

TICKET CAMPAIGN ON NEXT WEEK

STUDY CLUB PRESENTS FINE ARRAY OF LYCEUM TALENT.

This Winter's Course Has Four Numbers; First One Given on November 25.

For several years, the Woman's Study Club has furnished Cass City with high class talent at lecture courses—not for their own profit, but with the object of bringing to local audiences some of the best talent in entertainers and musicians that travel the lyceum circuits during the winter months. Only by the enthusiasm and energy put into the project by members of the club are the receipts sufficient to meet the expenditures.

This season's campaign of ticket selling will be commenced on Nov. 2 and continue for three days. The club membership has been divided and unusual efforts will be made to make the sale larger than in former years. The lecture course is in charge of the following committee: Mrs. A. J. Knapp, Mrs. J. M. Dodge, Mrs. I. A. Fritz and Mrs. Euphemia Hunter. The talent for this season comes from the Redpath Bureau and consists of four numbers.

The course opens Nov. 25 with The Colleen, a quartet of young ladies, who present the songs of Ireland, an Irish village scene, and a Salvation Army sketch. They also devote a part of their concert to the rendition of selections from standard operas and an attractive playlet is still another part of the program.

Bernice Ladd, reader, presents original sketches of compelling merit in another number of the course. Italian vendors, Irish laborers, and Swedish immigrants all live again and tell their interesting, though often homely stories, through the rare artistry of this accomplished reader.

Brooks Fletcher has a national reputation as the platform's foremost dramatic orator, and for years Redpath has advertised and booked him more than 200 nights a year from coast to coast as "The Outstanding Dramatic Orator of America." He is also a great humorist who makes an audience laugh uproariously and he is a tragedian who thrills.

The Fine Arts Quartette completes the list of the talent. These musicians present a special arrangement of the best in Spanish music given in appropriate costumes and, in addition, varied solos, duets, trios, quartets and readings are rendered with artistry. A musical comedy sketch dealing with life and songs of old Ireland is one of the pleasing features of the program.

TWO CHURCHES GIVE RECEPTIONS TO PASTORS

Farewell for Rev. Butzbach Friday; Rev. Richards Welcomed Thursday Evening.

A large number of the members and attendants of the M. E. church gathered at the church last Thursday evening to welcome their new pastor, Rev. Wm. Richards. A pleasing program was given in the auditorium when addresses were given by Rev. W. W. Edwards of the Presbyterian church, Rev. A. H. Butzbach of the Evangelical church, F. A. Bigelow and Dr. I. A. Fritz, who holds the record of being the "pioneer" member of the local M. E. church, having the greatest number of years as a member to his credit. Mrs. L. O. Hoxie favored the audience with a vocal solo. After Rev. Richards responded to the cordial welcome given him, the company were invited to the dining room of the church where refreshments were served.

Farewell for Rev. Butzbach. Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Butzbach left Cass City Monday afternoon for Hoopole, Ill., where they will spend a month with relatives and friends. About Dec. 1 they will leave for Seattle, Washington, and from there on Dec. 10 will sail for China. They begin labors at the Evangelical Mission at Shenchow, Hunan, which Mr. Butzbach established several years ago. Mr. Butzbach had previously spent eleven years and his wife nine years as missionaries in China.

On Friday evening a farewell reception was tendered Rev. and Mrs. Butzbach by the members of the Evangelical church. The basement was very prettily decorated with autumn leaves and shaded lights for the occasion. The program which was given in the church auditorium was opened by a piano duet by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Striffler. Short talks were given by the following: Rev. W. W. Edwards of the Presbyterian church, Rev. Wm. Richards of the M.

E. church, D. F. Schiele, superintendent of the Sunday school, and Florence Striffler, president of the Young People's Alliance. In behalf of the Mission Circle girls, Mrs. E. W. Kercher presented Mrs. Butzbach with a fancy apron and Burton Elliott presented a purse to the departing pastor and his wife as a remembrance from the congregation. Both Mr. and Mrs. Butzbach gave talks in response. Other numbers on the program were selections by the male chorus, a vocal solo by Mrs. A. A. Ricker and a reading by Mrs. Stanley Striffler. Refreshments were served in the basement.

The address of Mr. and Mrs. Butzbach will be Hoopole, Ill., until Dec. 1 and in China will be Shenchow, Hunan, China. Rev. Pohly, who has been pastor of the Brown City Evangelical church, has been transferred to Cass City and will commence his pastorate here Sunday, Nov. 7.

MISS GLADYS HITCHCOCK BRIDE OF DETROITER

Marriage Was Performed Monday Afternoon at Home of the Bride's Parents.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Hitchcock was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday, October 25, when their daughter, Gladys, was united in marriage to Mr. Nathaniel Merion of Detroit, the Rev. Edwards of the Presbyterian church performing the ceremony. Miss Anna Pettit of Cass City attended the bride as maid of honor and A. B. Edson of Detroit served the groom.

At four o'clock to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Helen McGregor, the bridal party took their places under a canopy of smilax and ferns. The bride was most charming in a dress of heavy corded white silk. Her veil of white tulle was held in place by a wreath of lilies of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. It is interesting to note that the bride's gown was the one that her mother was married in some twenty-five years ago. The maid of honor, Miss Pettit, was gowned in rose satin and carried a bouquet of white roses. The house was beautifully decorated with large chrysanthemums, yellow and white being the predominant colors.

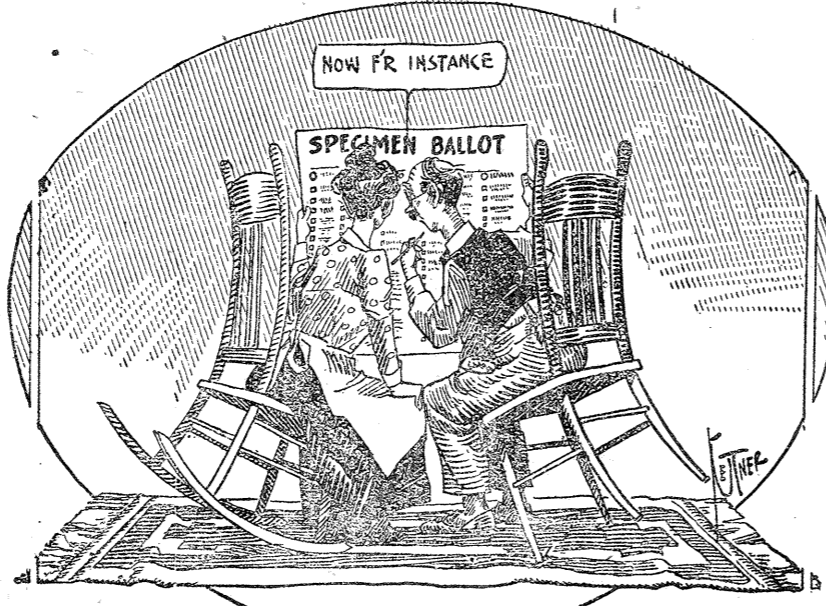

After the ceremony a delicious four-course dinner was served to about thirty guests, the bride's young lady friends assisting. Mr. and Mrs. Merion left Monday on a motor trip to Detroit, Columbus and other points in the East. They will be at home to their many friends after December 1 at 1356 Lafayette boulevard, Detroit.

Those from out of town who attended the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gillie of Fort Wayne, Indiana, the latter a sister of the groom; Mrs. J. Dawson of Marlette, Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Hitchcock of Pigeon, Miss Katherine Fletcher of Ann Arbor and A. B. Edson, Wm. Walters, Mrs. A. A. Smith, Mrs. Geo. Carver, and Miss Gladys Thompson of Detroit.

LOCALS DEFEATED SEBEWAING HIGH TUESDAY, 66-0

Cass City Met First Defeat of the Season at Bad Axe Friday Afternoon.

Over fifty loyal supporters of the foot ball team motored, to Bad Axe last Friday to see Cass City defeated for the first time this year, 56 to 0. Both sides had prepared for a close game as neither team had been scored upon this year. The game was especially close and exciting during the first half when the opposing team was held down to one touchdown; but during the second half they piled up score after score.

People from Cass City who attended the game were greatly impressed by the Bad Axe school spirit. The assembly hall was decorated with such slogans as "Eat 'em alive"; and "Beat Cass City" and the business places were closed during the game. Their team played to win for they had every high school student at the game yelling for all they were worth.

A week from today Bad Axe comes here to play the return game. Mass meetings will be held next week to practice yells and to work up enthusiasm for the game. Not only the students but also the parents and business men should be especially anxious to win this game. Tuesday, the local team defeated Sebewaing 66 to 0 and they play Caro at Caro.

MILK PRODUCERS TO SIT TIGHT IN CRISIS

State Dairy Men Adopt "Safe and Sane" Resolutions at East Lansing Meeting.

Recognizing the fact that the dairy industry of the United States is passing through a critical period, with prospects of depression before it, 400 members of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association, who assembled at M. A. C. for their fourth annual meeting on October 19, passed resolutions urging dairymen to follow conservative policies and to wait sanely and quietly for the readjustment of commercial forces.

"There is no more occasion for alarm in the dairy industry than in other branches of business, but the present conditions call for sane, careful, and sensible judgments," said the resolutions committee, and the sentiment was adopted unanimously by the assembled dairymen.

A great national advertising campaign to increase the consumption of dairy products, and higher protective tariffs for the dairy industry were among the points urged by speakers at the meeting. President N. P. Hull, of the Association; A. C. Anderson, of Flint, formerly professor of dairy husbandry at M. A. C.; Mrs. Dora Stockman, first woman member of the State Board of Agriculture; and M. D. Dunn, president of the National Dairy Council, were prominent among the speakers.

Officers elected for the coming term included N. P. Hull, Lansing, President; J. C. Near, Flat Rock, Vice-President; R. C. Reed, Howell, Secretary and Selling Agent; H. W. Norton, Howell, Treasurer; and M. D. Campbell, Coldwater; M. L. Noon, Jackson; and L. W. Harwood, Adrian, members of the board of directors. All were re-elected.

AKRON MINER KILLED WHEN AUTO IS DITCHED

Bright Lights of Approaching Auto Caused Confusion and Car Was Wrecked.

Michael Dodac, Akron miner, 32 years old, is dead, his wife and three small children were badly shaken and bruised and his three-year-old babe and Joseph Oke, another miner from Akron, were taken to Mercy hospital, badly cut up and otherwise injured, as the result of an accident near Bay City Wednesday evening.

Dodac had purchased a home in Bay City and was moving his family there. He obtained his friend, Jos. Oke, to drive the family to Bay City, and the last load of furniture was following Oke's machine when the fatality occurred.

As Oke approached the Ryer's place, another automobile, going east, is said to have turned its bright headlights directly on the Akron party, and Dodac, who was riding in the front seat with Oke, becoming confused in the blinding glare, grabbed the steering wheel in such a panner as to turn the machine to the right, causing it to run off the highway and into the deep ditch that runs along the side of the road. As the car went over the embankment, the occupants were hurled out, Dodac falling into the ditch, which contains about three feet of water, with the car on its side, on top of him. Before he was extricated from this position he either smothered to death or was drowned, and all efforts to resuscitate him were fruitless.

Mrs. Mack is survived by four sisters and three brothers.

VALLEY PHONE CO. GRANTED RAISE

UTILITIES BOARD GRANTS INCREASE OF ABOUT FIFTEEN PER CENT.

Telephone Exchanges Placed in Three Groups; Must Give Good Service.

Increased rates amounting to about 15 per cent have been granted by the state public utilities commission to the Valley Home Telephone company which operates in Bay City, Saginaw and the Thumb district of the state. Having granted this per cent of increase to the Valley Home it is the general opinion here that approximately the same percentage of increase will be granted to the Bell for all its exchanges outside of Detroit, instead of the 30 per cent which the latter asked, at least until the state appraisal and inventory of the Bell property is completed.

In connection with these rate increases, it is pointed out by a man familiar with telephone conditions that unless radical improvements in the art of telephony are made and costs of materials and labor are reduced the price of telephone service will soon have to be raised to a point where the telephone instead of being of common use as it is now, will only be available for those who have extensive use for the phone and can afford to pay the high rate. He declares that the more phones in use the greater the cost of supplying the service is, and therefore unless rates are so high as to prohibit use of the phone the companies will not reduce prices in order to prevent the loss of patrons.

In the Valley Home case the service is divided into three groups. In Group I are the towns of Bay Port, Gagetown, Otisville, Owendale. Their rates are: Business phone, $33; two-party line, $27; residence phone, $24; two-party, $21; four-party, $18; farm residence within three miles of central, $20; within six and over three miles, $22; within nine and over six miles, $24; over nine miles, $26.

Group two contains Birch Run, Clio, Fairgrove, Frankemuth, Mayville, Reese, Sebewaing, Unionville and Vassar. Their rates are: Business phone $36; two-party, $28; residence phone, $26; two-party, $23; four-party, $20; farm residences, $1 higher in each class than for group one. In these two classes it is provided that the rates shall be collected quarterly and unless paid before the 20th of the month when due, 50 cents additional may be charged.

Group three consists of Saginaw and Bay City. These rates are fixed on a monthly basis as follows: Business phone, $5.20; two-party, $4.60; residence, phone, $3.20; two-party, $2.60; four-party, $2; farm residences within three miles, $2.25; within six and over three, $2.50; over six and within nine, $2.75; over nine miles, $3. Twenty-five cents additional may be collected on all bills not paid before the twentieth of the month.

"Shall I have to call Tillie to help?" she inquired.

"No," he answered. She led him unresisting into the simply furnished room that opened off the hall.

He smiled quizzically and seated himself in the big leather chair to which she led him.

"You see, all you need is gentle persuasion," she remarked as she cuddled down before him with her arm on his knee. "Now we're comfy, and you look quite yourself."

"Do I?"

"Yes. So I want to ask your brotherly advice—not that I expect to take it. Charlie is coming tonight, and he is coming to the point—if I let him. Shall I?"

"What?" queried the young man who persisted in calling himself Richard Clinton.

"Oh, Will!" exclaimed the girl. "You do remember! You remember that you did not want me to encourage him."

"No, I do not remember. I cannot even pretend—" He stopped and sat gazing fixedly at her animated face.

"Cannot what?" she asked.

"Pretend to remember, when I am not—" Suddenly his face became resolute. "Just the same, I do not wish you to encourage that fellow."

"Meanie! Isn't he the best dressed man about town?"

He frowned. "You insist that I must speak as a brother?"

"Of course."

"Very well, then. I should say that he is too much of a—" Clinton hesitated. "Really, Miss—Amy, I cannot say anything. It would not be honorable, when you would be taking my opinion as that of your brother."

"Botheration! Even if you don't remember you're Will, I want you to make believe you do."

A bell rang in the rear of the house. The young man looked toward the hall with an expression of relief not unmixed with regret.

"Is that a caller?" he asked. "Had you not better take a chair?"

"Not unless you promise to be yourself."

"I promise," he readily responded. She sprang up and danced around his chair with the gleefulness of a child. Tillie thrust her gray head in at the hall doorway and announced astutely: "Here's Missus Kirkland an' Miss Ellen an' Mister Bemm."

As the callers entered, their animated faces belied the sedateness of their movements.

"Amy, my dear!" Mrs. Kirkland called out. "You're dancing!—he looks so at home! Can it be possible that he—?"

"Yes, yes! He's promised to be himself! Isn't it grand?" cried the girl. She whirled about to grasp Clinton's arm as he rose. "Hurry into the hall with Ellen and tell her—hurry!"

Ellen clasped her hands. "Will!" she murmured. "Do you really remember? Have you come to yourself?"

"Ah, yes, that's the question," added Bemm. "Out with it, old man. Own up, now; you've been ragging us all along."

"Pretending? Will pretending?" protested Ellen. "I cannot believe it."

Clinton straightened. "I wish to inform Mr. Bemm that throughout this peculiar affair of mistaken identity I have insisted that I am myself, Richard Clinton. All of you think I am Mr. Lowrie. I know that I am not. If I stay here while you are under such a misapprehension, you will have the right to consider me an impostor when you learn the truth. I shall go to some hotel and remain there until I have sent on and received the proofs of my identity."

"Go to a hotel?" remonstrated Amy. "Why, you dear old silly, you're known everywhere. If you register under this stage name, they'll send for the insane asylum doctors."

"They might, indeed," confirmed Mrs. Kirkland.

"Is the whole town a pack of lunatics?" exclaimed Clinton, his blue eyes flashing. "I shall not go to a hotel. I will take my train tonight as I intended, and—"

"Oh, no, no!" implored Ellen. "Surely you'll not desert us!"

"I will go on to California," he insisted. "There I shall send for proofs of my identity, and when I have finished my visit to the coast, I shall return here to convince you of your mistake."

"You sha'n't go!" declared Amy.

"I must," he replied. "I'll stay here, you and Miss Kirkland will persist in this delusion. Probably you'll soon hear that your brother is in the East or abroad. Imagine your anger at me when you learn that I am not he."

"Mr.—Clinton," said Mrs. Kirkland, "do you not realize that it will cause us much apprehension—anguish—if you go away while we still believe you to be Will?"

"It would be dishonorable of me to stay," he rejoined, and he started toward the door.

"I shall go and not return until I have the positive proofs of my identity to show you."

"Proofs of what you think you are? Oh! that means you'll never come back!" cried Ellen.

Amy slipped away and glided out into the room behind the parlor as Clinton took another step toward the hall door. Bemm set himself directly in the way.

"Hold on, old man," he advised. "As your friend, y'know, I really can't let you go."

Clinton put out his hand to push him away. Bemm caught him by the wrist in a viselike grasp. Clinton's face went white; his eyes shone like sunlit ice. He spoke in a very low and quiet tone: "You fool. There are ladies present. Let go."

"Not unless you give me your word to stay and clear up about those bonds," replied Bemm.

Clinton made an attempt to wrest himself free. Bemm held him fast with unexpected strength. But he made the mistake of permitting a shade of irony to appear in his suave smile. The look in his prisoner's eyes warned him to guard himself. He flung up his right arm with the quickness of an expert boxer. Clinton was "Growly bear! Growly bear!" she mocked.

He stepped toward her with the evident purpose of pushing past into the hall. She darted to meet him, and, before he could evade her, flung her arms about his neck. He grasped her wrists, but her fingers were locked fast. To have freed himself he must have resorted to outright violence.

"I—Miss Lowrie," he stammered. "really this is—most—"

"Promise!" she demanded, clinging tighter.

He looked down into her upturned face. The starlike brown eyes were soft with tender affection and bright with merry triumph. To gaze into them and remain stern was an impossibility.

"But I—"

"You must—else I'll never, never let go. You'll have to carry me around with you all the time, everywhere."

The embarrassment that had succeeded his sternness gave place in turn to a whimsical look. "I've a mind to take you at your word."

"You mean—?"

"Take you with me."

She released one hand to stroke his forehead. "Your poor head!" she soothed. "There! There!"

With a sudden return of irritation, he sought to draw himself free from her. She clung to him and again locked her fingers together.

"No, you don't," she exclaimed. "It's no use trying to escape. You've got to promise."

"I say, Miss Amy," murmured Bemm, eagerly sitting up. "If I should try to run off, would you—"

"I promise to remain until Doctor Kirkland comes," broke in Clinton.

"Oh, you will? And Charlie's not hurt!" exclaimed Ellen.

"That's a dear old brotherkins!" approved Amy in the same breath, and she rose on tiptoe for his smiling lips upturned for his brotherly salute.

Bemm sighed enviously. At the sight Clinton bent over the temptation. His lips came so near to the girl's that his mustache grazed the tip of her saucy nose. But instead of kissing her on the mouth, he put up his hand to lift her backling head, and pressed his lips reverently to her broad white forehead.

"I say, now," remarked Bemm, "if that's not proof you're her brother—! Miss Amy has only to say the word, and I shall be charmed to illustrate how one who is not a brother—"

The girl faced the others, leaning affectionately on Clinton's shoulder. "Ellen dear, call Tillie to fetch a bucket of ice water. Poor Charlie Bemm is still off his head."

"I'm not," denied Bemm, rising a trifle unsteadily. "On the contrary, it was my head that came near being off me."

Mrs. Kirkland looked earnestly at Clinton. "May I suggest that an apology—" she began.

"From me!" flashed Bemm, with a heartiness that forestalled Clinton's frown. "Though I meant it as a friend, I should not have—er—resorted to physical persuasion."

"That is generous of you, Mr. Bemm," said Clinton.

"Well, you see, you persuaded me, instead," rallied Bemm. "You presented a deucedly effective argument."

"Oh, if Charlie takes it that way, Will," remarked Mrs. Kirkland.

"Indeed, yes," added Ellen, regarding Amy's sisterly cuddling with a wistful look. "But you'll never do such a shocking thing again, will you?"

"That depends," answered Clinton, a trifle dryly.

CHAPTER IV.

The Bear.

The muffled ring of the doorbell stirred Amy to agile activity. She bent down to thrust her fingertips into the side of one tiny slipper.

"Must be doctor!" she exclaimed. "Where in the world did that—Oh, there it is!" She straightened up, rosy cheeked, to flourish the key of the front door in Clinton's face. "Own up! You'd never have looked for it there—now would you?"

"Magic!" he declared. "You'll not pretend you really had that huge thing in one of those slippers!"

Her face clouded. "Oh, Will, for you to make such a compliment as that! It shows you can't remember I'm only your sister."

"Miss Lowrie," he replied, between amusement and exasperation, "if it were not for you, I would go at once. This continual insistence that I am not—"

"But doctor—he'll soon cure you!" she cried in joyful relief, and she darted into the hall, calling, "Wait, Tillie, I have the key. I'll let him in."

The lines of Clinton's firm mouth tightened. He confronted Doctor Kirkland, who came hastening in from the hall with one big plump hand on Amy's shoulder. The physician waved his other hand around the room and ordered genially: "Sit down. We'll talk this over like sensible people."

"I agreed to remain until you came, Doctor Kirkland," said Clinton, stiffling.

"He was going to run off and leave us!" announced Mrs. Kirkland.

"Leave?—tonight?" queried her husband. He eyed the would-be runaway attentively. "It was my understanding that you agreed to remain in Denver until—"

"Until I had sent off for proofs to convince you of my identity," broke in Clinton. "When I agreed to that I did not foresee how exasperating this absurd mistake would become."

"Exasperating?"

"Yes. Can none of you imagine how it seems to me? I come to Denver an absolute stranger to you all—"

"Oh, Will!" sighed Ellen.

Amy, suddenly full of concern, began stroking his forehead.

"You see!" he cried. "To sit here and let her—and I no more her brother than Mr. Bemm!"

"No, no," differed Bemm. "Miss Amy never offered to be a sister to me, I'm glad to say."

In spite of the girl's soothing fingers Clinton's forehead gathered in a frown. "This is no joke," he said. "It has gone far enough already. Every one of you seems so deluded that the only thing for me to do is to go on to California and not come back here until I have received proofs that must convince you."

"You are sure that you can furnish proofs?" asked Doctor Kirkland.

"Positive."

The physician gravely shook his head. "Complete case of dissociation," he observed. "Perfect instance of secondary personality. My dear boy, in the circumstances I cannot expect you to believe me. We must all seem, as you think, absolute strangers to you. Yet may I request you to listen seriously to what I have to say?"

Clinton looked at his watch, glanced around at the tense faces of Bemm and the ladies, and reluctantly acquiesced: "Very well, if you do not take too long, and if Miss Lowrie will kindly cease to—will take another seat."

"O-ah!" murmured Amy, drawing away from him, deeply hurt.

"Can't you see?" he burst out. "To let you—most despicable of me!"

"But—but to think that y—you—" sobbed the girl.

"My dear boy," said Doctor Kirkland, "try to be reasonable. As a mere question of probability, here are five of us believing that you are yourself—that is, Will Lowrie; while you alone—"

"But I know that I am not he; I know I am Richard Clinton."

"You mean you believe you know. You are not conscious of being other than what and who you think you are. May I ask if you have ever studied abnormal psychology?"

"Not studied; though I have some ideas—"

"Some? Good! If you have even the slightest idea of psychopathology you will know that anyone subject to amnesia, that is to say, loss of memory—"

"My memory, sir, is excellent."

"Oh, Will," reproached Ellen. "You say that when you do not even—"

"Leave him to me, daughter," interposed the physician, and he fixed his shrewd gaze on Clinton's angry face. "My dear boy, in many cases of amnesia the patient not only forgets his past life but also forgets that he has forgotten. This amounts to dissociation of the personality."

"This medical jargon, sir, is to say the least—"

"One moment, please. Have you recently met with a shock, such as that of a railway collision?"

"I was in a motoring accident. But that was more than a year ago."

"Over a year ago," echoed Amy. "What a—fabrication!"

"Please do not interrupt," admonished Doctor Kirkland. He nodded gravely to Clinton. "More than a year ago, you say? Was it a severe accident?"

"Only to the car. I was merely stunned."

"Knocked unconscious! H'm! That and the preceding psychopathic conditions—quite in line with the other cases reported."

"Doctor Kirkland," impatiently retorted Clinton, "certain as I am of my present sanity, much more of this solemn twaddle will drive me mad."

"No, you need have no fear of that. Only you must be calm and reasonable. You will understand how conditions such as yours develop if you will kindly permit me to explain about the peculiarities of amnesia—the peculiar results of the loss of the time memory, combined with the frequently associated phenomena resultant in dissociation, hallucinations—"

"All of you are subject to hallucinations when you mistake me for that Will Lowrie," hotly declared Clinton.

"Now, now, my dear boy; be calm," soothed the physician. "This excitability—"

Clinton sprang up, his blue eyes flashing with anger. "Enough, sir! I shall at once return to the station. As I have agreed to send on for proofs of my identity I shall do so. They will be mailed direct to you. In the meantime you can telegraph to your missing friend or to those who have charge of him. But I will stay here no longer."

The cold anger and determination of the young man's tone struck speechless even the physician and the debonair Bemm. Ellen looked helplessly from her father to her equally mute mother. The hush that had fallen upon them was broken by the quiet voice of Amy, asking in a matter-of-fact tone: "When did you say your train leaves?"

"Shortly before midnight," answered Clinton, frowning at Bemm.

"It's pretty late in the day to get a berth," remarked the girl. "But if they're all taken I suppose you can sleep in the smoking room."

"I have a stateroom engaged through to the coast," explained Clinton, his voice softening, though he continued to frown at Bemm.

Amy smiled across at Ellen, and answered artlessly: "Of course, you old stupid. But I shall need the stateroom; so unless you have luck—"

"Really, Miss Lowrie, I fail to understand—"

"Didn't I call you an old stupid? You say you won't stay. Well, then, I am going along with you."

"But—but, Miss Lowrie, I cannot—"

"Perhaps you can't. I can," smilingly declared the girl.

Clinton turned appealingly to Dr. Kirkland. "This is—it cannot be permitted! Surely you'll not allow her! Send for her mother!"

"There isn't time," said the girl. "Any way mamma never would forgive me if I let you go off alone."

"Good heavens! You really mean to—"

"Of course. You simply must have someone to take care of you till you come to your senses."

He wiped the perspiration from his forehead. "If only I could make you realize— To let you go would be impossible. I must stay."

"Stay? You mean stay here and rob me of my trip?" pouted the girl.

"Very sensibly!" exclaimed Mrs. Kirkland.

"Unless you drive me mad!" qualified Clinton. "I shall stay in Denver, but on condition that Doctor Kirkland shall at once telegraph to inquire about Mr. Lowrie."

"The telegram shall be sent tonight," said Doctor Kirkland. "No doubt we shall hear from the sanitarium some time tomorrow."

"Very well. I suppose I can keep sane that long. May I ask you to send telegrams for me to— No, that will not be necessary. The answer to your telegram will prove that I cannot be Mr. Lowrie."

"Mr. Lowrie!" chuckled Bemm.

Clinton flushed and almost snatched out a wallet, which he opened so hurriedly that the contents fell from it. Among them was a bank draft and a yard-long railroad ticket. As he caught these from his lap to hand to Doctor Kirkland Bemm stooped to pick up the baggage check that had fallen on the floor. With them lay a numbered brass piece such as is given out as a receipt at checking counters.

When Bemm handed Clinton the paper baggage check the metal check was not with them nor was it on the rug. The owner did not notice its absence. He was pointing to the name on the ticket and draft.

"There is clear proof of my identity," he said. "Stupid of me not to have thought of it before. Draft drawn in my favor; my signature on the ticket."

Bemm glanced at the signature and said a trifle sharply: "That's not your writing."

"You mean it is not Will Lowrie's," corrected Clinton. "It is my name, Richard Clinton, and my signature."

"One of the results of dissociation is a change of handwriting," observed Doctor Kirkland in his most cocksure tone.

"There is the bank draft," argued Clinton. "It is drawn on San Francisco. I shall cash it tomorrow."

Bemm shot a quick glance at the physician and lightly remarked: "You'll need to be identified. I'll be glad to introduce you to your bank."

"Mine?"

"Your other self's bank," chuckled Bemm.

"As Will Lowrie, you know, you were confidential agent and broker of the Fourth National," explained Doctor Kirkland. "Charlie and I have our accounts there, so it will be less awkward for you to present your draft where he and I can explain the situation."

"Explain!" muttered Clinton. "Well, I suppose I must make the best of it. Now if you'll kindly give me your office card and the address of the bank and direct me to the nearest hotel."

It won't do you a bit in harm to look at the goods advertised in this paper. Merchants cannot afford to pay printing bills in order to advertise something that won't "stack up" on inspection. That is not the home way. Every ad in this paper contains information of value to some person. Perhaps you are that person—but you can't tell without reading the ads.

Vote YES for School Amendment

- 1—Because the Constitution of the U. S. is not founded upon faiths or creeds, and the school systems of our states should be so conducted as to carry out the principles of our government.
- 2—Because the public school is the melting pot of America, and the very cradle of Democracy.
- 3—Because the school amendment will not affect the present compulsory school law, except for the elimination of three words, "Private or Parochial."
- 4—Because parochial schools were formed and are being used only to perpetuate some foreign language, custom, or creed.
- 5—Because we must make our Americans in our American public schools.
- 6—Because the amendment says not a word, either by direct statement or by implication, against the right of parents to maintain private or parochial schools outside of the five hours a day, 160 to 180 days a year, required for attendance at public schools. Surely this leaves sufficient time for the inculcation of religious doctrine.
- 7—Because Bishop Schrembs, of Toledo, in an address at Chicago recently, said "If this amendment carries in Michigan, it will sweep the entire land." If the principles involved in this issue are not sound why this splendid endorsement?
- 8—Because the world war showed that 800,000 of our men were ignorant of our language—this amendment will cure that defect.
- 9—Because parochial schools create groups of voters, deliverable at election, to the candidates who will accept their terms.
- 10—Because private schools of all kinds promote class distinction.
- 11—Because schools for physical and mental defectives are not affected by this amendment—see Article XI, Section 15 of our State Constitution.
- 12—Because the present district law gives each district the broadest power to change or amend itself to suit its own constituents. The Legislature creates the districts and is at liberty to alter them.
- 13—Because the state does not control teachers in private schools.
- 14—Because in the Supreme Court, it was admitted by the opposition that there was no religious question involved in the amendment.
- 15—Because the opposition has unjustly stirred up religious hatred by throwing the question of religion into a question of public policy and politics.
- 16—Because the Amendment will leave all the churches free to devote their energies to the Christian Field, and will leave religions free to function in the spiritual realm.
- 17—Because if we recognize private and parochial schools as performing a public function, we should allow citizens to pay taxes to support private or parochial schools of their own choosing.
- 18—Because parochial schools have furnished 65 per cent of the criminals of the country, public schools 5 per cent and foreigners and illiterate 30 per cent. The amendment will mean therefore, a considerable saving to the state.
- 19—Because if the City of Detroit were to adopt the same housing space for pupils as the parochial schools have now, every child in the parochial schools could be put into a public school without an additional school room.
- 20—Because the opposition can demonstrate their patriotism by loaning some of their buildings to the state, until the state has sufficient schools of its own.
- 21—Because there is not a valid reason why there should be anything but an elementary public school in a democracy.
- 22—Because the Amendment assures complete separation of church and state.
- 23—Because the Amendment will not destroy a single teacher. Teachers who are qualified to teach may be retained as public school teachers; those not qualified should not be teaching now.

OUR GIGANTIC SALE

customers and friends appreciate our step towards lower prices. This fact has been proven by the great response to our last week's ad. We welcome lower prices, for the lower the price, the more goods we sell. This is only common sense. Furthermore, if farm produce comes down, and it already has, it is only feasible that our merchandise should be lower. Therefore we have simply ignored our cost and have marked our goods down far below the market price in order that we may conscientiously tell our customers that there will not be any lower prices for at least a period of three or four months.

We are with you in the fighting against high prices. We will always give you the lowest possible prices and our quality of merchandise will not be lowered in the least, for it is our policy to carry only the best quality of merchandise.

Heroes.

No man is ever far from the heroic who has learned to do things when he feels least like doing them. To trample underfoot all moods and feelings—to get to our duty and our cross in spite of them—to do that summer and winter till we die, is the one road to the music and the crown.—G. H. Morrison.

AMERICANS ABROAD IN RED CROSS WORK

United States Citizens Far Away
Enthusiastic Members of the "Fourteenth" Division.

Among the most enthusiastic and energetic members of the American Red Cross are those citizens of the United States who live outside the continental boundaries of their country—sons and daughters of the Stars and Stripes residing at the far corners of the earth.

These people compose the Insular and Foreign Division of the parent organization, generally known as the "Fourteenth" Division, which has jurisdiction of all territory outside the country proper; that is, Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Virgin Islands, the Philippines, Guam, and even the island of Yap, which came under our flag as a result of the world war. For the year 1920 this division reported 80,808 paid up members.

The main object of this division is to give our citizens everywhere the opportunity to participate in the work of the organization which stands for the best national ideals. Americans in far places intensely loyal and patriotic, treasure their membership in the Red Cross as the outward expression of their citizenship. It is another tie to the homeland and to each other. There are chapters of this division in Argentine, Bolivia, Brazil, Canal zone, Chile, China, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, England, France, Guam, Guatemala, Haiti, Hawaii, Honduras, Japan, Manchuria, Netherlands, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Porto Rico, Siberia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Syria, Turkey, Uruguay, Venezuela and Virgin Islands.

During the war these scattered members of the Red Cross contributed millions in money, and millions of dollars' worth of necessary articles for the men in service, and sent many doctors and nurses to France. At the same time they carried on an excellent Home Service in their respective communities for the families of those who had gone to war, and in some regions gave large sums of money and immeasurable personal service to the relief of disaster and disease victims.

The division is now establishing service clubs in foreign ports for the benefit of sailors in the American Merchant Marine, making plans to aid Americans in trouble in foreign lands and completing arrangements for giving immediate adequate relief in case of disaster.

It is the Fourteenth Division's part in the great Peace Time program of the American Red Cross.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IN PEACE TIME Health Promotion

Health is at the foundation of human happiness. Through its Rural Service, Public Health Nursing Service and Health Center Service, the American Red Cross aims greatly to strengthen this foundation and to draw more closely than ever the neighborly ties that bind the American people together. Here is shown a Red Cross Public Health nurse attending a young mother with a brand new baby, seeing that both receive scientific care.

Teck a Peek Before Answering.

At the time of tests in the school's small fry were very busy discussing how "awful hard" the questions were and wrinking their brows in anxiety as to whether they'd passed. There is a humorous side to the matter, however. One small girl reported that she knew she had her first question answered correctly. "How are you so sure?" inquired mother. "Well, it was to name 25 birds and, as the teacher left the bird chart open at that place, it was easy," was the naive reply.—Springfield Un on.

Average Duration of Life.

Good authorities give the average duration of human life as about thirty-three years. One quarter of the people on the earth die before the age of six, one-half before the age of sixteen, and only about one person of each 100 born lives to the age of sixty-five. The deaths are calculated at sixty-seven a minute, 97,700 a day and 35,630,835 a year. Births are calculated at about seventy a minute, 100,800 a day and 36,792,000 a year.

Why the Aspen Leaf Quivers.

The aspen leaf quivers easily because it is broad and placed on a long, very flexible stalk. The upper part of the stalk is flattened, and, being at right angles with the leaf, is liable to be moved by the faintest breeze.

Aluminum in the Kitchen.

In a series of tests of aluminum cooking utensils to see how various foods affect them, Prof. John Glaister of Glasgow university, has found that the only substances which attack aluminum surface are oranges, lemons, Brussels sprouts and tomatoes. But even in these cases the quantity of aluminum dissolved was so slight that it could have no effect whatever on the flavor of the food.

Ant Hills Start a Fire.

Perhaps the strangest of causes which ever produced a fire was an ant hill. There is a species of ant known as the wood ant which makes a nest entirely of vegetable matter. Under certain circumstances this may ferment until it gets hot enough to begin to smolder. Then comes a breeze which fans the spark into flame, and the result may be a serious forest fire.

Giving Her Away.

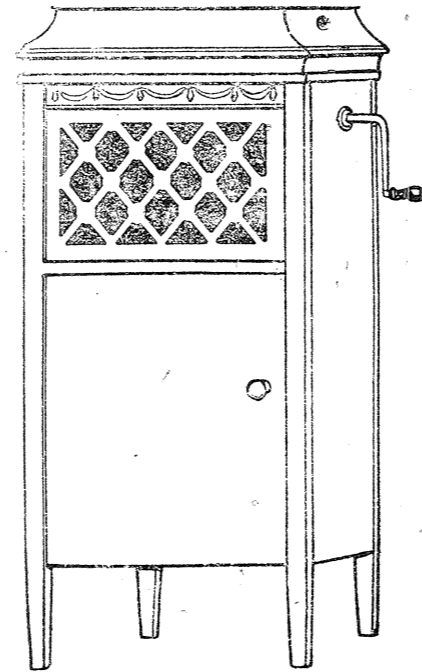

The giving away of the bride by some man, generally her father, is a relic of the time when woman was "a thing," a chattel without rights, and unable to hold property. In such circumstances, she could not, of course, choose her own husband, and was given away to the man who wanted her in exchange for a substantial present.

BROWN CITY—The Brown City Banner has been purchased by William Neumann & Co., who will take possession October 15. John Cawood, the former owner has been in business in Port Huron for some time and has moved his family there. Mr. Neumann is a Brown City man and is well known here.

PIGEON—O. P. Chapin, who has charge of the state game farm in McKinley township, informs the Progress that he raised over 500 pheasants this year. Over one hundred birds were distributed between Caseville and Port Crescent, one hundred were sent to Tuscola county and over one hundred to Sanilac county. Mr. Chapin has also raised quite a number of wild turkeys.—Pigeon Progress.

SANDUSKY—The lack of demand for American condensed milk and the accumulation of large stocks which exceed the domestic demand has resulted in the closing of many of the Borden plants throughout the country and especially in New York where all plants of the company were closed October 1st. The company's plant at Sandusky will continue production, however, but will not take on any new business, confining itself to those producers who have been regular customers.

DECKERVILLE—Several men employed by the Western Oil and Gas Distributing Agency of Flint have been here for the past two weeks remodeling the old Decker building on Main street into a modern gas filling station. When completed it will be one of the most complete in the Thumb. The large storage tanks are at the depot and the work of erecting them is already under way. In addition to gasoline and oils, the agency will carry a full line of automobile tires and tubes.

KINGSTON—The body of William Barrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barrett of Kingston, who died in France while serving his country in the World War, arrived Monday, October 11, 1920. The funeral was held from the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, October 12th, at which a large number attended in honor of the hero who lost his life from the effects of bronchitis and gun shot wounds on October 23, 1918, while a member of Battery D 7th Field Artillery with the United States Army in France. All business places and Kingston schools were closed during the funeral.

BROWN CITY—Thieves who loaded on between three and four hundred pounds of butter at the Sanilac County Creamery last Friday night and drove to Detroit with it, were seen in that city the first of the week where they were disposing of the goods. George Gormson, manager of the creamery and Glen Lints were driving in the city when they passed a suspicious looking outfit and decided to investigate. When they began to back up the men left the load and "beat it" as fast as they could but not until one member of the gang was recognized as a former Brown City boy who worked in the creamery at one time. The other two were strangers.

HARBOR BEACH—Prices in many lines may be tumbling but in the printing industry they continue to increase as is evident from a letter received by The Times from a Port Huron print shop, from which we occasionally buy typesetting which states that hereafter typesetting will be charged for at the rate of $4.00 per hour. Now that is indeed some price. Within the last three weeks the cost of the paper upon which The Times is printed has increased from 1.40 cents for each subscriber's paper to 1.60 cents, f. o. b. Detroit, $320 for a ton, cash in thirty days. No wonder the daily papers of the state are increasing their subscription prices.—Harbor Beach Times.

No Reduction in Price of Oakland Sensible Six

At this time when the public mind is disturbed by sensationally announced price reductions of automobiles and other merchandise and commodities, we desire to give assurance to those who require Personal Passenger Transportation, such as provided by the Oakland Sensible Six, that we do not anticipate reducing the price of our cars.

Starting with the production of the raw material required and continuing through to the finished product, over 80 per cent of the cost of an Oakland Sensible Six is labor.

Over 80 per cent of the cost of all other automobiles produced in large quantities is labor.

When wages paid to labor are reduced, or when labor produces more per man, than many manufacturers of honestly priced automobiles legitimately consider the reduction of their selling prices.

We have not heard of any instance where automobile workers are receiving lower wages.

If wages may be lowered eventually we see no immediate trend in that direction.

In the production of so essential a factor in our economic life as the passenger automobile—increasing as it does the personal efficiency of owners by nearly 57 per cent—we believe the workers whose toil produces the vehicle should be large beneficiaries of the constructive character of their work.

If abnormal demand has been responsible for over-enthusiastic expansion and inflated profits in certain instances, the wage earner should not be made to suffer as he must if powerful forces effect lower automobile prices whether or no.

True enough, there have been many instances of inflated prices. There has been profiteering. And true enough, abnormal profits must be eliminated.

And that is what has been going on all around you recently—the price reductions you have witnessed in automobiles and other merchandise are the belated shaking out of the abnormal profits. The normal profits are still there.

Manufacturers whose goods have been priced on actual cost to produce, plus normal profit, have no inflated figures with which to appeal to the uninformed public in sensational announcements of "Price Reductions." Prudent, studious buyers will not be misguided by erroneous principles.

Oakland Price Advance in Five Years, Due to Increased Cost of Labor and Material, Only 27.4 Per Cent

In 1915 Model 32 Oakland Sensible Six was put on the market at $795 f. o. b. factory.

Since 1915 the wheelbase of the Sensible Six has been lengthened five inches, its weight increased about four hundred pounds, its horsepower materially increased, its frame made deeper, and in many other ways the car has been enlarged, strengthened, improved and refined.

If the present Model 34-C had been built in 1915, it is more than conservative to say that, based on labor and material costs at that time, we would have been compelled to list it to sell at $1,095, or more, f. o. b. factory.

We are therefore able to say, also with great conservatism, that the present price of Model 34-C represents an increase, due solely to increased costs of labor and material, of 27.4 per cent. Larger production each year has kept this increase at a low figure.

Compare this increase with the increase of other automobiles and with commodities—with the things you buy every day.

Nowhere have we been able to find a standard article of merchandise that has increased as little in selling price as the price of the Oakland Sensible Six.

In the event of unexpected reductions in the cost of the labor and material that enter into the construction of the Oakland Sensible Six to a point where we may properly and legitimately reduce the list price of our cars between October 1st, 1920, and May 1st, 1921, we will refund to every Oakland purchaser who buys within the above mentioned period of time the amount of such reduction.

Will the Tractor Work on Plowed Ground?

Plowing is only part of the work a tractor should perform.

We cannot make this statement too emphatic.

And yet at most tractor demonstrations, both public and private, about all the work you will see done is plowing.

But that is only half a tractor demonstration.

You need a tractor that will do your harrowing and fitting and seeding and planting and not pack the ground or leave it in ridges.

And when you decide to buy a tractor that comes up to these specifications, your choice is about narrowed down to the Cletrac.

The Cletrac

Because of its large track surface and its light weight, rides over the top of the ground. It doesn't slip, always plenty of traction.

Its ground pressure is so light that it will ride over an egg buried an inch or two under the surface of soft soil without breaking the egg.

You can do all your harrowing, fitting and seeding with the Cletrac and do a quicker and better job than you can with horses or in any other way.

When Mr. Rollin H. White, the famous automotive engineer, designed the Cletrac, he had other farm work in mind beside plowing. He designed a tractor that could be used to displace the horse or mule on the farm—a tractor that would do more kinds of work more days in the year than had ever been accomplished by any other tractor.

IS THE TRACTOR EASY TO HANDLE?

You probably have seen more than one tractor that needed an engineer to run it and a half-acre lot to turn around it.

Such tractors have their place, but it isn't on the average farm.

The Cletrac is an average-farm tractor.

Most anyone can learn to operate it in a little while. It's easy to steer, as it turns around in a 12-foot circle. You can plow as close to the fence at the end of a field with the Cletrac as you can with a team of horses.

For orchard and vineyard work, the Cletrac is in a class by itself.

 Orson Valentine expects to move to Oxford soon. They need both farmers and preachers there, but "Orson" will till the soil.
 Geese lay the best eggs from the point of view of nourishment. Then come ducks, then guinea fowl. Hens come fourth, turkeys fifth. Hence it appears the Irish people made a mistake, for they always fit a man for a fight with duck eggs, not the fruit of goose. But modern science will get to them soon.
 Frank Hegler, two miles northeast of here, is a great lover of Indian corn. He wishes his crop gathered with neatness and dispatch. Men of years and experience must shuck his maize. Moses Powell and John McCracken caught his attention. Their combined age is 150 years. "Mose" is enough over the 76 mark to make good the two months that old John lacks of 74. Mr. H. said, "I will give eight cents per bushel and board." Then noticing that they both used the weed he added "and all the smoking tobacco you want free" and the aged Pilgrims cried "Amen." Hence up-to-date, the pipes and the work go merrily on.

 Editor—Let us talk to the girls. According to the best statistics can be gathered there are in the world 15,000,000 more women than men. Hence don't be too particular, take any kind of a man you can get.
 Our sugar beet movements at present are worthy of notice. The mammoth loads—130, 135 and on Saturday last 140 of them coming in each day. The greatest among them was four tons and thirty pounds of beets. The receiving crew has been augmented in numbers 'till now the force is like unto a king's guard. They are a bunch that with any local station will well compare, still the haulers sing the same old song "I fear the rising tate."
 Reader—If you went to our rural schools in Michigan sixty years ago, you will remember that choice book we then used in school, "Portortes Retorical Reader." If you kept yours look on page 165 and there find the account of a vessel found in the iceberg which had been frozen in for many years, but the records kept showed that some of them might have lived seventy days without food. It tells us of one, "A pen in his hand meekly told the tale no voice might speak." Seventy days—the record stood; had they been in the ice and wanted food." Some have said that Terrence MacSwenney was fed on the quiet in some way—but we think it was an honest test of endurance and not the first, where an individual properly constituted can live seventy days without food, for it is but a day for each one of our allotted years in this earthly journey.

A TIMELY EDITORIAL.

The following timely editorial appeared in the Grand Rapids Press of Sept. 30, last:
 "While the consumer is rejoicing over the many signs of a general recession in prices it will be well for him to remember that in nearly all lines retail dealers are now in a ticklish position.
 "It is an easy matter for a Henry Ford who controls both raw material and finished product to send a telegram to all the agencies handling his output to reduce prices offhand, but the retail merchant is in a very different situation. He has to constantly maintain a stock of goods to meet the day by day wants of his customers and so his shelves are filled with articles necessarily purchased when all costs were at their peak. In many lines orders had to be placed months in advance. He cannot drop prices abruptly to coincide with manufacturing cuts without dropping into bankruptcy.

 "The automobile owner who discovers that the resale price of his car has been reduced a quarter or a third between noon and night can comfort himself with the thought that his bus is just as valuable to him for service as ever but the retail merchant has no such consolation. He must sell and at a margin that will enable him to continue in business as well as buy new stock at lowering prices.

 "There seems no doubt that the general readjustment process is now under way. But the way to help it is not to stop buying. The public can best help the movement by buying sanely and intelligently for its needs because it is not until present stocks can be disposed of without serious loss that there can be a general and permanent reduction in prices. If that thought is carried in mind there will be a gradual and steady easing of costs without violent dislocation or business wrecking. By helping the dealer dispose of his goods bought earlier we shall, in reality, be helping ourselves.
 "Of course we need not expect really prewar prices for a long time, if ever. The sweat shops have been abolished. All workers are now receiving a fairer compensation than ever before. We want to maintain that condition and that fact in itself is bound to leave the price recession at a higher level than in the old days with their lower standard of living. So do not ask the retailer to bear the burden unassisted nor look for a price millennium over night."

Vote "NO"

on the

School Amendment

Michigan's property owners paid last year an aggregate of over One Hundred Millions for taxes.

The Budget now being prepared by Commissioner Foote shows a demand for more State Taxes than last year's total by several millions of dollars.

The dumping of the Private School Pupils of Detroit alone on to its Public Schools would cost that city Twenty-Eight Millions for new buildings and Three and a Quarter Millions a year for maintenance.

The same cause would increase the School Taxes of Grand Rapids by Fifty Per Cent.

The Direct Taxes of every district would be increased, with no increase in Primary School Fund money.

The total amount of new money to be raised by taxes for Educational Purposes in Michigan if the Private and Parochial Schools are closed by law, in addition to sums already annually expended, is estimated at Forty-Five Million Dollars for Buildings and Seven and a Quarter Millions Annually for Teachers and Going Expense.

The Educators of Michigan unanimously agree that it would take ten years to provide the school facilities which would be demanded if the Private School Pupils have to be educated at Public Expense.

A belief in "charms" still exists in Peakland. In the chimney of an old cottage was recently found a dried pig's heart stuck full of thorns, a relic of the belief that if a jilted lover stuck pins or thorns into a pig's heart he would cause much pain to his faithless sweetheart.—London Mail.

Feel Old?

Overwork, worry, anxiety or sorrow undermines strength and health. These causes contribute to kidney trouble, and weak or diseased kidneys make one feel old in middle age.

Foley Kidney Pills

Mrs. J. D. Miller, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "For many years I suffered with kidney trouble and rheumatism. I had a severe backache and felt miserable and all played out. I got to a place where I had to do something. After taking two bottles of Foley Kidney Pills I can say my backache is gone, and where I used to lay awake at night with rheumatic pains I can now sleep in comfort and enjoy a good night's rest."

TONAL CONTROL

The CHENEY

Produces 12 Distinct Volumes of TONE with the TONAL CONTROL.

This is one of the many IMPROVEMENTS found only in the Cheney Phonograph. This TONAL CONTROL enables one to play a record from very soft to loud to suit one's own individual taste, and also keeps sounds from straying away from home.

tone MODIFIER

A professor's explanation: "A Tone Muffler—called Tone Modifier on a Phonograph—is similar to the SOFT PEDAL on a piano. When this pedal is used, a piece of felt drops between the hammers and strings, causing the TONES to be MUFFLED. Anyone with supple fingers, a little knowledge of piano playing, intuition and anticipation—in other words—KNOWS THE TUNE—can MYSTIFY his friends, by using the soft pedal, at the same time pretend to play the piano while the phonograph is playing a piano selection and—get away with it."
