SCHEDULE ARRANGED

Concluded from first page.

Rev. A. G. Newberry visited us last week Tuesday and gave a very fine talk. Rev. I. W. Cargo conducted chapel the week previous.

The physics and chemistry department received some fine new equipment last Friday.

The Juniors are contemplating with great anticipation their class roast which will probably be held some night this week.

Monthly tests loom large on our horizon this week and Thursday and Friday will find pupils struggling in their unrelenting grasp.

The book-keeping students were inflicted with intelligence tests Monday which caused them all to look reasonably bright for a few minutes.

Andrew Walmsley joined us Monday in our search for knowledge.

Magazines, guarded by corporal patrol, are found this week for the first time on the reading table. Everyone is glad to see them there once again. They aid a great deal in our studies and pleasures.

Agriculture Department—A corn rack which can accommodate at least a hundred ears of corn has been added to our equipment.

Prof. Campbell has added to the display a row of curiosities such as U. S. and Canadian vetch, a tobacco plant, soy beans, and peanuts on the vine. He obtains these fine specimens by exchanging with other schools. The new cupboards are all filled with equipment and in one section Mr. Campbell has placed all the grasses of Michigan with the exception of one. The class feels that this is a very splendid collection for a school of this size and know how cheaply all the specimens were procured by the wise buying of Prof. Campbell. These interesting grains will be shown at the high school fair.

The science classes are having laboratory work.

Home Economics—Helen Reed leads with the best canning of vegetables which cost her exactly 12c a quart to can. Margaret Reagh can put peaches up for 21c per quart and carry off first prize for canning fruit.

This week the domestic science class is studying and making egg desserts. It is reported that every member of the faculty is gaining weight. Why not feed the starving Armenians? The pupils are also studying in lecture work what happens to the food after it enters the body.

Junior High—Physiology class is proving very interesting. Each pupil takes one phase of first aid work and demonstrates it before the class.

The excitement caused by our passing tournament in language class has at last subsided as Miss Fern Benkelman carried off the laurels at the end Monday. Tuesday began another tournament in analysis, and our spirits will soon rise again.

Fifth Grade—Mrs. Russell called on us Tuesday last week and we enjoyed her call very much. She told us she felt very much at home in our room as she recognized our text books as being identical to those used in the Grand Rapids schools. Mrs. Russell is a member of the Grand Rapids school board.

Ray Fleenor is absent from school this week on account of illness.

Our geography lessons are giving us a little trip to Alaska during the warm weather here.

"Moni, the Goat Boy" is all we think of any more for we are reading it during the story hour every day.

Third Grade—We are very sorry to let our teacher, Miss Hurley, leave for three whole months, but you can't guess who's taking her place. Do you give up? All right. It's Mrs. Holcomb and we like her oh! so much.

First Grade—Didn't you ever hear about Raggedy Ann? Honest? Well, we've got a book with lots of the nicest stories about her in it and we never can get enough of looking at the pictures in the book.

Mrs. Straube visited us one day last week.

Robert Louis Stevenson was a nice man called a poet and he wrote "A Good Boy" and we think he wrote it just so we could learn it. We don't know. Maybe he didn't but it just seems to us that he did.

Kindergarten—The child receives his first education in the home but he enters kindergarten at an age when he is becoming interested in things outside the home. Here his education is continued by utilizing his natural spontaneous activities or his play life. We are starting this week with the things familiar to the child, such as home, mother, mother's activities, her preparations for winter; comparison with squirrels, rabbits, etc. We are illustrating these things with original drawings, songs and stories. For construction work we expect to make little tubs and washboards. We have 30 pupils enrolled at present, each one of whom alternate in counting the children each morning.

THE LONGER YOU DELAY THE MORE YOU PAY

Just another way of saying, "A stitch in time saves nine."

The small job soon grows into the big job, while the roof with a little leak may not be long in destroying the interior of the home which it was intended to protect.

Sit down and figure it out for yourself. Every day the job is put off adds something to the cost of doing it later on. Old gates may be broken, letting stock into a field of growing grain where the trampling of the animals for one night would ruin the entire crop. The drafty hog house may cause the loss of a valuable sow for the want of insulation.

The reaper left standing in the field without protection lasts but a few years, while an implement shed which would have preserved it indefinitely could have been built at but a small fraction of the cost of the reaper.

It is estimated by the Department of Agriculture that millions of dollars worth of farm equipment alone goes to ruin each year through the lack of protection against destructive weather elements.

Tiring of the monotony of routine at the Home of the Friendless at Saginaw, three girls of that institution, aged 13 and 14 years, left suddenly and without notice Tuesday. On Wednesday morning, they were located at Mayville by Sheriff Colling and brought to the county jail where they remained until late that afternoon when a Saginaw county official came after them. The girls were joyfully and were enjoying their brief vacation and the sheriff's force found them unusually happy prisoners. They had no particular fault to find with the Saginaw institution except that they had tired of the sameness and wanted more variety than the institution life gave them. Their intentions were to reach the northern part of the state where one of the girls had relatives.

YES, THEY READ ADVERTISEMENTS In a recent report published in Editor and Publisher, and from the evidence as obtained by the Des Moines Advertising Club, it is shown that ninety-four per cent of newspaper readers read advertisements and eighty-eight per cent have faith in their truthfulness. These returns were received on a questionnaire answered by 600 shoppers at Des Moines. Eighty-six per cent of those who replied thought newspaper advertising the most effective. Truthfulness and clearness are the most appealing elements in an advertisement, attractiveness next, and the opportunity for saving money third, was shown according to the answers. The departments of newspaper, in the order of their interest to the reader, were indicated thus: Local news, national news, editorials, advertisements, personal or society news, comics and sports. Women represented two-thirds of those who filled out the questionnaires. ONE LIAR ENOUGH. "You love my daughter," said the old man. "Love her!" the youth exclaimed passionately, "why, sir, I would die for her! For one soft glance from those sweet eyes I would hurl myself from yonder cliffs and perish, a bleeding, bruised mass, upon the rocks two hundred feet below." The old man shook his head. "I'm something of a liar myself," he said, "and one is enough for a small family like mine." HOW HE KNEW. "Changed your brand of shaving soap, haven't you?" asked Uncle Pen-nyside of the barber. "Yes, suh. Feels smoother?" "No; tastes different."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FRIENDLY ADVICE Fashion full many a song for her; I quote—but I quote in vain; The terrible times of a soul wrung to rhymes She seems to think inane. I groan and I moan when the moon is high; I rave and I wring my hands; I burst into sweats of impassioned regrets: She laughs at my commands: But she throws her arms around my neck, She gurgles and coos in joy, When I whisper: "was so my sweet doodle-doo?" "Cause I'm un tweekum boy." So, lover, to move her, use not the old and outworn methods of books; Believe one who's tried it; set the verses aside, Say it with doodle-dooks. —Donald Barr, in the New York Sun.

WAS DIFFERENCE IN LEGS Neat Compliment Paid Waterloo Veteran by Sympathetic Irishman Who Understood. Lord Anglesey, who lost a leg at Waterloo, became—so a literary friend recorded seven years later—"a model for the nice conduct of a wooden leg." It was within an inch of running through Walter Scott's portrait, which happened—this was at the exhibition—to be leaning against the wall while a heavier nail was being found for it; but the agile hero, by a skillful sidelong maneuver at the last instant, bowed himself out of the way. Not long after the battle, as a recent writer relates, Lord Anglesey, who then was lord lieutenant of Ireland, visited Ballynahinch castle in Connemara. During the last part of the long, rough ride that brought him to the castle he was accompanied by Ulrick Burke, a retainer of the Martins of Ballynahinch. Ulrick walked beside Lord Anglesey's horse, and the rider fell into jocular conversation with him and presently asked him gayly which of his legs he liked better. Ulrick had noticed that one leg was artificial, but he pretended that he had not noticed, and answered casually that "one leg was as good as another; there was no differ in life." Lord Anglesey, delighted at the testimony to his success in wearing his new limb, explained that it was artificial and told how he had lost the real one in battle. At the end of the story Ulrick said, gently touching the cork leg, that there was a "differ" after all. "Sure, your lordship, this is the more honorable!"—Youth's Companion.

Stamp-Collecting Tourney. The world's stamp collecting championship will be decided in London in May, when the international stamp exhibition opens at Royal Horticultural hall, Fred J. Melville writes from London to the Daily News. Hundreds of entries have been received from all over the world, especially from America. Many of the collections of single countries are valued at from £20,000 to £50,000 each, while one exhibitor's entries amount to £100,000. The exhibition is the first of its kind held since before the war. The "junior" championship for philatelists under twenty-one will also be contested for the first time since 1912, when Capt. Victor Cazalet, then an Eton boy of fifteen, secured it. Chicken Mathered Wild Bird. A Saskatchewan reader of the Montreal Family Herald says that last spring when he had a brood of about 14 chickens, a little gray bird built a nest nearby. One day the bird fell into the claws of the cat just about the time its young ones had learned to fly. All but one disappeared, and it took to picking with the old hen and chicks, with which the little thing got quite friendly, and there it stayed cared for with them until it could fly, when it disappeared. Hospital Anecdote. A pretty nurse had for a patient a crabbed old millionaire who kept her running in and out on trivial errands. He wanted the window opened and then he wanted it closed. The pretty nurse was kept busy. "Never mind," said the house doctor, trying to be jocular. "He may ask you to marry him." "Yes, he may," said the nurse. "He has about run out of other requests." Insects Eat Forests. The forests in the southern part of Saghalien, Japan, have suffered severely from an insect. According to information obtained, 85,750 acres of timber were destroyed by this insect during last year, or about 800,000,000 cubic feet of standing timber. It is reported that some of the timber can still be used if cut within a year. Rats Made Home in Cheese. When the proprietor of a New York hotel moved a 74-pound cheese from a sideboard to the luncheon room, he found that rats had not only eaten a considerable portion, but had established a family in the cavity.

"A Boy in Poland; Twenty Years at Sea, and the Remainder as a Writer"

JOSEPH CONRAD, to New York Reporters.

I HAD a touch of lumbago and an attack of gout in my left hand; I didn't get up in the bridge as much as I should have liked. . . . This is the largest ship I was ever on (the displacement of the Tuscania is 16,892 tons). . . . I left the sea in '94. Ships have changed since then. All life has changed. Captain Bone was kind enough to show me all the new contraptions which ships did not have when I was at sea.

Yes, I still hold my master's ticket; it's in the family archives. Captain Bone insisted that his men address me by my title. At first I didn't know whom they meant when the officers said "Do this or that for the Captain." It pleased me very much. A pretty compliment. . . . Yes, Walter Hines Page was a great man. It is part of England's traditional luck to have had Page in London during the war. He was killed by the war just as much as if he had had a bullet in his heart.

America has always been good to me; magazines have serialized my stories from the very first. . . . Americans have an enviable enthusiasm. Enthusiasm makes life interesting. . . . No, I'm not much up on modern American literature. You see, I don't read much fiction and my mind is not critical. I couldn't say much about writers, because I haven't got any general culture. Twenty years at sea when one is a youth do not fit one with a critical type of mind. I'm not a literary man.

Henry James, who used to come to see me, told me about John Burroughs, the fellow who was always chasing nightingales. . . . I read Poe in French translations. Whitman, yes, but I can't say about Whitman, for I haven't a critical mind. You see, I have lived three lives: until seventeen a boy in Poland, twenty years at sea and the remainder as a writer. I thought of drifting back to sea, even after I was married; but after "The Nigger of the Narcissus," I made up my mind it was the end of my sea life.

Is in Favor of Private Management of Railways as More Efficient

By J. R. HOWARD, National Transportation Institute.

The farmer must pay for labor and buy food and clothing, fuel, machinery, lumber, feed, and live stock in order to produce. Not until after these operating costs and fixed charges are met and surplus earnings in excess of them are in sight does it matter to the farmer or any one else whether his land is worth a dollar an acre or a thousand dollars.

The same principle which applies to the farmer applies to the railway. It is not until the fixed charges and operating costs are taken from the freight-payers' dollar that the valuation of the railroad really enters into the problem of rate making.

I am in favor of private management of railways, because it is more efficient than government. I am in favor of letting the railways earn a fair return upon a fair valuation to enable them to expand, which is necessary if I prosper on my farm.

What the farmers want, and all they want, is a square deal. They know they will not be getting a square deal until the prices they receive for the things they produce are relatively as high as the prices they have to pay for things they have to buy.

IN GAY, SHEER PARTY FROCKS LITTLE MAIDS MAKE MERRY

THE making of party frocks for the little miss is more of a pleasure than a task. No one need go beyond a list of a half-dozen materials to make a choice, and the most popular and engaging ones can be counted on the fingers of one hand—in silks they are crepe de chine, taffeta or georgette, and in cottons, voile, organdie, batiste, swiss, net and lace.

Nearly all of these fabrics are shown in a variety of flower-like colors, in which pink, maize, blue, lavender and green appear in many light tones. Net and batiste, either plain or embroidered, and lace appear in white or cream color, usually worn over a colored silk slip, but sometimes ribbon trimmings or a sash provide the only color touch on these sheer frocks. Many of them have a scalloped hem line, edged with narrow lace, and lace-edged tucks make a fine decoration on dresses of transparent fabrics. Lace founcing, in simple designs, is occasionally used, and needs nothing in the way of trimming or embellishment except a little ribbon, in girdles or bows. A pretty frock of this kind appears in the picture, made of cream-colored lace and worn over a soft pink slip. There are ties of pink ribbon on the shoulders. The little lady is very much dressed up and may be on her way to the dancing class or a birthday party, where one must honor the occasion with her very best clothes.

Pretty frocks of crisp taffeta, sleeveless and with wide berthas of organdie, have their sashes made of taffeta in the color of the dress and lined with a contrasting shade or color. They are quite wide and long, with full loops. Most frocks have very short sleeves and these make opportunity for cuffs matching the collar. Crepe de chine is often collared with lace trimmed georgette.

QUAINT DOORWAYS ARE FASHIONABLE

Quaint looking old doorways of this type are becoming more fashionable all the time for both brick and frame houses. The two little trees set in green-painted tubs and the flag-stone walk give the proper touch for a colonial house. The fan-shaped transom of leaded glass furnishes a pleasing overhead illumination for the reception hall or corridor.

Michigan Happenings

Actual work on the widening of Woodward avenue from Detroit to Pontiac to a 200 feet highway with the two oneway 40 foot paved drives was begun, when surveyors began operations at both ends of the route laying out the right of way. Bids were received on grading and overhaul of earth, which must be removed more than 1,000 yards. Seven bids were received, all applying on the west side of the road between Pontiac and Birmingham. Tabulation of the figures is being made before action is taken.

That the army air service is to have a new base in Michigan for its aerial gunnery practice, it now assured, according to Seifridge field officers. The new air gunnery base will be established at Oscoda, Mich., on state owned land. For some weeks the army has maintained a camp there for the use of officers. A landing field has been established there by the co-operation of citizens of Oscoda. The landing field is one of the finest in the country being about one mile square on level ground.

Suicide was held a compensable injury under the workmen's compensation act in a unique ruling made by the state department of labor and industry. Chauncey M. Murch, janitor of a school in Alpena, struck his ear on a door. Bryspelas resulted. He cut his throat while in a delirium brought on by his illness, the testimony showed. The department ruled that death was due to an injury incurred in the course of employment and that his dependents are entitled to compensation.

WHAT IS IT THAT NEWSPAPER ADVERTISERS BUY?

SOME WILL SAY IT IS WHITE SPACE FOR WHICH THE ADVERTISER SPENDS HIS MONEY. OTHERS WILL CONTEND IT IS CIRCULATION, OR LOW RATE OR POSITION. IN THE FINAL ANALYSIS, IT IS ALL OF THESE AND MORE.

THE REALLY IMPORTANT THING THAT THE ADVERTISER BUYS IS OPPORTUNITY FOR INFLUENCE. AND HERE IS WHERE THE GENTLE ART OF DISCRIMINATION DETERMINES WHETHER AN ADVERTISING APPROPRIATION IS AN INVESTMENT OR EXPENSE.

The principal factor which has made newspaper advertising the dominant medium of trade today is READER INTEREST. That is, an advertisement printed in a NEWSPAPER has a pulling power possessed by no other medium because the reader WANTS to read the paper.

He wants to read the news of the Cass City community in the Cass City Chronicle, a genuine newspaper conducted by experienced newspaper men. He DOES read it. And that is the time when the wise advertiser appeals to the men, women and children of this community.
