MOTHERING THAT PAYS DIVIDENDS

The profession of motherhood is not supposed to be a well-paid occupation. And foster mothers—who do for pay what real mothers gladly give from affection—are generally not highly regarded. Yet out in Phoenix lives a woman who mothers all the children in the state of Arizona, gets paid for doing it, and has been honored by nearly every organization in the state.

When Mrs. H. A. Guild was a girl she loved her younger brothers and sisters. When she grew up and taught, she loved her pupils—even in the huge machinelike system of the Chicago schools. And when marriage brought no babies of her own, she began to love and foster public movements for bettering humanity. Out of this last love grew her present mothering job. She was the first woman in Arizona to be appointed head of a department of state. Secretary of the Arizona child welfare board, she now has supervision of all child welfare measures, working through 65 county child welfare board members. And in addition she is a foster mother to a child for every day in the year, for there are 365 orphan children who live in foster homes or with widowed mothers, as wards of Arizona.

"That's enough to keep any mother heart full to overflowing, isn't it? Even if the men and women of the state forget her, I imagine Mrs. Guild could keep happy. Furthermore, she's owner of a ten-acre ranch that has been turned from a sagebrush and cactus desert to a producer of roses and "long staple" cotton. The ranch owner organized the rural women of the state and brought them into association with their city sisters through district federations. Naturally the Federation of Women's Clubs made her state president.

Then Mrs. Guild decided that women who had the vote ought to use it politically. Not unnaturally she was the first Arizona woman sent to the national Republican convention in 1920. In 1922 she was nominated for representative to congress, and was defeated only because her whole party ticket was snowed under.

Knowing big city, small city, town and country intimately, Mrs. Guild declares that if a girl has ability there is always room on "Main Street" even though it may look crowded or empty of opportunity.

THE SANDMAN STORY

MR. BEAR WAS COLD

MR. BEAR was not very old. If he had been he would not have made the mistake he did once upon a time.

Mr. Bear was a young bachelor. His mother had warned him he should take a wife, but Mr. Bear had said he wanted some fun and did not wish to be burdened with a wife tagging after him.

"You will be sorry when it comes winter," his mother told him. "It is lonesome living all alone and then you will need someone to look after making your winter bed. Take my advice and find a mate."

But no, Mr. Bear would not do this. Instead he trotted off to another part of the forest to live where his mother could not nag him about getting married.

He did have a jolly time. Nobody to ask him where he was going or when he was coming back and eating all the honey he found and not having to share it with anyone. Oh, how foolish he would have been, he thought, if he had listened to his mother and taken a mate. Now he could sleep where night overtook him and in the morning get up or stay in bed just as he liked. Yes, indeed, the life of a jolly bachelor for him, was what Mr. Bear had decided upon.

The fall had been nice and sunny, so warm that it was late when Mr. Bear crept into his house for his winter sleep.

He did not stop up the cracks or openings to his house for the snow when it came would do that, he remembered his father had said. But what he did not know was that his mother always provided plenty of dry leaves and grass.

Mr. Bear had not chosen his home wisely, either, for it was in the location where the cold north wind would whistle through all the openings if the snow did not come and close them.

But these things did not bother Mr. Bear, then, for he was very fat when he went to bed, and it was warm enough in his house. So he gave a few grunts and snuggled himself up for a good long sleep.

He slept for a long time. It was past the time for the first snow, but it had not come. And poor Mr. Bear awoke and shivered; then he sneezed. He rolled himself up tighter, but it was no use; he was cold.

Without opening his eyes he began to feel for more bedcoverings—there were none. He had not thought about coverings when he went to sleep.

The wind whistled and shrieked about his house and through it as well. Mr. Bear could feel it blowing his fur and he was not as fat as he was when he crept into bed. He would have to get up and get more bedding, that was certain.

Poor Mr. Bear crept out of his house and began to hunt. It was a desolate looking place outside, no green leaves or grass, only dry twigs and bits of grass tufts and dead leaves.

He worked a long time before he had enough to make his bed comfortable and decided that his mother knew more about what he needed than he did.

"The very first thing I do in the spring," said Mr. Bear as he pulled his bedding around him, "is to find some nice Miss Bruin and ask her to be my mate. This bachelor life is all right in the spring and summer time, but when it comes to winter and the house needs looking after a fellow needs a wife—mother was right."

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meanings; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

MURIEL

THE quaintly demure Muriel is one of the oldest and most beloved of English names. Its earliest form, Meriel, is still in common usage abroad. It signifies "myrrh," the precious perfume of early Biblical days, and a special reverence attaches to the name, since myrrh was one of the gifts brought by the Wise Men to the newborn Babe in the manger at Bethlehem.

Seldom in the history of etymology has a name preserved its original identity so faithfully as Muriel. It has suffered no change, since Meriel was first taken from the Greek word meaning myrrh. Nor did it leave its native heath to undergo transformation by another language. No other country has an equivalent; even America transported it intact.

The moonstone is Muriel's talismanic gem. According to an old legend, it will endow her with the purity and beauty of the moonbeams which the ancients believed were imprisoned in the stone. It is likewise said to give her the gift of prophetic vision whereby she may read the future. Sunday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number. The cornflower is her special bloom.

Mules in Mines
It was only a few years ago that the donkey was a necessity in coal mines. After the tiny cars were loaded with coal the donkeys pulled them to the opening in the mine shaft, where the coal was hauled to the surface. Lately, electrical equipment has replaced the donkey, but even now, in a great number of mines, the donkey is still used to haul the coal from the part of the mine in which it is dug to the shaft, where it is elevated to the surface.

Honesty
As soon as man's eyes are opened to the fact that honesty in thinking and acting pays the highest rewards to heart and soul and body, that honesty is the tap-root of all efficiency, and that no efficiency is possible without a fearless desire for an honest measure of values in all things, we shall start on a new era in our land.

Origin of Sewing Cotton
The sewing cotton used in every American home is made almost exclusively of long staple Egyptian cotton. No cotton now grown in the United States has been found suitable for spinning the finer sizes of thread, for which there is the greatest demand.

Money Is Like a Stream of Water

Did you ever stop to think of a stream of water—how it flows through your city or past your home—day after day and year after year? But the moment a dam is built and the water stopped—or even part of it—the stream becomes a constantly widening and deepening reservoir of power, with all its significant possibilities of usefulness.

Saving money is like building a dam across a stream. You can let your money come and go, as water in a stream, or by forethought you can stop some of the outgo and pile up for yourself week by week or month by month, the savings which in later years will add to your independence, to your ability to take advantage of new opportunities, and to the comfort you can get out of life.

There never was a time when it was so well worth your while to save as now. The dollars put away today will buy just that much more when prices come down. Come in and let us work out some plan to take advantage of today's unusual opportunity for saving.

Good Oil or Shoddy?

Just like buying a suit of clothes, you can't tell from looks whether it is going to wear. A skillful maker of shoddy cloth can fool the average man. So most of us buy our clothes branded by the names of well known manufacturers of honest goods or from a tailor whose word we can trust.

The same with motor oil—Some of the awful bootleg oil now being sold an unsuspecting public is a crime in itself. It curdles in slow death to any car. And the horrible joke of it is this bootleg oil is sold for the same price, or perhaps for a few cents less, than honest oil.

Mr. Car-Owner—you would't give your children poisonous food, you would't knowingly buy a shoddy suit,—treat your best friend, your car, by the golden rule method.

There are several good motor oils, we have seen many tested, and we believe from practical results

About eighty members of the family were present representing Florida, Port Huron, St. Clair, and Flint. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Gertrude Morley of Flint, president; secretary, Miss Freda Smith of Flushing. It was decided to hold another reunion next year.

A pretty good "bluffer" on the paving job has caused a certain gentleman residing on Main Street a considerable bit of work. Said workman told a long story, in the end making the poor deluded man believe that his curbing was to be completely covered by the regrading of the street. To aid the work that very night he began shoveling fast and furiously and after several nights succeeded in getting his curb successfully covered. This was a few weeks ago and now each night he may be seen returning the dirt back to the road minus quite a bit of enthusiasm.

The weather was too cold to hold an open air meeting on Friday when Congressman Cramton was scheduled to discuss political issues at Cass City. The large number who heard him that evening are greatly indebted to members of Venus Rebekah Lodge who postponed their meeting Friday in order that the audience might be comfortably housed in Odd Fellow hall. Congressman Cramton dealt especially with immigration and prohibition matters in his address and refuted by conclusive argument the charges brought against his political record by his opponents. Mr. Cramton received a strong vote in this community and was re-elected in the district Tuesday by a large majority.

Dr. I. A. Fritz is taking a two weeks' vacation and expects to resume his practice here on Sept. 20. Mr. Fritz attended the 90th reunion of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite at Bay City the first of this week.

Libius Wickware of Cincinnati, Ohio, is the guest of his brother, H. S. Wickware. Mr. Wickware learned his trade as carpenter with his brother here about 40 years ago and has been a contractor in Cincinnati for several years. He left Cass City 37 years ago.

Miss Margaret Reagh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Reagh, left Monday for New York City where she will enter Broadstreet Hospital to take a nurses' training course. Until Sept. 15 when her class begins, she will visit with her aunt, Mrs. L. W. Hutchins.

Mrs. Herl D. Wood (Kathryn McLarty) has been offered the same position as public school teacher in Flint that she held last year. Having decided just previous to the opening of the schools to apply for a position at Flint, she was engaged at once and assigned to the position she occupied last spring.

Mrs. Louisa Schwegler passed away at nine o'clock Thursday morning, Sept. 11, at the age of 71 years, at the home of her son, Benjamin Schwegler in Elkland township. She had been ill for about a month. Arrangements for the funeral service had not been completed when the Chronicle went to press.

A number of little girls, members of the class of Mrs. Angus McPhail of the M. E. Sunday school, held a very enjoyable party on Wednesday afternoon. The gathering took the form of a weenie roast and everyone present approved, to a marked degree, not only the "eats" but the program of games which had been planned.

Wednesday was a "red letter" day in the lives of Cass City motorists for a portion of the new paving on Main street was opened to traffic at that time. Since travel is allowed on the pavement from the Elkland Roller Mills on east the use of the very "bumpy" detour at that end is avoided. Full width paving will be completed this week and work started on the 30-ft. pavement from the Ford garage to the railroad.

One wonders how our churches would exist if it were not for the valiant work of the women of the congregations. Another instance of their determination is found in the Evangelical church which has recently had its walls redecorated, floors painted, rostrum carpeted and rubber matting placed in the aisles through funds provided by the ladies' aid. The congregation worked under the improved surroundings for the first time Sunday.

No man with the smell of liquor on his breath can hold a job with the Henry Ford organization, according to a recent statement by the motor magnate. The day of the "boozer" so far as Henry is concerned is past and he will hereafter insist that his employees live up to the law in letter and in spirit. People who disrespect his wishes do not remain on the Ford payroll for any length of time.

H. S. CLASSES CHOSE SPONSORS AND CLASS OFFICERS

Fifteen Dollars in Scholarship Money Will Be Offered Again This Year.

High School Notes.

Sponsors for the four different high school classes have been chosen as follows: Senior, Mr. Duke; junior, Miss Burgett; sophomore, Miss Horner; freshman, Miss Palm. All classes with the exception of the freshman have elected officers as follows: Senior—President, George Dilman; vice president, Eleanor Nique; secretary, Garrison Moore; treasurer, Kenneth Striffler. Junior—President, Thelma Warner; vice president, Calvin Patterson; secretary-treasurer, Erma Flint. Sophomore—President, Leo Hutchinson; vice president, Ethel Wager; secretary, Catherine Wallace; and treasurer, Margaret Wright. The freshman this year succeeded in "pulling" the most successful stunt yet in connection with their annual roast. The day following the first day of school, the extraordinary class held the meeting in broad daylight, scarcely a mile from town. Not one upper classman attended, only freshmen and teachers being present at the grand and victorious affair. Last year's class were nearly as clever and succeeded in eliminating all but three uninvited guests. Enrollment has increased since last week's issue to the amount of 82 non-resident pupils and 75 resident pupils. It is expected that still a few more enrollments will be made this week. The schedule for the football season, which is close at hand, has already been arranged and the prospects are practicing arduously every afternoon to make a bright record for Cass City on this year's outline, which is one of the heaviest ever planned by the local high school in this branch of athletics. It is as follows: Saturday, Sept. 20—Saginaw Arthur Hill there. Friday, Sept. 26—Deckerville here. Friday, Oct. 3—Harbor Beach here. A Vassar game is pending for the week of Oct. 6, the exact date not having been set.

BEAULEY.

Mr. and Mrs. Coulson Blair of Standish spent Labor Day with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Dulmage and Mrs. Lydia Russell spent Saturday in Saginaw.

Our school is being repaired, re-seated, etc. Expect it will be all ready for school Monday, Sept. 15. Miss Ida Rolph is the teacher.

M. W. Moore came out from Unionville to vote Tuesday and some of our good people did not bother driving a mile or two to vote. Some need their patriotism aroused.

Those getting the highest number of votes at the primary Tuesday in Grant are: Senator, Tuttle 156; Gov., Hamilton 170; Lt. Gov., Thomas 156; Congressman, Cramton 195; Judge of Probate, Lackie 133; Rep. in Legislature, Mrs. Kinch 157; Sheriff, McKenzie 210; Clerk, Moore 131; Treasurer, Alexander 153; Drain Com., Case 170. The Ladies' Aid will meet with Mrs. Margaret McDonald Sept. 18th for dinner and quilting.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Earl I. Burgess, 33, Port Sanilac; Edna B. Wilson, 30, same.

Evergreen.

U. S. senator, full term—Tussing 17, Couzens 34, Smith 14, Tuttle 99. Governor—Hamilton 64, Groesbeck 16, Perry 5, Potter 3, Baker 71, Read 1, Sligh 15.

Tuesday, Oct. 14—Marlette here. Friday, Oct. 17—Sandusky there. Friday, Oct. 24—Pigeon there. Friday, Oct. 31—Bad Axe there. Friday, Nov. 7—North Branch here. Friday, Nov. 14—Caro there. Friday, Nov. 21—Bad Axe here.

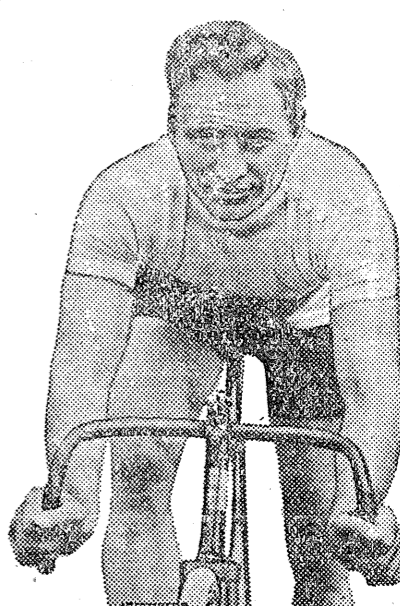

A substantial and willing support from the townspeople is solicited by the faculty and school pupils to aid them in carrying out this heavy schedule.

Fifteen dollars in scholarship money will be offered again this year to the highest winner of scholastic points. Markings will be credited in the following manner—A, 4 points; B plus, 3; B, 2; and C, 1. Last year the same amount was offered and won by Robert Dillman in a close race between Miss Helen Sisson and himself, he winning out by only a fraction of a point. Each month the names of the four highest point winners will be published in the school notes.

The sophomore class was the second high school class to hold their roast this year. It was held at "Lover's Lane", east and north of Cass City on Friday evening. A small number was present due to the extreme coldness of the night.

Congressman—Johnson 43, Cramton 112. Representative—O'Connell 109, Hubbell 33. Judge of probate—Smith 104, Davis 40. Sheriff—Stone 34, Hagle 49, Holdburg 2, Howse 6, King 40, Shommer 3, Johnson 49. County clerk—Scott 54, Hayward 54, Benedict 54.

Champion Cyclist Is Here

Peter Moeskops, bicycle champion of the world, who has arrived in this country, is taking an active part in the races held at the Newark velodrome. Moeskops won the world's championship in Paris August 3. Moeskops is one of the largest bicycle riders in the world, standing six feet one inch and weighing 225 pounds.

Six-Room Dutch Colonial Is Designed for a Narrow Lot

First Floor Plan.

Second Floor Plan.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper.

Some prospective home builders who own narrow lots are deterred from selecting a Dutch Colonial home building design because of the general practice of erecting the home across the site. That objection has been met in the home shown in the accompanying illustration.

This home is comparatively small. It contains six rooms and bath on the first and second floors, while the dimensions of the house are only 24 feet 6 inches by 39 feet.

Frame construction has been used throughout the home. The foundation walls are of concrete while the remainder is of lumber. The outside walls are covered with wide clapboard siding, while the long slope of the roof and the roof of the former projections are shingled.

The living room extends the width of the house at the front. At the far end is an open fireplace with bookcases on either side. Two doors, one at each end of the room, open onto the porch.

Stairs to the second floor run out of the entrance hall and end in a central hall above. A large bedroom, 15 by 20 feet, is over the living room, while two other bedrooms, one 15 by 10 feet 6 inches, and the other 9 by 15 feet are on the other two corners. The bath is at the end of the hall. Other convenient features are a toilet at the rear end of the hall downstairs and one adjoining the large bedroom upstairs.

It will be noted that the great number of wide windows make each room light and cheery. In the living room there are double windows at each end, while four windows across the front admit plenty of light.

The unusual placing of this house on a narrow lot will appeal to a great many home builders, especially those in towns where building lots are expensive. The plantings the owner has made around this home and in the lawn and along the drive give a good idea of how attractive a home builder may make his place in a year or so.

Insulation of Old Buildings Important

In rehabilitating an old building one thing which should be done is the insulation of the ceilings of the upper floors. The greatest amount of heat loss in every home is through the roof, a point which can be easily seen by noting the rapidity with which the snow melts on the roofs of buildings.

It is recommended in using a poured insulation of good quality, that a layer of tar paper be placed over the lath and plaster of the upper rooms, ceiling and the insulation then poured on top of this to a depth of two inches. The cost of this method of insulating is very low considering the result; the material can be applied by the owner himself, as it is a very simple process.

Built-In Features
Old-style kitchens can be modernized very easily through the installation of built-in features which are made to fit every condition.

Full Line of Fall Merchandise

Such As You Only Find In Larger City Stores

It always has been our aim to carry a collection of merchandise such as the people of Cass City and vicinity desire, and at prices in many cases much lower than can be duplicated elsewhere.

We are in no way falling short this season. For we have never shown such a complete line of the choicest collection of fall merchandise. Now is really the ideal time to make your selection for fall. The stocks are at their best and the merchandise is all fresh and new.

Ready-to-wear Department

This department offers to you a collection of coats at prices ranging from $8.50 to $125.00, sizes from 16 to 57 inclusive.

Before sending your money to some far off mail order house, or before you go out of town to buy your fall coat, come in and let us show you our line, then if you think that you can do better elsewhere, you are under no obligation to buy from us, but we would appreciate the pleasure of showing our line—for we candidly believe you will find our prices much lower than those of larger city stores.

We know that we render you better service for we take personal interest in the fit and style of a coat most suitable for you to wear.

We are not here to sell you only one coat, which the out of town merchant only expects, but we want you, or in other words, expect you to come to Zemke's for your next coat, and this we can only expect by selling you a garment that you like, fits and is suitable for your figure.

ZEMKE BROTHERS, Cass City

Attractive Frame Bungalow With Porch and Sun Parlor

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

When it comes to selecting the design for a new home that member of the family whose job is to take care of it very often puts her foot down and demands a bungalow.

"A bungalow," says she, "is the right sort of a home. All the work is on one floor, there are no stairs to climb several times a day, and, besides, bungalows are pretty."

Her arguments are correct. All the work in a bungalow is on one floor, there are no stairs to climb, and bungalows are pretty and homelike. Hence the popularity of a bungalow.

Bungalows are constructed of all the standard building materials—lumber, tile, brick, concrete blocks. Any or all of them may be covered with stucco, although few of those who select brick as a building material employ stucco for the outside walls.

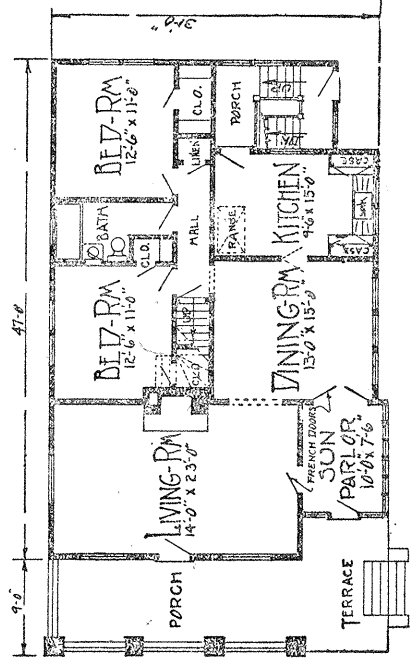

A very attractive frame bungalow is shown in the accompanying illustration. This was designed for a corner lot, but it will fit just as nicely on a site that is removed from a corner. However, it needs a good-sized piece of ground, as it is 31 feet wide and 47 feet deep.

The architect used excellent judgment in designing this bungalow. In the first place he gave it a porch that extends across the width of the house. The roof has been given a pitch that carries it out over the porch, where it is supported by four square columns. In each side of the roof at the front fan-shaped windows have been set, breaking the severe roof line and adding to the attractiveness of the front elevation.

The steps leading to the porch are at the end and terminate on a terrace with a cement floor. This terrace also adjoins the sun parlor, which has an outside door opening off it. The entrance proper, however, is in the center of the house and leads directly into the living room. This is larger than ordinarily is found in a bungalow, being 14 feet wide and 23 feet long. In the center of the inside wall an open fireplace is set. Large windows, one at each end and two at the front, give the room plenty of light and ventilation. The sun parlor at the end is shut off from the living room by a French door. The sun parlor is 10 feet long and 7 feet 6 inches wide.

A wide-cased opening connects the living and dining rooms. The latter also may be reached from the sun parlor, which is connected with it by double French doors. This arrangement also makes the sun parlor an ideal place for breakfasts or for small luncheon parties. The dining room is 13 by 15 feet. Back of it is the kitchen, 15 by 9 feet 6 inches. At the back is an enclosed porch and stairs leading to the cellar.

Off the dining room is a short hall at either end of which is a bedroom. Each of these rooms is 11 by 12 feet 6 inches. Between them and almost opposite the door to the dining room is the bathroom. Stairs also lead out of this hall to the attic.

The foundation walls of the house are of concrete. These walls also furnish the walls for the basement which extends under the whole house. The rest of the building is of wood frame construction.

Glass Building Brick Said to Be Everlasting

Glass-faced bricks with concrete backing have been more or less used in various parts of the country. They seem to be superior to any form of tile or glazed brick as a lining for tunnels, swimming pools or bathrooms; for the inside walls of garages, engine houses, prisons, meat markets and other structures where perfect cleanliness is as desirable as difficult. They are heat and cold resisting, and declared to be everlasting, requiring no paint or other treatment to preserve their appearance. For shops and factories the concrete-backed glass brick would seem an almost ideal material.

The construction of the brick is as follows: To a glass facing, one-fourth inch thick at its thinnest part, is attached a well-proportioned concrete back. The concrete backing is attached to the glass front by three separate means, each entirely sufficient to secure the union of the two materials. First, the cement on the concrete adheres to the glass; second, both ends of the glass face are returned by greater than a right angle, thus imprisoning the concrete mass; third, a dovetailed rib of glass traverses the entire length of the back of the facing, at once strengthening the glass face and also securing it to the concrete body. The glass face is one-sixteenth of an inch larger all around than the concrete body, thus making it possible to be a good mortar bond, notwithstanding that the mortar between the faces of the glass may be almost entirely pressed out.

The glass bricks are laid in exactly the same manner as are any other finished brick.

Space Economy in Home Plans Keeps Down Cost

With the rise in the cost of building materials and labor, home construction has undergone a very noticeable change, architects keeping in mind space economy at all times in designing of residential buildings.

The 13-foot ceiling, spacious halls and large rooms are no longer a part of the modern home. True a large living room and possibly one master sleeping chamber is still in practice, but outside of these two rooms, space conservation is guarded to the limit. Fuel today is an item which must be reckoned with in the construction of the home, and for this reason a reduction in the space to be heated is brought about through a lower ceiling, eight feet and six inches being the standard.

Space-saving equipment has been developed to a maximum greatly reducing the size of kitchen and extra sleeping chamber and at the same time increasing convenience.

The prospective home builder finds after consulting his architect and securing an approximate estimate of the cost for the home which has been constructed in his mind's eye, with its spacious halls, wide verandas and many nooks, dens and cozy corners, that the initial cost of constructing the home as he has planned is far above his means and that he must build in accordance with present-day practice.

Urges Better Homes

It makes but little difference what we of this generation may do in the arrangement of governmental machinery or in the adjustment of our relationship with other nations if we do not also see that the children are brought up in such a way that they can develop and carry on the ideals of our country. Furthermore, it is not only our own children for whom we are responsible. It is all of our people's children. When my children, Grace, Teddy, Cornelius and Quentin, are grown-up citizens, they will share the country equally with their contemporaries of today. For that reason, if for no other, and simply in the interests of my own children, I must try to see that all of their future partners in this country get a fair start in life.

There are two ways that we can and should work for the children. The first is, by providing them with such community aids and opportunities as may be possible; the second—and really the most important—is, by giving to every family the chance to build up the proper kind of home life. It is in the family circle that the individual gets the slant on life that lasts.

It is for this reason that I am so strongly in sympathy with the Better Homes campaign.—Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in the Delinquent.

BEST MATERIALS TO CHOOSE IN VARIOUS UTENSILS FOR KITCHEN

Wise Choice and Careful Use Pays With Kitchen Utensils.

It would be difficult to advise any housekeeper to choose kitchen utensils exclusively of one material or another, as each different material has its special uses, its advantages and disadvantages. One usually needs, for example, aluminum or agateware saucepans; several baking dishes of earthenware, with possibly a set of individual ramekins or custard cups; an iron skillet and muffin pan; some steel paring and carving knives; glass measuring cups; and wooden cutting boards.

The United States Department of Agriculture gives in brief form the following characteristics for the various materials used for kitchen equipment:

Aluminum Is Durable.

Aluminum is light in weight and color. It does not rust, and is very durable. Disadvantages are that it is darkened with use, and affected by alkalies and acids. Alkalies, such as washing soda and strong soaps, injure it. Aluminum should be cleaned with weak acids such as dilute vinegar, sour milk, or a fruit acid; it may be scoured with whiting or fine steel wool.

Earthenware heats evenly. It is less noisy in use than metal, and comes in a great variety of shapes. Baking dishes of earthenware may be used for both cooking and serving. It has drawbacks in that it chips and cracks, and is heavy to handle. The glaze which protects the porous clay underneath is easily cracked by changes of temperature and careless handling; then the dish absorbs fat, moisture and dirt, and cannot be kept clean.

Enamel and agateware are smooth, easily cleaned; attractive in appearance, not affected by acids or alkalies, good for storing as well as cooking foods, if well cared for. The glaze chips, exposing an iron or steel surface which may be affected by water and acids and thus injure food. The chips themselves may get into food and be swallowed with it. Always handle gently, otherwise the glaze cracks. Toughen new pieces by filling with cold water, bringing slowly to the boiling point and letting the water cool in the dish. In poor grades the metal foundation sometimes bends easily and causes the enamel to crack and chip.

Glassware Is Smooth.

Glassware is smooth, unaffected by foods, and shows what is happening during the cooking processes. It is suitable for storing food. Ordinary glassware is easily broken and chipped. A special kind is made for baking. To toughen ordinary glassware, cover it with cold water, bring slowly to the boiling point and cool in the same water.

Iron and steel grow better and smoother with careful use. Iron takes and keeps an even heat. It is heavy, and rusts easily, thus losing its smooth surface. To prevent rust, cover new utensils with fat and bake it in; keep them in a dry place. When storing for a long time, cover with paraffin or an unsalted fat, or wrap in newspaper.

A well-tempered steel knife takes and holds a sharp edge. In the best knives, the steel extends through the length of the handle and is fastened to it by rivets. When the knife is merely stuck in the handle it soon works out. Clean steel knives by scouring with bath brick applied with a moistened cork, then wash and dry. Keep the handles out of water as much as possible. Store where the cutting edge will not be hit or rubbed by anything hard. Keep knives sharp.

Tin is not affected by weak acids or alkalies unless the plating is injured. It is light in color and fairly inexpensive. Tin melts easily; if scratched the surface underneath rusts. There are two kinds of tin, plain tin and block tin. In both there is a plating of tin on an iron or steel foundation. Plain tin is light in weight, easily bent, and cools quickly. Block tin is heavier, more durable, and holds the heat longer. Great heat on empty tin makes it warp and also melts the plating.

Wood is less noisy and less hard than metal. It is, however, absorbent; it warps, cracks and darkens. It is useful for spoons, butter paddles, cutting boards, chopping bowls, potato mashers and rolling pins. Wood makes comfortable handles because it does not press so hard against the hand or transmit the heat so quickly as metal. It is good for cutting and chopping boards because it dulls the knife less than a harder material. In cleaning do not soak; wash quickly, using a scourer rather than soap; rinse and wipe dry; use as little water as possible. Rub down occasionally with sandpaper or steel wool. Store in a cool, dry place.

Caring for Utensils.

Proper care and storage of utensils mean longer and better service. Scraping and scouring scratch metal and chip glaze. If food is burned or stuck on, soak or boil in a solution of washing soda unless the dish is aluminum. Wipe off soot and grease with soft paper. Wash utensils in hot, soapy water, rinse in hot water and dry thoroughly. Exceptions are gears and bearings in egg beaters, ice cream freezers and other mechanical utensils, which should be wiped clean rather than put into water and should have a drop of oil occasionally. Cooking dishes, pitchers, milk bottles and jars are best cleaned with suitable brushes or mops. Store utensils by hanging or putting on convenient, accessible, and well-spaced shelves near where they are to be used. Keep them where it is light and airy, not in dark, unventilated cupboards.

VARIOUS GOOD WAYS OF COOKING RABBIT

Sausage Fat Will Give a Particularly Nice Flavor.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Before cooking, a rabbit should be washed carefully in cold water and patted dry with a clean towel, says the United States Department of Agriculture. It may then be stuffed and crusted if it is to be cooked whole, or cut into 8 or 10 pieces. Young, tender rabbits may be simply dredged with flour, salt and pepper and fried in fat, like fried chicken. Sausage fat gives a particularly good flavor to fried rabbit.

Many dishes may be prepared after steaming rabbit till tender. For a rabbit pie the meat may be cut from the bones in large pieces, the broth thickened and the whole served with either a pastry or biscuit crust. Any broth not used makes excellent soup. For rabbit salad the meat may be mixed with celery in the same proportions as chicken salad—two parts of diced cold cooked meat to one part of chopped celery and one-half part of salad dressing. Boiled rabbit may be served as a stew by adding potatoes, carrots and onions when the meat is partly cooked. The liquid in which the stew is cooked should be thickened.

A spiced rabbit stew appeals to many persons. The seasonings consist of 6 slices of bacon, chopped, a minced onion of medium size, 2 teaspoonfuls of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, and 1 tablespoonful of cloves in a bag, all covered with boiling water and stewed slowly together till the rabbit is tender. A brown sauce is made separately and poured over the rabbit, which is then simmered 2 hours.

Never put food hot into the refrigerator.

Never hang pictures on brightly-colored walls.

Orange jelly is excellent to put into layer cake.

Red pepper should be used with great moderation.

Use the odds and ends of bacon or salt pork for flavoring for bean or pea soup.

Anything whatever that saves steps in the preparation of meals is not an expense, but a necessity.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR NEIGHBORING VILLAGES

Bad Axe leaguers won the Huron county championship from Harbor Beach by a 11-7 score in the final game.

The rear of the Kinde & Putman meat market at Caro was destroyed by fire Sept. 4. The loss is estimated at $1,500 and was covered by insurance.

Bad Axe is the latest town to organize a branch of the Detroit Automobile club. With a few more county communities in that club a vote would put the club on record as favoring the gasoline tax.—Croswell Jeffersonian.

There is felt to be need of a new summer hotel at Lexington and the business men and resorters are planning the remodeling of an old mill that stands on the lake shore into a modern resort to be ready for next season.

A slight bruise on the elbow is the cause of A. C. Heenan of Imlay City losing his arm. About two months ago, he suffered a slight bruise on the elbow. Blood poisoning slowly developed and amputation was found necessary.

While a large crowd stood near, 130 cases of Canadian beer which were captured at Birch Beach Friday night were broken bottle by bottle in the rear of the Sandusky jail by state and county authorities. The beer destroyed had a sales value in this country of over $1,000.

The motor traffic in Tuscola county has doubled in the last year. The traffic has so increased on M 31 that it is now entitled to receive a hard finished surface. Mr. Schulz informs the Crescent a tarvia surface will be put on in the near future and concrete surface through the village. This will be welcome news.—Unionville Crescent.

Lake Huron claimed another life on Aug. 31 when Herbert Watson 24, was drowned while swimming eight miles south of Harbor Beach. He was visiting at the Ryan cottage and the only witness was a little girl living in an adjoining cottage. The accident happened about 11:30 a. m., while the remainder of Mr. Watson's party were attending church.

With an expenditure of $35,000, the Great Lakes Power company is building a new penstock and power house on the Cass river, near Caro. Work of rebuilding the lines in Caro is also being completed without interrupting present service. The company also expects to extend its lines to Fairgrove during the summer, also a line to Wilmot and Sandusky, the latter completing a loop which will still further insure constant service. The company may serve farmers for a distance of two miles on each side of Snover from this power line as well as the village of Decker, it is reported.

The Huron County Road Commission has completed its census of travel over the county roads and they are interesting. They show that an average of more than 8,000 cars a day pass over the roads in Huron county. The figures were obtained from 21 different places in the county. The highest average was over M-19 one-half mile north of Bad Axe where traffic goes to Port Austin and resorts north, and to shore property in the western part of the county thru Elkton and Pigeon. This averaged 900 vehicles a day for four days, with a count of 1,043 on Saturday, Aug. 9. The second highest average was on the Harbor Beach road east of Bad Axe where the census was taken one-half mile from that city. Here an average of 808 cars a day passed on their way to and from county towns and cities in the southern part of the state.

SEE SILO AS MEANS TO SAVE CORN CROP

Backward Season Creates Emergency Situation—M. A. C. Warns Against Handling Crop Too Green.

With many fields of corn in the state which will not mature for grain harvest this year, because of the backwardness of the season, the silo is expected to pay its way rather completely by providing a means of handling the crop effectively.

The farmer with a silo, according to Prof. O. E. Reed, head of the dairy division at the Michigan Agricultural College, will be able to save all the crop that does mature.

One danger against which Professor Reed cautions is that of putting corn into the silo too green. This is frequently done, it is said, to avoid possible frost, but the silage made from very green sappy corn will make a watery, sour feed that is unpalatable and does not have the feed value it should.

"It is better," says Reed, "to let the corn stand until after the frost than to put it in the silo too green. When this practice is followed, the corn should be cut as soon as possible after it is frosted; otherwise there will be considerable loss of nutrition. The leaves dry very quickly after a frost, become brittle, and are easily lost off the stalk.

"If it's desirable to fill before the frost, the corn should be cut and allowed to lie in the field for at least twenty-four hours, or a sufficient length of time to lose some of the excess moisture. The excessive moisture is the cause of sour silage. It is better to let the corn get too dry, and then add sufficient water to get the silage to pack well, than to ensile the crop too green."

HOSPITAL NOTES.

Mrs. Herman Edler of Owendale entered the hospital Sept. 1 and underwent a Caesarian operation the following day. She is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Evangeline Scott of Uby underwent a serious operation Thursday morning.

Charles Daymude of Detroit was operated upon Sunday for removal of tonsils.

Leland Kelley of Saginaw suffered an appendicitis operation Sept. 1. He left the hospital Wednesday, Sept. 10. Mrs. William Schwegler entered the hospital Wednesday evening. Thursday morning she underwent a serious operation.

Mrs. John Gordon underwent a serious operation Sept. 3.

The fifteen months' old baby of Mr. and Mrs. John Robson of Bad Axe was brought to the hospital Friday night and underwent an emergency operation for peritonitis following a ruptured appendix. The child died Monday evening.

Bert Phelps of Deford was operated on Sept. 3. He is recovering nicely.

World's Storehouse

Mexico is often referred to as the "storehouse of the world" because of the great fertility of its soil and its almost inexhaustible natural resources. Humboldt, the German naturalist, nearly a hundred years ago spoke of Mexico as the "treasure house of the world." Although still undeveloped, Mexico is one of the most richly mineralized regions of the earth.
