With the State Legislature

planted in the limelight temporarily by other matters. Farmer members who backed the 2-cent gasoline tax plan, as a means of providing the funds for the state highway department, and who put the bill through the house by a four to one vote, now are found to be clinging tenaciously to their idea of a state income tax. The fact that a constitutional amendment for an income tax met decisive defeat at the polls last November does not deter the champions of this tax from pushing their plans in the legislature. They contend that an amendment to the constitution is not needed; that the legislature has the power to enact such legislation. The constitutional point is that all taxes must be uniform. Exemptions granted in income taxes prevent uniformity, is the claim of those opposed to a state tax and who declare that it would run afoul of the constitution. A legal opinion on this point is being sought, but it now appears clear that the backers of the income tax will press their plan in both house and senate anyway.

Much interest has been created in senate circles by the reporting out of the so-called women's bills and apparent certainty that their provisions will be much debated from the floor. The clause permitting a married woman to establish a separate home from that of her husband has been cut out of the equal rights bill in committee and the bill as it stands establishes marriage as a partnership, giving women the right to sue and to be sued as individuals, to engage in business separately, even though that business may be in direct competition with the husband. The bill practically gives married women all the rights of single women. Another clause in the bill would eliminate the "obey" from all marriage ceremonies and would establish the matrimonial state on a 50-50 basis. A legitimacy bill aims to remove the stigma of being nameless from the child of an unwed mother. On the sole authority of the mother the child would be given the name of the father.

The certainty that Detroit automobile clubs will file a petition to have the 2-cent gasoline tax bill put to a referendum vote if it passes the legislature over the governor's veto, or if it stands without a veto, is causing its friends some concern. They are anxious to obtain for the state highway fund at once the $7,000,000 anticipated revenue from the gasoline tax and do not relish the idea of having it held up until the voters of the state decide in November, 1924, whether or not it will stand as law. Some hoped that by terming it a deficiency measure a referendum could be avoided, but Gov. Groesbeck is quoted as saying that this cannot be done in view of the fact that there is no deficiency. Efforts to effect a compromise that will include a 1-cent gasoline tax and an increased weight tax on motor vehicles still are being made by those who figured at first that a 2-cent gas tax could not be adopted.

Among numerous new bills which continue to appear daily much comment was caused by one introduced by Rep. Palmer, of Detroit, to provide for a pre-primary political convention of the various parties to suggest candidates and platforms.

The Contrary Sex.

Forgotten for a time, the conflict of views over the extent to which institutional appropriations should be subject to the authority of the state administrative board again has stirred up capitol circles. Practically every appropriation bill introduced early in the session contained a provision that the appropriation "shall be subject to the supervisory control of the state administrative board." The latter board had had the clause inserted. The institutional committees of the house, to which the bills went first, took pains to strike out the clause before they reported them out to the house. The bills then went to the ways and means committee, which passes on all money measures. This divergence of opinion over the powers of the governor's board attracted much attention at the time, but was almost forgotten while the bills remained in the ways and means room. Now, however, the latter committee has begun reporting them out and the attention of the objectors to the administrative board's supervision has been drawn to the fact that the control clause has been re-inserted in all the bills. The first couple of appropriation bills from the ways and means committee went through the house before it was discovered that the clause was back in its old place. The legislators who object to it contend that it is the exclusive province of the legislature to appropriate funds and direct their expenditure. They doubt that the legislature has the right to delegate this prerogative to the state board and hereby turn over a machinery that might be used politically by any governor that chose to do so. Anyway the fight is on again.

Rep. Warren D. Byrum, of Ingham, has introduced an income tax bill that follows the federal law fairly closely. It exempts $1,000 from all incomes and $400 for each dependent, as does the federal law, but only provides $2,000 exemption for a married person where the federal law exempts $2,500. It aims to establish the tax in 1924. It is the plan of the backers of the Byrum measure to replace all present property taxes with the income tax, the corporation tax and the gasoline tax. They estimate that the income tax will raise from fourteen to sixteen millions annually, and that this with the corporation taxes will be enough for the state's business purposes, while the gasoline taxes take care of the highways. Determined opposition exists to these plans, but the steady insistence of the sponsors means that the whole question will be fought out to a finish. In another week or so the tax measures will occupy the center of the stage until they are disposed of.

The proposal has been made in a bill introduced by Rep. Warner of Ypsilanti that the state normal schools be placed on a mill tax basis, the same as the University and the agricultural college. The Warner idea is that a tax of one-half a mill would provide funds for the normal schools equal to what the state now gives them in legislative grants every two years. This plan probably will be considered along with the special pleas of the M. A. C. and the U. of M. for building aid. The M. A. C. wants to get $100,000 advanced by the state to start the erection of a stadium. It is proposed to reimburse the state for this is a ten-year period, out of athletic funds of the college.

Fishing interests of the state have begun a battle to obtain a bill of "riparian rights" which will give them the exclusive rights of fishing for a mile off shore from land they own. These rights are not a new thing, having been enjoyed for half a century or more by shore owners. They were taken away by the last legislature, which wanted to open up fishing to the public. Since the present legislative session opened it has been expected that a fight would be started by the fish interests. Rep. Braun, of Huron county, introduced the bill which will provide the means for settling the whole controversy as far as the 1923 lawmakers are concerned.

The U. of M. wants to finish its hospital and erect other buildings, and is seeking sums that will total $7,300,000. It was to push ahead the chances of this program that the alumni of the university got the legislators to visit Ann Arbor in a body and see for themselves what the university needs and how the buildings it seeks will make it what it should be. The Ann Arbor visit was climaxed by a great mass meeting at which 6,000 students added their plea to that of the faculty. The lawmakers were much impressed by their visit and doubtless will give full attention to the needs all the big educational institutions of the state.

Both houses of the legislature are busy passing minor bills daily while the lines are drawn for the big tussle over taxation. The senate has adopted the bill which backs the administrative board's stand against moving the boys' industrial school away from Lansing; the firearms bill which would make it necessary to keep a record of all weapons sold, and others.

The house has passed the bill to allow boards of supervisors to establish and operate public markets, but with a referendum clause attached that will require its approval in any district before being effective.

Michigan Happenings

Following the closing of two tuberculosis hospitals, the East Lawn, Detroit, and tuberculosis institution in Northville, 40 more patients have been brought to the Roosevelt American Legion at Battle Creek for treatment. This brings the number of ex-service men up to 175. According to announcement made by hospital officials last week the cases from the East Lawn and Northville hospitals are all ambulatory. About 50 of the 175 are bed patients, and these are confined to the main building.

Alton Page, 22, a life guard at Walkers' Point, Bois Blanc Island, was taken to Marine hospital at Detroit last week, following a 11-mile dash for life on a dog sled across 20 feet of snow which packed the ice on South Channel. Lashed by bitter winds, Page prostrate on the sled, was accompanied on his perilous journey by Captain Richard Herling, in command of the Walkers' Point coast guard station.

The ninth annual tour of the Michigan Hikes' association will leave Detroit July 3 and finish July 23. This year's trip will be known as "Champlain's Trail Tour," and will be the third international tour of this organization. The tour will go from Detroit to Grand Rapids and north through the western part of the state to St. Ignace, then up to Sault Ste. Marie through Canada to Detroit.

The body of Mrs. George Day, 50 years old, of Bay City, who had been missing from her home since February 27, was found by Archie Talbot, fisherman. The body was in a barrel in Talbot's seine shed, near the mouth of the river. The woman evidently had broken a window, climbed into the place, and crawled into the barrel, where she died. The body was frozen.

Lieutenant Leclair Schultz, one of the air pilots at Selfridge field near Mt. Clemens, last week, made what is thought to be a record long distance flight. He used a new model Loening pursuit plane, now being tested at the field, and hopping off at Dayton, covered the distance of 240 miles to Selfridge field, in one hour and twenty minutes.

Although he fell from the fourth story of the framework of the new Masonic temple at Pontiac last week and landed on the frozen earth of the basement excavation, William Vanzandt, of Adrian, will live, it was said at the city hospital. Vanzandt, structural iron worker, was riveting the frame of the building when the accident occurred.

Lieutenant Oscar Glander, of the department of public safety, was named by Commissioner Roy Vandercook to become deputy commissioner. He will take the place made vacant by the appointment of Major Robert Marsh as head of the Industrial School for Boys at Lansing.

Mrs. Louis Vieau of Cheboygan, awoke last Wednesday morning horrified to find her 11-months-old daughter dead, in her arms. The baby had been ill early the previous evening, but its condition was not thought serious enough to warrant calling a physician.

A state income tax law which practically duplicates the federal income tax is provided in a bill introduced in the house last week by Representative Warren D. Birum, of Leslie. The proposed measure exempts all real property from state taxation.

Wilma Otteson, 17 years old, daughter of O. Otteson, of Niles, died last week from "sleeping sickness," after a two week's illness. Until the end physicians worked with the girl in an effort to combat the strange malady.

L. Whitney Watkins, commissioner of agriculture, announced the appointment of A. C. Carton, assistant commissioner, as head of the bureau of agricultural industry, to succeed Ezra Levin, who resigned.

Louis M. Daugherty, an employe on the Carl Cain farm near Adrian, in Ogdan township, was killed, when a team, hitched to a wagon, reared, rushing his head between the wagon box and the crib.

David H. Andrews, 87 years old, pioneer of Tuscola county, died last week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. Howell, of Bridgeport.

Benjamin Shaft, of Lansing, 30, Reo employe, tried to beat a Michigan Central train to a crossing. The train won and Shaft is dead.

The Michigan Association of Retail Credit Bureau Secretaries held its annual convention at Kalamazoo last week. Credit bureau secretaries from Ohio and Indiana were present.

The Rowe bill to place supervisor of county fair awards and prizes under the state agricultural department passed the house unanimously last week. The money for these awards has been distributed in the past by the directors of the Michigan state fair.

Central Michigan Normal school of Mt. Pleasant, will hold its fifth annual county normal convention at Central Normal, May 4 and 5, County Normal day, or the county normal convention idea was originated at Mt. Pleasant five years ago and has proved a great success. The respective county normals represented at Mt. Pleasant last year were: Chesaning, Mancelona, Frankfort, St. Johns, Gladwin, Ionia, Kalkaska, Ludington, Big Rapids, Midland, Lake City, Stanton, West Branch, Onaway and Cadillac.

Officials of the Sanitarium Training school for nurses, the school of Home Economics and the Kellogg School of Physical Education, announced last week, that the three are to be consolidated and enlarged to form a university, that, for the present, at least, will be affiliated with Olivet college. Olivet teachers will have a place on the staff. The sanitarium annex of Battle Creek, formerly the Phelps sanitarium, will be used and there will be a literary school as well as the established courses.

Representative Fred F. McEachron, Ottawa county, introduced a bill to abolish all spring elections in Michigan except in those counties which now elect in the spring. He would have the supreme court justices, superintendent of public instruction, regents of the university and members of the state board of education, members of state board of agriculture, state highway commission, township officers and circuit judges, after 1930, elected in the fall instead of the spring.

A letter mailed by Mrs. Uтары Baldwin, of Bancroft, 32 years ago to her friend, Mrs. Esther Smith, of Flint, was delivered to Mrs. Smith last week. Mrs. Baldwin, a former class mate of Mrs. Smith, has been dead 20 years. She described in the letter the wedding of her daughter. There was no mark on the envelope to show where the letter had been held these 32 years. The traveling time of trains between Bancroft and Flint is about one hour.

The senate passed, Senator Condon's bill controlling the sale, possession and use of firearms. The bill was drafted for the purpose of making it more difficult for persons with criminal intentions carrying guns. It provides that dealers who sell firearms keep a record with full description of each customer. A fine of $500 and one year's imprisonment is the penalty provided.

Mrs. Cordelia Millford, 97 years old, of Oxford, is one of forty-one widows of soldiers of the war of 1813 to whom the United States is still paying pensions. According to a statement from the Department of the Interior, Mrs. Millford is the former wife of Jacob Millford, who served as a private in Captain Benjamin Lindley's company of New Jersey Militia.

While walking to their farm home near Crystal lake, two children of Edwin Kirby were attacked by a big baldheaded eagle which dove from a tree. The eagle missed the children, one of whom picked up a club and hit the eagle on the head. It is said by old hunters to be the largest specimen seen for years.

As a result of the movement by the board of commerce and farmers, for better dairying farms in Arenac county, six more thoroughbred sires, two Holstein and four Guernseys, have been brought into the county, and a carload of pure-bred Guernsey cows will be shipped to Standish about April 1.

The shock of having his teeth removed, caused the death of Charles F. Cawein, 26 years old, last week at Muskegon. He was just recovering consciousness in the office of Dr. J. F. Wood, when he collapsed. When a physician arrived he was dead. He was a world war veteran.

Mrs. Lucy A. Ensign, who moved to Grayling in 1873, with the coming of the first railroad, died here last week. Her husband died in 1885, and Mrs. Ensign reared her family alone in the wilderness of northern Michigan.

The annual mid-winter session of the Bay County Teachers' institute was held here last week, with M. S. Pittman, of the Ypsilanti State Normal, as the chief speaker.

Game law violations in the Upper Peninsula have been fewer this winter than ever before, according to State conservation officers working in the Marquette district.

William D. Wilcox, 82 years old, pioneer who helped survey the Pere Marquette railroad into northern Michigan, died at Traverse City, last week.

Albion College debaters broke even last week in the triangular debate with Illinois Wesleyan University, of Bloomington, Ill., and Lawrence University, of Appleton, Wis., on the League of Nations, losing to Lawrence and winning from Wesleyan in Bloomington.

CENTRAL GREENLEAF.

John Waldon is on the sick list. We are thankful for Easter Day. James Voight returned from up north where he had spent the winter. He will be employed at George Seeger's this coming summer. Little Buddy White is ill at this writing.

Chas. Doerr, who has been working in Saginaw, returned to his home one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Clark and children will move to Detroit some day next week where Mr. Clark is working.

Roy and Ray McCaslin of Pontiac are expected to spend Easter with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McCaslin.

Mrs. Cooley is spending a few weeks with her daughter in Detroit.

Grievances and Worries.

Many people would be unhappy, if you should take away from them their grievances and worries. They have become pet hobbies, and would leave life a blank, if taken away. Poor kind of hobbies.—Los Angeles Times.

Ford
TOURING CAR

298
F. O. B. DETROIT

A Greater Touring Car Value
 The present price of the Ford Touring Car is the lowest ever made.
 And yet the car itself is a greater value. It is better looking with slanting windshield, a one-man top and improved seats. And there are many refinements in chassis construction.
 The demand is so great that deliveries will soon be impossible. To protect yourself, order now. Make a small down payment, the balance on easy terms.

*Ford prices have never been so low
 Ford quality has never been so high*

CANDY FOR EASTER....

EVERYBODY LIKES CANDY

Whether they shake a rattle, a powder-puff or a mean hand at poker like Uncle Ned, they'll all cast tender looks at a box of candy.
 Especially at Easter is the gift of a box of our candy doubly appreciated. They are attractively put up in boxes.
