HOW TO SELECT SHOW POTATOES

SUGGESTIONS MADE TO THOSE INTERESTED IN THUMB POTATO SHOW.

The Thumb of Michigan Potato Show to be held at Mayville, Michigan on Nov. 11, 12 and 13, should be of infinite value to all potato growers. There is no more effective way to learn the methods of economical high quality potato production than by selecting potatoes for a show and then attending the show, studying the selections of the various exhibitors, states H. C. Moore, potato specialist from Michigan State College.

Report of Tuscola No. 1 Cow Testing Association for the Month of August

John Clark of Deford has high cow for the month with 55.9 pounds fat. Louis Massall of Fairgrove has high herd. His ten grade Jerseys averaged 632.1 pounds of milk and 34.58 pounds of fat.

Many cows are dry and many others are slacking off as they freshened early in the winter and no exceptionally large records are being made this season. Of the 270 cows tested 47 were dry. Six cows were entered during the month. Three cows produced over 50 pounds of fat and ten from 40 to 50 pounds fat.

Harvest Moon

who will commence a series of special services at the Evangelical church at Cass City next Sunday, October 4, which will continue each evening, excepting Saturday, for a period of three weeks. Rev. Frye was for four years a member of the Pentecost Evangelistic Party and is an accomplished musician as well as speaker. Rev. C. F. Smith, pastor of the church, is extending a cordial invitation to all to attend the services.

newspaper and pack them snugly in a stout wooden box that is lined with several thicknesses of paper. If the potatoes are loosely packed they will be bruised while in transit to the show.

The grower's name and address as well as the name of the variety and the class in which it is entered should be placed on both the inside and outside of the package. The instructions, issued by the management of the show relative to shipping and exhibiting the potatoes should be carefully observed.

THUMB TALES TERSELY TOLD

NEWS ITEMS CLIPPED FROM EXCHANGES AND GATHERED FROM OTHER SOURCES.

Bad Axe—Exactly 116 cases, more than half of which are criminal, are included in the calendar of the October term of Huron circuit court which opens here Oct. 5. This is the largest number that has been presented at any term of court in the history of the county. Criminal cases number 62, the usual percentage being violations of the liquor law. Liquor charges are unusually large, 31 in all, which includes two that were held over from 1924. Other crimes have increased in proportion. Among the others listed are nine for crimes against women, six for assault, three for larceny, two for burglary, two for passing worthless checks, two for embezzlement, one for stealing an automobile, one for carrying concealed weapons and one for false pretenses. Jury cases number four, while court suits total 29. There are 11 chancery considerations.

Marlette—Marlette village council passed a milk ordinance, calling for a rigid inspection of dairies supplying milk for the people of the town. Each dealer handling milk must pay a license of $5.00 per year, which will be used to defray the cost of inspection four times a year, and for administering the tuberculosis test to the cows.

Dr. J. G. Taylor has been placed in charge of the inspection. Applegate—For the first time in the 69 years' history of the Detroit conference a woman was ordained to local orders in the Methodist ministry. Miss Sarah MacDonald joined the company of young men to be received by Bishop F. J. McConnell. Miss MacDonald was born at Pickford, Mich., where her parents still reside. She was graduated from Albion College in 1921 and in the fall went to preach at Almont as one of 35 supply ministers. At the conference at Springfield, Mass., in 1924, legislation was elected permitting women to local orders. They can not vote, however. At the conference at Flint, Rev. McDonald was assigned her first charge, that of the church at Applegate.

Popple—Joseph J. Murray bid $1,754 on the job of moving the Popple church about 75 feet in order to eliminate a bad curve. The road will run straight north rather than turning abruptly to the left and then curving over a narrow bridge and across a ravine. A large fill and bridge is necessary to complete the project.

Snover—At a final hearing on the Cass river drainage project it was decided that the drain was necessary, that the river should be deepened and widened to allow a more rapid runoff of the water. The meeting was held Wednesday of last week and was in charge of Drain Commissioner Bert R. Walker of Sanilac. Releases are now being secured as a final step leading to the letting of the contract. The length of the drain will be approximately sixteen miles, and will start in section 30, Elmer township, across Moore, Lamotte and Evergreen townships.

Bad Axe—Officers are combing the state in an attempt to find the thugs who robbed Huron county stores. More than $800 worth of clothing and other merchandise was taken from Max Weinberg's store at Bad Axe, while money and merchandise were stolen from the Wm. Pattinger store at Huron City. Nugent's store, the Farmers' Elevator and the Chevrolet garage at Bad Axe were broken into but nothing taken.

RESORT BUSINESS MAKES HIM INDEPENDENT

Edward S. Elsemore walked out of Bay City without a cent in his pocket in 1893. He was back in Bay City the other day, planning a future which reeks not of labor. "I find Bay City much improved," he said. "I was wood inspector in Bay City in 1892. I walked out without a penny in my pocket with a little black dog as my companion and friend. I located at Watertown, Tuscola county, and opened a summer resort which I have just sold for $45,000. For the rest of my days I am going to take it easy."

Mrs. Alvord Speaks Here October 6

All women of Cass City and surrounding community are invited by the Woman's Study club to attend a lecture at the M. E. church next Tuesday evening, Oct. 6, at eight o'clock. Invitations have also been extended to all clubs in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties. The speaker will be Mrs. Wm. R. Alvord of Detroit,

LOCALS HELD SAGINAW TO A LOW SCORE

OUT OF EIGHT PASSES, CASS CITY HIGH COMPLETED SIX SATURDAY.

The Cass City High football team opened the season by playing a snappy game with the Saginaw Arthur Hill team Saturday afternoon at Saginaw. The local team succeeded in holding them to a score of 9-19, the lowest score that the Arthur Hill men have made.

With the opposing team in possession of the ball on the 30-yard line, Alfred Gowen, local player, made a 75-yard run for a touchdown. A goal kick gave Cass City the score 9-0. In the second quarter, by means of a penalty imposed on the local team, the Saginaw team made a touchdown. At the end of the second quarter and throughout the third quarter, the store stood 9-17 in Saginaw's favor. In the fourth quarter, with three minutes to play, Cass City made 40 yards by passing. Out of eight passes begun by the local team, six were played successfully. Arthur Hill attempted two passes, but did not make either one of them.

Of the local players, the outstanding men were Gowen in his exceptionally fine punting and McConnell and McBurney in splendid end work. No substitutions were made, the regular team playing the entire game. The line-up was as follows: L. E. McConnell; L. T. Reagh; L. G. Gallagher; C. Urquhart; R. G. Hunt; R. T. Odell; R. E. McBurney; Q. Gowen; L. H. Benkelman; R. H. Hartwick; F. B. Fiddymont.

MARL TO LOWER FARM LIMING COST

DEMONSTRATIONS BY STATE COLLEGE EXTENSION CREWS SHOW ECONOMY BY EXTRACTION FROM MARL BEDS.

That increased use of marl on Michigan farms will result in a material saving on the state's "liming" bills in the future is indicated by results of an extensive summer marl extraction demonstration tour just finished by the Michigan State College.

More than 5,000 yards of marl were actually dug during the demonstration meetings, and carefully figured costs show that in many sections of the state the material can be "extracted" at a saving of a dollar or two a ton over ground limestone, according to Larry Livingston, extension specialist at the college in charge of the marl work. This fact points to a great saving for farmers in future liming operations where the local marl beds are developed.

"The whole marl extraction situation is still in its infancy," says Livingston. "Thousands and thousands of yards will be used in the state in the future, and at a saving over the cost of commercial ground limestone."

Two demonstration crews started work the first of July and finished this week. They held 31 demonstrations, with an attendance average of 128 farmers to the meeting, and actually dug 5,506 yards of marl in connection with the demonstrations.

Counties in which the meetings were held were: Tuscola, Livingston, Hillsdale, Branch, Cass, Allegan, Newaygo, Oceana, Shiawassee, Eaton, Kalamazoo, Kent, Montcalm, Mecosta, Wexford, and Grand Traverse.

W. C. T. U. Has Two Meetings October 9

The Cass City Union, W. C. T. U., will meet at the home of Mrs. I. W. Cargo on Friday afternoon, Oct. 9, and will hold a public meeting at the M. E. church that evening.

Mrs. Belle Waters of Lum, district president, will be the speaker at both meetings. She will report on the world's convention held in Scotland and will give facts of particular value to those interested in the work of the W. C. T. U.

BUSINESS BLOCK ERECTED OVER HALF CENTURY AGO GOES TO NEW OWNERS

The E. W. Jones business block on the corner of Main and Seeger Streets has been sold to G. & C. Folkert, who have leased it since purchasing the merchandise stock of E. W. Jones in May, 1923. Papers transferring the property were completed Saturday morning.

The building is one of the oldest in Cass City, having been erected over a half century ago when Tennant & Polly used it as a general store. G. A. Stevenson, after purchasing the block, made extensive improvements on the building, enclosing it with brick and modernizing it in other ways. The block is centrally located and has proved a good business stand for many years.

Ancient Pastime

Dibbs is the English name of a game dating from remote antiquity, which consists in throwing up the joint bones of the legs of sheep and catching them as they descend, first on the palm of the hand and then on the back of the hand. In Scotland small stones are substituted and the game is known as chucks. It is similar to the American game of Jackstones.

Michigan Happenings

Approximately 350 miles of highway construction work will be completed this year, compared with 849 miles last year, according to an estimate by Frank L. Rogers, state highway commissioner. The marked slump in the amount of mileage is in line with the announced policy of Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck and members of the State Administrative Board to cut down to a "pay as you go" basis. The cost of road work this year averaged about $35,000 a mile for concrete and around $11,000 for gravel, according to Rogers. Thus far about 200 miles, of which 155 were concrete have been completed.

County school commissioners from all over Michigan, state department of public instruction officials of the Michigan State Teachers' association and others were at Saginaw Sept. 23 and 24 for a two day conference. Subjects of general interest to the commissioners were discussed. The educators were entertained at a dinner at the Hotel Bancroft, and an address by Dr. Hilton Ira Jones followed.

The Ionia Water Power Electric company will be purchased by the Consumers' Power Company. It is an old established firm, dating from 1883, with one of its original stockholders, H. R. Wagar, as present president. The Consumers' Power Company purchased the Ionia Gas company a few weeks ago. It is understood the gas and electric offices will be combined.

The State Conservation Commission passed a resolution Sept. 21 attributing the serious forest fire losses of the last summer to the fact that Michigan has no slash law, and calling upon Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck to call a conference for the drafting of a uniform slash law for submission to the Legislatures of Ontario, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

A vacation of four days has been allowed Michigan State college students at Thanksgiving this year. Vacation will begin Wednesday afternoon and continue until the following Monday, permitting the students to spend the holiday at their homes without fear of losing credit by cutting Friday classes.

Miss Ottilia M. Frisch, Saginaw county school commissioner, was elected secretary of the Michigan State Teachers' association at the final meeting of the commissioners' conference. Fred Fischer, assistant commissioner at Wayne county was named chairman.

Martin H. Carmody, of Grand Rapids, deputy supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, has accepted an invitation to visit Bay City on the occasion of the installation of new officers on October 7. A number of men prominent in the Knights of Columbus from various points in Michigan, will also be present.

Debaters from the University of Michigan will make a trip to seven of the largest English universities during the coming spring it was announced by Professor Thomas C. Trueblood, head of the public speaking department of the university, and coach of the varsity debating team.

Announcement was made by the comptroller of currency that a charter has been issued to the First National Bank of Utica, Mich., with a capital of $25,000. The new bank succeeds the Farmers' and Merchants' bank at Utica. August B. Hahn, is president and E. F. Schulz is cashier.

In recognition of 50 years membership in the Odd Fellows Lodge of this place, an appropriation medal was presented to Captain James D. Bulard, of St. Cloud, Fla., formerly of Paw Paw.

Mrs. Georgia White, of Grand Rapids, was chosen leader of Michigan's woman Democrats, when the minority party executives met to bolster up its spirits and make preliminary plans for 1926.

A report on the advisability of erecting a new stadium is expected at a meeting of the regents of the university of Michigan. A special committee of the senate council will make the report.

Under a new ruling of the state department of agriculture no person under 18 years of age will be eligible to receive a license from the state to operate as a Babcock tester.

Senator James Couzens of Detroit, will visit Ionia Columbus Day, Oct. 12, to address the Knights of Columbus.

Bay City is to be host to a group of Red Cross workers during the first week of November, when a regional conference is to be held. About 20 Michigan counties will be represented. The National Red Cross will send a speaker of wide repute and the veterans' bureau will also be represented.

Sixty per cent of the new men entering Michigan this year passed the physical examination successfully, Dr. Warren E. Forsythe, of the health service announced.

The State Conservation Commission has decided tentatively that it will be necessary for the state to disguise its game and fire wardens as land experts and send them out to decide what lands are eligible for registration under the Pearson timber land tax act. The act was passed to encourage the holding of potential timber land. Under its terms all general property taxes would be set aside in favor of an annual acreage tax of 5 cents a year on pine lands and 10 cents a year on hardwood lands. At present the general property tax on such land averages 25 cents an acre a year.

Detroit is known the world over for its automobiles. Fremont is getting to be known the country over for its horse-drawn delivery wagons. The wagons used there that glide silently along on their pneumatic tires have proved so successful that other villages and smaller cities are writing almost daily asking how it is done. Fremont claims it was the originator of the general delivery system whereby all the grocers and meat dealers banded together, their deliveries being made by two wagons on regular schedule.

Declaring that the purpose back of the American Legion endowment fund drive of $5,000 was such that no man could refuse to lend his support to the movement, Herbert J. Markham, president of the Alpena National bank at a special meeting there, accepted the chairmanship of the local committee, which will conduct the drive in the campaign for Alpena's share of the fund. Byron H. Olds was named secretary and treasurer.

Funeral services were held at Ann Arbor Sept. 1 for Prof. Edward D. Campbell, professor of chemistry and metallurgy and director of the chemical laboratories at the University of Michigan, who died Sept. 18. Prof. Campbell was widely known in scientific circles. He had been blind for 33 years as the result of an explosion in the university chemistry laboratory.

A fellowship for the benefit of graduate students of Michigan State college who wish to continue their scientific studies with a view of applying their knowledge to social problems was established when the estate board of agriculture accepted the offer of $5,000 a year made by A. C. Burnham, 93 years old, in honor of his son, Don, who died in 1906.

The military board of the state of Michigan recently inspected the newly completed $55,000 armory at Holland. The board declared itself pleased with the features of the building, which includes the largest basketball floor in the city. A rifle range, pistol range, and machine gun range are in the basement. Dedication services will be held soon.

Public dancing went under a complete ban in Battle Creek township, following a meeting of the township board, at which time Herbert D. Rench, proprietor of the Crawford dance hall, Gogotac Lake, surrendered his permit to operate and the board voted that no more permits for public dances should be issued.

It is estimated that close to 75,000 persons were in attendance at the closing day of the Jackson county fair and cash receipts are expected to exceed the $1,870.28 taken in on last year's closing day. Thousands of school children, guests of the fair management, were on the grounds.

The potato market remains firm, declared George Wager, sales manager of the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, in discussing the outlook for better conditions in the spud growing area which are anticipated by the officials of the co-operative marketing bureau.

Mail delivery for the village of Trenton has been authorized by the postoffice department, Fred Domering, postmaster announced. The new service will be started November 16, covering the village twice a day.

Under the will of the late Edward L. Benn, retired Tompkins township farmer who died in Florida last July, the Jackson Friendly home, an institution for aged women, was given $6,000, it was announced.

The Consumers Power company soon will offer to purchase the municipal lighting system of Grand Rapids, which furnishes power to city-owned buildings and boulevard and corner lights.

The appointment of Mrs. Melissa Williams, wife of Sheriff Glen Williams, of Genesee County, as undersheriff, was announced.

A few flakes of snow fell in Battle Creek Sept. 22 as a consequence of a severe drop in temperature.

John W. Hunter, who formerly published the Grand Rapids News, has been buried in Grand Rapids. Mr. Hunter sold the News and went to Washington, D. C., 15 years ago. Before coming to Grand Rapids he was in the advertising business.

A muskrat farm of 600 acres will be started at Cheboygan following the purchase of the land by P. S. Groves, of Akron, O. The land includes 100 acres of swamp and is in Benton township.

POULTRY
HIGH QUALITY EGGS
IN SUMMER MONTHS

One of the biggest problems that faces the poultry producer is the production of high quality eggs through the summer months. The reason for this is the heat of the summer will start fertile eggs to incubate and thereby spoil the quality unless special effort is taken.

The biggest loss can be stopped by the production of infertile instead of fertile eggs. Supplementing and correlating with this effort to produce infertile eggs is the need for careful methods of collecting, storing and marketing.

It is a customary practice for the people who are in charge of enforcing the egg-candling laws to lift the requirements for candling during March and April, for the reason that during the heavy production season the eggs are marketed with good quality. The cool weather, plus the large supply, helps to maintain the good condition of the eggs marketed during this period.

Investigations show that at least two-thirds of the egg losses occur on the farm. The remainder is on the huckster wagons, in the country store, on hot freight and express cars and in improper storage. This loss has been estimated at $20 per farm in Missouri, and it is doubtless as high in the other heavy poultry-producing states.

No doubt the rooster is responsible for more of this loss than any other one contributing element. He eats high-priced feed during the summer without producing any benefit and does a great deal of harm in lowering the quality of the eggs. The movement to cull the rooster out of the flock is on as soon as the breeding season is over. The young cockerels can be best developed by keeping them separated from the flock, and feed and market them as soon as possible. The cockerels that are to be kept for breeding purposes can be developed better if kept separate from the main flock.

In addition to the loss resulting from the sale of fertile eggs, there is a further preventable loss from cracked eggs, dirty eggs, shrunk and bad-flavored eggs. These different losses may be lowered by feeding oyster shell, by having plenty of nests, by gathering the eggs daily, by packing them so they will not break and eating all odd-sized eggs at home. Bad flavors are usually caused by feeding unusual feeds or by keeping the eggs in a place where they absorb unpleasant odors.

Scurvy-Preventing Feed
Manufactured by Fowls

It looks as if the chicken makes its own vitamin C or the vitamin which prevents scurvy in guinea pigs and humans, according to an investigation carried on at the Purdue university agricultural experiment station.

It appears that chickens do not have scurvy and can thrive for long periods on feeds that do not have the scurvy-preventing vitamin. Mature cockerels were given a ration containing none of this vitamin for over three months. Their livers and kidneys were then fed in small amounts to guinea pigs suffering from scurvy brought on by a lack of a vitamin-preventing scurvy. In about two weeks' time the guinea pigs were cured of scurvy by the livers and kidneys of these cockerels which had received none of the scurvy-preventing vitamin, thus indicating that the vitamin was manufactured by some means in the body of the chicken.

This suggests that the chicken can make this vitamin from sources not available to the guinea pig or to a person and that the lack of this vitamin in the diet of the chicken apparently does no damage. In practical poultry feeding, therefore, little attention need be paid to supplying the vitamin which prevents scurvy, although other vitamins are absolutely necessary and must be provided by the feeds given.

Poultry Notes

Fresh, clean water is necessary to the poultry flock.

Losses from tuberculosis in chickens is usually greater in winter than in summer.

Chick specialists now recommend feeding egg yolk or cod liver oil to prevent leg weakness.

Experience shows that hens must have animal protein in order to lay prolifically. Milk, mentscraps and tankage are the animal proteins most available for feeding poultry.

Cracked barley can be included in the feed ration for chicks after they reach the age of five or six weeks.

It never pays to overcrowd hens—they need a comfortable house, dry and roomy, with plenty of fresh air and sunshine.

Grain feed such as sprouted oats, cabbage, turnips, beets and rape are necessary for the health of the pullets. A disease similar in symptoms to roup is sometimes caused by lack of green feed.

Rules for Health Simple
Dr. S. C. Schmuckler in his "Biologist's View of Life" lays down five simple rules for health, as follows: "Don't worry, trust to your own good sense and judgment, get plenty of fresh air, eat what you like if it doesn't disagree with you, and don't take medicine except under a doctor's orders."

Few Dead Birds Seen
Very few dead wild creatures of any kind are seen either in cities or in the country. As a rule they creep away in some out-of-the-way place to die. In the case of birds, it is probable that most of them when sick are captured by their enemies, such as cats and rats, before they die a natural death.

FARM POULTRY

CHARACTERISTICS OF NON-LAYING CHICKEN

August and September are the best months in which to cull flocks. Hens that have the characteristics of good layers and that are laying in August and September have been invariably the best producers throughout the year. In order to cull a flock properly it is necessary to handle each hen and put her through some tests such as the following, suggested by G. A. Schmidt, Colorado Agricultural college.

One of the outstanding characteristics of a non-laying hen of the yellow-skinned varieties is the deep yellow color found on the shanks, on the beak, around the vent, around the inner edge of the eyelids and on the ears of the white-lobed varieties. When these hens are laying, this yellow pigment is all needed to form the egg yolk and none is deposited on the body, and consequently the parts just enumerated are faded or whitish in color.

The pelvic or pin bones of non-layers are thick, curved in and close together. On laying hens they are thin, straight, flexible and wide apart, three fingers' breadth or more. Measure each hen for this distance between the pin bones when culling.

When a hen is laying heavily her body is deep, a condition brought on by the enlarged intestines and egg mass. This depth of body is measured from the pin bones to the end of the keel and a good layer shows a depth of more than four finger breadths from the pin bones to the keel. Test each hen for this depth.

Non-layers generally have a firm, drawn-up, meaty or fleshy abdomen and differ from high producers much as a fat beef cow differs from a good dairy cow. Feel the abdomen of each hen.

The vent of a good laying hen is large, open and moist, while that of a non-layer is small, closed, puckered and dry. Look at the vent of each hen when you handle.

The comb of the non-laying hen is dry, pale, hard, and often covered with small scales. On a laying hen it is red, soft and larger. Look at the combs and feel them.

Contrary to popular opinion the early molting hen should be culled. Under normal conditions, hens that molt early are not very high producers. The early molter is much like the cow that goes dry three months too soon. Mark the hens that start molting first and get rid of them.

At all times cull all sickly, inactive hens. Good layers are active healthy birds always looking for something to eat. In careful culling all the factors mentioned should be considered and only the best birds held over the winter for breeding. If flocks are carefully culled each year, and if the birds are given good care egg production can be considerably increased.

Fattening Broilers in Crates Is Best Plan

Best results in fattening broilers can only be reached by feeding them in confinement, and for this purpose special fattening crates, or at least a small brooder house or room, should be used. Groups of not over 50 birds to a house or six or eight to the crate should be used. After confining the birds, do not feed them for 24 hours, and then feed a mash twice a day in troughs and all they will eat in 30 minutes. No water should be necessary, as the mash is to be fed wet. A good and simple fattening ration would consist of 20 pounds of yellow cornmeal, 10 pounds of wheat middlings or shorts, 10 pounds of fine ground oats and 10 gallons of buttermilk. Mix the mash and milk the day before it is to be used and let it sour. Market after ten days or two weeks of this feeding.

Toe-Picking Habit Will Develop in Crowded Pen

Toe-picking among chicks is apt to develop when the quarters of the birds are crowded or when there is not enough animal protein in the ration. The constant picking at the toes finally causes the blood to flow and as this proves palatable it leads to cannibalism. This is difficult to check and often causes serious loss.

When this trouble is discovered both roomier quarters and more animal protein should be provided. The chicks with bleeding toes should be removed and kept separate until the toes are well healed.

It is well to keep the chicks occupied by hanging vegetables and bones with shreds of meat attached by a string at a height which will cause them to jump in order to reach these products.

Market Cockerels

All cockerels raised each season except those selected to keep for breeders should be eaten, canned or marketed just as soon as they are large enough. If the chicks are hatched early the cockerels should reach broiler size in June or July. Cockerels saved for breeders should be vigorous, strong, active and alert, and those that have grown most rapidly and are the best developed. If a bird does not possess these qualities he will not make a good breeder.

Whenever a play or book is especially crude and cumbersome, it seems, the critics proclaim it as "typically American!"

Slightly Exaggerated

Among the letters recently received at the office of a benevolent society was one running thus: "This unfortunate young man is the only son of a widow who died childless, and his earnings maintain his aged father and infant brothers, whose sole support he is."

He will spend two days with his brother, Hilton Warner, at Hampton Roads, Virginia, next week and then start west, taking time as his inclination prompts him, to visit points of interest along the route. He intends to commence a course in electrical engineering while in California.

The chicken-raising industry is one that is being engaged in by an increasingly large number of persons. It is sure to develop very profitably for the one who goes into it in all earnestness. A local townsman keeps a small flock at his home on Garfield avenue, and had just about made up his mind to invest in the business on a larger scale, but says that the few he now owns are so much better that he thinks it advisable not to enlarge his flock—not just now, anyway.

Allen Hayes, Edith Mitchell, evangelist and sister of Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. L. E. Wright and Miss Faustina Brown have returned from the Nazarene assembly held at Lansing last week. All report a wonderful time. On Thursday evening, after an inspiring message by Dr. Williams, the assembly raised voluntarily $2,500.00 for missions. This was all gathered by Saturday morning, and sent directly to headquarters at Kansas City and from there to the mission field. They report an increase of 1,000 members this year in the district. The assembly is getting so large they are planning for larger grounds next year.

The Cass City Music Club held the first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. I. D. McCoy on Wednesday evening, with a good attendance of members and guests. After a general discussion of work for the new year, the following musical numbers were given: Vocal solo, Mrs. Clarence Burt; piano solo, Miss Lura DeWitt. The club has been invited to attend the district convention of Music Clubs to be held October 8 at Algonac. They also are planning to attend a musical treat in Saginaw October 17. At the close of the meeting, brick ice cream and wafers were served by the program committee, Mrs. I. D. McCoy, Mrs. Clarence Burt, Miss Lura DeWitt. The following is the list of officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. E. Pinney; vice president, Mrs. I. D. McCoy; secretary, Mrs. I. A. Fritz; treasurer, Miss Joanna McRae; reporter, Mrs. G. A. Striffler. The next meeting will be held Friday, October 23.

WHAT ARE ENDOCRINE GLANDS?

Editor of "HEALTH"

MUCH has appeared in newspapers in the last few years about endocrine glands. Many readers are in doubt as to just what are these new structures in the human body. Have they recently been discovered or is this merely a new word for an old structure?

It is not strange that the layman is bewildered. The term is a new one in medicine. Four standard medical dictionaries published as late as 1911 do not even mention it.

A gland is a structure in the body which, from the blood flowing through it, makes some special product. The word gland comes from the Latin word glandula. The old anatomists used this word because the only glands they knew much about were the lymphatic glands, those little blue filters which lie in chains along the great blood vessels. When infection of any kind takes place in the body, the lymphatic glands nearest the infection become swollen and tender. As these feel like acorns under the skin, the old anatomists called them glands or acorns.

Later, the same name was applied to that large number of structures in the body which take something out of the blood and make it over into a distinct substance. It may be the salivary glands in the mouth which make the saliva, the mucous glands of the nose and throat, the sweat glands of the skin which manufacture perspiration, the sebaceous glands which make oil, the lachrymal glands which make tears or any of the numerous structures which make substances which the body needs.

So this name came to be applied to many large structures in the body which did some special work, such as the thyroid gland in the neck, although it is perfectly ridiculous to call the thyroid an acorn. But our names in anatomy, like those in most sciences, are the inheritance of centuries of ignorance and superstitions.

About twenty years ago, increasing knowledge of physiology, the working of the human machine, made it evident that some of the structures in the human body, the working of which had always been obscure, were really engaged in making some substance which went directly into the blood and which was necessary for the healthy growth and operation of the body.

Now some glands discharge their product, whatever it is. Saliva, mucus, sweat, tears and oil are all poured out by the glands. But some glands make a substance which instead of being poured out is taken up by the blood and carried back for use in building or keeping up the body. What they make is kept in, rather than poured out. Such glands are now called endocrine. This word is from two Greek words: endo, within; and krinon, I separate. So that endocrine glands are those which separate some substance from the blood within the body.

Bobby's Philosophy

Mother was sternly reprimanding her small son: "Bobby, you must not tease your little sister that way," was the command. Bobby smiled as his tiny sister burst into tears. "It's the only way I know," he admitted. And then, as an afterthought, he added proudly, "But it gets results, doesn't it?"

Thumb Tales Tensely Told

Sebawaing—Herman A. Hess has carried Uncle Sam's mail for 20 years. He started work in August, 1905, and had just one-half mile of improved road on his entire route, where now he has 26 miles of concrete and gravel and but 5 miles of clay road.

Bad Axe—Kenneth Raymond, 23, employe of the Michigan Electric Power Co., was found in a critical condition early Thursday afternoon, Sept. 24, following a self-inflicted wound. Physicians gave little hope of recovery. The shooting occurred at the Fourney house. The young man gave no reason for his act, stating that he simply wanted to die. His parents live at Caro, Kenneth has been lineman and meter reader for the power company for more than two years.

Sandusky—Five men were sentenced to spend a year each in the state reformatory at Ionia by Judge X. A. Boomhower in the Sanilac county circuit court. The five are Lawrence Cole, Ray Fisher, Adam Dryja of Detroit; Bruce Brown of Snover and Wilbur Davis of Sandusky. The first three named pleaded guilty to charge of larceny. Brown was arrested on a charge of stealing clover seed from Herbert Stone on Sept. 17 from Joseph Boegner of Marlette, and Davis for stealing clover seed from Herbert Stone on Sept. 7.

FREAK AUTOMOBILE OF AEROPLANE PARTS

This freak automobile is designed and owned by a United States army man stationed at Mitchel field, Long Island. It is built entirely of airplane parts and all driving and manipulation of gears is done from the steering wheel.

POLICE SUGGEST NEW ROAD RULES

Recommendations Made for Control of Traffic in Leading Cities.

The conference of international police chiefs, which included delegates from all of the leading cities of the world, before adjourning in New York city unanimously adopted the following recommendations for the control of automobile traffic:

All cars must have left-hand drive. The use of glaring headlights should be forbidden.

Take Away Licenses. Licenses of individuals found unfit should be taken away.

Brakes and steering gear of all vehicles must be tested monthly.

The size, shape and color combinations of plates should be standardized.

Physical, mental and moral tests should be imposed on all drivers.

No automobile shall be more than 26 feet long, 8 feet wide and 12 feet high. The knowledge and fitness of all drivers must be thoroughly tested periodically.

Brakes must be so adjusted that a car making 20 miles an hour can stop within 40 feet.

Fingerprints of drivers should be attached to all licenses and deposited with state bureaus.

Speed should be limited to 25 miles per hour. Villages should not be permitted to restrict speed laws to less than 20 miles an hour.

The following hand signals should be made universal: Arm extended up for right turn; arm extended horizontally for left turn; arm down to signal intention to stop.

Punish Reckless Drivers. Jail sentences should be given for reckless driving, terms being graduated in accordance with the degree of recklessness shown, such as two years for driving while intoxicated or under the influence of drugs.

The transfer of property titles for automobiles should be regulated by law, so that genuine owners may prove their ownership, so that traffic in stolen automobiles can be discouraged by the impossibility of delivering title.

Likening of Auto Tire to Human Body Helps

The likening of a pneumatic tire to a human body is one of the favorite topics found in manuals circulated by tire manufacturers for the purpose of helping the motorist secure all the mileage that has been built into the tire.

The carcass of the tire corresponds to the bones and muscles of our bodies. The outer rubber covering (tread and side cushions) protect the tire as the skin protects our bodies. Cuts in this rubber must be repaired to prevent infection. Inflated pressure to a tire is what food is to our bodies.

There is another similarity, however, that has not been described—the tire's need of exercise. It is a fact, that a spare tire resists natural ageing much better if it is put into service for a day every month. The reason for this is obscure, but is probably due to what physicists call "molecular rearrangement" in the rubber portions of the tire caused by flexing. Whatever the cause of the deterioration, it is a fact that a spare carried month after month without being "exercised" occasionally does not retain its wearing qualities as well as one that gets an occasional day's use.

Side Sway Is Given as Cause for Rim Cutting

Motorists are often puzzled at the reason for their tires rim-cutting. Especially are they surprised at this when the rims are in good condition. Ordinarily underinflation is held solely to blame. But there is an important contributing cause—side sway. Sudden turning of the car throws an abnormal strain on the side walls of the tires. Occasionally this side sway is sufficient to rupture the fabric. In the majority of cases, the trouble is noticed close to the bead or edge of the tire, where the fabric strands are anchored.

Numerous Trivials Make an Automobile Expensive

If your axle is even slightly out of true it will soon wear out your tires by the continual grinding action, wearing to the fabric in a very short time. If you have had an accident of any kind it will pay you to have your wheels examined, to see if they are true.

Often the brakes are not properly adjusted and one wheel stops the entire load. If this is the case, the tire which is receiving the greatest strain will soon be worn to the fabric. One or two violent applications of the brakes on rough ground will take several miles from the service of your tires. See that the brakes are properly adjusted so as to equally distribute the strain on the tires and avoid sudden stops and skidding around corners.

When on the road, never use your brake unless absolutely necessary. The throttle is made to control the engine. There are many drivers who never change their gasoline feed in going down hills, but depend upon the brake altogether. Such a procedure is the worst of folly.

Electric Automobile Is of Most Unique Design

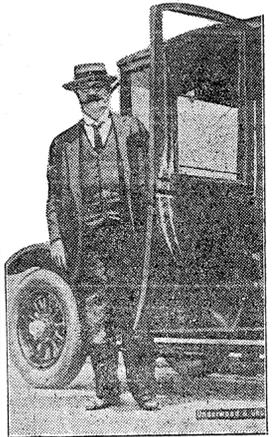

Photo shows Col. H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green, standing beside his new electric automobile. It is one of the largest electric ever built and was specially designed to afford a maximum of comfort for the Colonel. The doors are six feet high and the body hung extremely low for ease in riding. A folding desk is provided and a drop light as well. The car can make 20 miles an hour and run for 75 miles without recharging. It can seat five people comfortably.

Leakage of Grease Onto Brake Drums Is Harmful

Another condition that is the result of warm weather is the leakage of grease from rear axle interiors and the attendant excessive deposits of that material on the brake drums, especially on the inner periphery against which the emergency or internal brake bands act. This reduces braking efficiency to a considerable degree and wherever such deposits are found, they should be removed by cleaning the parts thoroughly with gasoline, even if this should necessitate removing the wheels to gain access to the brake drum interior. The leakage is usually caused by the thinning out of the grease due to high operating temperatures in the axle interior.—Scientific American.

Old Emery Cloth Cleans Brass Parts of the Car

Some of the brasswork of the car, because of its position and the work it has to perform, is apt to get into a rough state that makes it difficult to keep clean. This applies to the brass strip edging the running-boards and the foot-plates on the door sills. It is difficult to clean these with liquid brass polish, which has the characteristic of staining the surrounding territory, including the rubber foot-board covering. It is better to top using the liquid here and to polish the brass with the finest grade of emery cloth. A piece of this cloth that has been used somewhat elsewhere, and so has lost some of its cut, is best for this work.

TALKING TO NO EFFECT

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

THERE is, it will be admitted without controversy, at one time and another a good deal of talking done in the world, and it goes without saying, also, that much of this talking is done when silence would save one's breath and relieve one's nervous system and be more effective, possibly, than speech.

Collins and I are members of a deliberative body in which matters are discussed, both sides of a question are presented, and finally a vote is taken. Often the course that these matters will take are predetermined. It is quite certain, even before the discussion is entered into, what the decision will be.

This fact does not deter Collins, however. He always talks at length, and, more often than otherwise, he is on the side of the minority. Even though he sees from the outset that his talking will be of no avail, and will, perhaps, only tend to make the case go more overwhelmingly against him, he must have his say. We should, I think, feel a little strange and not a little disappointed if, after the question is before us for discussion, Collins did not get on his feet and talk. But we are seldom disappointed.

Tomkins is very different. When he gets on his feet we know he has something to say, and we are pretty sure that he will be able to turn the decision in his own direction. Sometimes I feel that Tomkins talks too little.

"Why didn't you say something this afternoon?" I asked him last week following a discussion in which he took no part.

"I wanted to save my influence and my strength for something else," he answered me, "when I could have some effect. The thing was settled anyway before we began, and though not settled as I would have wished I saw it was useless to talk, and I hate to talk when talking does no good."

That is the secret of talking well, I believe—to talk when to speak will have some effect; when talking is useless to keep still, and it must be said that Tomkins, when he did speak, was listened to with more interest than any other man in our group. No one was likely to consider Collins seriously because he never did anything unexpectedly. He talked when talking was quite apparently useless.

Brown and Mrs. Brown were walking out together when he discovered a gaping hole in the stocking of his better half showing a considerable area of white flesh. He said nothing about it, for to do so would have disturbed Mrs. Brown, would have spoiled their walk, and all for no effect. She carried neither a sewing kit nor an extra pair of stockings with her when they went on walks; there was no place to have mended or to have exchanged the stocking, even if she had had the materials. She would discover the hole when she took off the stocking and comfort herself no doubt with the thought that very likely no one had noticed it anyway.

Ninety per cent of the things bought for your home are selected by the lady member of the firm. She is the purchasing agent. Most men admit that she is a capable buyer, and the reason is this: She must be shown — convinced by proof — that an article is what she needs and is worth the price!

For that reason, she sees the advantage of dealing with a local merchant — a man whose "personal guarantee of satisfaction" means just what it says.

She knows that what he advertises in this paper is entitled to her consideration. Because she has confidence in her neighbor—the local dealer—she can safely invest the family funds in what he guarantees.

CLOSING OUT SALE

On the Crosby Stock in Cass City

The human desire uppermost in every normal person is to have and to own the best—and it does make a big difference to most of us what the best costs. If we can show you the highest grade, most dependable merchandise on the market—and sell most of it to you for one-half and less than half the regular price—naturally you are interested at once! Of course you are—every thinking person likes to buy the best for less than half price.

Good judges of values are of one accord in pronouncing our values the highest, our prices the lowest, and as a natural consequence, our savings the greatest they have ever seen.

Come to this sale expecting to find savings that are so much better than you have ever seen before that you will get a real thrill at the sight of them. Come, knowing that as the Crosby stock grows smaller and the assortments become more broken, prices drop accordingly until you can buy what you want for almost nothing at all. Odds and ends and small lots too small to advertise, almost given away. Come while selections are still good. We guarantee you will never regret it.

E. A. Cones drives a new Essex coach.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Guinther and children of Flint and Anson Guinther came on Saturday evening and returned to Flint on Sunday. Mrs. Anson Guinther accompanied them for a week's visit.
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brock of Ber-ville announce the arrival of a young son. Mrs. B. will be remembered here as Maude Tedford.
Dr. and Mrs. Merriman returned on Sunday from their trip to New York state. Dr. Kenneth Merriman, a son, accompanied them home from Detroit. He returned Monday.
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Retherford and son spent Sunday at Caro visiting Mrs. R's sister, Mrs. Ray Gibbs.
Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vanderkooy and family and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jacoby and daughter spent Sunday afternoon at Richville.
Mrs. Wm. Barthell of Detroit spent Sunday night at the H. D. Malcolm home.
Mrs. Jessie Kelley and Mrs. Wm. Gage spent Monday afternoon in Caro.
Twelve couples went to the Jacoby farm home on Tuesday evening, Sept. 22, to a chicken roast. A very enjoyable time was had by all.
Wm. Gage made a business trip to Vassar on Saturday morning.
Word was received here Friday from Pontiac of the death of Frank Nesbitt, a former resident of Deford.
Miss Norma Retherford of Saginaw spent the week-end at her parental home and with her sister, Mrs. Alvah Stewart, of Midland.

The W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Jesse Jelley on Thursday.
Mrs. C. J. Malcolm entertained her sister of Lowell for three days.
Mrs. Arthur Moison of Palmyrh, N. Y., is a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Merriman.
Mr. and Mrs. S. B. McCain of Oxford were visitors at the Ben Gage home on Tuesday.
The Deford and Kingston W. C. T. U. societies will hold a joint meeting in the Kingston M. E. church Tuesday evening, October 6. Mrs. Belle Waters of Lum, district president, will be present and give a report of the world's convention held in Scotland in June. This meeting will be very beneficial, especially to those interested in W. C. T. U. work, and the general public is cordially invited.

of several months. Mr. McGillivray was born in St. Thomas, August 18, 1849. In 1880, he married Miss Margaret McAlpine of Greenleaf. He has been engaged in various occupations in this community for many years. Highly respected by his many friends, he will be greatly missed. He leaves his widow, his father, five brothers, and four sisters.
The Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac District fair is being held this week in Cass City.
The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Oathout died last Saturday morning of cholera infantum. Funeral services were held Sunday at the Evangelical church, Rev. Klump officiating.
Jesse Sherk died at the home of his son, Samuel, on Monday after an illness of a week. Mr. Sherk came from Courtland, Ont., about seven months ago. He was eighty-two years of age. Besides his wife, he leaves one daughter and five sons to mourn their loss. Funeral services were held at the Deford church Wednesday.

A bachelor is a man who only gets 100 miles out of a pair of socks.
It's about time to begin feeding the hens a good mash. We keep everything for making mashes. Alvin Knechtel of Elkton bought 1 1/2 tons of laying mash this week. He feeds for results and gets them.
Homer Hower says "I want another sack of that salt like I got before." He got it for 75 cents. What have you been paying for your salt?

"You can't know too much, but you can say too much," remarks Willie Wise.
"I want 100 lbs. of Cream of Wheat flour," said one of our good customers the other day. "My wife won't use any other kind." No name mentioned, but his initials are Jack Vance.
We know a lady who always pronounces it "unelse" instead of "unless."
The speed of their car. Miles per gallon. Value of property when insured and when taxed. How hard they work.

A minister was telling his flock about the awful effects of strong drink and concluded with the words: "I hope the day will soon come when every bottle of this cursed liquor will be taken and emptied into the river. — We will now sing hymn No. 108, 'Shall We Gather at the River?'"
We've never met a man yet who doesn't like noodles and pumpkin pie. Have you?

Happenings of a Quarter Century Ago
Taken from the Tri-County Chronicle, October 5, 1900.
At the Republican County convention, the following persons were nominated: Judge of Probate, J. M. Smith; sheriff, C. O. Blinn; clerk, F. Gifford; treasurer, A. Kinney; register of deeds, E. E. Guernsey; prosecuting attorney, W. S. Wixon; circuit court commissioners, A. J. Rabdall, H. E. Randall; county surveyor, Geo. Felton; coroners, Dr. Chase, Dr. Morris.
On Monday night the farm dwelling belonging to Dr. Morris of Gagetown, was totally destroyed by fire. It is thought that the fire originated from a defective chimney. The loss is estimated at $400 with no insurance.
Mr. and Mrs. Alex Broughten and children of Tilsonburg, Ontario, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Usher.
James B. McGillivray passed away Monday evening following an illness

Misleading Trade Names
India ink does not come from India, and never did. It ought to be called Chinese ink. Rice paper is not made from rice or any part of the rice plant. Train oil is not so called because it is used to lubricate trains. It is a whale oil, and was called "tran" by Scandinavian fishers.

Electricity on Canal
An electric canal boat has been tried out and proved workable on the Staffordshire and Worcestershire canal in England. This canal boat has a pole not unlike that of a trolley car. This connects with two wires strung above the center of the canal from which is obtained the electrical energy which operates the electric motor that drives the propeller at the stern of the boat.

SCHOOL NEWS.

The per cent of attendance and tardiness report for the first month of school is one of the best reports ever given.

Table with columns: Grade, Attendance, No. tardy marks. Rows include Kindergarten through Eighth Grade.

The average per cent of attendance last month was 98.5%. About forty boys and girls of the Calf Club will be banqueted some time in October.

Peason will give the address, "Quality Live Stock Work," and Mr. Campbell will present the cash premiums.

The Animal Husbandry class is doing practical live stock work this week.

The D. S. room should be clean from now on, since Miss White has a place in the northwest corner of her room for the brooms.

Athletics should not be quite so dry from now on, the school having furnished the boys with a shower in the new dressing room.

Miss Bishop has organized a mixed high school chorus numbering seventy-five. The students meet Monday afternoon of each week.

The Sophomore Roast.

The sophomore weenie roast was held on Friday evening, Sept. 25. With the teachers as guests and accompanied by our sponsor, Miss Boone, we met at the postoffice at seven o'clock and then went to Lover's Lane.

weenies and buns we wanted, which tasted very good, various stunts and games were played and all joined in singing several different songs much to the merriment of the crowd.

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS A. CLARK Dean of Men, University of Illinois. (©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

YOUTH

MIDDLE age is less optimistic than youth, less courageous, and meets pain and dangers and discouragements with less fortitude.

My neighbor, Harris, shuffled into the office a day or two ago when the thermometer was registering 96 in the shade and in the sun had pushed its way through the top of the tube.

"Well, who's sold you a gold brick this time?" I asked him. "I'm all knocked out today," he replied.

"The trouble with you, Harris," I said, "is that you're growing old." I've known Harris since he was a boy of ten on the farm.

Now he has a cold shower before going to his pleasant bed in his sleeping porch. He lives under the most favorable conditions, but a little rise in the thermometer puts him out of sorts for an entire day.

I visited Crane in the hospital the other day. He is middle aged. He has had some minor surgery done on him—an ingrowing toe nail taken off or a boil lanced or something of that sort.

And then I remembered the letter I had from Blum. Blum was at the front at the beginning of the German drive. He met rain and mud and vermin with a cheerful laugh; he faced a storm of bullets and blood, and when he wrote the letter he was lying in a hospital, severely wounded.

"Here I am 'sitting on the world,' as the boys put it," he wrote. "Nice white enameled bed, clean white sheets, white blankets and all. Good food; nothing to do but eat and sleep. Pretty soft.

"Don't have any worry about me; I'm in clover and having a good rest. I'm all right; I'm eating like a horse and kicking because they don't give me enough.

"Love and good luck to everybody." Oh, youth, youth!

Peepul what make jokes about ministers, wives an' foolishun are fools. It's only human to be a little foolish!
