The groom is a prosperous farmer while the bride has many friends at Cass City who join the Chronicle in wishing them many years of happiness together. They will reside on the groom's farm near Caro.

TWO CASS CITY MEN VICTIMS IN ACCIDENTS

Amasa Anthes Had Narrow Escape from Death Last Wednesday.

Amasa Anthes was the victim in a serious accident at the plant of the Cass City Sand and Gravel Co. last Wednesday. Though badly injured, he was fortunate in escaping a frightful death.

Workmen had difficulty in starting the conveyor belt which carries the gravel to the bins, as the belt kept slipping on the pulley. Mr. Anthes was near the top of the bins and at this high elevation he placed a burlap sack between the belt and pulley in an endeavor to start the belt at work.

While thus engaged, his hand and arm were drawn to the pulley and he could not extricate them. The revolving pulley burned his hand, arm and hip very badly and he hung in this perilous position three or four minutes before he was noticed by his fellow workmen. They stopped the machinery as quickly as possible and he was removed from the dangerous position.

Had the maneuvers of Mr. Anthes been successful in starting the belt after his hand and arm were drawn to the pulley, his body would undoubtedly have followed the course of the belt and been badly mangled.

Harry Leepla fell a distance of 24 feet Monday on the Morrell farm, five miles north of the Proctor school house, when the scaffold broke, on which he was working in constructing a cement silo. An X-ray examination revealed three broken bones in one of his heels as the result of the fall. His back was also sprained. He was brought to his home in Cass City.

PLANS TO TAKE RURAL TEACHER'S JOB

State Head Will Make Trial of New Methods in Country Schools.

T. E. Johnson, state superintendent of public instruction is about to embark on a novel enterprise. He has made arrangements whereby he will become teacher in a typical rural school in Clinton county for a period of one month.

In returning to rural pedagogy Mr. Johnson does not enter upon duties of which he has no knowledge having taught country school in his day, and he again takes charge of the bell, ruler and pointer with the laudable purpose of testing modern methods. Speaking of the plans Mr. Johnson said today: "This work has been entered into with the hearty co-operation of the commissioner of Clinton county, Miss Mattie Smith, and the teacher of Mrs. Amy Maier. We hope to demonstrate by this experiment the work that can be done in the rural school by the use of intelligence tests and the proficiency measurements. I believe that these can be successfully used in the rural school. It is also desired to work out some practical way of handling the project method of teaching, using the entire school group in the work and further to show the desirability and the value of the trained teacher for the rural school. By these varied processes of course the limitations of this type of school will be clearly set forth, which

CHARLOTTE REPUBLICAN PICKS TEN BIG MEN

Warden Otis Fuller and Congressman Fordney Justly Given Seats in the Hall of Fame.

From Charlotte Republican: The Republican pulled an editorial "boner" last week when we said Dr. J. H. Kellogg is one of the "biggest ten" men in Michigan. The statement stands just as it was made, but now comes along a good friend and politely asks for the balance of the list. This is some job, but here are the other nine: Chas. S. Osborn, W. N. Ferris, Henry Ford, Justice Joseph H. Steers, Edgar Guest, Arthur H. Vandenberg, Dean M. E. Cooley, Warden Otis Fuller and Congressman J. W. Fordney. Every trade and profession has its distinctive leaders, local and state, but the above men are picked for their statewide reputation, several extending beyond the confines of Michigan. Any one would have to be hopelessly biased who would not concede Chas. S. Osborn a place on such a list. Michigan has no more versatile man, and as an orator he is in the first division, no matter how limited you make the field. Former Governor Ferris made his school a

EVANGELIST NEWLIN CALLS A SPADE A SPADE.

Three Great Services Are Announced for Next Sunday, Sept. 12.

NEWLINISMS.

"The Gospel has not lost its power, but its opportunity."

"Some do not go to church because of Sunday company; every time you do that you miss better company than you ever had or ever will have."

"We have a lot of American heathen who feel as much out of place in a church as a hobo does in the Waldorf Astoria, and would know just about as much of what is coming on the bill of fare."

"Some do not go to church because they say the church is so imperfect. Well you will never find a perfect church and if you did and joined it, it would be imperfect."

"What did you talk about when you went home from church last Sunday? The message or the messenger? It does not matter how the minister is dressed but his message is the main thing."

"You forget all about how the messenger boy is dressed when he brings you a startling telegram."

The great day which Cass City churches have been looking forward to and for which the people of God have been earnestly praying for was realized last Sabbath in good measure.

The tent having failed to arrive, both opening services were held at the First Methodist church. The congregations were large and well representative. Rev. O. R. Grattan introduced Rev. Dr. Newlin and James Heaton, the singer, in a few well chosen remarks.

Mr. Heaton led the service in song and Dr. Newlin preached from Romans 1:16: "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." It was a powerful sermon and some will not soon forget the four points, which the evangelist gave, namely, who, where, what and why. Who said the words? Paul, the scholar and preacher. Where? At Rome. What—Gospel. Why—Power of God unto salvation.

At the evening meeting following the inspiring song service and the impressive solo by Mr. Heaton, who

AND THIS HAPPENED IN CASS CITY 19 YEARS AGO

(From the Tri-County Chronicle of April 19, 1901.)

Early Tuesday morning it was whispered on the streets that the "horseless age" would make its appearance in our midst about four o'clock on the same day. Accordingly when the thing loomed up in the west and majestically entered upon our broad avenue those of our townspeople who had caught the 20th century spirit were out to watch the wonder. Truly it was a sight! A wagon without an ox or horse going at a 2:40 gait. It made a noise too. This led an Irishman to remark: "Howly Moses, shure an' it's a mule. The critter has got himself under the wheels. Do yez hear him snort?" To say that the scene was enjoyed by young and old is putting it mildly. Quite naturally the occupants of the horseless carriage came in for considerable attention for it was none other than W. J. Moore, the proprietor of the Moore Telephone System, who is the proud possessor of the automobile, and Postmaster Slocum accompanied by his son, William. Mr. Moore had the kindness to invite I. B. Auten and the Chronicle editor to take a spin with him. This was a treat of a lifetime and of course was highly enjoyed in spite of the uncertain feeling which possessed us when the "critter" made a break for John Gordon's cellar.

The trip from Caro to Cass City was made in an hour and a half. The return trip which was made partially after dark took ten minutes longer. Of course the event of the appearance of the "horseless age" in our 20 century town could not be passed by without some extra doings. Mr. Auten was equal for the occasion and John Gordon's Tavern was the place where his liberality was exemplified. The riders of the horseless carriage had a 20th century appetite and the proverbial culinary art at John Gordon's Tavern was of a decidedly 20th century character and hence both blended into a harmonious whole.

FARM PRODUCE BUYS LAND; WILL ERECT HOUSES

Recent Purchase Transfers to Company Eight Lots of the Sugar Farm.

The Farm Produce Co. has purchased four lots east of J. J. Spence's residence on Church St. and four more lots directly north of these from David Law.

The company intends to start at once in erecting two residences on two of the lots on Church St. and may erect more houses this fall though no definite decision has been made regarding more than the two first mentioned. The residences will be offered for sale, not rented.

Cass City has felt the need of additional homes for several months and the growth of the town has been hampered because of the scarcity of residences. This move on the part of The Farm Produce Co. is welcomed and it is hoped that the company may see fit to erect more soon and their example followed by others.

Bro. Shaw of the Cooper house is a man past the flower of his age, yet all females should rise up and call him blessed. His spare time is spent destroying the pesky sandburr—and every observer well knows that the transparent hosiery of our day is no match for the Satanic sandburr.

A Kingstone must have seen the returns. He was up here a few days before the primary with an open purse and bet two to one that Sister Hoover would be scooped in the race for treasurership. Stop weeping, brother.

No selling out reported from the Town Line the past week.

Mr. Pease of Koylton visits his sister, Mrs. Minerva Lewis.

Geo. Spencer suffers with a lame back.

We talked with William Courliss of Cass City a few days ago. He will move his household effects here this week into his new purchase, then he will go to Ann Arbor to get treatment for his ailment which doctors call by various names.

Where the prize fight is pulled off Sept. 6 is a young city. The writer lived there in the early 60's. At that time Benton Harbor had but one boarding house, and one saloon, and attached to the saloon was a boxing school. It was born a sporting city. Sports came to it from Chicago and that is why it calls for the half civilized contests at this age. We will wager, although many weathy men are there, that they could not raise $100.00 to entertain Billie Sunday.

national circles as any Michigan college president. Midas was a curbstone speculator compared to Henry Ford's quickly acquired wealth; his factory organization is the greatest on earth and he is entitled to a place despite his unfamiliarity with the classics.

There are only a few modern Socrates. Justice Steere of the Supreme Court is picked as the legal member of the group. No one can much question this selection. For thirty years he served his circuit without opposition and when appointed he at once took first rank in the State's Supreme Court. He is a great student. Edgar Gueist is easily Michigan's leading poet and has entertained thousands with his quaint philosophy, spoken and through his daily column in the Free Press. Arthur H. Vandenberg, editor of the Grand Rapids Herald, is chosen as the journalistic representative. This is really the one place over which he had some personal doubt.

"Jim" Schermerhorn of the Detroit Times, Harry Nimmo of the Detroit Saturday Night could easily be chosen, in fact there are several strong country editors in Michigan, notably Frank Russell of the Marquette Mining Journal, Arthur Stace of the Grand Rapids Press, J. N. McCall of Ithaca, C. C. Vaughan of St. Johns, Arthur Trainor of the Saginaw News.

Stuart Perry of Adrian, Louis Wiel of the Port Huron Times-Herald, A. P. Johnson of the Grand Rapids News, the Cooks of the Hastings Banner, A. L. Miller of the Battle Creek Enquirer-News, Stanley Banyan of Benton Harbor, Harry Whitely of Dowagiac, Robert Douglas of Ironwood, Pat O'Brien of Iron River, Homer Guck, late of the Houghton Mining Gazette, Tom Conlin of Crystal Falls, F. F. Rowe of Kalamazoo, Frank Nellis of Mt. Clemens are all strong writers and leaders of thought far beyond their local confines. The above newspaper list, however, we believe, would regard Vandenberg as a representative choice, notwithstanding his home competitor, the Press, is to our mind the second most influential newspaper in Michigan.

Vandenberg is a splendid public speaker—one of the best—as is A. P. Johnson, of the Grand Rapids News. Dean Cooley of the engineering department of the University is known wherever engineering is taught and followed. He is both aggressive and charming and we are glad to nominate him for a place in the "big ten."

Congressman Fordney of Saginaw is self-made, a good strong speaker, loyal to his friends and is known wherever the Republican party is a factor in affairs. Warden Fuller completes the list. He is the oldest prison warden in point of service in the United States. Fuller is a former newspaper man, intensely practical, physical and mental courage in big quantities and a man's man. The clergy is deliberately omitted for the reason each denomination has a leader who automatically becomes the head of the church, like Bishop Henderson and Bishop Kelly, respective heads of the great Methodist and Catholic organizations in Michigan. Looking back over twenty years if we are going to name a church man who has done much to mould public thought in Michigan our choice would be Dr. Samuel Dicke of Albion College. Now you pick ten.

On the matter of the consolidation of schools the superintendent says: "Recognizing the situation in the rural school, namely that both buildings and equipment are inadequate, and that the teacher is frequently underpaid, and that the curriculum is crowded of necessity, the question of the solution arises. In most states the answer has been found in the consolidation of the schools. The usual method is for three or more districts to combine and put up a building which will be a credit to the district and will provide for everything which should be presented in the course. Not only is the child given the benefit of a good school but the old disagreeable walk under questionable moral conditions is done away with and the child is enabled to receive every thing a city child gets and the advantage of maintaining the rural viewpoint is preserved."

"Within the last year twenty-six consolidated districts have been established, and had there been sufficient force in the department of public instruction it would have been possible to establish many more. The next five years should see several hundred of these consolidations established in Michigan. In Iowa where the work has been progressing rapidly nearly 200 were established in the past year."

Out of this work Mr. Johnson expects to get together facts on which to ask the legislature for laws which will enable the department to broaden its scope in every way and do for schools of this class the things which will make them a success as well as carry on other work for the benefit of the public schools system of the state.

Ponzi Paid Not.

Ponzi promised fifty per cent. Some few received the fifty per cent but many received no interest and lost their principal besides.

When people approach you with a promise of big profits, just remember that it's better to obtain a reasonable rate of interest and have your principal remain secure than to take a chance at an impossible profit and lose your investment.

After all it's a pretty good feeling to know that your money is in a good bank which pays you interest regularly and your principal whenever you wish it.

This bank is here to serve you and your friends.

BUILD YOUR SILO NOW!

Before Your Corn Ripens

RIGHT NOW—before corn cutting time is one day nearer, build a silo. It will give you feed with all the milk-producing, beef-building qualities of June pastures the year around. More milk, quicker feeding, better manure—actual dollars in your pocket. It will pay for itself in one year.

Build a Tecktonius Wood Stave Silo. It makes silage right, and keeps it right. No waiting for deliveries. We have Tecktonius Silos here, now—and with the foundation in, you can

Build the Tecktonius in 1 or 2 Days

The vital silage making processes are absolutely dependent upon the heat generated in the silo not being allowed to escape, and the outside air not being allowed to enter.

The silo must be air-tight. This is where wood proves its superiority for silos. Of all building materials, it is the very best non-conductor of heat. Held air-tight, the wood silo keeps the heat in and cold out. Here is where the Tecktonius excels all others—its patented fixtures hold the staves rigidly locked together, keeping the silo absolutely air-tight the year around.

TECKTONIUS SILO

Makes Silage Right Keeps it Right

Self-Adjusting Hoop Fastener

Its take-up spring automatically exerts a constant pull on the hoops that keep the silo air-tight regardless of stave shrinkage.

Perfecting Fitting Hinge Door

You can put on with one hand, and have one free to hold to the ladder—locks securely at 4 corners, insuring perfect fit; swings into silo clear of door opening, allowing you to get in or out easily.

Can't Twist, Creep, Lean or Blow Over

Tried and proven—it has been the leader in wood silos for years.

Built of perfectly matched staves, the Tecktonius is kept air-tight 12 months in the year—and the staves can't buckle or warp out of shape. Its patented Self-Adjusting Spring Hoop Fasteners take up all shrinkage of the staves.

The Tecktonius can't creep, twist, lean or blow over, for it is securely bolted, and anchored, inside and out, in a rock-like concrete foundation, and tied down with staunch, steel cables.

Immediate Delivery

No waiting—we have Tecktonius Silos here ready for you—and 2 days after you take one home, you can have it up and completed. Come in, and see how easily and quickly you can build this silo, and how much better it is than any other silo you have ever seen. See what you get before buying.

HARDING GLAD AMERICANS ARE A FREE PEOPLE

In Speech to Indiana Delegation Republican Nominee Declares for Security at Home.

EUROPE HAS EVEN NOW QUIT WILSON'S LEAGUE

Yet Democratic Party Leaders Would Have Us Bound by Original Pact With No American Safeguards.

"STEADY AMERICA!"

"Mindful of our splendid example and renewing every obligation of association in war, I want America to be the rock of security at home, resolute in righteousness and unalterable in security and supremacy of the law.

"Let us be done with wiggling and wobbling.

"Steady America! Let us assure good fortune to all."

—Senator Warren G. Harding in address before the Indiana delegation at Marion.

Marion, O. (Special.)—Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for President, in a speech delivered to a delegation from Indiana which called on him here to pledge the support of Indiana Republicans, declared that twice President Wilson had an opportunity to obtain ratification of the League of Nations covenant and that he put ratification aside because he would not accept reservations designed solely to safeguard American rights. Senator Harding said:

"I greet you in a spirit of rejoicing; not a rejoicing in the narrow personal or partisan sense, not in the gratifying prospect of party triumph; not in the contemplation of abundance in the harvest fields and ripening corn fields and maturing orchards; not in the reassuring approach of stability after a period of wiggling and wobbling which magnified our uncertainty—though all of these are ample for our wide rejoicing—but I rejoice that America is still free and independent and in a position of self-reliance and holds to the right of self-determination, which are priceless possessions in the present turbulence of the world.

"Let us suppose the senate had ratified the peace treaty containing the league covenant as submitted to it by the president in July of last year, what would be the situation confronting our common country today? To my mind there is but one answer. Before this day we would have been called upon to fulfill the obligations which we had assumed under Article 10 of the league covenant, to preserve the territorial integrity of Poland 'as against external aggression.'

Sympathy for Poland.

"I shall not now attempt to measure the boundless sympathy for the just aspirations and restored independence of Poland. Our present concern is the international situation which Poland has brought to our attention.

"The council of the League of Nations would have reasoned, and reasoned correctly, that the United States could furnish the munitions and, if necessary, the men to withstand the hordes advancing from Russia far more easily than could the exhausted nations of Europe. Moreover, inasmuch as this would be the first test of the scheme of world government which was formulated and demanded by the President, speaking for the United States, the fact of a special responsibility, resting upon our shoulders, manifestly would have been undeniable. Undoubtedly the league council, in advising upon the means by which the obligations to Poland should be fulfilled, as provided in the covenant, would have so held, and probably the conscience of America, certainly the opinion of the world, would have sustained that judgment.

"The conclusion that our country might now be confronted by such a situation, if the senate had ratified the league covenant, requires no stretch of the imagination. None can deny that it is possible. To many candid minds, as to my own, such a distressing situation will seem highly probable. Let us assume that the ratification had taken place. Let us assume, further, that the performance of the allotted task required the waging of war upon the Russian people, as, of course, it would, what would result? What would necessarily have to result? Nothing necessarily, we are glibly informed, since only the Congress can declare war, and the Congress might reject the appeal of the executive. But would the Congress do that? Could the Congress do that without staining indelibly the honor of the nation?"

Answer Is "No."

"I answer 'No,' and I say it not on my own authority alone. Back of my judgment stands the President of the United States. Upon that point there is first-hand information. In the course of the discussion which took place at the meeting of the President and the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations I raised the question by stating a hypothetical case precisely analogous to that which I have depicted, and then inquired whether we might not rightfully be regarded as a perfidious people if we should fail to contribute an armed force, if called upon to do so. The President first replied, as I thought somewhat evasively, that we would be our own judges as to whether we were obliged in those circumstances to act in that way or not. Pressed further, however, in response to a query incorporating the assumption that 'the case provided for and prescribed had arisen' and that 'the extraneous attack did exist precisely as it does exist today in Poland,' the President admitted specifically that 'we would be untrue if we did not keep our word.'

"Replying further to a question which perhaps I ought not to have considered necessary, the President pronounced a moral obligation 'of course, superior to a legal obligation' and 'of a greater binding force.'

"What, then, becomes of the argument that Congress, not the President, in this instance at any rate, might 'keep us out of war?' Technically, of course, it could do so. Morally, with equal certainty, it could not do so nor would it ever do so. The American people would never permit a repudiation of a debt of honor.

"Am I not right, my countrymen, in saying that we needed only the outbreak of war between Poland and Russia to make us realize at least one of the things which, in the words of Secretary Lansing, we would have been 'let in for,' but for the restraining hand of the senate, and to fetch home to us the danger of committing our country in advance to causes that we know not of?"

Not Our Purpose.

"One can have no quarrel with those who have convinced themselves that our underlying purpose in entering the great conflict was to create a league of nations. The fact remains, however, that no such intent was officially proclaimed, no allusion, nor even a suggestion to that effect appeared in the joint resolution of Congress which declared the existence of a state of war between this country and Germany.

"For myself I left no room for doubt of the motives which led me to cast my vote in favor of that resolution. It so happened that I made the concluding speech upon the war resolution, from my place in the senate, on the night of April 4, 1917. These were my own words at that time:

"I want it known to the people of my state and to the nation that I am voting for war tonight for the maintenance of just American rights, which is the first essential to the preservation of the soul of this republic.

"I vote for this joint resolution to make war, not a war thrust upon us, if I could choose the language of the resolution, but a war declared in response to affronts; a war that will at least put a soul into our American life; a war not for the cause of the allies of Europe; a war not for France, beautiful as the sentiment may be in reviving at least our gratitude to the French people; not precisely a war for civilization, worthy and inspiring as that would be; but a war that speaks for the majesty of a people properly governed, who finally are brought to the crucial test where they are resolved to get together and wage a conflict for the maintenance of their rights and the preservation of the covenant inherited from their fathers.

"We have given to the world the spectacle of a great nation that could make war without selfish intent. We unsheathed the sword some eighteen years ago for the first time in the history of the world, in the name of humanity, and we gave proof to the world at that time of an unselfish nation. Now, whether it is the fate, or fortune, or travail of destiny, it has come to us to unsheathe the sword again, not alone for humanity's sake—through that splendid inspiration will be involved—but to unsheathe the sword against a great power in the maintenance of the rights of the republic, in the maintenance which will give to us a new guaranty of nationality. That's the great thing, and I want it known, Mr. President and senators, that this is the impelling thought with me for one, when I cast my vote."

For Same Guaranty Today.

"It is for that same guaranty of nationality that I stand today, and shall continue to stand inflexibly, so long as I shall be permitted to live. The independence of our great republic is to me a priceless and sacred inheritance. Time was when an American did not hesitate to proclaim himself a patriot. To do so now, I am well aware, is sometimes to invite the sneers of cynicism. But, why should any true American not be free to say: 'I am a patriot, wholly devoted to my country, which I hold to be God's best inspiration to man for higher attainment and the promotion of the world's best civilization?'"

"But I have a special reason for making this reference today. I challenge the statement that the patriotism which holds America first comprehends either narrowness or selfishness, or as implying tacit suspicion and jealousy of other peoples.

"To assert, as some have asserted heedlessly, that those of us who honestly believe that America can best serve all mankind as America, free and untrammeled, rather than as one in a pitiable minority among many states in merged world government, lack consciousness of the rightful demands of humanity, is to utter a gross and unpardonable libel. To attribute meanness to those of us who, in the performance of our public duty, refused to participate in what we sincerely regarded as a betrayal of our own country in the interest of others, is to discredit the intelligence and discrimination of the great mass of American people who directly, by their votes, put us in our positions of trust. For myself, I yield to no man in willingness, aye, in eagerness, to render the greatest conceivable assistance to the stricken peoples of Europe. I include all of them and speak with a genuinely sympathetic heart, whether it is to mention devastated France, or sorely-tried Italy, or nobly-struggling Poland, or distracted and misguided Russia, or gallant little Belgium, or pitifully deceived Austria, or the ruthless invader, Germany, which came to the supreme tragedy through a leadership which brought disaster to her misguided people.

"It was with that feeling of sympathy and desire to serve, that most reluctantly and with grave misgivings, as I announced at the time, I with reservations designed to preserve the essential liberty of action. The record is made, and under the same conditions, confronted by the same alternative, I should vote now as I voted then.

Conditions Have Changed.

"But the conditions have changed. Experience has brought enlightenment. We know now that the league constituted at Versailles is utterly impotent as a preventive of wars. It is so obviously impotent that it has not even been tried. The original league, mistakenly conceived and unreasonably insisted upon, has undoubtedly passed beyond the possibility of restoration. The maturer judgment of the world will be that it deserved to pass for the very simple reason that, contrary to all of the tendencies developed by the civilizing processes of the world, it rested upon the power of might, not of right.

"The assertion is made frequently that through the surrender of our nationality we might have saved the life of the covenant—that is to say, that, although twenty-eight nations could not make it function, one added to the twenty-eight would have achieved a glowing success, provided, always, that the one were America.

"This pays to America the tribute of exceptional influence, but I suggest that if the world is dependent upon our action to bring about the supreme realization, then we ought to have the say about our own freedom in particular therein. But let us consider what is meant by this reliance upon America. What can it signify if not that it is to the United States, and to the United States alone, that the other twenty-eight nations look for the bone and sinew, the money, the munitions and the men to sustain the entire organization, not as an agency of peace, but as an armed force?"

A Telling Admission.

"A few days ago a delegation of an organization which calls itself a Society for the Prevention of War appealed to the premier of Great Britain to unite and use the powers of the world in defense of Poland, Armenia and the Dardanelles. The British premier replied, according to his remarks quoted by the newspapers, to the effect that, while the formation of 'an international army' would be 'an ideal solution,' it could not be accomplished because the European nations could not furnish the troops and the United States had 'withdrawn from co-operation'—a polite and diplomatic phrase and more exactly meaning, of course, that the senate of the United States had not completed the partial obligation assumed by the President to do that very thing—that is, to 'furnish the troops.' Could a clearer indication of what would have been expected of this country as a member of the league be desired? Hardly. Some, too, think or say they think that this extraordinary service should be rendered. I do not agree with them, but, assuming that they are right, I venture to note that nothing stands in the way of performance. The President has only to call upon Congress to declare war, and to confer upon him specific authority to raise armies for the protection of the powers which, though recently associated with, are still foreign to our own republic.

"It is reasonably safe to assume, however, that the President will not pursue this course. Fortunately, he is under no 'compelling moral obligation' under the league to do so. His recent unhappy experience, moreover, in asking Congress to send American boys to police Armenia would hardly encourage repetition of a request already courteously but quite firmly declined by the Congress. What then, in like circumstances, would be the answer of the British premier himself? In his own words, addressing a meeting of the Coalition Liberals on August 12 last, according to the press reports, he said:

"When the terrible question of peace or war has to be decided, our first duty as a government is to the people, who trust us not to commit their treasure to any unjustifiable adventure. Nothing but the most imperative call of national honor, national safety and national freedom can justify war. Before this country is committed to it, even in the most limited form, we must be satisfied that these are in peril."

"I quote these telling words, my countrymen, with the utmost satisfaction, because with one amendment they express to a nicety my own position. I take for granted that the prime minister meant to include in 'treasure' the greatest treasure of all, but, for myself, I should leave nothing to be inferred. Foremost and above all else to be safeguarded by those of us who hold the trust of the people, it goes without saying, but cannot be too often repeated, is the manhood of the nation.

Will Not Misuse Power.

"Now, it may appear to you that I have been speaking chiefly in the negative. I make the admission. What is more, I might continue to do so almost indefinitely without disadvantage to our cause. So many things have been done by the present expiring administration that no power on earth could induce me to do, that I cannot even attempt to recount them. I may remark casually, however, that if I should be, as I fully expect to be, elected President of this just and honorable republic, I will not empower an assistant secretary of the navy to draft a constitution for helpless neighbors, in the West Indies and Jam it down their throats at the point of bayonets borne by United States marines. We have a higher service for our gallant marines than that. Nor will I misuse the power of the executive to cover with a veil of secrecy repeated acts of unwarranted interference in domestic affairs of the little republics of the western hemisphere, such as in the past few years have not only made enemies of those who should be our friends, but have rightfully discredited our country as their trusted neighbor.

Will Submit to No Wrong.

"On the other hand, I will not or shall not, as you prefer, submit to any wrong against any American citizen, with respect to either his life or his property, by any government. This statement is made in all solemnity, with enmity for none and friendship for all. If it particularly applies to Mexico, the application has been directed by the robbery and murder of hundreds of our own people in that unhappy country who were lawfully there and were entitled to protection. One must admit that these outrages upon Americans are largely the consequences of the wiggling and wobbling, the supine waiting of our own government, though the admission neither helps the hurt, nor gives the hope of security for the future while the present administration remains in power, or when one in 'complete accord' succeeds it.

"This admonition is not directed exclusively toward our next door neighbor to whom we would gladly hold forth a helping hand, and whom primarily, certainly in preference to far off peoples in Europe, Asia and Africa, it is our manifest duty to serve with a whole heart and generous tolerance. It is intended for a plain notice to every government on the face of the earth that the entire resources of this nation are pledged to maintain the sacredness of American lives and the just protection of American properties.

Line of Demarcation Plain.

"The line of demarcation between our attitude and that of our political opponents is perfectly plain. The president has made his position clear by his acts no less than by his words. Twice there came to him an opportunity to obtain ratification at the hands of the senate and twice he put the opportunity aside, because he would not accept reservations designed solely to safeguard American rights. He still holds Article 10 to be the heart of the covenant. So does the Democratic nominee. To assume that the nominee would accept the reservations rejected by the President and denounce by the party platform is to impugn his integrity. To insinuate, as those who are proclaiming themselves for the Democratic candidate and 'the league with reservations' do insinuate that he would pursue such a course in seeking ratification is not to pay him a compliment, but rather to challenge his sincerity.

"For myself I do not question for a moment the truth of what the Democratic nominee says on this subject. He has flatly said he is 'in favor of going in' on the basis announced by the President. I am not. That is the whole difference between us, but it is a most vital one, because it involves the disparity between a world court of justice supplemented by a world association for conference, on the one hand, and the council of the league, on the other.

The Difference.

"The difference between a court of international justice and the council created by the league covenant is simple but profound.

"The one is a judicial tribunal to be governed by fixed and definite principles of law administered without passion or prejudice. The other is an association of diplomats and politicians whose determinations are sure to be influenced by considerations of expediency and national selfishness.

"I do not mean to say, nor do I mean to permit any such construction, that I would decline to co-operate with other nations in an honest endeavor to prevent wars. Nobody living would take that position. The only question is one of method or of practicability within the bounds prescribed by fundamental principles.

"There are distinctly two types of international relationship. One is an offensive and defensive alliance of great powers, like that created at Versailles, to impose their will upon the helpless peoples of the world. Frankly, I am opposed to such a scheme as that, and I speak knowingly when I say that the associated powers, with whom we fought the war, were reluctant to accept such a proposition.

"I am opposed to the very thought of our republic becoming a party to so great an outrage upon other peoples, who have as good a right to seek their political freedom as we had in 1776 and have the same right to developing eminence under the inspiration of nationality as we held for ourselves.

The Other Type.

"The other type is a society of free nations, or an association of free nations, animated by considerations of right and justice, instead of might and self-interest, and not merely proclaimed an agency in pursuit of peace, but so organized and so participated in as to make the actual attainment of peace a reasonable possibility. Such an association I favor, with all my heart, and I would make no fine distinction as to whom credit is due.

"This is proposing no new thing. This country is already a member of such a society—The Hague tribunal, which, unlike the league of Versailles, is still functioning, and within a few weeks will resume its committee sessions under the chairmanship of an American representative.

"In that body we have the framework of a really effective instrumentality of enduring peace. The fact that the tribunal did not prevent the great war is, of course, manifest, but the cause of the failure is no less apparent. Germany, already secretly determined upon a ruthless invasion, was able to prevent the adoption of measures which might have proved effectual. The condition now is wholly different. Not only Germany, but the entire world has profited to the extent of an awful object lesson, the impression of which cannot be erased from the human mind for generations to come. The horrors of war and the eagerness for peace have become universal. What once seemed at The Hague to be a mere academic discussion has become a positive, outstanding need of facing terrifying actualities. This makes vastly easier the task of so strengthening The Hague tribunal as to render its just decrees either acceptable or enforceable. It is not uncommon for the advocates of the league of Versailles to contrast unfavorably The Hague tribunal upon the ground that the tribunal 'lacks teeth.'

Let's Install the Teeth.

"Very well, then, let's put teeth into it. If, in the failed league of Versailles, there can be found machinery which the tribunal can use properly and advantageously, by all means let it be appropriated. I would even go further. I would take and combine all that is good and excise all that is bad from both organizations. This statement is broad enough to include the suggestion that if the league, which has heretofore riveted our considerations and apprehensions, has been so entwined and interwoven into the peace of Europe, that its good must be preserved in order to stabilize the peace of that continent, then it can be amended or revised so that we may still have a remnant of world aspirations in 1918 build into the world's highest conception of helpful co-operation in the ultimate realization.

"I believe humanity would welcome the creation of an international association for conference and a world court whose verdicts upon justiciable questions, this country in common with all nations would be both willing and able to uphold. The decision of such a court or the recommendations of such a conference could be accepted without sacrificing our part or asking any other power to sacrifice one iota of its nationality.

"The Democratic nominee has spoken about America abandoning her associates in war and deserting the allied nations in establishing the league of Versailles. I do not think it longer necessary to challenge that statement or pass further opinion upon the unfortunate league. It has already been abandoned by Europe, which had gone so far as to accept it by formal agreement in treaty. On this subject, we are fully informed at first hand. Only the other day the British premier said unreservedly that the essential co-operation of America might involve 'some change, at any rate, in the form of the covenant,' and be added, with characteristic outspokenness, 'it is quite possible it might be a change for the better.'

"Listen, further, to the wise and far-seeing, former British ambassador, who was not permitted to present his credentials to our executive.

On Our Own Terms.

"As long as," said Viscount Grey, hardly a month ago, 'as long as the richest, most powerful, the greatest, both for population and territory, of the civilized countries of the world stands outside the league, the league will be unable to fulfill its destiny. To put it in quite plain terms, the Americans must be told that if they will or the league they can practically name their own terms.' Undoubtedly that is the fact. I ask: Is there any good reason why we should not avail ourselves of this privilege? I do not mean in any arrogant or selfish way, but simply as a matter of fairness and right to our own people. Surely it is becoming, and a duty as well, to safeguard our own people, since it is we who are the main contributors, while asking nothing for ourselves except to participate in a contribution to the promotion of world peace.'

A Valued Contribution.

"Viscount Grey continues: 'The Americans should be intrusted with the task of drafting a reconstruction scheme.' Then he suggests further that 'a committee of the senate—we must never forget the senate's rights and duties in regard to foreign affairs being re-enforced by the members of the house of representatives, and also by nominees of the President, and Supreme Court—could draw up suggestions for the reconstruction of the league, which would be consonant with the feeling not of one, but of all parties in America.'

"Frankly, I value that suggestion very highly, because it is proffered obviously in a helpful and friendly spirit and reveals an important Old World opinion on the necessity of amendment, revision or reconstruction. It comprehends substantially what I would propose to do if elected president. I do not mean precisely that. It would be clearly unwise to undertake specific suggestions or to attempt to pass upon suggestions now. What is in my mind is the wisdom of calling into real conference the ablest and most experienced minds of this country, from whatever walks of life they

STRIKING PHRASES FROM HARDING'S PEACE LEAGUE ADDRESS.

"I rejoice that America is still free and independent and in a position of self reliance and holds to the right of self determination."

"Time was when an American did not hesitate to proclaim himself a patriot. To do so now, I am well aware, is sometimes to invite the sneers of cynicism."

"We needed only the outbreak of the war between Poland and Russia to make us realize at least one of the things which, in the words of Secretary Lansing, we would have been 'let in for,' but for the restraining hand of the senate."

"We know now that the league constituted at Versailles is utterly impotent as a preventive of wars. It is so obviously impotent that it has not even been tried. It could not survive a single test. The original league, mistakenly conceived and unreasonably insisted upon, has undoubtedly passed beyond the possibility of restoration. The maturer judgment of the world will be that it deserved to pass."

may be derived and without regard to party affiliation, to formulate a definite, practical plan along the lines already indicated for the consideration of the controlling foreign powers.

"The objection, strongly uttered in some quarters, that this course would involve the reconvening of the entire convention may be regarded as a very slight one. The acceptance of our proposals by the few principal nations would undoubtedly be followed promptly by the acceptance on the part of the minor members of the alliance.

"There would be no material delay. One can not disregard the leadership or have any doubt about the influence of the principal allied and associated powers. Insofar as I could do so, without disregarding the proprieties, I should give very earnest and practically undivided attention to this very vital subject from the day of my election and I should ask others to do likewise as a matter of public and patriotic duty. Indeed, I should hope to have behind me, after the decision on the national referendum we are soon to have, a country wholly united in earnest endeavor to achieve a true solution of this problem upon which the future civilization so largely depends.

Already Announced.

"I have already announced that I shall urge prompt passage of the resolution, vetoed by the president, declaring at an end the preposterous condition of technical war when we are actually at peace. Simultaneously, I shall naturally advise the resumption by the Congress of its exceptional powers, which have been vested by law legislation in the executive. I have no expectation whatever of finding it necessary or advisable to negotiate a separate peace with Germany.

"In view of the simple fact that the allied powers with whom we were associated in the war have already formally concluded their peace, the passage of the peace resolution by congress would merely give formal recognition to an obvious fact.

Our Unselfishness Emphasized.

"Let us take stock for a moment of America in the world, as is, and of America at home. The end of the war found our unselfishness emphasized to all mankind, and the garlands of world leadership were bestowed from every direction. We had only to follow the path of America, rejoicing in the inheritance which led to our eminence, to rivet the gaze of all peoples upon our standards of national righteousness and our conception of international justice. Moreover, the world was ready to give us its confidence. It was the beckoning opportunity of the centuries, not for the glorification of the new world republic, but for America to hold every outpost of advancing civilization and invite all nations to join the further advance to heights dreamed of, but never approached before. But force of example was flung aside for force of armed alliance. We neglected our readjustments and restorations at home, and the cruel sacrifice of millions of lives and billions of treasure left us and the world groping in uncertainty and anxiety instead of revealing us in the sunlight of a new day, with lines formed, ready for the onward march of peace and all its triumphs.

Let's Resume Our Place.

"Mindful of our splendid example and renewing every obligation of association in war, I want America to be the rock of security at home, resolute in righteousness and unalterable in security and supremacy of the law. Let us be done with wiggling and wobbling. Steady, America! Let us assure good fortune to all. We may maintain our eminence as a great people at home and resume our high place in the estimate of the world. Our moral leadership was lost when 'Ambition' sought to superimpose a reactionary theory of discredited autocracy upon the progressive principle of living, glowing democracy. My chief aspiration, my countrymen, if clothed with power, will be to regain that lost leadership not for myself, not even for my party, though honoring and trusting it as I do, but for my country, the country that I love from the bottom of my heart and with every fiber of my being above all else in the world."

GO EASY ON GAS.

Unless joy riders curtail voluntarily before Sept. 15 their present immoderate use of gasoline, they will bring about a steadily rising price of more than 40 cents per gallon, or a system of rationing which will be applied informally but effectively in every state of the Union. This a warning from Washington officials who are watching the diminishing supply. Approximately 10,000,000 owners of automobiles, power boats and airplanes would be affected by the rationing system. The gas situation now is declared to be more serious than it has been for months. Consumption is reported as between 13,000,000 and 14,000,000 gallons daily. Production, however, is running approximately 2,000,000 gallons below consumption. The difference represents the amount by which the reserve supplies are being drawn off. Reserves are reported as lower than at this time last year, despite the fact that at the beginning of spring the stores were the biggest in years.

Negroes Dislike of the Hound.

The southern negroes hate the hound. They say it used to be a nice stock watchdog which Adam left to guard the gate of Paradise, but it went snuffing around to find a hare or rabbit and let the old devil sneak in. Then the Lord said it should be a dog no longer, but a hound, always hunting and always starving, so to hear a hound is a bad sign.

EXTENSIVE CRUSADE IN STATE FOR BETTER MILK

Spector Andrew MacPherson made a flying trip to Novi and Wall Lake last week and shut off the delivery privileges of 13 farmers at the former point and nine at the latter.

Then at daybreak Monday morning Inspector MacPherson, of the milk bureau, together with Chief Inspector Chilson, of the dairy and food bureau of the department of health, began a trip that took them through Washtenaw, Livingston and Wayne counties.

On the latter expedition the action of the inspectors was more drastic than at any previous time. More than 20 milk receiving depots were visited, scores of farmers were interviewed at their farms, milk dumped onto the ground and cans submitted to the crushing blows of axes.

At many of the milk stations the inspectors intercepted the deliveries before they were allowed to be poured to the weighing vats, and tested the milk. This test has to do with the Fahrenheit temperature of the milk.

Detroit has a city ordinance which prescribes that no milk shall be delivered into Detroit for use of any sort which is not at least as low as 60 degrees Fahrenheit. Scores of cans were found to register as high as from 70 to 75 degrees. Red tags marked "Inspected and condemned" were placed on these cans as fast as they were found and the drivers ordered to return them to the delivering farmer.

The majority of the milk condemned Monday was turned back, not because of adulteration or lack of the prescribed amount of butter fats, but because negligence on the part of the farmers had permitted it to become too warm for shipment. The reason the city demands a temperature of 60 degrees Fahrenheit is because of the statement of experts that above that degree the bacteria increase to a dangerous state.

The reason ascribed by the milk inspectors for the alleged recent large shipments of adulterated milk to the city by certain farmers is that they were thus actuated by the attitude of a number of small milk dealers in the city.

The larger of the milk concerns of the city insist on a standard percentage of butter fats to the milk they buy. This percentage is 3.5. On it they are at present paying $3.45 per 100 pounds. They pay four cents a hundred more for milk that contains 3.6 butter fat and so on proportionately for each increased fractional point.

They likewise deduct four cents on every 100 pounds of milk that is below 3.5. This places a premium on the milk the farmer ships to the city and usually keeps it at or above the standard percentage.

In the great demand Detroit has on the milk market of this section of the state, keen competition has arisen among certain of the smaller milk dealers, who find it cheaper to purchase their products within a radius of 50 miles of the city rather than go 100 or more miles.

Consequently, according to the milk inspectors, some of the milk dealers went into certain parts of the country around Detroit and offered prevailing prices for milk of a flat rate of 3.5. Then, say the inspectors, it was but a short time that producers began to learn their product was not being tested, that "almost anything would be accepted" and then "they carried the fact in mind" to a degree that caused the inspectors to act.

Complaints recently began to flutter into the office of the local milk inspectors and then they fairly rained in. They were immediately investigated. Laboratory tests were made of samples and then the source of offending supplies was sought.

Detroit milk inspectors have a peculiar authority outside the boundary lines of the city. They have the authority to brand milk as unfit for use in the city and when they want a shipment stopped all they have to do is to give the order. The shipper can obey or not as he sees fit. He may take the milk back to the farm or he may send it on to Detroit. If it gets here it goes in the ditch and so he usually takes it home.

The milk inspectors are in the field at all times, traveling as a rule within a radius of 150 miles of Detroit. However, during the present campaign they were to be found nearer and within the city to shut off deliveries of impure milk.

HARBOR BEACH—Mrs. E. G. Chape, well known and highly esteemed woman of Redman, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid Monday afternoon, after a period of despondency, caused by grief over the death of her husband who died several months ago of pneumonia.

CARO—For the first time in around a half-century the name of Miss Anna Black will not appear on the school district's pay roll. Nine years ago she was retired by the board, and since that time she has acted at various times as a supply teacher. This year her application to receive a pension from the state teacher's retirement fund has been favorably acted upon and she will now receive compensation from that source.

BAD AXE—Armistice Day, November 11, will be celebrated by the Huron County American Legion at Bad Axe. This celebration will be featured by a parade of all ex-service men in uniform, who desire to join in the review, a foot ball game between American Legion teams from the western and eastern parts of the county, other athletic events, and a free supper which is to be served the former service men and their wives, Bad Axe business men being hosts at this meal.

LAPEER—The death of Robert L. King, one of the most prominent citizens of this city occurred Saturday morning following a lingering illness from bronchial pneumonia. He was known as the "Shingle King" of Michigan during his career in lumbering and at his death owned thousands of acres of land in the northern part of the state where his timber interests had been located. He was very active in the Prohibition Party when in his prime and was always a great worker for county option and statewide prohibition. He was an active member of the Methodist Episcopal church and was liberal towards its support, and also toward all worthy causes.

POINTE AUX BARQUES—Pointe aux Barques and vicinity was astir with excitement Monday over the tragic death of Corwin Van Husan, wealthy Detroit, who was instantly killed when his car turned turtle near Pointe aux Barques about eight o'clock Monday morning. Mr. Van Husan and his companion, Everett Lovett, were returning to Detroit after spending the week-end at the Pointe aux Barques Club House, and were driving at a very high rate of speed when their machine struck a stone in the road, and turned completely over. Van Husan was killed instantly and Mr. Lovett was quite seriously injured; his leg was broken and he was badly bruised about the body. He was taken to the Bad Axe hospital.—Harbor Beach Times.

Essay on Geese.
The following composition on geese was written, according to Capper's Weekly, by a schoolboy in St. Louis: "Geese is a heavy-set bird with a head on one side and a tail on the other. His feet is set so far back on his running gear that they nearly miss his body. Some geese is ganders and has a curl in his tail. Ganders don't lay or set. They just eat, loaf and go swimming. If I had to be a geese, I would rather be a gander. Geese do not give mth, but give eggs, but for me, give me liberty or give me death."

Picts and Scots.
In his Dictionary of Phrase and Fable, the learned Rev. Dr. E. Cobham Brewer, writes upon Picts and Scots: "Pict is not the Latin pectus (pointed people). As Picts and Scots are always mentioned together, there is no reason why one name should be Latin and the other Gaelic. Scot is the Gaelic 'scoth' (a dweller in woods and forests), and Pict is the Gaelic pict-ist (freebooters), the two being equivalent to foresters and freebooters."

To Preserve Ferns.
There are at least two very satisfactory ways to preserve maiden-hair ferns. One is to dip the ferns as soon as gathered in perfectly limpid gum water. This should be done very carefully. After allowing them to drain for two or three minutes, arrange in a vase to dry. Another very good way is to put the ferns, when first gathered, between two clean sheets of blotting paper. Lay between boards and press for a week or so.

Mother's Expressive Eyes.
Ella started to lift the baby from its crib, but caught her mother's eye, and desisted. Afterward, she was overheard telling her playmate that she knew when her mother didn't want her to do anything. "She doesn't want to tell me," Ella added, "she just thinks stop, and I can see her think."

Chinese New Year Customs.
On the occasion of the new year, the Chinese exchange the greeting, "Kung Hai Fat Tsouy," meaning "Congratulations; may you collect wealth." The word "tsing," meaning "hail," is repeated by them numerous times. During the celebration of the new year, all secret societies and guilds, whose rivalry is often very bitter, declare a "Truce of the Gods" when no man may attack his brother. This is generally respected by both the hunter and the hunted, who are glad of a relief.

Had Left Trivial Things Behind.
Mary had attended kindergarten the preceding year and on her return from the first day's attendance of the primary grade this year her mother questioned her concerning some of the customs, asking: "Are they the same as you had in kindergarten?" Filled with a sense of her advanced position, Mary answered indignantly: "Why, mother, they don't do those things in the higher grades."

Pioneers in Pencil Industry.
The first lead pencil manufacturer in the United States was William Monroe of Concord, Mass., who, in 1812, invented a process by which he pulverized and mixed the material and incased it in cedar hold-ers. He was very successful in selling his product and continued the business for a year and a half, when he was obliged to give it up on account of the difficulty in obtaining raw materials. Another pioneer in the industry was Joseph Dixon, who commenced business in 1827.

MARYSVILLE IS COMING ON---

We take off our hats to Messrs. Wills and Lee and their associates for what they have accomplished in one year toward making a reality of the plans they announced in 1919.

When Mr. Wills said the "St. Clair river would soon be lined with smoke stacks," some people took it to mean that some bright morning, after THEY had had a GOOD SLEEP they would wake up and find that smoke stacks were belching forth their grimy product, every thousand feet or so down the river.

But the things that count in this world are not done in that way. It is only curbstome conversation that builds and destroys cities in a day, or a night.

The Wills-Lee enterprises will build rapidly as big things go in the industrial world, but even the big things, backed by big money, cannot avoid the obstacles that get in every man's way.

Just the same, Marysville will grow and grow rapidly, and Port Huron will get a large benefit therefrom. She is getting it right now.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are released in Marysville each month in pay rolls, and a large share of it finds its way to Port Huron merchants. Ask any merchant and he will tell you this statement is true.

And the advantage to this town will grow larger as the years go by.

"The Acres of Diamonds" right at our own door, have been discovered, as usual, not by ourselves, but by men of vision that came up the river from another town.

We are on the way to bigger things for Port Huron and the whole river side. We don't want to get the small idea that this town, because it has been the biggest thing in the way of a city hereabouts, is always going to be the big dog in the kennel—just because it always has been. The big things will accrue to those who do the big things.

The Big Thing in this neck of the woods is NOT Port Huron—the BIG THING is the ST. CLAIR RIVER DISTRICT. It will grow and develop rapidly, and in the generations to come will become a single unit whether it may be called Port Huron, or Marysville, or St. Clair, or Marine City will depend upon who does the Big Things.

Let's get at it, in this town, and do some of them.

Who will lead? If we haven't any leaders we will get nowhere, and just at present we haven't a single leader in this city that is showing us the way anywhere.

Hard thing to say, but it is true.

That isn't much of a bank advertisement, perhaps, but we will remark in passing that we still pay FOUR PER CENT for money left with us on CERTIFICATE OF DEPOSIT for six months or more.

As to the rest of it,—Think it over.

Rubber Stocks are Among the Best Industrial Investments

Rubber is indispensable. There has never been a substitute for rubber. It enters into the composition of thousands of manufactured products. Rubber is primarily the foundation of the motor vehicle industry. Rubber tires made horse-drawn vehicles more comfortable. Then the development of the gasoline motor increased power and speed. But for rubber tires, the automobile or truck would not be possible. They made possible one of the world's greatest industries. Michigan is the center of the automotive industry. But Michigan makes comparatively few tires, though this state offers wonderful advantages for the economical manufacture of tires. Coal, hydro-electric power, water and unequalled shipping facilities—the most necessary factors in the making of tires—are all available in this state. The market is here—an unlimited market. Even now there is a shortage in automobile tires which all the factories combined cannot meet. These facts show the reasons for the success of well managed tire manufacturing companies and explain why Michigan is chosen as the location for the principal factory of

They chose Bay City for the location of their principal factory for on the Saginaw river there are all the natural facilities-needed. Within one hundred miles, a million new autos are made every year. The Bay City factory will have a capacity of 2,500 tires and 5,000 tubes per day.

Pass the Flowers, Please!

When I cash in, and this poor race is run, My chores performed, and all my errands done, Perhaps some folks who mock my efforts here Will, weeping, bend above my lowly bier— And bring large garlands worth three bucks a throw, And paw the ground in ecstasy of woe— And friends will wear crepe knots on their tiles. While I look down (or up) a million miles, And wonder why those people never knew How square I was before my spirit flew. When I cash in, I shall not care a yen For all the praise that's heaped upon me then; Serene and silent in my narrow box, I shall not heed the praises or the knocks, And all the pomp and all the vain display Will be just fuss and feathers thrown away. So, tell me now, while I am on the earth, Your estimate of what my friendship's worth— Oh, tell me what a loyal chap I am And fill me full of taffy and of jam; Spread it good, like honey's spread on bread— Don't wait to shoot the bunk when I am dead.

He Passed.

"At one of our examinations," says a member of the faculty of a western university, "a nervous student had been instructed to write out examples of the indicative, subjunctive, potential and exclamatory moods. His efforts resulted as follows: 'I am endeavoring to pass an English examination. If I answer 20 questions, I shall pass. If I answer 12, I may pass. God help me!'"—Harper's Magazine.

Odd New Guinea Craft.

The lakatols is a picturesque New Guinea craft. These odd-looking vessels are composed of from five to ten dugouts lashed securely side by side. A deck is then laid across and a superstructure built on it. There is not a nail in the whole fabric, and every part of the vessel is composed of home-grown products, from the steering paddles to the curious mating sails.

Polar Ice.

In the region around the south pole, Sir Ernest Shackleton found various kinds of ice to which he gives interesting names in his new book, "South." Thus one kind he pictures as "young ice;" another as "light pack;" another as "drift ice." Heavy hammocked pack and close pack are the roughest in appearance, with ragged little crags covering all the surface.

This section certainly owes a lot to the automobile

LOOK at it just from the business standpoint, compared with, say, ten years ago—or even five.

Everything speeded up—made easier. Nearly every business man depending on the automobile to transport himself and his products.

That is one reason, perhaps, why more attention is being paid to tires—why tire costs are being figured closer and people are beginning to look for better tires.

We believe that people are entitled to better tires—the best they can get.

Not only the man with the big car, but the man with the small car, and the medium sized car.

III

We represent U. S. Tires for that reason—because their policy is the same as ours—every tire as good as you can get it, regardless of the size of the car it is to go on.

It was that policy which led to the introduction of the straight side automobile tire, the pneumatic truck tire.

And you can't beat it.

IV

U. S. Tires are guaranteed for life, with no limitation of mileage.

It will pay you to talk to us about tires, if you are looking at them from a business standpoint.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

A CORRECTION.

Palmer Bros. of Belding claim they have been misrepresented in an article entitled "Gold Bricks to Michigan Farmers"...

The article was sent to the newspapers from state authorities and of course was considered authentic in every detail by those who published it at that time.

Among telegrams sent to the National Bank at Ionia regarding Palmer Bros.' operations in Canada was one from Cap. T. E. Robinson...

Harry Smith, of Exeter, Ont., president of the Shorthorn Breeders' Assn., in a telegram to the same bank says: "My knowledge of bulls shipped out of Canada by Palmer Bros. is limited to a few head."

J. D. Brien, director Shorthorn Breeder Assn., Ridgeway, Ont.: "Bulls that Palmer imported are by no means scrub. Pure bred. They are the best bulls that can be bought outside of show selected by men of international judgment."

is second to none in the United States as a gospel singer, Dr. Newlin preached on "A Lost Opportunity" from Luke 4:16-20. He spoke in part as follows:

The coming of Jesus of Nazareth was unannounced, the audience which He addressed was an average Sabbath morning worshippers. What an opportunity to hear the divine message from the lips of the Divine Messenger!

Why were many, who could and should have been out to hear this, the only sermon Jesus ever delivered in His home town, not there? Was it because they did not know He was to preach? Was it because they were not interested in spiritual things? Were some not there because the old scribe had been a little too personal and mandatory in his teaching? Were some absent because they did not have a new Easter bonnet or a new dress for the baby? Why need I go further? You may as well know now as later that I am not here to preach against the sins of a people two thousand years dead. I am not here to preach against the sins of the "Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Gergashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites," nor the Nazarethites, but it is the sins of the Americanites that I am to expose. You have a generation of American heathen here who have not been to church so long that were they to go they would be as much at a loss to know what was coming next as a hobo in the dining room of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Some of you here tonight have not heard your pastor preach six times in the past six months. You do not go to church because you take a Sunday paper, or go fishing, or sleep late in the morning, and drive out in your auto in the evening. You remain at home to entertain company. Take your company to church or let them know they will find you there. When you remain at home for company you are losing better company than you get, I do not care who comes.

Before Jesus pronounced the benediction to his great Nazareth sermon, while He was yet speaking those "gracious words," they stumbled at His divinity and began to whisper to one another, "Is not this Joseph's son?" What do you talk about at the Sunday dinner table? What was the subject of your conversation at the dinner hour today? "He is a little younger than I thought he would be." "I wonder if he is married." "How do you like his delivery?" Never mind the delivery. I promise you that if you put in your appearance you will get what's coming to you. I hope the message will so grip you that you will entirely forget the messenger. It is the quality of the steak and butter and bread that determines the wholesomeness of the meal and not the color of the delivery wagon or whether the driver wore a red necktie.

A lost opportunity to receive. It does not make black white by breaking the mirror. It does not make your sin righteousness by turning up your nose and humping your back like a camel and denouncing the preacher. It does not change your course from hell to heaven to throw the Bible in the fire or denounce the preacher for telling you the truth. The only thing that will save you from hell is to repent of your sin and accept Jesus Christ—the Divine Messenger of God, as your Saviour.

Monday evening, the service was held at the Presbyterian church. The subject of the evening was "All Aboard!" Dr. Newlin said: "When you wish to leave a city and board a train for any destination, you wait at the station until you hear your train called. Before going through the gates you are asked to show your ticket and tell where you are going. 'All aboard!' cries the conductor.

"Now I am almost in the position of that conductor tonight. You people in Cass City have called me to your city. You certainly have some goal, some destination, some object, and I certainly have a right to know. "I shall use two familiar verses of Scripture tonight: 'What mean ye by this service?' Ex. 12:26. And 'I ask therefore for what intent ye have sent for me.' You say, 'Why, Mr. Newlin, we mean to have a union revival. Alright, as conductor I will say the Gospel train is about ready to start. All aboard! Are you going along? "But let us pause. Can you give a definition of a tabernacle revival? Sam Jones once gave a definition of a chautauqua. Sam said, 'We have lost interest in going to the county fairs to look at pumpkins and pigs, and we haven't religion enough any more to have an old fashioned camp meeting, so we have taken the best of the county fair and what religion we have left and put the two together and call it chautauqua.' My definition for a tabernacle service is that it is a cross between the first century Pentecost where souls were born again and saved from sin, and a modern twentieth century Bible conference where Christians are built up in the fundamental essentials of religion as shown in God's word. All aboard! Are you ready to go? "Parents, what mean ye by this service? Do you want to see some of your children, that boy and that girl, brought into the fold? Will you work, pray, and do all in your power to win them? If you do not, Almighty God will hold you responsible in the day of Judgment.

"Christians, what do you mean by this service? Has your growth in grace the past years been such as to fully satisfy you with your present standing? Your class in Sunday School? Have you been praying for the success of this campaign? Choir what mean ye? Do you mean to sing the praises of God with all earnestness and lend your presence at every service possible?"

It was a great message and those who missed hearing it are indeed the poorer. So let us back up such excellent preaching and music by our personal effort. These meetings mean much to the spiritual and moral life of our community. Be a booster! Boosters live better, feel better and fight harder than any other tribe on earth.

Three great services on Sunday. Mass meeting for men only at three o'clock. Dr. Newlin will speak and Mr. Heaton will sing. Meeting for women only addressed by Mrs. Newlin at the same hour. Places will be announced at the morning service.

ARMY WORM

CONTROL MEASURES

Two methods are in common use in restricting the progress of Army worms. One depends on a barrier to keep the worms from spreading into new areas and the other is by means of a poison bait which actually kills the worms. The barriers or ditches are of most use when the worms are marching and threaten new fields. Commonest barriers used consist of two or three deep furrows, plowed around the areas infested, and spaced 8 or 10 feet apart. Turn the furrows toward the advancing worms, in order that when the worms tumble in the furrows they will have to climb up the smooth land side in order to get out, then when these furrows fill up turn them under, thereby leaving fresh furrows for the worms to fill. Now army-worms work at night and during lowery weather and therefore, it will be necessary to keep watch of things all night for the few days that elapse before these worms get full size and descend into the ground.

Poison baits are most useful when the worms are scattered and also, they may be used in addition to the ditching. The following formula is one that has been very successful in the past and which is easily filled. Sift together 1 pound of paris-green or 3/4 pound of arsenic (not arsenate of lead) and 20 pounds of bran; add half gallon of molasses or syrup and a little water, and stir in three oranges or lemons, ground fine in a food chopper, skins and all. This may be broadcasted over from 2 to 5 acres of land. It is very attractive to both cut-worms and grasshoppers. Do not try to substitute any other poison for the paris green or white arsenic. Neither arsenate of lead or arsenate of calcium will do the work unless very large quantities are used. Neither should one use the bait where poultry are likely to pick up much of it, although the bait should be distributed in a finely broken-up condition.

R. H. Pettit, Prof. of Entomology, Mich. Agricultural College (Note: There are two broods of army worms—one about July 4 and the other the last of August—and it is at the time the worms first appear that the control measures given above should be used. It is probably too late now (Sept. 1, 1920) to use these measures effectively this year because of the fact that the worms are now entering the pupa stage. Learn the control methods and be ready to use them at once if the worms put in an appearance next year. Reports of the outbreak of Army worms frequently reach the college too late for information regarding control practices to be sent into the district in time for effective treatment.

Sure Signs of Storms.

A sudden and local motion of the air, not otherwise seen but by its whirling up the dust on a dry road in calm weather, in the manner of a waterspout, is a sure sign of a coming storm. When swallows fly low it is a sign of approaching rain. This is accounted for by the fact that before rain insects which are the swallows' food fly very low, and the swallows always fly where their food is.

CO-OPERATIVE

At the annual meeting of The Farm Produce Co. an expression was made that they were willing to turn to a co-operative company providing that the heavy stockholders would not be obliged to hold over fifty or more shares as they saw fit.

"No one will be obliged to sell." In order to give the directors and stockholders of the Farm Produce Co. an expression, the Directors of the Local Farm Bureau have appointed committees to solicit the farmers who are ready for a co-operative elevator, coal and lumber yard.

Here's an opportunity for Business Men and Farmers to be drawn closer together.
