

POSSIBILITIES OF WAR ARE GREAT

F. J. LIBBY ADVOCATES STRONG COURT OF ARBITRATION TO ASSURE PEACE.

Members of the Presbyterian Men's Club passed a very enjoyable evening Friday, the occasion being the second monthly banquet. A fish dinner was served.

T. H. Wallace, as toastmaster, humorously related his experience as a public speaker and then introduced the speakers of the evening, Frederick J. Libby of Washington, D. C., and James Brooker of Ann Arbor.

Mr. Brooker gave an inspirational short address on "True Sportsmanship," advocating playing the game of life on the square in all its activities as well as in athletics to which his talk was mainly directed.

Mr. Libby is the executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, and while referring briefly to the work and aims of his organization, he devoted his address principally to European conditions, the possibilities of another great war and the opportunities for its prevention. Mr. Libby recently visited Europe and gave a comprehensive view of the situation in the countries where the late war has left a condition of fear and hate and where the seed has been planted for another period of bloodshed.

Secret diplomacy has been the bane of Europe's troubles. In its place, the speaker advocated a broad discussion and an airing of troubles in a universal court—a town meeting on an international scale, so to speak, where all parties, both small and great, may be heard and justice administered. Already the League of Nations has avoided a war between Italy and Greece. But with new alliances already formed, with fear breeding hate between European countries, the possibilities of war within another ten years are promising unless a strong court of arbitration is made to function and determine by reason and the spirit of good will rather than by the sword the future of the world. America's opportunity toward this end lies in her co-operation.

Mr. Libby said that conditions in various parts of Europe were appalling and the needs of the common people for the necessities of life were very great. His address throughout was very interesting.

LIGHTHOUSE NAN AT THE BIRD SCHOOL

"Lighthouse Nan" is the title of a play which will be given by nine young people of the Bird school district at their school this (Friday) evening.

The play opens in a rough lighthouse on the Carolina coast. While the story is not a novelty each act teems with bright dialog and quick action, the situations are natural and work themselves to a happy ending in a logical, concise manner. It is a melodramatic story of refinement, and while the situations are strong, they are lurid and the comedy is clean cut and human.

The characters:
Hon. Jno. Enlow, pres. Seacoast Banking Co., Archie McLachlin.
Ned Blake, his private secretary, Wm. Profit.
Ichabod Buzzer, the old keeper of the lighthouse, Delbert Profit.

Sir Arthur Choce, a British aristocrat, Howard Helwig.

Injun Jim, a bad man, Howard Stratton.
Nan, a little roustabout, Dorothy Profit.

Moll Buzzer, the gentle antelope, Gertrude Murphy.

Hon. Sarah Chumbley Choce, Arthur's sister, Myrtle Killins.

Hortense Enlow, a city belle, Estella Crawford.

A box social will be given after the play.

Mrs. T. E. Pringle Kind and Generous
Lady, Reached the Age of 75 Years.

Mrs. Timothy Pringle, a resident of Sanilac county since 1883, departed this life at her home in Evergreen township on Dec. 21, at the age of 75 years, 9 months and 9 days.

Helen Mudge was born in Blenheim, Canada, Mar. 12, 1848. She was the daughter of Dr. Isaac and Abigail Mudge. When a child she came with her parents to St. Clair Co., Michigan, where her girlhood days were spent.

On July 15, 1871, she was united in marriage with Timothy E. Pringle. To this union seven children were born, three of whom preceded their mother in death.

In the year 1883, she came with her husband and settled on a farm in Greenleaf township where they lived until 1885 when they moved to their home in Evergreen township, Sanilac Co., being one of the early pioneers of that place.

She was converted at the age of 18 and later united with the M. P. church. In the year 1895, she united with the Free Methodist church at Hay Creek, being a charter member of that place and remained a faithful member until her death.

Mrs. Pringle was of kindly, generous disposition, and sterling Christian character and will be sadly missed by her aged companion who is in feeble health, and her children, Mrs. Ella Gibson of Goodells, Wm. Pringle of Detroit, John Pringle of Evergreen, and Mrs. Fay Goulding of Port Huron, Mich., and her five brothers and one sister, nine grandchildren and a host of friends.

PIONEER HOTEL MAN BURIED HERE MONDAY

GEORGE TENNANT CONDUCTED HOSTELRY HERE IN LUM- BERING DAYS.

George Tennant, pioneer hotel man at Cass City when the lumber industry was in its prime in this community, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mark Truesdell, at Vassar on Friday, Dec. 28, in his 85th year. The remains were brought to Cass City Monday and funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church at two o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Wm. Schnug. Interment was made in Elkland cemetery.

George Tennant was born at Malorytown, Ontario, Nov. 11, 1838. He left Canada in 1866 and settled at Caro. Three years later, he came to Cass City and embarked in the hotel business. The hotel building was enlarged not long after Mr. Tennant became proprietor and he continued as manager and owner for a quarter century. At the time of his arrival here, before the incorporation of the village, this community was the scene of extensive lumbering operations and the Tennant hotel was the lodging place of many a lumbering crew bound down river with a drive of white pine logs.

Following the sale of his hotel property here, Mr. Tennant went to Rapid River in Delta county where he was engaged in lumbering and farming for several years. For the past ten years, he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Mark Truesdell. He has been a severe sufferer with rheumatism during that period.

In 1871, he was united in marriage with Miss Maria Utter of Caro. By this marriage, he leaves three daughters, Mrs. Mark Truesdell of Vassar, Mrs. James Connolly of Dundee, N. Y., and Mrs. Wm. Hoodless of Philadelphia, Pa. By his second marriage to Evelyn Weaver of Cass City, there are three children, Mrs. Robt. Wilby of Gladstone, Mich., Clayton and Thomas Tennant of Rapid River, Mich. Mr. Tennant was one of a family of 14 children. Four are still living: Robt. Tennant of Bad Axe, James Tennant of Cass City, Mrs. Samuel Montague of Caro and Mrs. Peter Ferguson of Lynn, Ont.

Judge Watson Beach, who retired from the circuit court bench on Jan. 1, will be associated with his son, Wilbur J. Beach, at Bad Axe in the practice of law.

Threatened with the abolition of the Sandusky fair and dissolution of the association due to financial reverses, the Sandusky community club unanimously endorsed the 1924 fair with promises to promote the proposition and aid the matter financially at a meeting held Saturday. The indebtedness of the association is in the neighborhood of $13,000.

Sheriff Burns arrested Peter Krantz of Sherman township on a charge of selling wine to the party which included Arthur McLellan, the young man found dead near the grain elevator at Harbor Beach two weeks ago. Complaint was made by two other members of the party, Leland Scott and Walter Brandon. Krantz was released on a $500 bond.

Joseph Russell of Deckerville, has established a record as a Bible reader which is unusual. Mr. Russell has read the new testament through 30 times in the past four years—seven times in 1920, eight times in 1921, three times in 1922 and 12 times in 1923. He believes that every person should read his Bible more.

Members of the Mexican colony who have remained in Crosswell for the winter, observed Christmas with a tree and program in the Community House Dec. 24. Only eight families remained behind when the special train, a few weeks ago, carried the majority of the colony back to their homes in the south. The program was given under the supervision of Mr. De-

Lao, who also acted as Santa Claus to the children, and consisted of Christmas carols and recitations in the Spanish language.—Crosswell Jeff.

Sheriff Burns was called to a farm home south of Owendale last Thursday to investigate the sudden death of John Udvari, aged 35. Udvari's wife died of cancer about two months ago. She left three children, the oldest a girl aged nine years. The children and the father lived alone since the mother's death but the father has been in very poor health. During the night of Wednesday the eldest child got up to get a drink and saw her father sitting in a chair, asleep she thought and she didn't disturb him. Thursday morning the little girl found her father still sitting in the chair and she couldn't arouse him. The neighbors found that he had been dead for some hours. The officers concluded that death was due to natural causes. Under all the family circumstances it is a sad case.

USE HONEY TO MAKE ANTI-FREEZE MIXTURE

Experiments Prove Value of Novel
Method of Fixing Flivver Radiator for Winter.

Add honey to the list of satisfactory anti-freeze solutions.

Experiments have proved that a dilution of honey with water, half and half, makes an economical and safe cold weather solution for automobile radiators. In fact, this novel "anti-freeze" has been used successfully in the Northwest, where temperatures are much more severe than they are in Michigan.

"Dark honey, unfit for table use, can usually be bought for from six to nine cents a pound," says R. H. Kely, bee specialist at the Michigan Agricultural College. "Sufficient honey for a whole winter's anti-freeze solution for a radiator can be made up for about a dollar and a half."

"The honey solution becomes more efficient with evaporation from steaming, whereas an alcohol solution loses strength. One needs merely to add more water as some boils away. It also holds heat longer than other radiator solutions. The same solution can be used year after year."

"Equal parts of honey and water should be thoroughly mixed and boiled for a few minutes, and the scum which rises skimmed off, before the solution is placed in the radiator. Also the engine head gasket and hose connections must be inspected and tightened before the solution is used, since when hot the honey-water will pass through apparently tight connections, causing an objectionable stickiness."

SUGAR CO. WANTS EUROPEAN LABORERS

Abolition of the Contract Labor Law to permit the importation of German and Belgian men, women and children under contract compelling them to work in the beet fields was the proposal of F. J. Klump of Saginaw, head of the labor department of the Michigan Sugar Co., Friday, before the House Committee on Immigration at Washington.

Mr. Klump told the committee that Mexican workers rarely remain in the beet country longer than the single crop period to which their contract applies. He attributed the failure of these Mexicans to remain in Michigan largely to the cold climate and he gave this as the reason why the permission to assemble contract laborers similarly in Belgium and Germany would be helpful.

A feature of his testimony was the statement that the Calumet & Hecla Mining Co., actually has imported 300 Germans to work in the copper mines, due to their inability to obtain labor in the United States at the wages offered.—Detroit News.

GOOD INTEREST BEING SHOWN

IN EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS AT M. E. CHURCH; THEY CLOSE JAN. 13.

The evangelistic services in the Methodist church are now well under way. They are being conducted by the Colegrove evangelistic party, consisting of Rev. Willett S. Colegrove, evangelist, Arthur C. De Vries, chorister and soloist, and Theodore A. Piper, pianist and cornetist.

The first service that was held was very well attended. The Sunday evening audience was still larger. There is a very good interest being shown by the people, and splendid meetings are expected during the next two weeks. The Monday night service drew a good sized audience in spite of the heavy storm that raged. Practically all of those present for the first service stayed through to watch the old year out.

Rev. Colegrove is well liked by all those who have met him. He is a rapid-fire preacher and does not alter his messages to fit the likes of men, but preaches the old time gospel truth. His messages follow along in succession so that every one of them should be heard in order to receive the greatest possible benefit from them. He will preach every night at 7:30 p. m., and also in the afternoon at 2:45. There will be cottage prayer meetings in the various homes at 10:00 a. m. on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings.

There is a rousing song service preceding each service, led by Mr. De Vries. Mr. De Vries is a chorus leader of marked ability and possesses a mellow baritone voice which is very impressing in the solo work which the young gentleman uses throughout the campaign. He has a small inexpensive song book which he uses throughout the campaign. The songs are picked out to furnish the right spirit for the sermon. He also has special features that he uses to vary the program from night to night. He has charge of the young folks work also. The "Boosters" met with him on Tuesday afternoon and are to take part in the service on Saturday evening.

Mr. Piper is a very accomplished pianist and it is very pleasing to hear him play at the services. He comes from a family of musicians and has been playing the piano in evangelistic meetings for a number of years. He also plays the cornet and delights the people with his cornet and piano solos. The accompanying picture is of Mr. Piper with his cornet. The expression that he brings out of his instrument is a revelation to a great many people. The old saying that "music is religious" is verified by his playing. His handling of the piano is also very good. When he is playing, one forgets all else and is held by the music that he brings forth from it.

The meetings are to continue throughout two weeks, closing on Jan. 13. It is hoped that all Cass City will avail themselves of the opportunity to take part in the services. All are invited to come and share in the blessings that are in store for them.

MT. PLEASANT TRIMS CASS CITY QUINTET

The Mt. Pleasant Independents defeated the Cass City Independents in a fast game here New Years night by an 18-20 score.

Cass City had the long end of the first half but Mt. Pleasant overcame their lead and then added two more points before the final whistle sounded. The teams were well matched.

The members of the Cass City male quartet, sometimes referred to as the "Cast Iron Quartet," and their wives enjoyed a very jovial New Years celebration on New Years eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Atwell. Refreshments took the form of a pot luck supper while amusements were various and unique.

TEST FOR CREDIT.

A friend of mine who used to sell talking machines by mail-order hit on a simple method for judging out which persons he might trust, writes Fred Kelly in the Nation's Business.

On receiving an answer to his advertisements, he wrote to the inquirer asking for the name of his family physician, as reference. If this name was forthcoming, my friend then shipped the talking machine without further ado. He never even bothered to write to the family physician. His reasoning was this: People always pay the doctor last. If a man will give his doctor's name as reference in a mail-order transaction, he surely doesn't owe the doctor any money. And if he doesn't owe the doctor, he probably doesn't owe anybody. Hence, presumably, he is a fair risk for a talking machine or other goods on credit.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

The fact that Frederick Pinney of Cass City was a member of the men's chorus in "Cotton Stockings," the 16th annual production of the Mimes of the University of Michigan Union, made that opera of particular interest to several of his friends here, 30 of whom journeyed to Saginaw Dec. 27 to witness the production in that city. They came back well pleased over the splendid musical show given by the young men representing the state university. A Saginaw daily says the "Cotton Stockings" drew $5,567 into the auditorium's box office. Although the show has played in such cities as Philadelphia, Washington, Cleveland, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Chicago and in most of these places set records for receipts for college productions, the Saginaw business was the largest outside of New York, where the company appeared in no less pretentious setting than the Metropolitan Opera house, the haunt of Caruso in his glorious career and where thousands have thronged to hear the world's greatest opera stars. It was the first time the University of Michigan enterprise had appeared in the east and in New York more money was taken in than ever drawn by a college attraction there. Along with the financial success, the critics declared the entertainment the best of its type ever to invade the seaboard.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Day and family arrived home Tuesday after a 10 days' trip to Martinsburg, West Virginia, Woodstock and Mt. Jackson, Virginia, Brunswick and Frederick in Maryland and Washington, D. C. They visited relatives of Mr. Day at certain points and enjoyed one continual good time from the day they left. Seeing sights in Washington greatly enthused the whole family but Mr. Day seems more joyous over a stroke of luck which he had while away. Contesting against 24 other men in a shooting match, he won over them all and carried off a 19-pound turkey, the foot of which he has carefully preserved to illustrate the good sounding "yarn."

Several friends of Miss Irene Bardwell were guests of Miss Christie McRae at a miscellaneous shower in honor of the former young lady Friday evening. Many beautiful gifts were presented to her and everyone present enjoyed the amusement which was furnished, that of a game of Bunco. The evening's entertainment closed with the serving of creamed chicken in timbales, rolls, coffee, pickles and chocolate cream puffs.

The two year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Schneider of Detroit was brought to Cass City for burial Friday. Services were conducted by Rev. A. G. Newberry at the chapel at Elkland cemetery Friday afternoon. The child was ill but four days with diphtheria, death coming on Wednesday, Dec. 26.

West; treasurer, Mrs. B. F. Benkelman. The officers named above and appointive officers to be named later will be installed on Jan. 11.

The Elkland Threshing Company held a business meeting at the home of Alfred Wallace, Friday evening. The following officers were elected: President, James Profit; treasurer, Wm. Helwig; and secretary, Alfred J. Wallace.

Friends of Mrs. Fanny Fordyce, formerly of Cass City, will be glad to learn that the lady after a serious operation a few weeks ago was able to be removed to the home of her son, Malaam Fordyce, in Detroit this week.

Miss Margaret Hurley, who has been attending Ypsilanti state normal college for a few months, resumed her duties here as teacher of the third grade this week. Mrs. J. H. Holcomb has been supplying in her place.

Robert Mark of Riverhurst, Sask., is in town for an indefinite period visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mark. He plans spending the remainder of the winter months in Michigan.

SHALL IT BE NINETEEN
PLENTY FOUR?

Pessimists would have you believe that this world is reaching a stage of mediocre living—that life at its best now is a continual groping to exist.

But the year of 1924 will unquestionably find the United States government, the state of Michigan, the Thumb district and your own family in improved conditions. Those who yell "loudest" are frequently responsible for their individual ills.

This world has its faults, every age had faults to combat, but—if it were not for these hills to climb, we would become a race of stagnant people.

Optimism in the universe is a stable way of expressing "Everything will come out in the wash, even though it is a long time washing."

Count every day of 1924 a forward step to maintaining the equilibrium of your family life. Make this community hum with your actual progress of betterment.

It's up to ou, what you make the year of 1924.

The poultry and egg business is one of the biggest industries in the country, especially if you take into consideration the fine medium of distribution of money throughout the country. A few dozen hens on the farm usually produce much of the ready cash for the family necessities on the table.

Many business men spend a lot of time killing time, waiting for the day to come when business will happen their way. Such men are blind to the eternal fact that business comes where it is invited and stays where it is well-treated. No true business man loses any time waiting for business to happen; he gets busy advertising and makes it happen.

Promote in every way the interest of your community for in that way you can best promote your own interests. And do not overlook the fact that the kind of a town you live in is the kind of a town you help make the town you live in.

A certain lady after reading the ads, in last weeks Chronicle, was so anxious to get up early for the bargains that she set the rooster an hour ahead.

The beautiful hymn said "Scatter seeds of sunshine," but too many people prefer to distribute drops of moonshine.

NOVESTA.

Miss Frances Smithson of Cass City spent from Saturday until Monday at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parrish.

Mrs. Henry Stephens of Birmingham was a guest at the home of Wm. Parrish Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Courliss will entertain at New Year's dinner: Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCracken of Highland Park, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Funk, Mr. and Mrs. John Collins and children, Charles and Etta, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parrish and children, Earl, Marie and Yvonne.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCracken of Highland Park are spending a few days with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Wm. Parrish has received word of the serious illness of her youngest sister, Mrs. Dale Murdock of San Pedro, Calif., formerly Miss Millicent Stowell of this place.

A supply of artesian water for an area of 1,000,000 acres of arid country, southeast of Lethbridge, Alberta, was located by an officer of the Dominion Geological survey recently, and the position of the water-bearing strata and its relation to Milk river has been worked out. So that the possibility of finding water at a given point and the depth at which it will be encountered are now known within close limits.

Filipino Women.

Filipinos have some customs which seem queer to us. A woman does not drive a horse or automobile, or ride a bicycle. She may wish to be a nurse, but men and boys occupy this field. She can do fine embroidery, but the men design the patterns. Yet twice the percentage of Filipino women are earning their living in comparison with Canadian women. Co-education exists throughout the islands.

Michigan

Licenses for 724,352 motor vehicles were issued by the Department of State in the calendar year of 1923, according to a report completed recently. Complete figures regarding the revenue to the State are not yet available, but it will total around $10,000,000, of which half goes to the State and half to the counties for highway work. The 1923 figures include passenger, commercial, and trailer vehicles. On the basis of the 1920 population of 3,668,412, there is approximately one motor vehicle for every five persons.

Eco Slyv Belle Pietje, a pure-bred four-year-old Holstein cow, owned by Carl E. Schmidt, Oscoda farmer, is attracting nation-wide attention by a remarkable production of milk and butter fat. Under constant watch of four supervisors the cow has produced 686.2 pounds of milk containing 33.014 pounds of fat in seven consecutive days with the test still in progress. This fat production is equivalent to 41.267 pounds of butter.

Jasper J. Campbell, former county clerk and prominent resident of Kalamazoo, died last week. Campbell was known throughout the state as an authority upon agricultural matters. He was master of Kalamazoo Palmona grange, secretary of the Kalamazoo county farm bureau, president of the Robert Burns society and interested in other activities.

The level of Grand River in the Grand Haven Harbor has dropped three feet below normal, causing shipping much annoyance. The entrance to the harbor by the car ferries and the Goodrich steamer Alabama now is made with considerable difficulty and danger. The Alabama on one occasion during the last week was unable to make the harbor.

Final plans for the first gold medal poultry show ever held in Michigan, to be conducted at Muskegon in the early part of January, were complete at a meeting of the Muskegon Poultry association. The show will be featured by presentation of gold medals to the winners by the National Poultry association.

The orchards of Oceana County, one of the richest fruit-growing sections of the state, are being restocked. A larger fall setting of fruit trees is reported than ever before. This has been due partly to the mild weather which has made late planting possible, and also because of the increased profits from orchards.

June 16 and 17 are the tentative dates set for the annual convention of the Michigan branch of the National League of District Postmasters, to be held in Muskegon. The organization is composed of third and fourth class postmasters, of whom there are more than 1,500 in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Lycurgus McCoy celebrated their 68th wedding anniversary recently at their home in Battle Creek. They were wed in Keokuk county Iowa, and came to Battle Creek 44 years ago. McCoy served as a soldier in the Civil war and was with Sherman on his famed march to the sea.

Twelve years the Junior of Abraham Lincoln, and one year the senior of Ulysses S. Grant, William Stocks, aged 102, believed to have been the oldest resident of Detroit, died at his home Christmas day.

James B. Hobbs, 94 years old, died at Alpena recently. Mr. Hobbs owned the largest pure-bred Holstein herd in Northern Michigan and one of the largest poultry farms in the state.

George W. Stone, 76 years old, a resident of Saginaw 60 years and employed by the Saginaw Milling company 40 years died recently.

Christian Kolb, 80 years old, a veteran carpet weaver of Monroe, died recently.

Twenty-two young deacons were ordained priests of the Roman Catholic church by Bishop Michael J. Gallagher in the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul Detroit, last week.

Hurrying to complete his work so he could spend Christmas at his home here, Joseph Ducharme, 35 years old, fell from a load of logs at a logging camp near Pentoga, Mich., and was crushed to death as the logs rolled over his body. He was a veteran of the World War.

A radio, a radio fan and two wires caused North Muskegon to cuss them aplenty. For the radio fan, Raymond Castenholz, 28 years old, endeavoring to hook up his wireless last week threw a wire across a high tension wire in the backyard of his home. Somehow, some way, Raymond wasn't even shocked, but in an instant all of North Muskegon was, for every one of the 130 street lights was extinguished, and the city cast into darkness. And that wasn't all. The lighting equipment of many residences was similarly affected.

From schools all over Michigan and throughout the adjoining states applications for college graduates to fill positions as college and public school teachers are flooding the bureau of appointments at the University of Michigan, according to information given out by Miss Margaret Cameron, secretary of the school of education. More than 1,200 applications for teachers have been received within the year, Miss Cameron states, while the supply offered at the University of Michigan is slightly over the 300 mark.

Captain John Stevenson, dean of Detroit representatives in the state legislature, and councilman-elect, tendered to Governor Alex. J. Groesbeck his resignation as a member of the lower house in Lansing. While his position on the city's law making body, which he assumed January 1, would not hamper his state legislative service, provisions of the city charter made it mandatory that he resign.

University of Michigan women debaters have swept the field this year, defeating the Ohio State university teams in both affirmative and negative in the annual debate. The members of the two teams are, Joanna Jo Dewitt, Hudsonville; Catherine Stafford, New York city; Elizabeth Van Valkenburgh, Northville; Clara Lau, Detroit; Mary McCully, Pittsford, and Florence Fuller, Lansing.

Representatives of the cities on the Detroit United Railway interurban system, have opposed the petition of the company for permission to increase its interurban rates from 2 to 2-1/2 cents a mile. Editor of Slang.

In Bologna, Italy, there is an enterprising journalist who runs a column of slang translated from the English into the Italian.

He told me this and begged for a few expressions. I replied: "You are spoofing me, old top."

Instantly he was on the alert. "Spoo—spoo—of! Des that slang?"

I assured him that to my certain knowledge it was. He then promptly recorded the expression in a small book. Ever since I have been wondering how he translated the word "spoofing" for his Italian readers.

Stoves Stoves Stoves

Rebuilt, Repaired, Exchanged,
Bought and Sold

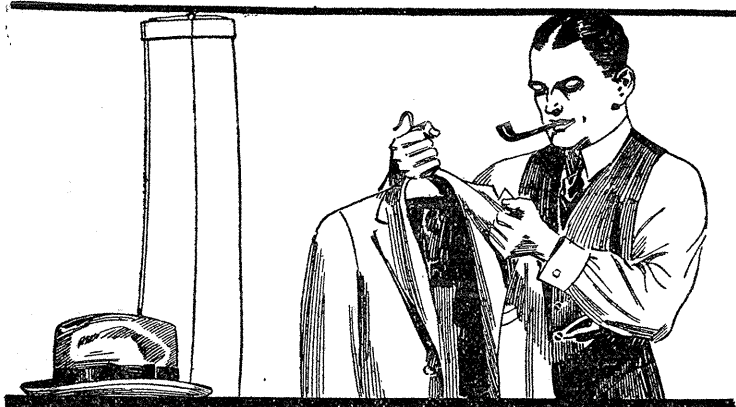

If your stove has a hole burned in the body, the direct cause of the damage is due to the destruction of the asbestos protective lining. It must be rebuilt. Neglect means the complete destruction of the stove. To rebuild a stove is to make it as good as ever.

If in need of repairs on your stove I'll be glad to serve you, and if in need of a stove you'll find no such bargain as in my stoves, rebuilt or otherwise. Every sale is a satisfied customer. Seeing is believing.

Let me show you some real stove rebuilt jobs. To neglect it means nothing less than the forced expenditure of seventy-five to one hundred twenty-five dollars. Time and material is all any job will cost you to have it rebuilt. See or write me.

Voltaire Pleased With Puppet Show. At all times puppet-shows have appealed strongly to the artistic and creative temperament. Over 200 years ago a staid member of the French academy, Malezieu, wrote plays for the marionette stage, one of them being performed before the duke of Bourbon in 1705. Voltaire not only enjoyed such diversions, but on one occasion assisted in manipulating the figures.

Swords and Fish.

Indians still spear fish on some Canadian rivers with the old-fashioned trident. But in Haiti the natives use a machete, as their huge sword-like knife is called. The waters abound along the Haitian coast in mullet, mackerel, kingfish, cardines, red snappers, white fish, and many other varieties of excellent food fish, the common method of fishing by the natives is that practiced at night—by the means of a torch and a sharp machete. The light dazes the fish and the expert native kills it with his instrument.

SCHOOL LUNCH PAIL OR BASKET SHOULD BE FREQUENTLY CLEANED

Children Off for School With Their Lunch Boxes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Whatever kind of box, pail, or basket is chosen for carrying the school lunch, it should be of a kind that can be frequently cleansed and scalded, says the United States Department of Agriculture. This is necessary to keep it clean and sweet and to kill bacteria that collect, especially in the seams and crevices of a container, and cause foods to spoil or deteriorate in flavor. In fact, there should be no part of any food container that cannot be cleaned. For this reason the simplest boxes and baskets are often better than the more elaborate ones with compartments in which to keep dishes, knives, forks, and spoons.

Metal Easiest Cleaned.

Metal boxes and pails are perhaps the easiest to keep clean, and some of the boxes have the further advantage that they can be folded when empty and strapped with the schoolbooks. Baskets are ventilated and therefore suitable for carrying moist foods that are likely to spoil, though there is no reason why small holes should not be punched in metal boxes or pails to let in the air. Baskets, too, can be washed or scalded. With the increase in automobile travel, there have come on the market well-constructed boxes and baskets with compartments for keeping food hot or cold, and for holding liquids. These are, of course, suitable only for children who ride back and forth, and especially where several lunches are put up in one household.

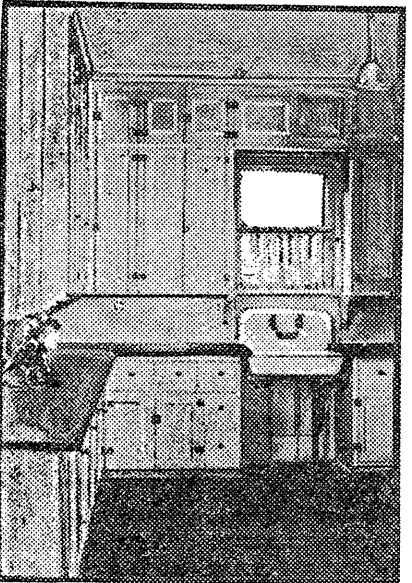

In many families the paper bags in which groceries are delivered are saved and used to pack the children's lunches in. The children usually like to carry lunch in a paper bag because it is light, and may be thrown away entirely if it is no longer wanted. Paper bags can be bought quite cheaply in packages of 100 or more. Paper bags will not do, of course, for carrying moist foods and the sandwiches within them should be well wrapped in waxed or parchment paper to prevent drying out.

DREAM KITCHEN HAS DIVERS FINE POINTS

Illustrates Several Superior Features in Arrangement.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The little picture showing "A Dream Kitchen Realized" is used by extension workers of the State College of Washington co-operating with the United States Department of Agriculture. This kitchen illustrates several good features in kitchen arrangement. The sink, to begin with, is under a window for light and ventilation. The plumbing is easily accessible for cleaning and repairs. There is a sloping drain board on each side with pot closets underneath and dish closets above, enabling the worker to put dishes away immediately without extra steps. A long counter at the left with closets above and below provides a convenient place for setting food directly on plates in the kitchen or for stacking the dishes after a meal. Storage cupboards above the counter eliminate walking about when baking or preparing a meal. Good light is thrown over the sink and shelves at night from a ceiling fixture. A wire basket suspended from the faucets insures economy by allowing the soap to drain. Linoleum on the floor is easy to stand or walk on and requires a minimum of effort to keep clean. Altogether the "dream kitchen" presents many points for any housekeeper to consider in planning her workshop.

Useful for Packing.

Paper napkins or the somewhat heavier paper towels of much the same size, and paraffin and parchment papers, are very useful for packing lunches, and may now be obtained at a low price, particularly if bought in rather large quantities. If no provision is made in the school for serving lunches, an extra napkin, either of paper or cloth, should be put in the basket, to be spread over the school desk when the lunch is eaten. Napkins that are easy to wash and require no ironing can be made of cotton crepe at a cost of a very few cents each. The crepe may be bought by the yard, and should be cut into squares and fringed.

In packing the lunch, sandwiches, cookies, and other foods should be wrapped in neat separate parcels, and the things less likely to crush should be put at the bottom. Paper cups and cartons, jelly tumblers with covers, and bottles and jars with screw tops, such as those in which candy and other foods are sold, can all be used for packing jellies, jams, honey, sliced raw fruits, custards, cottage cheese, and other half-solid foods.

PIGGERY POPULAR WITH THE FARMER

Meets the Requirements of Most Any Locality.

WOOD COVERS CEMENT FLOOR

Structural Design Is Such as to Entail No Construction Difficulty—Material Is Available Everywhere.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Here is a type of piggery which meets with popularity among farmers generally, because it combines the two elements of reasonable cost and general adaptability to many different local conditions. The structural design is such as to entail no construction difficulty, and the lumber and cement and trim, with proper fittings, are obtainable from any local lumber yard and building material dealer.

The floor is of cement overlaid with removable planks. This is a type of floor which helps the pig to remain healthy, and the coldness of the cement is effectively offset by the warmth-retaining planks, which may be removed at intervals for cleaning and ventilation of the individual pens. The foundation for this piggery should rise about two feet above the floor surface.

The walls can be constructed by setting two-by-fours on end, boarding outside, with shiplap or other grooved lumber, smooth finished to admit of more easy painting. Building paper, tarred preferably, should be placed between the outer boarding and the studs. The inner boarding is best if of grooved or matched lumber, smooth finished. There is no loft over the piggery, as is the case with some of the designs. Provision is made instead for ample ventilation and sunlight, and with the windows on the lower walls, and with the piggery placed with proper east and south exposure, there is plenty of sunlight possible. Sunlight is something which is good for pigs as well as for human animals. Personally, we prefer to consider Mr. and Mrs. Pig as intelligent beings. Scientists tell us that their skulls are more nearly like the human skull than are the skulls of many more highly appreciated animals—like toy terriers and pet monkeys, for instance. (We will never forget the sad, reproachful, almost humanlike expression in one old sow's eyes around hog-killing time in the late fall. She was our pet and seemed to resent the inevitable consignment to the realm of blood sausage, pork chops and pickle barrel.) Pigs respond quickly to favorable surroundings and need no training to keep their pens or sty clean.

The galvanized ventilator is a great help in preserving dryness and should not be overlooked, especially in cold sections. It can be adjusted to give a large or small draft, and where there is no very high ceiling, as in the case of this piggery, it is the best solution of the difficulty. Of course, one might have side-wall shaft ventilators, but these are more necessary when the wall is of brick, cement or of tile. Eight inches square is a good dimension for such an air shaft.

You will observe that this piggery is laid out with twelve pens, six on a side of the feed alley. One might extend the house a bit, to permit of a feed cooker room, or utilize one of the pen spaces for this purpose. A good plan, and one which helps keep Mr. and Mrs. Pig comfortable, with their small and noisy family, is to have the chimney constructed so it runs the length of the piggery, losing its heat into the structure rather than into the outer air. One ought to plan something like this where farrowing is the prime essential of the piggery. If otherwise, rest assured the pigs will do nicely in a rather cold pen, straw spread, and with a reasonable degree of air circulation.

"NO MAN'S LAND" IN BANK

Place Where Neither the Depositor Nor Cashier Has Custody of the Money.

Have you ever heard of there being a "No Man's Land" on the counter of the bank where you deposit your dollars?

Just recently a depositor at the Victoria street branch of the Westminster bank went to the bank to deposit $420 in British treasury notes. He pushed them in a pile at least eight inches under the grille which runs all round the counter, dividing the customers from the cashier, says a correspondent. They were approximately eighteen inches from the cashier's hand, but he did not immediately take them, being busy with a previous transaction. The would-be depositor looked around, and when his eyes strayed back to the grille again the notes had disappeared. He calculated the cashier had them, but he had not. They had been raked back by a light-fingered man standing beside the depositor and the pilferer managed to get away with them. But he was collared later.

Meanwhile a little drama was being enacted in the bank. The would-be depositor reckoned the bank was responsible for the loss. He had pushed

M. A. C. TO FURNISH SOIL TEST OUTFITS

New Equipment Makes it Possible for Farmer to Test His Own Soil for Acidity.

A special soil testing outfit, which will enable farmers to test their own soil for acidity and thus determine the lime requirements of their fields, will be assembled and distributed after January 1 by the Michigan Agricultural College department of soils, according to announcement made here this week by M. M. McCool, head of the department.

The outfit, which goes under the name of "Soiltex," will be sent out at cost to farmers who request it. Directions for application of the test and enough material for a couple of hundred individual tests are included in the outfit, it is said.

The Soiltex method is very simple. A few drops of liquid from a small can are poured over a small quantity of soil which has been placed on a piece of special paper about the size of a cigaret paper, and the color of the liquid as it runs off determines the degree of soil acidity. The method was perfected by a member of the college soils staff some months ago and has proved so effective that the college has determined to start distribution on a "cost" basis.

Use of this testing method will make possible efficient application of lime on a large scale in the state. Many soil areas need lime or marl applications to overcome acidity, while others need no lime or only small amounts. Only by a careful and accurate test can the farmer know just where lime is needed.

Applications where no lime is needed are useless and expensive, while the addition of lime is necessary in other soil areas. The test is said to take the guess out of the work and to result in efficiency and economy.

USE FIRE TO FIGHT FIRE BLIGHT DAMAGE

Eradication of Fruit Tree Disease in Winter and Early Spring Said Important.

Active control measures to rid orchards of every trace of fire blight, a disease which may cause serious losses during the following season, must be practiced by Michigan Fruit growers if they would avoid danger of disastrous epidemic of the disease, according to Prof. V. R. Gardner, head of the horticultural department at the Michigan Agricultural College.

"Growers generally realize the danger of fire blight and know that they must cut out and destroy every vestige of the disease," says Gardner, "but they do not recognize always that it is in fall, winter, and early spring that control measures are most effective. In the dormant season, the disease is neither conspicuous nor spreading, and the oversight follows. In the spring and summer, when flowers, leaves and branches are suddenly blighted, the orchardist realizes the danger but is often too busy with other tasks to eliminate the diseased places.

"Inspection of any orchard which has blighted badly discloses the presence of blight cankers, dark-colored sunken areas on the branches, limbs, crotches or trunks, where the bark has been killed and underneath which the wood is more or less discolored. These places contain the germs of the disease and prove sources of infection for its spread throughout the orchard the following summer. To the extent that they are removed and promptly destroyed, preferably by burning, next year's danger from fire blight is reduced.

"Theoretically it is possible thus to eradicate the disease from an orchard; practically this is very difficult because insects or other carriers may bring it in from orchards some distance away where winter canker cutting is not practiced. However, much can be done to hold the disease in check, and as a matter of fact it is the easiest and most practicable means of blight control.

"Care should be taken to trim out every trace of the disease, every bit of the canker itself and of discolored wood or bark spreading out from it; and after this removal all wounds of any considerable size should be painted with white lead paint, with each gallon of which one ounce of corrosive sublimate dissolved in a little turpentine has been thoroughly mixed."

FARM SHORT COURSES TO OPEN IN JANUARY

A half dozen special winter courses in agriculture, covering various phases of farming from "general agriculture" down to poultry, dairy, horticultural and farm engineering subjects, will open at the Michigan Agricultural College on January 7.

The work of the so-called "short" courses is limited to practical material of value to the man actually engaged in agricultural pursuits. Every citizen of the state over sixteen years of age is eligible for admission, there being no educational requirements, although at least a good grade school education is advised for those who would gain full advantage from the work.

International Special Dairy Feed Guaranteed to Produce More Milk

Every experienced dairyman knows that cottonseed meal, linseed oil meal and corn gluten feed are worth more than wheat feed or grain. Molasses is also worth more.

International Special Dairy contains 18 per cent Protein before molasses is added. The addition of molasses reduces this protein percentage because molasses contains very little protein. The addition of molasses, however decidedly increases the milk producing value of the feed. International Special Dairy 15 per cent to 16 per cent protein (after molasses is added) will accordingly produce more milk than can be obtained from any dry mixture running

20 PER CENT PROTEIN

It pays to feed International Special Dairy as a straight grain ration, or mixed with grain, or with any ration you are now using. Fed any way you may choose, International Special Dairy always results in a decided increase in milk production, ranging from one to three quarts per day.

OAK AND BALLOON

"A little boy, a very little boy, was crying, for his balloon had blown away from him and was caught up in an oak tree," said Daddy.

"Before long, though, the little boy dried his tears and he was given another balloon.

"But up in the tree the balloon and an oak leaf were talking.

"I suppose I was very naughty," said the balloon, "but I did want to fly away. I just couldn't resist the temptation of taking a little trip with Mr. Wind."

"It's rather hard at times not to do as Mr. Wind tells you to do. I know that," said the oak leaf.

"Tell me about yourself," said the balloon. "Why are you and some few other oak leaves still clinging to the tree when all the leaves are off the other trees and when it is really winter time?"

"Oh," said the oak leaf, "I must tell you about that, for it all comes from an old, old reason."

"Then there is a reason for it?" asked the balloon. "When Mr. Wind brought me up here I was wondering why there were some leaves upon this tree and not upon the others."

"And so there is a reason," the balloon repeated; "well, I am glad to hear that. Do tell me the reason now, for I may not stay long."

"Mr. Wind might decide to blow me away from here. You can't tell."

"I can't tell at any rate."

"Neither can I tell," said the oak leaf. "Yes, I will tell you my story right away."

"There are oaks that are always with their green leaves," said the oak leaf.

"Such trees could not stand such a chilly climate as this is, but there are many of these trees where it is warmer."

"Our ancestors wore green leaves

His Balloon Had Blown Away.

all the time—ever green were their frocks.

"And as I've told you many of the family still do so who live in warmer places.

"But we cannot do that. Still, we have a feeling about our leaves."

"We want to keep the old family ways—just a little bit, so a few of us stay on the tree, and do not even let the storms take us away."

"We've changed from our green frocks to red or brownish frocks—and then we stay on, with quiet brown winter coloring as our little way of showing that we remember what the old ways of the oak family have been."

"It is the oak tree's memory. It is a very good memory that the oak trees have."

"I should say it was," remarked the balloon, "and I've been glad to hear your story. How interesting a reason!"

"Ah," said the oak leaf, rustling slightly, "look at all those birds sitting on that long telegraph wire looking at the apartment houses that are along there."

"I wonder what they are thinking about. I fancy they must be thinking that they would not like indoor apartments and houses such as people have!"

"I know I would not want to live indoors."

"Fancy an oak tree inside a house. Dear me, that would be too terrible a thought. We need the rain and the air and the beautiful earth!"

"Then the great red sun began to think of going to bed and as he did so he too shone upon the window panes of the apartment houses, and he chatted with the city's tall buildings and he said:

"You may be built to reach great heights but you don't begin to come up to me. No, you can't do that."

"And what is more you never will! For you're only buildings made by men, mere men!"

"And Mr. Sun smiled his sunniest, nicest smile as he sank down behind the hill for his sleep and the oak leaf whispered to Mr. Wind:

"It's a very interesting world after all."

Pink Forests.

A certain teacher, proud of the way in which she had instructed her class in botany, told the examiner to call on any scholar and to ask whatever questions he pleased on the subject.

It happened that the first pupil selected was a newcomer who had attended only two lectures.

Asked to name some botanical terms he replied: "Please, sir, I know only two—aurora borealis and delirium tremens."

If we remember correctly the winter of 1873 and '74 was open winter in Michigan. It introduced itself something like the present season. Plow turned soil between Christmas and New Years just enough so we could say plowed. Observing farmers said, they could have plowed at times every month in winter. At date of which we write we held down Oakland county in Michigan.

Many different bunches of cattle have been run together there this season 'till they have become semi-wild and now comes the trial of separating each man's cattle and taking them home. We cannot give particulars but a week has been spent now without success. One day 30 men were engaged in trying to get them from their brush home. THE FABLE OF TUT.

Three thousand years ago lived an Egyptian King named Tut-Ankh-Amen. It sounded like a stutter and the Gang at the Laxor Golf club called him "Tut."

When Tut reached the Cake Eater age and got his hair plastered back right he died. Dying was one of the leading Egyptian indoor sports and Tuts death was a major event. They slipped him into a swell tomb in the Valley of Kings.

Three thousand years later a party of snoopers dug up Tut's tomb and all the junk buried with him. The advertising men took charge of Tut and in a few weeks had given him a rep that makes Charlie Chaplin's 'Doughs' and M. Day-by-Day" Coues look like a last year's almanac in comparison.

Dead for 3,000 years. Lost! Forgotten! Than bang! Advertised—and a whole world hollering for more news of Tut!

If advertising can put life into a dead one—What can't it do for a live one?

They could have dug up a hundred Tuts in the desert and if they had kept the good news to themselves—only a few bald-headed historians would have had ever known.

You can have the best merchandise in the world but if the world does not get hep to it—the business will sleep long and peacefully.

Remember Tut!—Vernonia, (Ore) Eagle.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.
