Grocery Satisfaction

If your grocer pleases you in every particular, you have no cause for changing.

Even WE can do no more than that.

But if you think some of making a shift, we would be glad to give you the best service of which we are capable. Often and often we have turned now-and-again customers into steady patrons.

And we lose a surprising few of the really particular grocery buyers, who once become our customers.

Try us on anything you like.

CHAPTER III.

Welcome Home.

The playing ceased. Doctor Kirkland rose and advanced upon the group at the piano.

"One moment, Ellen," he said. "Two young men at a time is one too many. I am going to run off with Mr. Clin-

"At once!" exclaimed Ellen.

"No," ordered her father, glancing at his watch. "Not before half an hour at least. Come, Mr. Clinton." The guest stiffened at the peremptory tone of his host.

"Does it not strike you, sir, that this proceeding is rather odd?" he asked. "It must indeed seem so to you, Mr. Clinton," replied Mrs. Kirkland. "But my husband will explain on your way down."

"I see," he rejoined, and he stared at the physician, his blue eyes bright with angry suspicion. "You are all under a delusion that I am daftinsane. You have spoken of a sanitarium. I have heard of supposedly insane persons being decoyed into institutions.

"Decoyed! You think I—" gasped the physician. He choked between indignation and mirth, and waggled his plump hand at his wife. "T-tell him-what-why!"

She smiled at the guest with unmistakable candor in her look. "We should have explained the situation to you at once," she said. "It is true we still doubt your identity. "Oh, Will, please!" implored Ellen. "We shall see, my dear," soothed her mother. "The moment he and Amy see each other there will no longer be any doubt of the truth."

"Then I shall be glad to go at once," said Clinton. "This misunderstanding is as embarrassing to me as I fear it is distressing to Miss Kirkland. The sooner it is settled the better."

"Do not follow for at least half an hour," Doctor Kirkland ordered the others as he went out with his guest.

At the curb he sprang into the front of his car and motioned to Clinton to seat himself in the tonneau. The moment they were aboard the car shot out into the street and whirred away much faster than the city speed limit. A light high up against the starry, blue-black sky, outlined the dome of the capitol. Doctor Kirkland ran on to within a block of the capitol grounds and drew up before an old brick mansion. "Here we are," he said, and he started in across the sidewalk without looking about at his passenger. "Good evening, Tillie," said Doctor Kirkland, opening the screen door.

University Regent Frank B. Leland,

I think it is Un-American and in my opinion its incorporation into the basic laws of the commonwealth would be unwise.

Former Regent Chase S. Osborne, says:

The movement against the Parochial Schools is unwarranted, unwise, misdirected effort and, in so far as it destroys something of good and supplants it with nothing, is unjust.

Prof. H. C. Vaughn, Dean of the School of Medicine, University of Michigan,

> I do not believe the amendment is wise,—I do not believe that the State should interfere with parents in selecting the school to which their children shall go.

President Stringham of the Detroit Board of Education, says:

> The enactment of such a law would be a mistake and a calamity.

President Frank Kedzie, of the Michigan Agricultural College, says: I am not favorable to the Anti-parochial Amendment.

University Regent Benjamin S. Hanchett, says:

I am earnestly opposed to any proposition that would result in the closing of Parochial or any private schools that maintain a proper standard of instruction.

President Charles McKenny, c. the Michigan State Normal School, says:

> This amendment, if carried, would' shut out thousands of children because of no public schools to accomodate them.

Superintendent of Public Instruction, Thomas E. Johnson, says:

There is a very grave question whether the proposed amendment would not put up a legal barrier to prevent the use of the State Institution for the Feeble Minded, the State Institution for the Epileptic, the State School for the Deaf and State Schools for the Blind.

Superintendent Frank Cody, of the Detroit Public Schools, says:

The public school men of Michigan are unanimous against the proposition. The influx of the parochial and private school children into the public schools would swamp our schools.

Dr. Delos Fall of Albion College, formerly Superintendent of Public Instruction, says:

> The State Department of Education already possess ample power to visit and supervise these schools.

CURIOSITY AROUSED: SMUGGLERS CAUGHT

RUM-RUNNERS FAIL IN INGEN-IOUS ATTEMPT TO BRING IN WHISKY.

Not so long ago several gentlemen from Ohio were hurrying through lower Michigan in a high-powered touring car. Their actions were sus picious and they were stopped by members of the State Police. From the contents of the car, it was evident that the men were either baseball um-pirs or dealers in hot-water bottles and inner tubes. Conversation revealed the fact that they knew very little about either. What the State Police wanted to know was why the baseball chest-protector was filled with air and why the inner tubes were inflated and the hot-water bottles filled. In vestigation revealed the fact that all were loaded with whisky. About a dozen small bottles of the liquor were also found concealed in the car. A State Trooper is seen holding up a section of inner tube and two hot water bottles. The baseball protect or which he is wearing is filled with whisky, as well as the gasoline and oil can beside him.

SICKNESS OUTBREAKS DETRAY WOONSHIERS

STATE POLICE FIND CLUES IN ILLNESS DUE TO DRINKING POISONOUS STUFF.

One of the things for which the State Police are constantly on the lookout now is the outbreak of enidemics of illness due to poisoning traceable to the drinking of moonshine liquor. It has been found that the opening of a new illicit still is usually followed by such sickness in the neighborhood and the health reports give valuable clues. Many of the stills seized are crude affairs and metals are used in their construction which result in the formation of poisonous oxides in the liquor. Stills in which tin, zinc and lead are used are sure to produce liquor of a poisonous nature. Even where the stills are made of other metals, the ignorance of the amateur distillers often results in making the distilled spirits they produce very deleterious to health Among the raids which have resulted from liquor poisoning have been those near Grayling where a number of dangerous stills were

AGGANTIC MERCHANDISMG EVENT

PARTICIPATED IN BY OUR THREE STORES

CASS CITY CARO

A total of more than $125,000.00 of seasonable merchandise is suddenly thrown to the market at reductions ranging from 20 to 40 per cent. Get Your Share of the Bargains. An Event Unequaled in Tuscola County.

The present market, even though somewhat lower, does not warrant any such sweeping reductions as are incorporated in this sale, but ZEMKE BROS. are never known to do things half way and, likewise, in this undertaking, we have gone the limit and the public may with the utmost confidence, buy its entire fall and winter needs right now and at this store with our assurance that prices, for at least several months, will not be lower than those quoted on this sale.

We could have made slight reductions here and there such as would be in keeping with the present market conditions and no doubt would have sold considerable merchandise. Such a method did not appeal to us. We could not consistently urge our thousands of faithful customers to buy their fall needs when we had only made slight reductions here and there and when, in all probability, goods might still be lower in the near future. So in order to safeguard the confidence that the public places in all of our dealings, we were compelled to make such reductions from which there could be no lowering for a period of several months at least.

For several months back, there has been a great desire on the part of the public for lower prices and the result is that no one has bought only the absolute needs; each waiting for the drop. This condition is demoralizing to the retailer and Zemke Bros. are for this sale, instituting a revision of prices downward that will appeal and be satisfactory to all who have put off buying until there was a substantial drop. What we shall lose in profit, we can only hope to make up in volume and with reduced prices, we expect to do a record breaking business.

In this stupendous price reduction sale, we do not pose as philanthropists. We think it a matter of good sound business judgment. Our fall merchandise, bought in good faith during the summer on the high market, is all here and in storing; but the public refuses to buy it on the basis of cost to us. What can we do with it? We cannot eat it! It would be the height of folly to carry it over into another year so we are going to shut our eyes; take our loss like "Men" and put a price on the goods such as the people will pay.

These prices are only guaranteed during this sale or as long as our

ZEMKE BROTHERS, Cass City

"RATTLES" THAT GIVE IT ITS NAME. -How old is a rattlesnake? It has always been a source of satisfaction to believe that a rattlesnake's age could be determined by its rattles. The very simplicity of the theory recommended it. What could be easier? A rattlesnake got a new ring on its rattle every year. Count the rings and you have its age. Now the scientists come along and explode the

Raymond Lee Ditmars, curator of reptiles in the New York Zoological park, describes the development of the rattles as

When a rattlesnake is born, it is provided with a small button at the tip of its tail. A few months after birth it sheds its skin. In two months more it sheds its skin a second time and in so doing uncovers the first ring or segment of the rattle which has been developing under the epidermis. Therefore every time it sheds its skin it uncovers a new segment. Under normal conditions, a rattlesnake sheds its skin three times a year, but unusual climatic or food conditions may vary the number of molts.

The rattle is a very delicate organ. The snake wears out the older rings dragging them ground. A rattle seldom attains a length of more than ten or eleven rings, as when that number has been acquired the vibration at the tip, when the organ is used, is so pronounced that additional segments are soon worn, broken and lost."

PROOF OF SAGACITY OF RATS How Rodents Handle Eggs, for Instance, Shows They Possess

Ability to Reason.

A careful student of the rodent tribe writes: "No single point better illustrates the sagacity of the rat than the way in which it eats an egg. It bites through the shell and chips off small fragments as neatly as a squirrel opens a nut, consumes the entire contents without spilling a drop and then sits up and licks itself clean like a cat. Rats will steal the eggs from under a setting hen. Their method of handling eggs is also characteristic. An egg is as large for a rat as a barrel is for a man, and much more fragile. Yet there is evidence of the fact that they pass eggs along from one to another, been reported, by forming long lines, like a bucket brigade. The operation is naturally a difficult one to observe, then runs ahead to take it once more in its turn. The same device seems to be employed to carry an egg downing it to a companion standing on the

Why Writer Opposes Display.

The great things of the world-men, or women, or mountains, or ideas—are simple, declares Angelo Patri in New Red Cross Magazine.

They are easy to understand. They are exactly what they say they are. They do not pretend. They 'come

"The founders of America were simple folk. They landed on a rock that became the corner stone of a great nation. They gave it a simple name-Plymouth Rock. Their dress was very plain. You would know a Pilgrim father and mother if you met them anywhere today. And you would take off your hat to them. . . .

"Too many things, too many plans, choke up our lives. You know people who are so busy taking care of their things that they have no time to live. Some folks do not know at the end of the day whether the sky was blue or gray. They did not hear the song sparrow, although he sang bravely. They did not glimpse the road border of dusty mulleins and sky-blue chicory and ox-eye daisies. Too busy. Daily they miss the salt and savor of the earth. They have forgotten the simple, beautiful things."

How Dame Nature Cleans House.

There is no more particlar housewife than Dame Nature. Every spring she puts down a new green carpet in every room of her great house. But before that she makes all things ready, for she washes and scours the rooms by means of forces that make ordinary vacuum cleaners look like children's

Furthermore, she shakes the very atmosphere with furious winds, as a curtain is shaken to rid it of dust and germs. Then, when the strenuous days of housecleaning are over. Nature turns decorator. Every week she paints fresh pictures for us. everywhere we move something new and beautiful prepared by her hands awaits

FOR STATE AND NATION

The Republican party proposes safeguarding and promoting the confronting our state.' welfare of the American people, and to maintaining the principles of self-government that have given to our country its favored and unique position.

Let us seek to avoid industrial chaos and to bring to a close the present national era of enormous war-time expenditures.

Vote for a purpose far greater than the success of the party, for the ultimate goal that no harm shall come to the Republic.

STATEMENTS BY GROESBECK

"This is a reconstruction perto devote its entire efforts to jod and there are big problems "We ought to revise our methods of state administration and make them more efficient and better adapted to conditions as they now exist."

"There should be no invisible government functioning for its own interests in Michigan."
