MAY BRINGS SALES OF 171,306 FORDS

Sales of Ford cars and trucks in the United States for the month of May totaled 171,306 according to a report just issued by the Ford Motor company. The May sales were more than 5,500 greater than those of April, due to increased output.
 Production has been the only limiting factor in the sales of Ford cars and trucks since January, for at all times orders on hand have been in excess of the manufacturing capacity of the company, great as it is.
 The high production schedule which has been in effect the last few months, however, permitted May to show a gain of 44,243 retail deliveries over the corresponding month last year, and it marks the fourteenth consecutive month in which sales have gone above 100,000.
 May deliveries bring the total of Ford sales in this country up to 732,850 cars and trucks for the five

ZEMKE BROTHERS

THE CHIC YOUNG MAID IN HER SWEET LATE TEENS

ILLUSTRATED here is a beautiful and up-to-the-minute costume for the maid of sweet seventeen or more years. It has all the qualities that spell success, for it will appeal to the most exacting and opinionated of young persons and at the same time win the approval of her elders—a consummation devoutly to be wished. Seventeen will like it because it is smart and because she wants things that are fashionable. This dress of crepe for street wear combines the platted skirt and the embroidered overblouse that are triumphing everywhere, and it is finished with a kerchief-collared and looped girde made of the plain crepe. A touch of graceful carelessness in the design looks its best on youth, but to achieve it the hand of an expert is required. To copy it is an easy matter.

The round hat, of milan braid, with brim and a portion of the crown overlaid with crepe, has for a trimming a large and saucy rosette of narrow ribbon in a contrasting color and it is just the type of hat to be worn with this dress. Printed crepe is attracting much attention for dresses in the wardrobe of the young girl as are printed voiles and drop-stitch voiles and foulards. The printed fabrics are very often used in combination with plain material and they are especially well suited to the delightfully simple styles that are in vogue.

A CERTAIN WOMAN

Upon her breast were orchids, jewels, too, Soft wrapped she was in ermine, shod with gold. Beauty as of the Seven seas was hers. Her mouth was like a crushed and crumpled rose: Her eyes, twin stars of morning, dewy bright; Her hands, cool, passionless and ivory white. Oh, passing beautiful she was to see, Regal withal, like princesses in dreams! Her breath was fragrance, like unto dim dusks That float with perfumes out of Araby. Her step was light. As some young faun she went. Men worshiped her, but worshiped from afar. Her smile bewildered, and they came not nigh. And women would have said unto her, "Friend!" But no, they could not. Came a little child To gaze upon her beauty. And its eyes Grew wide and wider, but it could not smile. Nor say, "I love you—you are beautiful!" The child had guessed her secret, hid so long; She of the orchids and the crushed-rose mouth, The jewels and the stars-of-morning eyes— In spite of all these things, she had no heart— Only a carven crystal, gleaming cold There where God meant a woman's heart to be.

RELICS OF CHILD SACRIFICE

Grotesque Find Near Temple of Tanit in Ancient Carthage Reveals Cruelty of Old Religion.

Historical evidence goes to show that the sacrifice of children to the Mother Goddess was not infrequent. Two French archeologists, Mm. Pouissote and Lautier, engaged in exploring the ruins of ancient Carthage, have unearthed in front of an altar near a temple of Tanit three vaults containing the charred bones of new-born babies and children from two to three years of age. The archeologists believe that to the left of the altar was a stone slab with a bronze grill, under which burnt a fierce fire, and here the naked bodies of the first-born were offered in accordance with the ancient rites which were regularly practiced from the Sixth or Seventh centuries before the Christian era until the destruction of Carthage by the Romans. Others, however, believe that it was customary for the parents to reclaim the remains of sacrificed children, and that the bones now found, a gruesome pile 15 feet high, are the remains of sacrificed children placed by their parents under the protection of the all-powerful Tanit.—Scientific American.

RICHES VS. WINGS "Riches have wings." "Yes, the trick is to train 'em so that they will fly to instead of from you."

Undertook Too Big a Job. Two men in Newfoundland shot at a flock of ducks on the wing. One of the birds being wounded fell in the water some distance away. An owl, one of the large white northern species, tried to capture the wounded duck, but on making good its grip found that the duck was too heavy and was able to resist stoutly. The owl had its claws so firmly embedded in the duck that it was unable to let go. The men rowed up and captured both birds.

Physical Freak. An ex-soldier of Montreal had his heart on his right side, his liver on the left, his stomach on the right, and in fact all internal organs on the opposite to that of the average person. He had been examined in South Africa, during the Boer war, in Aldershot during the World war, and again in Montreal by a host of medical men. In all he says he has been examined and X-rayed by about 250 doctors.

Faithful Dog. A watch-dog saved a Syracuse man and his wife from probable death by pulling the covers from the sleeping couple when the second floor of their residence was a mass of fire. Realizing that the house was doomed when she got outside, the woman returned to recover a coat. The dog rushed into the house by another entrance, apparently following its mistress, and perished in the flames.

Pup With Seven Legs. Montreal dogdom was startled when a seven-legged pup was exhibited at a meeting of the English Bulldog club of Canada. It came in a litter born at a Verdun kennel. There were eight pups in the litter, but unfortunately only two of them survived, the "freak" and five of its brothers and sisters succumbing a little over an hour after birth.

Remarkable Squash. On opening a squash a few days ago, a New Brunswick woman found 29 plants with roots and two leaves inside, exactly as when first coming through the earth. The squash was perfectly sound and 12 of the 29 plants, she says, are on exhibition at her home.

JUNE WEDDINGS.

Concluded from first page. carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses fastened together with small streaming white satin ribbons. The bridesmaid was very becomingly attired in gray crepe de Chine with hat, gloves and pumps to match and carried a pretty bouquet of pink roses. The groom and best man each wore the conventional blue suits. After Rev. Hubbard performed the ceremony, the happy company went back to the bride's home to an elaborate dinner, after which they drove to Detroit where a newly completed and furnished home is awaiting them. Their friends wish them success in life and all happiness.

Curts-Murphy. Harold H. Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy of Cass City, and Miss Myrtle Curts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Curts of Park Hill, Ont., were married at London, Ont., on June 14. The bride was formerly employed as nurse at Pleasant Home hospital here. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy are making a motor trip in Canada and expect to arrive in Cass City early next week. They expect to reside in Detroit.

Janes-Striffler. The following is taken from the Detroit Free Press of June 17: "A wedding of interest to their many friends in Detroit and throughout the state was that of Miss Helene Janes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin K. Janes and Mr. Fred Striffler of Caro, Mich., which took place Saturday, June 9, in the home of the bride's parents on Kercheval Ave. Miss Dorothy Janes, a sister of the bride, was the only attendant and the service was read by Rev. Irwin Bradfield, pastor of the Redeemer Presbyterian church. Immediately after the ceremony, which was a very quiet one, Mr. and Mrs. Striffler left for a motor trip through the east. Upon their return they will make their home in Caro, Mich." Miss Janes was born in Cass City in the house now occupied by Earl Heller on Seeger St. Her father conducted a general store for years where the Cootes Hardware is at present located. Fred Striffler is the son of S. W. Striffler and brother of Mrs. J. A. Sandham and Mrs. Angus McPhail. He is a prominent business man in Caro, being a member of the firm of Cooper & Striffler and having been president of the Chamber of Commerce. He is a graduate of Cass City high school. Rev. Irwin Bradfield is also a graduate of the same school, his father at that time occupying the pulpit of the local Presbyterian church. Miss Dorothy is also well known to Cass City people.
