

FAREWELL BANQUET FOR THREE CITIZENS

A. FRUTCHEY, J. FRUTCHEY AND J. C. FARRELL HONORED TUESDAY.

Departing Business Men Given Fine Tribute of Friendship by Local Business Men.

Seventy business men of Cass City attended a farewell banquet at Hotel Gordon Tuesday evening, honoring Amuel Frutchev, president, and Jos. Frutchev, secretary and manager of the Cass City Grain Co., who will make their home in Saginaw, and J. C. Farrell, who has recently purchased a wholesale oil and gasoline business at Howell.

E. W. Jones, as toastmaster, in his introductory remarks, spoke of the loyalty and public spiritedness of Messrs. Frutchev and Farrell and how all admired their ability and willingness to boost local enterprises. He expressed the regret of the community at their departure, and how the good will of local citizens would follow them to their new homes.

Dr. I. D. McCoy, the first to respond to a toast, chose for his subject, "Why I Am Not It" and humorously explained how the banquet committee was formed and the particular duties of each member.

Joseph Frutchev, in responding to the toast, "The Call of the Wild," said this would be his fifth attempt to get away from Cass City. He told of his first move when he was 18 and how glad he was to get back to spend the winter with dad. The second attempt found him equally willing to return and spend the winter under the parental roof, while the third time found him able to remain in Detroit eight years. He always found a welcome in returning to his old home town, and as his company still retain their elevator interests here, he plans to visit his host of Cass City friends often.

A. Frutchev told of his humble beginning in business life in Cass City 31 years ago when he and a partner engaged in the wholesale egg business, paying $40.00 for their equipment which consisted of 80 egg crates. Mr. Frutchev said he believed no town had better merchants than Cass City and the local banking facilities were unexcelled for size of town. Calling attention to the prosperity of the community, he said he knew of many farmers, who had to borrow money several years ago to buy their seed grain, were now worth from $10,000 to $25,000.

J. D. Brooker, in his toast, "We May Get Over It, but We'll Never Be the Same," said the Cass City Grain Co. established the reputation of Cass City as one of the best grain markets in the Thumb and the best patronized and that the Frutchevs had helped to make this a prosperous community. He voiced the sentiment of all when he said that the best wishes of the community go with the departing guests.

J. C. Farrell spoke on the subject "Feeding Flivers Fuel." He has been a resident of Cass City 1 1/2 years and has always been well received. The separation of business ties here need not mean a separation of friendships, he said, as the fliver makes it possible for all to see one another often. Mr. Farrell is proud of Cass City and spoke enthusiastically of the attainments made in the Thumb in late years. In his opinion, no community in the state has a better chance for growth and improvement than right here in the Thumb of Michigan.

In addition to the local speakers, two other pleasing features were on the evening's program. The "Celebrated Quartette," very appropriately named, of which Messrs. McCoy, Bricker, Atwell and Landon are members gave two selections and responded to encores. Elsworth Plumstead of Birmingham, Mich., who recently returned from a 35-week Chautauqua engagement in the south, gave a number of clever readings and impersonations which were greatly enjoyed.

The Menu.

Printed programs contained, besides the menu and evening program, individual kodak pictures of the three honored guests. The following was the menu served: Cream tomato soup, olives, radishes, celery, pickles, fried spring chicken, jellied cranberries, duchess potatoes, green peas in cases, Waldorf salad, Gordon House rolls, grape fruit cocktail, three "F" ice cream, angel food, chocolate cake, coffee, after dinner mints, cigars.

WHO'S WHO.

The Frutchevs.

Amuel Frutchev has been a resident of Cass City 31 years, entering into the wholesale egg business with E. A. McGeorge in 1890. A few years later, they purchased with A. H. Ale, the grain elevator of A. G. Berney.

The firm name was Frutchev, Ale & McGeorge. A year later, Mr. Ale sold his interest to his partners. The company was afterwards incorporated under the name of the Cass City Grain Co. Mr. McGeorge, several years ago, sold his holdings in the company to the Frutchev family. In late years, the company's business has rapidly expanded and at one time they owned and operated 17 elevator plants, 12 in Michigan and five in Colorado. Sales of plants in recent years have reduced the company's holdings to 10, nine of which are located in this state and one in Colorado. The company does business in 38 states and Canada and specializes in beans, wheat and oats. A. Frutchev is president, Joseph Frutchev is secretary and Herbert Frutchev of Gaines, Mich., is treasurer.

Joseph Frutchev, the secretary, has been in charge of the main office of the company here, and has been closely associated with local business interests. He has served the village as trustee, the local business association as president, the Cass City fair as secretary and has been highly esteemed as a business man and booster. Mr. Frutchev, in replying to the question why the company was moving their main office to Saginaw, said that it would put them in closer touch with the market. "We have no complaint whatever to make regarding the telegraph and telephone service at Cass City. The operators have given us the best service obtainable, but conditions over which local people have no control, make the service too

A. Ricker, a vocal solo; Mrs. Stanley Warner, a humorous reading; and the Celebrated quartette, two selections. All numbers were well received and those present hoped that a similar gathering would be possible again soon.

"PROTECT MOTHERS" IS OFFICIAL'S PLEA

Preventable Maternal Deaths Break Up Half a Thousand Homes in State.

Nearly half a thousand homes in the state were disrupted by deaths of the mothers during the first nine months of 1921, statistical studies made by the Michigan department of health disclose.

Maternity resulted fatally in 490 instances, 148 of the deaths occurring in Detroit, and 342 in the rest of the state. This gives a maternal death rate, for causes arising from childbirth, of 17.1 per 100,000 population—or nearly equal to the state's diphtheria death rate, and more than twice as high as the typhoid death rate. Since only women are affected, however, and only women in the age group from 15 to 45, the seriousness of the cause is increased proportionally, authorities point out.

With 72,742 births reported in the state from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1, one out of every 150 births terminated fatally for the mother.

"Prenatal instruction, a physician's advice, and clean and scientific care will eliminate the chief dangers of maternity," declares Dr. R. M. Olin, commissioner of health, "for most of these deaths are preventable. To assist in protecting motherhood, the department of health will send practical suggestions upon prenatal and infant care, to supplement the family doctor's advice, to every woman requesting information.

"These 490 mothers who died undoubtedly represented the most precious lives in their communities. Their loss means motherless children and broken homes. We are supposed to honor mothers above all other persons. Surely the time has come when we should do every possible thing for their welfare 365 days of the year instead of merely consecrating a single Sabbath annually to their memory and praise by wearing a white or red carnation."

FUNERAL OF AUSTIN SOLDIER HERO SUNDAY

Large Number Attend Last Service over the Body of George Lowe, Jr.

The remains of Geo. Lowe, jr., who was killed in action shortly before Armistice Day while in the service of his country in France, were brought to Cass City last Thursday night from overseas. Funeral services were held at the home of the young soldier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lowe, sr., two miles west and two miles north of Argyle, on Sunday afternoon. Three clergymen, Rev. Wilberton, Rev. Bailey and Rev. Martin, conducted the service. The funeral was largely attended.

The body was escorted to the Mc-Crea cemetery by American Legion members from Sandusky and Cass City and burial was made with military honors.

Geo. Lowe was born in Austin township on Nov. 10, 1893. Following the completion of his studies in the township schools, he came to Cass City to attend the high school. The young man entered the service of his country on Nov. 22, 1917, and the following February sailed for France as a member of Co. F., 125th Infantry. He was killed in action on October 9,

MICHIGAN GETS BIG SOIL SURVEY MEET

Specialists from United States and Canada to Hold Annual Conference at East Lansing Nov. 18-19.

Soil Survey experts from all parts of the country will gather at the Michigan Agricultural College on Nov. 18 and 19 for the annual conference of the American Association of Soil Survey Workers. Vital questions in connection with survey operations will be taken up at this time, with Michigan problems coming in for a major portion of attention.

The Soil Survey Workers' Association is composed of representatives from the various state agricultural colleges, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Canadian agricultural institutions, and various cooperating bodies. The chief purpose of the annual meeting will be presentation of soil survey methods by different members of the association, with the idea of correlating the work in various parts of the country and developing new features.

Recognition of the work being done in Michigan in the soil survey field led to the scheduling of this year's meeting at East Lansing by the Survey Association. For two years the soils department at the Michigan Agricultural College, cooperating with the Bureau of Soils of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been actively engaged in soil survey work in the state, with the result that an important start toward a state-wide survey has already been made.

Dr. M. M. McCool, head of the M. A. C. soils department, will address the coming conference on "Laboratory Work Which is of Value to the Soil Survey." A dozen other nationally known soils specialists will deliver papers on various phases of the work.

TRACTOR OPERATORS TO STUDY AT M. A. C.

Track and tractor operations on Michigan farms will study correct methods of handling their machines at a special short course which opens at the Michigan Agricultural College on November 28. The school, which is to run for one month, will be the first of four similar ones to be held at M. A. C. during the winter.

TWO SOLDIER SONS BURIED AT ARLINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Spencer Mourn Loss of Son, Orton Wm. Spencer, Who Died Nov. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Spencer were called to mourn the loss of their second soldier son on November 1 when Orton William Spencer passed away at U. S. Hospital No. 30 at Chicago after a long illness caused from wounds received in France. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer were called to Chicago the week preceding his demise, owing to his serious condition and were privileged to visit their son several times during his last days.

Last June, the body of another son, George Lee Spencer, who died in a hospital in France, was brought overseas and Mrs. Spencer was present at Arlington National cemetery at Arlington, Va., to witness the interment. Last Friday, both parents were present at the burial of Orton Wm. Spencer under military escort and honors at the same national burial grounds where the two brothers rest with thousands of other heroes and defenders of their native land.

Orton Wm. Spencer was born in Watertown, Sanilac county, Michigan, on Oct. 24, 1897. When the family moved to Cass City, he attended the public schools here. On Jan. 10, 1918, he enlisted at Flint with the 23rd Engineers. He was a member of Truck Co. No. 10 and crossed with his company to France in March, 1918. He served in both the 32nd and 42nd Divisions. On Aug. 3, 1918, he was wounded and was sent to hospitals Nos. 8 and 9 for treatment. He arrived home in his native land that fall and received an honorable discharge at Camp Custer on Nov. 27, 1918. He came at once to his parental home in Cass City.

He was never free from illness since he was wounded in France, and growing steadily worse last spring, he went in April to U. S. hospital No. 30 at Chicago where he received every attention and kindness. The treatments failed to restore his health and his death came on Nov. 1.

Besides his parents, he leaves three brothers, Earl, Sterle and Vovle Spencer, all of whom reside in this community. Mr. Spencer was a member of the Adams-Seeger Post of the American Legion.

PRINCIPLES OF CHRIST ARE NEEDED

REV. EDWARDS SAYS WORLD CAN NO LONGER BE RULED BY TERROR.

Speaks on Subject, "Suppose Christ Were a Member of Armament Conference."

"Now this sermon will not merely be supposition, if God speaks to men to-day, as of old, through facts, events, and the unfoldings of history, He is plainly telling us that the world can no longer be ruled by terror, but only by friendship and intelligent good will," said Rev. Wm. W. Edwards, pastor of the Presbyterian church in his sermon on the subject, "Suppose Christ Were a Member of the Armament Conference," at the union service at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

"The world has been torn asunder by the greatest war in history," continued the speaker. "Now, men are seeking for some method of international co-operation which shall not only prevent war but shall eliminate the causes of injustice. Only blind men now fail to see what all men ought to have seen long ago: That armed peace is an abomination. Mankind is now in possession of instruments by which it can extinguish the light of hope, and civilization can commit suicide.

"Every man who is awake to the situation which now confronts us is saying in his heart—What shall we do to be saved? My answer tonight is that which Simon Peter gave in the street of Jerusalem 1900 years ago. 'Repent, and obey Jesus Christ. There is no other name under Heaven given among men whereby we must be saved.' Which being interpreted in the speech of our day means: Change your mind. Give up your old ways and your old ideals. Start out now in a new direction. Act on the principle which Jesus of Nazareth has taught. I believe that the hearty response of the nations at this time to our President's invitation for a conference on Armaments is a response from the hearts of men in expression of their longing for real and permanent peace.

"I call your attention to a much neglected verse of scripture in 2 Cor. 10. 4. 'The weapons of our warfare are not of the flesh, but mighty before God to the casting down of strongholds.' And the next verse 5. 'Bring into captivity every thought,' (political, industrial, social, as well as religious) to the obedience of Christ."

"It has been well said that behind all the manifest causes of the war of 1914 lie the spiritual hosts of wickedness and that the cleanest place in the war of 1914 was the field of blood where men, heroic and daring, bled and died. The filthiest place was the spiritual darkness in which such plans could be conceived. And that is the horror of it all.

"It is in that realm that the church is called upon to enter and grapple with the forces of evils in or

COUPLE CELEBRATED 57TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Children of Mr. and Mrs. George Bartle Plan Happy Surprise for Them Nov. 3.

Thursday, Nov. 3, was a gala day in the family circle of one of Sanilac county's pioneer families, it being the occasion of the 57th wedding anniversary of the heads of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Bartle.

Such a day is celebrated but rarely and remembering the loving care given them during many years by their parents, the children gratefully determined to make the day one long to be remembered by them. They came with their families Thursday morning and their coming to the Bartle residence on West Main St. was a complete surprise and a happy one to the aged couple. The anniversary dinner was a feature of the day's celebration.

Mr. Bartle, a native of Canada, and Mrs. Bartle, claiming New York as her native state, were married at Fillmore, Minn., in 1864. They resided in Minnesota two years and a like period at Charles City, Iowa, before coming to Michigan. They settled in St. Clair county, and after a brief residence there, moved to Sanilac county where they lived until they came to Cass City seven years ago.

They have three children all of whom reside in this community: Geo. Bartle, John Bartle and Mrs. David Harris.

der that the thing our beloved President, and all men have said "Never shall be again" may become true.

"Take just this one fact about this world war: ten million men in the prime of their lives died on the battlefields. Think of it! When the armies went into battle they represented the flower of the nations manhood at its best. And ten million of them fell, ten million of our race's hand-picked best. If this were the only thing that might be said it ought to be enough to convince any right thinking man that we can have war or civilization, but you cannot have both. And as I see it, according to the prophecy of God's Word, war must go. "Nation shall not lift a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Micah, 4.3.

Back to Christ.

"Men are realizing now as never before, that they must come to Jesus Christ for the adequate solution of the pressing problems of today. He stands alone in contrast with the great of earth. He is not only the wisest of the greatest and the greatest of the wise, but He teaches the wise wisdom, and the great greatness. He towers so high above all other great men that it is easier to make Him divine than human. When Jesus speaks the world listens. Men say with the Scribes of old, 'Master, Thou hast said the truth.' Ask Jesus what He thinks of God, 'God is a spirit and they that worship Him, must worship Him in spirit and in truth.' Ask Him what He thinks about immortality. 'I am the resurrection and the life, he that believeth in Me shall never die.' Ask Him what He thinks about Heaven, 'My Father's House.' Ask Him what He thinks about hell, and He answers, 'Their fire is not quenched.' I sometimes wonder if the doctrine of hell, is a lost note in our modern preaching!

"Anyhow you may not like His teaching, but you must concede that there is no uncertainty about it. The life of Jesus has been before the world for two thousand years for its admiration or censure, during which time the world has passed through the Dark Ages and the Reign of Terror, Wars many and bloody, and up to now infidelity has never discovered a blemish in His life. Well might the gifted Roman say, 'His beauty is eternal and His reign will never end.' "It has been said that November, 1918, marked the end of the old world and the beginning of the new.' We believe it. We feel that right now a new world is being born. The opportunity to federate the world has come to this generation at this time as it never came to any other age or people. Truly 'We are the heirs of all ages.' The great lesson of the hour is that of brotherhood, brotherhood as exemplified in the life of the man of Galilee. One of His sublime and heaven-born utterances in the sermon on the mount was 'Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God.'

'Peace on earth and good will among men,' is the power which has wrecked thrones and sown seeds of true democracy now flowering and fruiting as Christ saw it from Calvary. I believe Jesus lived and died to show mankind that man is his brother's keeper, and that all humanity are the children of a universal Father. As we look at the recent pages of the world's history, saturated with human blood, we are brought to a realization that after all, in spite of a thousand years of civilization and Christianization, we are as a people, not very far removed from the barbarian, and a long long way from the 'Father's house of many mansions.' To me one of the vital issues of this armament conference on Friday next is this: Shall the thought of these delegates be captured for Christ and peace, or for war and misery. My friends—you can help supply the answer. Pray! Pray! Pray! All God's praying hosts—may put on the armor of God,—must go on record as "having done all." Hear the divine encouragements of prayer: "If ye abide in Me and my words abide in you ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you." "Call upon Me and I will answer thee and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not." "Ask Me of the things that are to come, concerning my sons and concerning the work of my hands, command Me." Abraham prayed and Lot and his family were led forth from the doomed cities. Moses prayed, and the armies of Israel under Joshua prevailed. Daniel prayed and the angel came swiftly from before the throne of God to show him things to come. Hezekiah, Isaiah, prayed and the angel of destruction went forth and smote the army of the Assyrians that 185,000 were found dead. Christ prayed, the church prayed and Peter was delivered from prison. Paul and Silas prayed and the foundations of the prison were shaken. Luther prayed and broke the spell of ages and set nations free. John Knox prayed and his prayers were more feared than armies. Wesley, the great founder of Methodism, tells us in his journal how he often devoted half and whole nights in prayer. Finney, Moody and a whole host of others whom we might name, found the secret of bringing things to pass. So today through prayer we might,

"Ring in the valiant man and free The larger heart, the kindlier hand; Ring out the darkness of the land Ring in the Christ as is to be."

"We can send this message to Washington tonight, Christianity is the moral substitute for war. I open my Bible at the 25th chapter of Matthew's gospel, and a scene of awful significance and grandeur rises before me. A throne, a Judge, the sound of trumpets, the gathering of nations, multitudes, multitudes, multitudes, that no man can number. It is the end of time. It is the day of Judgment. It is the assemblage of the universe. The ages are there. Nobody is missing. All there are fronting the throne where the judge, Christ, sits. He speaks, 'Come ye blessed of my Father' and bids them enter into the ranks of the aristocracy of God. Ah, yes! Jesus Christ is one day going to set up His Kingdom, putting down all other rule and authority, and reign forever from the rivers unto the ends of the earth! He will come with the crowns of the world upon His head and the Kings of the earth at His feet, Lord over all, swaying the scepter of universal dominion over earth's living and its unnumbered dead! In that golden age all peoples of all nations will unite in singing, "All hail the power of Jesus name, Let angels prostrate fall, Bring forth the royal diadem, And crown Him Lord of All."

"With the 'cloud of witnesses' at the conference I believe He will be there."

BUYING Gold Bricks

is a foolish pastime often indulged in by the man who invests without asking questions.

We noticed in an article published a few days ago where $555.00 has been filched from the innocent stock purchaser of oil stock in the state of Oklahoma alone for every dollar's worth of oil produced.

The wise man makes his bank do the investigating for him—and profits by consulting his banker first.

Young America Sends Vast Relief To Needy Abroad

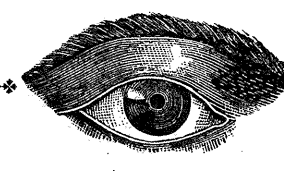

Various relief projects of the Junior American Red Cross in European countries resulted in helping 237,000 destitute children during the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of the American Red Cross for that period. The growth of the activities of the Juniors abroad is manifested by a comparison which shows this figure is 200,000 larger than that of the previous fiscal year.

The National Children's Fund raised by school children, members of the Junior American Red Cross, was drawn upon for $420,557 for these projects. Receipts for the National Children's Fund during the last fiscal year totalled $155,317.

America Succors Russians Food, clothing and medical relief costing $700,000 has been provided by the American Red Cross for the thousands of Russian refugees stranded last year in Constantinople and vicinity.

Nebula Nicknames.

Many of the glowing gas clouds in the heavens, known as nebula, present shapes that have given rise to nicknames, used by astronomers as alternatives of the more formal catalogue numbers of these objects. Among these are the Keyhole nebula, the Crab nebula, the Pinwheel nebula, the Dumbbell nebula, the Owl nebula, the Horseshoe or Swan nebula, the Whirlpool nebula, the Omega nebula and the North American nebula. The outline of the latter bears a rather striking resemblance to that of the North American continent.

HOW DOES YOUR BOY STAND IN SCHOOL ?

Many a child having a poor school record and a reputation for being backward and lazy is simply a victim of defective eyesight. Poor eyesight, undiscovered, may retard a child's whole progress in life. Periodic visits to a good optical specialist assure your children of correct vision at all times.

While members of the senior class were returning from a party near Rescue Wednesday night, one of the cars came near toppling into the deep drain cut north of Heron church. For just a few seconds, the car hung on the bank undecided which way to go. DRIVE ALL OVER THE ROAD.

The life of our improved roads could be greatly extended if those using the roads for traffic would get the habit of driving on both sides of the road instead of always using the center. The road would then be worn even over its entire surface. The habit would mean much at this time of the year when the heavy sugar beet haul is on. These roads cost a lot of money and every effort should be made to keep down the cost of maintenance.

Remember and drive all over the road.

SUCCESS.

The father of Success is Work; the mother is Ambition. The oldest son is Common Sense, Some of the other boys are Perseverance, Honesty, Foresight, Thoroughness, Enthusiasm and Co-operation.

The oldest daughter is Character. Some of her sisters are Cheerfulness, Loyalty, Courtesy, Care, Economy, Sincerity and Harmony.

The baby is Opportunity.

Get acquainted with the "old man" and you will be able to get along pretty well with all the rest of the family.—Observer.

Hint Was Taken.

"We had a number of guests to dinner one evening," writes Mrs. W. G., "and in serving the chicken my husband overlooked our little daughter Elsie. She sat there with a disappointed look on her face for a while, then a thought struck her. She crumpled a piece of bread on her empty plate and holding it up she beckoned to the dish of chicken saying coaxingly, 'Here chick, chick, chick! Here chick! Here chick!' There was a roar of laughter and Elsie was quickly served."—Boston Transcript.

Controlling Dreams.

There does not seem to be much doubt among mental specialists that dreams can be controlled to a certain extent. Don't have "downy" pillows, which cause too much heat. They should be low, thus relieving the work of the heart. Windows should be left wide open. Let nervous children have a night-light. These are among the hints given by an expert to those who would have pleasant dreams.

CHAPTER XIII.

Good for Evil.

That night for dinner, five people sat about the Pendlehaven table. Reggie, pale and miserable looking, sat next to his mother, and Philip MacCauley was opposite Doctor John. Katherine, silent and morose, was at her own place. She had heard her mother's version of the afternoon's happening in amazement and anger, and it only added to her discontent to hear Cousin John tell the tale to Phillip.

"Sarah thinks," went on the doctor, "that we should have tamely given her up without a word—to that brute!"

"I can't see how you can keep a man's child from him, Cousin John," excused Mrs. Curtis, a dull red mounting to each high cheekbone.

Pendlehaven laughed. "She wouldn't have been much use to him in prison, my dear Sarah," was his answer.

"What're you talking about?" demanded Reggie, turning red-rimmed eyes on his mother.

"Your Cousin John insists on keeping the daughter of a man named Devon in the house here when her father wants her home," she replied.

Reggie's face grew a misty gray. "Devon," he repeated mechanically. "I didn't know we had any such girl here!"

"She's always with Cousin Paul," remarked Katherine, with a sidelong glance at Phillip. "It does seem satisfying, though, to know who she is. Mother says she comes of common stock."

MacCauley's face grew dark, and Pendlehaven cast a glance of anger at his young cousin.

"Both Kathie and I," began Mrs. Curtis. "Why, Reggie, my darling, I never saw you look so sick in my life!"

"Aw, cut it!" growled the boy, unsteadily. "Tell me what became of the girl's father."

"He's going to jail for a nice long rest," interjected Pendlehaven. "It seems he was mixed up in a theft in Syracuse."

Reginald got up from the table. "I don't want anything more to eat," he growled, as his mother started to remonstrate with him. "I'm going to bed."

When he got upstairs, he looked at himself in the glass. How white and thin he had grown! He looked as if he had died and was trying to come to life again. He was frightened almost out of his wits too. Then Tonnibel Devon really was in the house. It hadn't been her ghost that had thrown him bodily from the window sill after all. Urrah, knowing that, had come and made a demand for his daughter and had been arrested. Perhaps he would be arrested also, and for a crime worse than stealing. Had the girl mentioned the fact of his trying to poison Paul Pendlehaven? If she hadn't, would she? When Mrs. Curtis came in to ask how he felt, he was crumpled in a big chair, shaking as if he had been attacked with ague.

"My goodness, Reggie, you look awful," she said, coming to his side. "Tell me, child, what's the matter?"

"There's matter enough," faltered the boy. "If you don't want me arrested like that man today, then give me some money to get out with."

He dropped his head, and for a moment she stood staring at him. Then her mother-heart relaxed, and she sank beside his chair.

"Darling," she crooned, "darling boy, go to your Cousin John and tell him all about it. He will forgive you and help you—"

The boy bounded up, maddened beyond endurance. "Great God," he cried, "he'd box me up for ten years! No, no, you've got to help me get away from Ithaca. I must have money!"

"Wait," said Mrs. Curtis, and she hurried from the room.

When she appeared before Doctor John in his office, he arose hastily. "What's the matter, Sarah?" he asked.

"John," she entreated, forgetting to raise her handkerchief to wipe away her tears, "I must have some money tonight. A lot of it!"

"For Reggie?" boomed forth Pendlehaven.

"Yes, he's sick, and I want to send him away, John. Oh! You can't refuse me this, you simply can't!"

"Going away doesn't seem to help your son any, as I see," answered the doctor. "He might better stay home. Wait till I tell you something, Sarah," he went on with a wave of his hand to stop her plea. "You are ruining that boy. Three-quarters of the time you don't know where he is, and he drinks like a fish."

The woman knew what her cousin said was true; but the money she had to have. Yet she dared not confess what made it necessary.

"But this time, John," she wept brokenly, "he'll go to a place I send him. He's promised he would. John, you must help me."

Pendlehaven sat down and took up the book he had been reading. "I refuse to hand out any more money for that boy," said he. "Let him stay awhile, Sarah, and see how that works out. . . . No, no, there's no use of your begging me, I refuse absolutely."

Mrs. Curtis fled away almost distracted. If she should see her son taken to prison like Devon had been that afternoon, it would kill her. And how could she face him without a means to help him escape! If she could only gain admission to Cousin Paul! He had always been the more tender hearted of the two.

For a while she walked up and down her room, wringing her hands. She was in a state of terrible anxiety when Katherine came in.

"He's got to go," repeated Mrs. Curtis, after she had told the whole story to her daughter. "He says he'll be arrested if he doesn't and has made me promise not to tell John. Oh, if I could only get to Paul."

"No one but that girl is allowed near him," flashed back Katherine. "By John's orders," supplemented Mrs. Curtis.

Katherine's lip curled. "Then why not appeal to her, mamma? Perhaps she'd reach the ears of his majesty, the Lord Almighty," said she.

"Oh, Kathie, don't be horrid," sobbed her mother. "You know very well I couldn't ask him through her."

"Then what will you do?" demanded the girl. "You say Cousin John won't help Rege, and you refuse to ask the girl to ask Cousin Paul. Then what will you do?"

"You ask her, Kathie," said Mrs. Curtis, in coaxing tones. Katherine tossed her head.

"You've got a nerve to send me to her for anything," she shot back. "I will not!"

Mrs. Curtis came forward with trembling footsteps. "Not for your brother's sake? Oh, Kathie, do!"

"No, I won't," said the girl. "So just don't ask me. Reggie's not my son, and I haven't any sympathy for him." With that she made for the door and was gone.

For over an hour the anguished mother walked up and down. Then as if she had at last reached a conclusion, she went to the servants' quarters. There she sent the maid to ask Tonnibel to come out to Doctor Paul's conservatory for a minute.

Tony silently stared at the white woman when they came face to face. Mrs. Curtis swallowed her pride, gulping at the lumps that rose in her throat.

"I'm sorry about this afternoon, Miss Devon," she said. "I really didn't understand."

Tonnibel thought in a flash that Mrs. Curtis must have gotten religion; nothing but a softening of heart could account for the apology.

"Never mind," she choked. "I'm awfully sorry about my daddy, but if he will be bad, then I suppose he must go to jail."

This statement renewed the dread in Mrs. Curtis' heart about her son. "Could you take a message to my Cousin Paul for me?" she ventured.

"What is it?" asked Tonnibel, thickly.

"My son is ill," Mrs. Curtis explained tearfully, "and he must go away. I haven't any money, but if Paul knew about it he'd help me. Will you ask him?"

Tony thought a minute. "Not tonight!" she replied. "Mebbe Doctor John—"

"No, he hates my son," the other cried passionately. "Oh, you mustn't say anything to him about it."

Tonnibel Devon was awfully tempted to refuse the haughty woman who had pulled her around by the hair only that afternoon. But she remembered Phillip, remembered his love for her, and relented.

"Come along back tomorrow morning, and mebbe I can get you some," she answered, walking away. Then over her shoulder she flung back, "I'll try, anyhow."

With this last statement Mrs. Curtis had to be satisfied. Reggie suffered dreadfully the night through, his mother sitting at his bedside. Tony Devon also had been awake most of the night. In the morning after breakfast, she set about gathering courage to approach Doctor Paul.

With Gussie Piglet in her arms, she sat down beside him, and now the minute was there to speak. Tony didn't know how to begin. But to begin meant to begin, Tony had learned, so she coughed and blurted:

"Your cousin, Mrs. Curtis, is kind of pretty, ain't she?"

"She would be if she didn't cry so much," responded Doctor Paul.

This gave Tony the opening she wanted.

"Her boy's awful sick, so she says," she broke out, "that's why she cries. If he don't go away, he'll die, mebbe."

The lovely gray eyes grew darker as they searched his, and Doctor Paul leaned over and looked keenly at her.

"Did Cousin Sarah ask you to come to me, little girl?" he questioned in a kindly tone.

Tonnibel nodded. "She says Doctor John don't like her boy, and mebbe you'd help her," said the girl, blushing.

The man considered the red face a moment. "Would it please you to have me help her and him?" he then queried. "I should think you'd be the last person to ask that. My brother told me she's always very unkind to you."

"She don't know any better," replied Tony. "She's never learned what lovin' awful hard means, and mebbe she's so worried over her boy she's got to be horrid to some one."

Paul Pendlehaven laughed, then he grew grave. "Perhaps that's it. Now do you think you could find my cousin and bring her here?"

Tonnibel looked at him doubtfully. "She might make you nervous," she said dubiously.

"I don't think so," replied the doctor, smiling. "I'm so much better. We won't speak of this to John, and I won't get nervous." He made the last promise because the girl's face was troubled and anxious.

Tonnibel nodded and hurried out. She knew which room Mrs. Curtis occupied and sought the other wing of the house. When she knocked at the door, a woman's voice called a low: "Come in!"

Tony stepped inside and, turning, shut the door before she took a survey of the room. When she did, she almost fainted. Reggie Brown, the awful man she had known in the canalboat days, the man who had dropped the poison into Paul Pendlehaven's medicine, was seated very near Mrs. Curtis, and Katherine was by the window, wearing a very bored expression.

An exclamation came from each one of the three as the girl faced them, looking as if she were ready to collapse.

"You didn't get the money then, girl," demanded Mrs. Curtis, sharply. "Reggie dear, I didn't tell you last night, but your Cousin John refused me when I asked him for help, and I had to reach Paul through—"

Tony's eyes were on Reginald, who was crouching lower in his chair. Her forward, staggering step broke off the speaker's explanation.

"You want the money for him?" she cried, pointing a finger toward the cringing boy.

Mrs. Curtis nodded. "Yes, he's my son," she answered. Tony drew a long breath, letting it hiss out through her teeth.

"If he's your son, ma'am," she said falteringly, "then you got a murderer for a son. He tried—he tried to poison Doctor Paul."

Mrs. Curtis got up slowly, a cold rage rising in her pale eyes. Katherine came forward to her mother's side, but Reginald remained silent.

"You lie," snarled Mrs. Curtis. "I don't lie," cried Tony, hoarsely. "I don't lie, either. Look at him, and see if he ain't guilty. He did put poison in Doctor Phil's medicine, and I pushed him off the window. But I didn't know he was your son."

By forcing her eyes around, the mother caught sight of her boy. "Reggie," she screamed, "for God's love, don't look that way. Why don't you tell the huzzy she lies! Tell her you'll go to your cousins and let them know of her accusations. I'll go myself!"

She darted across the room, but Reginald's husky voice called her back. "Don't do that," he wailed. "Don't do it, mater! What she says is true. I did exactly that thing. I—I tried to kill Cousin Paul."

Mrs. Curtis sank down with a groan, and Katherine uttered a cry. "I thought you wanted me to, mater," went on the boy, wearily. "I thought you said, if he died, we'd get money—"

"But, my God, I didn't want you to kill him," moaned Mrs. Curtis. "I didn't," said Reggie.

"But you tried," thrust in Tonnibel. "And you've told my cousins, eh?" he asked hopelessly.

"No, I didn't," denied Tony. "I s'pose mebbe I would have, but I didn't know you belonged here. I knew you used to steal with my daddy and do all sorts of wicked things—"

Mrs. Curtis cried out again. "But I didn't know you'd try to kill a poor sick man," Tony went on, "and then send your ma to get money of him."

"You'll tell him, I know you will, you terrible girl," screamed Katherine, no longer able to restrain herself.

Tonnibel thought quickly. Cousin Paul Pendlehaven lived in the house with an enemy who had tried to take his life. This same enemy had tried to destroy her, too.

"You said he was going away?" she questioned Mrs. Curtis presently. "Didn't you?"

"If I get money," put in Reggie, drearily, "I will."

"Doctor Paul wants to see you, ma'am," said Tonnibel, her dark gray eyes fixed on the woman, "and if he goes," she pointed at Reginald, "and stays a long time, I'll keep mum. See?"

Completely overlooking Katherine, Tony ran out of the room. The next day she didn't look up when she heard Doctor John tell Doctor Paul that Reginald had left Ithaca. When she peeped at Doctor Paul, he smiled at her.

How One Woman Helped Another

Foley Kidney Pills are bought in every state in the Union by men and women who already have been relieved of kidney trouble and bladder ailments by this sterling family remedy. Comparatively little advertising has been done for Foley Kidney Pills, yet they are well known, and those who know their splendid healing properties never accept an imitation or substitute for the genuine Foley.

Pains Banished; Health Restored "In September, 1913, I was stricken with lumbago and was unable to turn myself in bed. I was under the care of a physician but obtained no relief. A neighbor brought me a half bottle of Foley Kidney Pills; said she had been similarly afflicted and they had relieved her. So I tried them, and after taking three bottles was well and on my feet. I most heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills. I have never known them to fail."—Mrs. G. H. Eveland, Duncan Mills, Ill.

Solid Cake No Waste

The Cow and Her Victims

IN HOW MANY PLACES IN THE THUMB DO YOU SUPPOSE THAT THIS OCCURS?

Six million dollars is quite a neat little wad, measured up one way and down the other, and yet that is the amount that is being spent this year by the United States government and the several states for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis, which is the predominant affliction that affects cattle, and sometimes sheep and hogs.

Menaces Human Race

This amount does not represent by any means the total loss in dollars and cents that the white plague in cattle is costing the country, for many an animal with a valuation running into four figures has had to bow her queenly head to slaughter because the all-permeating tuberculin test has indicated that in her system she harbors the deadly little germ that refuses to yield to any medication, and which is transmissible through her lacteal flow to her own offspring and to innocent and helpless human babies.

According to some competent authorities, at least 30% of the T. B. that affects mankind gets its initial introduction into the glands and respiratory system from the milk of the benevolent bossy, because we have been so slow in accepting the advice of scientific bacteriologists, to feed children only tubercular-free milk.

Four Years of Eradication

The work of eradication in Michigan is now about four years old, and up to date there have been tested over 1,350,000 cattle. At first the work was under the direction of the State Live Stock Sanitary commission, which has been superseded by the newly-organized State Department of Agriculture. As indicating the growth of the work in this state, a glance at the statistics relative to the indemnities paid for destroyed cattle will prove interesting. In 1917 the amount paid was $21,756; in 1918, $65,450; in 1919, $91,924; in 1920, $119,788.

That the work is proving effective in the ultimate eradication of the disease is indicated in a further set of figures relative to the number of cattle tested and the per cent of reactors: In 1919 there were 11,535 animals tested of which 3.46 per cent reacted to the test; in 1920 there were 18,038 tested and the percentage was 3.03; in the first five months of 1921 there were 27,615 tested and the percentage was 2.44. When one compares this percentage with the figures from New York state, which show a percentage of 17.05 reactors, it is easy to see that Michigan's pioneer work in tuberculin testing is of inestimable value. Of the 26 states carrying on this work, 22 have a greater percentage of reaction than this state.

Federal Government Helps

One year ago there were 377 herds under supervision; today there are 3,469 herds under supervision and a waiting list of over 400 herds that the inspectors have been unable to reach. The federal government has 11 veterinarians in Michigan employed on tuberculin work under the direction of Dr. Theodore S. Rich, who are working in co-operation with the state force under Dr. B. J. Kilham. The state force consists of four veterinarians on general work, five in special county investigations, two on post mortems and one on appraisals. This force has now become entirely inadequate, and it has been necessary for Commissioner Halliday to assign additional help to the division.

The photo above shows the tubercular cow whose milk transmitted the dreaded white plague to five children of one family (shown above). The cow was owned by Robert Gobon of Edgar county, Ill., who turned her over to the man who worked for him, Robert Kelley, father of the children, in lieu of money Gobon owed Kelley, after the cow had been tuberculin tested, tagged as a reactor and placed in quarantine by a federal veterinarian. The only two children in the family of seven who did not contract the disease were the eldest, who did not drink milk, and the youngest (on the lap of the eldest in the photo) who received no cow's milk. The boy with his head down has open sores on top of his head and on his body. The girl at the back on the right has curvature of the spine, and is more seriously affected than any of the rest. All are thought to be improving at this time, however, under the care of a nurse supplied by the county anti-tuberculosis society.

The photograph of the cow shows where the tuberculin test tag was pulled out of her ear. She was killed and showed many lesions, produced by the disease, as did the pig, shown in the picture, and the cat, both fed on her milk.

This illustration carries in a striking way the story of one unfortunate family. Michigan authorities state that the same story could be told in scores of cases in this state. Bovine tuberculosis must be stamped out for the future of the human race as well as the dairy industry, and during this process we must bear our losses bravely.

The question has often been asked, where does this plague find its way into healthy herds? The answer is principally from imported cattle. Every purchaser of an animal, either pure-bred or grade, should insist on a complete tuberculin test, otherwise he is almost sure to introduce into his herd this deadly infection.

LIFE TERM IN PRISON GIVEN GRAND TRUNK RAILROAD WRECKER.

Thumb Items Clipped or Stolen from Our Exchanges of the Three Counties.

Henry W. Gates, wrecker of the Grand Trunk's "Chicago Flyer" near Elba on the night of Oct. 28, pleaded guilty in circuit court at Lapeer this morning and was sentenced by Judge W. B. Williams to life imprisonment at Jackson.

About twenty of the immediate relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGregor assisted them in the celebration of their golden wedding Sunday afternoon, at their home southwest of Yale, in Brockway township.

The postoffice at Melvin, Mich., was robbed early Friday morning and two Liberty bonds, $200 in stamps and $6 in pennies were stolen. The robbers covered the old fashioned safe with blankets and after knocking off the combination blew open the door. Postmaster George Beadle does not leave the day's receipts in the safe. This cut down loss and $500 in certificates of deposit were overlooked by the robbers.

A large barn belonging to Henry Harriman of Snover was destroyed by fire early Thursday morning of last week. A quantity of baled hay, other feeds, farm implements, an automobile, a new tractor and a cow were burned. Mr. Harriman carried only a small insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

John House, laborer, whose disappearance from his home at Bay City last Saturday night was reported to the police Friday, has been located at Vassar at the home of his brother. Police were working on the theory that he had met with foul play.

The Sanilac County road commissioners have equipped the two county road trucks with Root spring scraper which are attached beneath the truck. When hauling gravel the scraper is thrown out of gear, but on the trip back to the pit, the scraper is thrown in and grades the road as it travels over it. When used for maintenance work the truck with this new device can grade 40 miles of road a day doing the work of five teams, thus making a cut in the county's maintenance expense.

Albert Bloomfield, 86, was found dead in the yard at the home of his son, Elward, in Almer at noon Wednesday. The family had gathered at the dinner table and when he did not appear they made a search for him and found dead in the yard. Heart failure was the cause of his death. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from Mooretown Evangelical church and interment in the Mooretown cemetery.

Congressman Cramton has given his endorsement for the appointment of Henry S. Myers as postmaster at Caro, Harvey Tewksbury at Kingston Harmon Fox at Mayville, Garey Terry at Dryden, Gordon Dafoe at Owendale and Mrs. Roger Gorton at Lexington.

Caro base ball fans entertained members of the Caro base ball team at a fish supper Friday evening, honoring the boys for their success in winning the Thumb championship in the national game.

Sanilac county will not build its infirmary until 1923, as the county is now bonded for a court house and a county park, and finds it impossible to add to its debt. The county house was condemned, but permission is asked that it may be used for a time yet.

A belated Saginaw freight truck being unloaded of part of its cargo at the rear of the Co-Op. store at about 1:30 o'clock last Saturday morning, was the cause of an excited call to arms which threw a fair sized percentage of our population into intense commotion. Abnormal darkness was caused by quite a dense fog, and when shadowy forms were seen moving to and from the truck by parties returning from some out of town festivities, it was taken for granted that this place of business, which was quite recently looted of several hundred dollars' worth of merchandise, was again being visited by a robber. E. B. Davis, manager of the store, was the first to be aroused by the discoverers and he in turn got busy with the telephone, spreading the alarm near and far. Fortunately the identity of the unsuspecting truckmen was revealed before hostilities were begun, and they promised to camp outside of town next time they failed to reach here at a reasonable hour. The impromptu mobilization of citizenry resembled a gathering of the Ku Klux Klan.—North Branch Gazette.

Two business changes took place at Brown City recently. J. L. McFadden sold his bakery business to A. E. Briggs of Yale. Mr. McFadden has been in business here for several years. Henry Baker has sold his grocery store to William Burger, who took possession at once.

Kinde will stage a base ball banquet on Thursday, Nov. 17. The executive committee of the Huron County Farm Bureau met in Harbor Beach Tuesday, being invited by the Huron County Savings Bank, whose guests they were at luncheon at Hotel Dow. B. W. Jenks, president of the bank, and D. Mihlethaler, vice-president, represented that institution and welcomed their guests at the luncheon, following which informal talks, at the suggestion of Farm Bureau President Earl C. McCarty, were made, each speaker relating incidents which occurred in the early days of this county. Of general interest was a resolution adopted in which was the statement that the farm bureau would send a delegation of Huron county men to the state highway department to ask that more trunk line highway be constructed in this county, as to date only 2 1/2 miles of trunk lines have been built in the county with state aid.—Times.

WHO'S WHO.

Continued from first page. uncertain in our operations. Market changes take place frequently each day, especially with beans. As an example of what we are up against, let me cite two cases. We telegraphed Jackson at 4:42 p. m. one day and the message was delivered at 10:30 a. m. the following day, causing us a loss of one cent a bushel on two cars of wheat. Another time a telegram from Baltimore sent at 9:45 a. m. reached here after noon, was answered within an hour and the answer delivered at 8:30 p. m. at Baltimore, the delay causing a $120 loss on a car of beans. We expect to be able to secure direct service at Saginaw which will give us half hour service to Chicago and New York.

J. C. Farrell.

J. C. Farrell, for many years a traveling salesman in Michigan, spotted Cass City as a good business center and decided to cast his lot with the business interests of this community, entering into partnership with P. S. McGregory in the shoe and clothing business in the spring of 1910. He later sold his interest and established himself in a similar business here. About two years ago, he established the first gasoline service station at Cass City and built up a large business. This spring, he sold the station to the Cass City Oil and Gas Co., and has since been looking up another location. Mr. Farrell recently purchased a wholesale oil and gasoline business at Howell and took possession Nov. 1. He has served here as village clerk, fair treasurer, and has been a booster for Cass City every day he has resided here.

Mr. Pettinger has been afflicted for two years, enduring untold suffering. He departed this life Oct. 27, 1921. The funeral was held at the home conducted by the Gleaner order. He leaves to mourn his departure, his wife, his twin brother, Charles B. Pettinger of Flint, Mich., a brother, David Pettinger, and sister, Sarah A. Otis, of Courtland, Ont., and another brother, J. B. Pettinger of Austin.

Mrs. Ellen Goble.

Mrs. Ellen Goble passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thos. Auten, on Main St., Wednesday, Nov. 9, at the age of 87 years.

Ellen Halligan was born in Ireland on May 21, 1834. When she was six years of age, her parents and their three children sailed for Canada. The day after their arrival in that country, the mother passed away. The family settled near Quebec, and soon after moved to Brantford, Ont., where Miss Halligan was united in marriage with James F. Goble. In 1870, they came to Michigan and settled at Gageton where they lived for over 20 years, then moving to Traverse City. Mr. Goble died 13 years ago. Mrs. Goble has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Auten, since her husband's death.

The foot ball game between Bay City western and Cass City which was played at Bay City last Friday resulted in a defeat for our team, the score standing 27-7. According to all reports, it was a very exciting and good game. The boys also report that they enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

Tuesday morning at chapel exercises after a few introductory remarks by Rev. Pohly, Rev. Koteskey, pastor of Evangelical church of Bay City, gave a very interesting and beneficial talk on "High Ideals." Two important points he brought out were, "Our lives are what we make them" and "Never be satisfied with our position." "If we are satisfied," he said "we will gradually slip back and be where we cannot recover ourselves." His talk made a great impression on the high school and was helpful to all.

The senior class attended a miscellaneous shower at the home of Myron Carr Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Elmer Morley (nee Pearl Carr). Mrs. Morley is an ex-member of the Class of '22.

The party which was to be given by the Ladies' Aid society of the C. C. H. BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS AND SAVE HUMAN LIVES

"Buy Christmas seals and save human lives" is the message that Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck sent to the people of Michigan today through the Michigan Tuberculosis association. Gov. Groesbeck is not saying this in a perfunctory way. Long before he was governor he took a deep interest in the fight against tuberculosis. During the war he was chiefly responsible for securing quarters at the state sanatorium at Howell for tuberculous soldiers, and for many years he has been actively behind the tuberculosis campaign.

In his statement today Gov. Groesbeck says: "Shortening days, chilly nights, and falling leaves warn us of the approach of winter, and with winter comes the glad Christmas season, heralded by the Michigan Tuberculosis association's annual sale of Christmas seals. The proceeds of this sale will be used in the fight against the tuberculosis scourge and will gladden many a heart with the thought that some one does care. The salesmen receive no remuneration. Their work is a labor of love. 'Buy Christmas seals and save human lives.' 'Christmas' seal your Christmas mail."

The seal sale will begin on Thanksgiving Day and close on Christmas Day.

First Trolley Car.

The first street car in the world operated with a wire suspended overhead, commonly known as a trolley wire, was in Kansas City, May 1, 1825, on a line south of Westport, an extension beyond what was then known as the "Western Horse Car Line."

TOWN PESTS

The Loafer is just about our Worst Pest, for he has been Standing Around on our Streets for Years. Finding Fault with Everybody and Everything. He's done his Durnedest to Block every Improvement Our Town has made, and when he quits Walking Around to save Funeral Expenses, he will be Missed, just like a Boil!

This "Earth" Largely Water. A trifle more than seven-tenths of the surface of the globe is covered by the waters of the oceans. The total area covered by the latter exceeds the total area of the lands of the world by 83,000,000 square miles. Reckoned in terms of quantity, the oceans contain 324 cubic miles of fluid, or 14 times the bulk of all the lands in the world above sea level.

The Beard in Dreams. To dream you have a long beard denotes long life. If black, you will have great troubles. If red, shame and disgrace will follow you. If white, cunning and success in your undertakings. To pull or shave the beard betokens loss and disappointment. If a young lady dreams she has a beard, she will marry well. To dream you are beardless is a sign of riches. To wash the beard is an omen of sadness.

Use Soap. If the belt on your sewing machine loosens, rub it with plain yellow soap and it will help until you can have it fixed.

Don't miss the great $75,000 Sale

I have set the pace to sell $75,000 in a month and I am making prices that will do it, and in buying goods at the right time I saved a lot of money. Just returned from Detroit. The jobbers were through with their business and had shipped out all their winter goods. Had odd lots left and didn't want to carry over, so I bought at a price.

A carload of underwear and piece goods bought below the market.

A big shipment of ladies' coats, the close out of the end of the season. The greatest buy we have made since before the war in men's clothing and overcoats. Overcoats, $4.48 up. Men's suits, $9.98 to $19.98. Also bargains in boys' suits, knee pants, etc.

Big shipment of crockery, Cups and saucers, 89c set. Cups, saucers and plates, $1.49. A lot 35c cut tumblers for 10c.

Lots of bargains in hardware that will save you a lot of money. Heating stoves $1.28 up. Ranges and cook stoves less than wholesale cost.

Then you come in the grocery and save a lot of more money, such as sugar $5.99 hundred, flour $7.75 bbl., light syrup 58c pail, 12 lbs. tea $1, 9 lbs. coffee $1, 4 lbs. 60c tea $1. This is the way you buy all your groceries.

You will find great bargains in shoes. They were just telling me the shoes were too cheap. If I had put another dollar on some of the ladies' shoes and oxfords they would sell better. When you buy a high top brown with rubber heel for $2.98 that others ask as high as $6 for, don't be afraid you have only saved that amount. Have a lot of odd pairs of shoes to close out so I have taken tables and put them on. One lot ladies' shoes $1. Men's heavy work shoes $1.98. Just received a half car of rubbers that will save you money. You will receive the Live Wire this week telling you all about the bargains.

So If You Follow the Crowd You Will Get the Bargains

Once When Boston Was Second. A dispatch from Boston tries to prove that dress reform started there in 1634, but Boston cannot establish much of a reputation for ancient respectability on that score. Dress reform started in the Garden of Eden—Detroit Free Press.

Not a Chance. A stranger reported to a police officer that his grip, overcoat and umbrella were stolen before he was in town two hours, and he said: "There will be an awful reckoning in this burg when Gabriel blows his horn over it."—Lackawanna Journal.
