CARELESS PARKING.

The parking of automobiles near curves or at the top of hills on main highways to make mechanical repairs or to a change a tire is provoking unfavorable comment among motorists. This practice of careless parking is not confined to any one section, it is universal, and should be discouraged.

Frequent warnings of the danger attached to this practice have been issued by authorities, but to no avail. There seems now but one effective remedy and that is a stringent campaign by the traffic police officers patrolling our main highways.

There are, of course, instances when a car becomes so completely disabled that it cannot be removed to a safe position at the side of the road, but such cases are very few.

Most cars that stall or develop tire trouble can be pushed to the side of the road, or if there happens to be a side road near by push the car around the corner.

In your vexation over your car difficulties do not lose sight of the safety of your fellow motorists. Statistics show that a great many of the serious automobile accidents have been caused by careless parking.

Should you be alone and are unable to push your car out of the path of traffic, ask assistance from a passing motorist. He will be impressed by your thoughtfulness in aiding traffic and will be pleased to give you a helping hand.

A NEWSPAPERLESS CITY.

For three days, recently, New York was without daily newspapers. For three days 6,000,000 people were without knowledge of world events, and local happenings. For three days, they knew nothing of what department stores had to offer or what new shows and pictures were appearing in town.

And here is the result:
Shopping decreased 10 per cent the first day, 30 per cent the second day and the third day showed a decrease or more than 50 per cent.

Theaters had a falling off in attendance of probably 20 per cent.
Salesmen and salesgirls who work in department stores on commission sugered a loss in wages which will total nearly $1,000,000 a day.

A newspaperless city means vast business and personal losses. A newspaperless world would be unthinkable.

DO YOUR PART.

The reason for most of the negligence on the part of public officials rests with the habit of the people of electing a man and then leaving it all up to him, as to what he shall do. If the various communities and counties were organized and would keep in touch with their officials, they would receive better service.

ARE YOU LOYAL?

And again we remind you that this is a good town to live in, a good place to trade, and good one to keep your money in. But in time it will cease to be either unless you are as loyal to the town as it is to you. See which merchants are advertising in this paper and tell them what you want.

THEY WON'T FORGET HIM.

The most disgusting thing in the world is to see a public official play petty politics in order to hold his little gang around him. The man who does it is not worthy of public trust, and the thinking people will remember him when their day arrives.

SCHOOL NOTES

Concluded from first page.
A set of the Americana Encyclopedia, one of two best encyclopedias printed, has been ordered for the use of the high school students while some books for supplementary reading have arrived for the grade children.

New punctuality and attendance banners have been purchased and are not only attractive on account of the honor they confer but are very pretty in themselves.
The ninth grade English class became commercialized one day last week. The class room was transformed in imagination to a large city office, then the students took positions of employer, stenographer, and office boy. Then a boy or girl entered the office in the capacity of a person looking for employment. The deal was made in an entirely business like manner.

Home Economics—Everybody is busy, "awfully" busy if we may be allowed the expression. What doing? Oh, don't you know? Getting ready for the fair of course!

Junior High—Oh, that mental arithmetic contest! Fun? Yes, but it made a little hard feelings because the seventh grade had average standings of 10 per cent higher than those of the eighth grade on the same group of problems. O dear us! What an awful score for the eighth grade!

The seventh grade are making an outline in geography for review work.

Sixth Grade—Our spelling contest is in full swing and after two weeks the side that has misspelled the most words must give the other side a weenie roast. Um-um! We can hardly wait.

No tardy marks! The banner? Of course we'll get it.

Fifth Grade—Our neighbors have no tardy marks but there are more of us and we have none either. It looks like a close race.

Edwin Andrews is a new pupil in our room this week.

Fourth Grade—As we study about North America, we find lots of things we didn't know about before. We took a trip across the continent the other day and visited in a coal mine in Pennsylvania.

The wind is something we always knew about but never until we learned "The Wind" in language this week did we really know that we don't know what it is.

Third Grade—Stephen Andrews is the name of our new pupil this week.

Quite a number of our room are absent on account of the measles.

We are studying the multiplication tables and so far William Cargo heads the class.

Aren't those new books fun though? The name's "Work-a-Day-Doings-on the Farm."

In our room there won't be any winter at all. We're going to have fall until spring gets here. Pretty bright leaves and little milkweed pods are hanging all over our room! We bet that you're laughing! No, they won't shivel up, they're waxed and will look just as bright and pretty all winter as they do now.

Second grade—Thelma Ashley was gone all last week! We missed her so and felt sorry too. She was sick.

Plans for making money are hard to find, especially when the fair is so near, but we'll all be there.

First Grade—Aletha Wright and Carolas Vader have just returned from an absence caused by measles in the family.

Kindergarten—Yellow, gold, red and brown aren't half the colors found in autumn leaves but that's about all the colors we can make to put on ours.

We like to learn about the farmer. Oh, do you know what a farmer is? No? He's a man who has a lot of ground and puts seeds in his ground in the spring and then in the fall goes out in the field and picks up all the plants that have grown from those seeds and puts them in a big house called a barn.

REMEDY FOR POULTRY MITES

Blood Sucking Parasites Live Entirely on Blood of Fowl—Coal-Tar Products Effective.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Of all parasites affecting poultry, ordinary poultry mites are probably the most troublesome and destructive unless kept under control, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Unlike the lice, poultry mites are bloodsucking parasites and live entirely on the blood of the fowl. They are very small and when not filled with blood are gray in color and are called gray mites. However, when they have been on the body of the fowl and filled themselves with blood they look red and are called red mites. They do not stay on the fowl's body all the time, like lice, but during the day hide away in cracks and crevices, behind boards that are near the roosts, in the cracks of brood coops, and in other places. At night when the fowls and chicks go to roost the mites come out of their hiding places, crawl onto the birds, and suck the blood from their bodies. The irritation and loss of blood causes mature fowls to become pale in comb and wattles and poor in flesh; sitting hens may desert their nests and spoil their eggs, if they do not die on the nests, and chickens become weak and droopy and in many instances die from the attacks.

Since poultry mites hide away in cracks and crevices during the day, the first thing that should be done to get rid of them is to give the poultry houses, roosts, nests, etc., a good cleaning. After the cleaning, spray thoroughly with kerosene, crude oil, or some effective coal-tar preparation, making sure that the spray reaches all the cracks and crevices and every other place where the mites might be hiding. This coal-tar preparation is most effective and lasts longest. It can be purchased locally with full directions for mixing and use. It is necessary to spray thoroughly and often, especially during warm weather, if the mites are to be kept from annoying the fowls.

TOULOUSE IS LARGEST GOOSE

Adult Gander Weighs 25 Pounds and Fowls Can Be Raised in Small Numbers on Farms.

The Toulouse and the Embden are the most popular breeds of geese in this country. The Toulouse is the largest breed, the adult gander weighing 25 pounds and the goose 20 pounds.

Geese can be raised in small numbers successfully and at a profit on many farms where there is low, rough pasture land containing a natural supply of water.

They need a house only during cold or stormy weather, when an open shed should be provided.

Large boxes, barrels, or shelters are provided as nests for geese, or they are allowed to make nests on the floor of the house.

Feed a mash in the morning of equal parts by weight of corn meal, bran, and middlings, or low-grade flour, with 10 per cent of beef scrap, and give whole or cracked corn at night.

Goslings should be fed a mash of two parts shorts and one part corn meal by weight, changing at the end of three weeks to equal parts shorts and corn meal, with five per cent each of beef scrap and grit.

A fattening ration may be made of a mash of one part shorts and two parts corn meal by weight, with five per cent of beef scrap, which is fed in the morning, while corn is fed at night.

The period of incubation of goose eggs varies from 28 to 30 days. The first eggs usually are set under hens, while the last eggs which the goose lays may be hatched either under hens or under the goose if she becomes broody.

POULTRY NOTES

Culling the flock reduces the cost price of eggs and meat.

Chicks that are overfed or undernourished are, alike, unprofitable.

The demand for capons is growing every year and there is always a market for them.

Within the past few years ducks and geese have both been selling at high enough figures to make them profitable.

So long as the geese and ducks are growing rapidly it is not necessary to feed grain heavily, provided they have good pasture. Just enough grain to keep them strong and vigorous is all that they require.

Never make the mistake of putting young chicks on a bare cold floor without any litter of any kind.

Sometimes it is advisable with geese to make the hens lay about three layings of eggs, and then permit them to hatch the last eggs and to care for the young.

Baby chicks will grow very fast when fed a mash composed of two parts cornmeal, one part middlings and one part bran moistened with skim milk or water.

RED CROSS PLANS FOR COMING YEAR

Over $2,000,000 in Fund for War Sufferers—National Budget Is $5,543,077.

AID TO VETERANS STANDS FIRST

Expended $9,738,448 in Services to Mankind Last Year at Home and Abroad.

Washington.—With a budget of $5,543,077.81 for carrying out the program of service during the current fiscal year, beginning July 1, the American Red Cross announces that this amount was $4,195,370.41 less than was expended during the fiscal year ended last June 30. During that year expenditures reached a total of $9,738,448.22, of which amount $2,605,696.09 was devoted to relief of refugees in Greece who had been driven out of Asia Minor. In announcing the budget for the year, the statement from National Headquarters emphasized the fact that its extensive work at home and abroad depends almost wholly upon the nation-wide support of the organization through enrollment of membership in large numbers during the annual roll call, which will be in progress from November 11 to November 29 under the auspices of the 3,600 Chapters in the United States and throughout the world. These Chapters, it is pointed out, during the last fiscal year expended of their own funds approximately $3,920,000 in work for the men who wore the United States uniform during the World War, so that the estimate of some $15,000,000 expended during twelve months by the American Red Cross as a whole is considered conservative.

Soldier Service Stands First

From July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1923, the American Red Cross spent nationally and through its Chapters close to $164,000,000 in behalf of American soldiers who served in the war and their families. During last year the figure alone mounted to more than $5,868,255, and for the current fiscal year National Headquarters has set aside under the heading, "Assistance to Disabled ex-Service Men and Women," $2,065,834.20. The Chapters will continue to do their part, so that it may be predicted with confidence that again more than $5,500,000 will be disbursed in the large variety of services to the disabled men and women and their families—services for which the Government cannot provide and which reach the individual case with the sympathy and understanding only actual contact can insure. This work of the American Red Cross approaches the fifth anniversary of the Armistice, which ended the World War with only slight decrease in calls for service in the interest of the welfare and rehabilitation of those who suffered physical disability in the service of their country.

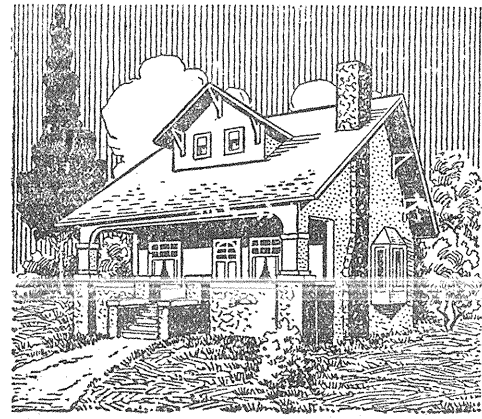

Domestic Program Extensive

The domestic operations of the American Red Cross comprise an accurate indicator of the continuing calls for expansion in all the established and authorized services. The budget aggregates $4,636,449.70, as against expenditures during the last year of $4,452,066.20. The abnormal demands in the foreign field in the last several years, however, have largely subsided, and in consequence $906,628.11 has been set for the 1923-24 budget under foreign operations. On this amount $394,303.91 is set aside for engagements which will close the work for the refugees in Greece, for whose amelioration $2,605,696.09 was expended up to June 30, when the American Red Cross withdrew, and the work was taken over under the control of the Greek government. For liquidation and completion of general relief in Europe the budget provides $100,000, and for American Junior Red Cross projects, foreign and insular, and assistance to Chapters listed under foreign operations.

Ready for Emergency Calls

The readiness of the American Red Cross to answer immediately with effective service in cases of emergency is an outstanding feature of its program that is universally recognized. During last year $525,000 was spent for relief in 110 disasters, which was $207,500 in excess of budget provisions. This year $400,000 has been appropriated for this service. Since 1881 the Red Cross has administered more than $20,000,000 in relief work following disasters.

Other budget items in the schedule for domestic operations include $1,282,524.20 for service and assistance to the 3,600 Chapters and their Branches; $80,000 for assistance to other organizations, particularly stressing child health activities; $194,600 for Junior Red Cross projects and service; $10,824.20 for assistance to Nurses' Training Schools, and for other activities $111,456.80. For supervision of service activities and general management of the entire American Red Cross less than $225,000 is allotted

Suicide of Children Is Peculiarly Distressing, a Most Serious Problem

by DR. H. M. WARREN, President Save-a-Life League

The suicide of children is a matter particularly distressing, and a most serious problem, to be carefully considered. In 1919 we reported 477 child suicides. In 1920 there were 707. In 1921 the number had increased to 858. In 1922 there were over 900, or nearly 3,000 in four years. The average age of boy suicides is sixteen, girls fifteen. Most girls use poison; the boys use a gun. When five school girls in four days commit suicide it is time the public asked the reason why. The conclusion reached probably will be that they were temperamentally disordered, or home conditions were intolerable, or that the school system was at fault. All three are the chief causes for child suicide.

Child marriages is another serious cause. In 1920 there were 1,600 boys and 12,000 girls fifteen years of age in the United States listed as married, and nearly 500 of them were recorded as widowed or divorced. The married boys of sixteen numbered 3,222. Those of seventeen numbered 7,690, those of eighteen 24,644. Girls who had married at sixteen numbered 41,620, at seventeen 90,930, and those at eighteen 186,645. Many of these children soon after marriage find that they have made a great mistake in their choice, quarrel, separate, get divorced and supply many of our suicides as well as homicides. Parents and teachers should educate children to avoid emotional excesses, to meet bravely the unpleasant things of life.

DAIRY

FAILURE IN DAIRY BUSINESS

Greatest Factor to Success Is the Man Himself—He Must Like Cows and Care for Them.

Failure in the dairy business is due to one of three things:

1. The business itself.
2. The cow.
3. The man.

The business is sound. This is shown largely by the fact that the income derived from the dairy business is larger than the income derived from all other classes of live stock on the farm combined.

The cow must be a good cow, one that can return a good labor income to her owner.

But the greatest factor to success in the dairy business is the man.

He must know his good cows and not guess which are his good ones.

He must be a dairyman, and like cows, like to work with them and like to care for them. He must not be in the dairy business just in order to pay off that grocery bill contracted when he had no use for cows.

He must remember that the fundamental basis of the dairy business lies in the maternity of the dairy cow.

He must know how to feed profitably and apply that knowledge and to feed only cows that can return a profit.

He must use a good purebred bull to keep up the future quality of his herd.

He must know how to work and apply that knowledge.—Harold R. Lascelles, Fieldman, State Dairy Commission.

TREATMENT OF CALF SCOURS

Cut Feed One-Half Until Animal Becomes Hungry, Then Give Dose of Castor Oil.

To treat a case of scours, cut the feed to half or even less than that until the calf has become hungry. A dose of one to three ounces of castor oil or paraffin oil will help to clean out the animal and may well be given. Three parts of formalin in a hundred parts of water, added to the milk at the rate of a teaspoonful to the pound of milk will sometimes relieve the trouble. Another very satisfactory treatment is to add about four to five drops of fluid extract of gelsemium to about one ounce of paraffin or castor oil and give it to the calf before each feeding of milk. It is always advisable to reduce the milk to a half or a third and divide that reduced quantity into from two to four feedings a day.

KEEP ALL HEIFERS GROWING

Young Animals Are Unduly Neglected by Many Dairywomen—Feed Silage and Legume Hay.

Returns get our attention. Possibly for this reason the heifer calves are unduly neglected. But this stock should be kept growing normally. With silage and clover or alfalfa hay, one should feed each heifer from two to five pounds of farm-grown grains per day. If no silage is available, feed two pounds of corn daily with all the clover or alfalfa hay the heifers will consume. With silage and no legume hay, a good ration consists of a portion of silage and fodder or mixed hay with a grain mixture consisting of equal parts of corn and linseed meal.

FALL AND SPRING CALVING

Three Years' Test Conducted by Mississippi Expert to Determine Advantages.

Results of three years' work to determine the advantages of spring and fall calving with dairy cattle, made by J. S. Moore of the Mississippi experiment station, show that cows calving in the fall produced an average of 172 pounds of milk and 18.4 pounds of butterfat more than cows calving in the spring. In a comparison of early and late fall calving the average difference per year per cow was 683 pounds of milk and 27.5 pounds of butterfat in favor of late fall calving.

NEEDFUL MINERALS IN FEED

Most Lime Contained in Legume Hays While Phosphorus Is Found in Bran and Middlings.

The common dairy feeds containing the most lime are the legume hays, cowpea, clover, alfalfa and soy bean, that from cowpeas containing the most. Those which contain the most phosphorus are wheat bran, wheat middlings and linseed meal in the order given. None of the concentrates contain as much lime as the legumes do, and no roughage contains as much phosphorus as the concentrates named.

Benefits From Cow Testing.

Cow testing increases the average production of the dairy herd, first, by eliminating all low-producing cows, and second, by enabling one to select the foundation animals for his herd on the basis of performance.

Feed Silage to Calves.

Calves may be fed silage in connection with skim milk as soon as they are old enough to eat it. They will begin taking a little silage at three weeks old, and they can be fed from then on as much as they will eat.

Professor Willis Campbell and the students of the agriculture department at the high school would be greatly pleased if farmers in this vicinity would bring apples to their room to be identified. They do not guarantee positive correctness of classification but would like very much not only for their own benefit but for the help of the farmers the opportunity of grappling with some concrete and practical problems of farming. Of course the class will be glad to see farmers and it would be a safe bet that you'd enjoy yourself and receive aid too. Prof. Campbell feels that this is part of the agriculture work that has not been stressed enough. One of the fundamental principals of the course is to bring practical work before pupils and "help the farmer." All ready now! Where are the apples?

The Hot Blast Air Tight Florence

Will heat three times more space, at one-quarter the cost, in burning soft coal than any other stove with the same size firepot.

WHY?

Because the damper back of the firepot burns the cheapest soft coal or screenings and all the smoke and soot with the same regularity and cleanliness as the burning of gas, producing a steady heat day and night.

NO SMOKE! NO SOOT!
NO DIRT!

Two tons out of every three tons of soft coal are wasted in all heating stoves constructed without a damper back of the firepot. Besides the offense inside and outside the house from the accumulation of soot.

The Florence makes its own gas and burns it and makes its own coke and burns it.

Steady heat day and night when the weather is 20 below zero. The medium size holds fire 3 days and 3 nights with one filling, other sizes in proportion.

The Florence is an investment. It pays for itself every two years in the saving of coal. In zero weather it will pay for itself the first season in the saving of doctor bills by elimination of irregular heat.

From Credit to Strictly Cash

Economy is the watchword in the nation—the state and the home. For some time back we have been studying the advantages and also the inconveniences that might arise from a strictly cash business, but we can come to no other conclusion but that a strictly cash business is going to work out to the best interest of all parties concerned. While we had not contemplated to make the change so soon, but the disastrous fire of two weeks ago obliges us to make this change immediately

OUR TASK

1. To reduce operating expenses to the limit.
2. To give our customers the greatest value in merchandise
3. To render to the people of this community the most efficient service possible.
4. To supply the people of this vicinity with merchandise such as they want when they want it and at the lowest prices possible.

We are well aware of the fact that an institution which serves its customers best, progresses the fastest. It is with this idea in mind of serving our customers best as well as our own interests that we are making this change.

WHY CASH BUYS CHEAPEST

1. It saves a considerable sum each year in interest on money tied up in charge account.
2. It saves considerable bookkeeping expenses.
3. It is quite a saving in postage, stationery and office supplies.
4. It eliminates disputed and questionable accounts.
5. It saves all losses on bad accounts.

These are fixed expenses that we cannot get away from so long as we do a charge business. By eliminating all of the above expenses we can and we will save our customers money on their purchases. All we ask is that you give us an opportunity to prove our statements.

QUALITY--SERVICE--PRICE

No one need to feel offended when asked to pay the cash. Our first class credit customers are many in numbers and we are confident that the majority will welcome this change because they realize that cash buys cheaper than credit. We realize that there will be times no doubt when a charge account would be a convenience, but will that occasional convenience be worth the price you must pay to get it, or would you not rather plan and pay the cash to effect a certain amount of saving?

From now on this store will be operated upon a strictly cash basis—cash or its equivalent.

Get into the cash buying habit and save money. We want your business and are asking for it on the basis of quality, service, price and courtesy. May we have your hearty co-operation to bring about the best results for everybody?

We have just returned from the wholesale markets where we have purchased a brand new stock and are now doing business next door in the Farmers' Co-operative Company building.

While our stock is not quite so large as it was before, yet you will really be surprised what a splendid collection of drygoods, notions and ready-to-wear we have gotten together in so short a time, and new goods are arriving on practically every train.

We want to especially impress upon your mind that everything in this store is absolutely brand new, and is marked upon a strictly cash basis, which will give you absolutely the most for your money.

We invite you to call in and see us in our new quarters where we shall endeavor to serve you in the best manner possible.

Soliciting a continuance of your valued patronage, we remain.

Very truly yours,

One quite frequently hears a rural patron complain that the mail carrier has made a mistake and left the mail in a neighbor's box. The carrier, without doubt, is responsible for some errors made in mail delivery on the routes but all of the responsibility for mistakes cannot be laid at his door. There are some obligations which the patrons should meet and one of them is that his name should be plainly painted on his mail box. What chance has a substitute carrier to travel a route without error when 90 per cent of the mail boxes fail to carry the owners' names. In justice to the substitute carrier, if for no other reason, boxes should be neatly labelled. But there are other reasons why the rural patron should carry out the request recently made by the postoffice department that all mail boxes and posts be painted white and to paint or stencil their names on the boxes in neat black letters. Chief among these is the convenience to the public in that travelers may readily locate the home of the farmer at which he wishes to call.

Arnold Axtell of Vassar township was sentenced to 10 days in jail by Justice Imerson for the same offense. Axtell had agreed with officers to come in and take care of the matter and failed to appear as agreed.

Howard Paul of Caro paid a fine of $4.00 for shooting protected game.

John Glegola, charged with breaking into a half dozen Detroit stores, was picked up by county officers in Wells township and held for Detroit officers.

Justice Imerson ordered both Mike Sheyleski and his wife of Wells to pay a fine of $5.00 and costs of $5.00 when they appeared before him on an assault and battery charge.

Nelson Gage was arrested in Caro on a drunk and disorderly charge Sunday night. Justice Imerson gave him his choice of paying a fine, a term in jail or producing an affidavit showing source of liquor. He chose to furnish the affidavit.

Geo. Monty, whose name appeared on the criminal calendar, was also dismissed because of lack of evidence.

Temperament.

On the big curve coming into the Irish wayside station, the train stopped longer than usual one morning, and the guard, descending from his van, walked up to the driver. "What are ye stoppin' for?" he inquired. "Sure, and can't ye see the signal is agin me?" retorted the driver. The guard snorted contemptuously. "It's mighty particular you're gettin' all of a sudden," he said.—Tattler (London).

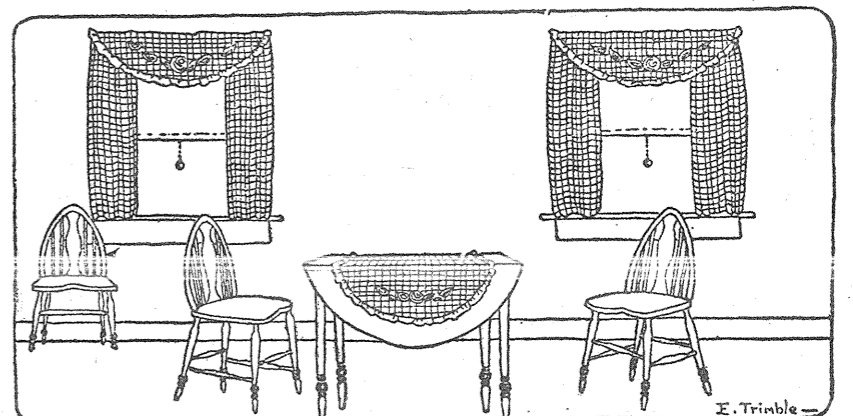

Ended That Love Affair.

I was thirteen and he was fifteen. He took me to a social one night and we played games and had a good time till it came time for refreshments. Then he bought himself ice cream and cake and sat down near his mother to eat it. He left me standing without refreshment. Believe me, that ended my love affair with him.—Exchange.

THE CHURCH MOUSE

LITTLE MISS MOUSIE lived all alone in one corner of the big church, that is, she did until one day she spied Mr. Tim Mouse wandering about the church.

"How did you get in here?" asked Miss Mousie. "This is my church and no other mouse has ever lived here."

Then Mr. Mouse told a fib. "I came in to call on you, Miss Mousie," he replied.

Mr. Mouse had come in through a hole he found under the church steps and after wandering about in the church had decided that it was a very nice place to live, no traps, no pussies and plenty of space to run about.

"How trim and smart you look in your gray clothes," said the clever Mr. Mouse. "Your eyes look brighter than those of the pantry mice and your figure is much more graceful."

"Now what do you say, Miss Mousie, if we get married and I come here to live with you, for I know of no other place that would make so nice a home."

Miss Mousie was very much pleased by all these compliments, so she hung her head and pawed with one tiny foot

"What Do You Say, Miss Mousie, if We Get Married?"

at the soft carpet, but if she was silly enough to be flattered she also had a wised little head and in a second she realized it and looked at Mr. Mouse.

"You have never lived in a church, have you?" she asked.

Mr. Mouse had to confess he never had and Miss Mousie told him there were many things that had to be lived up to in a church that did not matter at all in a pantry.

"You may not do at all for the husband of a church mouse," said Miss

Mousie, "so I will tell you what we will do. You will live in the cupboard at the back of the church where the books are kept for a week and then I will give you my answer."

Mr. Mouse did not mind in the least doing this. What he wanted was to make his home in the church, so he ran into the cupboard and that was the last he saw of Miss Mousie for a week.

But Miss Mousie saw him every day and at the end of the week she had decided that he would not do at all for the husband of so refined a creature as a church mouse.

"Such manners and such taste," said Miss Mousie to herself as she ran about eating the crumbs and making the place tidy every day when Mr. Mouse ran out for a while. "No, he won't do at all and I will wait and tell him so this very day."

Pretty soon Mr. Mouse returned carrying a piece of cheese which he dropped when he saw Miss Mousie primly seated by the cupboard door.

The smell of the cheese almost caused Miss Mousie to change her mind, but she remembered that she was an aristocratic church mouse and above being tempted by such things as mere food.

"Well, when shall we get married?" asked Mr. Mouse, never dreaming that Miss Mousie could refuse to marry him, he was so plump and handsome.

"I deeply appreciate the honor, Mr. Mouse, but I cannot marry you," said Miss Mousie. "I find you are not fitted to become a church mouse."

"In the first place, you do not seem to care for nibbling books and old paste, but run to the pantry every day and bring back all sorts of queer things, making the place most untidy."

"If it had not been for me, the sexton would have had you in a trap long ago, for you were easy to track by the crumbs you dropped about. No, Mr. Mouse, we must part and at once."

Mr. Mouse was so surprised that he forgot to pick up his piece of cheese, or perhaps the sexton, who saw him and threw his broom, made him leave it. Anyway, he ran into the hole and out of the church and never returned.

Miss Mousie, when all was still again, crept out from under a pew and nibbled at the cheese. "I must say," she murmured, "the food of those common pantry mice is rather nice; but I am sure I should soon lose my trim figure if I ate it all the time. A church mouse has much to live up to and many sacrifices to make."

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM POINTS IN THE THUMB

A committee of three supervisors of the Sanilac county board heard both sides of the question relating to the petition of residents of west For-estville to have their land set with-out the village limits. John Potts and Emil Hintz represented the side that wished the boundary left as it was; Frank Wahla and William Thompson appeared for the dissen-ters. After hearing both sides it was quite generally agreed among all the parties that the boundary be changed as petitioned for. This means that the village will stop at the corner formerly known as Plut-schuck's corner. It practically cuts the territory of the village in the middle.

Deputy Sheriff John King, of Cros-well, is making a record for himself in running down "moonshiners" in the southern part of Sanilac county. King has a regular nose for ferreting out illicit stills and many important ar-rests have resulted from his work. His last clean-up was at the home of Ira Johnson south and west of Cros-well, where he caught Mrs. Johnson in the act of selling two quarts of hooch to a customer. Johnson is be-ing held to the circuit court under $500 bonds.

Two young men of Paris township, Alex Lemanski, 21, and Sylvester Polewacz, 20, were thoughtless enough to hunt a gasoline leak with a lantern, and thus are disfigured for life and are lucky to be alive. They were a short distance east of Ubyly when they noticed their gaso-line line on their car was leaking.

Getting a lantern they investigated. Lemanski is said to have crawled un-der the car when it is supposed that dripping gasoline caught fire from the lantern. The tank exploded and the two boys were covered with gasoline and fire. They were badly burned before their burning clothing was extinguished.

Preston H. Miles has sold the Im-lay City Times to A. W. Hubbell, a former newspaper publisher of Imlay City.

Organization of the Port Crescent Sand & Fuel Company was announced recently at Port Austin. A company of Detroit and Mt. Clemens men has been formed, 550 acres of sand depos-its purchased and preparations made to begin digging and shipping the sand at once. The deposits have been found to be rich in silica content which makes the sand valuable in smelting copper and making glass. The company has issued $200,000 of preferred stock and 400,000 shares of non-par common stock. Present plans call for shipping 375,000 tons of sand a year.

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

FREDERICA

FREDERICA is the feminine coun-terpart of the popular masculine name Frederick. It signifies "peace ruler" and comes originally from the old Freyr of Teutonic mythology. Freyr meant "free", which is loosely translated to "love of peace". The idea was personified into a god of very high rank, who later was disintegrated into a brother and sister, called Freyr and Freya.

Freyr named the sixth day of the week and presided over love and mar-riage and drove over battlefields in a chariot drawn by panthers to conduct the slain to their appointed places in Valhalla. While Freyr was progressing by direct route into Frederick, the feminine form was slower in becoming Frederica. There are records of such queer deviations as Frithswith, Frid-ward and Frthesanta in the Eighth century.

The saintly daughter of the lord of Oxford bore the name of Frithswith and lived in a little cell at Thornbury, and had curious adventures which are portrayed in a window of the cathedral at Oxford. She was also patroness of the university and cathedral. The cumbersome name of Frthesantha was borne by the wife of Geoffrey Lut-terell in the Fourteenth century.

Frederica is purely an English inven-tion, though Portugal and Italy had adapted it intact. The French call it Frederique and the German Fridrike.

Onyx is Frederica's talismanic stone. It will guard her from lovers' quarrels and assures her of a sweet, lovable na-ture. Thursday is her lucky day and 1 her lucky number.

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because

You are ashamed to ride in a cheap car?

This laughter may or may not be well deserved. If you are ashamed of the car you should get the laugh. If you are ashamed that you cannot earn money enough to have a better car, you are not quite so culpa-ble. If you are ashamed that you cannot make your mother more comfortable than having her weak back ache in too long automobile parties, then you are a bit less blameworthy. How-ever, some folk have no cars at all. You should be glad that you can have any car—after all, they all carry you about and make you independent of trolleys and jitneys!

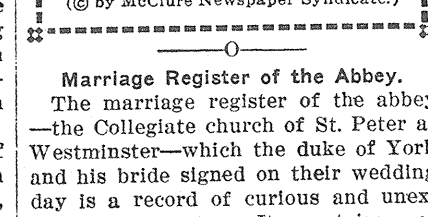

SO
Your get-away here is:
To get away with it the best way you can, if you can't get away with another kind.

Marriage Register of the Abbey.

The marriage register of the abbey—the Collegiate church of St. Peter at Westminster—which the duke of York and his bride signed on their wedding day is a record of curious and unex-pected contrasts. It contains, of course, many names of the famous and the great, but has almost equally nu-merous signatures of those of humbler sort. This is due largely to the fact that not only members of the body collegiate but their servants can claim the right to an abbey wedding. As the privilege of an abbey ceremony is not one that is too readily accorded, it may easily arise that a peer falls to secure it, while the handmaiden of one of the collegiate clergy and her bride-groom may have no difficulty in ar-ranging their nuptials in the central church of the empire.—London Times.

DAIRY LESSONS IN SCHOOLS

Bulletin on Production and Handling of Milk Issued for the Benefit of Teachers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture) Methods of producing and handling milk so that it will be clean may be taught in schools, as well as other features of farm practice. For the benefit of teachers in farm communities, the United States Department of Agriculture has a bulletin on the use of Farmers' Bulletin 602, "Production of Clean Milk," as a textbook. Topics of study in connection with it are the reasons why cleanliness is important; first, to the consumer, because of its effect on the wholesomeness of milk as food; and second, the producer, because of its influence on the financial value of milk; bacteria and their effect on milk; health of cattle and human handlers of milk; disposal of waste; how to combat flies; style and care of dairy utensils; stable and milk houses; the process of milking, and subsequent care of the milk. As a preliminary to the lessons, a survey of conditions in the locality is advised, and suggestions for it are offered. Geography and arithmetic are studied in their bearing upon the dairy business; and written work on the subject can be used as language study. The bulletin which gives suggestions on teaching the subject is Department Circular 67.

SUPPLY DRY COW GOOD FEED

Many Men Make Big Mistake in Neglecting Animal During Her Resting Period.

The question of feeding a dry cow is one of the many important factors in successful dairying. Many men make the mistake of paying little or no attention to the cow while she is dry, the idea being that so long as she is not producing, it is a waste of money to keep on feeding her nearly as well as when she is producing. While a cow should not be given as heavy grain ration when dry as when she is producing, at the same time during the six or eight weeks while she is resting from her heavy work of production, she needs to keep her body in vigorous condition. She should, in fact, always gain in weight during that period and should be fed such feeds as will enable her to produce a well-developed calf.

KEEP MILK MACHINES CLEAN

Thorough Sterilization Is Necessary to Prevent Any Source of Contamination.

Special care is required to keep milking machines clean so that they will not be a source of contamination for the milk that passes through them. After many tests the United States Department of Agriculture has decided that the heat method—that is, the use of hot water at a temperature of 160 to 170 degrees F.—is much better for sterilization than solutions such as chlorin or salt and chlorin. The salt-chlorin solution was found to be no better than the chlorin solution.

MANY PURE-BRED HOLSTEINS

During Year of 1922 Registration Made of 113,772 Animals, According to Census.

Last year 113,772 registrations were made of pure-bred Holsteins, and 91,890 transfers. During the year 1,440 new members were admitted to the association, making a total of 23,000. Over a million Holsteins have been registered. Of that number 528,000 are living, according to the United States census.

HANDSOME PROFIT FROM COW

Dairy Animal on Any Farm Will Pay Her Purchase Price in Milk in Six Months.

There is absolutely no good reason why there shouldn't be at least one good dairy cow on every farm. One good animal would pay her purchase price in milk inside of six months and for a good many years would continue to pay a handsome profit over her maintenance cost to her owner.

LESS SUBJECT TO BLOATING

Growers of Sweet Clover Claim Cows Not as Liable to Trouble as Alfalfa.

It is claimed by the growers of sweet clover that cows that are pasturing on it are less subject to bloat than when pastured on alfalfa. It is felt that there is a certain something in the sweet clover that tends to overcome bloating.

Many Cows Tested.

Farmers last year entered over 194,000 cows in cow-testing associations to determine their standing as butterfat producers through demonstrations by agricultural extension workers, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Prefer Bran to Shorts.

Dairymen prefer bran to shorts for feeding because it is lighter and improves the mechanical make-up of a mixture of meal.

HOME AND GARAGE IN COMBINATION

Arrangement That Has Attractions for Owner of Car.

HOUSE IS SENSIBLE DESIGN

Five-Room Residence of Brick Utilizes Latest Style of Garage as Integral With House—Suited for Corner Lot.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1237 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

This illustrates a combination which is becoming increasingly popular with home-owners. The garage is attached to the house proper and in such a way as to be inconspicuous, yet amplify the general plan of the house. It surely is much better than the placing of the garage at the rear of the lot, interfering with the landscaping of the grounds or of the garden, and any owner of a car welcomes such an arrangement for nights and in wintry or rainy weather, for the matter of keeping the garage comfortable at a reasonable temperature is simplified.

Naturally extra precaution is necessary. The fire hazard is increased when the garage is made integral with the dwelling, but with many modern forms of fireproof and safe construction to choose from there need be no difficulty on that score.

The dwelling itself is a sensible design which seems to enjoy the favor of substantial folks, no matter in what part of the country they may be. It is of brick, with limestone or concrete stone trimming, and variety is introduced by the stucco-timber effect given the porch gable. The roof is of tile and some of the artistic concrete tile developed recently could be used here to good advantage.

The porch proper is very roomy and it gives into a reception hall and thence into the dining room and living room. The latter is a nicely balanced room, 15 feet by 22 feet 6 inches. What with its window lighting on three sides, and its fireplace, and the attractive sun porch which opens off it, it is easily one of the most attractive rooms when considered from the aspect of its decorative possibilities.

The reception hall gives into the dining room. This room has a built-in buffet, a feature many housewives are beginning to favor more and more. It leads into the kitchen. The kitchen is very well equipped with cupboards and shelving; the sink directly faces the double window, and the refrigerator is served through outside icing, saving the cleanliness of the kitchen floor. The pantry has possibilities also; its window gives excellent ventilation and helps save ice in the cool days of spring and autumn. Off the kitchen and through the rear hallway one gains the basement.

Our second floor has two bedrooms and a bath, with excellent clothes and linen closet space, storage space, and an alcove off the larger bedroom which could be utilized as a sleeping porch in mild weather.

It is undeniable that much of the attractiveness of this type of a house comes from having its grounds properly landscaped, to take away from it any appearance of stiffness. Observe how the shrubbery in the foreground has a softening influence in this respect. If the lot has one or two large trees, so much the better; trees do much for a house in the way of giving it a picturesque setting, and with a tile roof there could be no objection on the score of continued dampness and rotting on account of too much shade on the roof.

Observe that a shelf below the front windows is suitable for flower boxes, and also that the wide porch coping also lends itself to treatment in this respect.

This type of a house lends itself particularly well to situation on a corner lot. Thus, the porch would not be at the front, but would be at the side of the front of the house, with the other, the sun porch, overlooking the other street.

Ignorant East Indians.

The post office in India is regarded with wonder and awe by the more ignorant natives. In some outlying districts, in fact, the natives actually worship letter boxes!

A story is told of a man who put his letter in the box and then shouted the address to which it was to go through the slit. He imagined that a god was sitting inside!

Another took off his shoes, bowed very low, and went through all kinds of religious rites both before and after posting his letter. Before departing he laid some coins on the ground before the box as an offering to the god inside.—London Tit-Bits.

Parlous Times.

Crabshaw—The worst of living in a small town, as I remember it, is that you're apt to be talked about.

Suburbs—It's worse nowadays, when you're likely to be put into a best seller.—New York Sun.

VANITY TAKES MANY FORMS

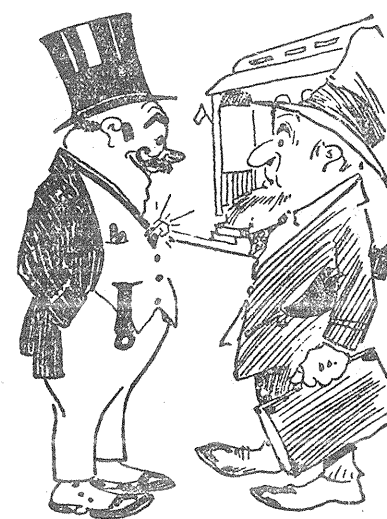

Expression in Will of the Late Stuyvesant Fish Significant—Spanish Archbishop's Epitaph.

The strong individuality of the late Stuyvesant Fish appears in that clause of his will which speaks of "charitable bequests" as simply affording the testator "a means of gratifying his vanity at the expense of his heirs." It is not stated how much he gave to charity in his lifetime. Whatever gifts such a man made would naturally have been without ostentation. If there had been any vanity about them he would have indulged it privately.

The expression in his will raises the question of satisfaction on the part of those who leave public legacies to speak for them after they are gone, remarks the New York Times. Do men really look forward to an acclaim after their death for good works which they were not known for while living? Probably in most cases motives are mixed. But it is hard to see how vanity, even if it were the ruling passion strong till death, could be sufficient of itself to prompt a man to provide large benefactions by will.

Vanity is, to be sure, an elusive quality and takes or invents many ways of showing itself. In the Cathedral of Toledo, where many of the archbishops lie buried, the traveler came upon one stone with no name or date whatever and with the sole inscription, "Dust and Ashes and Nothing." This might seem to be the extreme of self-sacrificing humility, yet could the vainest archbishop have devised a way of better advertising himself after his death?

NOT THE OLD JOSH

Bunco Man—Well, well, my old friend! Ain't seen you for an age! Going to take in the town? Uncle Josh (coldly)—Jes' so, stranger—an' I might as well begin with you!

POTOMAC HAS HAUNTED SPOT

"Banshees' Wail Said to Be Heard There Before Any Death Occurring on the River.

Above Georgetown, on the Potomac river, are three rocks, known as the Three Sisters, not merely because of their resemblance to each other—for they are parts of a submerged reef—but because of a tradition that, more than a hundred years ago, a boat in which three sisters had gone out for a row, was swung against one of these rocks. The day was gusty, and the boat was upset. All three of the girls were drowned.

Either the sisters remain about this perilous spot or the rocks have prescience, according to persons who live near them on the shore—some hold one view and others the other. They declare that before every death on the river the sisters moan, the sound being heard above the lapping of the waves. It is said to be different from any other sound in nature.

It is an unquestioned fact that more accidents in the water happen at this point than at any other on the Potomac.

Singular Accident.

A fatal accident of an unusual nature befel an aged man of Jarrow, England. His garden allotment is situated on a railway embankment, and while he was at work he overbalanced and rolled down the incline. He fell in front of a train and was killed.

Evidently Appreciated Spanking.

A boy who stole a pair of rubber soles from a shop at Sheffield, England, put forward the ingenious excuse that his mother was unable to correct him in a proper manner because her slippers were worn out, and he was anxious to assist her.

Prize Worth Taking.

Near Sydney, Australia, a monster sea leopard 16 feet long attacked some fishermen who had wounded it. It was killed. The animal's coat of fur was worth a small fortune.

And They Did.

A woman was bound over at Preston, England, on a charge of having stolen a gramophone record entitled "Catch me if you can."

Couldn't Stand Good Luck.

A man living at Villefranche-sur-Saone, France, won the first prize of one million francs in the Credit National lottery. A few hours after he heard the news he dropped dead.

FIND MODEL BULL ASSOCIATION GROUP

Livingston County Boasts Dairy Improvement Organization Which Sets Standard for State.

A bull association which comes pretty close to being a model of perfection in its form of organization and the quality of the animals kept by its members has been formed by a group of farmers in Livingston county.

A bull association is a co-operative enterprise among farmers of a district who wish to use better sires in their dairy herds than an individual could afford to own alone. By pooling their interests, such a group is able to secure animals of highest quality, and the Livingston men, who are keeping Holsteins, have set a high standard for the rest of the state in this regard.

The association has four "blocks", each with its own bull, while a fifth sire of even superior breeding is kept at one central point. The four bulls are rotated around the blocks at intervals in order that all members of the association will have some use from each.

The result of this plan is that definite lines of breeding will be developed in the community and a reputation built up for high class animals of the strain.

The central bull in the new Livingston Association, which is being kept at the D. H. Hoover farm, is Renfrew Homestead Piebe, son of the United States champion Holstein cow, May Walker Ollie Homestead. The four "block" sires are all related to the central sire and are of the same blood lines.

Membership fees in the original investment are not large, because of the relatively large number of farmers who share the expense, while the annual up-keep fees are very small. The farmers on whose places the sires are kept are paid a regular maintenance fee out of the association funds.

WHAT IS ADVERTISING?

Advertising is nothing more or less than salesmanship. By advertising you sell to several hundred people at one time instead of to the single individual. Advertising does not belong to the realm of magic. It is ability to talk of the product in plain, honest and straightforward terms that appeal to the reason and desires of the people whose trade is sought.

How do you advertise? There are no end of ways in which you may advertise; there is the circular, the poster, the window display, the circular letter, the personal letter, by word of mouth, and the newspaper, the best method of them all.

What does advertising do for you? All advertising is intended to create good will for the product or service advertised. Your advertising should create good will for your store throughout your trading area and thereby increase the volume of your annual turn-over.

TOWN OPPORTUNITY.

Th' crazy wages bein' paid t' all sorts o' mechanics is th' leadin' reason that so many country boys are tearin' out fer th' cities an' towns. Th' easy, indolent life o' th' overpaid bricklayer is even enticin' ole farmers in good circumstances t' drop th' plow an' take up bricklayin'.

Layin' a brick ever' three or four minutes, with an assistant handlin' you th' brick an' mortar, an' pullin' down about fifteen dollars fer a short day looks purty good even t' a banker.

Th' wonderful opportunities of bricklayin' an' plasterin' are causin' almost as big a flurry as th' discovery o' gold in th' Klondike.

Many merchants an' journalists' capitalists are seriously investigatin' these trades.

Even plumbers are gittin' discouraged with their lot, t' say nothin' o' other craftsmen who are worryin' along with only one auto.

Jake Bentley is takin' bricklayin' from a correspondence school an' offers his fine herd o' Holsteins fer sale, while Joe Pine, at sixty-five has a private tutor in plasterin' three afternoons each week.

Plasterer can't work as slow as a bricklayer because th' plaster has t' be put on with a rush, but a plasterer only has to hustle a year or two an' then he kin retire.

But we look fer somethin' t' be done t' help out th' farmer, an' maybe ther'll be a rush from th' towns t' th' farms some day.

President Coolidge don't seem to be scared out by th' heavy, bodybreakin' burdens that go with th' Presidency. He used t' milk cows himself, an' we don't believe he'd throw his hat in th' ring for 1924 without knowin' he'd have t' do somethin' t' put th' farmer on his feet if he expected t' win.—Abe Martin in Farm Life.

BIG AUCTION AT KINCH FARMS

A big auction sale of more than usual interest to Thumb farmers is advertised to take place at the Kinch farm, Grindstone City, Wednesday, October 31. At this sale Tamworth hogs and Rambouillet sheep, all registered will be offered, over 400 head of the latter.

Mr. Kinch has 1,000 sheep on his farm but does not wish to feed so many over winter. The sale is on surplus stock. He finds sheep raising more profitable than cattle and submits price figures to prove this, covering a period of years.

The Tamworth hogs on the Kinch farm constitute one of the most famous herds of these bacon producers in several states. There is also a market for good bacon and as these are the real bacon hogs it follows that there is always a good market and good prices for Tamworths. They are coming to be recognized as the money crop in swine.

This will be an all day sale and a free lunch will be served at noon. Sale will all be under cover and go on rain or shine.—Advertisement.

RED CROSS MET TEST IN JAPAN FUND DRIVE

Spirit of Service Demonstrated in Readiness for Nationwide Activity.

When President Coolidge by proclamation designated the American Red Cross as the medium through which contributions for relief of the Japanese earthquake sufferers should flow, the President's desire came as an order to the Red Cross. Immediately the entire machinery of the organization was put in motion and within 24 hours the fund campaign was moving with vigor in every part of the country.

This emergency test demonstrated the peacetime readiness of the Red Cross to cope with stupendous tasks in behalf of humanity. Within a month it had collected upwards of $10,250,000 in contributions, landed ten cargoes of supplies at Japanese ports and was keeping pace with relief requirements—all without a single dollar of the fund being spent for administration.

President Coolidge, in expressing his thanks to the people, said: "When the news of the tragedy in Japan first reached us, the American Red Cross, pursuant to a proclamation, asked the country for $5,000,000 to meet the great emergency. The answer to this appeal was prompt and generous; in less than two weeks a sum far in excess of the original goal was given." The work of the Red Cross for Japan is expected to influence a very large enrollment of new recruits during the Roll Call, which starts Armistice Day.

Red Cross First Aid Standards Adopted In Great Industries

First aid in an emergency which assures the injured competent attention until the doctor arrives is making marked headway through the work of the Chapters of the American Red Cross. In populous centers 314 chapters conduct first aid classes and last year awarded 9,500 certificates to students. Eight big telephone companies have enlisted their workers in first aid classes, police and fire departments in large cities are making the course compulsory in their training schools, and through colleges and high schools large groups of students receive instruction. The Red Cross also gives this course through Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y. M. C. A. and similar organizations, and its standard methods have been adopted by railroads, electric and gas companies, mines and in the metal industries. The aim of this Red Cross service is to cut down radically the average of 60,000 accidental deaths per year in the United States.

"Our country could secure no higher commendation, no greater place in history, than to have it correctly said that the Red Cross is truly American."—President Coolidge.

Every day is a better one to the man and woman stimulated by the Red Cross spirit. Join now for happiness.

Junior Red Cross Spreads Good Will Throughout World

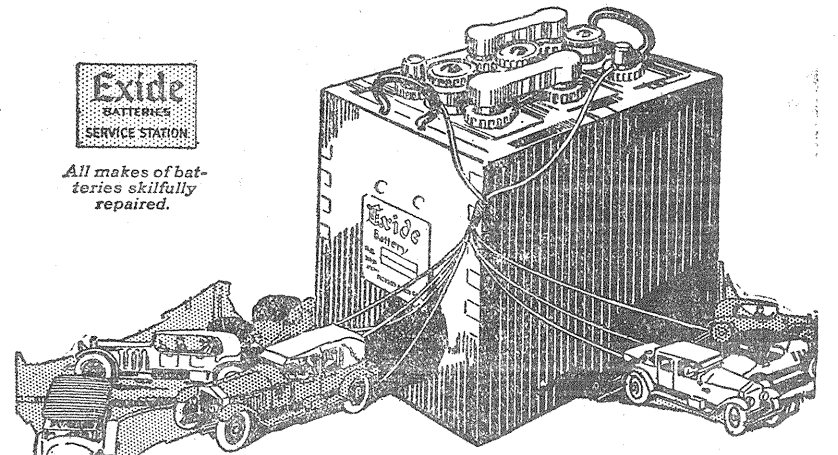

Nearly 5,000,000 pupils in the schools of America are following the standard of unselfish service as members of the American Junior Red Cross, the annual report of the American Red Cross discloses. This valiant host is represented in 125,072 school rooms of 24,289 schools throughout the United States. With a service program that is local, national and international in scope, the American Junior Red Cross is working unflinchingly for health and happiness and in the promotion of activities among boys and girls wherever there is opportunity for usefulness.

Increased activity on the part of the schools enrolled and deeper recognition by school authorities of the educational values of Junior Red Cross have been significant features of the last year. Carrying on educational and relief work in France, Poland, Austria, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Albania, Bulgaria and Rumania, the American Juniors have influenced the forming of Junior departments in the Red Cross organizations of these countries. American boys and girls wearing the "I Serve" button of the Juniors are proving apt messengers of the spirit of good will and mutual understanding through correspondence with pupils in schools scattered throughout the world. At the close of the school year in June 2,009 schools were engaged in correspondence with a like number of schools in Europe; 284 schools in our insular possessions and Alaska territory carried on an exchange of letters with schools in the United States and South Africa. In fact, nearly 2,700 schools with probably 100,000 pupils were busy in this fine act of cheerful communication, while 8,347 articles passed through National Headquarters of the Red Cross in exchanges between the interested pupils here and overseas. An incident of the year's advance was the beginning of activity which will eventually install Junior Red Cross in the Indian schools of the United States.

From every section of the country reports of the tour of the unit of crippled children with their chorus which came from the Bakule school in Prague, Czechoslovakia, to show gratitude to the American Juniors for their assistance declare that nothing since the World War has done so much to awaken the Red Cross spirit in the communities visited by the unit. The work of the American Juniors in foreign fields is emphasized in the advancement of playgrounds, scholarships in farm, trade and other schools, community and school garden work, and donations of cash and equipment to children's organizations. In these projects $112,660.17 was spent during the last year in ten European countries, in China and in the Virgin Islands.

"It is inconceivable that the Red Cross could have come thus far only to retreat; that it could have succeeded up to the present time only to fail."—President Coolidge.

Liberal to Ex-Service Men. Over $1,000 was expended by each of the 3,600 American Red Cross Chapters in the past year in behalf of disabled ex-service men. The actual total spent was $3,980,000.

Michigan Happenings

Practically every Western Michigan port city were represented at the Great Lakes Harbor conference at Milwaukee. Both Mayor Hadden and City Manager Ellison, of Muskegon, attended. The object of the conference was to preserve the levels of lakes, harbors and channels; to promote harbor development and port efficiency on the Great Lakes; to co-operate with harbor cities in stimulating commerce, and to coordinate water and rail lines in expediting the movement of freight from inland points to lake ports.

Placing the total estimated registration of the University of Michigan at 11,932, a gain of 522 over last year's estimates at this time, Dr. Arthur G. Hall, registrar, predicts that the final figures probably will show an increase that will bring the grand total to 12,000. Literary college, law school, graduate school, nurses training school and school of education show increases. Slight decreases in the number of students enrolling this year are noted in the medical school, engineering college, college of dentistry and college of pharmacy.

An opinion has been asked of the attorney general's department by the Michigan public utilities commission, as to whether autobus lines which have operated during the summer, but will suspend during the winter months, are entitled to a refund on their license fees. Several bus lines throughout the state which have been operating through the summer, have written the commission asking for a refund because they will not operate during the winter.

The Monroe County board of supervisors voted, 10 to 8, against buying two platform scales for the purpose of weighing overloads on automobile trucks. Each scale was to have cost $1,500; one was to be erected in Monroe and the other on the North Dixie Highway, at the intersection of L. Ready Road. Weighing at present is being done with the aid of "jacks."

After paying a bounty during the past year of $25 for each wolf caught in Chippewa County, the Board of Supervisors repealed the resolution. Only 12 wolves were caught in the year, and some claim that of these a few were imported from counties which paid no bounties. It was also said that the bounty interfered with the work of the State trappers.

Figures compiled by Judson Pratt, city comptroller, show that the winter tax rate for Lansing covering the state, county and school district taxes will be $15.12 per thousand dollars of valuation, an increase of $1.25 over last year. The biggest item is the school district, $9.85, with the state $2.46 and county $2.81.

The city of Alpena has purchased from the United States Government the buildings of the Alpena radio station, which was established during the war and abandoned a year ago with other lake radio stations. The site reverted to the city, having been given by the late Frank W. Fletcher with that proviso.

The board of supervisors of Monroe County adopted to grand levy for 1923, in which the state tax is fixed at $198,035.36; county tax, $189,478.60; county road tax, $241,062.69, and state Covert road tax, $62,260.67. Monroe County's tax rate will be approximately $13 per $1,000.

"The Muskegon State Park" is the name selected by a committee for the new $25,000 state park near Muskegon. The name was chosen after a contest conducted by the Muskegon Chamber of Commerce. Four Muskegon County residents, all women, submitted the winning name.

Georgia Robertson Baird, wife of Charles Baird, former director of the University of Michigan athletic association, died in Kansas City, Mo., according to word received here. Mrs. Baird studied in the medical school of the university from 1894 to 1896 and was graduated from the literary college in 1901.

Edmund F. Arras, of Columbus, O., president of the Kiwanis International, attended the convention of the Michigan district Kiwanis Club at Kalamazoo. More than 1,500 Kiwanis, representing every local organization in both peninsulas, are expected.

Harold Wheeler, Muskegon, was named president of the Michigan Library association at the last session of the thirty-third annual meeting at Kalamazoo.

The thirty-third convention of the Michigan Library Association was held at Kalamazoo. One of the speakers was Dwight B. Waldo, president of Western State Normal School. Jacob Kindelberger, of the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Co., explained the process of making paper.

The board of supervisors of Grand Rapids, passed favorably upon the 1924 program of the country road commission permitting construction of $1,250,000 of paved roads within the boundaries of Kent county next year. This program, when completed, will provide paved roads throughout the county on all trunk lines except the extension on the Ionia road through Ada and Lowell. It was made possible by the granting of a half mill tax amounting to $114,750 and certain transfers which, with the expense.

Grand Trunk officials and business men of Bad Axe conferred, recently, at Port Huron, on a plan to operate an additional train for freight and passenger service between Bad Axe and Detroit and Pontiac daily, except Sunday. The plan discussed will be submitted to higher railway officials for approval. The curtailment of trains into the Thumb section by the Pere Marquette railroad has placed many Thumb cities and villages at a disadvantage, it is claimed.

Plans and specifications for the new metallurgy building to be built at the Michigan College of Mines, Houghton, have been received by the college authorities from the state architect. The new structure will be considerably larger than the old building. It will have a frontage of 155 feet and a depth of 114 feet to the end of the wings. It will be of brick and steel construction, three stories in height, including the basement floor, with two wings two stories high.

The need for a more sufficient road marking system throughout the Upper Peninsula is apparent in letters and comment coming from a number of those who have visited the region during the past year, according to George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula development bureau. The general complaint, Mr. Bishop declares, is that the tourist seems to find difficulty in following the route from the markings on his map.

Forest fires in the western and central part of the Upper Peninsula the last week have killed thousands of partridge, according to game and fire wardens. The bird season opens Oct. 15 and closes Nov. 9, the day before the deer season begins. Last year the bird season overlapped the deer season, but the State Department of Conservation changed the dates at the request of Upper Peninsula sportsmen's organizations.

Edward D. Smith, 29 years old, an employe of the Fisher Body Corporation, at Detroit, died as the result of a broken neck, suffered, the police were told, when he fell while playing ball. Smith, together with other workmen, was playing base ball during the lunch hour. Three men attempted to catch a fly ball. They collided and Smith's neck was broken. Death was instantaneous.

That the past few years have brought a material change in the county agricultural fairs of the upper Michigan region is the opinion of Paul Bowen, expert dairy and herdsman, who has recently returned to the Bay Cliffs stock farm at Big Bay after accompanying a herd of pure-breds from that institution on a three-fair circuit—Marquette, Escanaba and Houghton.

Briefs filed by W. W. Potter, Chairman of the State Public Utilities Commission, with the Interstate Commerce Commission, in connection with the latter's general hearing on depreciation reserve, recommend that the public be not required to pay for the excessive depreciation of railroads or telephone systems caused by mismanagement.

The Muskegon County supervisors voted 26 to 5 to place all male prisoners serving sentences in the county jail at work on highways. The men were to receive no additional compensation. The action was inspired by reports of the state's success with prison labor on highways.

Elton R. Eaton, former Kalamazoo newspaper man and former sheriff of Kalamazoo county, has been appointed secretary to Governor Groesbeck. He succeeds Major Rolph Duff, who recently was appointed a member of the Michigan public utilities commission.

The 27th annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Educational association was held in Menominee last week.

Principals of high schools in Michigan will meet here December 6 and 7 for their annual convention.

The Michigan Children's Aid society will hold its annual business meeting at Lansing, October 26.

The seventy-ninth annual state convention of Odd Fellows and the thirty-ninth annual state convention of the Rebekah assembly was held at Bay City.

Marquette will be host to about 500 visitors Nov. 8, when the Congress of Michigan Game Associations and the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association meet here in joint convention. Prominent sportsmen from this and other states and men high up in game conservation work will be speakers.

Plural of "Money."

The correct plural of the word "money" is "moneys," following the rule that nouns ending in "y" preceded by a vowel add "ies" to form the plural. The word "monies" is an irregular plural that is sometimes used, particularly in the sense of "sums of money."

Walking Sticks From Hedgerows.

Fifty per cent of our walking sticks come from English hedgerows. Particularly in Herefordshire and Worcestershire there are miles of heges which are allowed to grow so tall that the magpies build in them. The man who supplies sticks in the rough pays the farmer a mutually agreed-upon sum per hundred for the privilege of cutting them, and these, roughly trimmed and still green, he sells to the manufacturer in the town.—London Daily Mail.

Rainy Day Treasure.

Rainy days may be brightened for the child if he has a scrapbook which he uses on rainy days only. This may be made of cambric, pages about 8 by 12 inches in size, stitched together. Magazines and picture postcards may be saved for these days, and the child may cut out and paste for many long periods, with great pleasure.
