Will Oil Main Street.
City Clerk Gleason informs us that the council has ordered a car of oil for the streets and it has been shipped from Lawrenceville, Ill., and that it will be applied at once as soon as it arrives. The state highway department has granted the privilege of oiling Main street.—Marquette Leader.

Goes to Chesaning.
The Millington school has accepted Supt. Aelick's request to be released from his contract to teach the public schools here next term. Mr. Aelick has accepted the superintendency of the public schools at Chesaning, Mich., which is a town of about 1500 population, with a large school building which has all modern conveniences including gymnasium, shower bath, lighting system, etc. For his first year's work he will receive $2,400 and the second $2,500, with a request to remain longer if he so desires.—Herald.

Slanderous Letter.
Some Carsonville folks are resorting to questionable practices in the controversy over the proposed community building. One well known divine has received an unsigned, slanderous letter. The preacher has an opinion as to who wrote the letter and extended an invitation to the writer to confess before the letter is turned over to the potal authorities.

Road News.
The job of graveling the Minden City road will be let by the commissioners on Thursday, June 2. The bonds for the Snover-Decker road, amounting to $30,000, will be sold on the 26th of this month. This will probably be the last bond sale for this year. Wilcox Brothers, who secured the contract for building the road running through Watertown township a distance of five and one-half miles, are now doing the grading.—Sandusky Republican.

Old Fashioned Stork.
Once in a while the stork believes in being old fashioned. Ernst Esch is one of twins. Mrs. Esch is one of twins and Saturday their home was brightened by the arrival of twin boys.—Sebewaing Blade.

Federated Church Is Planned.
A harmonious meeting of persons interested in forming a federated church was held in the Harbor Beach Sunday afternoon. There was considerable discussion as to ways and means of bringing about the object sought. A tentative basis—a sort of church doctrine—for the new organization was presented and was accepted without a dissenting vote. It was explained that the statement as read was only intended to be used as a starting point and that additions and subtractions could be made thereto. Committees who represented the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches were requested to confer with their respective organizations to determine whether the doctrine was acceptable to the members of the several churches, and to report at a later meeting what action had been taken in regard thereto.—Times.

Arrested for Moonshining.
Thursday morning Under Sheriff Bradford arrested Andrew Law and Herman Kuhne, of Wheatland township, charged with violation of the liquor act. John Laufer, who was arrested several weeks ago on the charge of drunkenness and sentenced to fifteen days in the county jail, was released Thursday morning and re-arrested as being accomplice with Law and Kuhne.—Sandusky Republican.

Soldiers' Monument.
The committee having in charge the buying of the monument to be erected on the court house grounds in honor of the Sanilac county soldiers, have fulfilled their mission in the purchase of stone of Moses Burns of Crosswell, for whom F. A. Donaldson is local representative, according to a statement by Wm. Roberts, chairman of the committee. The stone is in three sections, as follows: the base is 8 ft. square and 14 inches in height; a second block is 8 ft. square by 10 inches in height; on this will be a block 6 ft. 4 inches by 10 inches in height on which will be the inscriptions of soldier's names on bronze plates. The pedestal and statue of a dough boy. It will be an imposing monument. John H. Hands, a member of the committee, states that this monument was easily 25 per cent cheaper than other monuments offered the committee.—Sandusky Tribune.

Striffler Heads Club.
Fred Striffler was unanimously chosen president of the Caro Business Men's association at a banquet at the Methodist church dining room last Wednesday. Other officers elected were C. A. Klein, vice-president; R. N. Guyer, secretary; and executive committee, J. H. Beckton, L. G. Seeley, L. R. Stewart, E. J. Riley, Dr. R. L. Dixon.—Advertiser.

SUPPLICATION.

Give me the hills and a stout ash stick
And the turf beneath my feet,
And a leafy tree to rest beneath
In the height of the noontide heat.

Give me the road, the long gray road,
As it wanders o'er the hill,
Past the ivied church and the larchwood copse
And the mumbling stone-tooth'd mill.

Give me the moors that stretch around
Like a gray and purple wreath,
And the topping clouds, and the setting sun,
And the winds across the heath.

Give me the dew on the meadow grass
As it glints in the light of morn;
And the glassy tarn, and the gemmy pools
At the hour when the night is born.

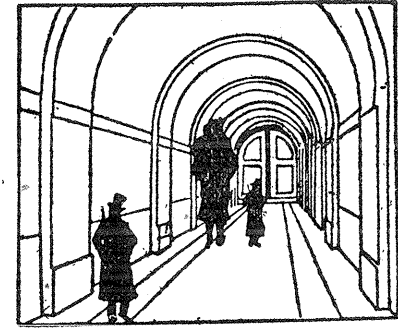

Give me but these—and the winking stars—
When the long glad day is done,
Then give me a friend to share it all,
A friend—and only one!
—T. W. N. Foster in Poetry Review.

MADE ODD BY PERSPECTIVE

Optical Illusion Shows How Easy It Is for the Eye to Be Cheated by Drawing.

Optical illusions are always curiously interesting. One that is rather striking is shown by the accompanying drawing.

The man in the middle distance, who walks by the side of the woman, seems absurdly small. Yet in truth he is exactly the same size as the man in the foreground, if allowances be made for the perspective.

More noteworthy, however, is the seeming hugeness of the woman. It is hard to realize that she is no taller than the man in the foreground, yet measurements will show that the height of the two figures is exactly the same. The effect of the perspective makes the illusion.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Bears Fall Due to Liquor.
There are many ways of catching bears. Here's one: A bear had got into the habit of eating out of a pig's trough on a Carleton (Quebec) farm. One day while her husband was away the farmer's wife saw the animal. She filled the trough with liquor and when bruin drank this up he fell down intoxicated. He was quite helpless and the woman tied the animal to a tree. When the farmer returned he shot the bear.

A Mere Novice.
"Your friend used to be an aviator?"
"Yes, but he abandoned flying while it was still at the elementary stage. He was never what you would call a finished aviator."
"No?"
"He never got any further than looping the loop."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Comforted in Prison.
Consolation while in prison was received by a young man in Ontario, Canada. While he was—as he believed—unjustly imprisoned, he saw multitudes of fashionably clad people pass in and out of the building. The doctor talked about "distorted vision" but the man firmly believes they were special visions.

Ought to Keep It Now.
To purchase in New Jersey the cap he had discarded in France was the strange experience of an overseas veteran. He purchased a cap in a local renovated-army-goods store and discovered that it was the one he had discarded in France after the armistice. On the inner band was his name, in his handwriting.

Bears a Nuisance in Norway.
In the remote districts of Norway every telephone and telegraph pole must be carefully watched. This is because the bears have a peculiar habit of climbing to the top of the pole, sitting on the cross beams and swinging backward and forward until the pole falls.

Her Troubles Began Early.
Having had dental attention before she was a week old is the boast a Kennebec (S. D.) baby girl may make. She was born with a tooth already grown, but before she was a week old the doctor considered it advisable to have the tooth extracted and the baby was sent to the dentist accordingly.

Midgets Developed Well.
Twin daughters born to a New Brunswick couple in 1906 weighed one and one-half pounds each, and measured thirteen inches in length. A common tea cup would go over their heads. They are now strong and healthy girls at the age of fourteen.

First Memories to Return.
The memory of songs, hymns and other music is first to return in the case of soldiers who lost their memories from shell shock.

Asbestos Used by Romans.

CORN AIDS DAIRY COW FEED

Producers Ignore Its Cheap and Nutritious Food—Produces Heat, Energy and Fat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With well-fitted corn cribs on many farms, and relatively low prices prevailing this year, it is time, says a feeding specialist from the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture, that correction should be made of the impression found in certain localities that corn is not good feed for dairy cows. Certain recent inquiries on this subject indicate that the use of corn in the dairy ration is not understood by all dairymen; and it is hoped that a correction of this impression may lead to a greater utilization of the large 1920 crop for dairy-cattle feeding.

"When it is fed for a definite purpose, with a complete knowledge of its limitations, as well as its true worth, corn is one of the best and cheapest grains we have that can be used for the economical production of milk," says the feeding specialist. "Some dairymen avoid feeding it altogether, or account of the mistaken idea that it is not suited to a cow producing milk. This is because it is so generally used for fattening both hogs and cattle, and because it has not been successful when used alone for dairy cow feeding."

The function of corn in the ration is to furnish the animal with material for producing heat, energy, and fat; but is rather low in protein and deficient in ash. When fed alone, it does not supply largely the nutrients which make bone, muscle, hair, and the casein in milk. Consequently, in compounding the grain ration it is necessary to add to corn some feed which is high in this substance, such as bran, linseed meal, or cottonseed meal. Bran is useful because it not only lightens the ration, but helps to balance it. Corn-and-cob meal is largely used in feeding dairy cows, and it has one advantage over corn meal in that it is more bulky, although not so palatable. Usually, when corn forms a large portion of the grain ration, protein also should be supplied by feeding some leguminous hay, such as alfalfa or clover, for the roughage in the ration.

Since corn can be grown on most dairy farms, supplies energy in a cheap form, and is palatable; and since, when it is made into silage, it provides the cheapest and most efficient form of succulence, every dairyman should have the information that will enable him to make corn the basis of a successful ration for economical milk production.

BACTERIA CAUSE SOUR MILK

Most of Tiny Organisms Are Not Only Harmless, but Positively Beneficial to Milk.

Milk, as it leaves the cow's udder, contains bacteria. If the cow is dirty and there is loose hay around, dust from the cow's body and the hay settles in the milk-pail, and this dust is swarming with bacteria. As soon as they reach the warm milk they commence to multiply, and in a few hours they may have increased until there are millions to the teaspoonful of milk. It is these bacteria that cause milk to sour, but most of them are not only harmless, but positively beneficial.

EXCELLENT AS FORAGE CROP

Cowpea Will Thrive on All Types of Arable Soil and Requires Very Little Attention.

For feed the cowpea is especially valuable, specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture say, because it will grow on all types of arable soil, requiring little attention and producing most excellent forage. In addition, it is of great value as a green-manure crop to increase the humus and the nitrogen content of the soils upon which it is grown.

The SAMSON Model M Tractor

When you buy your tractor you want heavy draft horsepower, both for the drawbar and belt, but at the right price in first cost and upkeep cost as well. This is what the designers, engineers, and producers had in mind when they developed the Samson Model M. You want a tractor that will take the place of and perform the duty of a barn-full of expensive horses without costing you a small fortune to buy or a big part of your crop to maintain. That's exactly the kind of a tractor you get in the Samson Model M.

The Samson Model M is the last word in modern tractor construction. It is not like the average I-beam and channel-steel frame tractor that weighs so much it takes a large per cent of its own power for self-propulsion—it is a coupled power unit all by itself from radiator to rear wheels. Every working part is enclosed and protected against dust, mud, or rain.

The even distribution of weight, compact design, and low center of gravity give to the Samson perfect traction, great stability and insures its hugging the ground under all conditions.

It has no lost motion for it is built and lubricated throughout like a high priced automobile, insuring great efficiency, ease of operation, maximum length of life and service, and the price is right.

PRICE FULLY EQUIPPED—$1060.00.
Delivered to the user.

Success Calls for Sacrifice. What sacrifices are you willing to make to attain your ambition—that position or thing you desire above all else? Are you willing to cut out luxuries and pleasures, to dismiss the hundred and one little desires that you have been accustomed to gratify? Have you the grit and pluck to stand all manner of discouragement to struggle on without losing heart; to get up again every time you fall? Upon this will depend your failure or success.—Orison Swett Marden in Chicago Daily News. Frontier Riding Records. Two notable cavalry rides of the frontier days were those of Tom Tobin and John Kirley. Tobin, when a mere lad, carried dispatches for Gen. Kearney during the Mexican war, once making a record of 800 miles in less than 11 days, using six horses. Kirley performed a similar service from the army camp near Salt Lake during the Mormon troubles, riding to Fort Leavenworth, 1,100 miles in 17 days, using only four horses. He had to abandon his last mount a few miles from his destination and carry his saddle in. Diamond Mining Old Industry. Diamond mining is an ancient industry, and in India antedates Christ's birth by many centuries. There can be no question that the Roman Manilius was acquainted with the Indian diamond in A. D. 16, and a ring of imperial times, set with a one-carat rough stone, has been preserved. Since then, diamond-mining has furnished employment to tens of thousands, and for well over two hundred years to from seventy-five to one hundred thousand men. It is a world-wide industry in which the common labor is almost wholly done by negroes.—Exchange. Conscience Money. There are some conscientious people left and some of the amounts paid are large. Mann garage, when seventeen used automobiles were auctioned off to the highest bidders by Auctioneer Stahlbaum. The sale lasted three hours and was witnessed by between five and six hundred people. The used cars were lined up at the curb in front of the garage and were numbered. The cheapest car sold brought $25.00.—Harbor Beach Times.

NOTICE.

Notice of review of assessment for the improvement of assessment district road No. 3, under Act 59, Public Acts of 1915, as amended.

Whereas, We, the undersigned Board of County Road Commissioners, of the County of Tuscola, have heretofore determined that a certain highway commencing at the west section corner common to sections 19 and 30, T 14 N R 10 E, Elmwood Twp., thence south one mile between said section 30, Elmwood Twp. and section 25, T 14 N R 9 E, Columbia Twp., to the west section corner common to sections 30 and 31 in said Elmwood Twp., thence east four miles along the south side of sections 30, 29, 28, 27 in said Elmwood Twp., to the east section corner common to sections 27 and 34 T 14 N R 10 E, Elmwood Twp., shall be improved in accordance with specifications now on file; and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 59 of the Public Acts of 1915; and

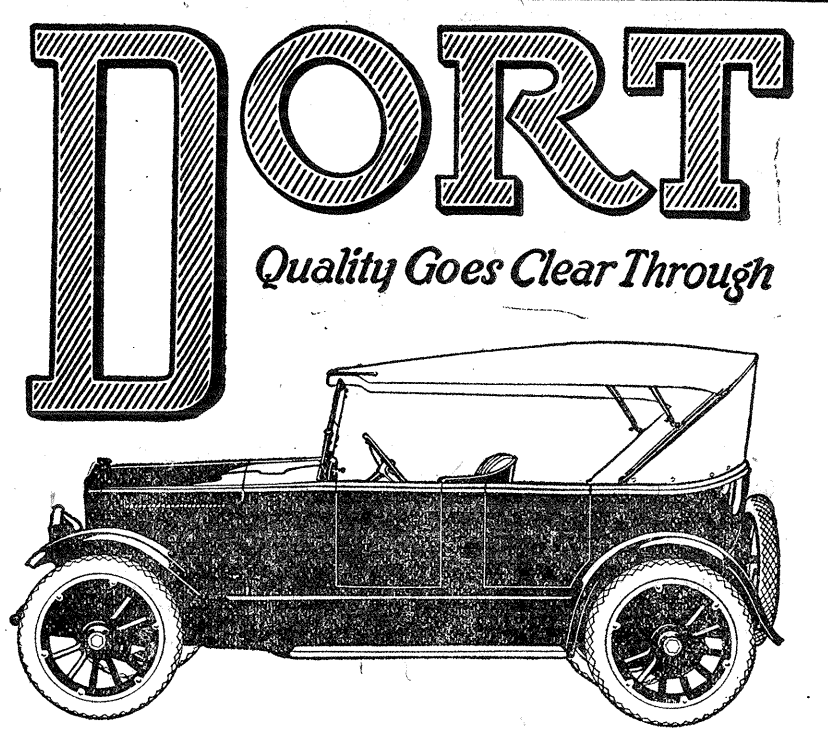

Whereas, We, the said Board have heretofore determined the boundaries of the special assessment district No. 3 for said highway known as assessment district road No. 3 to be as follows: Said District includes all lands within the following boundaries in the said townships of Columbia and Elmwood, in the county of Tuscola, to-wit:

Commencing at the west section corner common to sections 19 and 30, T 14 N R 10 E, Elmwood Twp., thence east one half mile on the section line between sections 19 and 30 to the ¼ corner common to sections 19 and 30, thence south one-half mile on the n and s ¼ line of section 30 to the center of said section 30; thence east three and one-half miles on the E and W ¼ line of Sections 30, 29, 28, 27, Elmwood Twp., to the East ¼ corner of section 27; thence south one mile on the east side of sections 27 and 34 to the east ¼ corner of Section 34; thence west three and one-half miles on the E and W ¼ line of sections 34, 33, 32, 31 to the center of section 31; thence north ¼ mile on the N and S ¼ line of said section 31 to its intersection with the north E and W ¼ line of said section 31; thence west one mile on the north E and W ¼ line of said section 31, T 14 N R 10 E, and section 36, T 14 N R 9 E, Columbia Twp., to its intersection with the N and S ¼ line of said section 36; thence north one and one-fourth miles on the N and S ¼ line of sections 36 and 25 T 14 N R 9 E, Columbia Twp. to the north ¼ corner of section 25; thence east one-half mile on the section line to point of beginning.

All the lands in the said townships of Columbia and Elmwood in said County of Tuscola within the boundaries above described, the said townships of Columbia and Elmwood at large, and the said County of Tuscola at large will be liable to an assessment for benefits received for the improvement of said highway.

Now therefore, all owners of land within the above described boundaries in the said Townships of Columbia and Elmwood, in Tuscola County, and all persons interested in said lands, and the Townships of Columbia and Elmwood and the said County of Tuscola, are hereby notified that we will be present at the store of P. H. Muck, in the N. E. corner of section 25, T 14 N R 9 E, Columbia Twp., within the said assessment district at two o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard time, on the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1921 and announce the assessments of benefits upon the lands within the said boundaries, constituting and comprising said special assessment district, and upon the said townships at large and upon the said county at large, and thereupon the said assessments will be open to review to all persons interested and the said townships and county may appear and be heard with respect to their several apportionments of benefits for said improvement.

Dated at Caro, Michigan, this 10th day of May, A. D. 1921.

Teaching Harold a Lesson

By HAROLD SINCLAIRE

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.) "Don't be too hard on me, Milly." "I'm not. You are hard on yourself, Harold. Just think of it; when we were getting along so nicely, and everything was going so well. I can't bear to think of it," and pretty Milly Wells burst into tears. "I am sorry," began the young man in a contrite tone meant to be soothing. He placed a gentle hand on Milly's own. She switched it away, wilful and petulant. "You never would have done it if I had known," declared the young girl between sobs. "I never want you to show me the bank book again. I've lost all interest in it forever, and I'm glad I'm going to visit Aunt Margaret. People may have some consideration for me there."

WHY Napoleon Chose Violet as Floral Emblem

Why was the violet selected as the floral emblem of the House of Bonaparte? Why was that traditionally modest, shrinking little flower chosen by so aggressive a character as Napoleon? The subject was recalled with renewed interest recently by the various anecdotes printed of the late Empress Eugenie, several of them dwelling on her fondness for violets, the flower of the Bonapartes. The following is an interesting explanation of the matter, given by an authority on the Bonaparte family, Edward Legge, author of "The Empress Eugenie," a book that aroused considerable comment ten years ago. According to Mr. Legge, three days before Napoleon I embarked for Elba the great emperor, still undecided whether he would resign himself to his banishment, was walking in the gardens at Fontainebleau. The Duc de Bassano was arguing that the time for withdrawal was past and Napoleon was much excited. He saw a child gathering violets and asked for them. The boy gave them, and after a few minutes the emperor, who had not replied to the Duc, hitherto, remarked: "The accident of this occurrence is a secret hint to me to follow the example of these modest flowers. Yes, gentlemen, henceforth the violet shall be the emblem of my wishes."

INDUCING OTHERS TO TALK

Why the Art of Listening Is One That Is Well Worthy of Acquisition.

It has been noted that men who have attained great eminence were veritable interrogation marks when youngsters. They wanted to know the why and the wherefore of everything. They wanted to listen. There is a difference between listening and silence. The best listener is not the person who never says a word; there is an art of listening. The expert listener guides the talker into the desired paths not only by asking the right questions, but by evincing intelligent, sympathetic interest and making appropriate comments. It is my experience, says a writer in Forbes magazine, that very few men who have accomplished big things can talk freely about themselves or their activities. They have to be coaxed, they have to be steered, they have to be stimulated. They must have the right kind of listening. Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, was once approached by an interviewer who wanted Mr. Ochs to give an account of his career. The famous publisher politely but emphatically declined. By and by, however, he discovered that the interviewer was surprisingly familiar with his life's work and, under the influence of the right kind of listening, Mr. Ochs, almost before he realized it, was talking more intimately about himself than he had ever talked before.

The Scrap Book

THAT BROUGHT HIM TO TIME

Young Man's Dire Threat Too Awful for Prospective Father-in-Law to Contemplate.

"No, sir!" stormed the purse-proud parent. "I will never, never consent to your marrying my daughter." "But, sir—" "But me no 'buts,'" thundered the irate father. "I have spoken!" A look of defiance lighted up the young man's somewhat crestfallen countenance. "Very good, sir," he said. "If you will not agree, then I must enforce my demand. I am considered a hard-working, good-looking young fellow, and yet you turn my application down." "I do," said the rich man. "Then, sir, I will go away and make love to your cook, propose to her—in a week we will elope—" The rich man turned purple, then paled. "Have mercy!" he gasped, in trembling accents. "Such conduct is inhuman. My cook is a jewel. I would not part with her for millions. You can have my daughter, young man, but my cook—never!"

HEROIC FRENCH WAR BIRDS

Many Pigeons Received Decoration for Their Services, One Obtaining the Legion d'Honneur.

It remained for the French to confer in their own charming way the honors they felt were due their pigeon heroes. Birds which performed distinguished service or showed unusual courage in the line of duty were awarded the Croix de Guerre or the Croix Militaire. Diplomas with the citations were issued and kept at the headquarters of the French Pigeon Service, and because pigeons cannot wear medals on their breasts special bands, with the colors of the decorations, were made for their legs. A bird which will go down in French history just as surely as Field Marshal Foch himself is the one which carried from Vaux to Verdun the last message for help sent by Commandant Raynal before the Germans captured the fort. This pigeon flew through a hail of fire and a gas barrage, and, wounded and gassed, dropped dead as it delivered its message. It was awarded the Legion d'Honneur—E. H. Boynes in Harper's Magazine.

HELPING OUT

"Women are sympathetic. Don't like to see anybody lose out." "What's the idea now?" "Take furs. If the women don't wear furs in winter, they wear 'em next summer to make up."

More Woman Hunters.

Among the deer hunters in the new Jersey woods are more women than ever before. In fact, it was a very uncommon thing a few years ago to see a woman with a gun in the woods, but there were a few, generally natives, who hunted the deer for food more than for fun, but this season there are a great many women in suitable hunting togs and equipped with good guns who are following the deer with the men. These women secured their preliminary experience in hunting smaller game.

Dog's Eyesight Aided.

Boston is famous for the erudition of its inhabitants, most of whom wear glasses, but a rather unusual sight, even for that city, was seen when a spaniel was noticed trotting along with tortoise shell goggles across his aristocratic nose. His owner says that the dog's eyes have been affected by the sharp winds when taken out motoring, but being a Boston pup, it has probably strained its eyes by too much study.

Artist Has Overcome Handicap.

An armless English artist who paints with his feet has been commissioned by the queen of Norway to paint a picture of one of her favorite horses. He can also play the piano and accordion with his feet.

No Accounting for Tastes.

Dogs' feet are a delicacy in the island of Formosa. Probably the islanders consider we are just as curious when we eat pigs' feet, ox-tail soup or calves' brains.

Used Teeth to Hold Pen.

Having lost both his arms in a wreck some years ago, a man signed his marriage license at Harrisburg, Pa., by holding the pen between his teeth.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Attention is especially directed to the quotations in this advertisement, representing values it has not been possible to offer for a period of years. No person can afford to disregard this publication. There will be found in all the departments of my store special values that during time like the present are very essential to every customer, and in order to stimulate business and to emphasize that prices have reached their new low level, approaching that which I consider normal. This fact makes it very profitable to visit this institution and personally obtain the advantages of securing underpriced merchandise.

Prices are now inclined to remain firm, and in some instances for fall buying there have been slight advances. We have reached the stage now where prices should have the attention of every careful buyer.

When lower prices can be quoted, Dailey will quote them.

Respectfully yours, B. J. DAILEY.

DELAY ON TRAIL

By B. H. BAILEY.

No. 6 was late. That was an unusual happening on the D. & H. railroad and the division superintendent, standing on the little platform at Hoopeston, waiting to take No. 6 back to his headquarters, was plainly annoyed.

Superintendent Wheeler was not a quick tempered man, but as he walked up and down the Hoopeston platform glancing at his watch from time to time, anyone with half an eye could have seen that he was not in an angelic frame of mind. Inside the office the telegraph was ticking merrily with more "railroad business" and at length Superintendent Wheeler thrust his head in the door for the tenth time and asked:

"Anything new from No. 6?"
"She's thirty-five minutes late at Alton, sir," replied Operator Ryan briskly. "They've made up eight minutes time, sir."

"Have you yet heard what's the matter?" asked the division superintendent brusquely.

"Don't know for sure, sir, but I guess it's a hot box," said Ryan, and the superintendent continued his nervous walk up and down the platform.

Twenty-three miles away No. 6 was whooping over the shining rails like a vestibule limited, although it was only a "combination freight," lately invested with the dignity of a badly frayed passenger coach tagging on behind the heavy box cars for the few passengers, who desired the accommodation of a "way" train. But tonight No. 6 was running on freight schedule. She was more than 40 minutes late and as Joe Kelly looked from his porch beside the lever and saw his companion shoveling coal into the capacious maw of the engine, he encouraged him to redoubled efforts.

"That's the stuff, Jack," he said, "toss her in and we'll make up a bunch of it anyhow."

He got thus far in his chat and Jack was grunting assent from his dusty place among the lumps of coal when the engineer suddenly stood upright and leaned half-way out of the cab window. Then, with a convulsive movement he threw the lever clear over and shut off the steam. An instant later the sharp bark of the whistle calling for "brakes" awoke the echoes.

"What's the matter," demanded the fireman, springing up to his side of the cab, half ready to jump.

"I don't know," said Kelly, peering into the half gloom ahead of the train, "but if someone isn't swinging a red light across the track down there, I'm a goat."

"Right you are," said the fireman, "that's a red one all right. Will we make it?"

"Oh, yes; we'll stop before we get there," said Kelly, confidently. "Wonder what it is, rail broken or a hold-up?" The conductor, who had been alarmed by the whistle for brakes and the grinding of the iron shoes against the wheels, came running over the tops of the freight cars and clambered over into the cab.

"What is it?" he demanded.
"Don't know," said Kelly, "take a peek yourself. Red light ahead."

The train had begun to slacken speed by that time and was fast approaching the slowly swinging lantern. At last it thundered to a stop and stood panting while the conductor sprang off and ran ahead. There stood a youth not more than twenty-years old, doggedly swinging a lantern while a frightened girl of seventeen clung to his arm and looked with wide eyes on everything.

"What's the matter here?" demanded the conductor. "What are you flagging this train for?"

"We want to get aboard," said the young man stoutly.

"What?" shrieked the conductor, "do you mean to say you've stopped a way freight that's forty minutes late just because you can't wait for the passenger that comes through at ten o'clock?"

"That's just it, sir," said the young man with much dignity, "we can't wait for the passenger. We want to go on this train. You see, the fact is," he went on growing confidential and taking a tighter hold on the little arm hanging in his, "we're going to town to get married."

"Oh, ho," interrupted the conductor, "an elopement, eh? Well, I'm darned if I don't like your nerve: Come on, get aboard then. Don't delay us any more than you have."

Five minutes later No. 6 was tearing over the rails toward Hoopeston with a pair of turtle doves nestling in a double seat in the passenger coach. Superintendent Wheeler had his speech all ready when the train slowed up at Hoopeston. The conductor swung off and touched his hat.

"Hot box at Penway Junction, sir," he explained. "We've made up fourteen minutes."

"What was that other stop for, reported by the operator at High Ridge?" demanded the superintendent. "Weren't you late enough without stopping for passengers?"

"Elopement, sir," explained the conductor.

"What!" thundered the superintendent, but when the conductor took him to the door of the coach and in a whisper explained the case and pointed out the blissful lovers, the division superintendent hemmed and hawed and rubbed his chin and rubbed his eyes and no member of that train was laid off.

Imitating Mahogany.
In the manufacture of furniture and cabinets a great deal of red gum is used as an imitation of mahogany or Circassian walnut, says the American Forestry Magazine. When red gum is properly finished it can be made to look much like either of these woods. There is a very distinct difference, however, between red gum and mahogany or walnut. This difference lies in the size of the pores.

Dreams.
To dream of a snake denotes treachery; a black snake signifies disease; a green snake is a good omen to farmers, but to others it foretells loss of money by unfortunate investments. A rattlesnake in a dream means that one who pretends to be a friend is secretly endeavoring to ruin your reputation. To fight snakes means you will outwit your enemies and succeed in what you have undertaken.

Chinese Warning to Counterfeiters.
It was a rash man that made counterfeiting his trade in defiance of the grim warning printed on Chinese bank notes of the Ming dynasty. "Who makes a copy of this will have his head cut off." The most superficial student of Chinese history knows that the threat was not idle. Nowhere, except in Lewis Carroll's Wonderland, was the royal privilege of cutting off heads exercised so freely as at the court of Peking.—Youth's Companion.

Real Jazz Wagon.
Another advantage Solomon had over the other young fellows of his day was wealth. When he built that chariot he "made the pillars of silver, the bottom of gold, the covering of purple, and paved with love for the daughters of Jerusalem." That would catch most any girl for a Sunday evening ride.—South Charleston Sentinel.
