EARLY PIONEER OF ELMWOOD LAID TO REST

Thos. Jackson, for 40 Years a Resident of Tuscola Co., Passed Away Sunday.

Thomas Jackson, for 40 years a respected resident of Elmwood township, passed away at his home Sunday, Oct. 16, at the age of 63 years. Mr. Jackson suffered a paralytic stroke two weeks previous to his demise.

Funeral services were held at the family home Wednesday afternoon, Rev. W. W. Edwards, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment was made in Elkland cemetery.

Thirty-seven years ago, he became the possessor of a farm 4 1/2 miles west of Cass City. He was united in marriage with Margaret Ferguson on March 3, 1897. To this union, two children were born, Gladys and Harold, who survive the parents. Mrs. Jackson preceded her husband in death in 1916.

NATIONAL PLAN FOR BOOSTING HOME PAPERS

Week of November 7 to 12 Has Been Set for Nation-wide Endeavor.

"Subscribe to your home town paper."

That is the slogan of a new nationwide movement backed by the National Editorial Association and other agencies.

The movement has back of it far more than a selfish desire on the part of newspapers to acquire increased circulation, for it is, in effect, a step toward the perfect unification of America by the strengthening of ties that bind everyone to his native soil.

The campaign is, moreover, an excellent opportunity to boost the home town. The men and women who were born and reared here have, some of them, been away for many years and many important changes have taken place—changes in which they would be greatly interested. It is more often the case than not that private correspondence overlooks these changes, however careful one might attempt to write "the news" in a letter.

The newspaper, on the other hand, prints all the news of interest, large and small and is the ideal medium through which to keep in touch with the old home town.

In order to stimulate this movement we will next week offer an extra copy of the Chronicle to every subscriber who calls or writes for it. This extra can be sent to any member of the family who is away from home. Or, if preferred, we will mail a copy free to anyone you designate. Do it now.

Mrs. C. W. Heller, a member of the local Rebekah lodge, was honored at Lansing Wednesday by being made the recipient of the militant degree, an honorary degree conferred upon members of the fraternity chosen from lodges throughout the state. In the ceremony which is public, jewels are bestowed upon the candidates who are chosen because of meritorious effort in the fraternal and benevolent field of Odd Fellowship, or for unusual public service. Mrs. Heller has been a member of Venus Rebekah lodge for 23 years, has been through the officers' chairs twice and has held the office of secretary for ten years.

"YOU KNOW ME, AL"

A man in the mercantile business told me a while back that it was not necessary for him to advertise as he had been here a long time and every one knew where he was. I sprang the old one on him about everybody knowing where the cemetery was and that it had been there longer than he had, still I didn't see any mad rush for that place.

And I wondered too, if that man died, if his friends were so many and so steadfast that they would die too, just for the sake of being near him so they could buy goods of him.

Of course there are mighty few who spring that old gag about every one knowing where I am now days. Even the man who is 35 or 40 years behind the times knows that people are not going to continue trading with him just because they know where he is located.

It's the service and the price and the fact that real business men are after business that brings business to them in this day and age. Anyone can tell what the past is but the man that looks into the future and marks out a pathway for himself is the man who is going to make good.—Exchange.

CARO AND KINDE TIE IN TUESDAY'S CONTEST

Game Called at End of Eighth Inning Because of Darkness; Score 5-5.

Kinde defeated Caro at the county seat last Thursday 14-11 in the first game of the Thumb championship series. Caro won the second game at Kinde Sunday, the score being 5-4. The third game which was to decide the series was played at Cass City Tuesday afternoon and resulted in a tie, 5-5, at the end of the eighth inning, when the umpire called the game at 5:30 because of darkness.

Caro was hampered in the first two innings by a misplacement of two players. Elliott, the expert third sacker of the Akron team, was placed on second, at the beginning of the game and Ryan, who usually plays second for Caro, was placed to the third sack. Ryan made two costly errors in the second frame because of being unfamiliar with third-base territory. The change of positions tightened up Caro's infield and the team made better progress after the third inning and tied the score in the seventh by adding two runs.

The day was cold and the wind raw and it was anything but a base ball day.

The score:
Caro.....0 0 0 0 2 1 2 0—5
Kinde.....1 3 1 0 0 0 0—5

CRAMTON HEADS IMPORTANT COMMITTEE

Preference Viewed as Stepping Stone towards the United States Senate.

A recent Washington, D. C., press dispatch says:

"Appointment of Louis C. Cramton as chairman of the sub-committee in charge of all appropriations for the Department of Interior may have an important bearing on the election of a United States senator in Michigan in 1922. Cramton has been mentioned as a possible candidate in the Republican primaries against Senator Charles E. Townsend. His friends now declare that this appointment brings him to a position he will be loath to sacrifice for an uncertainty."

"The reorganization of the appropriation committee to meet the requirements of the new budget law led to the appointment of Congressman Cramton to this place. Under the new plan the appropriations for each department of the government will be correlated and provided for in one big bill instead of being split into several bills. This is expected to insure more economy and efficiency of administration as well as to render auditing an easier task.

"The Interior department bill which Congressman Cramton will aid in framing and of which he will have charge on the floor of the house, will be one of the largest coming before congress. It will include the appropriations for pensions which amount to about half a billion dollars annually, and also for the general land office, patent office, Alaskan Railroad, Indian affairs, Bureau of Education, Geological survey, Bureau of Mines, Reclamation Service, National Park Service, and a number of other minor activities.

"Other governmental appropriations will be combined in ten big bills. Congressman Patrick H. Kelley will continue to have charge of navy appropriations. The other bills will be provided for the Department of the Treasury, State and Justice (combined), Labor and Commerce (combined), Postoffice, Agriculture, and War, District of Columbia and a deficiency bill to take care of unavoidable shortages.

"Congressman Cramton a year ago took a 10,000-mile trip through the west, during which he visited all the public lands, reclamation projects, Indian reservations and National parks. This summer he made a tour of Michigan during which he received some encouragement as a senatorial candidate. He must now decide between his senatorial ambitions and a career in the house."

NEWS OF THE CO. SUPERVISORS

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS CO. RAISE $26,750 FOR STATE TRUNK LINES.

A. G. Milliken Elected Supt. of Poor and F. E. Schall-School Examiner.

Supervisors of Tuscola county, in session at the county seat last Thursday voted an appropriation of $100 for the Michigan Hospital for Crippled Children and an appropriation of $75 for soldiers' relief asked by O. B. Randall, the secretary, in his report, was recommended to the Ways and Means committee.

A communication from the state tax commission calling on supervisors to equalize assessments in June instead of October, was accepted and placed on file. A communication from Berrien county asking for resolutions to abolish the new accounting system lately established was referred to committee on motions and resolutions.

On Friday, A. G. Milliken of Koylton was elected to succeed himself as superintendent of poor, and F. E. Schall of Caro was elected to succeed himself as school examiner. In both instances no other candidates were proposed for the offices.

A communication from the state highway department giving the 1922 tentative program for trunk line construction in Tuscola county as follows:

- No. 1, 4 1/2 miles, Class B, Juniata and Indianfields, $35,000; 1 mile, Class F in Caro, $30,000; 1 mile, Class F in Cass City, $30,000.
- No. 31, 1-3 mile, Class F, in Fairgrove, $18,000.

Total for 81 and 31, $113,000. Tuscola county's share of this total is $28,250. The communication urged the necessity of having the 1922 funds raised in advance in order to get the state appropriation and was referred to the committee on highways and bridges.

Monday, an appropriation of $200 was made for the Michigan Children's Aid Society of St. Joseph.

The county road commission asked permission to appoint Chairman G. F. Schulz of the commission to the office of superintendent of maintenance at a salary of $2,000 a year. If the supervisors do not agree to such an appointment, such an officer, in the opinion of the commission, will have to be appointed outside the commission as the claim is made that the county engineer was unable to look after the detail work of patrol men. At present there are about 30 and it is expected to increase the number to 40 soon. Such an officer in the opinion of the commissioners, would save the county considerable money. The communication was referred to the committee on officers' salaries.

County Agent Stephens was ordered to investigate the mothers' pensions.

CANADIAN BOOZE COMING FAST

Ten Concerns Now Chartered to Sell Liquor in U. S.

Detroit—In spite of all efforts of federal state and city authorities to dam the stream of illicit booze flowing into the United States by way of the Detroit river, the business continues to grow by leaps and bounds.

Four more charters were granted the last week to liquor exporting companies organized to do business in the United States under the Canadian laws.

Since the ruling of Police Magistrate Gundy two months ago that liquor exports to the United States are legal if cleared through the Canadian customs house no less than ten charters have been granted to such concerns, all of which admit that they are doing business in the supposedly dry United States.

ARBUCKLE TO BE TRIED NOV. 7

Film Comedian Pleads Not Guilty in Superior Court Hearing.

San Francisco.—Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle will go on trial in Superior Court here Monday, Nov. 7, on a charge of manslaughter as a result of the death of Virginia Rappe, film actress. This date was set when Arbuckle appeared before Judge Harold Lauderback and entered a plea of not guilty.

Arbuckle's court appearance was brief. The charge on which he pleaded was the police court charge which followed Judge Lazarus' holdings. The indictment, which was also on the calendar, was continued indefinitely.

Not So Funny, Then.

When you smoke a cigar you are smoking more labor than tobacco. It seems a funny thing to think of—except in some cases, when you perform most of the labor yourself.—Boston Transcript.

DON'T WASTE TIME

It's a waste of time to experiment with liniments and plasters when you have a dull, throbbing backache or sharp, stabbing twinges. Get after the cause! Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this.

Mrs. Emma Murphy, cor. West & Third Sts., Cass City, says: "Several years ago my kidneys were in such weak, disordered condition that I had no control over them. I had the best physician in the state of Ohio attending me for many years and I was in misery. Some times I got dizzy and would be blinded and confused so that I would have to grasp something to keep from falling. In some way I ran across Doan's Kidney Pills and after using three boxes my kidneys were in normal condition. I got Doan's at Wood's Drug Store and can say they gave me better results than anything else I ever used."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Murphy had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv. 10

Trees Loaded With Fruit.
Trees loaded with fruit are bent down; the clouds when charged with fresh rain hang down near the earth; even so good men are not uplifted through prosperity. Such is the natural character of the liberal.—Bhartrihari.

Dream Lore.
To dream of nets indicates that your lover or partner in life is not so fondly attached to you as you wish. To dream you are entangled in one denotes a wary and powerful enemy who will endeavor to use you for a tool.

Steel Engraving.
Steel engraving is not named for any individual, but is a process of engraving lines on steel plates, from which prints are taken. Steel plates were first used for engraving about 1820. Between 1830 and 1870 this form of art enjoyed a great vogue. The lines are cut into the steel with a burin or graver, a four-sided piece of steel cut off obliquely at one end, producing a sharp point. After the lines are scraped out another tool is used to smooth out and burnish the design.

The library of the General Theological seminary in New York contains more than 1,200 different editions of the Bible.

Letter Q of French Origin.
The name of the letter Q comes from the French "queue," meaning a tail, as the letter is O with a tail.

Origin of Name Wood.
That the first who bore the name Wood dwelt near or adjacent to a wood there can be no reasonable doubt, for the name first appears as Atte-Wolde, which meant "at the wood." Later the name became Atwood and in some cases this was changed to Atwood, which was later contracted to Wood. Sometimes it remained Atwood, a name that is still to be found in England.

Air of Remarkable Purity.
The air is so pure in Arequipa, Peru, that from the observatory at that place, 8,050 feet above the sea, a black spot, one inch in diameter, placed on a wide disc, has been seen a distance of 11 miles through a 13-inch telescope.

Alexander Had Gold Coffin.

"Give Me a Chance To Think!"

All right.

That chance will be during the week of No- vember 7th to 12th.

During that week take a little time and go over in your mind the many things your home town paper has done—is doing—will continue to do—for your home town.

Think about it seriously.

Think whether or not you have stood loyally by at all times when the community's champion has needed financial and moral support.

Think whether or not you have always done your duty by the town's best friend.

Think how much better your home town paper could do if each citizen were as loyal to it as it is to them.

Think or some one far away who would enjoy the weekly visit from the old home town paper, then hand in a subscription for that far-away friend.

If you are not now a subscriber, be one.

DELIBERATE UNTRUTHS.

Deliberate untruths featured an article sent to the Detroit Journal and Bay City Times-Tribune from Caro the first of the week in which Cass City high school athletes were accused of a "common attitude to win by fair means or foul" and that athletic relations between Caro and Cass City had been severed by Caro school authorities.

The facts in the case are that Caro was equally to blame with Cass City for any rough playing that occurred, that five of Caro's men "laid cold" is a gross exaggeration, and that athletic relations between the two schools have not been severed.

From Caro comes the report that the school authorities had nothing to do with the article in question. From various sources also comes the information that it was sent to the dailies by an irresponsible party. Such wanderings from honesty appearing in print breed hatred between schools and towns which neither can afford to harbor.

Cass City's supporters of her athletic teams, whether of school or town, stand for fairness and cleanliness and honesty in all sports and their indignation was great when they read the false charges made by the correspondent.

John Fox raised his barn roof Tuesday. The main body of the building being of logs put up nearly 40 years ago had become tender with age and some logs had to be replaced with the roof still in a peculiar position. The recent windstorm had lowered the far end and one side. The men gathered and held a consultation with the carpenter and some exciting scenes followed. The new logs being somewhat bowing caused a delay in getting them in position when Robt. Craig took an Oliver twist on the plate with bar and chain and turned the timber into position instantly. Then George L. Johnson devised a tall jib pole and with rope and pulleys attached and with the aid of pike poles, the roof was lifted into position. Pete Ferguson, the mechanic, with plenty of help soon made it complete.

SHABBONA.

The ladies of the Shabbona Social club treated Mrs. J. McDonald to a complete surprise in the form of a farewell party at her home Tuesday afternoon. Man, Too, is Vain. A man's vainest point is his necktie, while a woman's is her hair, says a man who has made a study of the matter. On spring days when business is slow he sometimes steps outside of his store and watches the passersby who stop and look at themselves in a mirror in his window. "I have noticed that a man will invariably adjust his necktie while a woman will always fix her hair," he says. "No one can tell me that a woman is more vain than a man, either. Just as many men look in that mirror as women."—Milwaukee Journal.

Going a Little Too Far. Two small boys were quarreling over the possession of a toy bank when a noted local financier, who was passing, stopped and said to the younger: "Shame on you, my boy. Don't you want him to save his money?" "I don't care what he does with his money," replied the youth. "But he wants to save mine along with it."

Neighbors Will Say So. "Use de bes' gif's you has," said Uncle Eben, "an' don't try to be more artistic dan you honestly is. A good banjo player is a heap more comfort to a community dan a poor performer on de violin."

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

"There is only a curtain between us, Between the beyond and the here; They whom we call dead have not left us, Nay, they were never so near." In memory of Brother Thos. Jackson, who died Oct. 16, 1921. "Leaves have their time to fall, and flowers to wither at the north wind's cold blast, but thou, oh Death! hath all seasons for thine own."

Once again a Brother Mason, having completed the designs written for him on life's trestle board, has passed through the portals of Eternity and entered the Grand Lodge of the New Jerusalem and hath received as his reward, the white stone with the new name written thereon.

And Whereas, the all-wise and merciful Master of the universe has called from labor to refreshments our beloved and respected brother, and he having been a true and faithful member of our beloved Order, therefore be it

Resolved, That Tyler Lodge, No. 317, F. & A. M. of Cass City, Mich., in testimony of his loss, be draped in mourning for thirty days, and that we tender to the family of our deceased brother our sincere condolence in their deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

Caseville Barber Shop Robbed.
The Walter MacAdams barber shop at Caseville was entered last week and several cartons of cigarettes, some candy and quantity of gum stolen. The thieves are not known.

Mausoleum at Bad Axe.
A Saginaw company is planning to erect a fine mausoleum at the Bad Axe cemetery. The edifice will be built of Georgia white marble and will cost from $80,000 to $100,000. Building operations will start in the spring.

New County House.
A resolution was passed by the Sanilac county board of supervisors last week to submit to the voters of the county at the November election in 1922, the question of a new infirmary to take the place of the county farm. This action was made necessary by the report of the state board of corrections and charities. This board pronounces the county farm as inadequate for the purposes for which it is intended and asks the county to provide a better place for the aged and sick wards of the county.

No Row in Sanilac League.
Some of the papers outside of the county seem to persist in the belief that there is an able bodied row on in the ranks of the Sanilac county base ball league, one that is ready to break out at any old time and engulf the base ball fans and players. We can assure those editors that there is nothing of the kind. Any semblance of a row was all ironed out smooth at the meeting of the base ball governors some weeks ago when the pennant was awarded to the Sandusky team. This action was taken after the governors of the Minden-Palms team had come into the meeting, acknowledged that there were rumors of wrong doing in this team and that they did not care to have an investigation, preferring to peacefully relinquish all claims to the pennant, in fact one of those same governors making the motion for such action. It was so voted in the interest of harmony and all supposed the incident closed.—Croswell Jeff.

Huron Supervisors Elect Officers.
Huron county supervisors elected John Moore poor commissioner to succeed himself for a term of three years; Angus Morrison, a member of the park commission for a term of three years and Howard Nugent, a member of the purchasing and auditing committee to succeed himself, for a term of three years.

Woodworth Revenue Collector.
Fred L. Woodworth of Caseville was appointed internal revenue collector at Detroit to succeed John A. Grogan. Mr. Woodworth was commissioner of the state food and drug department during the Sleeper administration.

Elected School Examiner.
H. G. Warne, superintendent of the Harbor Beach schools, was elected a member of the Huron county board of school examiners at Wednesday's session of the board of supervisors. He was elected to fill a vacancy on this board until January 1, and then to serve for a term of two years. He is the first member of the board of examiners to be elected from the eastern side of the county in several years.—Times.

Water Meters at Croswell.
As large quantities of water are being wasted in Croswell, the city council has ordered meters installed so that all water users will pay for the water which they use.

4,400 License Plates for Sanilac.
County Treasurer George Donaldson sold 4,100 automobile licenses in Sanilac county last year and has just received notice from the Secretary of State's office that his allotment for 1922 will be 4,400. The new plates will be on sale December 1.

Hog Cholera at Watrousville.
Hog cholera in mild but dangerous form has broken out in several farms in the vicinity of Watrousville and Dr. Newton of the State Department of Animal Industry has ordered a half dozen animals on the Claude Cole farm killed and the carcasses burned. Other farmers who have herds which have become infected are Cas. Honsinger and Thomas Hile. Warnings have been posted at these farms, calling attention to the presence of the disease, and asking that proper precautions are taken to keep it from spreading.—Caro Advertiser.

Want Lower Rates.
Farmers of the Caro community held a meeting recently to consider ways and means for securing lower telephone rentals on rural lines. Forty were present. W. F. Dowling, Frank Arnold and W. L. Eldridge were appointed members of a committee to draft a petition and secure signatures asking the State Utilities Commission to reduce the annual rate to $15 a year.

To Issue Auto Licensees.
Automobile owners in Tuscola county will be able to procure their licenses and plates at the office of the county treasurer for next year, Mrs. Burden Hoover having received a supply of tags from the secretary of state. Four thousand six hundred licenses were issued from the local office during the present year. Long after Mrs. Hoover had run out of this year's supply, requests for licenses were received, and she says that if she had 5,000 plates she could have sold them. Every plate to leave the local office will have a number of six figures, and all begin with numerals 25. In this way any car bearing these numerals can easily be recognized as coming from Tuscola county. The first license plate bears the number 252501 and the last 257100.—Caro Advertiser.

Has Successful Season.
I. C. Ogden left for Mt. Clemens Monday afternoon where his pacing mare, Halley C., is entered in the short ship races. Halley C. has gone through a very successful season this year, having won nine races without losing a single heat. She is probably the fastest pacer in the state and can be depended upon to give a good account of herself when she hooks up with the fast ones this week.—Deckerville Recorder.

Discouraged Joiner.
"I have joined quite a number of organizations," remarked Farmer Cornstossel, "but I haven't yet found one that'll enable an agriculturist like myself to make payin' dues and listenin' to speeches take the place of regular work."

Lansing.—Wayne County's application for a writ of certiorari, or review of the valuation set on it by the State Board of Equalization, if granted, would bring confusion into the collection of taxes, now proceeding throughout the state, according to the opinion handed down in the State Supreme Court, which denied the application. As a result, the assessment of $2,038,547,000 will stand.

An election to fill the vacancies will be held in one month, at which it is expected all four of the recalled commissioners will be candidates for re-election. HOME TOWN PAPER WEEK

Nation-Wide Movement Set for November 7th to 12th.

Every Four Corners has its Home Town week nowadays, but all the boys and girls who have wandered from the Township Center cannot get back to enjoy the loved surroundings. But all can subscribe to the old home town paper and thus keep well in touch with the little spot they once called home.

What joy to run over the school promotions and find that the tots of a few years ago are moving higher and higher in scholastic circles and eventually blossom forth as the "sweet girl graduates," or the clean strong boys discarding knickers.

Just watch that hardened old city coddler open up his home paper—it is the first thing he picks up out of his bunch of mail—and what can he find there to interest him? Angus McGugan's horse died yesterday; Peter McGregor will run for the county clerkship; Horace Jell hopes to win the secretaryship of the Hilltown Agricultural Society; Lydia Munger has opened a millinery store; Mrs. Brown lost her hand satchel in the butcherery; Dr. Dorland is attending Clara Brown, who is down with a severe cold; Mrs. Plater broke her ankle and is in the county hospital.

Yet though he smiles at the old-time styles and expressions he enjoys it all over and over again, for it takes his mind back home where his wonderful boyhood days—happy days—were spent.

WILL BOOST HOME PAPERS. Week of November 7-12 Set for Nation-Wide Endeavor.

"Subscribe to your home town paper." This is the slogan of a new nation-wide movement backed by the National Editorial Association and other agencies.

The movement has back of it far more than a selfish desire on the part of newspapers to acquire increased circulation, for it is, in effect, a step toward the perfect unification of America by the strengthening of ties that bind everyone to his native soil.

The campaign is, moreover, an excellent opportunity to boost the home town. The men and women who were born and reared here have, some of them, been away for many years and many important changes have taken place—changes in which they would be greatly interested. It is more often the case than not that private correspondence overlooks these changes, however carefully one might attempt to write "the news" in a letter.

The newspaper, on the other hand, prints all the items of interest, large and small, and is the ideal medium through which to keep in touch with in the old home town.

Towns Need Eye Opener. Said a New York state business man the other day: "There is hardly a town in the country that does not need to have its eyes opened to the kind of work its newspapers do, week in and week out, and year in and year out, with rarely if ever a word of public appreciation and backing."

CEDAR RUN. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hammond of Caro were Sunday guests at the John Hayes home.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGrath, sr., of Cass City and Mr. and Mrs. John McGrath, jr., and children were Sunday visitors at the Spaven home.

Wm. Ware is suffering with an attack of lumbago.

The following guests were entertained at the A. Beutler home here Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Beutler of Caro and Florence and Carmon Wanner of Novesta.

Mrs. John McDougald of Port Huron is visiting here at the home of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Brown.

Mrs. A. Beutler and sons, Alfred and Earl, spent last Thursday in Caro.

The following guests were entertained at the Wm. Brown home Sunday: Mrs. Mullin and two sons, Geo. and Wm., of Gageton, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McDougal of Saginaw and Mrs. John McDougal of Port Huron.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deming and son, Howard, spent Sunday at Port Sanilac visiting relatives.

The Elley corn husking outfit of Deford was husking corn in this vicinity last week.

A Mr. Cooklin of Deford is the new tenant on the Frank Cranick farm.

Every year more people exchange their wheat for flour. Why not you? Elkland Milling Co.—Adv. 8-19-21

Concerning Wood Dreams

To dream you are in the woods signifies wealth. To dream of a wood-cutter denotes good luck. To dream of a woodman signifies embarrassments. To dream of wooden shoes signifies a hasty journey. To dream of a wood snake denotes slander. To dream of wooden spoons shows an avaricious and hard-hearted neighbor. To dream of a woodpile shows a man in love with some ill-natured woman. To dream you are in a woodyard denotes a happy change of fortune.

Paul Pendlehaven lay wide awake in his bed, his sunken eyes filled with darkened sorrow. His brother had stayed with him the most of the night and now sat beside him.

"Will you sleep?" asked Doctor John.

"I'll try," was the response. "I could if I knew where she was."

Doctor John reached over and took his brother's thin hand.

"The morning may bring her back," he said soothingly. "And Paul, old man, if you worry like this, you'll be back where you were four weeks ago."

The invalid sighed heavily. "I've grown so accustomed to her," he said in excuse, "and somehow since you told me of her people, I fear something may have happened to her."

"We'll hope for the best," said John Pendlehaven, rising. "Now if I run down for a wink or two will you lie quietly while I'm gone?"

"Yes," came in a breath, and true to his word, Paul Pendlehaven scarcely breathed for a long while after his brother went out, although his heavy gray eyes stared at the breaking dawn. If anyone had told him a month ago, he could have longed for any human being as he now longed for Tony Devon, he wouldn't have believed it. He dreaded the day without her dear smile bending over him. Perhaps she would never come back. At that thought he groaned.

If he could only go to sleep. Only close his eyes—

His lids sank slowly down, and he slept fitfully. Mingled in his dream of Tony Devon came a sharp sound. That, like Tony, must be a dream, too, that sound that was out of the ordinary noises of the day, for although the sun had called into life the bees and birds, Ithaca still slumbered.

The noise came again, striking against his nervous brain and waking him. Suddenly, with panting breath and beating pulses, he lifted himself on his elbow. The screen had fallen from the window and perhaps ten seconds passed as he stared mutely at it. Then like a shot from a gun, Tony Devon sprang through the window into the room. For a moment the sick man gazed at her with mingled emotions. Something dreadful had happened to her. She was so white, so wraithlike and changed, yet blotching the pallor of her face were reddish blue bruises. Then the bare feet took the distance between them in a bound. The dimples at the corners of her lips lived a moment and were gone.

When Paul Pendlehaven dropped back on the pillow, she spoke. "Me and Gussie's back," she said brokenly. "I climbed up the tree and got to the roof, fearin' to wake up the other folks in the house." She sat down beside the bed. "Somehow I knew you'd be lookin' for me, sir."

It was because she had passed through such a dreadful night and was so terribly tired that she cried a little as a child cries after it has been cruelly punished.

Paul Pendlehaven let his thin hand drop on the frowsy head. Tears stung his own lids like nettles.

"Dear child," he breathed, "dear pretty child, I've waited all night for you. My God, what's happened to you?"

Tony covered her face with her hands.

"Somebody beat me up," she moaned. "I can't tell anything now. And I lost my pretty clothes."

Sudden strength came to Paul Pendlehaven. He sat up straight and forcibly lifted the pitiful hurt face so he could look at it.

"Tony," he began gravely, "I command you to tell me what happened to you. Tell me instantly. If I knew, I could take steps to punish the ruffian who dared to do this thing."

That was just what Tony didn't want. Hadn't she sworn to Edith in the presence of the infinite Christ, that good Shepherd who had given up His life for His sheep, that no matter what Uriah did she wouldn't peach on him?

The tears were still rolling down her cheeks from under lowered lids.

"You have so helped me, Tony," continued Pendlehaven, "and yet you refuse to let me do what I can."

She tried to think of something to comfort him.

"But sometimes daddies and husbands beat their women folks," she explained.

"Then your father whipped you?" quizzed the doctor.

"That I can't tell," said the girl. "Don't make me. . . . Oh, Lordy, I'm all tuckered out."

It was of no use to put questions any more, thought Pendlehaven. He was persuaded that her father had done this dreadful thing.

At eight o'clock, when Dr. John Pendlehaven softly entered the sick-room he found his brother in sound slumber, and Tony Devon, her face discolored with bruises, fast asleep in the chair by the bedside.

It was a stubborn Tony that faced Doctor John that morning. Adroitly he tried to draw from her the reason for her extreme paleness, for the dark marks stretched across her face, and the meaning of the shudders that suddenly attacked her.

"I can't tell," she reiterated in distress as she had to his brother. "Please don't ask me."

That her mother was dead, she firmly believed. This she did tell the doctor between many sobs and tears.

"I'll never see her ever any more," she told him tremulously. "And if you'll let me, I'll live here forever and forever and take care of Doctor Paul."

"My brother can't get along without you, dear," he said, deeply touched. "If you had seen how he grieved last night, you wouldn't have made that remark."

"I know he likes me," said the girl, sighing, "and I love him. Why, I love him—"

She searched the man's face and caught his smile.

"Better than you do me?" he came in with.

"Yes," said Tonibel, honestly, "but you next—" Then she thought of Philip, of the hours he had held her against his breast, of the kiss in the morning's dawn, and she fell into a bashful silence.

When Doctor Pendlehaven told Mrs. Curtis that Tony had returned, her face drew down in a sulky frown.

"But we needn't care," Katherine said afterward, "she doesn't bother us much. For my part I can't see how Cousin Paul stands her."

"John says Paul almost died last night," took up Mrs. Curtis. "I suppose she's one of the things we've got to stand in a house run by an old bachelor and a grieving widower."

"To say nothing of a father with a daughter lost somewhere in the world," supplemented Katherine.

"There's no danger of Caroline's returning after all these years," said Mrs. Curtis. "If—if—that girl hadn't come, Paul wouldn't have lived long. John told me so himself. I almost hoped that—"

"That he'd die?" interrupted Katherine, maliciously. "Well, to be truthful I have wished it many times. Cousin John would have to think of somebody else then. Perhaps he'd turn his attention to you, mother darling."

"He won't while Paul lives," sighed Mrs. Curtis. "I don't know just what to do. I've thought of every conceivable way to get that girl out of the house, and John forestalls me every time."

"I'm glad Philip hasn't seen her," remarked Katherine. "He's just the religious maudlin kind who would fall for an appealing face like hers." Mrs. Curtis made an impatient gesture, and Katherine proceeded, "We can't deny she is appealing, mamma, even if we hate her! And God knows I loathe her so I could strangle her with these two hands."

She held up clenched fingers, then relaxed them and laughed bitterly. "Heavens! What's the use of butting our heads against a stone wall? . . . Give me a cigarette, my dear Sarah. Philip won't be here until night, and I can get rid of the odor before that."

Meanwhile upstairs Tony Devon was fast getting back to her normal self. The blessed assurance she had that she was needed by her sick friend lifted her spirits. She grieved inwardly for her mother, but shuddered when she thought of her father. Now all ties were cut between them. She had no doubt but that both Uriah and Reggie thought she was dead in the lake. She hoped they did! She'd never see either one of them again.

She was sitting thinking deeply when Paul Pendlehaven spoke to her. "Little dear," said he, reaching out his hand toward her, "come over a minute. I want to talk to you!"

CHAPTER X.

The Stoning.

Tonibel went to him instantly, as she always did when he called her.

"You will promise me something," he insisted, as his hot hand clasped hers. "Tony, don't go out again like you did yesterday. I shan't be able to stand it if you do!"

Tonibel's mind flashed to Philip. She felt sure he would go to the corner of the lake every day to meet her, as he had gone to the canal boat.

Yet as she gazed into the imploring eyes of her friend, she had no heart to deny him his wish.

"I'm selfish, perhaps," the man went on, "but, Tony dear, if you want to go out, there's lots of cars in the garage, and horses in the stable. Won't you promise me?"

Tony thrust the memory of Philip's face from her mind. She put the wish to be in his arms again, to feel his warm lips once more on hers behind her, and tremblingly smiled in acquiescence.

"I promise," she said in a low voice, but a sob prevented her from saying anything more.

CHAPTER X.

The Stoning.

Never before since he had taken up his work of redemption had Philip MacCauley found the hours so long and so difficult to live through. Day after day he canoed to the place Tony had promised to meet him, only to return to Ithaca more at sea than ever. He had the sickening idea that the girl he had grown to love was again in the clutches of her brute of a father and Reginald Brown.

Tony, too, began to lose the high spirits that had returned almost immediately after her escape from the canal boat. The gray eyes grew darkly circled, the lovely mouth seemed to have lost the power to smile.

Paul Pendlehaven noted all this with apprehension. He questioned the girl time after time, asking her if she felt well, if there was anything she wanted, but she always replied in the negative.

One day after they had had their dinner, he sat looking at her curiously. She was close to the window reading a book, when he caused her to look up by calling her name.

"Run downstairs, Tony dear," he went on, "and tell my brother to come up here before office hours, will you, honey?"

The girl rose, laying aside her book. She dreaded venturing into Mrs. Curtis' presence and shivered when she remembered the critical Katherine who looked her over with supercilious toleration whenever they happened to meet. But she made no complaint and went slowly downstairs.

The dining room door was closed, but the sound of voices from within told her the family was at dinner. She opened the door slowly and stepped inside. For one moment her vision was obscured by the fright that suddenly took possession of her. As the blur cleared from her eyes, she saw John Pendlehaven smiling at her. Then a sharp ejaculation from some one else swung her gaze from the doctor's face, and it settled on—Philip MacCauley.

She went extremely pale and put out her hand to grasp something for support as if she were going to fall. She saw him rise up slowly, an expression of amazement and relief going across his face. She smiled, but what a weary little smile it was and how full of pleading, as if she were silently begging him to forgive her for some deed she'd done.

John Pendlehaven gazed at the two young people, and then he too got to his feet.

"Philip," he said abruptly, "this is Tonibel Devon. She's Paul's companion. We have—"

Philip interrupted the speaker by his sudden bound around the table. "Tony Devon, little Tony," he cried. "I thought, oh, I thought you were dead. I thought I'd lost you forever."

A noise fell from Katherine's lips, and Mrs. Curtis stumbled to her feet. "So you know her too, Philip," she snarled with a hasty glance at her pallid daughter. "I thought we'd kept her well out of your way. So you've played the sneak while eating bread and butter in my house, miss," she blurted at Tony. "Well, it's what one might have expected of you—you huzzy."

"Mother!" gasped Katherine, as Tonibel snatched her hands from Philip. "Kathie, you needn't 'mother me!' cried Mrs. Curtis, blind with rage. "Either she goes away or I do. I won't stay in the house with a common sneak—a common—"

"Sarah, sit down," thundered John Pendlehaven. "Don't speak another such word or—"

Tony was at the doctor's side before he could finish his threat.

"I didn't sneak," she said, looking up at him. "Oh, please—please believe me."

"That she didn't," cried Philip, coming to her side. "Cousin John, I've known Tony Devon ages, and I didn't even know she was in this house." He turned his flashing eyes upon Mrs. Curtis, who was weeping hysterically.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Cousin Sarah," he went on, "to use such language to a perfectly nice little girl. Why, you've just about broken her heart."

His voice had sunk to a passionate whisper. His eyes misted in a youthful struggle to control his joy, and—at the sight of him, Katherine lost her wits entirely.

"Who and what have we been harboring in this house, Cousin John?" she shrieked in a high thin voice, struggling to her feet. "A gutter rat, a little snake, a loose girl—"

Each word, brought out with greater vehemence and passion than the one before, struck the listeners dumb. In shame-faced misery, Tonibel sank to the floor, dropping her head into new hands.

"Oh, no, I'm not that," she wailed. "My mummy never lived in the gutter; she never did. I was poor, awful poor—"

"Poor!" exclaimed Katherine. "You're worse than poor. I suppose you've wheedled Philip the same way you have Cousin Paul."

"Katherine, I command you to be silent," shouted Pendlehaven. "If you say another word, I shall ask you to leave my house."

"Well, I never!" screamed Mrs. Curtis. "And you too, Sarah," thrust in the doctor. "We don't know the truth of this thing, but I know very well that Tony Devon is not a bad girl."

"That she is not," interjected Philip. "Now I'll tell you all about it." As John Pendlehaven raised her to her feet, Tonibel lifted her head and fixed her tearful eyes on Captain MacCauley.

"You promised you'd never tell anybody," she murmured. Her mind was with the dead Edith Devon, and the words of her own serious reverent oath given in the presence of her widowed mother would not allow her to consent that Philip should lift the stigma heaped upon her by the Curtis women.

"So I did," admitted Philip, soberly, "but you see now this has happened. You must release me from that promise."

"I can't," sighed Tony. Then turned her face to Pendlehaven.

"You'll trust us," she pleaded, waving her hand toward Philip. "Please trust him and me."

"Ha!" shrieked Mrs. Curtis. "Trust you—"

"Shut up, Cousin Sarah," snapped Philip at the angry woman. Then he addressed himself to the doctor. "I did promise her I wouldn't tell how we met. And I won't! In fact it isn't any one's business. Is it, Cousin John?"

"Not that I can see," came in rather drawing answer.

"I'll repeat what I said before," Philip took up hastily. "I didn't know she lived here."

"We're ready to believe that—nit," cried Katherine.

Captain MacCauley stared at her. Was this frowning angry girl the smiling, yielding Katherine he had known or thought he had known?

"You can believe it or not, Kathie," he told her savagely. "It makes no difference to me. But it's true, just the same."

"Wait here for me, Philip," said the doctor, in a low tone. "I'll be back in a moment."

Then he took Tony by the hand and they went out together.

For several tense moments a silence too dreadful to describe settled down upon the dining room. Katherine twisted her fork sulkily and Mrs. Curtis still sniffed in her handkerchief.

Philip looked from one to the other, wishing with all his heart he could say something that would clear the atmosphere.

"I'm sorry, Cousin Sarah," he said abruptly, trying to smile. "It certainly was awkward, wasn't it?"

"Awkward?" repeated Mrs. Curtis, wrinkling her face. "Awkward isn't the word, Philip. It was disgusting."

The gorge rose again in his throat. "Tonibel Devon is the best girl I know," he asserted. "Poor little thing. I pity her with all my heart."

"Pity is akin to love, my dear Philip," sneered Mrs. Curtis.

"Mother," cried Katherine. "Philip wouldn't so far forget himself and his friends and position as to love—well—if you can't keep your tongue still, go upstairs."

This was a shock for Philip. That any girl could speak to her own mother in such a way was beyond his comprehension. The door opened just then and Dr. John walked in.

"She came down to tell me that Paul wanted me and forgot it," he said in a low tone. "The poor child is quite overcome."

Mrs. Curtis tossed her head and rose from the table, and Katherine, rising also, followed her mother out of the room.

There was very little said between the young man and his older friend after the ladies had taken their departure, but when Captain MacCauley was ready to leave, he looked anxiously at his companion.

"Cousin John," he murmured. "You won't let any one—"

"Indeed not," interrupted the doctor, anticipating the lad's plea. "Tony Devon is here to stay, Phil."

"Could I—could I see her, Cousin John, just a minute?" the boy faltered.

"Not tonight, old fellow," replied the doctor, kindly. "Tomorrow, perhaps."

And Philip had to be content. That evening Katherine spent with her mother in hopeless misery.

"He acted just as if he loved her," she wailed at one time in their conversation. "I'd give anything to find out how long he's known her."

"So would I," said Mrs. Curtis. "Katherine, we've got to get her away by some means. She's bewitched John—she's brought Paul up from his grave—and there's no telling, she may usurp your place in their wills."

"And now she's hoodwinked Philip," gulped Katherine. "Can't you think of some plan? Can't we claim she steals or something like that?"

"John wouldn't believe it, especially now that Reggie is coming home," was the answer. "His letter today said he'd be here very soon. Everything that happens in this house out of the ordinary is blamed on my poor boy."

And she began again to cry.

"Great Heavens, mother, don't do that," screamed Katherine. "Can't you see weeping doesn't do any good? You make me so nervous I could fly."

We've got to make some plan to get her out of here. While you're sniveling all the time, you can't think."

Mrs. Curtis rose and walked to her bedroom door.

"My children have no sympathy for me at all," she shot back. "But you say I can't think while I cry? Well, watch me! I'll bet you five dollars Tony Devon is out of this house before another week is over."

Robt. Jacoby is able to labor again. Mr. and Mrs. H. Case of Detroit Sundayed with Mrs. Alice Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacoby visited in the locality of East Dayton on Sunday.

A dozen homes could be rented to advantage in our little town at this time.

The families of W. Gracey and R. Hulsted visited at the R. D. Lewis home on Sunday. They were cousins of Mrs. R. D.

Mrs. Alice Curtis was a Pigeon caller on the 15th.

Mrs. Bessie Shumes and son, Byron, called here Sunday.

For four days this week there were afternoon and evening meetings in the M. E. church.

E. A. Cones family were Columbiaville callers Sunday.

Merchant Patterson and wife were at Mayville Sunday.

Kindred of Wm. Courliss came from Port Huron Saturday to visit him. They went back Monday.

The Neil Kennedy family accompanied by the aged Roderick K., were Bay City callers Sunday.

At this writing, Oct. 17, Robert Jacoby is able to be around, but has to shun lifting.

The sand screen at the Quick pit behaves badly and upsets business all along the line.

Those that have many broad acres would speak of us as one-horse farmers, but in some lines we get there. Edward Sutton, two miles east and one mile north of here, sold 300 chickens to "Ame," the chicken man, on the 12th.

George Taylor has rented his house on Main St., west of R. R. to a Mr. Sargent and will keep himself busy in the little domicile in north part of town.

Amos Webster can entertain customers by a warm fire now. Has a chimney erected.

We hear that Dr. Kenneth Merriam, the young lad, will open his pill box at Mecosta and hang out his sign. Mecosta is 18 miles south of Big Rapids.

Forest Day has moved to Cass City. No house to rent here.

Our fish market is full, and the weather favorable.

On Oct. 13, 1921, the sugar beet station at Deford opened to take in beets, with strange faces to take them in.

Charlie Kline, our barber, is a lover of canines and he believes in training the quadrupeds, but would have the training fully completed before they visit his tonsorial parlors.

The bridge gang on 6 1/2 miles of state road have done their part of the work and done it well. The cement guards at every side turn is a thing of use and beauty.

Friday was not an unlucky day here for those that brought in "spuds"—$1.00 per 60 lbs. On Saturday they took a 5-cent tumble.

Lafayette Sargent is the new laborer at the elevator. Business moves rapidly.

Dance Saturday night. Fair crowd, joyous time.

Where is the outspoken man when a clash ensues that cries aloud, "It was to blame?"

One of the hardware families has moved into the rooms above the store.

Last week all burgers with stoves set them up.

Wm. Courliss is having his cellar repaired.

Thirty-two years ago this coming winter, Harry VanTassel of Kingston village erected a small building west of where Croop's store now stands. Johnny Walk bought and moved it to the Heights. Roof is now being patched and structure refitted.

They were both sober, old boys. One weighed in sugar beets and late returned home. The other is a road builder and out after the shadows of evening fall. Their vehicles met on the Center Line. Nobody hurt. Both sorry to have it happen.

There are some people around here that walk and work in their sleep, for things happen between days. Chickens disappear and no notice left telling how they will be served, but the gatherers-in are going to find themselves in a stew. They can bet on that.

Our two denominations commingled holding their meetings in the M. E. church on Oct. 13 for the first time.

Clarence Chadwick drives a new Ford car.

We have lived to see Deford grow from a wilderness to a city with sewers. Road builders have started the work.

West of here about four miles there is an "Oxbow" in the stream that threads the lands near what is known as the "Chuck" Morris home. In high water time, it washes sides of highway. Bro. Stafford has "turned the tide" by going to the north, cutting straight through, benefitting the stream and safeguarding the road in the future. The cut that makes the stream straight is about 4 rods long and 6 feet deep, average width of cut 25 feet. Would have been cut through years ago if energy had pervaded the air. Moral—Feed the ruralites "pep."

One mile south of depot the brush grows quite heavy on ends of wagon road. 'Tis hard to a low object on the R. R. Our section men were at said point when an auto was about to cross the rails. A crash; some damage done; one man knocked "from here to yonder"; a piece of hide banged from the brow of the fat man, but no limbs broken, nor no one mad. No legal proceeding will ensue.

We noticed signs along the line in Michigan for years and now rise to remark that we can tell more about a Michigan winter in May than in November. If we had remained in Ireland, we could have faunted a er in Michigan is too much for us.

ORDER IS GIVEN FOR RAIL STRIKE

TRAINMEN PLAN TO PARALYZE THE ENTIRE COUNTRY BY WALKOUT OCT. 30.

ORDER AFFECTS 2 MILLION MEN

President Calls on I. C. C. and Labor Board to Find Solution for Serious Deadlock.

Chicago—More than half a million American railroad men have been ordered to initiate a strike Oct. 30, while other unions, whose membership brings the total to about two million, have announced unofficially that they are preparing to follow suit and make the walk-out general, on the same date.

Under this program the tie-up would be complete, union men predict, by Nov. 2.

The hour was fixed for 6 a. m. Oct. 30, except for one Texas line, whose trainmen were authorized to go out Oct. 22.

The railroads listed in the first group on which the strike is to become effective, touch 42 of the 48 states with a trackage of 73,000 miles out of the total United States trackage of approximately 200,000.

The New England states comprise the group that is virtually untouched in the first walkout.

The strike orders were issued to the Big Four Brotherhoods and the switchmen's union of America, oldest and most powerful of the railroad

* "Millionaire's Special" Crew
* Ready for Another Run
* Morristown, N. J.—The volunteer crew of wealthy businessmen, who operated the "Millionaire's Special" on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, bringing commuters to New York during the 1920 railroad strike, are ready again for service. Their spokesman, Murray Coggs, a banker, said that if the threatened strike developed, every man would be found at his post.

unions. They specifically included mail trains in the walkout. Their provisions instruct strikers to keep away from railroad property with a warning that "violence of any nature will not be tolerated by the organization."

The strike was announced after an overwhelming vote, said to be upwards of 90 per cent, favoring a strike because of a 12 per cent wage reduction authorized by the United States Railroad Labor Board of July 1, and after it was declared by the Association of Railway Executives in session here Oct. 15 that a further reduction would be sought by the railroads.

Harding Acts to Halt Crisis.

Washington—Confronted by the menace of a nation-wide strike less than two weeks distant, the machinery of the federal government with President Harding at the control lever, has been put in operation to forestall a transportation tie-up.

The president has set the interstate commerce commission and the public group of the railroad labor board to work to determine the true facts in the controversy and report to him whether wage reductions on the railroads are necessary and just, and whether the railroads can reduce their rates. These facts will be made known to the public.

Having set forth the true facts in the controversy which threatens to lead to a strike, the administration will await the results of public opinion upon the controversy between employers and employees.

Ford's Road Not Affected.

Chicago—I. C. Cashen, president of the Switchmen's organization, has announced that the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad, owned by Henry Ford, would be the only road not affected by the strike.

SLAYER OF LONG CONFESSES

Officers Declare Clarence Adams Admits Killing Brother-in-Law.

Saginaw, Mich.—Clarence Adams, Saginaw paving contractor, confessed in the county jail at Caro at noon Sunday that he murdered his brother-in-law John Long in the woods near Cat Lake, Tuscola county, August 28, while the two were on a berrying trip, according to officers.

The confession came slowly as officers revealed to him evidence which was so damaging that Adams saw no escape, it is said. The shooting occurred after a quarrel over a woman, according to the confession.

RESERVE BANK PAY DEFENDED

Board Member Calls $50,000 Salary Essential to Efficiency.

Washington.—The fight of several Democratic senators against the federal reserve board because of high salaries paid officials of the federal reserve banks has brought a sharp return attack from Governor W. P. G. Harding of the board. He defended the salaries paid, running as high as $50,000 in the case of the governor of the New York bank, as essential to efficiency in the reserve system.

SCHOOL NOTES.

By Edna Brackenbury and Mary Holtz.

The Seniors are proudly displaying a new banner.

Mental arithmetic is taught after spelling every week. Mr. Holmes believes in putting "pep" into everything we do and anyone who doesn't believe it ought to come up some Thursday morning.

Miss Elliott has some wonderful specimens of brilliancy in her American Literature class. One day she asked a pupil to recite on Charles Brockden Brown, the first author to introduce the American woods and Indian into fiction. The answer she received was very amazing indeed. "Charles Brockden Brown was a writer of friction."

The Sophomores were very pleased to recover their banner. It had been placed on the wall and they were very conspicuous because of their glances of satisfaction.

Spelldowns are becoming very popular at the school.

On a test in General Science, Mr. Huller asked the question: "What are constellations? Which are groups of stars resembling familiar objects." But the answer on one paper was: "Constellations are funny little creatures on the moon."

We are very glad that Chas. Whale is improving.

The basket ball girls planned to begin practice last Monday night, but as the floor had just been painted Miss Elliott thought it best to wait a week.

"The Ladies' Aid Society" of the high school had a meeting Tuesday night for the purpose of organizing. The officers are: President, Bernice Wager; vice president, Eleanor Bigelow; secretary and treasurer, Annabelle McRae. They plan to entertain the faculty at a party once a month, to be given at the homes of the different members.

The foot ball game between Cass City and Sebawaing resulted in a victory for the latter, the score standing 7 to 2. The whistle blew. The game started and Sebawaing scored on the kick-off. From then on Cass City continually forced them back and secured a touchback, but was unable to further score. On account of the weather and the condition of the field it was a poorly played game. Sebawaing played a clean game and found no fault with Cass City's playing or players.

In Miss Reynold's Ancient History class one girl was telling of the food of the Spartan boys and she said, "The Spartan boys ate forage (porridge)."

Kindergarten.

We are making scrap books this week, illustrating the story of "The House That Jack Built." The children are drawing, cutting, coloring and pasting pictures for these.

We are very interested in our game of store. In this we count by ones, fives and tens.

The story of "The Three Pigs" is very interesting when we dramatize it.

First Grade.

We have a new pupil, Ralph Ashley, who entered Monday.

Second Grade.

We are studying Hiawatha and learning a part of Hiawatha's Friends.

Marian Helwig and Ramond Roberts are new pupils.

Third Grade.

Elva Ashley is a new scholar. We are studying the picture of the Gleaners in connection with geography work.

Fourth Grade.

Francis Elliott remained standing the longest in our spelldown Friday morning.

Sixth Grade.

Ione Cauley and Audrey Law were visitors. Mrs. Bailey was here on Friday. There are many absences due to colds.

New Animal for Far North.

The "yak" or woolly ox of Tibet is soon to be transplanted into Alaska and the Canadian Northwest by Dawson men, says an exchange. For centuries the yak has been domesticated by man and its haunts are the snowy highlands of Tibet, 20,000 feet above the sea. Its native food is a coarse wiry grass, but it will eat anything that cattle will. In size it compares favorably with range cattle—1,000 to 1,200 pounds. The meat is as delicious as beef and the wool and hide are valuable.

Happy Ending.

"I have just heard of a woman who went to a hotel unaccompanied and discovered that the acoustic properties of her room were such that every time she spoke aloud there was an echo. She then made a bold attempt to get in a last word, and in so doing talked herself to death."—Portland Express and Advertiser.

Healthy Calling.

Of eight English clergymen whose deaths were recorded in one week a short time ago, the ages aggregated 590 years, the oldest being ninety-two and the youngest fifty-seven, writes a correspondent. This high average of just under seventy-four years is either an uncommon record or attests the longevity of the "cloth."

Roman Use of Concrete.

The Romans' discoveries in concrete mixing made it possible for them to make prodigious strides in engineering and architecture. At the foot of Vesuvius were immense deposits of reddish sand or volcanic ash called pozzolana, which, when added to lime mortar, made hydraulic cement. This gave to the Romans a concrete of extraordinary strength and permanence, which hardened under water as well as in the air, and became the basis of their entire system of building.

A Stadium Defined.

"An old-fashioned woman" writes in to ask, "What is a stadium?" A stadium madam, is a large ball park with a university attached.—Boston Transcript.

Centered in Self.
