ruins by them later on. That is the only kind of argument the German can understand. Secretary Lansing recognized this when, in response to the threat of the Germans to treat as a murderer every American captured with a shotgun in his possession, he told them that reprisals for such action would be thorough and effective. The British air bombers, by their reprisal raids on German cities, have nearly put a stop to the air raids of the Huns on undefended places. They still attack Red Cross hospitals, and for such brutality the allies can make no reprisal in kind.

On Monday the master numbers in the new draft were drawn, President Wilson taking the first from the bowl. The classification of the men is progressing well, but the sending of those selected to the training camps may be delayed by the serious spread of the epidemic of influenza. Rigorous measures are being adopted to check the disease, with prospects of success. Considering its nature, the number of deaths is not extraordinary.

Burial in Old English Churches. The places of burial beneath many of the old churches in England are arranged in different ways. In many cases the burial is made in a grave dug in the soil, as is done in an open graveyard. In some cases there is a crypt beneath the main floor, the crypt being practically one large vault, and here the coffins are deposited or shelves of stone. Sometimes the crypt is divided into separate vaults which are really small rooms enclosed on all sides by stone walls.

Roman Builders' Good Work. Several hundred miles of old Roman walls, at least seventeen hundred years old, are still standing in England today. The best specimen of this work of the ancient Romans in England is the wall which crosses Northumberland, from near Newcastle to near Carlisle. In many places, the facing of this wall is still intact, showing what marvelous builders these Romans were.

Growth of Human Hair. Even as it is the case with plants, so also the human hair grows better in the light than in the dark. The reason is because light and sunshine exert a stimulating influence upon the growth. It has often been observed that with men who work in offices and have one and the same side always turned toward the window, beard and mustaches grow much faster on the side turned to the light than on the other side.

Coal—One of Our Mightiest Weapons.

Coal—common, every-day, hard, black coal will help win or lose this war for us. Coal keeps every cog and gear of our national defense machinery moving. From the manufacture of the smallest shell to the transportation of our troops to European soil, it plays a large and vital part.

Because it is so necessary, this valuable fuel is being demanded in larger quantities than ever before and with this increased demand comes a call for more cars, more engines to transport this coal to the places where it is needed. And the demand for increased transportation facilities is taxing the already over-worked railroads beyond their capacity.

Morgan Cold Weather PROTECTION

Something must be done to relieve the situation. Avoid coal waste in the home. It is a never-questioned fact that from one-third to one-half the coal used in heating a home is wasted. This saving of waste means less coal need be transported and consequently this will release the railroad cars for other work.

Cutting down the amount of coal used in the home does not mean that it should be kept cold and below normal temperature. That would be false economy for it might prove detrimental to the health of the occupants. From one-third to one-half less coal need be used in each home if each piece of coal is made to deliver its full quota of heat.

We are installing in many homes a coal-saving system that pays for itself in one or two seasons. Ask us about Morgan Cold Weather Protection. We have a little booklet explaining how it works.

Recommendations for long-range Christmas buying is the sequel to the new turn of affairs with respect to the "No Christmas presents" propaganda, so-called. Instead of "no Christmas presents" we have to have only "useful" Christmas presents and toys for the children. We are to be allowed, with Uncle Sam's sanction, this greater latitude in Christmas buying on one condition—namely, that the purchase and dispatch of the Christmas presents be inaugurated so early and spread over so long an interval of time that at no stage of the proceedings will there be an undue tax upon the nation's labor, transportation facilities, etc.

NEWS OF THE BOYS IN THE SERVICE

From Joy Tyo.

U. S. S. Alabama, September 28, 1918.

Dear Brother and All: I received your letters and was sure glad to get them. I will have my picture taken this afternoon and send you one in the near future. Gee, if I sent a picture to everyone who has written to me for one, I would go bankrupt; that sounds as though I was quite popular, doesn't it?

I am sitting on the top deck writing this letter and they just fired a gun that nearly knocked me nutty from the report. I am playing in the U. S. S. Alabama Orchestra and we are giving a minstrel show here on board tonight which I think will be quite a success. I am afraid there is a little danger of me over-working myself—at the table.

Say, Clem, you can put this letter in the paper so that they can all see that I am getting along fine and sending everyone my regards. I know that this isn't a very long letter but under the circumstances it is long enough.

Say I think I am quite a lucky sailor as I received 27 letters last week. Write often and give my address to some of the boys as I would surely enjoy hearing from all of them. Love to all.

JOY.

U. S. S. Alabama, c/o P. M., Fortress Monroe, Va.

Dan Ross of Verona township, Huron county, has had many thrills while in the service in France. He was twice captured by the Germans and escaped and was several times wounded.

A Detroit newspaper, through its army correspondent, secured an interview with Ross while he was in the hospital. In this he gives more details of the battle in which he received 14 wounds, as follows:

The 14 holes the Huns shot in him are healing rapidly and what fear scare he experienced when they put a pistol to his head and threatened to blow out his brains regardless of the terrible wounds, has entirely vanished. "Red" is determined to get back into the thick of it, and even up scores with the enemy, although he is now entitled to cut several notches on the butt of his rifle.

Ross' story, told as the surgeon was picking shrapnel out of him and getting ready to operate on both legs,

"There were 11 wounded men placed in a cellar with me. Two were Germans and one was an Austrian our boys had picked up and carried back for the first aid.

"We got through the night all right, but about 9 o'clock the next morning there was a lot of firing outside and then the first thing we knew a Hun called down in the cellar for us to get ready to die as he was going to unload a few grenades. The German wounded with us said that was what they said. We thought it was all up. I did, but I thought I would stick it out until they got us. I never prayed so hard in all my born days. I couldn't walk and was helpless and the only thing left was prayer.

"Well, they didn't send down the grenades, but three of the raiding party—there were about 100 Germans in this party we learned afterwards—came down into the cellar. The leader was the toughest looking human being I ever saw. I never looked into such eyes in my life. His face was as hard as sole leather. Killing men didn't disturb that guy. He put his pistol up to my head and I said goodbye to the world. Why he didn't shoot I don't know unless it was he saw my legs and saw I was pretty badly wounded. Then my face was covered with blood that splattered on it when that boy beside me had his head blown off. I hadn't had a chance to wash it off and it had dried on, I guess I looked pretty sad.

"The two raiders who came down with him were half way civilized. Both could talk English. One German said he had worked two years in Birmingham, England. He seemed to take pity on me and came over and got a rag and wet it and washed off my face.

"They took four of our men with them and left the seven that were badly wounded. After they had gone one of the Germans they had left told us they would be back that night and kill all of us. They left a guard outside the cellar with a machine gun.

"The two Germans wounded who were left with us told us to get away if we could for it meant sure death when the raiders returned. I saw a little window on the other side of the cellar and I began to figure how I could raise myself up there and crawl through the window. Then I did a little more praying, trying to figure out a way.

"It was not very long after that that we heard firing outside. This time we were in luck for it was a rescue bunch back again. They had German rifles, American rifles and anything they could use for weapons and when they got through the German guard left with the machine gun lay dead just outside our door."

I Saw in the Paper.

"I have just learned of a new way to remove a scorch from linen," said the woman who studies the papers "I'm always scorching mine; tell me about it," requested the woman who did not know.

"It is a little troublesome at first. You put two ounces of fuller's earth into a pan, add half an ounce of white soap, the juice of two large onions and half a pint of vinegar. You boil this together for a few minutes, then you put in a covered vessel for future use. When you have a scorch, you spread this mixture on it with a knife. Let it dry on the cloth and the stain will disappear."

UNCLE SAM'S ADVICE ON FLU

U. S. Public Health Service Issues Official Health Bulletin on Influenza.

LATEST WORD ON SUBJECT.

Epidemic Probably Not Spanish in Origin—Germ Still Unknown—People Should Guard Against "Droplet Infection"—Surgeon General Blue Makes Authoritative Statement.

Washington, D. C.—(Special.)—Although King Alfonso of Spain was one of the victims of the influenza epidemic in 1893 and again this summer, Spanish authorities repudiate any claim to influenza as a "Spanish" disease. If the people of this country do not take care the epidemic will become so widespread throughout the United States that soon we shall hear the disease called "American" influenza.

In response to a request for definite information concerning Spanish influenza, Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the U. S. Public Health Service has authorized the following official interview:

What is Spanish influenza? Is it something new? Does it come from Spain?

"The disease now occurring in this country and called 'Spanish influenza' resembles a very contagious kind of 'cold,' accompanied by fever, pains

Coughs and Sneezes Spread Diseases

As Dangerous as Poison Gas Shells

in the head, eyes, ears, back or other parts of the body and a feeling of severe sickness. In most of the cases the symptoms disappear after three or four days, the patient then rapidly recovering. Some of the patients, however, develop pneumonia, or inflammation of the ear, or meningitis, and many of these complicated cases die. Whether this so-called 'Spanish' influenza is identical with the epidemics of influenza of earlier years is not yet known.

"Epidemics of influenza have visited this country since 1647. It is interesting to know that this first epidemic was brought here from Valencia, Spain. Since that time there have been numerous epidemics of the disease. In 1889 and 1890 an epidemic of influenza, starting somewhere in the Orient, spread first to Russia and thence over practically the entire civilized world. Three years later there was another flare-up of the disease. Both times the epidemic spread widely over the United States.

"Although the present epidemic is called 'Spanish influenza,' there is no reason to believe that it originated in Spain. Some writers who have studied the question believe that the epidemic came from the Orient and they call attention to the fact that the Germans mention the disease as occurring along the eastern front in the summer and fall of 1917."

How can "Spanish influenza" be recognized?

"There is as yet no certain way in which a single case of 'Spanish influenza' can be recognized. On the other hand, recognition is easy where there is a group of cases. In contrast to the outbreaks of ordinary coughs and colds, which usually occur in the cold months, epidemics of influenza may occur at any season of the year. Thus the present epidemic raged most intensely in Europe in May, June and July. Moreover, in the case of ordinary colds, the general symptoms (fever, pain, depression) are by no means as severe or as sudden in their onset as they are in influenza. Finally, ordinary colds do not spread through the community so rapidly or so extensively as does influenza.

"In most cases a person taken sick with influenza feels sick rather suddenly. He feels weak, has pains in the eyes, ears, head or back, and may be sore all over. Many patients feel dizzy, some vomit. Most of the patients complain of feeling chilly, and with this comes a fever in which the temperature rises to 100 to 104. In most cases the pulse remains relatively slow.

"In appearance one is struck by the fact that the patient looks sick. His eyes and the inner side of his eyelids may be slightly 'bloodshot,' or 'congested,' as the doctors say. There may be running from the nose, or there may be some cough. These signs of a cold may not be marked; nevertheless the patient looks and feels very sick.

"In addition to the appearance and the symptoms as already described, examination of the patient's blood may aid the physician in recognizing 'Spanish influenza,' for it has been found that in this disease the number of white corpuscles shows little or no increase above the normal. It is possible that the laboratory investigations now being made through the National Research Council and the United States Hygienic Laboratory will furnish a more certain way in which individual cases of this disease can be recognized."

What is the course of the disease? Do people die of it?

"Ordinarily, the fever lasts from three to four days and the patient recovers. But while the proportion of deaths in the present epidemic has generally been low, in some places the outbreak has been severe and deaths have been numerous. When death occurs it is usually the result of a complication."

What causes the disease and how is it spread?

"Bacteriologists who have studied influenza epidemics in the past have found in many of the cases a very small rod-shaped germ called, after its discoverer, Pfeiffer's bacillus. In other cases of apparently the same kind of disease there were found pneumococci, the germs of lobar pneumonia. Still others have been caused by streptococci, and by others germs with long names.

"No matter what particular kind of germ causes the epidemic, it is now believed that influenza is always spread from person to person, the germs being carried with the air along with the very small droplets of mucus, expelled by coughing or sneezing, forceful talking, and the like by one who already has the germs of the disease. They may also be carried about in the air in the form of dust coming from dried mucus, from coughing and sneezing, or from careless people who spit on the floor and on the sidewalk. As in most other catching diseases, a person who has only a mild attack of the disease himself may give a very severe attack to others."

What should be done by those who catch the disease?

"It is very important that every person who becomes sick with influenza should go home at once and go to bed. This will help keep away dangerous complications and will, at the same time, keep the patient from scattering the disease far and wide. It is highly desirable that no one be allowed to sleep in the same room with the patient. In fact, no one but the nurse should be allowed in the room.

"If there is cough and sputum or running of the eyes and nose, care should be taken that all such discharges are collected on bits of gauze or rag or paper napkins and burned. If the patient complains of fever and headache, he should be given water to drink, a cold compress to the forehead and a light sponge. Only such medicine should be given as is prescribed by the doctor. It is foolish to ask the druggist to prescribe and may be dangerous to take the so-called 'safe, sure and harmless' remedies advertised by patent medicine manufacturers.

"If the patient is so situated that he can be attended only by some one who must also look after others in the family, it is advisable that such attendant wear a wrapper, apron or gown over the ordinary house clothes while in the sick room and slip this off when leaving to look after the others.

"Nurses and attendants will do well to guard against breathing in dangerous disease germs by wearing a simple fold of gauze or mask while near the patient."

Will a person who has had influenza before catch the disease again?

"It is well known that an attack of measles or scarlet fever or smallpox usually protects a person against another attack of the same disease. This appears not to be true of 'Spanish influenza.' According to newspaper reports the King of Spain suffered an attack of influenza during the epidemic thirty years ago, and was again stricken during the recent outbreak in Spain."

How can one guard against influenza?

"In guarding against disease of all kinds, it is important that the body be kept strong and able to fight off disease germs. This can be done by having a proper proportion of work, play and rest, by keeping the body well clothed, and by eating sufficient wholesome and properly selected food. In connection with diet, it is well to remember that milk is one of the best all-around foods obtainable for adults as well as children. So far as a disease like influenza is concerned, health authorities everywhere recognize the very close relation between its spread and overcrowded homes. While it is not always possible, especially in times like the present, to avoid such overcrowding, people should consider the health danger and make every effort to reduce the home overcrowding to a minimum. The value of fresh air through open windows cannot be over emphasized.

"When crowding is unavoidable, as in street cars, care should be taken to keep the face so turned as not to inhale directly the air breathed out by another person.

"It is especially important to beware of the person who coughs or sneezes without covering his mouth and nose. It also follows that one should keep out of crowds and stuffy places as much as possible, keep homes, offices and workshops well aired, spend some time out of doors each day, walk to work if at all practicable—in short, make every possible effort to breathe as much pure air as possible.

"In all health matters follow the advice of your doctor and obey the regulations of your local and state health officers."

"Cover up each cough and sneeze, If you don't you'll spread disease."

FOE TO ACCEPT WILSON'S TERMS CAPITAL THINKS

German Army's Grip on France Is Breaking under Marshal Foch's Blows.

Germany's plea for an armistice is founded, both American and Allied military officials at Washington believe, on recognition in Berlin of the fact that the German army organization in France is disintegrating under the terrific campaign of Marshal Foch.

These officers regard the move of the German chancellor as a desperate attempt to escape military disaster, says a Detroit daily, and they would not be surprised if President Wilson's condition that there can be no talk of an armistice except when coupled with agreement to withdraw immediately from all invaded territory, were promptly accepted.

The answer to such a move, it was suggested today, would be to leave to Marshal Foch dictation of terms of the armistice should the situation ever reach that stage as the supreme commander can be trusted to see that no military advantage to the enemy resulted. In the meantime Marshal Foch, hour by hour, is surrounding the German forces with new perils as his strategic conceptions are developed.

CARO HAD "PEACE" CELEBRATION, TOO

Immediately after word was received at Caro Sunday that President Wilson was asked by Germany to bring about peace and communicate with the other belligerents, W. J. Moore started out in his car and heralded the glad news about town. The members of the band and the home guards were soon in uniform, and together with a large number of citizens paraded on State street, business men made short addresses at the Montague hotel, and announced a union meeting to be held at the M. E. church in the evening. After the crowd disbanded the young men and boys made every one think of an old-fashioned Fourth of July; torpedoes, firecrackers and fireworks were fired off until the supply was exhausted.

At the M. E. church in the evening, patriotic talks were made by Rev. A. L. Bell, Rev. Smith, Rev. Arnold, Rev. R. L. Cole, Rev. Hathaway and Rev. Lendrum.

HOTEL AT YALE BURNS ON SUNDAY

The new section of the Harrington hotel at Yale which was recently added to the main building, was destroyed by fire at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, the result of an over heated furnace. Smoke and water ruined the furniture and fixtures in the balance of the hotel. It is estimated the entire loss will amount to over $4,000. The hotel was operated by J. F. Cryler.

Fred Schumm, who was sleeping in the second story of the hotel, in attempting to escape from the burning structure, jumped to the ground, breaking his foot. All other inmates of the hotel escaped injury. The hotel will be rebuilt.

ALBERTA HARD HIT BY FROST IN JULY

A. A. P. McDowell, former editor of the Cass City Enterprise, in a letter to the Chronicle publisher, says:

"This district was hit hard on July 23rd by frost, so that the crop is the smallest in fifteen years or more. However, we are not dependent on grain entirely as we have a good deal of live stock and we will survive all right. I still remember most kindly my Cass City friends and am always glad to know of their welfare.

"My eldest son, Joseph, who enlisted over three years ago, has been in France since early March, is still in the signal service and in the midst of recent activities, but spared injury at last report."

VIGILANCE COMMITTEE VISITS BROOKFIELD FARMER

Several members of the Huron Co. Vigilance Committee made a visit at the home of John Wagester, a well-to-do Brookfield township farmer, Monday night. While Wagester told the committee that this is the grandest country in the world and he would not live in any other, he was the holder of but one $50 bond and had contributed $10.00 to the Red Cross. Before the committee left, he agreed to the purchase of $500 in bonds; also to donate $50 to the Red Cross, the latter being imposed as a fine for hoarding wheat in defiance of the 'aw.

CONTEMPTIBLE SCOUNDRELS.

Certain irresponsible brokers void of patriotism and with chloroformed consciences have been offering artistically engraved certificates representing worthless or near worthless properties in exchange for Liberty Bonds. These unscrupulous dealers have attempted to take advantage of confident individuals unfamiliar with investments in general. Here is the way some of these crooks operate. Taking advantage of the fact that two of the previous loan issues are selling at a fraction under their par value, the dishonest broker approaches his client, offering to accept these Liberty Bonds at par or even higher, in exchange for the bunk stock he is selling. He can well afford to do this, for in many instances the amount he receives from you is practically all profit. We are glad to state that the U. S. Government is on the trail of all brokers (?) of this caliber.

There is no safer investment in the world than Liberty Bonds, and irrespective of temporary quotations which exist, you can rest assured that these bonds are going to sell at a big premium when the war is over.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DEAD

H. B. Snyder Suffered Paralytic Stroke Friday Morning.

Henry B. Snyder suffered a paralytic stroke Friday morning and passed away at his home on Pine St. west, Wednesday morning, October 9. Mr. Snyder has been in ill health for two years, but was confined to his bed but two weeks before his demise.

He was born in New Jersey on July 29, 1837. In early childhood, he came to Michigan and during the Civil War he served in Co. I, 3rd Michigan Infantry. At the close of the war, he was united in marriage with Miss Emma Darby at Lakeville, Mich. Later they moved to Kingstony where they purchased a farm. Twenty years ago, the family moved to Cass City where Mr. and Mrs. Snyder have since resided.

Mr. Snyder was an old and respected resident of Cass City. He was much beloved by his immediate circle of friends.

Besides his wife, he leaves three children, Wm. G. Snyder of Oxford, James H. Snyder of Imlay City and Mrs. Wm. Harrington of Farmington, all of whom are here to attend the funeral services. These will be held this (Friday) afternoon at two o'clock at the M. E. church of which the deceased has been a member for 20 years.

WOMAN'S COM. OF COUNCIL THE NATIONAL DEFENSE

A goodly number of the women of the community attended the regular meeting of the local unit of the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense last Monday evening. The resignation of Mrs. A. A. Hitchcock, treasurer, was accepted, and Miss Johanna McRae was elected to fill the vacancy, Mrs. G. H. Burke being elected reporter. Fine reports from committees were heard and the work of the committee is progressing rapidly. The following is a resolution adopted by the national organization and will of course be observed by all local members.

At Attention. The following resolution was adopted by the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense and has been approved by the Council:

"Whereas it is fitting that civilians as well as soldiers and sailors should adopt some uniform and appropriate manner of expressing their allegiance to their flag when it is displayed and their respect for the national anthem when it is played in their presence: Therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense recommends that as an expression of loyalty and respect to the colors and the national anthem the women of the United States shall stand at attention when the flag is passing or the national anthem is rendered."

The committee has been asked to define the expression "At attention." It means standing erect, eyes front, and arms at sides. Every woman is expected to observe this resolution and urge every other woman to do so whether she may be a member of the committee or not. Her duty may not stop with the women but she may be called upon to remind the men of their duty by setting a faultless example.

LOST PART OF HAND.

Rolla Kotzke, 18, of Elmer, lost his thumb, half of his first finger and part of the palm of his right hand by catching it in a silo filler on the farm of James Rourke. The young man's glove caught in the chain and before he could extract it his hand was carried into the knife box and his thumb and part of his right hand so badly mangled that amputation was necessary.
