One of the features that will claim special attention for the agriculturalists is the tractor exhibit and demonstration. Farmers are interested in the tractor proposition and this exhibit will give them an opportunity to learn the different features of seven well-known tractors which are going to be exhibited.

Another exhibit of interest to farmers is the unusually large showing of May live stock this season. Cattle entries will be unusually strong. Among the larger exhibits will be those of the following breeders: S. F. Bigelow of Cass City will show his fine herd of Hereford cattle; Reagh & Crandell, Cass City, will exhibit their recently purchased herd of Shorthorns; Lou Kelley of Ypsilanti will have his champion herd of Polled Durham cattle on the grounds. Mr. Kelley will also exhibit 200 prize chickens. Chas. Ewing, supt. of the Dairy Cattle department, is rounding up several fine individual exhibits in his section. Geo. Ackerman of Elkton and A. H. Jones of Caro will enter their fine specimens of horses and H. T. Crandell his prize O. I. C. hogs. This is but a summary of the larger exhibits which wil be greatly increased by many smaller and individual entries of live stock and poultry.

Secretary Crandell promises first class special free attractions as well engineers and local labor, so far as for the convenience of those who as good exhibits in the several de- possible: partments. ### $357,125 PAID FOR MILK IN 1918

In the afternoon a program will be HIRES CO. PURCHASED 12,393,913 POUNDS OF MILK AT CASS CITY.

> Nestle's Food Co. Encourages Local Farmers to Produce Higher Grade of Milk.

The importance of the milk industry to this community is apparent from the following figures taken from the statement for the year of 1918, authorized by the Nestle's Food Company which operates the Hires plant at Cass City. The report shows that 12,393,913 pounds of milk were delivered by the farmers of this community for which an aggregate of $357,125.49 was paid, which money found its way into the channels of local trade immediately. In addition to this, the payroll and other items of expenditure on the part of the company added $46,944.00 of wealth to this county.

The Nestle's Food Company at the present time is in the market for practically all the milk that can be tured in an automobile collision two produced in this community, and is miles south of Cass City Tuesday encouraging the local farmers to evening and his daughter who was raise an increased number of cattle and produce a higher grade of milk.

Because of a tremendous export demand for milk and milk products, the present level of prices is reasonably certain to continue for an indefinite period, notwithstanding certain agitation on the part of political leaders in some of the larger cities.

DAIRY CATTLE MEN PLAN GREAT MEETING

Michigan Holstein-Friesian Breeders Will Gather at M. A. C. on August 23.

The greatest meeting of dairy cattle men ever held in the state has ers will gather on the campus of the Michigan Agricultural College for a big midsummer meeting and basket picnic. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Michigan Holstein-Friesian Association and of the 25 district and county Holstein breeders' organizations from over

Hon. D. D. Aitken of Flint, the principal speaker of the day, will discuss a stale-wide extension and publicity movement in the interests of dairying and of Holstein-Friesian cattle. The proposed work will be carried on in co-operation with the Hols ein-Fries an Association of America. The national association, of which Mr. Aitken is the president, is the largest association of its kind in the world, having a membership of 15,000, an increase of 3,000 during the past year. This association has set aside a fund of $100,000 to be used for extension purposes during the coming year. The officers of all the local Holstein associations in the state met recently at East Lansing and voted unanimously to cooperate with the national association in the state-wide campaign in Michigan. The big meeting on August 23 was called primarily for the purpose of perfecting the necessary organization to carry on the work.

Many of the local associations have cancelled arrangements for picnics during August, in order to get behind the state meeting at the college with their entire force, and the committees in charge predict a record breakthe meeting.

SELLING LAMBS BY MAIL.

A new way to fight the high cost of living has been discovered by Lincoln Braden, a farmer living at Carbon, California. Mr. Braden has taken to marketing the product of his flook of sheep through the mail, and finds that he can dispose of his lamb crop at a splendid profit this way. This enterprising Californian does his own butchering. He then wraps the lamb quarters in white cloth and paper, with a burlap cover, and mails them out to his customers.

MODEL E-40 TOURING

One of the specialists employed for this new Six is a long-famous body designer. This new-style body is his creation, built by our experts in our own body plant.

The designer of this body has spent many years perfecting these low, straight-line effects. He has worked out more than two score of designs, each an advance on the others. So this new body comes pretty close to the ultimate, we think.

For this new Mitchell we adopted a new color which has gained vast popularity. We adopted a new finish, using four varnish coats instead of the usual two. This to give a more enduring finish.

In the body frame we use material costing twice the usual. This for a stauncher body. The steel frame below is made  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches deeper, adding 50 per cent to its strength.

We use interlaced hair in the upholstery, because it stays in place. We have adopted a top which will not grow shabby, because drivers now generally leave their tops up.

MORE COMFORT—MORE ROOM

Note that the wheelbase is 120 inches—an unusual length for 5-passenger cars. This means more room and a more impressive car.

We are using a ball-bearing steering gear, which does away with jerks and jars and does not tire the driver.

We have fitted a perfect disc clutch. A new rear axle is adopted, showing 50 per cent more strength. Brake efficiency is increased 75 per cent. The gears are 25 per cent stronger by crushing test. A new hardening process insures uniformity.

The motors, axles and transmission are tested on modern machines installed for this car. The complete chassis is tested in a like way. We use long cantilever rear springs which make this car the most comfortable car in the world. We have used the same springs on 40,000

Mitchells, and not one spring has broken.—From the Mitchell Six Catalog.

Get Efficiency From Your Tractor

EEP it in service constantly. The one best way to do that is to give it all the lubricating oil it will take, providing you select the correct oil.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has produced three oils which will correctly lubricate the entire range of tractors. These are:

Heavy Polarine Oil Stanolind Tractor Oil Extra Heavy Polarine Oil

Any Standard Oil representative will be glad to show you the chart of Tractor lubrication, prepared by our Engineering Staff. It indicates specifically which of these three oils the Standard Oil Engineers have found will give the best results in your particular tractor.

We have just published a 100page book, "Tractors and Tractor Lubrication," prepared by our Engineering Staff, which you will find a valuable reference book, and we believe it will save you many days of tractor idleness with the resultant money loss.

ERS MIGHT HAVE BENEFITED BY TYPEWRITER -A contributor to one of the current magazines deplores the fact that Benjamin Franklin had no typewriter. He says, and truthfully, that if the great man had not been compelled to use a pen and pencil, he could have accomplished much more than he did-a statement that is so obvious it is hardly worth quoting. The same thing can be said of all other great men-of Washington and Jefferson and all the They accomplished much: they left a greater volume of writing than men do in the days of the typewriter. But the fact remains that with a typewriter any man can accomplish about four times as much as he could accomplish with pen and inkin the way of recording his thoughts, if he sees fit to do so. But the contributor overlooks one thing, namely, that the matter of writing it down is not all of a thinker's work, observes Columbus Dispatch. If Franklin had had a typewriter, he would not have been hammering it all the time. It would have aided him greatly; he would have had more time in which to do his thinking; he would not have had to spend so much time over a desk scrawling with a poor pen. But it is debatable whether he would have actually produced more literature than he did.

Charles Dickens wrote all of his novels with a quill. He could have done the writing in half the time on a typewriter, and the printers would have saved half their time. But in these days of the typewriter we have no novelists who are turning out good literature any more rapidly than Dickens did.

Thomas Jefferson left a whole library of his writing and he wrote with a primitive pen. So, while the typewriter is one of the greatest of time savers, while it gives an increased product, and a more easily read product, the fact is that the men of today are not doing any more writing than was done when the matter had to be scratched upon a sheet of paper with a stick or quill.

Warring Instinct Survives in Groups Explained by Writer in Scientific Journal.

Is not the fighting instinct something very different from the warring in-

The fighting instinct, answers Alleyne Ireland in the Journal of Heredity-that is to say, the instinct for personal combat, is an individual trait, finding an individual expression, as, for instance, in the "bad" man of the early mining camps. having a very low survival value in a modern civilized environment, is probably disappearing under the pressure of a gradual elimination of the males, in which it is strongly developed.

The warring instinct, on the other hand, is a group phenomenon, and is simply one phase of the instinct of gregariousness. As such it has a high survival value in the conflict between human groups, and it is not subject to an eliminating pressure. It is a mistake to suppose that the warring instinct is weakened by long periods of peace. In order that this effect should appear we should have to accept the inheritance of traits acquired from the environment a theory to which the opinion of biologists is almost universally opposed.

In the fertile Campagna near Lahore, India, are the popular Shahlimar gardens, the "Abode of Love," laid out along rectangular lines, like all Mogul gardens, with a shallow tank in center in which artificial waters play on Sundays, with long esplanades built out over the water for promenading and every now and then a beautiful little marble pavilion, the whole set in ternaces of banana groves and dense foliage, and pulsing with the croaking of countless thousands of frogs and the subdued twittering of tropical birds.

It is here that once a year "Purdah," or seclusion, parties are held, when the gardens are closed to all but the Anglo-Indian and Indian ladies with their children, who spend the long day picnicking on the terraces, drinking tea and playing games and paving especial homage to the new brides of

Why He Was Confident.

Sir John Foster Frazer said at an insurance men's banquet at Hart-

"I used to know a theatrical manager who had a great many ups and downs. He never, though, came to actual grief, for, by the strangest good luck, whenever a show was, a failure, and he couldn't meet his expenses, then-by the strangest good luck, as I said before-his theater would burn down, and the insurance would put him on his feet again.

"I met him the other day. He told me he had just taken over the Knickerbocker theater in Tenth street.

"'How do you think the place will go?' he asked.

"'Fine,' I answered. 'Fine. Why, hang it, man, it's all wood."

Cultivate Confidence.

The man or woman who ventures much, may fail often, but he will achieve in proportion to those very failures because he will use each one as a stepping stone to higher effort. But the man or woman who quibbles, reconsiders, hesitates and weighs every gain against a greater loss, is a predestined failure, because his very attitude of mind courts that condition which he should avoid.—Exchange.

One-Sided Humor.

After the company had gone, Mrs Mason said to her husband, "What on earth did you mean, John, by telling the Flemings that my humor was positive, but not negative?" "I meant," said Mr. Mason discreetly moving toward the door, "that you could make a joke, but couldn't take one!"

Animals in Captivity.

Beauty of the Dawn.

It is at dawn that the world awakes rested and refreshed from a night's sleep as a man awakes rested and refreshed from good slumber. The breath of the world is sweetest at dawn, its face is fairest then, its voice more musical and harmonious. The dust and the grime of the day have been brushed from it.

A Great Record. Gen. John Brown Kerr, who was born in Kentucky seventy-two years ago, was the hero of what the late General Miles declared to be the most daring exploit in the history of Indian warfare. In 1891 Kerr, at the head of a brave band of 20 men, found himself surrounded by more than 100 South Dakota Sioux Indians. Outnumbered five to one, Kerr and his men fought so valiantly and handled their guns with such effect that many of the braves were killed and the remainder surrendered.

"Some men hate work," said Uncle Eben, "an' a lot more never git well enough acquainted with it to so much as dislike it."

What He Wanted.

> Bobby had been given three cents to spend as he and his younger brother saw fit. Having heard much garden talk, and being attracted by a display of garden seeds, he came home with three packages of vegetable seeds, eager to get them planted at once. Hearing something about the proposed planting of some flower seeds. he insisted on planting his, saying to his mother as a final argument: "Mother, we don't want flower seeds; we want

Billy was seated on the nursery floor playing with his blocks, when his grandmother entered the room and with the swish of her skirts knocked down the house Billy was erecting. For this she apologized. Billy said nothing, but proceeded to rebuild; grandmother in repassing again knocked down the house of blocks.
