Obituary.

Benjamin Sharp died at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Merriman in Deford on May 13, where he was staying in an effort to recuperate his health which has not been good for some time past.

Benjamin Sharp was born June 13, 1861, in Strathroy, Canada, and brought to the United States when but five months old, locating in Lapeer county in the vicinity of Almont where his childhood and young manhood days were spent. He was cared for in childhood by his mother, the father, John Sharp, being in the Civil War of that time. In the spring of 1883 he purchased forty acres of land on section three in township of Kingston, Tuscola county, which made his future home. His mother, a widow, kept house for him while he added more acres to his first purchase and he died the owner of a large farm on the said section three in Kingston on Town Line.

In 1889, he was united in marriage to Miss Anna Belle Schenck of near Almont, Lapeer county. Six children were the fruit of this union. Five died in infancy. Betsy Gail, now Mrs. Henry Zemke, is the only survivor and resides on the farm home.

A little more than one year ago Mrs. Anna Belle Sharp died, there being but one year and twenty days between the passing of husband and wife. Deceased, a large man, could not be classed as a person of robust health. His passing was sudden and unexpected, which teaches that some vital part of a large frame breaks down prematurely.

The writer joined land with deceased for 28 years with only an apology for a line fence and our friendship was not marred, hence I must say a good neighbor has gone.

The funeral was held from the M. E. church on 18th and largely attended for deceased might be classed as a pioneer. The number of distant mourners was very many, although his daughter and one sister are the only near surviving kindred. We noticed many old acquaintances from a distance, among whom were Jacob Hilderbrand of Yale and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Pontiac (remembered as Katie Modrey).

The remains are buried in Novesta cemetery in family lot where bones of wife and his mother rest. Benjamin Sharp was fittingly borne to the grave by six old neighbors in this life: James D. Funk, George Martin, Jesse Soie, Lewis Retherford, John Retherford and Howard Retherford.

"Friend after friend depart,
Who has not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts,
That has not here an end."

It is New and Different for Bathrooms and Kitchens

GREASE and steam deposits are not easily washed from the ordinary paints used on bathroom and kitchens, because being of deeper penetration than ordinary dirt or dust accumulations. You have to scrub so hard with powerful cleaning agents that part of the finish is removed to make the surface clean.

An ideal and most satisfactory finish for kitchens and bathrooms, and which is absolutely sanitary, may be secured by painting with

Bradley & Vrooman Gloss Interior Colors (Not An Enamel)

This finish is not easily penetrated by spattering greases or condensing steam. Also appropriate and satisfactory for any other room where a lustrous finish is preferable, either for painting walls, ceilings and woodwork throughout or in combination with flat wall paint to secure a pleasing and desirable contrast.

Paint Doesn't Cost Money —It Saves It!

Unless your home is protected inside and outside by repainting at least once every four years, you will lose in repairs and lessened value, from five to ten times what the paint and labor would cost. "Save the surface and you save all" (Paint & Vrooman)

Gloss Interior Colors produce a subdued, sanitary glass-like finish which may be washed repeatedly without injury.

STUCCO BUNGALOW OF FRENCH DESIGN

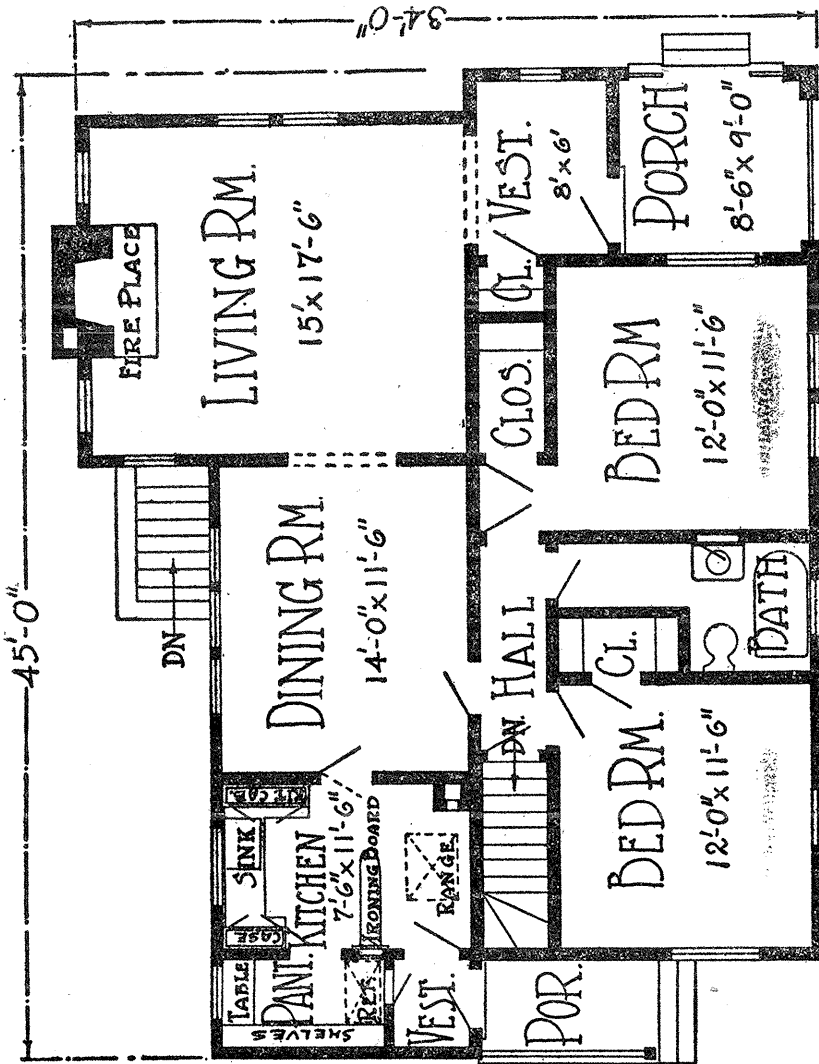

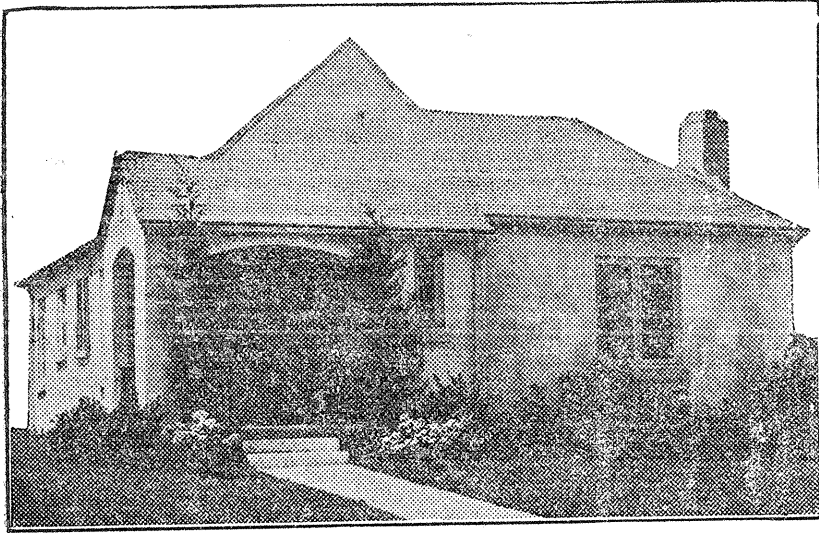

Character Given Exterior by Coloring the Cement.

HAS AMERICAN FLOOR PLAN

Vestibule With Clothes Closet—Living Room Has Fireplace—Triple-Lighted Window in the Dining Room.

By WILLIAM A RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1327 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Here is a bungalow with a piquant, foreign air, and such a little home as you will find, should you wander down the highways and byways of foreign places. But it has a typical floor plan such as is possible only through advanced American comforts and conveniences. Character has been given to the exterior by a judicious use of color in the stucco. It is not one plain color, but mottled, through varying the colors placed with the stucco mixture. The result is an exterior that gives the weathered effect that gracefully comes with long exposure to wind and weather. The roof could be of dark maroon, brown or dark green, and the roofing used could be either red cedar shingles, or prepared composition in shingles or roll shape.

The recessed porch gives into a vestibule, with convenient clothes closet, and thence into the living room. This latter has a fireplace and the open, airy effect given by the colonnaded doorway leading into the dining room gives an effect of spaciousness which is pleasant and adds greatly to the effect of the furnishings. The dining room has a triple-lighted window, and right off it is the compact kitchen, well-lighted, and with shelves lessening the floor space required.

Off the dining room we reach a hall which connects with the two bedrooms and bathroom, making this part of the house thoroughly private and out of the range of casual callers' view. The closet space is ample, and one could remove one bedroom closet from its present jutting-out position in the hall and place it over the space now occupied by the stairway to the basement. There is a rear porch and vestibule, permitting outside icing of the refrigerator.

The landscaping of the lot is very effective, the twin cypresses flanking the recessed porch entrance helping to accentuate the general touch of quaintness. The handling of the window recesses, too, helps carry out this idea.

One would naturally strive for the simplest possible furnishings in fitting out this home for occupancy. You will appreciate the fact that many of our quaint cottages in America are borrowed almost bodily, as to exterior design, from peasant homes in foreign countries. But fortunately American well-being and conditions of life enable us to give homes of this kind a character typically modern, and while we may be better able to furnish them comfortably, we ought to strive to maintain that degree of simplicity in the furnishings which would make the home interior be in keeping with the simplicity and quaintness of the exterior.

Thus, our interior walls might be finished in rough plaster, of lime or magnesite, or using some of the specially patented mixtures now on the market, and which give effective "textured" walls that have more character than the plain, smooth finished wall. Some of these "textured" walls are sanded, following the simple early American fashion; some are very coarse, as in Spanish and Italian home walls; and some have sand dusted on after rough trowelling, giving a lustrous effect. The walls might be tinted afterward in neutral tones of ecru, gray, gray-blue or cream; even where wall paper is preferred it is best to confine one's self to the simpler patterns.

The furniture should be simple of line. Early American Colonial style

Memorial Day Proclamation

By the Governor

Our country, the proudest, the most mighty of nations, sovereignty of righteousness, is again called upon to manifest its gratitude to the few remaining members of the Grand Army of the Republic and to pay tribute to the memory of the fallen. Memorial Day was created in order that the deeds of sacrifice and devotion to freedom in the Civil War might forever live. But time has brought a new and vast army of living and fallen heroes for us to honor. In deepest reverence we pay tribute to the few veterans of the Civil War still living. Soon the Grand Commander of all will issue His final order to these proud but faltering comrades of '61 and there will be no living Grand Army veteran to honor. May his memory always be sacred to us. The boys of yesterday who freed from tyranny a suppressed people and who extended righteous American rule to the other side of the world, are too fast passing into another realm. Soon the ranks of Spanish War veterans will be as thin as those of the Civil War. Let America never forget the glorious deeds and sacrifices of these fighting lads of yesterday. With flowers by land and sea, with every human token, let us give honor not only to the veterans of Civil and Spanish wars but to the young men of today who gave freedom to the world through battle on foreign soil. To the living veterans of all our wars, may our homage be in keeping with our gratitude. May our tribute to the memory of those who have passed into the beyond be worthy of a grateful people.

Therefore, I, Alex. J. Groesbeck, as Governor of Michigan, proclaim and urge a proper observance of Friday, May 30, 1924, as Memorial Day.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State this 13th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, and of the Commonwealth the eighty-eighth.

ALEX. J. GROESBECK, Governor.

By the Governor:
Charles J. DeLand, Secretary of State.

PORT HURON CONVENTION MERELY REPEATED HISTORY

The Bad Axe Tribune says that Congressman Cramton was snubbed at the district convention at Port Huron because the resolutions passed by the convention did not mention Cramton. Does the Tribune know that Cramton was not endorsed by the Pt. Huron convention four years ago, nor eight years ago, nor twelve years. But, in spite of that he has been returned to congress each two years by increased majorities. No, Brother English, the crowd that has been controlling our district convention, does not elect the congressman.—Pigeon Progress.

Two blocks of concrete pavement will be laid this summer through the business district of Elkton, running north from Trunk line 31. The Raleigh, the steamer recently purchased by the Saginaw-Bay City Steamship Company, is due to dock at Harbor Beach next Tuesday on its first trip down. The vessel is a packet freighter of 1,000 tons carrying capacity and is 234 feet in length and 33 feet in width. She is not a government vessel built for war time service, but a vessel designed and built before the war for the specific service the Saginaw company plans, and carries the highest rating for vessels of her class. It is the plan to operate the boat between Saginaw, Bay City, Harbor Beach, Port Huron, Detroit and Cleveland, which will make a welcome addition to the freight outlet of the above cities.—Harbor Beach Times.

Lying in her home from Wednesday noon until late Thursday evening suffering from severe burns from her chin to her knees, without medical attention, will probably prove fatal for little Annie, six-year-old child of Adam Reimh, a foreigner, living in Custer township. The little child attempted to light the stove using a can of kerosene which exploded throwing the fire over her body. Her parents who were at home at the time of the accident smothered the flames, but not until after the little one had been horribly burned. The skin was burned from off her body from the chin down to her knees. The child laid in this condition until Thursday night when her parents, who did not realize the seriousness of their daughter's condition, summoned a physician. She was brought to this city and taken to the home of Mrs. Henry Lorentzen as the Tweedie hospital was filled at the time. Mrs. Lorentzen, who is a practical nurse, is caring for her. Small hopes are held out for the little one's recovery.—Sandusky Republican.

WALLACE GIVES CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING RULES

Secretary of Agriculture Defines Ten Principles Essential to Success for Bank Assocatiation.

Ten principles requisite for the success of co-operative marketing plans have been prepared by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for the State Bank Division of the American Bankers Association, which has just published a nation-wide compilation of views, experiences and discussions regarding the movement. Mr. Wallace's principles are:

1. A co-operative organization must be controlled by its members, not as shareholders or investors, but as producers employing the facilities of the organization.
2. A co-operative association is not operated to make a profit on invested capital above the usual rate of interest, but to profitably market the products of its members at the lowest possible cost.
3. A co-operative association should be organized around a single commodity, or a group of commodities for which the same marketing machinery, methods and channels are employed.
4. The organization should have sufficient volume of business to enable it to operate efficiently and economically, and should control this business through definite legal contracts with its members.
5. The organization must perform definite functions. The organization of a co-operative marketing association is not an end in itself.
6. The members must understand the purposes of the organization and be kept fully informed regarding its activities and problems.
7. A co-operative association should have expert management. The duties of the manager of a co-operative association are more difficult than those of the manager of a commercial enterprise of equal size. The manager must not only conduct the business of the organization efficiently, but he must recognize the close, personal interest of every member in that business, and be able to maintain harmonious contacts with each individual.
8. Proper accounting is essential. Accounting is one phase of management but is so important in co-operative marketing that it is given special mention. The management cannot be properly advised regarding the status of the organization, nor properly inform the members, without accurate records.
9. Sound financial policies are also a part of management, but are of sufficient importance to be placed under a separate heading. One essential is that a co-operative association should build up adequate reserves in order that it may have the financial strength necessary to weather periods of stress.
10. A co-operative organization should be self-perpetuating. It should have a definite legal status, and once it is organized it should be so conducted that it would never be necessary to call upon outside agencies to re-establish the organization or shape its policies.

WHAT BANKERS THINK OF THE LABOR BANKS

With the advent of the labor bank three years ago, there was widespread speculation as to what labor turning capitalist would mean.

By bold calculations the most imaginative pictured a coup d'etat in finance wrought by the mobilization of labor's savings and strategic investments in the key industries. Prophecies of disaster came from the quarters of the other extremists.

Taking the middle ground was the great group of conservative bankers who saw the bank as a link—rather than a wedge—between capital and labor. It was their opinion that the experience gained in the management of the labor banks would bring a real understanding of the business of handling money and investments and develop a knowledge of the problems of capital. By making capitalists out of the workers, directing the investment of their funds into safe securities instead of wild-cat stocks and by promoting thrift, they saw good flowing from the enterprise. With the mystery taken out of banking, the bubble of fabulous earnings pricked, and the right of an individual to his accumulated savings firmly established, it was patent that the radicals would be disarmed of their thunder against the much-assailed capitalist system. On the other hand, it was conceded that, with the rise of labor as a factor in finance, opportunities for the abuse of the worker by the bludgeon of cruel credit control would be more restricted.

In their appraisal of the movement, the events of the past two years have largely justified the view of the conservatives, although the time is still too short to permit a mature judgment. It is quite clear, however, that labor has not revolutionized banking, the control of credit has not been diverted from its former channels.—American Bankers Ass'n Journal.

In the fifth Cass City scored their final three runs. With one down, Hutchinson doubled to left field. Benkelman flied out. Hutchinson stole third base. and then he gave several examples of waste in industry and how it is gradually being eliminated and turned to profit. We are running our school at a tremendous loss unless we get out of it all we can get out of it.

One of the greatest drawbacks in the schools today is the lack of equipment. Poor heating, ventilating and lighting conditions, a discontented and unhappy state caused by the failure to pay adequate salaries to instructors, unattractive school buildings and grounds, anything that distracts attention—these all contribute to a lowering of scholastic effort and results.

"As our social conditions change our educational ways should change to meet our social conditions," said Mr. Jenner. "We need to be progressive."
